

WELFARE:

“Until we institute drug testing for all recipients of any assistance, including disability, we are wasting billions of dollars on lazy misfits.”

HOT LINES:

“A Hot line last week stated that the Times was favoring the conservative movement because they print so many anti-Obama Hot lines. Bush-bashers filled the paper for eight years. Clearly, the liberals are happy with the Obama administration so they don't complain. The Times represents the voice of the people.”

“To the guy who said the paper is full of anti-Obama Hot lines: typical of leftists that whined for years about Bush in the Hot lines, but now that his guy is in charge he doesn't think we should be able to voice our opinions. See you in November Mr. Whiny.”

$640 MILLION JACKPOT

“I would rebuild Linden, complete with a vibrant downtown area and parks and a senior center.”

“I would pay the city enough money to invest in a tagline that made sense.”

“Sue the lottery for advertising a $640 jackpot that is really only about half that amount.”

HOT LINE of the week

“I DON'T GET how if the Lotto is advertised as a $12 million dollar jackpot, it is reduced to $9 million, before any taxes, when it is paid out. To me, that's dishonest, and just another reason to “just say no” to the lotto.”

The Fenton couple linked to the death and dismembering of 21-year-old Jessica Sacco remain in an Ohio jail. Authorities said Andrew Forney, 26, and Kandis Forney, 25, were present during her murder in Urbana, Ohio but did nothing to stop it. The couple is also accused of transporting some of the remains to Covington, Kentucky, some 90 miles away from the slaying.

Michigan motorcyclists may soon be free to ride without a helmet. A bill repealing Michigan's mandatory helmet law has been passed by the Michigan legislature and now awaits Gov. Rick Snyder's approval. A repeal on the helmet law was vetoed twice by former Governor Jenifer Granholm. The current bill stems from

PROBLEMS:

Dr. Hirt what is the most common summer foot problems you see?

I would say by far the two biggest problems I see are:

Ingrown toenails and Planter Fasciitis (heel pain, heel spur). In this interview I will discuss ingrown nails and will discuss heel pain in next interview due to limited time.

What is an Ingrown Toenail?

An ingrown nail occurs when the toenail is pushing on or digging into the skin at the side or end of the toe. It typically starts as a mild redness, inflammation, or mild pain. Usually it will get worse with time and can become infected. If left untreated, it can progress into an abscess, infection, and in rare occasions serious bone infection requiring surgery. It is critical to get the nail evaluated as soon as possible to prevent complications.

What causes an Ingrown Nail?

Ingrown nails are caused by a combination of things. Some people have ingrown nails on and off their entire life. Typically due to the width or curvature of the nail it will chronically dig into the skin as it grows. With most foot and ankle problems it is common to "run in the family", due to nail shape. Other times it can be caused by a tight fitting shoe adding pressure to the nail or cutting the nail incorrectly. Once in awhile an acute injury to the toe can be the culprit. Fungus in the nail is another reason ingrown nails can start. Fungus can thicken and deform the nail, which can cause pressure on the surrounding skin.

Can Ingrown Nails be prevented?

Yes. Once the toe and nail are evaluated we can make a plan to prevent and/or treat, depending on the cause of the ingrown nail. With nails that are excessively curved or wide, a simple procedure can be done to cure it. If due to incorrectly trimmed nails it may be just a matter of changing the way the nail is cut. Nails should be cut straight across to prevent leaving sharp edges in the corners. Additionally shoes should also be evaluated to make sure there is enough room for the toes and there is no excessive pressure on the nails or surrounding skin.

Can Ingrown Nails be fixed?

Yes, both chronic and first time occurrences can be fixed easily. Typically a freezing agent is used to numb the toe up, painlessly. Once the toe is numb, the nail corner can be trimmed back with special instruments and the sharp edge of the nail can be removed with no discomfort. If it is a chronic problem, a quick painless procedure can fix it permanently. To permanently fix the nail corner a special medicine is applied to the "root of the nail"; the entire procedure takes less than 10 minutes and is pain free after the toe is numbed. This procedure only needs to be done once and it will fix the nail for a lifetime. After the procedure the nail looks normal and often, other than a lack of pain, most people cannot tell any procedure was done.

Do home remedies work?

For the most part no they will not. There are some old theories that cutting a triangle out of the center of the nail will relieve pressure on the corners. To make this work it would need to be about 75% of the nail and would be too painful to be a viable option. Another theory is to add a small piece of cotton under the corner of the nail. This may work in very limited situations only if the very end of the nail is pushing on the skin. I see many patients that try to dig the nail out themselves with limited success. I do not recommend this as it is possible to make things worse and even cause an infection.

Can an antibiotic cure an Ingrown Nail?

An antibiotic will resolve an infection only, not the root cause of the ingrown nail. The antibiotic alone will not solve the problem because the sharp edge of nail or excessive curved nail is still there. Usually once the antibiotic is stopped the problem returns as the nail deformity persists. To resolve the problem quickly and permanently a simple procedure can be done and then if needed the patient will be started on an antibiotic.

What should I do if I suspect an Ingrown Nail?

Myself and the other doctors in the office evaluate ingrown nails every day. We can give recommendations as to how severe it is and the treatment options available. Our office is very focused on treating each patient individually and working out a treatment plan that is best for each patient.

Many years ago my mother had the procedure done and she said it was painful?

As with most medical procedures there is constant improvement making them less painful and healing times quicker. The procedures we perform now have very limited discomfort and patients are always amazed how easy and painless it is. I (Dr. Hirt) have personally had the procedure done on my big toe and I can testify that it was easy and painless. At Fenton Foot Care we are focused on pain free treatments and long term relief.

SMART SOLUTIONS

1 Wrinkle Releaser

Instead of standing over the ironing board and running the iron over your clothing, try this easy trick: Wet a washcloth and toss it in the dryer with your wrinkled outfits. As the water begins to heat up, it will create a light misty stream, which softens the material and removes wrinkles. This can be done while you shower, and your clothes will be ready when you are!

2 Computer Clean up

Dampen a Q-tip with alcohol. Be sure and squeeze out all the excess. Now, rub each key on your keyboard with the Q-tip. Change Q-tips as often as you need. The alcohol will not only clean the keys, but also sanitize and eliminate germs.

War. What war?

Do you remember where you were when you heard Whitney Houston had died?

Hey, it's a fair question. The once respected professional entertainer was, in death, suddenly elevated to a status historically reserved for such notables as world leaders, popes, royalty and imploding, drugged-out former sit-com stars.

My point is that I am most certainly not alone in pondering the ongoing colossal media overkill surrounding the life and death of Houston. The singer/actor's demise accounted for a staggering 51 percent of the so-called news-hole of cable television on February 12th and 13th. This kind of feeding-frenzy coverage has not been experienced since the sudden and violent deaths of Princess Di and JFK Jr.

The question is, why? Why is our media so obsessed with the worship of meaningless celebrities? There are entire networks whose programming is solely devoted to dissecting the lives of celebrities — where they went, what they drank or ate, what they wear, where they live, and what they think, do or say. We feast on their nightlife, their affairs, their marriages, their divorces, their children, their addictions and their rehabs.

Most recently despite a nuclear threat from Iran, wars in the Middle East, a stuttering economy, rising oil prices, rising crime and rising taxes, the news media spent hours dissecting every detail of Houston's obviously drug-induced death.

Yet, I'll bet not one of you reading this can name even one of the 65 American troops killed in the Middle East in 2012.

Even our traditional news programs are getting into the game. I find it very disheartening to see a respected news journalist shifting uncomfortably in his or her seat as they "report" who was the latest casualty on American Idol.

But, I digress.

The question is, why does our media obsess over silly, superficial celebrities?

The answer is, because we watch. And watch. And watch.

And then they watch. And watch. And watch — as their ratings rise faster than attorney fees at a tobacco settlement.

Whitney Houston, like so many other dysfunctional celebrities, is like an accident on the side of the road. We know we shouldn't look, but we just can't resist. And the media know this. They prey on it. It is our addiction. And it is just as shameful and repugnant as the drug or alcohol cravings of the objects of our scrutiny — maybe worse.

At the end of the day, it is we, not the media cannibals, who are responsible for this type of superficial rot. When we stop watching the Demi's and Charlies and Whitney's of the world, when our impressionable children see us stop celebrating the deviancy of celebrities, when we become sufficiently ashamed to simply walk away from it — then and only then will they stop feeding it to us.

Until then, we are our own enablers. War. What war?

AS A RESIDENT of Holly, I can honestly say that I am disappointed with the village manager and police chief hires. I thought the village council was supposed to do what's best for our community? Have either of them done anything worthwhile?

I THINK, IN REGARDS to these college towns that riot after a win, that school should not receive the trophy. If they get an advanced notice that it would happen, it would stop these riots.

THE ARTICLE ABOUT Linden should have included the revamped hardware, the repair facility in the old lumber building and the total wellness chiropractor and massage therapist in the old pharmacy building. Linden is a growing place with wonderful people.

THE OBAMA EPA (yes he appoints the EPA leader) basically put an end to coal plants that produce electricity. coal plants provide 45 percent of our electricity; I think Obama's prediction in a taped interview that "electricity rates will necessarily skyrocket" will come true. Why would a president do this?

FENTON PEOPLE, wouldn't it be great to have a dog park in our city? We really need one!

TO THE WOMAN I've seen running on Linden Road, usually on my way home from work. I don't know who you are but I wanted to give you a shout out, and pat on the back. Keep up the good work!

THESE BOYS WHO transfer to Linden to play football should be redshirted for their first year. They're taking the play time from our kids.

PEOPLE, GET OVER the oil crisis. We are using the lowest amount of oil since 1997. Supply is high. The US is now exporting more oil than it imports. We do not need pipelines and more drilling. And supply of natural gas is at an all time high.

NO ONE WANTS MILLIONS more unwanted kids in the world, we just don't want the alternative to be abortion. Other methods could include self control, realizing there are consequences to our actions i.e. pregnancy, be responsible enough to take a pill that is given out for free to everyone.

TO THE PERSON who thinks there are fates worse than abortion. Not if you are a developing, breathing, growing fetus there isn't. Really? Too bad your mother didn't share that same mentality when you were a fetus.

REGARDING THE FENTON schools bond issue. Our family is not rich, but I believe the bond needs to be passed. New technology is not going away! These kids need to be trained in new sources of learning. For example, the Encyclopedia Britannica will not be in print editions any longer.

JOHN CORZINE, THE GUY that lost a couple billion dollars and bankrupted MF Global is a friend, contributor and sat on committees with our own Senator Stabenow. She's promised to investigate and get that money back, (not holding my breath).

WE PASSED LEGISLATION for bullying, yet the Black Panthers can threaten a person's life, and celebrities are giving out the personal addresses of innocent people. Where is the outrage at these actions, which are pure bullying?

OUR NATIONAL DEBT is more than $15 trillion. Michigan public schools rank 5th highest in the nation for long-term debt at $19.7 billion. Do we really need to add another $9.6 million in debt and raise taxes for 12 years for another Fenton school bond? Voters decide May 8.

COULD YOU PLEASE STOP all political Hot lines 90 to 120 days before the election? I feel the closer we get the less likely people will check the facts they state, and half truths will become the normal. This goes for both parties.

I WANT MY money and items back now that your store has closed. It may not seem like a lot of money to you but it is to me.

St. Jude's church waiting for a sign

►Seeks community outreach through signs

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Fenton — An area church hopes to greet visitors at the Fenton border with new signs.

St. Jude's Episcopal Church of Fenton contacted the city, requesting permission to place church welcome signs at city entrance ways. The original request was denied, though the topic underwent further discussion at a Fenton City Council work session meeting.

Summary

►St. Jude's church of Fenton is requesting installing church signs at the city's entrances. The City Council is taking the matter to the city attorney to see what can be done.

"It seems like a nice thing to do to help the church out, however my thought was to turn it down, because there are many other churches in the area who would like the same thing," said Daniel Czarnecki, Director of Public Works (DPW) said to the council.

Rex Harris, a member of the church, put in the sign request. "We are trying to make ourselves more known and more welcoming to the community," he said.

St. Jude's Episcopal Church has been in Fenton since 1858, and has been involved in several community service projects for the city.

Mayor Sue Osborn said that the church was definitely a valuable asset to the city in the services they have provided.

The council discussed potential ideas on what could be done, though after a suggestion by Councilman Les Bland, decided to first speak with the city attorney Stephen Schultz before proceeding.

"I would rather do it right than wrong the first time, so let's make sure we do it right," Bland said.

Osborn suggested the possibility of a sign that might include the names of all of the churches.

"We would love to work with the council on it," said Rev. Josh Hoover of St. Jude's. "I would not object a church sign for all churches."

Councilwoman Patricia Lockwood suggested working a potential new sign into the concrete base of the city's current welcome signs, which she said are not attractive.

This idea was met with criticism by Councilman Benjamin Smith. "Your opinion of the base of the sign is your opinion. I disagree, and I don't want it cluttered up with a bunch of new signs on there." Smith said he was fine with the idea of churches coming together to pay for an additional sign that would include all of the church names.

Instead of a welcome sign, Councilman Les Bland suggested using directional signs similar to what other churches currently use.

Harris said that the church was amenable to other types of suggestions. "We just want to get our name out there," he said.

"I would rather do it right than wrong the first time, so let's make sure we do it right."

The "No Problem" People™

A Special Thank You!!!

I WOULD LIKE TO GIVE A SPECIAL "Thank you" to Argentine Care Center in Linden, Michigan.

You have been so wonderful to my mother and all the other residents. You make taking care of my mother so much easier.

My mother had been in another care center and it was a nightmare. Thank God for the open door policy at Argentine Care Center, I am able to see her at any time of the day and as often as I want. They also treat my mother and all the residents as if they were family with big hugs, kisses and nice walks outside to get fresh air. I feel that my mother is safe and very well cared for.

The facility is very clean, the food is extraordinary and the management, nurses, aides, chefs, office staff, social workers, custodial, maintenance and therapists are extremely caring. I thank God for them all!!!

If you have loved ones and are looking for a care facility- you need to check out Argentine Care Center-they are the best.

Sincerely,

Cyndee Lee Mustric of Fenton

HELMET-FREE

a bill proposed last June. Snyder has yet to indicate whether he will sign the bill. State Senator John Gleason (Flushing-D) is one of the supporters of the bill.

"You hear and see better without a helmet," Gleason said. "Most of the argument for wearing the helmet is after the accident. I want the accident to be avoided. It doesn't matter if you're wearing a helmet or not and going 50 miles an hour, the result is going to be the same after an accident."

But some organizations say repealing the mandatory motorcycle helmet law may lead to higher insurance rates and more fatalities.

The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning anticipate an increase of 30 motorcycle fatalities a year and $129 million in economic costs to the state of Michigan.

"It's going to impact insurance rates and the increased costs are going to fall on motorists," said Pete Kuhnmuench, executive director of Insurance Institute of Michigan. "Regardless of who's at fault, motorcyclists can claim a motorist at fault for accidents."

Kuhnmuench said motorcyclists have significantly less medical coverage than motorists, potentially increasing insurance costs to other drivers.

The law will require motorcyclists to have at least $20,000 in medical coverage and be 21 years of age in order to ride without a helmet. Other requirements include successful completion of a motorcycle safety course and being licensed a minimum of two years.

Vehicle City Harley-Davidson Salesperson Rick Johnson has been riding motorcycles for 20 years and does not agree with the proposed repeal. "Everyone should wear a helmet. If not, our insurance rates will go up and we'll stop selling helmets," Johnson said. "I wouldn't ride a motorcycle without a helmet."

Some believe the repeal will be beneficial, boosting Michigan's economy by attracting more riders to the state.

"There will be more motorcycle rallies because of the repeal," said Rick Herst, CEO of West Michigan Tourist Association. "As motorists however, we want to make sure motorcyclists are kept safe."

The Michigan Licensed Beverage Association (MLBA) said the repeal would increase tourism in Michigan. The MLBA believe Michigan has been at a competitive disadvantage with nearby states for decades.

"Repealing the mandatory helmet law puts us in line with other states in the Great Lakes region, and makes Michigan a destination for motorcyclists from within and outside the state," said MLBA Executive Director Scott Ellis in a statement.

Gov. Snyder is expected to make a decision soon.

THE IDEA THAT THE California college would pepper spray those students for protesting against their tuition fees should be replaced. They don't even pepper spray criminals there, let alone students. I think it's a disgrace for colleges to pepper spray their students.

IT IS DIFFICULT to believe that anyone thinks the Tri-County Times is an impartial newspaper. There are a lot of good articles in the paper, but politically speaking, I think of the Times as the Obama-basher.

NO MORE OF THAT ground beef for me, I'm not eating that pink slime. Unless they come to the place where they make it without that stuff, then I'll go back to it.

IF OBAMA IS RESPONSIBLE for the $4 gasoline we have right now, then who was responsible the last time it happened? Bush, I guess.

THE RIGHT-WINGERS ARE protesting HR347 and HR4646. You ought to go online and see what they really say and not take the word of whoever has been telling you the lies you've been swallowing.

THEATER LOVERS IN the tri-county area missed out on a great opportunity to watch a wonderful play put on by the Blue Heron Theater in Holly. It needs more publicity, because it was a neat, romantic comedy at a great price and the actors are very talented.

I REALLY HATE THE WAY Obama has lied. He lied about going into Iraq and the weapons of mass destruction — oh wait, that was Bush. He lied how the hostilities had ended — oh wait, that was Bush. He lied about the tax cuts for the rich and how it would not hurt the economy — oh wait, that was Bush. Hmm, I must be wrong, it wasn't Obama.

Police&Fire report

PRESCRIPTIONS STOLEN FROM BUSINESS

Fenton police were dispatched to the 200 block of Silver Lake Road on April 2 at 9 a.m. to investigate a breaking and entering. Unknown individuals forced entry through the rear door of the business in the early hours of the morning. A large quantity of prescription medication was stolen, including schedule 1 narcotics. Police are working with the store to review surveillance footage. Detectives have taken over the investigation. There is no current value of the items stolen.

BRASS STOLEN

On April 4 at 10 a.m., officers were called to the 3900 block of Owen Road regarding the theft of a brass water fixture stolen from the outside of the building. Police believe the valve was used for scrap value and was sold shortly after being stolen. Police have not had other reports of stolen brass as of late.

TEENS SMOKING MARIJUANA IN PARK

On April 5 at 6 p.m., police received calls of problematic juveniles in Bush Park who were possibly smoking marijuana. Upon arrival, officers made contact with several males who were on railroad property. The juveniles admitted to smoking tobacco and turned over cigarette packs to the officers. Marijuana was found in a 16-year-old male's cigarette pack. The 16-year-old and one other male were transported to the police station, where they were later picked up by their parents. The 16 year old has a court ordered appearance for possessing marijuana.

POLICE FLOODED WITH RETAIL 360 COMPLAINTS

Police have received numerous complaints from former customers of Retail 360. Customers said property was not returned to them or situations where property was sold but they were not reimbursed. Police are conducting an active investigation and may present a case to a prosecutor in the next few weeks. Some customers said Retail 360 has given property back but has failed to give money owed.

cutting budgets, but Holly still boasts one of the most successful districts in Oakland County. "It's small enough to care, and large enough to offer what your child needs," said Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Noni Miller.

Most local districts are hearing bad news about their budgets, but HAS strives to achieve a world-class education for students.

Holly was among 400 districts recognized nationally for increasing the amount of advanced placement (AP) courses available, and also growing the achievement of students who take the AP courses.

Holly was also recognized by the State of Michigan as fully meeting, and in many cases exceeding, its Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) scores, set by No Child Left Behind. All the buildings received a grade "A" in this regard, which puts Holly in an elite group of other school districts in Oakland County. "We're very proud of that," said Miller.

These AYP achieving students include sub groups who may be disabled or low income, and were at risk of not meeting benchmarks.

None of the HAS buildings were listed as needing any improvement.

Students in HAS have also improved more than any other school district in Oakland County at ACT and Michigan Merit Award Exams (MME) since 2007, since the ACT was required by a high school juniors and seniors.

Novi and Lake Orion public schools are the only other districts to have improved each year since 2007, said principal David Nuss in October. He also said that HAS is doing better than the state and county average on tests.

HAS is now in the upper 75 percent in the county, close behind districts like South Lyon and Bloomfield Hills, which has ranked first place for the past four years.

On a district map, HAS is around three times larger than Bloomfield Hills at 125 square miles, only close in size to Huron Valley and Oxford Schools.

HAS has been successful in that despite dwindling state aid, they have kept their focus on the core mission of student achievement. The board of education celebrates different student achievements at the beginning of every meeting.

District wide, the five "A's" are practiced. Academics, athletics, the arts are three of the five A's of Holly Schools. The other two include attendance, where HAS focuses on reducing bullying so students feel safe coming to school. The other is attitude, which helps to convey how a student's education applies to life outside of school.

Also implemented is "added value," a system administered by teachers to ensure a student achieves a year of growth and education each school year. If they come into the district below the level that is expected, their coursework will be adjusted to get them up to speed. "That teacher has to ensure that when they leave they're on target, otherwise it's a downward spiral," said Miller.

Students in HAS have access to the most up to date technology, which also includes a new phone infrastructure for teachers.

Teachers at the high school have Apple laptops and smart boards instead of traditional dry erase or chalk boards.

HAS has a technology plan to eventually give all students access to Apple products, like an iPad or laptop.

COUPLE

The couple maintained a low profile in Fenton as neighbors and police said they had little interaction with them. A house on Parallel Street near State Road is listed as their address.

Summary

►A former Fenton couple linked with a murder in Ohio are headed to the Ohio courts for obstruction of justice and hiding evidence.

Sacco's ex-boyfriend Matthew Puccio admitted to murdering her in her Urbana apartment, reports the Dayton Daily News. Puccio claims Sacco asked him to kill her, grabbing his hand and forcing Puccio to stab her. Puccio said he alone dismembered Sacco's body while the Forneys and another couple helped clean up. Puccio said his friends encouraged him to hide the remains in order to hide the evidence.

Authorities said the Forneys met Sacco and Puccio online, describing them as "loose friends." Puccio told the Dayton Daily News the Forneys shouldn't be punished because "they have nothing to do with this."

An April 17 court date has been set for Puccio, who remains in jail on a $100,000 bond.

out a good two to four weeks ahead of schedule.

A morel is an edible wild mushroom, and Michigan is home to 3,000 species of mushrooms. There are three basic types of morels, commonly known as “blacks” — the earliest spring variety, “yellows” or “whites” and the less common “half-free” variety, with caps attached “half-free” from the stem, according to Phil Tedeschi, of Dexter, director of the Michigan Mushroom Hunters Club.

Black morels in northern Michigan usually start slowly during the last two weeks of April, but there have already been successful sightings this early in the month up in the Lewiston area. Usually, Mother’s Day weekend is the best time for yellow morels, and this year it might be a little earlier, depending on the weather.

The most popular hunting ground for morels is up north, because most morels thrive in wooded areas, including habitats of dead or dying elms, old apple orchards, old ash, poplar trees and even pines. Learn about different types of trees to find out where to find morels or other edible mushrooms. Most hunters aren’t willing to share their secret spots, but a novice should try to accompany an experienced hunter, to know what to look for.

Before heading out, dress appropriately with long pants, comfortable hiking boots or shoes, wear DEET-free bug spray and carry a small pocket knife or swiss army knife. Bring a paper or mesh bag for your bounty of morels, as well as a map, compass or GPS. Always bring a friend or partner.

If you’re new to morel hunting, you might want to look at the base of old elm, ash, tulip or apple trees, or near areas where the ground has been disturbed — such as downed tree or logging areas, old flood plains or burn sites. Start at the base of that tree or in the middle of that burn site, and slowly make your way around the area in a widening circle.

“It keeps me active and I end up with a year’s worth of culinary delights. I get to enjoy a nice walk in the woods, whether I find mushrooms or not.”

Phil Tedeschi
President of Michigan
Mushroom Hunters Club

Once you’ve had success in finding a few morels, keep in mind that you don’t want to pick them too young and small, or too mature. To minimize dirt, cut the mushroom from the bottom of the stem with your knife rather than just picking it.

When you get your bounty home, there are many ways to preserve your morels for months and years worth of “culinary delights.”

“We dehydrate ours, then reconstitute them when we’re ready to use them,” said George Kutlenios, chef/owner of the Holly Hotel. “Last year, we bought almost 1,000 pounds of morels from pickers who have been supplying us for over 30 years.” The Holly Hotel gets many of their wild mushrooms from Cadillac and farther north into the Upper Peninsula. “We get all of our Fiddlehead Ferns and Wild Ramps from the U.P.,” he said.

The Holly Hotel is famous for its annual Morel Mushroom Festival, an eight-course mushroom-themed dinner served Tuesday through Sunday before or after the Memorial Day holiday — depending on the season. “We get our pickers’ report by May 1, and then we’ll set the date,” said Kutlenios. “It’s one of our biggest events - we sell out every year. Last year, we sold over 1300 dinners.”

While some families do hunt and sell their morels commercially, most people who hunt, do it for the camaraderie and enjoyment of being out in the woods with a purpose. “It keeps me active and I end up with a year’s worth of culinary delights,” said Tedeschi, 69, and retired. “I get to enjoy a nice walk in the woods, whether I find mushrooms or not.”

The difference between false and true morels

Rule #1: If in doubt, throw it out.

If you are not 100 percent sure your mushroom is a morel, don’t even think about eating it.

Rule #2: If it ain’t hollow, don’t swallow.

Morels are hollow. Slice open a black, yellow, or half-free morel and you will find only air (and bugs, if you haven’t cleaned it), from top to bottom. Slice open a false morel, and you’ll find mushroom flesh.

Rule #3: If it’s wavy, don’t make it gravy.

The caps of false morels are often wavy, rather than pitted. The pits on morels are not, on very close inspection, symmetrical, but they are very regular when compared to the lobed, wavy, brain-like structure of the false morel.

Rule #4: If it’s reddish, you could be dead-ish.

False morels frequently, though not always, have reddish brown shades. So, this rule might eliminate some good-eating morels. But it is more likely to eliminate false morels. Don’t rely on this rule (or any of the rules, for that matter) alone. Consult a good mushroom identification guide before you go.

How to buy a boat

►What to expect and what to do with it

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Whether you have been dreaming of owning a small fishing boat or a large customized pontoon, it may be time to stop dreaming and start shopping.

"Right now is an extremely good time if you are thinking of purchasing a boat, trading a boat, or getting into boating," said Patti Smith of Silver Spray Sports.

According to Smith, interest rates are at the lowest point she has seen in 30 years. She also suggests checking about a loan with the bank, as often times banks will finance a boat longer than they will a car, providing potential buyers with more options to finance the boat they want.

"A lot of times loans for boats we sell will go up to 180 months, or 15 years," Smith said.

People who are looking for a boat will be asked many questions when they start shopping around.

"We really try to get as much information as we can about how they are going to use the boat," said Jeff Nichols of Aqua Sports in Fenton. "We interview the potential customer to make sure that we couple them with the boat that will suit their needs the best."

One question a customer will be asked is where they intend to use the boat. The lake's size can have a big impact on how a boat rides out on the water, and it is important to match the boat and lake appropriately.

It is also important for buyers to know what kind of boating they want to do—skiing/boarding, cruising, fishing or socializing and entertaining.

"If you are getting a pontoon boat, get the right size for the number of people you have on it. Get the right horsepower for what you want to do," said Trish Jacobs of Freeway Sports.

Boat horsepower for pontoons, for example, can range from nine to 300. Jacobs says that deciding which one to purchase depends on if the buyer wants to just go "putzing" around the lake or do something more active such as tubing.

When looking to find the perfect boat, Nichols advises asking about the features that come with it. "A lot of the boat manufacturers are presenting a price for the boat, and it's basically stripped right down to the bare bones," he said.

Summary

►There is no time like the present to buy a boat. Low interest rates may provide a good opportunity to buy a boat, though it is important to find the one that suits your needs and wants.

The work and expenses doesn't end when a boat is purchased. Other boating expenses that need to be considered include gas, maintenance, winterization/storage and boat slips. "We recommend the oil be changed every 50 hours, or once a season, whatever comes first," Nichols said.

Spending the time and money to properly maintain your boat is very important. "The biggest thing you want to do is to make sure you summerize and winterize your boat correctly," said Smith. "If you do those two things, and in between you check your oil, your trans fluid, your boat

CLARK

Though Bob is tucked away on the border of Fenton and Holly, to many, he and his equipment are just as iconic as the Fenton Gazebo. "I'm not some shop rat retiring from General Motors who fell off a pickle truck coming into Fenton, I'm Bob Clark," he said.

If you've driven to Fenton from Holly, or vice versa, you've seen his ornate red barn, complete with a white horse hanging from the silo, and his hundreds of tractors and other oddball pieces of heavy equipment displayed haphazardly across his property.

On the 125 acres of Clark's property today is 58 years worth of this machinery. Rare is the norm here, but Bob, 80, would rather not play tour guide to just anyone

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Although Bob Clark has many unique antique items like this steam engine eagle, the antiques around his barn are not for sale.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Bob Clark of Fenton has been a fixture in Fenton since the the early '50s. His family has been in the area even longer.

who wants to sightsee. But, he's available if it's a tractor you want to buy.

On Wednesday, a potential customer arrived interested in a tractor, and Bob took him on a tour of the property in his busted Ford F-150, and eventually his son John offered him a deal on a couple of different pieces.

Bob's sprawling property off of Grange Hall Road straddles the line between Fenton and Holly Township, with 80 acres in Holly, and 45 in Fenton. Bob boasts the only working farm left in the city with his cattle, corn and grain. "We run about 60 head of cattle," he said.

On the property you'll see hundreds of anything with a motor and wheels, including classic cars. In one barn, a Delorean sat next to a rare four door convertible Buick. Up front are his antiques. He's only interested in selling tractors and equipment. This has been his life for 58 years, and the seemingly endless collection reflect that.

"His antique stuff's not for sale," said John. He said there used to be many more local farmers, and as they left the area or folded up their business, they gave pieces of equipment to Bob. "He kept this stuff just to remind him of the old farmers," he said.

In his collection you'll also find a sugarcane press, Michigan's first lottery machine, a steam engine eagle, various antique signs, a brass washing machine, and probably anything else you can imagine.

It's an antique tourists dream, but try to resist a visit. Bob may have heard of "American Pickers," but he'd rather not waste his time just showing anyone around. "I can't take every dude and dreamer out there to see my antique tractors," he said, leading the way through barns filled with equipment. "I gotta meet a payroll every Friday night."

Bob is admittedly short on his "bedside manner," but long on warmhearted friendliness. "I just can't tell you my life story in 10 minutes, son," he said.

He is surrounded by tractors inside one barn, by the hundreds. A few of them used to be featured in Fenton parades,

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Bob Clark of Fenton sells equipment, but also raises black angus, and will produce around 60 this season.

and some of them may return to parades soon. One of his rare antique trucks says "Doin business on the same road since 1848."

Bob's story is much like his property and his antiques — there is too much to cover in a short visit.

"We've been here 58 years in July, it doesn't seem like it's been that long," said Bob, who lives alone on the property.

His business grew out of farm equipment, then to construction equipment. This has been a problem for a business that relies upon the construction business. "Construction isn't moving at all," he said.

Ebay, said John, is keeping the scrappy company afloat. John sold a wood chipper that was shipped to New Zealand, a bucket truck that went to Guatemala and a tank retriever that was shipped to England.

Michigan equipment is unique to the southern states, as it is only used part time, and can be older and still be in better shape than equipment from warmer regions. Michigan's depressed economy also keeps prices in Michigan down for outside sellers.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Prospective clients are given the tour of his property, as his 400 or so tractors are stashed around the lot.

is going to last." The process of summerizing and winterizing a boat can be a very complicated process, especially for those who are not mechanically inclined. Smith suggests finding a reputable place to do it for you.

Care needs to be taken not just in performing maintenance on your boat, but when it is being used out on the water as well. Smith says that many problems people have with boats are self-inflicted, such as driving the boat into a dock or hitting a sandbar. Avoiding recklessness on the lake will save you not only a headache, but a lot of money in repair costs.

Nichols recommends purchasing a boat from someone you trust, and from whom you can get solid references.

"It's more important that the person is purchasing the dealership versus the boat brand. You can buy an absolutely wonderful boat from a dealer that's not so good, and it can be a miserable experience," Nichols said.

"Or you can buy a mediocre boat from a dealer that's great and it can be the best thing you ever did."

“Right now is an extremely good time if you are thinking of purchasing a boat, trading a boat, or getting into boating.”

IF YOU THINK OBAMACARE has not hit Fenton, think again. Doctors advertise for new patients, but when (seniors) need an extra appointment or surgery, they receive a certified letter that they are being dropped and need to 'find a new doctor.' Watch out seniors, ObamaCare has struck Fenton.

NOW WE HAVE THAT Republican crying because Obama wants to reduce nuclear weapons, and this imbecile thinks we will be weak and vulnerable. We have enough nukes to blow the world into the sun. The key word is reduce, dude, reduce. Quit causing unwanted worry.

DISHWASH

customer once who put auto parts in the dishwasher, and he made a greasy mess of it," said Rick Taylor, service manager for Mr. Appliance in Linden. "Anything made of glass or plastic should be okay, but be careful about using the heating cycle so you don't warp or melt anything."

Here are 10 items you can wash in your dishwasher:

1) Glass globes from light fixtures — run them through on the top shelf and make sure there's space between them because this type of glass is more fragile than drinking glasses. Use delicate cycle and skip the heated dry option. Don't wash antique, hand-painted or gold-leaf trim in your dishwasher.

2) Baseball caps — a dishwasher will help keep their shapes better than a washing machine. Put hats on the top rack, head opening down and use borax instead of dishwasher detergent. Don't wash them with dishes, because food will get caught in the cloth.

3) Plastic toys/action figures — toss them in a mesh bag or dishwasher basket and place on the top rack. Wash on a normal cycle with other dishes. Don't wash "Barbie," though, or she'll have a very bad hair day.

4) Tools with metal or plastic handles — towel-dry afterward to prevent rusting.

5) Personal care items like hairbrushes, toothbrushes, combs, clips and barrettes clean up well — remove all strands of hair, then corral everything in a mesh lingerie bag or dishwasher basket on the top rack.

6) Pet bowls and toys — these can be loaded with other dishes or run separately if there's a baby in the house or someone with a suppressed immune system. Don't wash rope toys or raw-hide chews.

7) Shin guards, knee pads and mouth guards can be tossed onto the top rack and washed.

8) Fan grilles, switch plates and vent covers can be washed if they're plastic, aluminum or steel. Enamelled, painted or plated should stay out of the dishwasher.

9) Potatoes can get nice and clean in the top rack with a rinse-only (no detergent) cycle, and makes it easier when making mashed potatoes for a crowd.

10) Shower heads and faucet handles — if shower heads are clogged or faucet handles aren't as shiny as they used to be, place them on the top rack and run the pots and pans cycle.

Source: Real Simple and Woman's Day magazines

What NOT to put in the dishwasher

1) Cast iron, enameled cast iron and copper pots and pans, because cast iron rusts, enameled cast iron chips, copper dents.

2) Formal dishes and nice flatware can get worn with repeated washings. Rule of thumb: If it is something you would cry over harming or losing, do not put it in. If you do put sterling silver in the dishwasher, use about a tablespoon of detergent and do not mix it with stainless-steel flatware; a chemical reaction between the metals can discolor the silver, according to Real Simple.

3) Wooden spoons can warp and crack, so either replace frequently, or hand wash in the sink.

4) Good kitchen knives and steak knives will be dulled by the dishwasher. Handwash instead.

5) Crystal glasses are especially vulnerable. Food particles can etch them; heat can cause cracks. After hand washing, dry with a cloth that has not been laundered with fabric softener, which can leave a film.

6) Insulated mugs and containers feature vacuum seals, which can be destroyed if water seeps in.

7) Brass items may be ruined when hot water removes the natural protective layer that forms on brass.

8) Wooden cutting boards and most bamboo boards can swell and contract, leaving them teetery and essentially useless on a counter.

Use caution:

* Broom ends, dust pans, scrub bushes and vacuum attachments, are iffy because of the dust and dirt inherent in these items.

* Computer keyboards that have been spilled upon with coffee or pop — a last-ditch effort to save something that is likely already ruined. If you want to try it: place the keyboard face down on the top rack, do not use detergent, and skip the drying cycle. Afterward, unscrew the back, if possible, or pop off the keys (take a picture beforehand so you remember where they go). Air-dry two to five days.

Bob Blumer's Dishwasher Salmon

INGREDIENTS:

1 T. olive oil
4 6-oz. pieces salmon fillet
1/4 cup fresh lime juice
Kosher salt and black pepper
1 lemon, cut into wedges
Heavy-duty foil

PREPARATION:

Grease the shiny side of two 12-inch squares of heavy-duty foil with the oil. Place 2 pieces of fish side by side on each square. Fold up the outer edges of the foil (to contain any liquid) and drizzle the fish with the lime juice. Season with salt and pepper. Fold the foil closed to form two airtight packets. (To test the seal, press down on a packet gently with your hand. If air escapes easily, re-wrap.) Place the packets in the top rack of the dishwasher. Run a normal cycle. Remove the fish from the foil and serve with the lemon wedges. Serves 4.

TIP : As long as a thermometer inserted into the thickest part of the fish reads 145° F, it's safe to eat and probably pretty moist.

ASK THE MECHANIC

Chris Wilkinson,
Certified Mechanic

Q: When driving forward the right front wheel makes kind of a scraping, growling, grinding noise, but at higher speeds (40+) the noise stops. I also hear the noise when slowing down while I'm pressing the brakes. When I turn right I can still hear the noise, but when I turn left I can't.

- Rabi

A: Rabi, This is most likely a wheel bearing going bad. If you jack up the front wheels and try to move the top and bottom of the tire in and out it should give you an indication as to which one it is. Sometimes we have to run them on a hoist and listen with a stethoscope to determine the exact one causing the noise. You should fix this as soon as possible so that it does not cause any further damage to other parts or become serious enough to be dangerous.

Copley stands tall among rest

► Holly sophomore is our 2012 Female Basketball Player of the Year

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Allyssa Copley looked destined to be a guard, and probably a pretty good one at that.

She was in middle school, and while maybe on the taller side in her classes, she was close to the size of her peers. So being a strong ball-handler, she played a lot of guard.

But then in eighth- and ninth-grade, Copley began to grow. And with that length, her game began to change, too.

And this season the transformation was complete. Copley, who now is about 6-foot-1, is one of the Flint area's top post players, helping lead the Bronchos to one of their best seasons in recent memory.

And while she remains just a sophomore, she's already earning the 2012 Tri-County Female Basketball Player of the Year award for the 2011-12 season.

Copley says her recent growth spurt has helped her game tremendously.

"It has," Copley said. "A lot of post people don't dribble a lot, but because I used to play guard, I know how. It's a big advantage."

Holly varsity girls basketball coach David Hall remembers the shorter Copley, and realizes how the length has enhanced her game.

"She was just as tall as most of the kids, and it wasn't until the eighth grade that she hit a growth spurt and grew bigger," Hall said. "When she was younger, she played guard. Even on our team, she handles the ball a lot. If she was tall all her life, she may have been stuck at forward and center and never handled the ball. But as it is now, she's been handling the ball ever since she started playing."

The combination makes Copley a tough match-up for most teams. And, statistically, that showed this season. The sophomore averaged 12.9 points a game this year, scoring in double-digits in all but two contests. She also averaged 10 rebounds a contest and 2.7 blocks a game. Those are things you'd expect out of a 6-1 post player. However, she also can do some of the things you'd expect out of a guard.

There were times this season when she broke presses by dribbling the ball up the court. She also dished 27 assists and earned 2.5 steals a game. Many of those steals came in the open court with quick hand pokes for the ball, much like what one would expect out of a guard.

"She's a great basketball player, and

Piwowarczyk, Covert headed to Fenton athletic HOF

► Son of Linden athletic director, Piwowarczyk thrived while playing sports at Fenton

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Christopher Piwowarczyk always understood the Fenton-Linden rivalry when it came to athletics.

Summary

► Christopher Piwowarczyk and Mark Covert are two of seven individuals and one team being inducted into the Fenton Athletic Hall of Fame.

In fact, he probably knew about it better than anyone.

His dad, Joe Piwowarczyk, was the athletic director at Linden High School when Christopher was dominating the athletic headlines at Fenton High School.

In fact, Linden's gymnasium is named in honor of Christopher's dad.

"It worked out great for me," Pi-wowarczyk said. "He took a lot of flack for that. When he started teaching in Linden he decided we were going to live in the Fenton district. And as I got older and better in athletics, that became a bone of contention with some of the Linden folks who wanted me to go to school over there."

But that never happened and ended up working well into Fenton's favor. It worked out so well, in fact, that Piwowarczyk will be one of the 2012 class being inducted into the Fenton Area Public Schools Education Foundation Athletic Hall of Fame. Another person he'll be going in with is with his football coach during his time at Fenton, Mark Covert. The other players being inducted are Marty Spees, Becky (Wheatley) she's not one-dimensional," Hall said. "She was second on the team with assists. We put her in different places. If she's up against a small player, we just put her near the basket. And if a big player is defending her, we can put her in space so she can dribble against the bigger players. She's a tough match-up for people."

Copley has an added advantage. She's been playing basketball since she was 7, mainly because her parents have coached basketball for over 25 years. Still, it's very much a parent-daughter relationship.

"I remember them being my coach and getting in arguments with them," Copley said. "But my parents try to make me better. Sometimes I like to kid they don't know what they are doing, but they really know what they are talking about."

And while she's only a sophomore, maybe being surrounded by basketball mentors has helped make her a natural leader.

"She'd be a good coach," Hall said. "She understands things and has a good mind."

"The best thing about her is she's very unselfish. She probably could score more points for us. There are times she throws the ball to other teammates when I'd rather have her shoot it. But that's not how she plays."

She's already taken a leadership role not only on the varsity team, but with the Holly youngsters as well.

"She's great with the young kids," Hall said. "They just love her when we have clinics. They run up to her, and she takes time with all the little kids when they are talking to her. She puts herself out there for people. She's a very good person."

And with half of her varsity career remaining, she is already a dominant player. She has ambitious goals, like leading the Bronchos to their first Metro League title since 1993. The squad came close this year, losing a game against Lapeer West in the second-last league contest, resulting in them losing out on a share of the crown.

"It's going to be a challenge, but getting to another championship game would be sweet," Copley said. "Making it past the first round of districts would be nice, too. We've lost in the first round in my first two years."

With Copley leading the way, those things could happen.

Detroit Tigers Preview

DAVID TROPPENS

OLD SCHOOL VS.
NEW SCHOOL

WILL AXFORD

The Tigers will score runs as long as Miguel Cabrera and Prince Fielder stay healthy. It would be nice to see Austin Jackson blossom this year.

Grade: 8.0 (out of 10)

Offense

Fielder and Cabrera are going to be a pitcher's worst nightmare. Alex Avila and Brennan Boesch are solid hitters as well. The Tigers have a few holes.

Grade: 4.0 (out of 5)

Justin Verlander and Doug Fister is a good start to a pretty strong first four to the rotation. The bullpen should be fine.

Grade: 6.5 (out of 10)

Pitching

Verlander is, arguably, the best pitcher in the league, but it's unrealistic to expect him to be just as good as he was last year. Jose Valverde will remain a quality go-to closer.

Grade: 4.0 (out of 5)

Clearly the weakest part of the team. Hopefully people don't decide to bunt down the lines 20 times a game.

Grade: 3.5 (out of 10)

Defense

Cabrera and Fielder aren't exactly the quickest guys. Brandon Inge, like his hitting, is unpredictable. Jhonny Peralta isn't the fastest either. It's workable but not stellar.

Grade: 3.0 (out of 5)

It should be a fun season, but didn't everyone say that about 2008 as well? The Tigers have three of the best players in baseball. If they stay healthy, 100 wins is pretty likely.

Prediction 98-64, first place

Prediction

The Tigers will make the playoffs. The team will duke it out for the American League title. If they plan on making it to the World Series, they are going to have to figure out their defense.

Last season's final day was magic. And now baseball wants to create a one-game playoff to have that magic every year. Forget that idea and just go to an every-team single-elimination tourney. Just a stupid idea.

Anything Goes

The Tigers will win a title in the next four years. They have the hitters and pitchers. Now is the time to invest in basemen and outfielders to build a decent defense. Do that and they'll have a powerhouse team.

WASH SOME GREEN INTO YOUR LAUNDRY

Wash out your family's green grass stains and wash in even more green savings. The laundry room can be the busiest room in your house, and if your washer and dryer aren't performing at their best, it could show up on your energy bill. It may be time to give your family's laundry habits an energy-saving makeover.

Follow these simple tips from Mr. Appliance to help your laundry room conserve energy and money.

Washer:

- When appropriate, wash clothes in cold water. This saves the energy needed to heat the water.
- Wash full loads. Washing machines use about the same amount of energy for all load sizes, so fill up the load to avoid wasting energy.
- Use the high-speed spin cycle, to take moisture out of your clothes resulting in less drying time and more energy saved.
- If you have an older top-loading washing machine, consider converting to a front-loading washer, which uses about 70 percent less water.

Moore and Darby Decker. The 1950 football team is being inducted as is Hoyt Glasper as a veteran induction. Finally, Bruce McLenna is entering as a honorary member.

The Fenton-Linden rivalry meant a lot to Piwowarczyk.

"I always said Linden was the biggest rivalry for Fenton for that reason, and it still is," Piwowarczyk said.

Piwowarczyk was at Fenton at a time when the Tigers' athletic program prospered, and he was a big reason for it. He was a three-year starter at right guard for the football team and was on the undefeated Metro League championship teams of 1984 and 1986. He was first-team All-State his senior season and named a captain of the East/West All-Star Game his senior year. He ended up playing football for the Michigan State Spartans, going to four bowl games in four years. He competed on the 1988 Rose Bowl team.

But he also was a strong track, basketball and baseball player. Track was probably his second best sport. He was a three-year letter winner and finished in the top 10 in the state meet in the shot put in 1987. He even competed on relay teams.

In basketball he was a three-year letterwinner, playing center. He even played baseball for two seasons.

"The biggest thing was we got the opportunity," Piwowarczyk said. "We had some of the best coaches around. They ran a college-type system at the high school level. And we had 100 guys go out for football. I got a chance to start as a sophomore and we were undefeated my sophomore and my junior year, the first time we made the state playoffs. It was very exciting. It was a family atmosphere. You knew the coaches got the best out of you. It was hard work, but a lot of fun at the same time."

Covert also is being inducted. He coached at Fenton from 1971 until 1992, earning a 130-61-1 record. He led the Tigers to six Metro titles and the team qualified for the state playoffs four times. He also was the head track coach from 1984 until 1989, winning two league titles.

He was inducted into the Michigan Football Coaches Hall of Fame in 1988.

2012 TRI-COUNTY BASEBALL PREVIEWS

LINDEN EAGLES

Coach: Steve Buerkel, second year.

Lost All T-C players: None.

Summary: Depth and solid pitching lead the Eagles into a season in which they want to improve upon last year's record of a couple of games under .500. A trio of three-year senior starters lead the pitching staff — Lefty Tyler Benedict, Josh Hoeberling and Dillon Nash. Brenden Pudduck and junior catcher Mitch Juhl are captains. Hoeberling and Nash have good speed on the basepaths. Nash should be on a lot, considering he led the team in batting average (.310), home runs, RBI and doubles. Travis Hull and Bryce Benedict should be quality middle infielders, while Matt Wierenga is another strong catcher. John Ingamells has a steady bat with good speed, while Mitchell Ryan, a transfer from Swartz Creek, can bat, pitch and play strong defense.

Coach Buerkel says: "Linden has had six or seven straight losing seasons, and I think this is the year we will turn it around. I expect us to do well. We have a solid group of heady kids, and I think it will be an up year."

Projection: With its talent and depth at starting pitching, Linden should have more than a realistic chance of giving the program its first above-.500 season in a long time. With a few breaks the Eagles could make a run at a Metro League title.

Lake Fenton's Tim Hooks

LAKE FENTON BLUE DEVILS

Coach: Hewitt Judson, 17th year, third season in second stint with Lake Fenton.

Lost All T-C players: Mitch Kirk (OF, P), Spencer Quick (inf), Devin Evans (inf).

Summary: The Blue Devils have lost a lot of their pitching depth from a year ago, losing three starting pitchers. So this season, the mystery is who will pitch. Senior Tyler Hammond returns with experience, but beyond him, Judson said eight of his 13 players will get a chance to pitch. That list includes Tim Hooks, Brad Oldenburg, Cody Alexander, Tyler Begley and Tyler Donnelly. Sophomore Neil Allor will play shortstop, as will Byron transfer Jeff Hiller. Wyatt Wilson is entering his third season as a varsity catcher. Jeff Lyons also had a big winter at a baseball camp and hopes to make an impact.

Coach Judson says: "We graduated our top three pitchers, which accounted for 85 percent of our wins. We hope to find pitching from eight of our 13 kids. Tyler Hammond hurt his shoulder and is back in good shape to lead our pitching. We think we will be a good hitting team."

Projection: How the pitching progresses will be the key. The offense has potential to be solid, so if the pitching holds up, the Blue Devils could be a decent squad. The Blue Devils want to get back to districts and avenge the nightmare shutout loss to Byron in districts a year ago.

FENTON TIGERS

Coach: Chad Logan, 13th season
Lost All T-C players: David Lenzi (P), Ryan Surface (OF), Eric Mowery (inf), Chad Schupbach (inf).

Summary: The Tigers lost seven starters to graduation, and four were on our All Tri-County Team, so they lost talented starters. However, three senior pitchers return, who all worked at least 30 innings last year. They are Josh Bryant, Patrick Leske and Kyle Schrade.

The defense will be anchored by shortstop Derek Jenkins and center-fielder Connor Davidson.

Coach Logan says: "We have a good core of pitching. On defense we have some ideas. It's really a work in progress. We need to be efficient on offense, and score when we have the opportunities. We need to move runners, score from third and play quality innings. We don't have any power, so we need to put pressure on people."

Projection: With good pitching and Fenton's trademark "small ball" game, the Tigers have a chance to be a solid team once again this season.

Fenton's Derek Jenkins

HOLLY BRONCHOS

Coach: Benny Jackson, first year
Lost All T-C players: Matt Beckner (OF), Max Lambert (inf).

Summary: David McNeely, Blake Ordiway, Brent Smiles, Joe Perry and Alec Miller will all play key roles on a squad that has some talent. Jackson called them his leaders, and said he needs them to play well.

McNeely, Ordiway, Smiles and Perry can all hit well. Ordiway, an All Tri-County selection last season, should be one of the best pitchers in the tri-county area.

Coach Jackson says: "Our scrimmage (with Lake Fenton) went pretty well. We definitely have some things to work on. We should be very competitive in the Flint Metro League. I really like this bunch. We have a good mix of personalities and talent. We have some high expectations for my first year as head varsity coach. As long as we throw strikes and put the ball in play, we will be fine."

Projection: After winning only four games two season ago, the Bronchos finished near .500 a year ago. This season looks to be the year the Bronchos could find themselves on the winning side of the ledger.

Keeping kids' smiles healthy, even through the spring candy rush

In terms of candy consumption volume, the Easter holiday is second only to Halloween. While baskets full of chocolates and candies can seem like a child's dream come true, parents may cringe at the prospect of their little ones' mouths filled with so much sugar.

The American Dental Association recognizes that early childhood cavities are a significant public health problem. In fact, tooth decay is still recognized as the most common chronic disease affecting children in the United States.

Fortunately, parents can help their children avoid dental issues like cavities by establishing healthy routines early. Dr. Jennifer Salzer, a dentist, orthodontist and mom, offers the following tips to help parents keep children's smiles healthy all year.

See the Expert

- Speak to your pediatrician about when to schedule baby's first dental visit.
- A good rule of thumb is to schedule a visit by their first birthday with regular visits every six months.

Lead by Example

- Set a good example and let your kids learn by watching and imitating you as you brush, rinse and floss.
- If you need to brush up on your own oral care knowledge, check out the Oral-B Stages "Parent's Guide" available online at oralb.com/stages.

Mirror Mirror

- Encourage your kids to brush in front of a mirror; it will help them see spots they may otherwise miss.
- To help keep track of their oral care routine enlist the help of a brushing chart to record each time your child brushes.

Offer Choices

- Have plenty of oral care supplies on hand for your kids in the flavors and designs they'll be excited to use to encourage proper oral hygiene.
- The Oral-B Stages line is designed for kids four months to seven years of age. It features Disney(R) characters and fun flavors to provide an appealing option for young children.
- For older kids, 8 years and up, who feel too grown up for "baby products", there is the Crest and Oral-B Pro-Health FOR ME line which comes in tween-friendly flavors and designs.

Brace Face

- Show kids with braces how to brush using a two-step approach — from the top down, and then the bottom up — to help dislodge any food that may be stuck in the brackets.

- Provide your teen with great products like the Oral-B Pro-Health FOR ME CrossAction Toothbrush which helps clean hard-to-reach areas and the Crest Pro-Health FOR ME Anti-Cavity Rinse which reaches where brushing may miss.

Oral health is an important issue, particularly for kids. Luckily, with good habits and the right tools, dental health issues like cavities are largely preventable — even if sweets are plentiful.

More information about Oral-B Stages and Crest and Oral-B Pro-Health FOR ME products is available at oralb.com/stages and crestprohealth.com.

Parents can help children establish healthy oral care routines early to aid in preventing cavities.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF

► Warm weather, sunlight improves overall well being

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

With baseball season underway and the robins returning, signs of spring are abundant in the tri-county area, despite the bleak weather forecasted for the weekend.

One of the main themes of Easter is new beginnings, and the fertility of spring, as characterized by the Easter Bunny. For Michiganders and other northerners accustomed to winter weather, spring can be an uplifting and offer an improvement in health.

Seasonal affective disorder (SAD) is a type of depression triggered by the cold winter months. The Mayo Clinic attributes the lack of sunlight in colder months to having a negative effect on a person's internal clock, causing upset sleep patterns and irritation. Light therapy is often used to combat SAD.

Extra sunlight in spring causes hormonal changes in the body, says WebMD. Melatonin, which causes drowsiness and depression, drops in level. Spring also changes the way we think about our bodies, with natural cravings for carbohydrates decreasing.

"It's likely a carryover from our ancestors who had a hibernation-type biology," University of Texas-Houston Professor Michael Smolensky told WebMD. "In the fall, they began putting on weight to get through the lean times of winter."

As melatonin begins to decrease, serotonin levels begin to increase. Serotonin is linked to happiness and, to some scientists, the ► Spring changes our bodies mentally and physically. Melatonin levels decrease while serotonin levels increase, creating more energy and happiness.

Summary

SPRING

phrase "spring fever." An article by the Los Angeles Times quoted anthropologists who believed the spike in human activity may be linked to early hunters and gatherers emerging from months of hibernation, acting quickly to replenish their food supply. Historians have an opposite view, believing colonists referred to spring fever as extreme fatigue due to a lack of fresh food in the winter months.

The change in warmer weather doesn't bring good fortune to everyone, however. With the abundance of flowers and other plants blooming, pollen and allergens fill the air. The Asama and Allergy Foundation of America estimates 40 million people in America are affected by allergies. With this past mild winter, medical experts are anticipating a longer and more intense allergy season this year. March experienced a few weeks of 70 to 80 degree weather, temperatures that typically come around May.

Suicides also increase during spring, especially in areas like Michigan where the change of weather is extreme. Psychiatrists are not sure of the cause but have theorized the extra energy and sudden change may cause a hormone imbalance, especially with melatonin and serotonin levels adjusting.

Despite these issues, spring is generally met with happiness and change. Most people are anticipating the warmer weather, escaping the dreary winter months and know the warm summer season is right around the corner.

Lottery winners who turned into losers

In 1993, Suzanne Mullins won $4.2 million in the lottery. She later borrowed almost $198,000 from a lending company, using her lotto winnings as collateral. But she never paid the company back. They later sued her for the missing amount. Mullins claimed that her son-in-law's long illness produced $1 million in medical bills, aggravating the debt situation. Mullins apparently has no assets left to pay off her debt.

Callie Rogers won 1.9 million (about $3 million at the time) in a UK lottery. The ecstatic 16-year-old spent her winnings on vacations, homes, shopping, friends, and even a couple of breast improvements. Six years later, Rogers is a 22-year-old single mother of two. She now works as a maid to sustain herself and her family. She is paying off debt induced by her spending. Today, she has this to say about her winnings: "My life is a shambles and hopefully now it has all gone I can find some happiness."

Willie Hurt won $3.1 million in the 1989 Michigan Lottery. Within two years, this former family man found his life in shambles. He divorced his wife, lost custody of his kids, and spent his remaining money on crack cocaine. An attempted murder charge tops off Hurt's world of lotto-induced pain.

55-year-old Jack Whittaker ran a successful contracting company in West Virginia when he won a $315 million Powerball jackpot. At the time, it was the biggest amount ever won by a single ticket. Whittaker, who already had a net worth of $17 million, received a $114 million check after taxes. He gave money to Christian charities and a personal foundation supporting low-income families. He was arrested twice, once for drunk driving and once for threatening a bar manager followed. A woman sued him after he groped her at a dog racetrack. Thieves took $545,000 in cash from Whittaker's car while he was visiting a strip club.

In 1997, Home Depot stocker Billie Bob Harrell, Jr. won a $31 million Texas jackpot. He bought a ranch, six homes for himself and family, and a bunch of new cars. After the initial glory subsided, however, Harrell found himself losing and loaning money at an alarming rate. Like many winners, he had trouble saying no to those who ask for his funds. As a result, Harrell's life became too stressful to handle. He divorced his wife then committed suicide.

Double lottery winners beat odds of 1 in 24,000,000,000,000

► Couple spends $124,000 – $20 a day for 17 years – then hits jackpot twice in one day

It had to happen sooner or later for Angelo and Maria Gallina, who figure they have spent $124,000 over the years on lottery tickets. What happened was that they won the jackpot -- not once, but twice, on the same day. An hour after winning $126,000 in the Fantasy Five game, they won $17,000,000 in SuperLottoPlus. That's never been done before, lottery officials said. Maybe because the odds of its happening are 1 in 24 trillion -- which is a 24 followed by 12 zeros. And maybe because there have never been lottery players like the Gallinas. Angelo Gallina, a 78-year-old retired railroad machinist, cheerfully admitted he has bought $20 worth of lottery tickets every day since the lottery started in 1985. For the SuperLotto Plus drawings, he and his 65-year-old wife choose their numbers by shaking a $10 plastic gadget they purchased years ago at a local drugstore. The gadget is full of tiny numbered balls that fall into slots, providing lottery players with lucky numbers to bet on. And year after year, the Gallinas said, the gadget failed, until Maria Gallina was just about to toss it into the garbage, but changed her mind.

Office lottery pools gone wrong

Office lottery pools. They're an innocent way for coworkers to bond. A collective dream to lift you out of the daily grind. But they're also potential scenes of tragedy-style betrayal, greed, envy, loss and devastation.

There are the co-workers who sue each other over broken promises, the co-workers who turn on each other over lies. The co-workers who stop being co-workers, because one sails away on a five-star tour of the world, while the other wallows in misery.

After all, people change a little when they have a check for nine figures in their hands. That's been a fact of human nature for a long time.

Make copies of pool tickets

Always make sure you get a copy of the pool tickets. Stephen Kyle had run the office lotto pool with 19 other Ohio postal workers, when in June 2005, he won a ticket worth $175,000. He claimed the winnings were all his, purchased with his personal $10. Six colleagues sued, and the jury awarded all 20 postal workers a slice of the prize.

A judge ordered Americo Lopes to share his $38.5 million lottery winnings with his fellow construction workers and former friends. When Lopes won big he quit is job claiming that he needed foot surgery. Lopes said he bought the ticket on his own. When the judge gave his ruling. Lopes said in Portuguese "They robbed me"

Earth shaking news on Easter morning

The inscription on the tomb of Shakespeare says, "Good friend for Jesus sake, forbear to dig the dust enclosed here. Blest be the man that spares these stones, and curst be he that moves my bones."

Our Lord's empty tomb declares a promise to be kept.

Strangely, the enemies of Jesus remembered His promise to rise from the grave, while his friends forgot it. Even the women who made their way to the tomb that first Easter morning had somehow missed the message. They were carrying spices to anoint and preserve the body of the One who had said death could not hold Him in its grip. "Destroy the temple, and in three days I will raise it up," He had said. They were preparing to do the work of undertakers.

What changed the minds of these sincere but doubting women?

An early morning earthquake (Matthew 28:2) and an empty tomb.

Moments after the earth began to move beneath their feet, they discovered the stone that had been placed at the mouth of the tomb had been rolled away, ending their doubts forever. The reality of the resurrection transformed them from morticians to missionaries who were soon on their way to tell the disciples that Christ was risen.

Faith often follows fearful experiences. Trust frequently triumphs after trembling times. Many have discovered the living One to be their source of peace and strength when their world was shaking.

Peter was so fearful following the arrest and trial of Jesus that he denied he even knew Him, but after the resurrection he became the bold spokesman for the church and three thousand doubters were shaken from their disbelief in one day as a result of his powerful preaching.

"To believe or not to believe?" questioned Thomas after hearing Christ was alive, concluding he would remain a doubter until he could place his fingers into the nail prints in the Lord's hands and thrust his hand into the spear wound in His side. But after one week, the doubting disciple became so convinced of the resurrection that he was willing to die as a martyr in the service of His Lord and myths do not produce martyrs.

At the lowest point of their lives the disciples were shaken out of despair by the resurrection. Has your faith been shaken by some personal tragedy or disappointment?

Allow the good news of the resurrection to bring you back to life again.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | WILLIAM AXFORD

Author Tracie McMillan spoke to about 50 people at the Holly Library and autographed books after her presentation.

Holly native writes best selling novel

►Library visit a mix of humor, sobering facts

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

New York Times bestselling author and Holly native Tracie McMillan visited the Holly Township Library on Wednesday, speaking about her new book "The American Way of Eating." The book chronicles the process of how food is collected, sold and cooked in America.

McMillan worked undercover for a year at different locations including a farm in California, the produce aisle at a Detroit Walmart and the kitchen of an Applebees in New York.

"Writing this book, I wanted to start discussion amongst the working class on diets and food," McMillan said. "I'm hoping my book will generate a lot of debate."

Released in February, the book has already generated debate amongst major media outlets including the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal. When conservative radio commentator Rush Limbaugh criticized McMillan as "overeducated" and an "authoress," the investigative journalist found herself in the national spotlight.

McMillan laughed about the attacks in front of a crowd of about 50 people, undeterred about the incident and joked that Limbaugh had helped her books sales for a week or two.

McMillan read passages involving the physically taxing work of garlic picking in California and described how Detroit is considered a "food desert," an area lacking in grocery stores but over populated with convenience stores.

McMillan said her book was not a solution on how food distribution and diets could be improved in America, but rather an insider's view of today's food industry.

Summary

►Author and Holly native Tracie McMillan recently visited the Holly Township and spoke about her book, "The American Way of Eating." McMillan is a 1994 graduate of Holly High School.

Despite the seriousness of the book's themes, McMillan drew multiple laughs and frequently joked about her encounters.

"You don't know it, but people outside of Michigan think the term 'party store' is hilarious," McMillan said, when talking about the Detroit section. "My editor could not believe it is a real term."

McMillan grew up in Holly and graduated from Holly High School in 1994. She attended New York University on a scholarship while working multiple jobs to pay for college. It was during this time that McMillan became interested in food, noticing how families of different incomes eat different meals. After college McMillan went on to become the managing editor of City Limits magazine and had articles published in the New York Times, Slate, Huffington Post and other publications.

Fenton's Open Book owner Karen Piacentini was impressed with the presentation and said,

"It's always interesting to hear an author speak about their book. You get a better insight on what was written."

For those interested in reading "The American Way of Eating," the book is available at Fenton's Open Book.

"I'm hoping my book will generate a lot of debate."

Business *profilesBella-Carina...*Offering unique shopping experience*By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Every day is a “special occasion” to wear clothes that make you feel beautiful, inside and out. That’s the fashion philosophy of Barbara Spencer, who is opening the new Bella-Carina in downtown Fenton this Saturday, April 14, next to Fenton’s Open Book.

A VIP Friends and Family Private Party will take place Saturday from 12 to 1 p.m., followed by the store’s Grand Opening from 1 to 8 p.m. Refreshments, gifts and a chance to win a BCBG purse will be part of the day’s activities.

BellaCarina’s beautifully decorated interior has been carefully kept under wraps until its Grand Opening. “I wanted a beautiful place for people to buy beautiful things, available right here in Fenton,” said Spencer, who designed the store with the help of her daughter, Lauren Ashley. She is co-owner of Bella-Carina and will be the store director.

Summary

► Bella-Carina is opening Saturday, April 14 in downtown Fenton, offering womens designer lines and up-and-coming labels at all price points.

“Why not wear a beautiful dress or shoes on Tuesday, just because it’s Tuesday?”

Barbara Spencer
Owner, Bella-Carina

Inside the store, shoppers will find a mix of designer wear and everyday fashion, from exclusive labels by BCBG, Betsy Johnson and Ted Baxter of London, to an up-and-coming designer like Aryn K., who you’ll find in the pages of Lucky or In Style magazines. “We’re the only ones in the area to carry these designers,” said Spencer. “Until now, you had to shop in Troy or Novi. I’m thrilled to be bringing this experience to local shoppers in downtown Fenton.”

What Spencer really wants to focus on is sharing her philosophy of wearing beautiful clothes every day. “We tend to save our most beautiful clothing, jewelry and china for ‘special occasions,’ when every day is a gift to be celebrated,” said Spencer. “Why not wear a beautiful dress or shoes on Tuesday, just because it’s Tuesday?”

Bella-Carina is located at 107 W. Shiawassee, phone (810) 208-0210.

Fenton Foot Care

Expanding offices, services, staff

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Fenton Foot Care now has lots of room to grow in its new offices located at 14229 Torrey Rd. in Fenton.

“We literally outgrew our former location,” said James Hirt, DPM, who has been practicing in Fenton for four years. The previous office near downtown Fenton had housed the podiatric practice of Dr. Abraham for many years. “Now we will have more room for dedicated technology, such as vascular testing and diagnostic ultrasound.”

While Fenton Foot Care focuses on overall foot and ankle care and surgery, his office does a lot of work with diabetic patients, wound care, custom orthotics and more.

Summary

► Fenton Foot Care has moved to its new location at 14229 Torrey Rd.

Fenton Foot Care has also added new lines of footwear - from diabetic shoes and orthotics to fashionable sandals, athletic shoes and casual styles designed for style as well as function. “We have more than 75 different styles,” said Stephanie Junga, practice manager. “Our new lines are designed not just for ‘problem feet,’ but also for comfort and support for anyone who wants a comfortable shoe for daily wear.”

For “pretty feet” this summer, Fenton Foot Care also carries a new line of anti-fungal nail polish, Dr. Remedy.

Hirt has added the services of an associate doctor, Seth Felice, DPM, who will join Fenton Foot Care on July 1.

Creating a multipurpose three-season room

A space that serves as an indoor-outdoor transitional area in a home can be a valuable living space. Screened-in porches are often attractive to buyers, but are typically not as popular as a room that can be used once the warm weather has passed.

Certain features of a home can increase a home's resale value. According to BankRate.com, a light, airy and spacious feel is one characteristic that prospective buyers find very attractive. Richard Gaylord, a member of the executive committee for the National Association of Realtors, says, "I haven't sold many homes that aren't bright and airy." Even the popular home improvement television network HGTV touts brightening up a home as a way to increase its value.

Building a three-season room can add substantial value to your home and create another family-friendly space.

A bright, well-lit room helps people feel more cheerful and relaxed. To easily achieve more light and space, consider the addition of a three-season room. When paired with energy-efficient new windows, this space can make a welcome addition to just about any home.

A three-season room is often called a sunroom or extended season room. It is not to be mistaken for a four-season room, which is fully insulated and generally has heating and air conditioning just like the rest of the house. A three-season room does not have these amenities, but it may be used year-round with the help of a portable heater.

There are many advantages to three-season rooms.

- A room with regular windows can make the space more comfortable. This allows for the use of screens in warmer months — letting in air and sounds of nature. When the temperature drops, the windows can be closed to help insulate against the cold.
- Three-season rooms can add much-needed extra floor space to the home.
- These rooms can also serve as a transition between the house and the yard, which is a good way to reduce tracking dirt and debris.
- They reduce the discomfort of sitting outdoors among pesky insects.
- A three-season room lets in more sunlight through windows or skylights, possibly reducing home energy costs as a result.
- The three-season room enables those suffering from seasonal mood disorders to extend their time spent in the sun.
- A three-season room is often the ideal place to entertain company because it tends to be bright and cheerful.

Handy homeowners may be able to convert an existing porch into a three-season room or build one from scratch or assemble the room from a premade kit. However, those homeowners who prefer to leave the work to someone more experienced can hire a contractor.

Before getting started, it is best to contact the local building and permits office to determine which building codes for the new room must be met. While screened-in porches may be adequate with a certain level of foundation and structure, rooms that will be using glass panels or standard windows may need some modifications to make them safe. Apply for the necessary permits and have the work inspected to be sure it is legal.

Where you locate your sunroom may depend on the direction of the sun or the space you have on the property. Consider your landscape and property lines before doing any building.

You may have to reframe certain parts of the room if you are converting a porch to a sunroom. Be sure to use materials that will accommodate the addition of heavier, thicker glass or windows.

Many homeowners find weatherproofing the room is a good idea. Use construction-grade materials you can commonly find at home improvement centers. Wrapping the room in a material that guards against heat, humidity and moisture will ensure a more comfortable environment once construction is complete.

Building a three-season room can add substantial value to your home and create another family-friendly space.
