Adopt-A-Pet ensures pets find a safe, loving home

By William Axford

Ann Haney of Grand Blanc Township wasn’t looking for a new dog when she walked into Adopt-A-Pet of Fenton Township. But when Missy locked eyes with Haney, she knew she had to take her home.

“I’m the best of the places to get a dog. They are healthy when you get them and they make sure the dogs is with the right family.”

How to adopt

Director Jody Maddock said Adopt-A-Pet looks for people who are genuinely interested in adoption and display the ability to take care of them. “When we talk to people about adoption, it sounds like conversation but really we’re fact seeking,” Maddock said.

People who show that they understand the responsibility of adopting, including financial and emotional commitments, are more likely to be approved for adoption. Adopt-A-Pet also checks the environment the pet is going into and reviews rental agreements.

City moves forward in $1.6 million community center project

By Ryan Tackabury

Fenton — On Monday the Fenton City Council agreed to amend its contract with Lindhout and Associates to provide architectural services for the community center renovations and expansion. The original contract paid Lindhout 8 percent of contract costs, which came out to $43,360. The contract amendment came after a decision to renovate the existing building in addition to the construction of an expansion. With additional costs, Lindhout will receive $133,346, which is still 8 percent of the now $1.6 million total for the community center project.

The payment will come from the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), and no amendments to the budget are required.

“I think this has been a long-awaited first step toward eventual renovation and cultural center addition,” Councilwoman Patricia Lockwood said. “It is a good project for the city and a good project for the DDA.”

Parenting

School elective gives taste of world’s toughest job

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

The infants in teacher Teri Chambers’ parenting class at Holly High School aren’t real, but they do raise real anxiety, and teach real lessons to the students.

On Thursday, Chambers activated four high tech infant simulators that don’t move, but they do make a lot of noise.

Chambers remotely activated them one by one in her class, and they came to life with a bleep, and made a contented “cooing” sound. An “aww” rippled through the class — until the babies started crying.

Suddenly, Sarah Wilson, 16, had to figure out what the doll, named “Ava,” wanted. It would not stop crying until she did. This is only a demonstration. This semester, she’ll take one of these pieces of technology home for three entire days. “I think it’s going to be horrifying,” she said. “I’ll lose sleep, and I like my sleep.”

These students are about to embark upon the second, more advanced trimester of this elective. “We call it ‘parenting’ because it teaches them how to ‘be a parent,’” said Nikki Bouchard Holly High School student.

“They cry, they stare at you, I saw ‘Chucky’ at a young age and it ruined everything for me.”

SMART SOLUTIONS

Provide Fido with hours of fun

Let’s face it — your dog is part of the reason your garden hose needs to be retired. To give your new hose a fighting chance, make Fido this toy: Cut a 15-inch length from the old hose, then push the tube over a 4- to 5-inch long stick. Wrap the hose’s free end around and push it onto the opposite end of the stick to form an O. The nontoxic rubber will safely satisfy your furry pal’s chewing habit. Just be sure to toss the toy when the hose starts to tatter to prevent your pup from swallowing any errant scraps.

Unstick a stubborn zipper in seconds

I scored a gorgeous woven handbag on sale a few months ago and have been using it nonstop ever since — so I was upset to find the zipper stubbornly stuck. I was upset to find the zipper stubbornly stuck. Luckily, my friend knew a remedy. Just lightly rub a candle along the teeth on both sides of the zipper. The wax will lubricate the metal just enough to get the zipper moving again without damaging the bag’s fabric.

Alternative tanning options growing in popularity

Spray tans, OTC tanning products offer safe, quick results

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If you want a truly “safe” tan in time for spring break and warmer weather, your best bet may be found at an indoor tanning salon — using their spray tan booth.

With more than 28 million Americans using indoor tanning salons, tanning is a big business, bringing in more than $5 billion in revenues. With concerns about health risks and more stringent regulation of the industry, alternate tanning methods, including salon spray tans, over-the-counter tanning sprays and tanning towels, are gaining in popularity.

Our choices dictate our future

Why is it that all around us we see communities that are struggling with layoffs, fund shortages, failing schools and rising crime rates, yet our communities are safe, strong, vibrant, and even growing?

The answer is easy — it’s the choices made by you and me, the residents of our communities.

Every municipal study ever done cites three elements as absolutely critical to healthy communities:

1) Strong school systems with sound infrastructures and solid leadership.
2) A vibrant and growing retail base.
3) A quality hometown newspaper. Where do we stand?

Our area school systems are simply the best — by any measurement. They are state-of-the-art facilities with involved parents and dedicated staffs. When a millage is truly needed, we — the residents — step up to the plate and pass them. A premium school system is the primary component of any strong community.

Unlike many other communities whose businesses are struggling, our retail base is thriving because our residents have chosen to embrace a Shop Local! mentality, knowing that shopping local ensures a strong tax base that supports premium schools, exceptional police, fire and emergency services, and stable housing values. Supporting local businesses is critical to continued stability and growth.

The third component of this critical three-legged success-stool is your local newspaper, the Times. The impact of a strong hometown newspaper on our communities cannot be overstated.

The Times aggressively supports the showcase facilities that are the cornerstone of all four area school districts today.

The unions initiated, and funded, the ’Shop Local’ campaign that was created with the singular goal of educating our citizens as to the innumerable benefits to themselves and their communities when we spend our dollars locally.

The Times is our community watchdog via its presence at municipal meetings in every city, village and township in their circulation area. They go to the meetings so we don’t have to.

The local news that they compile, compose, print and deliver to your doorstep each week has an enormous impact on every facet of our communities, our families and our lives.

Your support of your hometown newspaper has helped to make the Times one of the most respected and successful weekly newspapers in the state. It’s a win-win for all involved.

Remember that we, the residents, are the community, not the buildings, roads or government. The choices we make — whether it’s supporting schools, shopping local or supporting your local newspaper — will dictate our future. We control our own destiny through our choices.

Support our schools, support a ’Shop Local’ mentality, and support your hometown newspaper that supports you.

High gas prices

Mr. Childs, your comment about Obama not being responsible for the high gas prices is wrong. He and his administration are directly responsible.

OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) sets oil prices based on the U.S. dollar. Oil is traded in that currency as well. As our currency is devalued, the price of oil goes up. We have had at least two Quantitative Easing’s devaluing our dollar by 16 percent. A third is most likely on the way. Obama and his energy secretary want gas to be at $5 or higher so as to shove his green energy program down America’s throat and to force the American people to buy Government Motors electric junk. Now we subsidize the Volt to the tune of $10,000. The people who are most likely to buy the Volt do not need any subsidies.

Holly Village could see small debt service relief

Additional 500 new customers could reduce quarterly fee by $5.66

By Tim Jagielo

Holly — Customers of the village water and sewer service are very likely getting a little bit of a break on their late April bill.

During the village council meeting on Tuesday, Manager Jerry Walker said that a $5.66 reduction in the sewer and water debt service fee will be proposed to the council at the next meeting.

Currently, all individual premises are charged a flat $48.30 fee to cover the bond debt owed by the village for upgrades and facilities. As early as April, that payment could drop to $42.64.

The adjustment is coming from an additional 500 parcels being added to the customer list, primarily from the Holly Woodlands and Presbyterian Village manufactured home communities that were being charged one fee per community, instead of each individual home.

Brian Klaasen and Jerry Flewelling of The Department of Public Works (DPW) are auditing customers, and expect to have more than 500 within another week. “They need to do physical inspection inside of premises,” said Walker. “They are in the process of doing that.”

Walker said the customers he spoke with who are being added to the rolls weren’t thrilled with the fee, but understood its purpose. “It is very probable we will find customers throughout the year,” he said.

Walker said a resolution will be prepared with a more accurate number of recently added customers, to reduce the overall sewer rate and water debt service fee. “Which is exactly what council said it would do,” he said.

When the quarterly service fee was first set in May 2011, Walker made it clear that the village would revisit the fees on a regular basis, and lower the rate if possible.

“That is what you have an opportunity to do at the next meeting,” said Walker. Rates were initially set to go up to more than $50 in July, but could instead drop by $5.66.

The village currently pays $1.7 million annually for bond debt service. This was, and still is, a topic of ire among residents who feel that they already paid too much in sewer and water fees.

Summary

The Village Council will likely be able to lower the quarterly sewer and water bond debt service fee by $5.66 by a resolution at the next meeting, because of at least 500 customers being added.

“It is very probable we will find customers throughout the year.”

Fire chief urges caution as wildfire season returns

Chipping is safer than burning last year’s vegetation

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Wildfire season has returned to areas of Michigan where winter snow has melted. A recent handful of warm, windy days has contributed to wildfires in southern and central portions of the state.

Department of Natural Resources officials urge residents and visitors to use extreme caution before engaging in outdoor activities with the potential for wildfire.

“Several winter storms have created a tremendous clean-up task in many areas,” said Bill O’Neill, the DNR’s acting Forest Resources Division chief and state forester. “We are urging people to consider fire-safe alternatives, such as chipping instead of burning the debris.”

Chipping eliminates the risk of wildfire altogether and it reduces exposure to unhealthy smoke. An added bonus,

Fenton Township firefighters finish off a blaze that scorched 200 feet of brush on Lathering Road on Thursday.

The wood chips can be used as mulch for landscaping around your home.”

For those who do expect to burn yard waste, the DNR asks that you plan carefully and follow the following fire-safe tips:

• Check first with local fire officials to be certain burning is not prohibited where you live.
• Choose a day that is cool and damp to conduct your burn. The likelihood an ember will escape from a burn pile and ignite a wildfire drastically increases on warm, windy days.
• Arrange small mounds of debris in spots cleared of flammable vegetation.

Summary

With unseasonably warm temperatures, residents might be tempted to burn last year’s vegetation to clear up their property. Underbrush and last year’s vegetation is dry, can catch fire and spread quickly. Before burning, contact your local fire department to make sure burning is permitted.

In southern Michigan, burn permits and information on burning can be obtained from local fire departments and township offices. For more information on wildfire safety, open burning, home preparedness and other fire-related topics, visit www.michigan.gov/preventwildfires.

Fenton Fire Chief Robert Cairnduff said, “The fire department encourages people to use common sense when burning and only do it on days where the ground is wet and there is little wind. Right now, all of the vegetation on the ground is dead and burns very easily.

“Even though the ground may appear wet, the vegetation left from last year’s season is dead and burns rapidly.”

The city of Fenton does not issue burn permits and there is no open burning allowed, only recreational fires (residents can go to the city’s website www.cityoffenton.org to learn more about the open burning regulations).

Tyrone Township allows for open burning, as long as residents obtain a burn permit from their township offices, and abide by the rules of the permit. Residents should remember that the Tyrone Township offices are closed on Fridays, so if they want to burn on a weekend they need to get a permit before the end of business on Thursday, according to Cairnduff.
HOLLY POLICE ARREST FENTON MAN FOR OWI

At 12 a.m. on Sunday, March 11, a Holly police officer spotted a vehicle traveling 45 mph in a 35 mph zone on Saginaw Street. The officer followed and initiated a traffic stop after the vehicle turned left onto westbound Grange Hall Road. While speaking with the driver, a 49-year-old Fenton man, the officer could detect a strong odor of intoxicants. After several field sobriety tests, the driver registered a .14 on a preliminary breath test. The man was placed under arrest for operating a vehicle while intoxicated and transported to the police station for processing, at which time a chemical test revealed a blood alcohol content of .17 percent. The man’s vehicle was impounded and the license plate was confiscated.

CREDIT CARD FRAUD

At 8:40 p.m. on Wednesday, March 14, a 33-year-old Fenton woman reported to Fenton police that someone tried to obtain between 15 and 20 credit cards using her personal information. The suspect was successful in obtaining one credit card and charged $2,800 on it at a department store in Belleville. Police are investigating. Attempts such as this can typically be seen on credit reports.

APARTMENT BROKEN INTO

At 1:15 a.m. on Sunday, March 11, Fenton police were sent to an apartment off Torrey Road to investigate a breaking and entering complaint. Upon arrival, police met with the 54-year-old male resident who said someone broke into his apartment, removed it and stole several high priced items including guitars, TVs and an electric keyboard. He believes the break-in occurred between 9 p.m. on March 10 and 1 a.m. on March 11. Lt. Jason Slater said the responding officer believe the suspect entered the apartment through a bedroom window, which had a torn screen and exited through the front door. The case remains under investigation.

INTOXICATED DAUGHTER

At 3 p.m. on Tuesday, March 13, Fenton police responded to a home on Chinkapin Hill on a report of an intoxicated 17-year-old female. Upon arrival, police met with the 42-year-old mother of the teen who said she came home and saw that her daughter was intoxicated. The daughter left the home and walked to a nearby friend’s home and together, they walked to a grocery store on Silver Parkway. Police located the daughter at the store and when confronted, she admitted to drinking vodka. A preliminary breath test revealed a blood alcohol content of .168 percent. She was ticketed for Under 21 Consumption and was given a court date.

INMATES CLEAN UP HIGHWAY

Genesee County Sheriff Robert Pickell said inmates of the Genesee County Jail picked up about 12,000 pounds of debris this week when in a work detail of cleaning up U.S. 23. Pickell said over four days, 40 inmates, under the supervision of sheriff’s deputies, picked up all sorts of trash along the highway, between Owen and Hill roads. The inmates, with offenses such as drunk driving or driving with suspended licenses and Friend of the Court violations, picked up enough garbage to fill 240 trash bags, each averaging 50 pounds. More clean-ups are planned, using the inmates. The sheriff said non-profit organizations may request the use of work-detail inmates to help with their projects as long as there is no alcohol involved with an event.

DRIVER TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

At 11:53 p.m. on Thursday, March 8, Holly police were sent to the area of Grange Hall and North Holly roads on a report of a possible drunk driver. The 911 dispatcher told police that a black SUV, with its hazard lights on, was traveling westbound on Grange Hall Road and it nearly hit a vehicle head-on. Police spotted the vehicle and clocked it traveling 28 mph in a 45 mph zone. Police initiated a traffic stop and made contact with the 60-year-old Ortonville resident. The driver was unsure as to where he was or what time it was. The driver was asked to exit the vehicle and an ambulance was called to transport him to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township. He appeared unsteady on his feet. There were no signs of alcohol. The vehicle was impounded for safekeeping. Police will file a request for a driver evaluation.

Chambers. She’s quick to point out that her class doesn’t replace or usurp what the students’ parents taught them. It does however, teach students about feeding, holding, changing diapers, and responding to the baby’s needs.

The class is offered to grades 10, 11 and 12. It is mostly girls, but Chambers has four boys currently enrolled. She said that she has had males take the course because they thought it would be easy. “They are sadly disappointed,” she said.

“They’ll spend three days immersed in the experience of responding to the needs of the baby, as it runs its program for each day. That program will probably include crying every hour of the night, and demand feedings, diaper changing, and anything else built into the program.

It’s this experience last trimester that caused a morning break-down in Nikki Bouchard on the second day. “New moms often do that,” said Chambers.

Not only did Bouchard have a deep dislike for dolls, but the doll had kept her up all night. “They cry, they stare at you, I saw ‘Chucky’ at a young age and it ruined everything for me,” she said.

“When it was crying I had to figure out what it needed right away,” she said.

Jason Beelby, 16, admitted he took the parenting course for the girls. “Girls think it’s attractive,” he said.

She told her parents, “It was horrible, it cried all night,” she said. “I don’t know how my parents did it.”

She also had to sit with the baby for 20-minute burping sessions that were not realistic, but took up a realistic amount of the student’s time not spent doing other activities.

Chambers will know what the baby does because it saves the information. And she’ll know if a baby is neglected in any way, and it will all add up to 100 points.

Not only is the physical impact of the child illustrated, they also learn the financial impact.

Chambers instructs the students to come up with a budget for their child, which includes all the staples they would need; diapers, clothing, formula, and many accessories. “Kids are expensive,” said Bouchard.

Bouchard also had to fill out a thick stack of paperwork related to the child, including logs of everything she had to do with it. It ends up being a complex project that to Bouchard was invaluable. “This is the class I learned the most from,” she said.

The course is divided into two trimesters. The first section deals with preliminary parenthood, prenatal care, dealing with doctors, preparing for the child’s arrival and how the child develops in the womb.

One component of the class is basic contraception. “So many people don’t know about their own bodies to keep from getting pregnant,” she said.

The point Chambers wants to make, is that teens should wait to have their own children. If her words don’t do the trick, maybe dealing with a baby simulator for three days will help.

The Rose Township Board of Trustees voted 3-1 to remove Treasurer Susan Slaughter from the NOCFA board.

Clerk Debbie Miller was excused for training and Slaughter voted against the motion. Initially, Trustee David Gordon asked Slaughter before the vote if she would step down quietly, however, she refused. Gordon made the motion to remove Slaughter, and Trustee Diane Scheib-Snider seconded.

The effort to remove Slaughter began in late February at a special NOCFA meeting. The Board passed the resolution asking the Rose Township board to consider removing her. Their complaints were based on two instances, which were rehashed again before the board took a vote.

One of the items in the original resolution was concerning her individual ratings of NOCFA Chief Jeremy Lintz, for his annual review. Slaughter’s reviews were consistently lower than the other members, which include Holly Township Supervisor Jesse Lambert, and Scheib-Snider.

Slaughter said that she looks at Lintz’s service differently than the other members, because of her experience.

The other issue stemmed from new residents dumping materials in an unauthorized dumpster. Fire department members obtained an address that led to The Michigan State Police (MSP) beginning the process of issuing a $40 ticket to the new residents. Slaughter made a call to the MSP saying they would handle the illegal dumping.

The dispute arose from whether Slaughter had the authority to stop the ticket. She maintains that Supervisor Glen Noble told her to call the MSP, while Noble has no recollection of that order.

Slaughter asked that Rose Township Constable Emile Blair speak on her behalf. Blair said he was present when Noble asked Slaughter to call MSP about the ticket.

“I’m really kind of appalled that the board would handle it in this fashion.” Susan Slaughter, Rose Township treasurer “Without your ticket. She maintains that Supervisor Noble asked her to call MSP about the incident.” Noble, I wouldn’t have done that without your say,” said Slaughter.

In the end, the board voted Slaughter out. “I’m really kind of appalled that the board would handle it in this fashion,” said Slaughter, describing the dumpster issue as a “fiasco.”

Despite being fired by the people she must still work with on the township board, she said she will simply move forward. “I don’t feel it’s going to affect the way I do my job at all.” She said she would continue to work for the community despite being removed from the fire board.

the spray tan over traditional tanning,” said Little. “It only takes five minutes, and it lasts about a week with little maintenance.”

With the temporary closing of Tropi-Tan on N. LeRoy St. in Fenton, Little says that her business has picked up a number of new clients. “The average age of our clients used to be between 25 and 50. Now it has expanded to 16 to 80 year olds,” she added. TropiTan’s Owen Road location has accommodated its customers.

Kirsten Steele, co-owner of The Retreat Salon & Skin Spa in Fenton, offers spray-tanning services in their salon/spa setting, and she sees its popularity growing every day. “I used to do just a few a week, now it’s anywhere between 10 and 20 per week,” she said. “In addition to all the concern about skin cancer and aging skin, it’s also about convenience. Many people don’t want to take the time to tan a month ahead of an event like spring break or a special occasion. It only takes about five minutes to do, and it provides a flawless finish.”

While there are dozens of quality over-the-counter spray-tanning solutions available, Steele says it’s all about the application, more than the product. The finished product that you get with a professional spray tan is similar to the difference between finger painting and airbrushing. It’s all in a quality application done professionally.

Serendipity Day Spa in Linden has recently added spray tanning to its list of spa services. “We decided to go with spray tanning because it’s the healthy alternative to traditional tanning,” said spa manager Julie Emington. We use airbrush style tanning customized to each client, instead of an automotive booth. It has been a big hit with our customers, especially now with spring break coming. Some people get it done every week to keep a tan going, while others do it before a special occasion.”

Many tanning salon owners, like Melissa Peletier of Radiant Sol in Holly, are committed to making the tanning experience as safe as possible for their customers. “You have to tan responsibly,” said Peletier. “All of our bulbs are bronzing bulbs, which mean they have much lower UVB rays. We start our customers out at five to six minutes at the beginning. “Think of tanning like having one glass of wine,” she added. “There are benefits, including Vitamin D and reducing the affects of Seasonal Affective Disorder (S.A.D.) If you overindulge and have three glasses of wine a day, it’s going to be harmful.”

Dermatologist Chris Buatti, M.D., of The Skin & Vein Center in Fenton, would argue that there are no health benefits to tanning. “When you tan indoors, there’s a 75 percent greater risk of melanoma, the deadliest form of skin cancer,” said Dr. Buatti. His main concern is for the 2.3 million teens who tan on a regular basis. “Seventy percent of people who tan are between the ages of 16 and 29,” he said. “It’s definitely a concern to me.”

The Food & Drug Administration’s report on tanning says that UV radiation in tanning devices poses serious health risks. A recent report by the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), part of the World Health Organization, concludes that tanning devices are more dangerous than previously thought.

\textbf{Exposure to UV radiation, whether from the sun or indoor tanning beds, can cause:}

- Skin cancer
- Skin burns
- Premature skin aging
- Eye damage (both short-term and long-term)

The FDA recommends the following:

- Goggles should be worn while indoor tanning.
- UV exposure schedules should be limited to no more than three days per week.
- Michigan law states that before someone under 18 can tan, a parent/guardian must present, in the presence of the owner or operator, a statement similar to other customers that they read and understand the risks tanning poses to their child and that the child will wear protective eyewear.

PETS

“I sat on the bench with Missy for about three hours before she even took a sigh,” Haney said. “I wasn’t allowed to see Missy at first because she had just been rescued from a puppy farm in Ohio.”

Haney is one of hundreds of foster pet owners who have taken in animals from Adopt-A-Pet, an organization that rehabilitates abused and abandoned animals. Director Jody Maddock said Adopt-A-Pet’s mission is to find a loving home for each of their cats and dogs. Taking home a new pet involves a lengthy interview process and constant checkups.

“We say that every cat and dog that comes through our door has a perfect family waiting for them,” Maddock said. “We need lots more foster families. Adopting one of these pets is a little heartbreaking at first, but it is so worth it.”

In her 11 years at Adopt-A-Pet, Maddock has met numerous animals she thought wouldn’t make it into a home. One was a French bulldog named Sookie who was rescued from a puppy mill that had infected eyes and needed a hysterectomy. After several surgeries and despite becoming completely blind, Sookie was eventually adopted. Another rescue story includes a dog that was abandoned and dangerously underweight. A dog that Maddock described as “skin and bones – not much else” eventually gained weight and ate regularly.

Many dogs that come through Adopt-A-Pet are recovered from puppy mills, operations where dogs are generally sold over the Internet and Haney until they are sold. Adopt-A-Pet in Fenton Township works with organizations that raid puppy mills annually.

Fenton Township resident Dave Franz is one foster pet owner who adopted a dog rescued from a puppy mill. Franz said that he and his wife instantly fell in love with a Doberman named Roxy and had to have her.

“Living with us was a big change for Roxy, she had been a caged dog most of her life,” Franz said. “She was shy because she was transferred many miles in a truck across the U.S. Within a week living with us, she was the same as any puppy.”

Some dogs take more effort to rehabilitate. At first, Missy would shake and bark as soon as Haney left her alone. Haney took Missy on frequent car rides and walks in public until Missy knew Haney wasn’t going to abandon her. Haney held Missy often, building trust.

“Pets are just like a child, you have to gain their trust,” Haney said.

Maddock said interested foster pet owners should demonstrate that they have carefully considered the commitment it takes to adopt a pet, both financially and emotionally. Maddock said Adopt-A-Pet meets frequently with people for lengthy periods of time before sending a pet home.

“We look hard to make sure it’s a good match,” Maddock said. “We look at people’s specific situation.”

Fees start at $80 and can go up to $500. Adopt-A-Pet also allows temporary fostering for certain animals and “sponsoring” with regular donations. Call (810) 629-0723 for more information.

Shelby’s birthday wish

► Her gifts are for the dogs and cats at Adopt-A-Pet

While most young girls are excited to open up birthday packages containing dolls, games and stuffed animals, Shelby Jorgensen, of Holly, was even happier to open up gifts of dog food, cat litter and chew toys.

When Shelby celebrated her 7th birthday on March 3, the 30 family members and friends on her guest list complied with Shelby’s wishes and brought “gifts” for the dogs and cats housed at Adopt-A-Pet in Fenton.

Robby and Leslie Jorgensen have passed on their love of animals to both Shelby, 7, and Tyler, 12. Their family dog, Dozer, a 9-month-old bull dog mix, was rescued dog, not from Adopt-A-Pet, but from a family who couldn’t keep up with this rambunctious, excitable puppy. Their previous dog, Ryder, a St. Bernard, was adopted from Adopt-A-Pet.

“It’s become a new trend in the past year for people to ask for monetary donations or gifts in lieu of birthday presents,” said Jody Maddock, director of Adopt-A-Pet. “We love it when kids like Shelby do it, because it’s such a selfless act for a child to give up toys and presents. We showed Shelby just how much her gifts meant to the dogs and cats whose home is at Adopt-A-Pet. They don’t have a family to go home to, so we rely on the community to become their family.”

Both Shelby and Tyler plan to sign up for an upcoming volunteer class at Adopt-A-Pet, to learn how to bathe the animals, play with them and give them affection. “They both want to be veterinarians when they grow up,” said Leslie.

► Shelby Jorgensen, of Holly, recently celebrated her 7th birthday, but it was the dogs and cats at Adopt-A-Pet in Fenton who benefited from this special occasion.

Shelby’s birthday gifts, which filled the Jorgensen’s van, were dropped off at Adopt-A-Pet. Her family and friends were greeted warmly by the Adopt-A-Pet staff, which gave them a tour of the facilities, and showed Shelby specifically how her gifts would be used.

“It’s become a new trend in the past year for people to ask for monetary donations or gifts in lieu of birthday presents,” said Jody Maddock, director of Adopt-A-Pet. “We love it when kids like Shelby do it, because it’s such a selfless act for a child to give up toys and presents. Willie McQueen demonstrates how he was an effective defensive tackle for Flint Southwestern Academy, with Brendan Doherty, 18, at Fenton High School on Friday.

INSPIRING

Continued from Front Page morning. Flint native McQueen travels to multiple schools throughout Flint and the tri-county area, inspiring students to try their best, no matter what obstacles they have to overcome.

“I tell students to keep striving for the best, just because you’re in a good situation now doesn’t mean you need to stop fighting,” McQueen said. “Excel your knowledge and become great.”

McQueen, 25, is a double amputee who lost both his legs in a train accident in Alabama. McQueen tried out for the football team in seventh grade at Southwestern Academy in Flint, playing the position of left tackle. McQueen played on his hands and eventually became a starter.

Currently, McQueen is a Mott Community College student with a 3.9 grade point average and he coaches football at Flint Northern. McQueen said he speaks to about 40 classes a year, including Flint schools, Hamady schools and now, Fenton schools.

But McQueen wasn’t always so driven. He dropped out of school during his senior year of high school and began smoking marijuana. After some motivation from Judge Duncan Beagle, also a paraplegic, McQueen went back to school and began his career as a motivational speaker.

“I always had Judge Duncan Beagle in my court,” McQueen said. “If I tell kids as long as you get back up and fight, you’ll go further. You’re going to go through some tough times.”

The class listened as McQueen described how he lost his legs, and also lost his mother to cancer earlier this year. “It’s just a challenge to keep a smile on my face,” he said.

Maggie Pooler, 18, was inspired by his speech. Pooler plays tennis, and said she couldn’t imagine trying to play without legs. “I can’t picture life going through what he went through,” she said.

Teacher Sean Lawrence appreciated that McQueen could discuss overcoming his challenges while demanding respect on the field. “He’s a great inspiration,” he said.

Hickoffs, seniors make their mark

Twins’ era ends with 74 wins, four Metro League titles

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Saginaw — When the Fenton Tigers fell to top-ranked Saginaw in the Class A regional semifinals on Monday, what may have been the best boys basketball season at Fenton in just over 20 years came to an end.

But it also marked the end of another era.

After four years of playing varsity basketball, the Hickoff era came to a conclusion. And what an era it was. During it, the Tigers won four Metro League titles, went 61-7 in Metro League play and 74-13 overall.

The twins, who are headed to Notre Dame College of Ohio to play Division 2 college basketball next year, capped it with what was arguably the best season in the last 20 years, certainly of the new century, going 22-2 overall and 15-1 in league action. The Tigers capped the season by winning by their first ever Class A district, first district title of any sort, since 1990, and then pushed Saginaw on Monday before losing 39-48 in the regional semifinals.

The Hickoffs, both four-time Tri-County First-Team players and both Tri-County Player of the Year once, loved their four years at Fenton.

“My whole career here in Fenton was unbelievable,” Ryan Hickoff said. “It was so much fun. The players, the coaches — it’s just a great experience for me. I loved the whole run. I wouldn’t change it for anything.”

“It’s really fun to play with all those guys. This year we did well. We won the whole thing.”

Holly powerlifters take second at state meet

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Holly powerlifting team has had its share of success at the Michigan High School Powerlifting meet.

This year was no exception. The Bronchos had eight powerlifters place in the top four of the state meet, earning the squad a varsity state runner-up finish at Lake Orion High School, recently.

The Bronchos were the defending state champions at the varsity and JV level, and finished second at the varsity level in 2010 as well.

“Our kids did a great job against the top competition from all over the state,” Holly powerlifting coach Mike Millhouse said. “We wanted to win back-to-back championships, but our guys shouldn’t be too disappointed given how tough the field was this year.”

The Bronchos had two second-place finishers, including the school’s first-ever girl placer at the meet. Sarah Dewasch (15) placed second in her class.

Summer weather in March has area teams smiling

By David Troppens
dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — Fenton varsity girls tennis coach Gary Ballard had a huge smile on his face. It was March 14, and his team was outside practicing in 70-degree weather.

“This is fun,” Ballard said. “This weather makes everyone smile. The girls are excited to have their first day out here. It’s Michigan and it’s 70 degrees.”

The warm and sunny weather the tri-county area has been experiencing has had a similar effect for a lot of practices this week, as spring sports teams began preparing for their seasons.

After spending most of last year’s spring dealing with cold, snowy and rainy conditions, the spring coaches are finding this year’s unseasonably warm and sunny days a nice change of pace.

“All of the girls have been cooped up all year and they just want to be out here,” Fenton varsity girls softball coach Rick Bescoe said. “That’s probably part of the reason why they play softball — they love the outdoors.”

“The nice weather just makes it more fun for all of us,” Fenton girls soccer coach Matt Sullivan said. “Playing in a gym is miserable. The girls are happy because they will be more tan for spring break.”

But it’s more than just a pick-me-upper to be outside.

Ex-players, current athletes helping out with AGS’ basketball program

By David Troppens
dtroppens@cttimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — Tyler Szczepanski loved it when he was a player within the Fenton High School boys basketball program.

The experience made such an impression on Szczepanski that he wanted to remain with the program. So that’s what he did.

Szczepanski, who is also an assistant with the varsity boys basketball program, completed his first season as co-head coach of the AGS eighth-grade boys team this winter.

And the 2010 Fenton graduate is not the only one making a difference. His assistant coach, Trevor Kline, also graduated in 2010 and works with Szczepanski and co-coach Hugh Judson.

Meanwhile, the seventh-grade boys basketball team has current JV player Mitch Campbell as an assistant coach for head coach Don Buchanan.

“It was so good to come to practice with these kids,” Szczepanski said. “Knowing it’s important to give back to something that meant so much to me feels good.”

“The program has done so much for us, we should give back,” Kline said. “I have had so much fun playing basketball during my time at Fenton High School. I just want those kids to have the same experience I had.”

Campbell’s experience is a bit different than the eighth-grade pair. The sophomore is still a player in the high school program.

“They have a sophomore project they have to do and he asked if he could come over here and coach,” Buchanan said. “I thought it was a great idea.”

Campbell has enjoyed the experience. And he’s learning as well.

“It’s nice being back. I played for coach Buchanan and it’s nice to see him again,” Campbell said. “I like coaching with him.”

“When you coach you see a lot that you don’t see on the court in your own game. You see a lot watching others.”

Both teams saw their seasons end successfully on Wednesday against Brandon.

The seventh-grade team ended an 8-4 season, defeating Brandon 33-17. The Tigers led 24-2 at halftime.

Aaron Sarkon led the squad with eight points, while Adam Gornick had six points.

The eighth-grade game was close. Fenton trailed 6-9 early, but had a 17-11 lead by halftime. The lead grew to double-digits in the second half, but it took a blocked shot by Austin Mercord to earn the victory by a 29-26 margin.

Chris Gilbert led Fenton with six points, while Jake Cairnduff, Nick Campbell and Ben Hajciar had four points each. The Tigers finished the season at 7-5.

Up, down or the same

We’ve listed a few of the key Detroit Tigers and will answer whether they play better (up), worse (down) or about the same as last year.

Justin Verlander
Max Scherzer
Ryan Raburn
Austin Jackson

Justin Verlander: Verlander had the best season of his young career, and once he’s retired, it’s easy to think last year will be his best season of his career. He’s still going to be an ace and still one of the best pitchers in baseball, but expecting another season like that, is tough.

Max Scherzer: He’s his biggest mystery in the starting rotation. One day he looks like an ace. The next start you wonder where the guy you saw a week ago went. He’s 27 now and should be nearing the peak of his career. If he’s ever going to become a bit more consistent, this is the time to do it.

Slightly Down

Ryan Raburn: Traditionally a poor hitter in the first half of the season, particularly through May, Raburn always produces with the bat in the second half like an all-star. He bats .228 during the first half of seasons and .300 during the second half of seasons during his career. That issue, coupled with his lack of a true position, has always kept Raburn from really being a legit regular starter. He’s hot right now in spring training, so he’s going to be given every chance to end the bad Aprils and May’s this year.

Up

Austin Jackson: At only 25, one could make the argument that Jackson should have no issues rebounding back to his rookie numbers. But he needs to reduce his strike outs from the 180s to at least the 110 range. If he does that and gets 15 more hits with those lost K’s, he becomes an effective option. But it looks like that’s not going to happen. While he’s batting .300 this spring training, he has struck out eight times in 20 at bats.

Same

With spring training, there’s always hope. Everyone’s a pennant contender. And at Lakeland, it’s no different. In fact, at Tiger Town, optimism is at its highest point since, well, 2008. And most Tiger fans remember how well that season went. Still, the optimism is based on some strong reasons.

With the addition of Prince Fielder to the fold, there aren’t many teams that can parade two players like Miguel Cabrera and Fielder in the heart of their order. Meanwhile, the starting pitching rotation is about as solid as anyone’s in baseball at the top two positions. 2012 American League MVP and Cy Young award winner Justin Verlander and Doug Fister return to those spots.

Still, with every spring training, questions remain. Here are a few burning questions while the Tigers are in Lakeland.

Will Cabrera work at third base?

Based on reports, Cabrera has been reasonably solid at third base. He’s made just one error through Tuesday’s games, is getting to routine balls and has shown a solid arm. However, his range still remains a question. As much as the Tigers want to say this experiment is etched in stone, it will be up to Cabrera to make it work, and a few games in spring training won’t be the determining factor. It’s reported, Cabrera embraced the transition to third. That’s a plus. When people are on board and happy with a transition like this, it certainly increases their chance to succeed. The answer to this question should be answered by mid-May.

What about the rest of the defense?

The Tigers won’t be baseball’s best defensive team by any stretch of the imagination. In fact, they should be in the bottom half. No matter how well the Cabrera experiment works, it’s a given the Tigers will lose some defense there. Fielder, at best, is adequate at first. And with Ryan Rayburn’s bat heating up, there’s reason to think he’ll get ample time at second base as well, another below-average glove. This is where Brandon Inge, if he can find a way to hit, can help out. If he can earn even split starting duty at second, that would allow the Tigers to give most of the other starts to Ramon Santiago and then move Raburn to left for more games, a position he’s more comfortable with.

Delmon Young is a poor fielder, so it would be nice to see him play more DH.

The fifth starter mystery

The Tigers still haven’t had someone step up and seize that fifth-starter spot in the pitching rotation. That’s a concern. But then again, finding a quality fifth starter is an issue for just about every team in baseball history.

Lefty Andy Oliver is off to a fine start, while another contender, Jacob Turner, was sidelined with tendinitis recently. Lefty Duane Below is another player being given ample chances, but has yet to impress. A few others are in the mix, but the spot remains a mystery as the Tigers enter the second half of March.

What’s going on with Brandon Inge?

The fact that a player like Inge is a concern of so many fans, tells you just how solid the Tigers are. Because of fans’ polarized views of Inge, this is more of a fan-interest curiosity thing.

By all reports he’s looked outstanding at second. The question is, can he hit enough to justify playing the position in any sort of regular fashion. If he can, Inge will get his starts at second, and even in the best-case scenario with Cabrera at third, Inge will still find 20 games or so the spell him. It’s clearly to the team defense’s advantage to see Inge prove he can produce at the plate.

something special. We went 22-2 and got a district championship, which is really special. And that’s going to be in your mind later in life.”

“I loved every minute of it,” said Dylan Hickoff, who eclipsed the 1,000-point mark of his career in Monday’s game. “I loved all of my teammates, I loved all of our coaches. It was just a fun experience. I’ll always remember it.”

One man who will miss the Hickoffs is coach Tim Olszewski.

“They are always willing to help out and do what is needed,” Olszewski said. “Not only for the team, but for the young kids that play basketball as well. They are epitome of class. It’s what they do.

“The kids have to realize they jump rope after games and do all this extra stuff to become as good as they are. It’s not by accident their skill level is where it’s at. And it’s not by accident that they are as good as human beings as they are, because you have to work at those things, and they do.”

Along with other seniors Conor Muntin, Derek Jenkins and Jack Lukas, the squad was elevated to a new plateau this year. Talks about not winning district titles and not being able to compete with the better teams in the state are the thing of the past. The seniors hope the players look at this year’s progress and advance off the base established this year.

“This year taught them how to work hard and take all the doubt that surrounds a team like ours, and use it as motivation,” Muntin said. “It made us work that much harder. That will only be beneficial to the younger guys com-

Last year’s poor weather hurt most sports teams in terms of progress. With the good weather, teams are getting a jump on learning their teams.

“I love the weather starting out. It gets us out right away,” Linden girls soccer coach Kevin Fiebertz said. “Last year the big thing was we never got outside. And when we got outside, it was too cold or snowy. We lost five games due to the weather. It was a nightmare.”

“It’s really going to help all the teams a lot better prepared early on,” Bescoe said. “That’s always the difficult part. If you are indoors, how do you get flyball (practice) How do you get the infield on the dirt? The weather will help a couple of things.”

Last year’s weather was so bad, it has actually impacted this year’s practices for the Fenton girls tennis team. The squad only had two outdoor practices before its first meet of the season last year, so it has rented out indoor facilities for early morning practices. Because of the planned sessions, the team actually practiced indoors on Tuesday and did so on Thursday as well.

“We practiced inside on Monday because we scheduled it and on Tuesday,” Ballard said. “This year we don’t want to miss any days. So we are going at 5 a.m. (on days that rain looks possible) to make sure we get our practices in. We are shooting for outdoors on Friday.”

The Holly varsity powerlifting team took second at the state meet at Lake Orion High School on March 10.

“We only took third girls this year,” Millhouse said. “We’ve never had any girls go in the past.”

Meanwhile, Anthony Konas (145) led the Holly boys, taking second with a total weight lifted of 1,025 pounds.

One other Holly competitor took third. That was David Trenbly (123) with a total of 675 pounds lifted.

Fourth-place finishers for Holly were Kyle McCarty (132), Colton Richards (155), A.J. Lewandowski (165), Aaron Sutlles (194) and Kyle Vandell (207).

Ten of the powerlifters that qualified for the state meet this year return next season. Earlier this year, the squad won regional meets at Durand High School and at Whitmore Lake High School.

Since Holly began its advanced conditioning class, which includes lifting, the school has seen success out of its boys’ programs. Holly has finished first in the male portion of the Metro League’s All-Sports trophy in three of the last five years. The number of students who can bench 200 pounds was 95 students last year. That is an increase of 19 over the previous high a year earlier.

“Everything we do in our conditioning class is to work toward that goal,” Millhouse said.

Linden Mills Days to have fireworks

DDA grants $5,000 to organizers for purchase of fireworks

By William Axford

Linden — The Linden Mills Days is one step closer to bringing a carnival to their festivities. The Linden Downtown Development Authority (DDA) approved a $5,000 grant to organizers, securing the necessary funds to purchase fireworks. Skerbek Brothers Carnival requires organizers to have fireworks before coming to Linden.

Linden Mills Days organizer Cyndi Roesner said she is waiting for the carnival's contract to come in the mail before moving on.

"(Fireworks) are just one step closer," Roesner said. "We’re really excited to move forward and plan a fabulous event for the community.

Linden Mills Days is scheduled for June 21 to 24. The carnival, fireworks, battle of the bands and an entertainment tent are some of the activities planned for the four-day festival. Roesner appeared before the Linden City Council Feb. 27 and received support from councilors.

Linden Summer Happening chairman Tim Murphy said organizers for the Summer Happening are attempting to relocate the event to another community. Murphy expects to have more information in the upcoming weeks.

"It would happen during the third week of July," Murphy said. When asked about the Linden Mills Days receiving funding from the Linden DDA, Murphy said, "That’s fine, we’re two different organizations. It’s different what they do and what we do."

Roesner said Linden Mills Days organizers are still looking for volunteers and sponsors. For more information, call city hall at (810) 735-7080 or email info@lindenmillsdays.org.

Summary

Linden Mills Days has received $5,000 from the Linden DDA to purchase fireworks.

ABORTION IS AN irresponsible person’s way of not accepting the responsibility for their actions.

IT’S NOT “OBAMA trash” to not count re

TO THE PERSON who said that open

BY PRO-CHOICE I mean that Jesus

LETS SEE, IT takes about $500,000 to move Obama in Air Force One. He takes a visiting dignitary to Dayton to see a basketball game and back to Washington in a half a day. He must have been trained by Fenton DDA. Such a waste.

ABOUT TRASH LINED U.S. 23. Maybe the long-term unemployed and the life-long welfare recipients could volunteer one day a month to pick up litter, while the rest of us are at work. Or maybe it should be a law.

Lack of inventory is main concern of local housing market

By Ryan Tackabury
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

People looking to buy a new house are quickly realizing they are not alone. There are fewer houses on the market now than there have been in years, and the lack of inventory is a major factor in how the housing market is playing out today.

“Although the market isn’t what it was in 2006, homes are selling, and they are selling for more than what they were two or three years ago in certain situations,” says John Wentworth of Re/Max Platinum. “Certain situations” is key, as values overall, Wentworth says, have not begun to

She competed in the ninth- through 12th-grade competition. Brown also took second place during the Genesee County Regional Spelling Bee on Tuesday. All of the finalists received a plaque to take home. Lake Fenton High School junior Angela Todd took second place Monday at the Genesee County Regional Spelling Bee. This portion of the competition was for grades seven, eight, and ninth and was held at the Genesee Intermediate School District’s Davis Education Center. Brown and Tanner Shemes, a ninth-grader at Lake Fenton High School each took second place in their respective grades in the Genesee County Regional Spelling Bees for grades eight, nine, and 10 on Tuesday. rise yet. The type of property obviously has a large effect on the price, with a high demand for waterfront property and homes in the $150,000 to $250,000 range.

Wentworth has an optimistic outlook on the near future of the market, and believes things will improve. “I don’t see any big, major changes. But that’s okay – because the major changes that were negative already happened, and I think slowly we will start to see all positive things out of the market over the next year,” he said.

For those dealing with the housing market, Wentworth said people need to be mindful that things have changed over the last few years. “It’s not what it was two years ago, and any house that is priced correctly is selling in 30 days,” he said.

Many of these thoughts are echoed by John Tremaine of Tremaine Real Estate. If your home is priced right, it will sell fast,” Tremaine says. “There is a huge demand, and the supply is limited for homes that are priced right.”

According to Tremaine, the current housing market poses a couple challenges to those looking to buy a home. Those looking to move into a new home may have difficulty getting their investment back from selling their original home before purchasing the new one. Another problem facing people looking to purchase a house are other homebuyers. With a lack of property on the market, buyers often find themselves facing greater competition. Despite these extra difficulties, Tremaine says buyers are still in a good position in the current marketplace.

“It’s a great time to sell, it’s a better time to buy. If you are in a position to buy, you can get a fantastic deal,” he said.

What can you do to make sure you snag that fantastic deal? “Do your homework,” Tremaine says. “Have your financing in line, so that when that opportunity does present itself, you can grab it. Odds are someone else is going to see it too.”

Patrick Welly of Legacy Realty Professionals agrees that the big problem facing the housing market is all about supply and demand. “The issue today is lack of inventory,” he says. “We really don’t have enough property to sell. We’ve got way more buyers than we do sellers, and that shortfall is leading to a lot of frustration for buyers today.”

Another issue cited by Welly is a lack of bank-owned properties out there, saying that they are not coming on to the market at the same pace as they have been in previous years.

Welly says that this time last year, they had more houses on the market, and things are not currently changing. “Our inventory has been declining over the last several weeks,” he said. Even with the demand being high, the price people are prepared to pay may not be. Welly says that there are only so many that are willing to sell to the current market values, which is partly responsible for the shortage of real estate.

Welly does offer some optimistic speculation of what we can expect in the near future. “Traditionally, home owner sales tend to rise as things warm up, and this premature warming we are going through might lead to a substantial number of people putting their homes on the market,” he said. If the weather does in fact have a sizable impact on the market, Welly says, that remains to be seen.

Nationwide:

Foreclosures drop but on pace to hit record

Mike Colpitts, a writer for Housing Predictor said, foreclosure filings dropped a slim 2 percent in February, but are still on pace to hit a new record volume for 2012, despite an increase in short sales by lenders on homes in default of their mortgages, according to RealtyTrac.

February foreclosure activity in 26 states with judicial foreclosures rose 2 percent from January and was up 24 percent from a year ago as banks picked-up the pace to take back properties that are in default. Foreclosures were slowed in states that required banks and mortgage servicing companies to complete foreclosure proceedings through the courts.

February’s numbers point to a gradually rising foreclosure tide as some of the barriers that have been holding back foreclosures are removed,” said Brandon Moore, CEO of RealtyTrac. “Although national foreclosure activity was pushed lower by decreases in a handful of larger states, 21 states posted annual increases in foreclosure activity, the most states with annual increases since November 2010.”

What are you breathing in your home?

Did you know your carpet is the biggest air filter in your home?

Pollutants in the air, filter through your carpet. The carpet traps them so you don’t breathe them over and over. But what happens when your carpet filter gets full? Your family starts breathing dust mite debris, pollens, pollutants, fungus, bacteria.

Once your carpets natural filtering ability gets full, it’s time for a thorough cleaning for your family’s health.

Molds – Molds are tiny bacteria that process matter and multiply by discharging spores. There are over 100,000 types of molds. Most people are not affected by molds. However, those with allergic reactions or bronchial asthma can be affected.

Salmonella – When people think of salmonella, they quickly associate it with bad food. However, salmonella can hide in your carpets, too. There have been tests done with infants and others, who became ill with salmonella.

Dust Mites – All houses have dust mites, and they are too small for the human eye to see. They mostly live off of the dead skin of humans that can be found in carpets, and also on your pillow and mattresses.

What’s dirty in your air ducts?

You’d be surprised! On average a 1,500 square-foot home produces 40 pounds of dust each year. Dust within a home is comprised of mold spores, pollens, dust mites, bacteria, pet hair and dander. The home can also contain harmful toxic materials such as chromium, mercury, and pesticides.

Industry standards recommend that you have your air ducts inspected every 2 years for cleanliness.

Are you putting your family at risk?

Consider these facts:

• 50% of all illness is either caused or aggravated by polluted indoor air. (Source: American College of Allergists)
• 1 out 6 people who suffer from allergies do so because of the direct relationship to the fungi and bacteria found in the air duct system. (Source: Total Health and Better Health Magazines)
• Indoor air is found to be up to 70 times more polluted than outdoor air. (Source: Environmental Protection Agency)
• The elderly, asthmatics and people with breathing problems are also likely to be sensitive to pollutants in the air of their own home. (Source: Department of Consumer Affairs)
• Children are more likely than adults to be affected by polluted air. They breathe faster, inhale more air per unit of body weight and are closer to the ground, where the concentrations of pollutants are higher. (Source: Department of Consumer Affairs)
• Legionnaire’s Disease was spawned from air ducts and killed 29 people in 1976. (Source: American Lung Association)
• Most people spend 60 to 90% of their time indoors. (Source: American Lung Association)

How to Prevent Mold

The best way to prevent mold is through moisture control. Dehumidifiers and ventilation fans are two ways to control moisture levels. Painting woodwork with anti-fungal paint will also prevent mold growth.

Today’s homes are built or remodeled more tightly, without regard to the factors that assure fresh and healthy indoor air. Excessive insulation is also a factor. Also, our homes today contain many furnishings, appliances and products that can affect indoor air quality.

Signs of indoor air quality problems include:

• Unusual and noticeable odors.
• Stale or stuffy air.
• Noticeable lack of air movement.
• Dirty or faulty central heating or air conditioning equipment.
• Damaged flue pipes or chimneys.
• Unvented combustion air sources for fossil fuel appliances.
• Health reaction after remodeling, weatherizing, using new furniture, using household and hobby products, or moving into a new home.

How often should I change my air conditioner air filter?

For your standard 1-3” air filters, the manufacturers basically tell you to change them every 30-60 days, which is actually a great rule of thumbs. But general rules aren’t always for everybody. If you suffer from light to moderate allergies, you could upgrade the air filter or change them even more often. — ehow.com

Mold-friendly Environments

Mold grows in warm, dark, moist aerobic environments with a good food supply. Molds aren’t picky, so any organic material—wood, plaster, dirt—will do. Bathrooms are prime breeding grounds for mold because of high moisture and available food supply.

Mold Types

There are more than 100,000 different types of mold, and some are toxic. Cladosporium, aspergillus, mucor, alternaria and penicillium are all common household molds and are not considered toxic.

Toxic Mold

Strachybotrys and mmenonii are both toxic molds and need moist plant matter, like wood, to grow. The mold may appear slimy when wet and have white edges. Contact with large quantities of toxic mold spores makes people seriously ill. If toxic mold is suspected, it should be removed by professionals.

Travel Brokers offers
‘best of both worlds’

By Ryan Tackabury
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Q: When did your business get its start?
A: The Travel Brokers was founded by Cheri and Randy Church and first opened for business in 1979 in the Kingsley Square Plaza on Fenton Road near Hill Road in Flint.
In 1995 we opened a branch office in Fenton. About three years ago we moved our Fenton office from Silver Parkway to its present location on North Leroy in the Lake Winds Plaza.

Q: What were the early days of your business like?
A: We opened because there was a niche for selling discounted airline tickets. This was during the time of the introduction of what was called “super-saver” airlines and most of our competitors were still selling full-fare air tickets primarily. Word soon spread of our low air ticket prices and within a couple years, we added several new agents to meet the increased demand. Our big break came in early 1980 when we sold a group of 100 to Las Vegas. We won over a lot of clients because of that trip.

Q: Tell us about your employees.
A: Our Fenton branch is staffed by Cheri Church, Debbie Queen, Fran Halliday and Sharon Ewles, who have a combined 60 years of experience in the travel industry.

Q: What sort of trips do you usually plan?
A: We arrange honeymoons, anniversaries, business trips, cruises, family vacations, couples getaways and more. We specialize in small and large groups.

Q: How has your business changed over the years?
A: During those early days there was not a big demand for cruises or tour packages but today that is a major portion of our business. The travel industry has changed a great deal since 1979 mainly because of the advent of the Internet. Although it has brought us more competition, it has also made us far more efficient in addition to bringing us trip requests from all over the nation.

Q: Where can your clients find you online?
A: Our website, www.travelbrokersinc.com, is basically another branch office that is open 24/7. Many of our clients communicate with us exclusively via our website and e-mail. We use it to advertise our latest specials as well as provide travel information, airport parking, discount coupons, flight status, online check-in, luggage policies and much more.

Q: What do you offer that your competitors do not?
A: We are occasionally asked why people should buy from us instead of buying from a large online agency or buying direct. The answer is quite simple; why would you not want to buy locally if you can get the same price (or lower) and have a local person to talk to and ask questions?

For those who like to surf the web in the evening or weekends they can buy directly from our website with access to all of the latest specials and still get our support when we are open. It's the best of both worlds.

Q: What advice can you give to your clients?
A: Although we specialize in finding great travel buys, we want our clients to have a great trip experience. Often we can find a much nicer trip for just a small increase in cost, in other words, the best value.

Powells look back on 70 years together

Fenton couple married before attack on Pearl Harbor

By Tim Jagielo
tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

It was a day much like their anniversary that Dallas and Rose Powell were married. It was March 14 and spring was making an appearance with warm weather and cloudless skies.

“I always thought they were the ideal type of marriage, very nurturing, they always did things family, they were just the perfect parents.”

Karen Hajec
Daughter of Dallas and Rose Powell

18, respectively.

On this week in 1942, Americans were gripped with fear, warily watching the fighting that would eventually be called World War II, engulf Europe. They were married before the attack on Pearl Harbor, and they were soon swept up into the war together, as Dallas joined the Navy in August. Rose followed Dallas in his Navy travels. “Only by his invitation,” she quipped. “Wherever he was stationed, I was with him.”

Their red house in Fenton was built by Dallas in 1952. They still live there and they raised their two children there. Throughout their lives, Rose stayed home while Dallas worked, except for when Dallas had back surgery. Rose, still feisty, joked that their 70 years together feels like 190. “We’re very happy,” Rose quickly added with a laugh. “It seems like the older you get, the faster the years go by,” said Dallas. “You’ve got so much to look back at. We’ve had a good life.”

The couple still flirts with each other, and has a little trouble recalling any specific highlight of their marriage. “Every year we had a family vacation,” said Hajec. “They continued on after we grew up.”

They visited every state in the U.S. “That was more important to us than going abroad, because we wanted to know our country,” said Rose.

Watching her parents’ marriage, Hajec said, “I always thought they were the ideal type of marriage, very nurturing, they always did things family, they were just the perfect parents.” She said Rose was the perfect 1950s mom. “She took care of the home, that’s a full-time job,” said Dallas. He said the highlight of his day was coming home to see his wife and kids.

Hajec has grown up hearing about her parents, who were viewed by many as a great example of a family. “I always felt proud to know they were my parents, when I looked at different people, I couldn’t have picked better parents, loving supportive through ups and downs,” said Hajec.

Those downs included WWII, Dallas’ back problems, and the sudden loss of their son, Dallas, who passed away in 2006, still in his early 60s.

For couples considering getting married, Dallas had some advice. “I think that they should take time to assess the values of the other person, what they have in common, so that they are adaptable to each other,” said Dallas.

Rose offered no advice to a newly married couple. “They can’t do the same things we did,” she said. “I loved to be a housewife for this guy.”

What has been the best day in your life so far?
It was on my last spring break when we went to Cancun. That whole trip was really nice.

What are your plans after graduation?
I’m attending the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

How are you preparing for college?
I’m filling out scholarships and maintaining my grades.

My parting advice for a better world is:
Always give your best effort.

What sports and leisure activities do you enjoy?
Football, basketball and lifting weights.

My dream car is:
A black Lamborghini Diablo.

Dream Destination:
North to my grandma’s cottage in Harbor Springs. I must have been about 5 years old.

If you could have one superpower, what would it be?
I’d want to fly so I could go where I want without having to deal with people.

I always try to have fun.
I never give a bad effort.

If you could make one rule everyone has to follow, what would it be?
Don’t hold grudges on people.

If there is an event in your life you would like a ‘do-over’ for?
I’d redo our last football game against Lowell because we lost and that’s the last game I’ll ever play.

Calling all euchre players

By Sharon Stone

Paul Scott is hosting a charity euchre tournament on Saturday, March 24 in Grand Blanc to raise funds for his Paul Scott Community Fund.

The tournament is being held at Little Joe’s restaurant in Grand Blanc, beginning at 6 p.m. Registration is at 5:45 p.m. The cost per player is $25 and the sponsor level is $100.

Euchre players can test their card-playing skills to snatch one of the prizes. First place wins $150, second place wins $50, third place wins $35 and last place wins $20.

In addition to winning prizes, tourney participants are also contributing to Scott’s community fund. Proceeds from the event go toward college scholarships for area high school seniors who have displayed a profound interest in public service.

Since it was established in 2009, the Paul Scott Community Fund has awarded $9,300 to area youth in sponsorships and scholarships. Last year’s recipients were Patricia Drake of Goodrich High School, Matthew Cherna of Grand Blanc High School, Anastasia Bubin of Lake Fenton High School, Jessica Ulrich of Fenton High School and Colin Westphal of Linden High School. When asked why he established this fund, Scott said, “We need our younger talent to stay in the community and be engaged in service now more than ever. This will be our third year giving scholarships to graduating seniors who display an interest in entering public service. It’s important to our non-profit that we recognize and encourage our top scholars who are committed to improving this community.”

Anytime Fitness now has spinning classes

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

When Aaron Ford, owner of Anytime Fitness in Fenton, invites you to “take a spin,” he wants to introduce you to the cycling sport of spinning.

Spinning classes are the newest fitness classes offered at Anytime Fitness, a 24-hour member access gym located at 3230 Silver Lake Rd. This high energy and fun workout on specially designed spin bikes burns up to 600 calories in just a half-hour workout, according to Ford.

Unlike stationary bikes, a spin bike allows you to ride in a bent position with your forearms placed on the handlebars,” said Ford. “This stance is a power position that allows you to keep your back comfortable, while pedaling at maximum power for your most effective workout.”

Classes are offered Monday through Friday for beginner and intermediate levels. Weekday class times for Intro to Spin are 9 to 9:30 a.m., 4 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 7 p.m. Regular Spin classes are Monday through Friday from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Advanced Spin classes are held Sunday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. by appointment.

“These spin classes are offered to the general public, as well as to Anytime Fitness members,” said Ford. “Our members do get two free Spin classes a month. Ask about our package prices. The classes are booking quickly.”

For more information, call Anytime Fitness at (810) 629-6574.

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 38-year-old woman who has a very stressful job. It is also very well-paying, so I don’t want to give it up. I think it might be giving me chest pain. The pain comes and goes unpredictably. Sometimes I am just sitting at my desk, and I get a squeezing sensation in my chest. At other times, I had been hurrying around. I have had several EKGs, been examined by three doctors, had a stress test and a radioactive stress test. The doctors say my heart is healthy, and the chest pain could come from stress. In speaking with people I trust, I have been told to have a heart catheterization. What do you think?

ANSWER: None of your three doctors told you that. Don’t you think they might know more than your friends? You have to be guided by advice given to you by those who have had experience in assessing people’s complaints. There’s no pattern to your chest pain. Heart pain, in contrast, causes chest pain when a person is physically active. That pain goes when the person rests. Your kind of pain is not suggestive of a heart disorder. Your doctors have told you that your heart is healthy. You have had EKGs, stress tests and even a radioactive stress test. Those tests would have disclosed a heart problem if you had one. Furthermore, you are only 38 years old -- not an age for heart problems to occur. You mention no family history of heart trouble at all. With a catheterization, a thin, pliable tube is inserted from a groin blood vessel to the site where the heart arteries are found. There, dye is injected so doctors can visualize the health of heart arteries. The heart arteries are found. There, dye is injected so doctors can visualize the health of heart arteries. The doctors can spot any obstructions, like cholesterol buildup, in those arteries. It’s an amazing test. However, complications can arise from any procedure that invades the body. When the detection of heart disease can be accomplished in no other way, information from a catheterization is justified. In your case, it’s not. Stress is the most likely cause of your chest pain.

Easy Pizza Dough

In a large mixing bowl, add the flour and make a well in the center of the flour. Add the salt. Mix to combine well.

4 cups bread or all-purpose white flour

1¼ cups lukewarm milk

2 T. active dry yeast

2 T. olive oil

1 T. sugar

1 T. salt

1/4 cup additional milk

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Preheat oven to 450 F.
2. Prepare the dough “starter.” In a large liquid measuring cup, add the 1¼ cups warm milk, 1 teaspoon sugar and the yeast. Stir and set aside for 5 minutes. Allow the starter to foam up, which is called proofing.
3. In a large mixing bowl, add the flour and make a well in the center of the flour. Add the salt. Mix to combine well.
4. Mix the starter with the remaining milk, olive oil and the flour in the mixing bowl until combined and a little sticky.
5. Either turn out the dough onto a floured surface and knead by hand for 8 minutes to get a smooth, elastic, rubbery dough ball, or use a stand mixer with a dough hook to knead.
6. Put the kneaded dough in a bowl and drizzle with some olive oil. Cover the dough with a damp towel or plastic wrap. Allow to rise around an hour, or until it doubles in size. The rate of rising will depend on the temperature in the house and the potency of the yeast.
7. Sprinkle cornmeal on the bottom of the pizza pan. Deflate the dough and press into the pan. Stretch and flatten as necessary.
8. Top with sauce, cheese and favorite toppings. Bake for about 12 to 15 minutes, or until the bottom of the pizza looks slightly browned.

We live in the area and are committed to it.
