GAS PRICES
“We are doing exactly the right thing. Use up that Middle Eastern oil so when push comes to shove, the United States is sitting on its reserves and can do with it as it decides. Besides, it’s speculators that have artificially elevated crude oil prices. You think that gas at the pump came out of the ground last week? No, it came out when the price of oil was low but strangely, you don’t see immediate relief at the pump when oil prices go down.”

New CPR: No more mouth to mouth

Chest compressions done to the beat of ‘Stayin’ Alive’

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com

The American Heart Association (AHA) no longer recommends mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for untrained bystanders trying to revive a person whose heart has stopped. Instead, the AHA has issued new guidelines for cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) making rapid chest compressions the mainstay of basic life support. Studies have shown that the most effective rate for chest compressions is greater than 100 compressions per minute.

Even so, most Americans don’t know how to perform it. Given properly and immediately to sudden cardiac arrest victims, CPR can save lives.

facts...

- Sudden Cardiac Arrest
- EMS treats about 300,000 victims of out-of-hospital cardiac arrest each year in the U.S.
 - Less than 8 percent of people who suffer cardiac arrest outside the hospital survive.
 - Sudden cardiac arrest can happen to anyone at any time.

Item pricing law is repealed

►Senate passes Shopping Reform and Modernization Act

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

The Michigan Senate passed the Shopping Reform and Modernization Act on Tuesday, which repeals the state’s existing item pricing law.

Summary

►The Michigan Senate passed a bill Tuesday, which eliminates the need for retailers to individually price consumer items. The bill is expected to be signed by the governor.

Although the bill passed, there were differing opinions as to when the bill should go into effect. The Senate initially voted against an immediate effect, however, on Thursday, they amended the bill to have it go into effect on Sept. 1.

Kindles closing gap on traditional books

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Cheryl Herzog, of Linden, loves nothing more than reading a good book, with the relaxing turn of each page and the comfort of having the book at her side or nearby on a night table.

For Denise Roberts, a Barnes & Noble e-reader "Nook" fills her need for a good story that can be downloaded, then deleted, as she finishes the book — eliminating the worry about what to do with the book once she is done reading it. "I love books, but I only read them once," said Roberts, a nurse at the University of Michigan. See KINDLES on 10A

Amazon's Kindle has become the breakthrough e-reader since it was introduced only three years ago, fueling a nearly $1 billion business that Forrester Research says will triple in the next five years.

What makes e-books so popular?

- The ability to carry a near unlimited amount of books.
- The sharp E-Ink screen, which reads like a real book (so you don't get eye fatigue and you can read under any environment).
- The long battery life (most eBook readers can get more than two weeks of use).
- The ability to purchase books from the device (available on the Kindle, Nook, Bebook Neo, for example).
- The ability to load up any pdf, pre-purchased eBook, or document into the device for reading later.
- The compact form factor.
- Varying price points (you can pick up an eBook reader for as little as $100, and as much as $500).

Local students keep eyes on the prize and pursue college

By Tim Jagielo

Spring is the time when high school students are preparing for college.

For Fenton High School (FHS) senior Erik Kanyak, 17, taking college classes is already part of his life. His schedule is structured to realize his career choice as a paramedic as quickly as possible.

Erik has three different school workloads to maintain. He attends classes at FHS in the morning, Genesee Area Skill Center (GASC) in the afternoon, and at McLaren Regional Medical Center for paramedic training, twice per week.

"There are some nights when it's difficult to balance out. It can be pretty challenging," he said, especially preparing for tests. "Usually, I get up and take it one step at a time," he said.

A response to Mr. (or Mrs.) ChubbyButt

A recent email I received from an avid reader made me realize I need to clarify something.

This particular reader, who inexplicably signed his (or her) e-mail ChubbyButt, accused me of being biased toward newspapers because “you make your living from one.”

Uh, not really Mr. (or Mrs.) ChubbyButt. While the Times is clearly one of the more successful community newspapers by any measurement, it is laughable to think it could (or would even if it could), pay a columnist who writes weekly (don't bother sending me e-mail that says I write “weakly — already heard it) enough money to sustain the standard of living to which I have become accustomed. In fact, the last time I spoke with Mr. Rockman about a raise, he said the only way I would get a raise would be when his foot went up my @$$.

That Mr. Rockman — what a jokester, haha.

But, I digress.

So what's my point?

Simply that I realize what a critical role community newspapers play in thousands of cities, towns and villages across America. When I praise the Times it is from the knowledge that each and every resident — even those who don't read the Times — benefit from it every day of their lives.

One of their best features is that most community newspapers are owned and operated by people who live in the communities they serve. Thus they are much more responsible than other segments of the media. This is because they have a vested interest in helping to make their community a better place to live.

Community newspapers boost the local economy — both through advertising and in news coverage. They showcase community businesses at a time we need to be shopping locally, investing in the community and protecting local jobs. Never has this been more important than in these challenging economic times.

Community newspapers bring us “good news” — news of Scout projects, civic club fundraisers, Little League registration, chamber of commerce happenings, bake sales, car washes, fall festivals, military members and students who make the Honor Roll or Dean's List.

They report on weddings and anniversaries, births and deaths, civic events, church functions, family reunions, and dozens of other things that remind people of what they love and cherish about the communities they live in.

Community newspapers provide a forum for expression. They allow readers to make their voices heard, and they enable ordinary citizens to deliberate on the future of their community. They encourage civil, issue-oriented discourse and they often provide the only stage for it.

Community newspapers serve as “watchdogs” to hold elected leaders accountable. They keep voters informed. They let people see how their tax dollars are being spent. During an economic downturn — when tax dollars are scarce and the demands on them increased — that's especially important.

Today, amid uncertainty over the quality of our economy and the direction of our nation, their role is more important than ever.

And so Mr. (or Mrs.) ChubbyButt, if you want to be discouraged, read the daily newspaper or watch the TV news.

If you want to be encouraged, read your community newspaper, the Tri-County Times.

TAXPAYERS GIVE THE money that the government uses to pay America's bills. Total debt is $62 trillion. The government spent $62 trillion more than they received. Wake up, America. We must stop the spending. By necessity, everyone will be affected by the cuts. Please do your part, without complaint.

Board receives update on IB program

►Number of IB students increases at Fenton schools

By Anna Troppens

atroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Fenton schools' International Baccalaureate (IB) program is humming along, since it became the first public school district in Michigan to offer it district wide. Twenty Fenton High School (FHS) sophomores have signed up for the full IB program, an increase of 100 percent from the previous year, said Sara Armstrong, Diploma Program (DP) coordinator. She attributes this to the reputation of DP classes as challenging and participatory.

The program is voluntary. Fourteen teachers have trained for DP classes, and 150 students are enrolled. Of these, 22 are in the full diploma program.

Summary

►Fenton Area Public Schools' board of education received a report from its International Baccalaureate (IB) coordinators at the March 7 meeting.

This year, 98 FHS students are in the last year of IB classes. This includes seniors who had classes over a two-year period, and juniors who had one-year classes. They are taking assessments in April and May, Armstrong said. These Diploma Program exams will show how the district is doing, and how students are progressing.

Two new IB classes, chemistry and economics, are being offered at FHS, and IB World Language will be added for 2012.

The district also has IB at all of its elementary and middle schools. Students in these grades, and the high school, are becoming involved in the community through IB.

North Road Elementary School students are preparing for their exhibition in May. They decide on an area to research, as an individual or group. Then, they find out more about it, distributing their information through a PowerPoint, skit or song, for example, said Jennifer Crawford, PYP coordinator. Tomek-Eastern and State Road students also have exhibitions planned.

What is the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program?

The DP is the most challenging curriculum Fenton Area Public Schools offers, and universities recognize this. It is a very academically challenging and balanced program, which encourages students to "shoot for the moon" in all areas, said Diploma Program Coordinator Sara Armstrong. Students continue to develop their strengths, and improve on their weaknesses.

The program prepares them for attending universities after high school, and becoming world citizens, Armstrong said. Students sign up for it as sophomores, and juniors and seniors take the classes.

tended a free, four-day training session in Atlanta. As an authorization team member there, she interviewed people from different schools. In addition, she has ideas of what the authorization team will ask when it visits Fenton in three years.

Tyler Fischer-Greenfield, 25, both of Holly, were taken into custody by the Oakland County Sheriff's Office and lodged at the Oakland County Jail pending further charges.

Fischer-Greenfield was charged with one felony count of armed robbery, punishable by up to life in prison and one count of delivery/manufacture of a controlled substance, punishable by up to 20 years. Allen was charged with one felony count of armed robbery.

Based on interviews conducted by detectives, the mother and son are Oxycontin users. They allegedly robbed the pharmacy to support their habit and sell the rest for cash.

While questioning the son, the detective determined that he might be the suspect in similar robberies in Fenton and Milford. Fenton Det. Ron Skarzynski responded to Oakland County's Independence Township substation to interview the suspect.

Fischer-Greenfield was re-interviewed and admitted to the two recent robberies at B & C Pharmacy, at 223 Silver Lake Road, as well as one in Waterford and one in Milford. He said he acted alone in those incidents.

Fenton Police Chief Rick Aro said, based on the statements Fischer-Greenfield gave to Skarzynski, along with evidence collected from his home when they executed a search warrant, Fenton police believe the man is responsible for the recent robbery and attempted robbery in Fenton.

"We're going to be contacting the prosecutor and seeking warrants for both incidents in Fenton," Aro said.

Milford and Waterford police departments have been contacted and arrangements have been made to continue the investigation.

Close vote on marijuana ordinance

►Board drafting law to prohibit dispensaries

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly Twp. — On Tuesday, the Holly Township Board of Trustees directed attorney Gregory Need to draft its own ordinance governing medical marijuana inside the township.

Before agreeing to the drafting of the ordinance, the board voted 3-2 to prohibit dispensaries. Supervisor Jesse Lambert and Treasurer Mark Freeman voted in favor of allowing dispensaries in the township. The board passed the motion to draft an ordinance with the same 3-2 vote.

"What does it do for our community," asked Trustee Janet Leslie, calling the facilities in which medical marijuana is sold, an undesirable commercial situation.

"We're really beating this to death," said Lambert, who called for a vote, after a lengthy discussion.

Resident Dawn Johnson asked the board not to let their personal opinions affect their vote on medical marijuana dispensaries. "I would be more comfortable to go into the store and get it," said Johnson, who said she has medical conditions that would allow her the use of medical marijuana. "I think it's important you not use your personal opinion on pot (instead of) what some people in the public probably would want,"

"I would be more comfortable to go into the store and get it."

Dawn Johnson
area resident she said.

The ordinance would not be in conflict with the recently passed medical marijuana dispensary ordinance passed by the village council. The ordinance would bar dispensaries from the township, with the exception of the village, and allow home use as allowed in the Medical Marijuana Act of 2008.

Drug program 'Chasing the Dragon' set at LF school

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Lake Fenton — Students at Lake Fenton High School are in for an emotional afternoon on Monday. In response to the escalating drug problem throughout the area, the Genesee County Sheriff's Department will be presenting a "shock and awe" drug program called, "Chasing the Dragon," designed to scare the daylight out of the young people.

Capt. Chris Swanson said if the students do not leave the program in tears; the sheriff's department and their guest speakers did not do their job in conveying just how dangerous illegal drugs and improper use of prescription medications are.

Sam Jawhari, the father of Briona Jawhari, and Ron Schlosser, the father of Erika Schlosser, will be on hand to talk about their daughters who died from apparent heroin overdoses. Students will hear the 911 tapes of the frantic parents as they

Parents of the high school students are invited to attend the event, which begins at 1:30 p.m. at the high school.

Tony Simmons, assistant high school principal, said the school district supports the need to bring awareness to the community's youngest members. Parents of the high school students are encouraged to attend the program.

Parents who have provided their telephone numbers will receive a call from the administration, informing and inviting them to the program on Monday.

Simmons said the school intends to video tape the program for future showings.

Summary

►The Genesee County Sheriff's Department will be presenting its "Chasing the Dragon" program at Lake Fenton High School on Monday, March 21. The program, open to parents, is designed to frighten and shock the students about the dangers of drugs.

MISSING CHILD

Michigan State Police Groveland Post received a report of a missing 3-year-old boy, at 2:34 p.m. on Tuesday, March 15, in the 13000 block of Dixie Highway in Holly. The caller, a 29-year-old female, said her boyfriend was at work and his son was missing from the yard. She looked around without finding him. Two troopers joined the search, with one locating the child a half-hour later in a storage shed, a street over from the boy's home. The child was unharmed.

ANIMAL CRUELTY

At 1:02 p.m. on Monday, March 14, a Michigan State Police trooper was dispatched to the 2000 block of East Davisburg Road, for a report of dead cattle. The suspect, 30, said two cows and a calf died, and he fed them to his pigs. He told the trooper they were poisoned and later said a veterinarian from Michigan State University didn't know what was wrong with them. He didn't have any documentation. The case was transferred to Oakland County Animal Control.

BURGLARY, FORCED ENTRY

At 12:23 p.m. on Friday, March 4, a trooper from the Michigan State Police Groveland Post was dispatched to the 2000 block of Fenton Road, Rose Township, for a break-in. The trooper met with the complainant, who said he checks on foreclosed homes for a realty firm. Damage to a door handle was $50, and several feet of copper pipe were taken from the basement.

MOTORIST HITS BACK OF BUS

At 8:15 a.m. on Monday, March 7, Michigan State Police received a call to Milford Road, near Rose Center Road, for a Dodge Neon that hit the back of a Holly school bus. The bus was stopped with lights flashing, when a Holly woman, 55, rear-ended it. The driver of the Neon was taken to a hospital with serious injuries. There were three children on the bus, who were not injured. Both vehicles were towed.

BREAK-IN AT STORE

At 8:35 p.m. Sunday, March 6, Holly Village police responded to an alarm at a store in the 15000 block of North Holly Road. Officers found the rear overhead door of the business pushed in by a vehicle, and entry made into the building. They searched the building and area for suspects, locating none. There were no witnesses. A rash of similar crimes has been reported in Tuscola, Lapeer, Shiawassee and Clinton counties. Holly police are working with investigators in those areas to determine possible suspects. Anyone with information is asked to contact Det. Julie Bemus at (248) 634-8221.

FOUND PROPERTY

On March 7, Holly Village police received a report of two men walking near Grange Hall Road and Saginaw Street, carrying Gucci bags. The men flagged the officer down, saying they found the purses on Grange Hall Road, east of the railroad, and were going to the police department to turn them in. In one purse were two wallets, with IDs for two women. A Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) check for one of the women revealed three warrants and several addresses for her. The second purse contained ID for a third woman, who also had a warrant for her arrest. The purses were placed in a locker at the station.

MARIJUANA POSSESSION

At 5:50 p.m. on Tuesday, March 8, Holly police were trying to locate an unknown party calling 911 from different locations, using a cell phone. An officer approached two juveniles near the woods behind the Holly Township Library, trying to locate the 911 caller. The 14 year old stopped, but the 15 year old ran into the woods. Officers at the other end of the path stopped the boy. Police found a pill bottle containing marijuana on the path the boy took. He was petitioned in the juvenile system for marijuana possession.

Argentine Township Police Officer Theresa Walters moves office equipment Wednesday morning in the lower level of the Argentine Township hall. The police moved to their former location, with more space, across from Navistarz Bar & Grill.

Argentine police move back to former office

Argentine Twp. — Something old is new again. On Wednesday, volunteers and members of the Argentine Township Police Department loaded packed boxes into vehicles and drove everything half-mile east to their new offices, which are actually their old offices.

In the summer of 2007, the police department moved from their office space on Silver Lake Road, which is across the street from what is now Navistarz Bar and Grill and into the basement of the township hall. The moved saved the township $12,000 a year in rent, but it also provided about half the space for which the department was accustomed.

Police Chief Daniel Allen initiated talks with the owner of the former building and was able to work out a lease-to-buy arrangement, at half the cost of what they used to pay. In addition, police will also have space to run an impound lot, a source of revenue for the department.

Summary

►The Argentine Township Police Department has moved back to its former location at 8274 Silver Lake Road.

In preparation of the move, Allen and others performed minor renovations inside the building, such as painting.

The police chief said the move went well, especially with all the help from his police officers and volunteers.

While there are still some finishing touches to complete, such as having a new exterior sign made, the police station is open for business and the phones are working.

After working in a basement office with no windows for three years, Allen said it was quite a relief when he opened the blinds in his office and realized he had a view of Lobdell Lake. "It was very relaxing," he said. "It was beautiful to look out at the lake."

Fenton 'shops local' for new police vehicle

►Cost: $28,400 at Vic Canever Chevrolet

By Anna Troppens

atroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Fenton — Fenton City Council is shopping locally for a new Tahoe patrol vehicle for the police department. It approved the purchase of a 2011 Chevrolet Tahoe from Vic Canever Chevrolet, Fenton, said Assistant City Manager Michael Burns.

The total cost, including equipment transfer and light bar, is approximately $30,400. Vic Canever's price on the vehicle itself was $28,400.

The bid from Shaheen Chevrolet, an out-of-town dealer that supplies police vehicles through a state program, was $25,631. With the cost of transferring equipment from the Impala that was totaled, it would have cost not-to-exceed $27,700.

The cost of replacing the Impala, which was struck by another motorist in late January, is minus approximately $8,000 from the city's insurance company.

Due to council's interest in purchasing from a local business, Chief of Police Rick Aro contacted Vic Canever Chevrolet, he said in a March 10 report to City Manager Lynn Markland.

Warnings from U.S. State Department after Japan earthquake

►Foreigners must decide whether to stay or go

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Former Fenton resident Andrew Rummel, 26, and his girlfriend, Maiya Hirose, 22, of Tokyo, Japan, have had some difficult decisions to make. Last Tuesday, they packed up their most important belongings from Rummel's tiny, earthquake-shaken apartment and boarded a bullet train to Kyoto — trying to distance themselves from the nuclear meltdown that resulted from last Friday's epic earthquake and tsunami, which killed thousands of people along Japan's northeastern coast.

This weekend, they have to decide whether it's safe enough to return to Tokyo, where Rummel's job as an English teacher at the NES Languages/Study Abroad school in Shimbashi, Tokyo awaits him. "I'm one of three teachers at the school, and we all left Tokyo after the earthquake," said Rummel, in a phone conversation with his parents, Mark and Sally Rummel of Fenton. "I'm supposed to start working again on Tuesday."

Kyoto, about 230 miles south of Tokyo, seemed to be a comfortable refuge from the trials of life in Tokyo, where food and water shortages, hourly aftershocks and lack of transportation made semblance of returning to a "normal life" not very likely, at least not in the near future. Rummel is keeping a close watch on all the news reports, yet hopes to remain in Japan, if possible, for the next year.

He says that most of the people leaving Tokyo are foreigners, while its main population of 13 million hasn't made a mass exodus from the city. The U.S. State Department has issued a warning that U.S. citizens stay away from a 50-mile radius of the Fukushima Nuclear Plant, which has increased fears of radiation from the deteriorated site.

As of Thursday, the U.S. has provided chartered aircraft for U.S. government employees, military personnel and a small number of private U.S. citizens who have chosen to leave Japan, due to the ongoing nuclear crisis. The Pentagon said all families at military bases on Japan's main island, Honshu, would be given the chance to leave.

Many of the people crowding Narita Airport in Tokyo are business travelers and expatriates, who are leaving Japan after being on assignment in the country for ►Now that Japan's earthquake and tsunami on March 11 has resulted in a nuclear crisis at its Fukushima Nuclear Plant, many foreigners in Japan are leaving the country, amid fear of radiation exposure.

Summary

"The earthquake has shown us firsthand how precious life is and that we should cherish family and friends more. My friend Mari's family is from Sendai, Japan (one of the hardest-hit cities). Just seeing how worried she was when she was trying to get a hold of her family and couldn't, then seeing the relief she had when she finally talked to them, I personally couldn't imagine what that would feel like."

Tiffany Lorkowski

former Michigan resident whose husband, Ed, is on assignment in Japan extended period. Car companies, such as Nissan, Japan's second largest carmaker, have suspended all business travel to Japan and are in the process of bringing all business travelers home, scheduling them to return to after this past Saturday, March 19.

"We have confirmed the safety of all expat employees and their families in Japan, and we continue to stay in close contact with these individuals," stated communication sent out by Nissan Americas.

Nissan is aware a number of national governments have recommended their citizens consider leaving the greater Tokyo area or Japan entirely. Nissan is working with each American employee regarding their own personal choices and will fully support their decision to stay or leave.

One U.S. family, Ed and Tiffany

Lorkowski and their two young sons, Luke and Jon, have been on a two-year training assignment through a Japanese automotive supplier, making their home in Nagoya, hundreds of miles south of Tokyo. Tiffany is formerly from Pigeon, a childhood friend of writer Sally Rummel's daughter, Sarah Green.

While they were undecided about whether they should leave the country or stay, they were given the opportunity to fly out this Sunday, March 20. Ed will have to return to Japan in April, while his wife and sons will remain at their home in Blytheville, Arkansas until Ed's training ends in September.

While they felt last Friday's devastating earthquakes and its aftershocks, they were far enough inland to have not sustained any damage — other than warnings for a tidal wave.

"The earthquake has shown us firsthand how precious life is and that we should cherish family and friends more," said Tiffany. "My friend Mari's family is from Sendai, Japan (one of the hardest hit cities). Just seeing how worried she was when she was trying to get ahold of her family and couldn't, then seeing the relief she had when she finally talked to them, I personally couldn't imagine what that would feel like."

Tiffany is sad to be leaving Japan so suddenly, not being able to say good-bye to all their friends. "About the radiation, I have mixed feelings about it," admitted Lorkowski. "We are 350 miles or more away from the nuclear power plant, so we shouldn't be affected much, but day to day, we just never knew what was going to happen."

both of which are misdemeanors punishable by up to 90 days in the county jail. Nelson will be arraigned on the charges in 67th District Court, a statement from Leyton said.

A law enforcement investigation by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment (DNRE) led to Nelson. Based on the DNRE's report and evidence, Leyton authorized the two misdemeanor counts against him.

The eagle has recovered enough to receive physical therapy from a wildlife rehabilitator, said Mary Dettloff, a spokesperson for the DNRE. The eagle was discovered on Feb. 14, with an injured wing, near Ray and Van Vleet roads.

The eagle is in the care of Dave Hogan, from Monroe, Dettloff said. If the bird recovers enough to fly and fend for itself, it will be released back into the wild. If not, it will probably be placed with a nature program or center, to be used for educational purposes. Such animals are taken to schools, for example, for children to learn about them. It's too early to know if the bird can be released.

The eagle is 4-5 years old and mature,

Report All Poaching (RAP) hotline

To report poaching, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' 24-hour law enforcement hotline is 800-292-7800.

Dettloff said. Bald eagles can live for up to 50 years in captivity, but usually no longer than 20 in the wild.

DNRE has one to two cases annually, on average, of bald eagle shootings, she said. Usually, the case involves poaching and someone killing the bird for a variety of reasons. In this case, the bird was shot and not killed. "They're a big bird. They're an easy target," Dettloff said.

In Michigan, it is illegal to shoot any bird that is not a game bird, she said. This includes songbirds, hawks, owls and eagles. Bald eagles can be identified by their size, which is much larger than a hawk. They also have all-dark brown feathers on their back and front, and mature adults have white heads.

Bald eagles have made a "very robust recovery" in Michigan during the last 25 years, she said. They are spotted in all areas of the state and are no longer on the state's endangered species list. The bald eagle continues to be protected by the Federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act, the Federal Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act and the Michigan Endangered Species Protection law. Under these laws, a person may not kill, harass, disturb or otherwise harm bald eagles.

Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Deb Sarosy, of Fenton, appreciates the pros and cons of both traditional reading and e-reading with her Amazon "Kindle," which she loves to take with her when traveling, so she doesn't have to carry a load of books with her.

All three women have in common the love of reading, and even belong to the same book club, which allows them to share their passion with other women in the group. However, like the rest of the world, times are changing in the world of books and this trend shows every month when the women get together for books and conversation.

"We've got about 15 active members in our book club, and I'd guess that about four women out of this group have e-readers, either Kindles or Nooks," said Herzog, who admits to being non-technological, not even using a cell phone. "But, technology hasn't changed the books, or our love of reading, I just can't borrow their books," she adds, with a smile.

This local group of readers recently celebrated their 10th year of sharing books together as a club, including the special milestone of completing their 100th book, "The Kitchen House." They didn't just celebrate with a "good book," they spent a long weekend at Boyne Mountain last month, enjoying book-related games, an anniversary cake, even pecan turtle candies shaped like an "open book" painted with edible gold leaf.

Their experience in the last 10 years as books have expanded from traditional books to electronic readers mirrors what is happening in the world of books, with e-readers gaining market share and popularity — even in traditional settings like local libraries.

"The usage of digital reading is definitely growing," said Ronnie Morgan, informational technology head of the Genesee District Library. "The digital branch of the library is called 'Overdrive' and can be accessed through digital. thegdl.org. All of the instructions specific to a patron's own device can be found on this website. Once you've obtained a library card, you don't even have to leave your house to access our books."

Morgan adds that because Barnes & Noble's "Nook" and Apple's iPad are more open to other vendors, e-books from these companies are available through the library, while Amazon's "Kindle" is more proprietary and only available through Amazon. All that may be changing, too, as these companies compete for more market share.

But, the gold standard of reading traditional books compared to e-books hasn't changed the daily flow of customers in and out of Lizz's Used Bookstore in Fenton.

"People spend so much of their work day on the computer, that we are finding many customers still appreciating the joy of reading traditional books," said storeowner Liz Henderson. "I hear comments from people all the time about how expensive e-readers are, plus the expense of downloading e-books. They can't buy them used, nor can they pass the book on."

Q: When I go over a hump in the road or around certain curves my car feels very bouncy and unstable, I only have 76,000 miles on my car, do you think it is time for struts that soon or could it be something else that is wrong.

A: This could be struts, the strut manufactures recommend replacement at 50,000 miles but I believe it depends more on the road conditions you normally drive on and your driving habits. Other things to consider are sway bar links, coil springs, leaf springs or air suspension, and last but should be checked first is the air in the tires, make sure the are all even and at the proper pressure as stated by the sticker on the inside door jam on the drivers door.

YOUR SMILE MATTERS!

By: Dr. Steven Sulfaro

BRUXISM

Have you ever woken up in the morning with soreness in your jaw or with an earache or headache or neck or shoulder pain? Have you ever broken a tooth when biting into a soft piece of food? Have you ever experienced cold or sweet sensitivity in your teeth that seemed to disappear as quickly as it came without any apparent reason? Or, have you noticed the biting edges of your front teeth becoming flatter and straighter across? Well these are all signs and symptoms associated with bruxism, or tooth grinding. Research and studies find that 80 to 90 percent of us clench and grind our teeth during the night when we sleep. Some people grind throughout the day as well. Only about 10% of those of us who grind are even aware that we are doing it. About 30% of us who grind our teeth are doing significant irreversible damage to the teeth and TMJs (jaw joints). The average normal bite force on your teeth is about 160 pounds. During episodes of bruxism the bite force is greatly increased to almost 6 times that amount which can cause major damage. One of the main reasons for all this bruxism is the stress we experience in our lives and how we subsequently deal with it. Because of this, bruxism can not be stopped permanently. However, we can ensure that the damage done is limited. A very effective form of protective treatment is bite splint therapy. A bite splint is a U-shaped, hard acrylic, precision fit appliance made by your dentist. It covers either the bottom or top teeth. It is very comfortable and easy to take in and out. I have a bite splint that I wear at night and find I sleep much better while wearing it. If you are experiencing any of the signs and symptoms of bruxism you should talk to your dentist.

I welcome your questions and comments.

TO THOSE WHO think the gas price isn't set by government or politics, watch TV. Every time something happens in the Middle East, gas station owners here go bonkers and gouge us by hiking the price. I've seen it jump 15-25 cents in one day. And no, no tanker was there to fill them up. They just go with the craze.

I AGREE WITH the one who would never want to be a teacher in today's times. I have witnessed what these kids are like, and it isn't nice. The well-behaved ones are the exceptions rather than the rule. Almost every one I encounter is rude and obnoxious. Yes, that means your little angel, too. They're probably one of the worst. I couldn't be a bus driver, either. I feel sorry for them.

JUST REMEMBER, WHEN you are pointing a finger at someone, you have your other three pointing back at you.

I AGREE WITH the question for Mr. Barnes about busing. I should not have to pay for other people's children to get to school when I have to pay for my own because the district thinks we live too close. I am not letting our kids walk over train tracks and past sex offenders' homes on a daily basis. I use our gas. Others should have to, also.

I JUST ATTENDED a meeting on the IB fifth-grade exhibition. What an amazing and exciting opportunity for our kids. Not only is IB teaching them to care about the world around them, it is teaching them how to take action and make a difference. I can't wait to see what incredible grownups our Fenton kids become, thanks to the IB program.

Addis Insurance Agency marks 90 years in business

By Anna Troppens

atroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The four-generation Addis Insurance Agency is celebrating 90 years in business. The agency is located at 611 N. Saginaw St., Holly, where it offers home, auto, life and business insurance.

Since opening in 1921, the Addis Insurance Agency has written insurance for Citizens Insurance Co. In addition to Citizens, the agency writes insurance for Auto-Owners Insurance Co., Progressive Insurance Co., American Modern and Titan Insurance Co.

Ramona Addis started the insurance business in June 1921.

The agency was located at the corner of Park and Maple streets in Holly. In 1959, William Addis bought the agency and it was moved to Battle Alley, where it stayed until 1976.

At that time, it was moved to, where it is still located, 611 N. Saginaw St.

The Shop Local campaign, sponsored by the Tri-County Times and Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce, has helped the agency promote itself — and its ideals of helping each and every customer, said owner/agent Duane Addis.

Duane Addis, owner-agent of Addis Insurance Company in Holly, and daughter Shelley Miller, customer service representative-agent, mark their agency's 90th year in business.

In 1991, he purchased the agency from his father, Bill, and has owned the business since then. "We know that insurance is hard to understand, but our customers appreciate the time we sit down and explain their questions to them," Duane said.

In 2004, his daughter Shelley Miller came to work and is still there today, as customer service representative-agent.

"Hopefully, in the future, she will be the fourth generation of Addises to keep the business going," Duane said.

I AM IN need of a research assistant who can help me find what I cannot find. I have been looking high and low, in the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights. I have been trying to find the right to collective bargaining. I keep hearing liberal media speak of collective bargaining rights. Just fact checking, folks. Can someone help show us this right?

OK, YOU ANTI-UNION geniuses, where did the money go? The Dow is higher than it has ever been. The money is controlled by greedy corporations, not union members. Where do you think your wages and benefits will go when the unions are destroyed? I hope you enjoy poverty, because that's where you will be, too. The unions help raise your wages also.

AMEN, TO THE comment that it takes a village to raise kids these days. We love you grandparents, aunts and uncles, neighbors and friends, and need you to keep the lines of communication open. Today's society is 'all knowing' and at times, too independent for their own good. It's OK to ask for help and/or admit to some wrong.

YES, SENIOR CITIZENS must make sacrifices also. I pay federal taxes on pensions that I paid into. I pay 9 percent of my income in property taxes and have no children in school. I pay 6 percent sales tax. I pay fees for my car. I pay taxes for my gasoline. I don't drink or smoke but would pay taxes on that. I had three honor students in college with little financial aid. I am nearly broke.

I LOVE THE lazy people who don't put their shopping carts away and try to justify their laziness with excuses. No cart pushers or 'I'm giving someone a job.' No, you're just lazy. Own up to your laziness. Either that, or you're selfish, and that's not any better.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

minute — the same rhythm as the beat of the BeeGees' song, "Stayin' Alive."

Medical help from trained emergency responders will continue to involve breaths and compressions. Rescue breathing is still recommended for children and anyone whose cardiac arrest is likely due to oxygen deprivation.

The AHA's decision to change its guidelines was based on research, which showed that bystanders are more likely "Bones heal.

If you can bring them back to life, I don't think they'll complain about a broken rib."

Robert Cairnduff
Fenton fire chief until help arrives. Stopping for rescue breaths can interrupt blood flow, according to experts.

Fenton Fire Chief Robert Cairnduff said these revamped guidelines might alleviate the fear some people have about doing mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

According to Cairnduff, a fair amount of people would attempt CPR when it's needed. "Most cardiac arrests happen in the home," he said. When these emergencies occur in public places, such as restaurants and stores, he said, typically, someone present has had some CPR training.

The sooner chest compressions are begun, the better the outcome. The Fenton Fire Department has a six-minute response time for emergencies within city limits and STAT EMS ambulances' is five minutes. These are considered quick responses, however, if someone can begin chest compressions immediately, the likelihood for a good outcome increase even more, Cairnduff said.

One of the side effects of proper chest compressions is separated or broken ribs. "It can break ribs," he said. "If you hear a noise, it's just a side effect. Keep going, it means you're doing it right."

- Sudden cardiac arrest is not the same as a heart attack. Sudden cardiac arrest occurs when electrical impulses in the heart become rapid or chaotic, which causes the heart to suddenly stop beating. A heart attack occurs when the blood supply to part of the heart muscle is blocked. A heart attack may cause cardiac arrest.

CARDIOPULMONARY RESUSCITATION (CPR)

- Less than one-third of out-of-hospital sudden cardiac arrest victims receive bystander CPR.

TEENS/YOUTH

- About 5,900 children 18 years old and under suffer out-of-hospital cardiac arrest each year from all causes — including trauma, cardiovascular causes and sudden infant death syndrome.
- The incidence of out-of-hospital sudden cardiac arrest in high school athletes ranges from .28 to 1 death per 100,000 high school athletes annually in the U.S.
- Studies have shown that children as young as 9 years old can learn and retain CPR skills.

ITEM PRICING

State Sen. John Gleason initially voted against the bill because he, along with several other senators, believed time was needed to educate the citizens and retailers.

The bill, which was passed by the House of Representatives (HB 4158) on Feb. 16, now goes back to the House for final approval, due to the date of effect amendment passed by the senate.

Once the House approves, it goes to Gov. Rick Snyder for his signature. He is expected to sign the bill into law. In his first State of the State address, given on Jan. 19, he said one of his goals was to repeal the state's Item Pricing Law, which he believed was antiquated.

This existing law, which was enacted in 1978, put an undue burden on retailers by requiring price stickers over other forms of price marking, according to Snyder. He said it cost Michigan's economy more than $2 billion a year, suggesting the state use the technology it has available to protect customers.

Once it goes into effect, it will no longer be necessary for merchants to affix a price tag to each individual consumer item.

Those opposed to the repeal have expressed concern of consumers being cheated by unscrupulous retailers.

Rep. Lisa Lyons, who introduced the bill, said it would end a $2.2 billion hidden tax on Michigan's economy while creating a climate that attracts jobs and retailers by modernizing and reforming Michigan's item pricing law.

Beginning Sept. 1, rather than being required to affix price stickers on each item, merchants will be allowed to display the total price of the item by signage, by an electronic reader, or by any other method. Displayed prices must clearly and reasonably convey the current price of the consumer item to a consumer when in the store at the place where the item is located.

It would be a violation for the merchant to charge a price that exceeds what is displayed. However, there would be no violation to charge less than what is displayed. The new law would maintain existing penalties for people who knowingly violated the act.

State Sen. David Robertson (Dist. 26) voted in favor of the bill. He said this issue has been around for a long time and he believes with the technological advances available today, there is no longer a need to price items individually.

HOUSE BILL 4158, AS PASSED BY THE MICHIGAN SENATE ON MARCH 15, 2011

www.legislature.mi.gov/documents/2011-2012/billengrossed/House/pdf/2011-hEBH-4158.pdf

"By repealing, it will save retailers billions of dollars every year," he said. In turn, he is convinced that retailers will reinvest those savings back into their business, including the hiring of more employees or more customer service.

After considering all opinions, he said, "I found the arguments (for the repeal) to have merit. It's a job creation issue.

"Consumers will see the benefit by those dollars being put to productive use."

Robertson added that there would be safeguards in place to ensure retailers are charging proper prices.

Gleason (Dist. 27) voted against the initial bill, however, after it was amended to allow time for educating the public, he gave his approval. He said 32 out of the 38 senators then voted in favor of the bill.

"I found the arguments (for the repeal) to have merit."

"We need to educate the public in a responsible way and be fair to the businesses," Gleason said. "Next week would not have been good for the shopkeepers."

EDUCATING CONSUMERS AND MERCHANTS

For the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, $100,000 will be appropriated from the state's general fund to the department of attorney general to develop and implement a public consumer education program to provide general information and advice regarding the advertising and pricing requirements of this act and the remedies available to consumers under this act.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Erik Kanyak, 17, of Fenton, knew he wanted to work in the emergency field, possibly for police, fire department, or paramedics. "I figured I may as well try them all," he said. As a junior firefighter, he checks over the medical equipment for the Fenton Fire Department.

FUTURE

Erik keeps track of his schedule in a planner. "There are quite a lot of different assignments at once," he said.

Adding to his busy schedule, Erik also works part-time at Mancino's of Fenton, and as a junior firefighter two nights per week. Somehow, he finds the time to eat right, and sleep between six and eight hours each night. After his paramedic program, he will begin the accelerated bridge program for nursing, possibly at the University of Michigan - Flint.

"The biggest thing is research, and look at what you want to go into," advised Erik, when preparing for college. Without research, he said he would not have leaned about the bridge program.

Ryan Surface, 18, a senior at FHS, has chosen a more traditional career path. He will be studying engineering at Ohio State University (OSU) in September, and is looking forward to a fresh start at a new school with new friends.

For Surface, research on schools started this spring, with visiting college campuses including OSU, to get a feel for the campus, he said.

Last September, he sent applications to OSU, the University of Michigan, and Michigan Tech University. "There's a lot of stuff you have to fill out. It's a pain, but you have to do it," he said.

The work paid off and he was accepted to all three colleges. OSU offered the most of the three in scholarships, not to mention his parents both attended OSU. "I'm a pretty big Buckeye," he said. "I just love the campus in Ohio State."

Surface said he could have applied to more elite schools like Purdue, and would recommend it to students fishing for colleges. "Apply early and often. Even if you don't think you're going to get in," he said. "There's no harm in getting rejected."

For students preparing for college, he suggests taking more difficult advanced placement (AP) or Fenton's International Baccalaureate (IB) courses. He believes that the AP and IB classes he took helped with his applications. "Take the hardest classes even if you don't think you're going to do well.

"There are some smart kids who just haven't decided what they wanted to do, I felt like it was good to go in with a plan so I don't waste money or anything like that."

STORY: LINDEN SUMMER HAPPENING IN JEOPARDY

"I attend the entertainment tent every year. The last couple years, the music has been extremely loud, so loud, in fact, you can't hear the person next to you. If there were any way to tone it down a little it would be great. Unfortunately, I don't have any ideas for where else we could put the tent. It's close to everything. I know we tried Byram Park at one time, and it didn't work out. I would hate to see it end, as I have attended for more than 30 years and it's a great time for families."

— Pam

COLUMN: BUY AMERICAN OR BYE AMERICA

"Our U.S. companies complain about paying benefits to their employees. Then, they go overseas and pay cheap labor because those people get retirement and health insurance from their government and don't need as much money. Those same people overseas then spend that earned money in their own countries and we pay our people unemployment. We then fight amongst ourselves about who is making more than whom, and the government is taking us over, which is further reducing our spending power. Misery just loves company."

Shopping strategies more important as prices rise

By Anna Troppens

atroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Kelly Dietz, of Linden, is not very organized when it comes to grocery shopping. But, she happens to be married to an engineer. Her spouse gives her a printout of the grocery list, by category and by the most efficient route through the store. She does not really use coupons, and doesn't really shop by sales, Dietz said. When it comes to grocery shopping, people have different game plans. There are those who save as much as possible, any way they can. These shoppers clip coupons and travel to different stores for savings.

Marty Lorenz, store director of Holly Foods, said his store has double coupon offers up to 99 cents. “We see the coupon shoppers.”

Becky Murray, of Fenton, organizes her shopping list, but doesn't look for special deals or use coupons. “I make my menu plan for the week, and I make my (shopping) list,” she said.

Have you hit a weight-loss plateau?

► Tips to keep the scale moving downward, again

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Kerrie Mustola, of Linden, knows all about frustrating weight-loss plateaus. After years of maintaining her weight with an active exercise program, she decided to change things up a bit by adding running to her exercise regimen.

That did the trick. She was finally able to shed those stubborn pounds — just by doing something different.

“It's so much harder at our age,” said Mustola, who is married with two grown children. “I added running with a younger friend who pushed me, along with Jazzercise three to four times a week and that's what got the scale moving downward again.

The trick is to have a neighbor or

HOT DESTINATION

SANDY CAY

Near Utila, Honduras, Sandy Cay is a "paradise on a budget," said Lauren Viera in the Chicago Tribune. This "unbelievably affordable" private isle off the coast of Utila — itself a tiny island less than 20 miles from mainland Honduras — can be all yours for $100 a night. A "modest" two-bedroom, two-bath house sits on the west end, "perfectly situated for watching the sun drop into the sea each evening."

THE BOTTOM LINE

SMOKERS: NOW BANNED EVERYWHERE

I came of age during the '50s and '60s, "when America was covered in a fog of cigarette smoke," said Ron Smith in The Baltimore Sun. Back then, everyone knew smoking was bad — that's why we called cigarettes "coffin nails" — but "suicide by cigarette" was considered a matter of personal choice. No longer.

Now, as prohibitions on smoking expand to cover outdoor areas and even your own home, "the turf everywhere belongs to the smoking haters." New York City, always in forefront of the assault on smokers, will soon prohibit anyone with a lighted cigarette from venturing into any public places.

No respect for acting

Anthony Hopkins speaks out

Anthony Hopkins has no great respect for the acting profession, said Sean MacCaulay in the London Telegraph. At 73, Hopkins scoffs at the accomplishments in his own storied career, citing a recent visit he made to a cinema complex in suburban Memphis. "Eleven cinemas," says Hopkins. "They were just about to start the matinee when I looked inside. All these people waddling around with their popcorn and their hot dogs. 'What did you think of the movies?' He imitates a snore. 'I thought, 'That's it? This is the movie industry I've invested my life in?' The stage, he says, is no better. 'I did some Shakespeare, never again. You always have an illusion about yourself that nobody can wait to see your next big Shakespeare performance, but I've been onstage and seen people in the front row, fast asleep.' He may sound bitter, but Sir Anthony — knighted for his acting achievements — insists he's never been happier. "My life turned out to be beyond my greatest dreams," he says. "I don't mean money and fame and all that. I mean I'm married." He met his Columbian-born wife, Stella, a decade ago, when he walked into her antiques shop in California, and she gave him a warm Latin hug. "She has brought a lot of peace to my life, I learned from her to just take life as it comes. I expect nothing and accept everything. And it makes life so much easier."

"I've been onstage and seen people in the front row fast asleep."

— Anthony Hopkins

Enough of Charlie Sheen

"I've Sheen enough," said Seward Darby in The New Republic online. For a day or two after CBS suspended hard-partying Charlie Sheen, 45, from the hit sitcom Two and a Half Men, it made sense that the media would give the actor a platform to aid his side of the dispute. Several weeks later, ratings. Sheen's twitchy, grandiose rants about his "warlock brain," his "tiger blood," and his "epic" adventures are compulsively watchable, in a horrific sort of way. But the last thing this "clearly unwell" man needs is to have his delusions of grandeur confirmed by more attention. And turning ravings into a national running joke does a disservice "to the millions who are suffering from drug addictions or mental illness."

Long distance praying

The letter on my desk carried an urgent message. The sender, Major Louis Best, began his long distance message to me for three reasons. He wanted to thank me for my column of that week, which he had read in a newspaper sent to him by a school near his home. He wanted to tell me how he had been brought to faith in Christ years earlier while fighting a forest fire in the state of Washington. And, he asked me to pray for him and other military men who served in dangerous places.

This man of faith was especially concerned about the spiritual needs of those, like him, who might be called upon to lay their lives on the line in battle. While we had never met, he felt free to share his long distance concerns with me and ask for prayer, believing the miles between us wouldn't matter to the One who hears prayer since He holds the whole world in His hands.

The long distance phone call I received from a minister was to ask for prayer regarding a different kind of battle, a spiritual war that was being waged in his church. I've received many requests from ministers for prayer but this cry for help was different. When pastors call asking for prayer, they are usually under fire from problem-prone people in their congregations. But, this preacher had concluded he was the problem.

'I've been watching what's been happening in my church and see that I'm the reason for it,' he said, adding, 'Pray that I will be revived.'

'You're halfway there,' I replied.

The moment we face up to our faults and start doing something about them, we are on our way to greater effectiveness. This minister was determined to remove any roadblocks to spiritual renewal in his church by enlisting some long distance praying for the needed breakthrough in his church to begin in him.

The late, world-known evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, once said he faced his worst enemy each morning while shaving. He didn't mean he hated his image in the mirror, but in confronting his weaknesses early and overcoming them before they spoiled his day, he increased his potential to make a difference in the lives of others and the world.

'Perilous times will come,' wrote Paul to a young minister (2 Timothy 3:1). And, with the rise of world-wide terrorism, it's easy to see why many students of Bible prophecy see present perils as fulfillments of Paul's prediction. Current conditions incubate fear about what's ahead, but it's important to remember that nothing takes God by surprise and prayer changes things.

Political solutions fail but prayer prevails. Those who choose to major on prayer choose best.

Let communities be challenged and comforted by the possibilities of prayer, and churches be packed with praying people. Then, the Biblical promise for periods of peril will produce personal peace. 'If My people who are called by My name will humble themselves, and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sins and heal their land' (2 Chronicles 7:14).

Four Seasons Fresh Market reopens

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Spring isn't the only thing that has "sprung" in Fenton this week. Four Seasons Fresh Market at 1110 N. LeRoy St. reopened its doors on Monday, March 14, with a brand new look and many new services.

"In addition to our complete line of the area's freshest produce and seasonal offerings, we've expanded our foods 'to go,'" said owner Mark Morse. "We're now offering five 'from-scratch' soups every day, as well as a full menu of paninis and deli sandwiches. We also have special meals for two prepared every day, in addition to a full deli counter with many entrees already prepared."

Soup lovers will enjoy a wide variety of flavors, from tomato tortellini to chicken tortilla, beef barley, old-fashioned potato and ham, and more at the market's new Soup Station. Friday soup specials will include a seafood selection of some kind, especially during this Lenten season.

Early bird coffee drinkers will appreciate the market's new, early hours, opening at 7 a.m., Monday through Friday, with a pot of freshly brewed Cadillac Coffees ready for easy, in-and-out pickup. "You can also pick up a quick breakfast sandwich or pastry," said Morse. "The convenience factor is huge. It's actually quicker than most drive-thrus."

Perhaps the most noticeable change in the store's interior is a huge, custom-made wooden pergola, designed to house the market's expanding wine and beer collection — many from Michigan or other global regions known for particular specialties. Local carpenter Keith Baker constructed the pergola.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | SALLY RUMMEL

Four Seasons Fresh Market owner Mark Morse and Produce Manager Stacey Jasso are proud of the new interior of the market, as well as its new soup station, wine and beer pergola and the growing abundance of fresh produce now available.

A newly painted interior completes the remodeling projects that were started when the market closed for six weeks this winter.

Four Seasons Fresh Market continues its emphasis on Michigan-made products and produce, bringing in onion sets, asparagus crowns, seed potatoes and more during this early growing season.

The market is open Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sunday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with extended hours planned later this spring and summer.

Financial Plus Credit Union earns 5-star rating

Financial Plus Federal Credit Union has earned the highest rating for strength and stability from Bauer Financial, Inc., the nation's credit union rating firm. Earning Bauer's coveted 5-Star Superior rating indicates that Financial Plus Federal Credit Union is one of the strongest credit unions in the country, excelling in such areas as capital adequacy, delinquent loan levels and profitability.

"There has been a lot of debate recently about how much capital financial institutions should have on hand," explains Karen L. Dorway, president of Bauer Financial. "That has never been a question here at Bauer. A sizeable capital cushion, like Financial Plus Federal Credit Union has, can make all the difference in an economic crisis."

Financial Plus President and CEO Jill Reno said, "We work very diligently to take good care of our members' money and this rating tells us that we are doing things right. We're financially sound, well capitalized and have a passion for taking care of our members. It's the perfect combination."

Financial Plus Federal Credit Union is a member-owned, not-for-profit financial institution serving more than 42,000 members in Genesee County and the surrounding area. It operates through five offices in Flint, Swartz Creek, Fenton and Grand Blanc and can be found on the Internet at www.financialplus-fcu.org.

Marvin Yono, who owns Alpine Market Place in Linden, said his store also offers double coupons. "We have experienced more coupon redemption than before." Alpine Market Place also has a reward card system.

Many shoppers check sale advertisements. Yono said Alpine Market Place also offers special items not found in the store's advertisements, located around the perimeters of the store.

A second type of shopper plans and is not a big fan of coupons or sales, because they prepare meals from scratch instead of buying packaged product. This is a way to save money, Lorenz said, by doing more of the meal preparation steps themselves. Other shoppers, affected by the economy, cut back on expenses as much as they can (Woman's Day magazine, January). They carefully consider their purchases.

For another group of customers, it's about brand loyalty and buying groceries as they always have. They have less time, and more money, and buy prepackaged items that require less preparation. This includes many shoppers at Alpine Market Place.

"They're just more concerned with the shopping than looking for more deals and sales," Yono said. Shoppers are loyal to brands the store carries, such as Boar's Head Meats in the deli.

In addition, store employees take customers' suggestions for products they would like to see available. "We try to provide what the customer wants," Yono said. "We try very hard to get it for them."

Alpine Market Place has many employees on its sales floor, to answer shoppers' questions and help people locate items, he said.

Many people come in for a few items and end up with half of a cartload, Yono said. They find groceries they will use and stock up.

Lorenz said this takes place at Holly Foods. He is in the store every day, so it's easy for him to pick up items he needs throughout the week. He does a lot of cooking, he said.

Holly Foods has customers who also shop frequently, buying what they need for the day. To save money, Lorenz suggests only buying the amount of groceries a family will eat. Huge packages of products are not a deal, if half of them are discarded.

"There is no sense in buying more just so you can throw it out," he said.

Staff Reporter Tim Jagielo contributed to this article.

How to shop for groceries like a pro

Dawn Earnesty, an educator for the Michigan State University Extension, Saginaw and Genesee counties, said steps for grocery shopping include making a food budget, planning meals and snacks for a week, making a shopping list of the foods needed to make the meals and snacks on one's menu and, lastly, reviewing the shopping list and budget.

"Making a shopping list can save you time at the store, keep you from making impulse purchases and can help you to avoid overspending on extras," Earnesty said. "Check to see what food you already have at home and make a list for other staple items that you need. Then check grocery ads for sales and specials and plan your meals around those items."

"If you have coupons, check them with your list and use them only if they will actually save you money."

Additional ideas

- Stockpile foods when prices are low.
- Buy store brands versus national brands.
- Buy cheaper options in a food group (such as peanut butter versus meat).
- Avoid expensive prepared foods.
- Beans and rice are two great ingredients that can also assist in stretching meals.

Fallen Soldiers walk is 13 miles to national cemetery

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Linden — Following in the footsteps of the Fallen Soldiers march held annually in Tennessee, a member of Linden’s VFW is organizing the first, of what is hoped to be an annual event here in Michigan.

Second Lt. Richard Dunkley, a member of the Army National Guard, a Linden resident and member of the 237th BSB in Bay City, wants to continue this patriotic tradition. He and his wife, Mary Dunkley, who was a sergeant in the Marines, belong to the Linden VFW.

The march is to take place on Saturday, April 9. Those participating will begin walking from the Linden VFW Post 4642 at 9 a.m. and proceed to the Great Lakes National Cemetery in Holly Township, approximately 13 miles away.

Everyone participating should arrive motivated to march the entire 13-mile route, or walk any portion of the march.

Participants and family members are encouraged to bring a dish to pass to the VFW hall to share afterward.

The Dunkleys expect between 50 and 100 participants.

History of the march

Four years ago, First Sgt. Jim Williams organized Tennessee’s first Fallen Soldiers March in Lebanon. Williams had recently returned from a year — long deployment to Iraq with the 168th Military Police Battalion, and wanted to honor not only the Tennessee National Guard soldiers who died in the war, but also all Tennesseans who made the ultimate sacrifice for their state and nation.

someone who is easy to connect with. We are starting to walk/run outside again now that the weather is nicer.”

Mustola is certainly not alone, when it comes to meeting that inevitable weight-loss plateau. What you should be doing is congratulating yourself. Because you’ve done so well in your weight-loss efforts, your lighter-weight body is rewarding you with a slower metabolism. That means you’ll have to eat fewer calories and rev up your activity level to start losing weight again.

“A weight loss plateau like this eventually happens to everyone who is trying to lose weight,” said a spokesperson from the Mayo Clinic, which offers this explanation for a plateau.

“I added running with a younger friend who pushed me, along with Jazzercise three to four times a week, and that’s what got the scale moving downward again.”

that in order to lose more weight, you need to increase activity or decrease the calories you eat. Using the same approach that worked initially will maintain your weight loss, but it won’t lead to more weight loss.

Just because your weight loss has stalled, don’t revert to your old eating and exercise habits, or you’ll gain the weight back, experts say.

How to move the ‘scale down’ past a weight loss plateau

- Take a close look at your behavior and be honest with yourself about your day-to-day efforts. Keep a food and activity journal so you can “tighten up” your game plan.
- Increase your activity level. Just adding 10 to 15 minutes more on workouts may be enough to get the scale moving again. In addition to cardio exercise, add strength training two to three times per week to build more muscle mass, which will burn more calories.
- Pack in the protein. When you lose weight, you lose fat, and a small amount of muscle. If you don’t eat enough protein, your body will start to take it from your muscles for fuel. Protein also keeps a person more full and satisfied for longer than carbs and fat, and it gives your metabolism a healthy boost.
- Add variety to your meals, so that you’re satisfied with smaller portions. Experiment with different spices and recipes.
- Drink water or another low-calorie beverage about a half-hour before mealtime, to curb your appetite.
- Trim 100 to 200 calories off your daily total, as long as that doesn’t take your calorie count to under 1,200 calories.
- Reevaluate your goals. Consider maintaining your weight, rather than losing. If you’ve improved your diet and increased your exercise, you’ve already improved your health even without further weight loss. Even a modest weight loss improves a person’s chronic health conditions related to being overweight.

HUGS donates handmade blankets to police

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

A group of local women wants to make sure that children, who might be in the midst of a stressful crisis, have a soft, cuddly blanket to which to cling. Linda Bott's group of sewers, who are part of the Outreach Program at St. Jude's Episcopal Church in Fenton, have been making the blankets and donating them to local police and fire departments. To date, the group has given out 27 blankets to police departments in Argentine Township, Linden and Fenton. Bott said the blankets are two-sided. One side is fleece for warmth and softness. The other side has a colorful and interactive design, which grabs the attention of children.

PERHAPS IT'S TIME to start paying very close attention to the consolidation of school districts.

I ALWAYS TRY to buy American-made products. Many times, I cannot find what I need, or find out only the box was made in the USA. It would be most helpful to know where the American-made products are being sold. Could someone start a column on where to find them?

THE HOT LINE did not say all pot smokers likely graduate to harder drugs. It said all heroin users likely started out on pot. Can't you read?

■■■
I CAN'T BELIEVE the people that run the red light at the North Road and LeRoy Street intersection. A cop could write a ticket every time the light changes. It's very dangerous.

LAKE FENTON HAS a wonderful program at Torrey Hill called the Celebrity Club. Students are praised for doing good things for others. What a great way to promote good behavior and recognize kids that care. Mrs. Culver is a wonderful asset to Lake Fenton; not only for the Celebrity Club, but also for the many other things she does for all the students. She, too, is a celebrity.

YOU WOULD LIKE to pay teachers less and somehow think that will attract better teachers? Has that worked in any private sector profession? I doubt it.

I HAVE BEEN to two council meetings where Fenton businessmen requested that the city have a written policy that gives a small advantage to local businesses when bidding on city contracts. Both times, the council said they would "study it" and get back with them. It's been over two years, and they still haven't responded. Tell me what could possibly be more important.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE Times — again. Your Shop Local section helped to renew my commitment to spend my dollars locally. Keep up the good work, you are making a difference.

Look Who's Talking

By Anna Troppens, Associate Editor

Erin Dagenais

My all-time favorite movie is: ‘Thirteen Going on 30.’ I’ve watched it a hundred times.

My earliest memory is: probably, spending Christmas Eve at my grandpa’s house and spending a lot of time with my family.

If you could have one superpower, what would it be?: I’d like to fly. That would be cool.

I always: try my hardest at everything I do.

I never: complain.

If you could make one rule everyone has to follow, what would it be?: You’d have to be nice to everyone.

If you could travel back in time to witness one event, what would it be?: It would be cool to go back to the 1800s, when they first presented the Eiffel Tower for the World Fair in France.

Are you in French class in school?: I have three language classes this year, French, Spanish and Latin. I’m in IB (International Baccalaureate) English and French.

If you had to walk through downtown all day wearing a sign, what would it say?: Something in French, ‘C’est la vie.’

What is an upcoming event you are looking forward to?: my mentor training class, I’m going to make Easter baskets for the kids at Hurley Children’s Center in Flint.

Front row seats and backstage passes. Who are you seeing?: I don’t have a favorite person. I just listen to a bunch of music, mostly in French.

What has been the best day in your life so far? Probably going to Mackinac Island with my family for the day. I’ve been there a couple of times; it’s one of my favorite places to go. Another favorite day was being on the homecoming court this year.

What are your plans after graduation?: I’m going to start at U-M Flint. I’m going there for language. I’d like to be a translator, French and some other languages, too, like Spanish, maybe German.

How are you preparing for college?: Scholarships.

My parting advice for a better world is: Just, everyone try to be nicer to people. And, an Eleanor Roosevelt quote, ‘You must do the thing you think you cannot do.’

Student Body asked at Fenton High School

How are you preparing for college?

JOSH BRYANT, JUNIOR

“I’m here at school.”

KENDAL STEPHENS, JUNIOR

“My mom is making me learn to do the laundry, so I’m not helpless on my own.”

EMILY ELZAY, JUNIOR

“I’m doing little things on my own now that I don’t really need my parents help with. I’m looking into colleges that interest me.”

SARA WUJCIAK, FRESHMAN

“I’m getting all A’s now. I’m looking into colleges that have the stuff that I want to go into. I’m really interested in math classes and business and accounting.”

BRANT CASSIDY, FRESHMAN

“I’m taking honors classes, and I might do a few IB (International Baccalaureate) classes — not the full diploma, though.”

HOLLY TOWNSHIP BUDGET WORKSHOP

The first budget workshop for Holly Township will be on Wednesday, May 4, at 6:30p.m. at the township hall. It is open to the public. The public hearing on the budget will be scheduled after the budget workshop.

FENTON APPROVES FIRE SERVICES CONTRACT

Fenton City Council has approved a five-year fire services contract with Tyron Township, according to Assistant City Manager Michael Burns. Changes include the base run fee ($1,337 for the first year, increasing annually to $1,391 for year five), a 120-day opt out clause, a reduced fee of $500 for canceled runs and the fuel surcharge.

DDA CANCELS CLOSED SESSION

The city of Fenton's downtown development authority (DDA) did not hold a closed session planned for Tuesday's meeting. It was to discuss the purchase of property.

SHARED SERVICES MEETING SET

The next shared services meeting between area townships and Holly

Village is Thursday, March 31 at 6:30 p.m. at the village council chambers. The agenda includes fire services and a public safety officer feasibility report. Local townships have been meeting to discuss consolidating and sharing services like police, fire and building inspectors because of likely budget problems in the future.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

In preparation for a possible Independence Day celebration, the Holly Township Board of Trustees approved moving $500 to a miscellaneous fund to offer the village, should a July 4 celebration with fireworks be planned.

Township hall could be sold off

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly Twp. — On Wednesday, the Holly Township Board of Trustees discussed the benefits of selling the township hall, where meetings are currently held and the township staff is housed.

Supervisor Jesse Lambert said the discussion came about due to Holly Schools' upcoming vote to close a school building, and the village getting an adaptive reuse study.

"You've got budgets and revenue being slashed everywhere, and everyone is looking for that wheel of cheese, so to speak, that's going to make it all better," said Lambert. "They're looking for that one item that could help them avoid the next big budget crisis."

The old NOCFA fire hall has been listed for sale but has received little interest, Lambert said.

The next step for the township depends on which building the board of education closes. The township board and administration could rent the space from Holly Area Schools, and sell off the

"I would never sell this building," said resident Larry Lilly.

Nominations sought

Nominations for the Lake Fenton Community Schools Volunteer Hall of Fame are sought. Nominees can be anyone who has volunteered over the course of many years in school district activities. Satellite activities, such as Little League, Scouting, AYSO, etc., may be included. Employees may also be included, with consideration given to the school system beyond working hours. Nomination forms are available from Wilma Betts, Lake Fenton Middle School, wbetts@lakefentonschools.org. Submissions must be received by 3 p.m. Thursday, March 31 at the Lake Fenton Middle School office, attention Wilma Betts. The selection committee will make its decision by May 1, and up to three awards will be presented at the Volunteer Picnic in May.

DETROIT TIGERS SPRING TRAINING UPDATE

Being between prep sports seasons, gives us a little time to do some different things. Today, we'll look at the Detroit Tigers and some questions about them as they prepare for the regular season.

So what's going on with Miguel Cabrera? Of course, he made headlines right before spring training when he was charged for a DUI, and he came into camp a bit on the heavy side. But, after a slow start, he's really heated up. He recently hit two home runs in two days and entered Friday hitting .357 for spring training. He's showing some giddy-up as well, recently stretching a single into a double.

"There's no question I am feeling good right now," Cabrera recently said. "I am ready to work and trying to make sure I am ready for the season."

I'm just here to work hard and be patient."

How's the starting pitching looking? Entering camp, it was one of the concerns for some. Sure, Justin Verlander is a solid anchor, but the Tigers are expecting Phil Coke and Brad Penny to fill in spots after starting just a combined 10 games last season.

Penny is a starter, but has suffered from injury issues in recent seasons. So far, he's been more than solid in Lakeland.

There are more mysteries surrounding Coke, who has started just one game in his Major League Baseball career. So far, he's been pretty solid as well, posting a 2.70 ERA in five starts. Of course, he's not tossing six or seven innings an outing either. So, even with the nice start in Lakeland, he remains a mystery. Rick Porcello and Max Scherzer will round out the rotation. The Tigers hope they see the Porcello of 2009, not 2010.

Put up or shut up time. Jim Leyland enters the season with a deal that only extends him through this year. The Tigers have had some solid years under Leyland, but also have suffered a lot of second-half hardship. If Leyland expects to be back in 2012, he'll need to reverse those second-half issues and get this team in the postseason. If he doesn't, it's unlikely he'll be back in 2012. The magic of 2006 can only last so long.

When is opening day anyway? The Tigers open the regular season on March 29 at Yankee Stadium for a 1:05 p.m. contest. It will be broadcast nationally on ESPN, but will be on FSD locally.

No, I mean when is the home opener? The Tigers won't come home until over a week later, when they come to Comerica Park for the first time on April 8 for a 3:05 p.m. contest with the Kansas City Royals.

Bourque captures himself an AMA season title

Enduro driver loves the trails he experiences while competing

By David Troppens

Joshua Bourque just wanted to do some motorcycle riding with a view.

But he's gotten a bit more than that over the years. He's now a season champion.

Bourque, a Davisburg resident, won last year's AMA District 14 Enduro Overall Class C season point championship.

Bourque, 23, has been riding motorcycles for a long period now, but one day he had a friend ask him if he wanted to give enduro racing a try.

"I met a guy that lives down the street that rode trails and stuff, and I started trail riding with him," Bourque said. "He had done enduros before, and he asked me why not give it a try, because they will be some of the best trails I'll ever get to ride. It was purely for fun, and I liked it. Just being able to see trails I usually wouldn't be able to drive was great."

After that first year, Bourque wanted to continue. But during his second season, he broke his wrist, cutting his season short. In 2009, Bourque was able to compete once again. He entered five of the eight AMA District 14 Enduro races, and did well. He had four top-10 performances, including two fifth-place efforts. It helped him earn sixth in the season point standings, with 66 points.

"I did all of the Michigan races last year," Bourque said. "I got into every sin-

Different types of MOTOCROSS RACING

There are at least eight different types of motocross racing. Here is a brief description of each.

Freestyle: Riders gain points from judges on the tricks they perform.

Supermoto: A race that is on both dirt and pavement.

Enduro: An off-road race that is usually long and has several natural obstacles.

Trials Motocross: They race on a dirt track and are timed, with the best time winning.

Hill Climb: Riders race up a hill, trying to earn the fastest time.

Supercross: An event taking part in a large arena on a temporary dirt track.

ATV Quad Motocross: This is an all-terrain vehicle class.

gle race this year, and that was a big deal to me. My No. 1 goal was to compete in and finish every race in the series this year, because I've never been able to do all the races. I made some sacrifices and was able to finish them all, too. I placed pretty well. I was in the top three in every race, except the second-to-last race."

Bourque was a bit modest. He finished

Roughriders perform well at MMWA event

Holly — The Holly varsity wrestling team qualified for the team state meet this year and had 12 wrestlers qualify for the individual state meet as well.

And if one was to look at the faces that made this season successful, there's a good chance that many of those wrestlers were

The Holly Roughriders, who serve as the feeder program for the Holly varsity wrestling team, recently went to the MMWA Meet and captured four individual state champions. The squad qualified 21 wrestlers to the event, and 12 came home from Fenton High School as state placers.

"We took 21 and placed 12, so if you get over 50 percent then you are doing OK," Roughrider coach Guy Cleaver said. "All the kid worked their butts off. They strive to achieve big goals, and that makes a big difference. Sometimes you live to those expectations and sometimes you don't, but if you don't, it gives you something to work on next year."

The team had four champions, two coming in the 9-10 age class.

Linden wins thriller vs Bronchos, 39-38

Holly — Call it the end of March Madness for the tri-county area.

Two area schools faced off in middle school basketball action on Wednesday to conclude their seasons, and the last game of the doubleheader was a classic.

The Linden Middle School Eagles travelled to Sherman Middle School and saw the eighth-grade boys basketball team edge out the Bronchos 39-38 on Wednesday.

The game wasn't decided until the final seconds. Linden led 39-34 after two converted free throws by Austin Buerkel with only 32.3 seconds remaining in regulation. However, Holly ended up with two three-point chances to win the game during its final possession. Daniel Evans tried to score quickly on a putback after getting an offensive rebound on the second missed shot. He did score, but the clock expired while taking the shot, earning the Eagles the win.

The Eagles (4-7) went to their big men — Buerkel and Jake Zorn — for most of their offense. The combo scored all but three of Linden's points, with both big men scoring 18 points.

"They've gotten a lot better," Linden coach Kyle Hopkins said. "They were a little tentative at the beginning of the season, but we've made a concentrated effort to get the ball to them because of their height. We worked on getting the ball in the low post, and getting them four- or five-foot shots. In the past, they were used to going back out."

While the twin towers were dominating for Linden, Holly's Morgan Baylis was equally impressive. He finished with 17 points, and scored all of Holly's 11 points in the third quarter. In the fourth period, it was

Dillon Gardner that led Holly. With the Bronchos trailing 37-32, Gardner scored Holly's next four points, helping cut the Linden lead to 39-36, but the Bronchos never were able to take the lead. Linden jumped to a 15-8 lead after one quarter, as Buerkel scored all but two of the Eagles' first-quarter points. Then, in the second quarter, it was Zorn that scored all of Linden's points, establishing a 24-21 halftime lead.

Holly took a 32-25 lead in the third quarter after a Baylis three-pointer, but Linden scored the game's next 12 points, taking the lead back for good.

Gardner had 10 points for Holly.

Holly — Ask any coach and they'll usually say defense wins basketball games.

That was the case Wednesday at Sherman Middle School.

In the final game of the season for two area tri-county seventh-grade boys teams, Holly cranked up its defense in the second half against the Eagles, winning a 37-27 verdict.

The game was tied at 19-all at the half, but the Bronchos held the Eagles to just eight second-half points, earning the win.

"The biggest difference was the defense," Holly coach Matt Mellon said. "We were playing undisciplined. In the second half, they decided to play more disciplined and then it turned into our favor."

Linden went to the line 21 times in the first half, as the Eagles attacked the lane. But, they only made nine of them, allowing them to only enter the break tied at 19-all.

Holly, who led by as many as nine in the first half before Linden tied it up at the break, improved upon that defense and then took the lead for good on the second half's first bucket — a putback hoop by Adam Tooley. Linden scored just once in the third quarter, and that was on the last hoop of the third, when Bailey Davis scored on a fastbreak layup. By then, Holly held a 30-21 lead. In the fourth, the Eagles never got only closer than seven points.

"They went to the zone, and we couldn't penetrate it with their big arms," Linden coach Jim Zonca said. "What killed us was we were 9-for-27 from the free throw line. You can't miss that many free throws and be competitive."

Carsen Cuthbert (67) and Collin Dallwitz (LHTW) won titles, while Jimmy Gray III (133) won one in the 11-12 age class. The other state champion was David McCarthy (49), who competed in the 7-8 age class.

Five others made it to the title match, but had to settle with runner-up honors. That list included 9-10 year-olds Calvin Curtis (59), Cade Dallwitz (100) and Wyatt Scribner (63); and 11-12-year-old wrestlers Colton Cleaver (80) and Trent Hillger (105).

Ashton DeHart (5-6, 58) and Keegan Soles (13-14, 107) placed third, while Jack Bowen (11-12, 119) earned a fourth-place performance.

"All in all, we had a lot of kids do great. I couldn't pinpoint one of them," Cleaver said. "The kids stepped up. For some, it was their first time placing at state, and that's great."

But just as important as results, the club hopes to create a family atmosphere within the Holly varsity program. After all, not every great Holly wrestler always dominated when they were Roughriders. But, with numbers, those kids may eventually develop. Also, if wrestling keeps the kids academically eligible, it's done its job as well.

"(Holly's two-time state champion) Josh Houldsworth is a great example. He had a real rough time competing for awhile," Cleaver said. "But now he's at Columbia, studying pre-med and wrestling for them. How can you be doing better than that?"

To create the family atmosphere, varsity wrestlers do help with the practices occasionally. The club shares the same wrestling room with the varsity. On Monday, Mason Cleaver and Anthony Gonzales were coaching the kids.

"I do it to help my little brother and to give back to the community," said Gonzales, who won a state title during his freshman season. "It makes all the wrestling coming up a little better."

"We are building for the high school program. That's what we strive to do. Make it a program from youth to middle school to varsity," Cleaver said. "By the time those kids are 5, they know (Holly head coach) Don Pluta really well, and it keeps going, going and going. By the time they are in high school, they are comfortable with the room and feel a part of the team. It makes a difference."

The area had other youth programs earn champions. Fenton's Don McDermott (9-10, HWT) won a title, as did Linden's A.J. Geyer (11-12, 65).

first in the second race of the season, and followed it up with five straight wins. That pretty much established him as the favorite to win the season point series title with four more races left. He then finished second in the next two races, almost locking up the season point title with two races to go. It wasn't until late in the season that Bourque thought about being the season champion.

"Honestly, that just happened," Bourque said. "I joked about it last year, because I did OK last year. I was like, 'Yeah, I'll come back, do all the races and win,' more or less joking about it. The first race this year, I was third. The second race happens to be the toughest race, and I ended up first overall in my class and first overall. That was exciting."

What is enduro racing?

Enduro racing is a bit different than the other types. Most have a track that involves drivers finishing a certain number of circuits. Enduro racing is much different. It involves racing through several terrains, including mud, rocks, water, logs and whatever else you can imagine in a wildlife setting.

"You'll see basically everything you can think of," Bourque said. "In Marquette, there are massive rocks that the Yoopers call moon rocks. They vary in size from a small car to a small house. You don't know what you are coming up on.

"Any other type of racing, you know the layout and walk the course. At least you get to do laps and by the second lap, you know what is coming up. With enduro, you don't know what is coming around the next corner. It keeps you on your game all day."

The races are, generally, longer as well. Bourque said they vary in length from 50 miles to 100 miles. A race has several designated check points, and point totals are given at some of those checkpoints. The person with the fewest points, wins.

Because the races are usually in the wilderness on trails, a driver is pretty much on their own for most of it. To enhance his chances of finishing a race or getting to at least the next checkpoint, Bourque carries a backpack with equipment in it.

"You are away from all the luxuries that other racers get," Bourque said. "You might bring an extra snack or some tools to help fix your bike or something like that. I have a water pack, a few extra tools, a couple random things like ties and duct tape and water."

Bourque plans on competing for a long time.

"I plan on doing it as long as possible," he said. "As far as being competitive, only time will tell. I want to ride them as long as I can. One guy is at least 80 and he's running them. They are nice trails, and it's great just riding them."

my pet world

Q: Thumper, my 3-year-old rabbit, is having accidents outside his litter box. He comes close to making the box, but not quite. What happened to his aim? — S.J., Santa Fe, MN

A: Is Thumper neutered? Mary Cotter, of the House Rabbit Society, is guessing he is neutered, since this is a new behavior in a young adult. If he's not and you do have Thumper "fixed," this should improve the situation. Also, see your veterinarian. Anytime there's a change in a pet's behavior, considering the medical possibilities makes sense. Thumper could have a urinary tract or bladder infection. Clean up where Thumper is shooting outside the box. "Use white vinegar, wait until it fizzes, and then dab it up (don't rub it in)," Cotter advises. Some rabbits, when standing in the litter box, aim just a bit too high and miss (that goes for human guys, too). Once this happens, your rabbit assumes (by odor) that this place is also the toilet. Litter boxes should be at least 5-inches high. Cotter, based in New York City, suggests using a lining of newspaper covered with a grass hay, such as Timothy hay, Brome hay, or meadow grass (as opposed to alfalfa). Rabbits are quite comfortable grazing on a meal while doing their business; it's like you or me reading the newspaper.

Mom divides estate while siblings squabble

DEAR AMY: My mother is in her late 80s. She is planning on dividing her estate equally between my brother and me. However, I have recently learned that over the last 20 years, my brother has borrowed $160,000 from her. He has never tried to repay this debt and has never paid any interest on the money. My mother's response is that when she dies, I immediately get $160,000 off the top of her estate before the estate is divided. I too, have borrowed from our mother, but I have repaid all the money, with interest, according to a contract. My objection is that my brother's unpaid money would be worth far more than $160,000. Even if he were charged a low interest rate of 3 percent or 4 percent, over a 20-year period that money would be worth two to three times that amount. My mother became angry when I pointed this out to her. Am I being unreasonable in voicing my opinion? My brother is more than happy with the arrangement.

Amy Dickinson

Ask Amy

— Shorted Daughter

DEAR SHORTED: You are not being unreasonable. However, your mother is not a bank; she is your mother. She could choose to leave her money to a charity. She could choose to leave all of her money to you, your brother or a neighbor. You have voiced your opinion on this deal; you are also receiving an extra lump sum of $160,000 that otherwise would have been absorbed into the estate and divided between you and your brother. If he had responsibly repaid his loans over the years and your mother had invested these monies in the stock market (or spent it), her substantial estate might be worth far less now. This is a large sum; this also is the arrangement your mother has chosen. I suggest you accept her decision about how to divide her assets and move on.

DEAR AMY: I will soon be visiting my son and his family in another state. The problem is I do not have a good relationship with my daughter-in-law, though I am close to my son and maintain frequent contact with him and my grandsons. I would like to know if, when I visit, I should stay with them or get a hotel room so she won't be stressed by my presence. I know it is painful for my son to have this strained relationship within his family, and I certainly don't want to rock an already unstable boat, but I want the visit to be as pleasant as possible under the circumstances. Should I offer these choices to my son and have him check with his wife, or should I not say anything and go there with the assumption I will be staying with them?

— Wondering

DEAR WONDERING: Reserve a room at a local hotel and let your son know that this arrangement will be best for everyone because you can enjoy their family but not be underfoot as a guest in their household. If your son and his family feel insulted that you won't be staying with them, you can cancel your hotel room and give it a try at their house.

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What brings on severe constipation? My movements are six to eight days apart. The doctor says milk of magnesia is no good. I am 85. Any help? — C.Y.

ANSWER: A diet too low in fiber, not drinking enough fluids and lack of physical activity are the main ingredients for constipation. Sometimes, prescribed medicines are at fault. Fiber is the indigestible part of foods. It holds on to water as food passes through the intestinal tract, and keeps the food residue moist and soft. Fruits, vegetables and whole grains are fiber sources. "Whole grains" mean the grains haven't been refined. They still have their outer coat, the bran. You can find many whole-grain breads and cereals. One cereal is All-Bran. It's not the only one. If you can't get enough fiber in foods, then turn to such things as Metamucil, FiberCon or Citrucel. You'll find them in every drugstore. Older people often drink less fluid than they need. Their thirst sensation isn't as strong as it once was. Make sure you're taking in enough liquids. Water isn't the only liquid that keeps you hydrated. After breakfast, take a walk. Physical activity stimulates the digestive tract to move food through it more quickly. That also keeps undigested food moist and soft. Take more walks throughout the day. Doctors used to be quite reluctant to suggest laxatives to their patients. They were afraid that patients would get into the "laxative habit" or that the colon would become dependent on laxatives. Neither of these things happens. No single laxative works for all. You have to find one that suits you. I don't know why your doctor is down on milk of magnesia. It works for many. If it's not working for you, try Miralax. Follow its directions for use. Once you have established a regular pattern to your movements, you can back away from laxatives so you're not headed in the direction of too many evacuations. Stay on the regimen of fiber, fluids and activity. The booklet on constipation provides other tips on how to combat this all-but-universal problem. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 504W, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.
