

HOT LINE: TEACHERS

“Drop the sarcasm, and show some respect for teachers. The first comment on this page was inflammatory, very juvenile and uncalled for. It is the administrators and federal mandates that need to be scrutinized for not efficiently running schools. Most teachers have no choice because the teachers' unions exploit them with dues. The unions and administrators are the culprits. The public taxpayer and students suffer.”

— Fentonite

HOT LINE: KIDS IN PARKING LOT

“Did someone seriously suggest that if they hit a kid in the parking lot of Alpine they would keep going? Do you even realize the gravity of that statement? It is your responsibility to look behind you before pulling out of a parking space. Too many people race around parking lots in their cars because they are in a hurry.”

— Stacey

STORY: HELMET LAW

“The governor should listen to the people that elected him and leave the choice up to the rider and not a government babysitter.”

SMART SOLUTIONS

1 Smooth and sweet garbage disposal

Keep your garbage disposal running smoothly and smelling sweet by grinding six vinegar "ice" cubes for 15 seconds then flush with water. The ice sharpens the blades and dislodges dried food, while the acetic acid in vinegar deodorizes.

2 Life-long pot holder

Spritz your potholders with starch every other time you use them. The starch repels grease, so the potholders stay stain-free.

► Serve some authentic southern-style barbecue this Fourth of July

By Sally Rummel

Before you fire up the grill for the Fourth of July holiday, you might want to take a few tips from the barbecue experts at Beale St. Smokehouse BBQ in Fenton.

Owner Kim Hicks has won a number of awards for her Beale St. Smokehouse BBQ, her restaurant's famous ribs, chicken, pork and brisket. Borrowing the flavors and cooking methods from "Memphis-style" barbecues, she has brought home many national, regional, state and local awards.

The ultimate recycling experience

We Americans are pretty comical. An excellent example is the constant uproar over 'high' gasoline prices.

When prices spike close to $4 a gallon, it's a sure bet that the loony legislators (oops, redundant and repetitive) in Washington will trip all over themselves frantically mounting their soapboxes to demand a government investigation into 'price gouging' by the oil companies. They know that there is no surer way to ensure their snout stays buried in the public trough than to mount a meaningless investigation into those greedy 'big oil' villains.

Meanwhile, consumers across the land will stand at the pumps and curse the cost of gasoline while reminiscing longingly about the 'good old days' when gasoline could be had for around a buck a gallon. Of course, if you were to peek into the front seat of the gas-guzzling SUVs these consumers are filling up, you would most likely see some bottled water in the console — water that they could get for free right from the tap in their kitchen — that cost about the same per gallon as the gasoline they are whining about. You would also likely see a cup of coffee — which is 99 percent water — that cost about $25 per gallon. Or maybe a soda pop or beer that cost well over $10 per gallon.

Truth be told, we conveniently ignore the fact that at $4 per gallon, gasoline is still relatively cheap in America. Here is what a gallon of gasoline cost (in US$) in a few other countries: Norway $8.73, Italy $4.86, Britain $8.38, Japan $3.84, Russia $1.45, Australia $2.63, China $1.48 and Venezuela $0.10.

The reason gasoline is considered expensive in the United States is taxes. In America, most people have no idea how much taxes there are on a gallon of gasoline because it varies so much from state to state. In Michigan, the total tax on each gallon of gasoline sold, including sales, federal and state taxes, is about 56 cents, the sixth highest in the nation. California is the highest at about 66 cents per gallon. Despite my longstanding anti-tax stance, if I were king I would levy an additional national tax of 10 cents per gallon of gasoline to help to rebuild our aging bridges and roads. But, I'm not really a king, and that will never really happen. Any elected official that dared to get behind a sensible proposition such as this would be unceremoniously thrown out on his patriotic but politically suicidal @$$ come next election.

To create a gallon of gasoline means that millions of carbon-based life forms (dinosaurs) must die and decay for millions of years beneath a country inhabited by wild-eyed, unshaven religious fanatics who vehemently hate everyone else in the world. Then, this crude oil has to be found, drilled, pumped, transported, refined and finally trucked to gas stations where it is pumped back into SUVs approximately the same size as the dinosaurs it started out as, thereby completing the most efficient recycling sequence in the universe.

Here is the cost of some other refined liquids that require significantly less time and effort to produce: Lipton Ice Tea costs $10.15 per gallon. Gatorade is $10.17 per gallon. A gallon of Whiteout will put a $25.42 dent in your checkbook. A gallon of Scope cost $44.48. A gallon of Nyquil is $178.13. And a gallon of decent Scotch will set you back about 50 bucks.

Bottom Line — quit whining, America. You are free to buy stock in Exxon any time you wish.

I AM A very giving union employee. I have given 20 percent toward my health care. I pay into my pension, and have not received a raise in the last four years. If Snyder stays in office, very soon I will also be giving my house and tax bill back to the bank. It's not paradise out there for all union workers.

ANYONE INTERESTED IN a job with no accountability should become a meteorologist. It is one of the few jobs that offer such an employment benefit. Think back to how many times our local meteorologists have predicted either snow or thunderstorms for our area and they never materialize. They claim to have accurate weather or pinpoint radar. So much for its effectiveness or their ability to interpret it.

I WATCHED MY grandkids for a day and I have to say, I have a new appreciation for schoolteachers. My grandkids are very young but it takes a lot of energy to keep up, and teachers have a whole classroom of kids.

HERE'S A TIP, go to Google and type in 'Mars bull worm' and it will take you to a site about discovery of life on Mars.

WE'VE GOT CRYBABIES, crying about their neighbors, crybabies crying about fireworks. Sounds like if you tried going out and having some fun, you wouldn't have so much to cry about.

AN AGENCY THAT studies economics rated Michigan 50th in the nation, but if proposed policies can be established, and followed, it could raise Michigan to 25. Stop complaining about Snyder and help him raise Michigan out of the depths.

THE PERSON WHO put the Liberals and Republicans into neat little categories needs to get real. If Liberals were that wonderful, we wouldn't have Edwards, Weiner, and Rangel. Liberal's treatment of the Palin family must be an example of their 'broadmindedness and tolerance.' All the woman did was run for vice president and they still can't let it rest. Great example of bullying for our kids. Both parties have good and bad, but we're all Americans.

I AM DISAPPOINTED in Lakeside Cemetery. It is not being taken care of. Around the head stones, there is high grass. It is very disrespectful for the families that have people buried there.

A COMMENT ABOUT these young boys walking around with their pants hanging down, showing your underwear. You think that you look cool or tough, but truthfully, you look kind of silly.

ONLY THE FENTON City Council could possibly think the lights on Owen Road are coordinated. Having to stop at every light on Owen Road is not coordination. They wasted the $750,000 they, supposedly, got for a grant.

TO WHOEVER WROTE in to say that the brewery doesn't make sense because bride's guests will have nowhere to park is a very small-minded person. Fenton needs new businesses, new jobs, and to grow as a community. It is frustrating to see people knocking the positive addition to our city.

TO ALL OF YOU who continue to bash the teaching profession, I feel so sorry for you. Why didn't you become a teacher if you feel it is a profession with too many benefits and too high of a salary for all the education and endorsements many teachers have obtained? I imagine it is because you wouldn't have lasted a week in the classroom, let alone 30 years.

Bids approved for Streetscape project

►Preliminary services expected to cost DDA up to $66,274

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Fenton — Last year, the Fenton Downtown Development Authority

Summary

►The Fenton Downtown Development Authority (DDA) approved a bid from OHM for an amount not to exceed $59,940 and a bid from LAS for an amount not to exceed $6,334 for preliminary design engineering for the Downtown Streetscape Project.

(DDA) began its conceptual design for the Downtown Streetscape Project, which is expected to enhance the downtown community environment.

Since it began, the DDA has switched providers for the engineering and landscape architecture.

On Monday, the DDA accepted bids from the new providers, Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, Inc. (OHM) and Landscape Architecture Services (LAS) for preliminary design engineering for the project.

City Council has already approved these consultants and has allowed the DDA to begin work on this project. The City Council will ultimately have to approve the project once the concept is completed, according to Michael Burns, assistant city manager and director of the DDA.

Burns told the DDA that topography and soil testing should be done early on, at the conceptual design phase rather than at the engineering phase to reduce costs. It will also assist the Department of Public Works (DPW), landscape architect and engineers as they do their necessary work.

Burns asked OHM and LAS to provide proposals for the necessary work.

OHM provided a proposal for a cost not to exceed $49,970, with an additional $9,970 for geotechnical work. This proposal includes project initiation, topography and revised plans.

LAS provided a range of fees from $4,419 to $6,334 for their services. This work includes compiling the information received from OHM regarding the land surfaces and making the necessary reductions to their conceptual design.

With the DDA's approval, both firms will provide the design committee with their findings at their meeting on Aug. 9.

Craig Schmidt, chair of the DDA said this was an important first step to improve the LeRoy Street and Silver Lake Road area.

Downtown Streetscape and road rehabilitation

Fenton City desires to improve the streets and streetscape elements in the downtown area in order to enhance the downtown community environment. The streets included in the project are:

- Caroline Street, Adelaide Street to South LeRoy Street — mill and overlay
- Elizabeth Street, Oak Street to South LeRoy Street — reconstruct
- Ellen Street, LeRoy Street to Walnut Street — mill and overlay
- Lincoln Street, Silver Lake Road to Roberts Street — mill and overlay
- Mill Street, Adelaide Street to South LeRoy Street — reconstruct
- South LeRoy Street, Elizabeth Street to community center — reconstruct

ASK THE MECHANIC

Chris Wilkinson,
Certified Mechanic

Q: Getting a loud creaky sound, right front end, rotational with the revolution of the wheel, stops when car stops. Makes noise when wheels are straight or turning. Makes the noise in gear or in neutral, as long as the car is in motion you can hear it with the rotation of the tire. Is not related to braking. Brakes were checked and serviced. Louder at slower speeds. It's a creaky, rubber on metal, binding sound. 2000 Grand Prix. Creak, Creak, Creak. Faster as the wheels go faster, slower as the wheels go slower. It does not make this noise all the time. Not the same volume each time. Very loud one day and not so loud the next. Can go several days without hearing it at all. It cannot be duplicated or recreated. It now is making a rattle sound when going over uneven pavement and the steering seems a little loose. — Deeble

A: This sounds like a hub cap or possibly a tire issue but could be a wheel bearing as well, the first thing to try is if the car has a hub cap remove it and see if the noise goes away, also check the air in the tires, I have seen low air pressure cause the tire to make this noise when contacting the wheel, if you do not have any luck you are welcome to bring it by the shop for a look at by one of my mechanics, we have a chassis ear that we can use to aid in finding strange noises while driving.

Property values declining in Fenton Township

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The latest audit from Plante Moran reveals that property values in Fenton Township are declining, but not at a rate that alarms officials.

The township has lost $80,000 for the 2011 fiscal year due to declining property taxes and administration fees. It is projected that an additional $70,000 will be lost in 2012 and another $30,000 in 2013. Overall, the township's taxable value has decreased by 10 percent.

Fenton Township has saved money by reducing staff levels through attrition, increasing technology, reducing paper use, and replacing a full-time building inspector with a contracted employee. Other measures include fewer meetings and shortened Friday hours.

"The properties are declining much less than other areas in the state," Treasurer John Tucker said. "We saw this coming years ago, though, and prepared for it. We did not want to be caught between a rock and a hard place."

Tucker said Fenton Township is doing better than most places in Michigan due to the area's stable demographics and the abundance of lakefront property.

Despite losing taxable property values, the township has seen an increase in state funding. According to the last census, the area population has increased 25 percent.

"The revenue sharing from the state should cover the losses," said Tom Broecker, operations manager and deputy clerk. "It lessens the impact, but property values are certainly still a concern. We just have to stay on top, financially."

The only significant increase in expenditures the township saw was in public works, costing $953 in 2010 as opposed to $181 in 2009. Tucker said the board was pleased overall by the audit, believing the township is on the right track.

"We saw this coming years ago, though, and prepared for it. We did not want to be caught between a rock and a hard place."

SOMEONE KEEPS ASKING what Republicans passed that "benefited the working man." As an educated and seasoned senior citizen, my answer is that the fewer politicians (Democrat or Republican) do for the working man/woman, the better. American's politicians are not the people I want running my life. It is said that if you put politicians in charge of a desert, in five years there will be a shortage of sand.

THIS IS TO the Hot liner complaining about their neighbors. Have you ever thought of talking to them? Instead of hiding behind a Hot line, be a grown up and go have a real discussion with them?

MOST TEACHERS UNDERSTAND a pay-freeze and/or pay cut. What has been proposed is not a cut. It's a downright gouge. Under the current proposal, I stand to lose 28 percent of my take home pay. Over the seven years I have taught, we've gotten a combined total of 5 percent in raises. Thus, it will take me 20 years to get back to where I am now, financially. If this were happening to you, you'd picket too.

SENATE BILL 45 Matt's Safe School Law, if passed, will require school districts to set up an anti-bullying policy. This will protect our children from mental/physical bullying. We need to write our legislatures and let them know how important this bill is and it needs to pass. Please call or write your legislatures.

HOW MANY PEOPLE in Fenton Township feel their sewer usage fee is too high at $255 every three months. If the Genesee County Drain Commission has its way, Section 28 of Fenton Township will have yet another special assessment for sewage levy against their property. Why should we pay for a drain between Pine Lake and Silver Lake to regulate water levels? People need to go to the meeting at Fenton Township Hall on June 28 at 2 p.m. and make your voices heard.

HOW MUCH DID Fenton pay that consulting firm for the Be Closer tagline? That idea about having a contest with the school kids was a good one. You could have offered them $1,000 in a scholarship or something and saved yourselves a ton of money.

I READ THAT Holly Township is up to their old tricks of unloading part of the costs of the money pit known as NOCFA on to village residents by moving about $70,000 of expenses to the general fund. The general fund is paid in large part by village residents from the under-funded special assessment for NOCFA, which should have been increased.

ASK THE APPLIANCE EXPERT

Dishwashing doesn't have to be such a chore, and you don't have to spend eons pre-washing dishes.

Follow these easy tips from Mr. Appliance to keep your dishes sparkly!!

- Scrape the dishes off before putting them in the dishwasher but don't pre-rinse them. Detergent grabs onto the food left on your plate to clean it. Lack of food makes it harder for the detergent to do its job.
- Choose the correct cycle. Shorter is not necessarily better. Once you've chosen the proper cycle don't interrupt it.
- Run the dishwasher empty with a cup of white vinegar to eliminate odors and food residue buildup, which can clog and cause strain.

REPUBLICANS ARE FOR the wealthy, by the wealthy? Well can you point out all the poor Democrats? They both tell you what you want to hear, but behind closed doors, they are buddies. They are probably laughing at us for being so stupid.

TEACHERS ARE UNDERPAID as it is, even with union representation. Republicans seem to think that they should work for free and we give their pay to Wall Street in the form of tax breaks and subsidies. Why don't we end tax breaks and subsidies to balance the budget, instead of destroying unions and taking away Medicare and Social Security? They are both benefits that people have earned through years of hard work.

I WISH THE recent article about keeping kids busy in the summer would have included creative and fun things to do, that are low cost or free. Many of us who have fallen on hard times do not have the good fortune to leave work early several times a week to enjoy boat rides on the lake and take multiple cross-country family vacations. I was surprised that the article was not more sensitive to this.

IN RESPONSE TO how charter schools are outperforming all public schools, you are not comparing apples to apples. Charter schools can choose which students they let into their schools. Being a teacher myself, I have had students who have been asked to leave charter schools because 'they couldn't help them.' I believe this may be the code for 'you won't pass the MEAP.'

I WANT TO thank the person who found my purse in the Target parking lot and turned it in. I am so grateful to you.

hours and raise money to battle cancer. Since its inception in 1985, the cancer fundraiser has raised more than $3 billion for the American Cancer Society and cancer research. According to relayforlife.org, there are more than 4,800 nationwide relays every year.

Former news anchor for Channel 12 and cancer survivor Bill Harris served as the keynote speaker for the event, and drew on the importance of community to battle cancer. "It's human nature to give up but together, we can draw strength. We have to fight back, and we will," Harris said. Harris underwent eight weeks of chemotherapy a year ago and has no signs of cancer, to date. "It's not a matter of if we find the cure — it's when we find it."

After Harris spoke, cancer survivors adorned in purple shirts released balloons and walked in a survivor lap. As a testament that people can overcome cancer, the survivors were met with applause from the crowd.

Relay For Life is more than just a 24-hour walkathon — it's an event that can tie an entire community together. Businesses donated items such as limo rides, signed sports memorabilia and tickets to events for the live and silent auctions. Local organizations, such as Linden Family Medicine, Tim Horton's, Jazzercise and the National Honor Society sponsored relay teams that offered goods and services in order to raise more money for cancer research.

"The actual relay is less important than participating," said Kim King, one of the organizers of the event. King said that it doesn't matter who or how old someone is and that anyone can make a contribution. "Jimmy Appleton, a Linden kindergartner, raised more than $100 by going house-to-house and collecting cans."

Other events through the day included Mr. Relay, where men dressed up as women and dispersed through the crowd, asking for donations. Veterans took part by participating in a veteran's lap. There was a putt-putt golf course and a pie-eating contest at 3 a.m. on Saturday.

Lutz said the event was a success and that donations are still accepted up until August. "Our total goal is to raise $110,000," Lutz said.

Although the event happens every summer, planning takes place year round. Lutz said that interested donors can visit relayforlife.org to find more information on how to make donations and participate in annual Relays.

her case to be bound over to circuit court.

The Deerfield Township, Livingston County, woman is accused of embezzling from her employer, Thompson I.G., located on Thompson Road in Fenton Township.

According to Genesee County Sheriff Robert Pickell, an arrest warrant was authorized for DeSonia, on June 7. She was arraigned and released on bond.

Pickell said through their criminal investigation, detectives believe DeSonia was denied a promotion in 2007. Angry, detectives say she set up another bank account at work and embezzled about $250,000 between 2007 and 2009.

The sheriff said they believe she used the money to purchase five rental homes.

If she is found guilty as charged, DeSonia faces up to 20 years in prison.

As published in the Tri-County

Times in May of 2009, DeSonia was reported missing by her then 15-year-old son on May 23, 2009. At that time, she was last seen at one of her rental homes in Flint.

The Livingston County Sheriff's Department and Flint police investigated the missing person complaint; however, DeSonia and her husband, Richard, appeared in Genesee County Circuit Court on June 22, 2009 as defendants in a civil complaint filed by Thompson I.G.

Livingston County Sheriff Bob Bezotte said DeSonia traveled to Kentucky with her boyfriend when she was reported missing in 2009. After an unrelated incident in Kentucky, police were called. During that investigation, police in Kentucky learned of the missing person alert in Michigan. Bezotte said DeSonia told Kentucky police she left Michigan voluntarily and the alert was subsequently cancelled.

DDA

Michael Burns, assistant city manager and director of the DDA, said New Moon Visions has been providing excellent service and they have been phenomenal for the city. While last year, the marketing and design firm concentrated on marketing Fenton, this year, it will focus more on services.

The DDA will retain the services of New Moon Visions at a monthly fee of $5,000 ($100 per hour), which covers 601 hours of annual work. There are separate costs of about $21,000 for marketing future events, such as this weekend's Art Walk and a tour of vacant buildings. Burns said these additional costs have been budgeted.

Kim Rivera, senior art director for New Moon Visions, said her firm is excited to continue the agreement with Fenton. "We love Fenton," she said.

Craig Schmidt, chairperson of the DDA told Rivera that the Be Closer campaign is working, according to downtown merchants.

Rivera said her firm will continue educating areas outside of Fenton about the possibilities of what they can be closer to by visiting Fenton. The firm will also have Be Closer stickers available for

New Moon Visions events in the planning stage...

• Vacant Building Tour — This bus tour will be an opportunity for new tenants. Vacancies might not be known so New Moon Visions expects this event to bring brokers and potential tenants together with property owners. Refreshments would be provided.

• First Friday Event

— This event would be merchant driven. Organizations would compete for the opportunity to promote their group, by participating in activities such as waiting tables or providing music at downtown businesses. Kim Rivera of New Moon Visions believes this simple concept will bring people downtown and into the businesses.

DDA member Roberta Sweetman said some people confused by the Be Closer campaign just are not finishing the tagline with all of the possibilities. She suggested the Be Closer wording be smaller in print and what is being promoted be in larger print. "We want to use it (Be Closer tagline) for the library," Sweetman said.

Doctor Helps LEGALLY BLIND to Read & Drive!

International Academy of Low Vision Specialists member helps macular degeneration sufferers with reading, driving, TV, & maintaining independence.

By Elena Lombardi, Freelance Writer

Just because you have macular degeneration (or other vision-limiting conditions) doesn't always mean you must give up driving or reading.

Ever look through a pair of field glasses or binoculars? Things look bigger and closer, and easier to see. A Michigan optometrist, Dr. Sheldon Smith, is using miniaturized binoculars or telescopes to help people who have lost vision from macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy or other eye conditions. "Some of my patients consider me the last stop for people who have vision loss", said Dr. Smith, a low vision optometrist who limits his practice to visually impaired patients in his offices throughout Michigan.

Macular Degeneration is the most common eye disease among seniors. The macula is one small part of the entire retina, but it is the most sensitive. When it degenerates, Macular Degeneration leaves a blindspot right in the center of vision making it impossible to recognize faces, read a book, or pass DMV's vision test.

"In some states, Bioptic Telescopic Glasses can be used to pass the vision test for driving", says Dr. Smith. "This can allow some with conditions like macular degeneration or diabetic retinopathy to continue driving".

"Our job is to figure out everything and anything possible to keep a person functioning," says Dr. Smith. "Whether it's driving, reading, TV, seeing faces, check writing, bingo or bridge. We work with whatever is on the persons "wish list".

With interest free payment options this technology is now more affordable than ever. If you want to experience the freedom and independence that custom designed low vision telescope glasses can bring, call Dr. Smith now, for a free telephone consultation.

Bioptic Telescopic Glasses Help Woman to Keep Driving

Ethel Stroope, who suffers from macular degeneration sought help for reading, watching television and movies and for seeing street signs at a distance. Bioptic telescopic glasses were prescribed. "These Glasses have made it very easy for me to continue my activities both at home and on the road with these glasses." I should have done this two years ago, says Ms. Stroope.

The gift of life

► Transplant recipient
befriends donor's family
after organ donation

By William Axford

810-433-6792; axford@tctimes.com

Pamela Powell, of Detroit, knows that every breath she takes is a gift, and she'll never forget it. Powell is an organ recipient of two lungs after undergoing surgery in July 2000. The lungs came from Brad Stone, who died after an asthma attack when he was 12 years old. Brad was a student in the Lake Fenton school district. His organs were donated to the Gift of Life foundation.

"We couldn't have picked a better person for the transplant," said Sharon Stone, Brad's mother and assistant editor for the Tri-County Times. "She's become part of the family."

The Operation

Powell was battling sarcoidosis, a disease that causes organs to swell and can result in scar tissue. Oxygen tanks were her constant companions. Her passion for singing and ability to function dwindled every year. When there was a match for lungs, Powell didn't hesitate to undergo surgery. Doctors told her most transplants die five years after the surgery. She would not be swayed.

The surgery could have easily been a disaster — Powell's left lung had collapsed. Brad's lungs were asthmatic and too big. Powell was unconscious for five days, waiting for the lungs to deflate before they went into her chest.

"I felt stuffed, like I was packed in," Powell said, running her hands over a 2-inch plate in her chest.

Powell's surgery was a success, with the lungs eventually adapting to her chest.

However, Powell would soon discover that surgery brought her more than just fresh air. "I was eating my favorite candy bar, Mr. Goodbar, after the surgery. I couldn't breathe and began to wheeze."

Doctors were baffled that Powell had become allergic to peanuts after the surgery. It wasn't until meeting the Stones that Powell learned that Brad might have been allergic to peanuts.

"The Stones told me that Brad had been a great prankster," Powell said. And as she would continue to find out, "It's just like Brad to make sure that he's still here."

Family

Stone and Powell never met prior to Powell's surgery. They communicated through letters that the Gift of Life would deliver. Powell wrote how Brad was the "wind beneath her wings," since his gift allowed her to perform menial tasks that are taken for granted.

"We knew that we would eventually meet," Stone said, "But the way we did meet was very unplanned."

Powell was invited to sing at a Gift of Life event that the Stones attended. Seeing a picture of Brad during a slideshow, Powell shared her story with the crowd and sang "The Wind Beneath my Wings," which prompted Brad's father, Jeff Stone, to introduce himself to Powell.

"I screamed and I hugged him, hard," Powell said, laughing. "I wouldn't let go. I made a scene."

From then on, Powell has been close to the Stone family, getting involved with charitable events dedicated to Brad's memory and even various family events. Powell sang to Brad's graduating class and stays committed to events that involve Brad.

"I have a picture of him at work. I know he's still there. And I talk about him like he's still here," Powell said.

A great loss transpired into an incredible gain for the Stone family. While nothing can replace their son, the Stones take solace in knowing that he lives on in his donations, improving the lives of others.

"Every time we hug her, we can hear her breathe and know that it's Brad's lungs," Stone said.

"There's a huge need for donations — can you imagine being the person needing an organ? We fully support donating organs."

Powell and her husband David attended the 11th annual Brad Stone Summer Classic on Saturday, which raised more than $12,000 for college scholarships.

teams in the United States and Canada. Hicks' most memorable competitive achievements in 2010 were finishing second in "Pork" against the top 10 teams in the United States, finishing first in "Chicken" and third "Overall," beating the No.1 team in the United States at an event in southern Indiana. "We also earned first place "Brisket" on our home turf at the Midwest BBQ and Blues Throwdown at the Genesee County Fair," added Hicks.

It all starts with the meat

Cultivating their style from authentic southern barbecues, the first secret to Beale Street's award-winning ribs is the selection of the meat that is used. While most home grillers think that baby back ribs are the top cut of grilling meats, Beale Street Chef Tim Johnson always uses St. Louis-style ribs on his smokehouse menu.

"St. Louis-style ribs come with two sides, so they're bigger and meatier than back backs," said Johnson. "Yes, baby back ribs are tender, but if you want a meaty rib, there's no better eating than a St. Louis-style rib."

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Beale Street Smokehouse BBQ Executive Chef Timothy Johnson, of Holly, displays baby-back ribs (left) and St. Louis-style ribs.

Johnson admits to being very "hands-on" when it comes to making ribs, including peeling off the thin film that's on the back of the ribs. "Most places just cook the ribs with this 'skin' on," said Johnson. "But taking it off allows the meat to be very tender."

The rub

The next important ingredient is the rub. "We let the rub work itself into the meat for a full 24 hours before smoking it," he said. "My advice is not to over-rub the meat, though, because you want to be able to taste the meat, not just the flavor of the rub."

Use indirect heat

You'll want to use both dry heat and wet heat when cooking ribs at home, according to Johnson. "First, you'll grill the meat on indirect heat, 'dry heat,' (or at 300 degrees in the oven) for about 2 hours, then 'juice it' (wet heat) by wrapping the ribs in foil, then cooking for another two hours," he added. "If you're cooking them in the oven, you can wrap the whole pan with foil and if you're grilling them, you'll wrap the ribs individually."

"Yes, baby back ribs are tender, but if you want a meaty rib, there's no better eating than a St. Louis-style rib."

Beale St. Smokehouse
BBQ in Fenton

Home grillers can also add orange slices on top of the meat to help juice the meat before wrapping.

Patience, patience, patience

"We smoke our meats for a full four hours," said Johnson. "When I cook ribs at home, I plan on cooking them for a full 3 to 3½ hours."

Let the meat rest

Once the ribs have been cooked, Johnson suggests letting the meat rest for a full half-hour to 45 minutes, so that the juice can expand and cook the meat from the inside out. "If you cut the meat before it has a chance to rest, then all the juices will flow out the meat, along with the flavor," said Johnson.

Don't forget the "sides"

Nothing says "barbecue" like baked beans and potato salad, says Johnson. "Cook smoked beans slowly with thick, peppered bacon," he adds. "There's nothing better than that to go with ribs."

The 88,000 square foot facility with 44 employees is located at 2480 Owen Rd. The event on Wednesday was the culmination of Acument's eight-month effort to convert the former fastener plant it had closed at the peak of the recession in early 2009.

The opening was part of a three-year, $3.4 million investment in its Genesee County operations. Instead of manufacturing fasteners, the revived center now provides processing services to Acument's fastener manufacturing sites in the United States and Mexico, as well as applications engineering support to its customers in the region.

Bob Waligora, director of engineering and George Salah, operations manager, toured the facility with numerous guests and answered questions along the way.

Salah said, "I'm so happy to be here and happy to have Bob (Waligora) as a partner. The engineers said when the doors closed more than two years ago, all of the equipment was removed, except for the heat treatment furnaces." For the past six months, Salah, Waligora and a host of others logged in 12 to 14 hour days to bring the facility back to life.

This grand opening is just the beginning of future growth as the purchase of more equipment and the hiring of more employees is on the horizon. Company officials hope to have as many as 100 employees by year's end.

The two heat treatment furnaces were started up in January and both operate at full capacity to process parts made at the company's fastener plants in Holly and Sterling Heights, as well as other locations in the United States. A zinc electroplating line and its wastewater treatment operation were soon installed, while sorting machines, adhesive patching and straightening equipment were added.

"The opening of Acument's North American Technical and Processing Center in Fenton occurred largely due to the dedicated support we have received from the State of Michigan, the Genesee Regional Chamber of Commerce and the City of Fenton," said Brad Frederick, Acument's chief financial officer.

Frederick told guests that they were excited to consolidate operations under one roof. "We considered consolidating out of Michigan, but Fenton was the ideal choice."

Tim Herman, chief executive officer of the Genesee Regional Chamber of Commerce, said anytime a company can

Man updates Facebook during standoff

Jason Valdez, 36, made six posts on Facebook while holding a woman hostage in a 16-hour overnight standoff with Salt Lake City SWAT officers. An armed Valdez received tips from his friends as to where SWAT officers were hiding and planning. Some of the updates include "I'm currently in a standoff... kinda ugly, but ready for whatever," and "...if I don't make it out of here alive that I'm in a better place and u were all great friends." Valdez claims that the woman with him during the stand off was not a hostage and was with him willingly. Valdez shot himself in the chest once officers entered the room. He was in critical condition as of Tuesday.

create jobs makes for a great day. "This is a day of celebration," he said. "It's a wonderful day."

Herman also said this is another positive step in Acument's expansion plans.

Everyone who attended the grand opening expressed excitement about the future of the company and the positive impact it will have for this area.

Paul Purdy, an engineer from the Holly area, has been with the company at a different location for 23 years. He said, "It's a great plan to have this up and running again."

Steve Flynn, director of member services for the GCRCC, said, "This is good for Fenton, good for Genesee County."

Showing his support was Genesee County Commissioner Joe Graves. He attended the ceremony and tour and believes Acument's growth is a great stimulus for the local economy. "It's good for our workers and the economy."

"It brings jobs here."

Fenton City Councilwoman Cheryl King toured the facility and said, "I'm so glad they're back here. It creates jobs. I'm so pleased."

FIREWORKS

While the store sells every type of firework imaginable, the question is are they legal to use in the state of Michigan?

Legal and illegal fireworks have been an explosive topic for years in Michigan and some state representatives are seeking to reshape firework laws.

Summary

► Firework laws in Michigan are restrictive, outlawing projectiles and a slew of devices that contain nitrates and mercury.

"We have very restrictive firework laws and (fire departments) like that," said Fenton Fire Chief Robert Cairnduff. "The state is currently proposing to legalize most fireworks. We're only going to see more calls and injuries as fireworks become more available, causing a greater chance for kids and people to get hurt."

Michigan HB 4293 aims to repeal current firework laws and allow the sale of bigger explosives. Fireworks containing "nitrates, fulminates, chlorates, oxalates, arsenic, mercury, nitroglycerine, phosphorus, or a compound containing these or other modern explosives" are currently illegal in Michigan. Some legal fireworks are sparklers with less than .0125 pounds of burning portions and those fireworks that cannot be used as a projectile.

Not everyone views Michigan's current firework laws as fair to consumers. Phantom Fireworks Vice President William Weimer views the Michigan laws as outdated and in need of revision.

"Illegal fireworks use is a misdemeanor and is punishable by 90 days in jail or a $500 fine, or both."

Rick Aro

Fenton police chief

"The time has come that these products are safe enough to be legal," said Weimer. "In the last 15 years of testing fireworks, consumer use has almost doubled and the injuries have decreased."

According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), Americans used 213 million pounds of consumer fireworks in 2009. The CPSC reported 8,800 fireworks related injuries, resulting in 4.1 injuries for every 100,000 pounds of fireworks. Weimer said that 30 or 40 percent of those injuries were probably the result of improper handling and not malfunctioning firework products.

"In 2010, The American Fireworks Standards Laboratory tested more than 6 million products and declared 90 percent of them safe," Weimer said. "Most injuries come from misuse. If people followed safety rules, there'd be fewer injuries."

Fenton Police Chief Rick Aro said police would take action against firework users if they were obviously using illegal fireworks. However, finding outlawed explosives is not necessarily the main prerogative of the police on Independence Day. Most arrests result from complaints made by neighbors.

"We typically get calls on bigger fireworks, especially if the device people use leaves the ground or makes a bang," Aro said. "Illegal fireworks use is a misdemeanor and is punishable by 90 days in jail or a $500 fine, or both."

The debate on whether all fireworks should be legal in Michigan should not eclipse safety this Fourth of July. Even legal fireworks can potentially be dangerous.

"Use all fireworks on concrete or a surface that won't burn and spread fire," advised Cairnduff. "If a firework doesn't go off, douse it in water and don't try to re-light it. That's where the majority of injuries come from."

Children should always be supervised by adults when using fireworks, the fire chief added. Cairnduff noted that the city of Fenton puts on a great fireworks display every year, which are handled by professionals, reducing the risk of injury.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES

TIM JAGIELO

Andrew Cleland, of Walled Lake, buys fireworks such as sparklers for his two young children, but plans to shoot off bigger fireworks for the Fourth. "They think it's fun," he said. "I wouldn't do anything dangerous."

NATIONAL NEWS LOUISIANA

Jamarcus Marshall, a 17-year-old high school sophomore in Mansfield, La., believes that no one should be able to tell him how low to wear his jeans. "It's up to the person who's wearing the pants," he said. Mr. Marshall's sagging pants, a style popularized in the early 1990s by hip-hop artists, are becoming a criminal offense in a growing number of communities, including his own. Starting in Louisiana, an intensifying push by lawmakers has determined pants worn low enough to expose underwear poses a threat to the public, and they have enacted indecency ordinances to stop it.

Lake Fenton Sailing Club invites public onto water

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

In the age of technology advancing at breakneck speed and infiltrating most aspects of our lives, the Lake Fenton Sailing Club (LFSC) wants to give the public an opportunity to experience the simplicity and silence of sailing.

On Wednesday, thunderstorms over Lake Fenton cleared up enough for nine sailboats from the LFSC to take members of the public out onto the water, as part of Public Sailing Days.

Gerald Fischer, a member of the LFSC, took his 16-foot catamaran pleasure boat onto the lake for a lighthearted race along with eight other sailboats. The deck of the catamaran is like a trampoline. The forward section is a strong mesh that easily supports a person's weight, and water gurgles past the craft's twin canoe-shaped pontoons. The only other sound

'Tying the knot' has different meaning for boaters

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

To some people, "tying the knot" is a term for getting married. But for area boaters, the phrase takes on a completely new meaning.

Even the most casual boaters should be familiar with basic marine knots, so that the boat stays where it is tied. A boater who does not perfect this skill may end up with a boat that gets loose during the night and drifts away.

Knot tying is known as marlin-spike seamanship — the general knowledge of knots and the care of rope, according to www.boatsafe.com. Whether you are the skipper of a small fishing boat or the pilot of a large craft, you need to know a few basic knots and several marine ones. Even if you aren't a boater, you'll find knot tying to be a helpful skill.

On land, a rope is a rope. But on a boat, it becomes a line.

A line has three parts, a bitter end (the end tied or made fast to the vessel), a working end (the end tied or made

Experts: stock up on old bulbs

"Are you stockpiling incandescent lightbulbs?" said Rick Moran in AmericanThinker.com. "You should." As of January 2012, the traditional 100-watt lightbulbs most of us grew up with will be contraband items in Barack Obama's America, replaced—in a fit of "nanny-state nonsense"—by those dim, corkscrew, "energy-efficient" fluorescent bulbs. The fluorescents are far more expensive, give skin a corpse-like pallor, and contain a trace amount of the toxic element mercury. Should you drop one, the Environmental Protection Agency recommends that you open your windows and leave the room for 10 minutes. The real issue here is freedom, not safety, said The Wall Street Journal in an editorial. Most Americans prefer traditional lightbulbs, which is why they're now engaging in an act of "civil disobedience" by stockpiling them. If the new fluorescents are so superior, "why does the government have to force people to buy them?"

Because fluorescent bulbs last for thousands of hours, they're actually significantly less expensive than the cheap old bulbs, which burn out or break easily. And the law does not "ban" incandescent lightbulbs. Manufacturers are simply required to make new bulbs 25 percent more efficient than the average bulb today. If you insist on an incandescent bulb, all the major lightbulb companies are now making incandescent halogen bulbs that meet efficiency standards, and produce light like that of the classics.

Fergie's fall from grace

►The past year has been particularly bad for Sarah Ferguson, the Duchess of York.

Sarah Ferguson is trying to halt her long fall from grace, said Laura M. Holson in The New York Times. The past year has been particularly bad for the Duchess of York. She was caught trying to sell access to her former husband, Prince Andrew, for $40,000; nearly went bankrupt; and was denied an invitation to the royal wedding of Prince William and Catherine Middleton.

At 51, she's candid about how far she's fallen. Recently, she found herself trying to earn a bit of money by giving a motivational speech at a remote resort in Edmonton, Alberta. "It was a casino in the middle of nowhere," she says. "I got to the tent and, because of the pouring rain, only eight people showed up. I had gone from marrying the queen's son to being in a tent in the middle of nowhere with eight people in the audience. I'd got down to bowling alleys." The wedding snub was a reminder that "the fairy tale," as she calls it, truly is over.

Yet that also means, she says, she is now free to reinvent herself as something more than an ex-royal. "With Catherine going up the aisle, you know what went through my head? I feel like I've handed her the baton and said, 'Well done. And you'll do it right.' I didn't do it right, and now I am going to go get Sarah right."

Wit & WISDOM

"God created man with a penis and a brain, but only gave him enough blood to run one at a time."
Stephen Ambrose, quoted in The Wall Street Journal

"When Congress makes a joke, it's a law, and when they make a law, it's a joke."
Will Rogers, quoted in the New York Post

"The man who can smile when things go wrong has thought of someone else he can blame it on."
Author Robert Bloch, quoted in CalgaryBeacon.com

"Happiness is a perfume you cannot pour on others without getting a few drops on yourself."
Ralph Waldo Emerson, quoted in Forbes.com

NOTED

The suburbs continued growth

Despite all the talk about people moving back to big cities, more than 91 percent of population growth in U.S. metropolitan areas between 2000 and 2010 occurred in suburbs rather than in city cores. Today, more than 60 percent of Americans live in suburbs, and non-whites constitute 27 percent of suburbs' populations.

YOUR SMILE MATTERS!

By: Dr. Steven Sulfaro

ROOT CANAL TREATMENT

In proper dental terminology, a root canal is actually referred to as endodontic treatment, Endo (within), dontic (tooth). The outer enamel and inner dentin layer of the tooth are the hardest substances in the human body. The very middle, inside part of a tooth is hollow. In a normal healthy tooth this hollow space, called the pulp chamber, is filled with living tissue called the dental pulp. The dental pulp is filled with blood vessels, nerve fibers, and various other cells and tissues that comprise the living part of the tooth. The dental pulp is very delicate and fragile and can become injured which often leads to pulpal death, infection, and abscess. The most common cause of pulpal injury is deep dental decay. Extensive dental restorative treatment to the tooth and trauma from an accident can also cause injury to the tooth pulp. And I have seen instances where the tooth pulp has become abscessed and infected for no apparent reason at all; stuff just happens. Signs and symptoms of an abscessed tooth include persistent pain, throbbing, hot and cold sensitivity, swelling and pain to biting pressure. There are also times when a person may be completely unaware a tooth is abscessed because they have no symptoms at all. Once the tooth pulp becomes abscessed and infected, it will never heal. When your tooth has an infected pulp there are only two treatment options. One option is to have the tooth extracted. The other option is to save the tooth through endodontic (root canal) treatment. As I have stressed earlier, endodontic treatment is virtually pain free and should not be feared. It is usually best to save a tooth when possible with root canal treatment.

I welcome your questions and comments.

New fitness studio opens in Holly

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Jamie Ross created her own business, Studio 215 in Holly, out of personal necessity. "I was driving 40 minutes to find fitness classes that would fit my working schedule," she said.

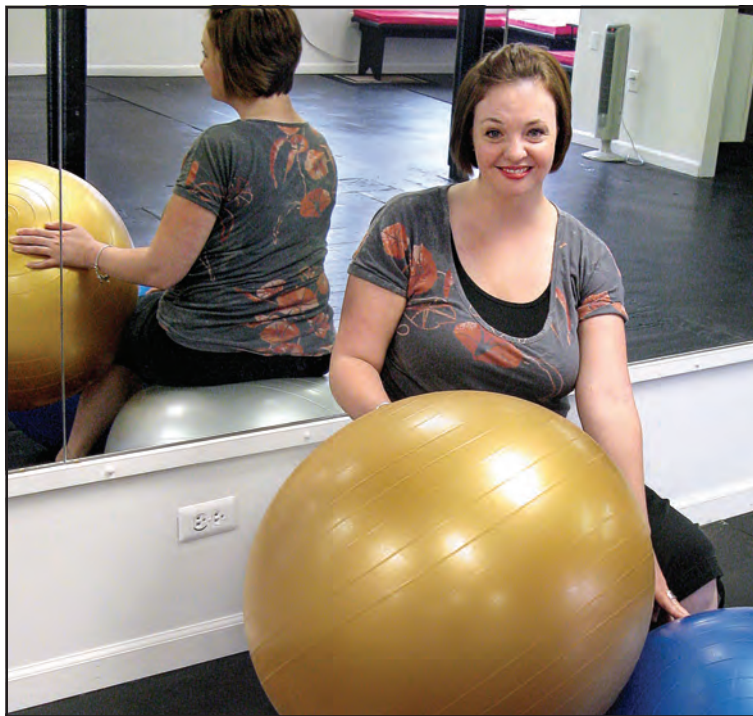

She decided to open a fitness studio in her own hometown, holding her first classes on May 11 at 215 S. Saginaw St. in downtown Holly. "The response has been wonderful," said Ross. "People have definitely seen a need in the community for these classes. Not everyone is motivated to work out by themselves in a gym. I love the structure and accountability of classes, plus it's fun and social."

Ross has brought in seven certified fitness instructors to teach Zumba, Pilates, Turbokick, Bootcamp 101 and more. There's even a class designed for weight loss, called 20/20/20. "Our instructors really go the extra mile in designing classes that meet the needs of our participants," said Jamie. "Many of them also offer personal training."

For less than $1 per day, participants can take advantage of the positive energy and reinforcement of getting fit through Studio 215 classes. A monthly fee entitles a participant to attend unlimited classes, or a person can choose a punch card that gives a large discount from the class drop-in fee. "My goal is that everyone who participates in a class feels good about herself," said Ross. "That's the kind of environment I have worked hard to create."

Fitness classes are on the schedule from Monday through Saturday. For a class schedule and more information, call (248) 837-5057 or visit www.studiotwofifteen.com.

Allure Hair Company celebrates five years in Fenton

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Allure Hair Company first opened its doors in Fenton on June 11, 2006 with a total of 11 hair stylists and nail specialists on staff.

Just five years later, owner Bridget Curtis is proud to have garnered a professional staff of 26 hair stylists and nail specialists, as well as five receptionists — many of whom have been with her from the beginning.

"It's not about me, it's all about the wonderful staff that we have here at Allure," said Curtis, a stylist for more than 20 years. "Everywhere I go, I get compliments about our staff. We have a camaraderie here that provides our clients with a comfortable, relaxing environment when they come in for our services."

Allure Hair Company welcomes men, women and children, and offers hair design, nail and waxing services, while on the cutting edge of all these specialties.

The past five years has not only seen a growth in staff, but also an explosion in new hair design ideas — from hair extensions and feathers to Brazilian Keratin Treatments and more. "Everyone here at Allure has a niche in a specialty area," said Curtis. "We know exactly who to refer clients to when they ask for a particular service."

Allure Hair Company is located at 495 Fenway, Ste. 4, in Fenton. For more information or to make an appointment, call (810) 714-1111.

Encounters of encouragement

The letter I received from a man in Southwest Africa brightened my day. In spite of the violence in his homeland and serious financial problems, he's learned the value of starting each day thankful to be alive, choosing to enjoy the beauty of the morning rather than focus on fears about what may come his way before nightfall. In doing so, this former worrier is following the advice of our Lord who told His followers to live one day at a time (Matthew 6:34).

Millions will spoil today fretting over tomorrow, even though most of their expected tragedies will never take place. No one has information enough about the future to worry intelligently and encouraging encounters with positive people often appear in time to turn our minds from fear to faith, providing we're alert to their arrival.

We stood looking out a lobby window into the work area of a tire store. He was a junior in high school and I, an untold number of years his senior. He was watching workers install new tires on his red S-10 pickup while I waited for them to mount new ones on my 9-year-old black Sable. Seizing the opportunity to share something life changing with him, I simply said: 'Start every day thankful.'

I have no way of knowing what trials my S-10 acquaintance will face in the years ahead but when difficult days arrive, I hope he'll remember our encounter of encouragement when I recommended faith instead of fretting.

Moving from the window on tire trivia to a glass door showcasing a sunny spring day, I found myself standing beside a 39-something man wearing a frown.

'Great day!' I exclaimed, trying to brighten his mood.

'About time!' he growled, clinging to the gloomy cold week preceding our meeting.

'I'm the author of a book in which I open one of the chapters saying if you can rise each morning not being down about money or the weather you're on your way to a good day,' I told him.

'I'm down about both,' he replied.

'Give me your address and I'll send you the book,' I offered. Scribbling his address on a sheet from a small notepad and handing it to me may have been one of the most important acts of his life.

After leaving the tire store, I stopped for gas and a newspaper, unaware that inside the station, awaited one of the strangest experiences of my life.

'What year did you graduate from high school,' asked a fellow customer. And, to my surprise, when I gave my answer he burst into a series of hit songs from that era. But after the songs came a note of sadness, revealing a need of the singer and letting me know this was another encounter of encouragement.

No matter how badly things look today, expect God to come through for you. Doubt your doubts and believe your beliefs.

Join my Southwest Africa correspondent and me as we start each day thanking God that we can bask in the basic blessings of the moment. And keep watching for encounters of encouragement to brighten every cloudy day.

Chamber joins in Relay for Life

The Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce staff is very proud to have participated, for the first time, in the Relay for Life event. With a team of five and generous donations from family, friends and chamber members, the Fenton Chamber Connection Team exceeded their $1,000 goal. "We formed our team late in the process, and we were still able to raise over $1,300 as a team, said

Chamber membership campaign brings in 95 new members

► Two members win gift package for bringing in 24 members

It's obvious that two local business owners believe strongly in the benefits of membership in the Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce.

Greg Adams, owner of Freeway Sports Center in Fenton, and Denise Penwell, CMT/owner of Essential Balance Massage Therapy in Fenton, each brought in 12 new chamber members in a membership campaign held April 26-28 through Chamber Development Services, Inc.

The campaign consisted of a telephone canvass held at Premier Sports in Fenton, "networking" with business people who volunteers felt would benefit well from chamber membership. Adams and Penwell each won a gift package which included a weekend's use of a brand new Cadillac from LaFontaine Automotive Group in Highland.

The membership campaign brought in 95 new members, bringing the total Fenton Regional Chamber membership to 480, according to Shelly Day, executive director. Coordinating the campaign locally was Chamber Membership Director Rochelle Jones.

Fenton regional Chamber partners with Fenton Freedom Festival committee

The Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce is a proud partner to the Fenton Freedom Festival Committee. Once again, the chamber is assisting the Freedom Festival committee with registration for the annual Fourth of July Parade. Parade registration is available online at www.fentonchamber.com or you can stop by the office at 114 N. Leroy St. between 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline to register for the parade is June 28.

Crafter spots are still available for the festival. For more information, contact Mary Ferrier at 629-8698.

Please note, due to road construction, the parade route has changed this year. See page 7 of the special section "Good Ole Summertime" for the new route, a schedule of events, and sponsors.

From the President

By Shelly Day

The President's Perspective:

The theme, "More Than Just Golf" rang true again this year at the Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce Golf Scramble. We owe a very special thanks to Chris White, manager of Fenton Farms Golf Club, and his staff for hosting an excellent event on June 3. The weather was perfect, the field was full (148 golfers), and more than 25 volunteers were manning a variety of contests on the course.

To kick off the event, a bagpiper welcomed golfers as they checked their bags. While enjoying breakfast, sponsored by Panera Bread, golfers watched in anticipation as two business representatives chosen from a drawing got a chance to sink a putt for $2,500. Following that excitement, another golfer was drawn and given the opportunity to win $5,000 for a hole-in-one. Then, it was time for everyone to golf, but prior to the shotgun start, a barbershop quartet sang the Star Spangled Banner. Halfway through the day, each golfer and volunteer was delivered a complimentary lunch provided by Lunch Sponsor Tropical Smoothie Café, of Fenton.

At approximately 4 p.m., the golfers networked in the clubhouse and enjoyed a dinner provided by Bangkok Peppers Too, Canadian Steak, Fish & Sandwich Company, Fenton Farms Golf Club, Legends Sports Café, Mancino's of Fenton, Navistarz Bar & Grill and The French Laundry.

The event would not have been a success without the support of our sponsors and the committees.

experience a "total culinary experience" in the heart of downtown Fenton. Some of the participants already committed are VG's Grocery, Jett's Pizza, Beale St. Smokehouse BBQ, and The French Laundry, just to name a few.

This year the event is back on grounds of the Fenton Community & Cultural Center. It will be held the same day and location as the Fenton Kiwanis "Art at the Center."

Events back by popular demand include: a Chair Auction ("hand painted" decorative chairs by a local artist), Kids Zone (inflatables and children's games), sponsored by Valley Tent Rental, Talmar Bank & Trust and The Flint Journal; two bands ("Too Much Fun" and "Mike Espée Blues"), sponsored by Fenton Home Furnishings; 5k race and kids water games sponsored by the Fenton Fire Department; Root beer floats, sponsored by Financial Plus Federal Credit Union; Ale, sponsored by Fenton Winery and Brewery, and Wine, sponsored by Tremaine Real Estate.

New this year is a nine-hole putt putt golf course, sponsored by Funtastic Inflatable's; live demonstrations from the Lake Fenton High School Robotics Team, and Mojito Wine Coolers, sponsored by Creative Foam Corporation.

"This event gives area residents an opportunity to taste food from numerous restaurants in our area in one venue," said Shelly Day, president of the Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce. "This event draws more than 4,000 people and we expect to have a great turnout this year, especially in light of gas prices and people looking for events to attend closer to home", she added. "Advance ticket prices this year are $12 for 10 individual taste coupons. As in the past, the chamber will again give a portion of the ticket proceeds back to the participating restaurants."

Tickets are available on-line at www.fentonchamber.com/taste for the advance price of $12. They are also available for purchase at the chamber office at 114 N. Leroy Street, Fenton. Additional ticket locations include The State Bank in Fenton and Linden, VG's food centers in Fenton, Financial Plus Federal Credit Union in Fenton, The French Laundry and Beale Street Smokehouse restaurants. Ticket prices the day of the event are $15 (10 taste coupons).

This event is organized for you by The Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce, "Where Community and Commerce Connect."

Five basic knots every boater should know

SOURCE: WWW.BOATSAFE.COM

Cleat Hitch

This knot is used to secure the boat to a dock or secure a line to the boat. Take the line to the ear of the cleat farthest from where the line comes from (the load). Take one wrap around the base of the cleat and then start a figure eight across the top of the opposite ear. Finish with a half hitch turned under so that the line is coming away from the cleat in the opposite direction from which it came in.

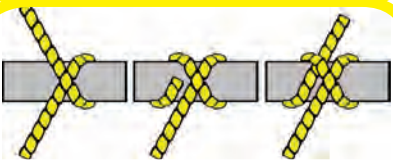

Bowline

Called the "king" of knots, the bowline is very versatile. It is used to form a temporary loop in a line, which can then be put over a piling or cleat. It can also be used to attach a line to an eye. This knot won't slip or jam.

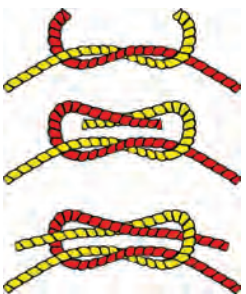

Round turn and two half hitches

Used to permanently tie to a piling, mooring or ring. Simply take a full turn around the object being tied to and take two half hitches around the line itself, over and up, through and under, and down through.

Clove Hitch

Used to temporarily tie to a piling, this knot can come loose. You may add a couple of half hitches as above to make it more permanent. This knot is simply two loops with an end tucked under.

Square knot (reef knot)

Simple to make, the square knot is used for lots of light duty, including tying things down. Start with an overhand knot as if you were beginning to tie your shoe. Keeping the ends of the lines in your hand on the same side, cross them again and tie another overhand knot. If you don't keep them on the same side, you'll end up with a granny knot, which will jam.

SAILING

on the lake is the billowing of a large sail from another boat.

Across from Fischer and leaning against the boat's rail is Patty McGrath, of Flint, one of the 80 people that signed up for public sailing. McGrath wants to learn the basics because her boyfriend has a sailboat. "It's fun, really," she said. "It's beautiful, it's quiet."

Using sail power instead of a motor requires the captain, who is called the "skipper," to use the wind for power, and the rudder behind the boat for direction. Wind changes force the skipper to react, and not reacting could lead to the boat blowing over with an unpredicted "puff" of wind. "You have to be much more responsive to things around you," said Fischer. "You have to compromise with the wind to get to your destination."

According to Fischer, the main difference between sailing and using a motorboat is problem solving. The wind itself is always a surprise, an element that has to be carefully tended and watched. "The wind has a mind of its own and you can't change it," he said.

On a motorboat, the skipper can choose which direction to take the boat, and even sail straight upwind if he or she wants to. Fischer said a motor boat is more predictable. "In sailing, there are many, many more variables involved."

On a boat, ropes are called "lines." Fischer asks McGrath to switch the front sail, the "jib," every so often by tightening or loosening lines that let the mast catch wind. At the same time, Fischer switches the boat's 30-foot mast.

The zigzag pattern that sailboats take when sailing into the wind is called a "tack," and he does several to get around the second marker of the race. "That was a good maneuver, that was a great maneuver," Fischer said as the craft picked up speed.

Fischer said it is important to stay focused and not get distracted while sailing. "Keep in mind the very evasive nature of the wind," he said.

While chatting with McGrath, the boat seemed to coast to a stop. He switched the sail and jib in response, and turns the boat with the craft's rudder to find the wind. With pleasure sailing, the pace is slower, but reacting to the wind is still necessary.

Public Sailing Days with the Lake Fenton Sailing Club attracted 80 registrations over four open days.

"The wind has a mind of its own and you can't change it."

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Patty McGrath, of Flint, assists Skipper Gerald Fischer, of West Bloomfield, in maneuvering Fischer's 16-foot sailboat while sailing on Lake Fenton Wednesday evening.

Sailing on big lakes and oceans is different from sailing on a smaller inland lake like Lake Fenton. Fischer said objects such buildings and trees can change the wind patterns and make them even more unpredictable. "It can be a difference between faster or slower, or going directly to a goal, or taking tacks," he said.

After the second marker, Fischer decided to turn back to shore, as deep purple clouds threatened the sky. After docking, he spent about 20 minutes de-rigging the catamaran, rolling up and covering the jib and the main sail.

From the public sailing days, Fischer hopes new sailors learn an appreciation for the art of sailing and an appreciation for nature.

"This is a good reminder that there are certain things we're not in control of," he said. On a sailboat, there can be no phones or music — just the water and the sails and the wind.

Tips for sailing

- Wear a life vest, no matter how experienced you are.
- Be focused and aware of what's going on, on a boat. Sailing is about reacting.
- Watch out for the boom, the heavy piece that swings parallel with the deck, and secures the mast. It can swing unpredictably at times.
- Listen to the skipper. The skipper plans the moves of the boat and will keep you informed.

fast to the dock or other things), and a standing part (the section between the bitter end and the working end).

In general, a knot is a term for securing a line to an object, another line or to itself. A good knot is easy to tie and untie, and will not slip under extreme amounts of tension.

Every boater should know five basic knots. These knots are designed to be easy to tie, take a tremendous amount of strain and are easy to untie. A person should practice these knots until he or she can tie them without thinking about it.

Speaking of knots

The knot is a unit of speed equal to one nautical mile (which is defined as 1.852 km) per hour, approximately 1.151 mph. Worldwide, the knot is used in meteorology, and in maritime and air navigation. The term knot derives from counting the number of knots that unspooled from the reel of a chip log in a specific time.

Area diamond players enjoy all-star game experience

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Flint — It's always nice to get that one final game in.

And for four tri-county baseball players and five area softball players, they got that chance came on Monday during the Bruin Classic Softball and Baseball All-Star Games held at Flint's Whaley Park.

The games pit some of the best senior players in the Flint area in both sports, and the tri-county squads had quality representation.

Lake Fenton had the most.

On the softball diamond, Allie Newman, Alex Wilkinson and Alyssa McCoy played, while Lake Fenton coach Amos Rinks was one of three coaches. They all played for the Gold Team. Meanwhile, Linden coach Gordon Jamison was one of three mentors for the Black Team and he was able to coach two of his senior players — Katie Berlin and Olivia Williams.

On the baseball diamond, each area school had representation. They were Fenton's David Lenzi, Holly's Matt Beckner Linden's Tyler Castro and Lake Fenton's Spencer Quick.

Perhaps the biggest contribution by any area athlete in either victory came from Lenzi.

Lenzi tossed three innings of ball in the 9-3 Gold Team victory against the Black squad. He pitched a shutout ninth inning, albeit with some drama. The bases were loaded, but Lenzi posted two strike outs and a ground out to himself, making sure his squad won the game.

"It was great," Lenzi said. "I play on a travel team with some of the kids on the other team, and I've known them since kindergarten, so this was great."

"This was good because in the Metro you see a different level of talent. This is closer to what I am going to see in college, so it was nice."

Wednesday races remain a hit with families

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com

Linden — Ice cream socials are nice, but running ranks a little higher when it comes to the Canada family.

Kreston and Pam Canada were one family that has taken advantage of the Wednesday Night Races, an event that takes place at Linden County Park, when looking for a good family activity.

The Fenton family showed up on Wednesday, with three of their five children running in races.

"It's nice to get out with the community and see the other kids that are here, their friends from school," Kreston Canada said. "Especially during the summertime, they don't get to see them as much, so they get to see them at least one time a week."

"It's also about being in shape. It's something healthy to do. Instead of an ice cream social, it's something for fitness that they want to do."

The Canada family has been loyal participants at the Wednesday Night Races for three years now. So far this season, two of the six planned races have been completed. The event continues every Wednesday, starting at 6:30 p.m., at Linden County Park through July 20. There are age-specific races for children, and open two-mile and three-

8U baseball team wins four tournaments

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com

In baseball, the grand slam home run is the dream hit of any player.

If there is a team grand slam, it may be winning four straight tournaments.

And that's exactly what the Fenton Tigers Travel 8U Baseball team has done this spring and summer. They've played in four tournaments, and won every single one.

The most recent championship was the Frankenmuth Tournament last weekend. While the team had high hopes when the squad was created, even the coaching staff admits they didn't expect this type of success.

"This was a team that accepted all seven of the original boys that tried out for the team in August," said co-coach Troy Richert. "We continued to add boys that showed skill and interest as the core team practiced through the fall and winter months until the roster was filled at 12 boys. The attributes the coaches looked for were toughness and fearlessness."

The team has proven to be just that. They opened the season by winning the New Lothrop Spring Tournament, defeating tourney hosts New Lothrop in the championship game 17-5. Their next tournament was the Hartland Young Guns Tournament, beating Saline 3-2 in the finals. In early June, the Tigers won the Clio Home Run Bash Tournament, defeating the hosts 12-6 in the title game.

"They are fearless and mentally tough, those are the words that best characterize the team and why they have been so successful," Richert said. "This is a group of boys that are willing to get in front of hard-hit balls, make acrobatic catches and face tough pitching without letting fear or anxiety interfere with the execution of the techniques and skills the coaches have been teaching them since the team formed last fall."

The team includes Eli Welch, Mason

Yoder, Jordan Azzopardi, Alec Zerna, Caden Duryea, Jayce Weaver, Connor Luck, Luke Bruz, Travis Richert, Zach Hemsall and Mason Brown. The coaches are Troy Richert, Chris Hemsall, Joe Bruz, Dan Yoder and Bill Welch.

The team practiced through the winter at Premier Baseball, and were aided by pitching instructor Brandon Reed and hitting instructor Riechl Maye. But it hasn't been only baseball. They have gone to water parks, had picnics, and celebrated team members' birthdays.

"The boys have been working very hard nearly year around for the past 10 months, but they have also had a lot of fun together," Richert said.

The team has three more tournaments remaining this summer, with the final being the End of Summer Tournament in Cadillac on July 24.

"It's a realistic goal that they should be very competitive in each of them," Richert said.

McAllister wins playoff at jr. golf outing at Tyrone Hills

By Cole Holloway

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Tyrone Twp. — The second stop on the Livingston Junior Golf Tour was held at Tyrone Hills Golf Course Tuesday morning.

Hartland's Chris McAllister was able to come away with the victory in the 15-18 year old division as he shot an 83 edging out fellow Hartland student Jacob Larsen in a playoff.

The matching 83's led to a playoff between the two golfers which took place on the 336-yard first hole.

"The playoff went a little rough," admitted McAllister. "We both struggled a little but I was able to get my bogey and come away with the victory."

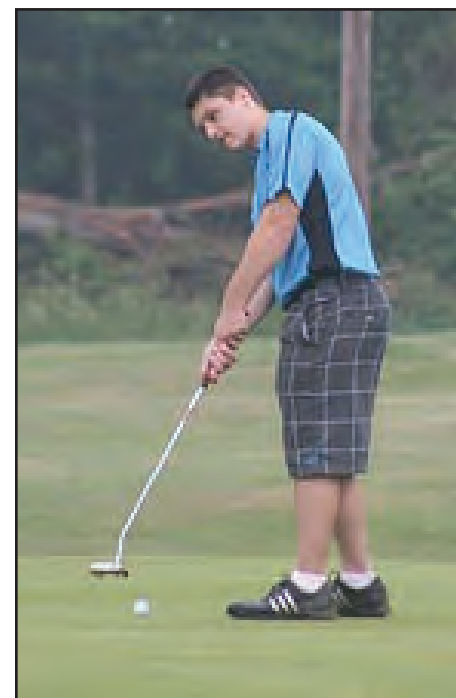

McAllister seemed happy with his overall play after the round.

"I putted really well today," McAllister said. "I've played a few tournaments already this year and it's great to finally to get a win out here."

Bryce Messner, also of Hartland, was able to take the 12-14 year old division, carding a solid 81. Following him was Beau Breault with an 82 to take second place in the division.

In the nine hole division, Konlan Paul took the title, shooting a 42.

The event is the second of 11 stops that the tour will make this summer. The next event is at Hartland Glen Golf Course on Canada said. "Last time I did the half-mile. (This time I did the two-mile) because my dad talked me into it. I'm glad he did."

Races begin at 6:45 p.m. for the youngest runners, followed by the one-mile kids race at 7 p.m. The two-mile open race is new this year and seems to be relatively popular. It begins at 7:15 p.m. Finally, the traditional three-mile open race begins at 7:40 p.m. And, as always, ribbons are given to the top three participants in each race in each age group. And because there are so many different age groups for each sex and such a variety of races, there's a pretty good chance if one runs, they'll leave with a top-three performance.

"It's very well organized and very well put together," Pam Canada said.

Times are kept in each race and posted after the event is completed, meaning participants can track their progress from week-to-week. In past seasons, it seemed the event was more of a winner for the younger age groups, but this season there's been a reasonable number of adults running in both the two-mile and three-mile races. The course is run through the park. The cost is $2 a person or $5 for a family.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | DAVID TROPPENS

Madison Canada (front) and Lauren Johnson run during the two-mile race at the Wednesday Night Races. Canada, 7, was the youngest two-mile runner, finishing the race in 20:57. There will be races at Linden County Park every Wednesday through July 20.

Pets grieve, too

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: We had two dogs for the past six years. We just lost "Sassy" two days ago. Our remaining dog, "Barry," is so sad. How can we help him? He barely eats, and he just lays around not showing interest in anything. I realize it is soon after losing his best friend, but is this normal? We are sad also, but want to help him if we can. -- Norma in Ohio

DEAR NORMA: It's very normal for a dog to grieve for a lost companion, and Barry is showing all the signs of deep grief: loss of appetite, depression, lack of interest in things that normally stimulate him. In a few days, he may begin pacing around the house, searching for something -- another common behavior, particularly after a dog loses a companion animal like Sassy.

Be supportive of Barry over the next few months. Give him lots of love and attention. However, don't break his training routine or feeding routine, nor allow him to do things he normally wouldn't be allowed to do, like climb on the furniture. He needs structure as well as support.

When Barry searches the house for her, call him over and give him a blanket or toy that Sassy liked to use and that still has her scent. Sometimes an item that reminds a pet of a lost companion is comforting. Other times the pet will reject the item -- don't scold or force it on him.

How long will Barry grieve? Like humans, there's no set time. Some dogs return to their old selves from two to six weeks after a loss; others take many months. And some always retain some sign that they still miss their old friend, years down the road.

On Facebook, breaking up is hard to do

DEAR AMY: More than seven months have passed since my boyfriend of almost a year and I broke up. Since that time he has dated two other women. He has been with his current girlfriend for several months. I'm also seeing someone. I understand a certain amount of trash talking occurs after a breakup, but I feel he's been inappropriate and I'm not sure how to handle the situation. I've left him alone and have refrained from airing what I disliked about our relationship to the general public. He, on the other hand, has talked to my boyfriend about why he shouldn't date me and recently publicly bashed me on his Facebook page. This includes calling me a "constant embarrassment," mentioning a much-regretted trip to the hospital due to an alcohol overdose (which is highly personal and happened a long time ago). He is publicly exaggerating events from my past. I sent him a cordial message expressing how this post has hurt my feelings and is inappropriate, and he hasn't responded or taken action to delete this very public post. What should I do?

Amy Dickinson

Ask Amy

— Facebooked

DEAR FACEBOOKED: I shared your query with Nicky Colaco, a representative of Facebook, who noted that Facebook's terms of service specify that users should not post offensive or malicious content. "The goal of these policies is to strike a very delicate balance between giving people the freedom to express their opinions and viewpoints — even those that may be controversial to some — and respecting the rights and feelings of others," Colaco wrote. "We encourage people to let us know when they see something they think might violate our standards. Our team of investigators reviews and takes action on reported content according to our policies." Your boyfriend's postings qualify as malicious, at least in my view, because the intent is to personally disparage you. You can report this by clicking the "Report" button on the Facebook page. You can also distance yourself by blocking him on Facebook. Otherwise you should not publicly comment on or have any contact with your ex. His actions constitute an aggressive and obvious statement about the kind of person he is. I'd say the "constant embarrassment" he's feeling is self-generated.

DEAR AMY: I just returned from a regular lunch spot in town. It is a nice, casual and comfortable place that seats maybe 60 people. When I arrived, I was seated two tables away from a woman who had doused herself in strong perfume. I moved three tables away and it was no better. Finally I spotted an opening four tables from her and took it. I choked down my lunch quickly and left — sick from her smell. Should restaurant owners address this issue? Is it ever appropriate for a patron to approach the offender? — Distressed Diner

DEAR DISTRESSED:

The restaurant's job is to try to make all of the diners comfortable, and the establishment did this by letting you hopscotch from table to table. However, despite your best efforts, when you are navigating in the world you will occasionally encounter people who impede your enjoyment. If your fellow diner asked you why you were choking — or changing your table — you could have said, "I seem to be allergic to your perfume." Otherwise, no, it is not appropriate to approach another patron and say, "Your scent makes me sick."

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your
good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have the dry type of macular degeneration. I take PreserVision with lutein tablets twice a day. I hear lutein is very good for my eyes, and I would like to take more than the 10 mg a day that I get in my tablets. I don't know how much is safe. Will macular degeneration leave me completely blind? How long before I cannot see anymore? -- C.B.

ANSWER: The macula is a small, round area in the center of the retina, the layer at the back of the eye that transmits incoming images to the brain so we can see. The macula is essential for clear, central vision, the kind needed to read, to drive and to recognize faces. Off-to-the-side vision remains. You won't go completely blind. Dry macular degeneration most often advances gradually. It's the more common variety. It can stay at its present level for years, even for life. Wet macular degeneration comes about from the growth of blood vessels beneath the retina. Those vessels are fragile and leak fluid. It tends to advance more rapidly. Currently no cure exists for dry macular degeneration. A combination of vitamin C, vitamin E, beta carotene (or vitamin A), zinc and copper appears to slow moderate macular degeneration's progression to a more advanced stage. Your PreserVision is one such preparation. Lutein is a plant product that might aid in delaying the advance of dry macular degeneration. Lutein appears to be a very safe substance, but I would stick with the 10 mg dose.
