Fenton native stars in her first major movie role

By Sally Rummel

Her life reads like a movie script, and now she has the starring role.

Fenton native Suziey Block packed all of her belongings into a U-Haul after graduating from college in 2004, and headed to Los Angeles, California with a musician friend, to pursue her dream of acting.

"I didn't know anybody out there or have any plans," said Block. "My agent here in Michigan got me a manager in LA, and I've been with him ever since. The first thing I did when I got to LA was go to an acting class and get a job at a coffee shop."

It sounds pretty stereotypical for a "struggling actor," but now Block is choosing her own projects as an actor in TV, movies and commercials. She's starring in her first major role in "Entrance," a psychological See STARS on 10A

Friends and pallbearers

Take out a pencil and paper and write down the answer to this question — “If I knew I was going to die tomorrow, who would I choose to be my pallbearers?”

Keep in mind that you would need to name at least six people. These six people should represent the closest friends in your life.

I’ll wager my kingdom that you aren’t able to rattle off six names without some deep thought. And, if you are like most people, your final list very likely took a great deal of head scratching — and you probably still are not completely comfortable with it.

Conclusion? Despite interacting with literally tens of thousands of different people over several decades of living, the typical adult man or woman has only chosen a half dozen of these people to be a truly close friend. This would lead one to believe that the selection criteria for friendship is apparently a very complex process. Some would suggest that it is comparable to the seriousness of choosing a spouse. Maybe even more so. While the U.S. divorce rate hovers around an abysmal 52 percent, most people retain their best friends through sickness and health, richer or poorer, and, in fact, till death do they part. Maybe we should be using the same criteria for choosing a spouse that we use for choosing friends. Clearly, the process is more successful.

But, I digress. As children, most of us changed best friends as regularly as we changed favorite toys or foods. As we grew older, we subconsciously drew up a mental checklist of absolutes that would instantly qualify or disqualify candidates for friendship. These absolutes (or prejudices) — such as personality, gender, race, social status, physical appearance, intelligence, athleticism, academic background, morals ...etc. — are based on the sum total of all our previous personal experiences with friends and acquaintances. It is a complex process that is innate to all of us.

I think most people have a difficult time coming up with the names of six people they consider truly close friends. Some may have a difficult time naming even two or three. Many aren’t able to name even one truly close friend.

That’s sad. Because true friends are far more than prospective pallbearers. They are the people that don’t wait to ask what they can do when they know we need help, they just do it. They are the people who sometimes tell us what we don’t want to hear, but need to hear! They are the people that stick by us through thick and thin, high and low, through both our best and worst moments. Friends are those rare people who ask how you are and then listen to the answer.

Friendship is a gift that can be neither bought nor sold, but is priceless. I am blessed to have a half dozen priceless friends that, while I don’t always like them, I do always love them.

Coincidentally, just enough for a team of pallbearers.

Dear Editor,
I want to thank the Times and especially writer Sally Rummel for the nice summer water activities guide called ‘Splash.’ This is an extremely useful guide for local boating, the Shiawassee River and especially fishing. Sally did a wonderful job pulling all of this information together into a nice neat tabloid. I really like the fishing guide. It details what fish are found in our area lakes, what bait to use, what depths to find the fish and what time of day gives you the best chance of reeling in a big one. Being challenged in fishing knowledge I have been at a tremendous disadvantage all these years not knowing all of this stuff about fishing. This little booklet now evens the playing field for me and that loudmouth (bass) that has been laughing at me for years. Thanks Sally, you’ve given me information to ‘lure’ me back on the boat to do some ‘reel’ fishing.

Township 'in a bind'

►Contract with county to cost $14,500 more than previous assessor's wages

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Rose Twp. — Faced with a growing pile of fiscal year-end paperwork, the township board of trustees went with the quickest option to replace their assessor — contract with Oakland County.

The board voted unanimously to contract with the county for assessing duties, which will cost about $47,000; $14,500 higher than they were paying former assessor Amanda Carrigan, who resigned suddenly in April.

"I'm in a bind, I can't formally process these," said Supervisor Glenn Noble. Carrigan leaving near the end of the fiscal year meant a lot of year-end files and paperwork to tie off. Though Noble said Carrigan has made herself available to answer questions, he needs help with the workload that includes each parcel having several documents attached to it in regards to the year end. "I need their assistance," he said.

An assessor is important because this person assigns an adjusted value to parcels inside the township. The township collects revenue sharing based on these values.

Some audience members spoke in support of hiring someone else for the job in order to keep township control of the entire process. Treasurer Susan Slaughter agreed, but pointed out that only one person was interested in the position that was advertised after the May meeting, and she also needs the assessor to do her work as treasurer.

Noble said there simply isn't time to go through the bargaining process to hire someone.

According to him, the county has already started the process of filing paperwork and familiarizing themselves with the township's records. "At the end of June, all the tax assessment items have to be adjusted and cleared," said Noble, as he outlined the need for an assessor as soon as possible. He said Slaughter needs this information "closed" to do her job.

"I don't like local government going higher, (but) I do not have time to close out this stuff."

Glen Noble

Rose Township supervisor

"I don't like local government going higher," said Noble. "(But) I do not have time to close out this stuff." He said the Oakland County staff can handle complex topics, and even better interface with Enbridge Energy — the company with pipelines running through the township.

The township will be charged for assessing services per parcel. It will cost $14.90 for a residential commercial parcel, and around $12 for personal property. The contract will be for three years, with a 90-day window to rescind the contract. Oakland County will need to spend a fair amount of time setting up their operation, and they will also digitize all the records that are still on paper.

Noble said after the three-year period, the township can look to find someone that can assess in-house.

Holly Township Supervisor Jesse Lambert was on hand to offer his positive experience hiring Oakland County for their assessing.

of Weber Road in Holly Township around 5:45 a.m. on Tuesday.

Lintz said when his staff arrived they found an older model Hyundai, which had rolled over several times, about 75 feet from the roadway.

Based on their preliminary investigation, Lintz believes the car had been traveling at a high rate of speed when the driver lost control. The car veered from the road, rolled and eventually came to rest on its passenger side in an area of tall and thick grass.

A resident who lives near the crash site reported that he had heard a noise around 1 a.m. and walked outside to investigate. Because of the darkness and the fact that the car landed so far from the road, the resident did not see anything.

A passerby on their way to work just as the sun was rising noticed the crash and walked up to investigate. Lintz said the passerby saw the occupants still inside the car and called 911.

Firefighters used the Jaws of Life to cut Burns and a front seat passenger from the car. Burns was pronounced deceased at the scene. The passenger, a 40-year-old Holly man, was extricated and transported to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township. At last check, Lintz said the passenger was listed in critical condition with multiple injuries. Burns and the passenger were wearing their seatbelts.

Lintz said there were no obvious signs of alcohol use by either of the occupants; however, there were open beer cans in the car.

Funeral arrangements for Burns are being handled by Dryer Funeral Home in Holly. He is survived by his mother Tammy Burns, brother Eli Justice, grandparents Donald and Peggy MacMaster and Linda and George Burns Jr. and an uncle, Bradley Burns.

According to his obituary, Burns loved to fish, hunt, cook, play guitar and work out. For funeral details, go to www.dryerfuneralhomeholly.com.

New treasurer appointed in Tyrone

►Kurtz will stay as an employee until September

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Tyrone Twp. — Six months after accepting Treasurer David Kurtz's resignation, the Tyrone Township Board of Trustees has appointed a new township treasurer. Marna Bunting-Smith will be the new township treasurer starting July 1.

Bunting-Smith began attending board meetings last fall when the township was interacting with Fenton Sand and Gravel. She was present when Kurtz gave his resignation to the board, spurring her to apply for the township treasurer position.

"It just fell into place," Bunting-Smith said of her appointment to the position. "I have more time in my life right now and I was interested (in the board)."

Marna
Bunting-Smith

Kurtz will remain as an employee of the township until September, meeting the deadline he requested when he resigned in January. Kurtz will receive $1 a month and full benefits until September as per state law, according to Township Clerk Keith Kremer. Kremer said Kurtz's benefits would not cost the township an extra expense since his healthcare is already paid up to September.

Kurtz has been training Bunting-Smith for the position and will continue to do so.

"She'll be a great addition to this board," Kurtz said.

Bunting-Smith admitted that there were issues in the township she was not familiar with, such as the sewer bonds. She said she would challenge herself to learn as much about the issues and other happenings within the township.

She also plans on running for the township treasurer position in the November election.

would be a realistic estimate for construction to take place, and that they would do whatever they could to shorten that time.

After the city's agreement with the Michigan Brewing Co. fell apart in April, the DDA was quick to start the process in finding a replacement. The Clarkston Union was selected from a group of four restaurants, all of which DDA Chairman Craig Schmidt said made excellent presentations.

After conducting interviews with all of the applicants, a DDA committee narrowed the choices down to Arbor Brewing and the Clarkston Union. On Monday the DDA as a whole voted to officially give the project to the latter.

Schmidt gave his recommendation for the Clarkston Union and said that he liked their restaurant and menu, and felt that they would be the best fit for Fenton.

The Clarkston Union's ability to promote themselves and make use of local celebrities was said to be a strength. "One reason I want to vote for Clarkston Union is that they have the ability to generate publicity for themselves which I find unique and exceptional," said DDA member John Strayer.

Summary

► The Clarkston Union was selected by the DDA to transform the old fire hall into a new restaurant.

DDA member Roberta Sweetman said that she was delighted with the choice.

According to DDA Director Michael Burns, the Clarkston Union was quick to jump on the opportunity when the deal with Michigan Brewing Co. did not work out, and Burns described it as being a very smooth process ever since.

"Ever since the initial process, dealing with them has been 'wow,'" Burns said.

The offer that the city made to the Clarkston Union was similar to the one made to Michigan Brewing Co., with a few changes that the businesses were made aware of through the application process.

The Clarkston Union will have a five-year lease at the cost of $1 a year with the option to purchase the building at the end of the five years for an additional dollar, down from the seven years of the agreement with the Michigan Brewing Co.

Additionally, the DDA is offering a financial incentive that will not exceed $100,000 as opposed to the originally proposed $400,000.

Catallo said he was honored to be chosen, and shared his thoughts on the old fire hall.

"It was very clear that this building was built with a different kind of mortar, that this building was held together because people here believed in what a restaurant in this space could do for the whole community," he said.

Catallo said the outside of the building will not change much. "There's one thing for sure. You aren't going to change this façade."

In addition to the façade, Catallo also said another part of the Fenton fire hall will be unchanged – the name.

Police&Fire report

TRASH CAN FIRES

The Holly Police Department is investigating a couple of trash can fires that were intentionally set. On June 20, just after 4 a.m. a Holly police officer responded to the 300 block of East Maple after an off-duty firefighter passing by reported the fire, which had melted the can. The officer located another burning can in the 100 block of Park. There are no suspects at this time and the fires remain under investigation.

SEVERAL ARRESTS

Holly police arrested several individuals after they responded to a call about two suspicious vehicles parked at the end of Lakeview Street near the railroad tracks just before midnight on Saturday, June 16. Police observed several young people, including two 15-year-old girls seated in a green Ford Taurus and a white Jeep Wrangler. Following a search Fenton police and firefighters attended a two-car crash at Shiawassee and Franklin in Fenton Thursday afternoon. Lt. Jason Slater said a woman, 43, of Holly reached down for an object that had fallen to the floor, taking her eyes off the road. When she looked up, the second car was stopped and she struck it from behind. The other driver aged 53 from Fenton was not harmed. The at fault driver complained of neck pain, but refused hospital transport.

Board deflects ballot petition

►Proposal to add members to board requires more signatures

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly — Another effort to increase the Holly Township Board of Trustees from five to seven members was deflected at the board meeting on Wednesday.

A petition of 13 signatures was presented to the board to put the question on the November ballot. Voters would decide if the number of trustees should be increased by two, doubling the amount of trustees on the board, and outnumbering paid administrators.

The supervisor, clerk and treasurer are township employees and also vote at the board level. There are two trustees who are paid a stipend for meetings attended.

When the ballot proposal was brought up during the regular meeting, the board decided there weren't enough signatures to put the issue to a board vote. Resident and township supervisor candidate George Kullis spearheaded the effort, and gathered the signatures.

Clerk Karin Winchester said there is no legal requirement for the petition — but it should reflect an interest in the residents to change the government. "This was on the ballot in 2008, and was turned down," she said. "I would expect to see a considerable amount of signers to say, 'I want to change our government.'"

Trustee Janet Leslie told the board that Kullis had been advised by Winchester that only 10 signatures were required. Winchester said she never would have told him only 10 signatures were needed, and that he must have misunderstood, hearing "10 signatures" instead of "10 percent of registered voters." "I would never say 10 signatures," she said.

"She said '10,'" insisted Kullis, who was not present at the meeting, as he was acting in another local meeting. He said he would have petitioned differently had he known he had to get around 600 signatures, and would not have turned in just over 10 if the number was closer to 600.

"I'm going to go back and revisit it, absolutely," he said, though he feels his effort is "against a wall" now, with around a month to gather the signatures. He said he lost a month, acting under the assumption he had enough signatures.

Supervisor Jessie Lambert said he was in favor of this particular initiative, but he wanted the board to decide what number was needed to put a ballot proposal to board vote.

Summary

►An effort to put a ballot proposal which would increase the Holly Township Board of Trustees from five to seven members was turned back to the person who gathered the signatures. George Kullis learned he would need around 600 to allow the initiative to be put to board vote.

The board came to the consensus that 10 percent of the registered voters from the last presidential election are needed to put a ballot proposal to board vote. This would be about 600 signatures, they said.

They decided the signatures were needed to be turned in before the July 20 board meeting, ahead of the Aug. 14 deadline for the November election.

Even if Kullis does gather the 600 signatures by the July 20 board meeting, the board can still vote down his ballot proposal, keeping the board at five members.

The reason he'll still try is that the board of five is dominated by paid employees of the township, and he believes that issues can be pushed through or shot down based on what the paid administration wants. He believes that non-salary trustees should be able to outvote paid administrative members for better representation.

The board voted the idea down last in April, with Lambert and Leslie voting in favor of adding two more trustees to the board. Kullis said that after the meeting, Winchester called him and apologized for the misunderstanding.

thriller released last month by IFC Entertainment. It showed in theaters in New York City and Los Angeles and was entered in the LA Film Festival in 2011. Now it can be seen on video on-demand, on Net Flix or on the Sundance channel.

The premiere of "Entrance" will be July 24 in LA, an event that has already garnered Block with enough success that she has had to create her own fan page. "I had the lead in this movie and it was my dream role," said Block. "I feel like I'm really getting there."

She also has the lead in two upcoming horror flicks, "Where is Amy Pressman" and "American Mummy." Last year, she was cast in a short film, "Lifers," which she hopes will be made into a major movie. Her biggest TV role thus far has been in "Monk" last season, playing a waitress.

In addition to being in front of the camera, Block also does behind-the-scenes work as an assistant editor for reality TV, including the "Game of Life" on Hub Network and A&E's "Flipping Dixie." "I've also done a lot of commercial work, including Nordstrom's and Lenovo Computers," said Block, a 1997 graduate of West Highland Christian Academy.

Her parents, Marshall Block and Marsha Block, both of Fenton, are very proud of her accomplishments in a very competitive industry. "I made the mistake of taking her out to LA when I was doing the music for a Disney film," said Marshall, who owns Reel II Reel Productions in Fenton.

"She has been wanting to act ever since. She's living her dream, that's for sure."

Block credits her family and friends with providing for her a strong support system in this business. "I couldn't do what I do out here without the constant support from my friends and family, especially my mom and dad and my best friend, Amber Snider Beall, who also happens to be from Fenton," said Suziey.

Watch for her soon, "coming to a theater near you." It may even be in Fenton, as she's hoping to shoot a horror movie here from a script she is writing from her LA home in Echo Park, which she shares with two rescued pit bulls, Stella and Olga. "I love my life," said Block. "It's more than I ever dreamed it could be."

Fenton police responded to a commercial burglary alarm from the store at 3:49 a.m. on Saturday. Officer Bill Andringa spotted a person in the grassy field behind the store as he approached the area. Lt. Jason Slater said forced entry was made into the store through ductwork.

Andringa also recognized two bicycles that he spotted nearby. He had arrested Williamson and Lloyd on June 12 for allegedly smoking K-2 spice in the parking lot of a Fenton school. They face a local charge of being on school property without authorization. They each have a July 23 court date on that incident.

Andringa also encountered and spoke with the teens just several hours before the break-in occurred making sure, they were staying away from K-2. Andringa intercepted the teens as they attempted to ride their bikes home. He seized a bag containing K-2 spice, cigarettes and a water bong that was in the teens' possession.

"These synthetic drugs have become more and more prevalent in our local communities and across the country," said Leyton. "They are very dangerous and can result in unpredictable, violent behavior."

"I urge all young people to stay away from these drugs and not be tempted into experimenting with them."

The teens were released on 10 percent of a $10,000 bond. They each have pre-trials on June 22 and preliminary hearings on June 26 in Genesee County 67th District Court.

"Not only are the legal ramifications severe, but the use of these substances could have very dire consequences far beyond what an individual may be seeking."

David Leyton
Genesee County prosecutor remaining $9,000 is set aside for promoting the Fenton ArtWalk and Silver Parkway Rewards Program.

The new agreement sees a reduction in media buys due to constraints in the DDA's budget.

Sharman Lamka, a representative of New Moon Visions, spoke at the DDA meeting describing the relationship with the DDA is like a marriage — it gets better every week as the two work together.

"I think our merchant relations have improved, as well as events, and everything we want to do with you," she said. "Our main objective is to be good stewards of your money and only spend what is needed."

Craig Schmidt, DDA chairman said that the services provided by New Moon Visions have helped to draw people not just to the downtown district, but to other areas of Fenton as well.

"I think personally you are doing an excellent job and helping us do what we need to achieve, and that is market everything in Fenton," he said.

Are you the biggest loser?

► Reality show holding auditions in Detroit

NBC's popular reality series, "The Biggest Loser" is launching a 13-city cross-country search to find new contestants for the next edition of the hit show.

Producers will be holding auditions searching for contestants at several big cities, including Detroit. Individuals who have at least 85 pounds to lose are encouraged to apply for the new season, which will air in January 2013.

Casting producers are looking for charismatic individuals who have the desire to change their lives forever and vie for this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to lose weight and compete for a grand prize of $250,000. Candidates must be at least 18 years of age and legal residents of the United States.

For those who are unable to attend a casting call, information on how to apply to the show and submit a video is available on www.thebiggestlosercasting.com.

People will not be allowed to line up prior to three hours before the start of the open call. Candidates should bring a non-returnable photo of themselves. The casting team will do its best to see everyone that arrives before the end time of the open call.

Auditions are set for Saturday, June 30, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Gardner-White Furniture, 45300 Hayes Road in Macomb.

John Rhode was The Biggest Loser season 12 winner. The 41-year-old special education teacher and football coach took home the $250,000 grand prize. He lost a total of 220 lbs.

About the show

Alison Sweeney is the host of "The Biggest Loser," which challenges and encourages overweight contestants to shed pounds in a safe and recommended manner through comprehensive diet and exercise as they compete for a grand prize of $250,000. The series provides the contestants with challenges, temptations, weigh-ins and eliminations until the final contestant remains to claim the title of "the biggest loser." Contestants work out under the supervision of professional trainers Bob Harper and Dolvett Quince. The Biggest Loser is a production of Shine America, 25/7 Productions and 3 Ball Productions. Ben Silverman, Dave Broome, JD Roth, Todd A. Nelson and Todd Lubin are the executive producers.

HOW RUDE WAS the woman who parked illegally at Linden Middle School every morning when parents tried to drop off their kids for Band Camp. Kudos to the man who called her an idiot to her face after she refused to move. No surprise her kids are rude like her.

HOLLY VILLAGE COUNCIL. You need your heads examined if you attempt to get a millage for public safety on the ballot. The taxpayers are about tapped out and the school board is going to try to force a millage down our throats as well. We are at the breaking point.

I AGREE 100 percent about the Fenton baseball program. It starts at the top.

FENTON STUDENTS ARE competing for scholarships and college admissions with students in many other schools (locally this includes Linden, Lake Fenton, and Powers) who use weighted grades for IB/AP classes. This is a huge disadvantage. Both IB and AP classes have fees; however, I believe financial assistance is available.

for parents to purchase cell phones for their kids are when they are junior high or high school aged. Around that age, Hrejsa said that the kids have a lot more activities going on that make a cell phone more useful.

If a parent does decide to buy a cell phone for their child, Hrejsa suggests thinking carefully about what phone to buy.

"I think that the biggest thing is trying to determine what their needs are, not just get the phone that their child wants because it looks cool. What do they actually want the phone to do?"

If a parent simply wants easy and convenient access by way of a phone to their child, a normal cell phone will do. If the family does a lot of texting, a phone with a keyboard may be a better choice.

A major consideration for a parent is if they want the phone their child has to be a smart phone.

"The cost of the devices are quite a bit more, and the replacement costs are higher,"

Hrejsa said. "Not to be stereotypical, but the younger the kids the less responsible they are with the stuff."

Parents should also be aware of the features a smartphone has to make the best educated decision. Most smartphones are required to come with a data plan that can cost $30 a month or more. The data plan provides open, unsupervised access to the Internet, which parents should be careful with giving their children.

Summary

► Buying smart phones for young kids may be a costly investment for parents. With the phone's data plan, kids would have full access to the Internet.

Smart phones can offer some advantages for parents and children alike, according to Hrejsa. "There are some great uses for smartphones for kids because they have scheduling applications that can be used across the whole family of smartphones," he said.

Ultimately, Hrejsa says it is up to the parent and the situation. "Maybe they just need the phone to call or text to say 'hey I need to be picked up from school,'" he said, in which case smartphone would not be necessary.

Smartphones can make you smarter

While you may be undecided on whether to pick up a cell phone for your son or daughter, there are a few smartphone apps you can download on your own phone to help with homework.

• Graphing Calculator: Algebra cannot only be challenging for students, it can be costly with the need of a graphing calculator. Several phone applications exist for both Android and iPhones that can turn your phone into a graphing calculator for only a couple of dollars.

• Periodic Table: There are 118 elements on the periodic table, though you will need only one app named, 'Periodic Table' to learn everything you would like to know about them.

• Stanza: This application, for iPhones and iPads only, will provide you with easy access to free versions of classic literature on your phone.

of the vehicles and interviews with all involved, an 18-year-old Davisburg male was arrested for possession of marijuana, an 18-year-old Holly male was arrested for drug paraphernalia, and an 18-year-old Waterford male was arrested for possession of marijuana, alcohol and prescription drugs. A 21-year-old Holly male was arrested for possession of marijuana, prescription drugs, and drug paraphernalia. During the search of the vehicles, police located what they believed was a live grenade. A bomb squad responded to the scene and determined the grenade was inactive and not a threat. Police learned that the 21-year-old Holly male was on probation and had an alcohol tether. Police recovered open beer and liquor bottles and marijuana, prescription medications from the vehicles. Warrants are pending against the Waterford male. Both vehicles were impounded.

FIGHT ON NORTH LONG LAKE ROAD

At 4 a.m. on Sunday, June 17, deputies with the Genesee County Sheriff's Department responded to a home in the 2400 block of North Long Lake Road in Fenton Township to investigate a report of a fight. As deputies arrived, several people fled the scene. A 19-year-old Fenton male was arrested for disorderly conduct and lodged at the Genesee County Jail.

SON LODGED AFTER ASSAULT

At 2 p.m. on Sunday, June 17, a Genesee County deputy responded to a home in the 5500 block of Dooley Drive in Fenton Township to investigate a domestic situation. A resident said his 17-year-old son had assaulted him. The teen was arrested for domestic violence and lodged at the county jail.

LARCENIES REPORTED

The Genesee County Sheriff's Department is investigating several reported larcenies from autos, which occurred in the area of Whitaker and Lobdell roads in Fenton Township. At least one vehicle window was broken to gain access. Detectives have video of a suspect using a debit card, which was reported stolen from one of the vehicles. The break-ins remain under investigation.

Fenton's Weir makes waves at regional event

► Tri-county trainer posts 29th-place finish at recent CrossFit games

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Chris Weir is into fitness.

At any given moment, you could find him doing back squats, pull-ups, deadlifts or dumbbell snatches.

At 40, the Fenton resident is clearly in shape.

But what proves he's in better shape than most is what he does for competition — he's a CrossFit competitor.

While he can do all the activities listed earlier, doing them under the pressure of a clock is when he really thrives. And he proved so during the recent Central East regional CrossFit Games, held in Columbus, Ohio. While there, Weir, despite going against many competitors nearly half his age, placed 29th in the three-day, six-event competition. Just making it to the competition is quite an accomplishment. One must qualify for the region, and Weir was hoping to finish in the top 25.

"My goal was the place in the top 25," Weir said. "That may not sound like an outlandish goal, but I looked realistically who was in the region and who I was competing with. I was going against people half my age who do this for a living. We have a lot of gifted athletes in our regional. It turns out our region is one of the most competitive in the world."

What are the CrossFit games?

The CrossFit games are a competition in which participants compete in two different events a day over a course of three days. The events vary from year to year, but always consist of high intensity workouts over a short period of time.

For example, event four (the second event of the second day) at this year's regional included back squatting 135 pounds, followed by 40 pull-ups. From there Weir had to do 30 shoulder-to-overhead lifts of 135 pounds, 50 front squats (85 pounds), 40 pull-ups, 30 shoulder-to-overhead lifts (85 pounds), 50 overhead squats (65 pounds), 40 pull-ups and 30 shoulder-to-overhead lifts (65 pounds) in that order in under 22 minutes. Weir finished his heat in first place, taking 17th overall in the event in 21:29.

The first event of second day — the dumbbell snatch and sprint — was his best event. In this event, Weir had to do 10 dumbbell snatches of 100 pounds, displaying control and alternating hands between each snatch. Once he completed the 10, he ran the dumbbell to the next station (about 10 yards ahead), placed it on the ground, sprinted about 40 yards back and forth, returned to the new location and repeated the process. He repeated the process for four rounds of snatches before completing the event with a short sprint to the end of the gym and back to his dumbbell. Once he touched his dumbbell, his event was over. Weir placed 23rd in this event with a time of 5:53.

"It was between (the two second-day events) that were probably my two best events," Weir said.

The one he was most disappointed with was the fifth event, called the

Fenton's Heil, Idoni earn national rowing titles at Michigan

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Paige Heil never had any intention of becoming a Michigan row team member.

The same could be said about fellow Fenton resident and Michigan student Emily Idoni.

It just wasn't an option. That's at least until Heil noticed a letter.

"I got a letter from the Michigan rowing team and it asked if you were a freshman and if you were interested in being a varsity athlete," Heil said. "I filled it out because I didn't know much about it."

With a little convincing, Heil eventually became a rower during her freshman season.

While at Michigan it took Idoni a little more convincing than that. She didn't go for the team her freshman year, choosing to concentrate on academics. But, eventually she was nudged enough to give it a shot.

"I knew Paige was on the team," Idoni said. "I texted Paige that I'd try it one day and I sort of kept going. I never stopped."

Both are loving their decisions to be varsity row team members now because the Fenton pair are now Division 1 NCAA Champions.

Michigan recently competed at the National Championships, and the team finished second at the national meet, right behind champions Virginia. However, Heil and Idoni's team, the squad's 2-varsity-8 team, won its division and became 2V8 National Champions.

"It's really exciting," Idoni said. "I don't know (what I was feeling). I remember finishing. You get so close with your boat. The people behind me and in front of me were so happy. I was so happy for everyone. It's weird. You are so happy, it's over and you just relax. But I was really happy."

The Wolverines qualified for nationals by capturing the Big Ten championship by collecting two more points than rivals Ohio State. While at the Big Ten Championships, Idoni and Heil's 2V8 boat finished first by almost six seconds.

Also competing at the meet was another Fenton resident, Brittany Robinson. She was in Michigan's first novice eight boat, which placed third.

"The way we explain it is doing a 100-yard dash, and just doing that for six-and-a-half minutes straight."

Emily Idoni

Fenton graduate and Michigan varsity rowing team member

The Wolverines were one of four Big Ten teams invited to the national championships.

"It's the toughest conference," Heil said about the Big Ten. "Every year the Big Ten is getting more experience, and the teams are getting faster and faster, competing with the Ivy League and the West Coast schools."

Once at nationals, the 2V8 boat dominated. During the opening day of competition, the boat advanced to the semifinals by winning its heat with a time of 6:50.77, by nearly five seconds better than second-place Virginia. During the meet's second day, the boat won its semifinal, advancing to the next day's grand final. Michigan's boat posted a time of 6:29.1, nearly four seconds better than second-place Ohio State. Finally, the next day in the grand finals, the 2V8 boat capped an undefeated season, beating second-place Ohio State with a time of 6:37.04, only 1.9 seconds ahead of the Buckeyes.

"We went into the heat races pretty confident, that we would make it to the semifinals. We didn't know if we'd win the race, but we were sure we'd get in the top three to get to the semifinals," Idoni said. "In the semifinals, Ohio State were our biggest rivals and they were looking to get revenge on us (from the Big Ten Championships). But we beat them again. And during the last day, Ohio State was in it and we were also nervous about Cal. But we ended up winning that. Not by as big a margin as we liked, but we won."

"We started out like we always do, and we got a big lead in the first two minutes," snatch ladder with double-unders.

The athlete began the event by jumping a rope. The athlete must have the rope make two complete rotations between each jump. Once Weir did that, he was able to try a snatch which started with a lift of 155 pounds. If the athlete completes that in 50 seconds, he earns the right to go to the next station and attempt the same task again, but with each task involving 10 more pounds of weight. Weir got to 185 pounds and placed for a tie in 30th place.

"I was so sore and tight," Weir said. "I warmed up for (90 minutes) and still did not feel good. I was expecting to be at 205 or 215 pounds and only made 185. That kept me out of the top 25."

The conversion to CrossFit

Weir started CrossFit training just over three years ago.

"At the time I was competing in triathlon and endurance sports, trying to stay fit, but the long distances were taking a toll on my body. It beats you up," Weir said. "But then I came on a CrossFit website, got online and started digging in. I was watching these girls and guys doing some intense workouts and some amazing things. I thought, 'Wow, I need to learn more about this.'"

That was the start of his career. Since then, he's competed in several events a year and now owns his own CrossFit training gym, CrossFit Raw Intensity.

"In its simplest form, the sport is constantly varied functional movement done at high intensity," Weir said. "The movements that we perform in our training are the same movements you perform in sport, combat and in life. Whether you are on the field of play or lifting a bag of groceries, they really are the same movements."

Competitions are more about challenging yourself and camaraderie with the athletes.

"When you are competing in CrossFit, you are controlling yourself," Weir said. "You control what you do more than any variable. It doesn't hurt to have someone pushing you, but you compete against yourself. It's not like football or baseball where your success is determined by someone's failure. And, in fact, once you are done you usually cheer on your competitor, even when the stakes are huge."

Heil said. "We get a big lead and then try to hold off the other crews. Mentally, it's a lot easier when you are ahead. We can see them when they are gaining on us."

"It came down to the last 500 meters of the race, and the rest of the pack started to sprint and started catching up to us. We were already way tired, but we held them off to win by two seconds, about a half a boat."

A little about rowing

Rowing involves a 2,000-meter long race which usually takes about 6:30 to complete. It's a physically and mentally draining sport.

"The way we explain it is doing a 100-yard dash for six-and-a-half-minutes straight," Idoni said. "Your arms get strong, but so much of it is the legs. You are pushing off your legs."

"When you are done, your body is totally spent. Not only are your muscles dead, but you just want to crouch and lay down. Cardio-wise you are spent. It feels like there's rust in your throat. It feels bloody in your throat."

Strength is important but timing is equally important. Each team has a coxswain whose job it is to keep the rhythm of the strokes on cue. She also might tell the competitors what is going on in the race. There are eight competitors in a V8 boat that stroke, four on each side, alternating.

"You either love it or quit it," Heil said. "It's really hard. The races are long. They are the hardest six-minutes-and-30-seconds of your life, but when you win it's worth it."

The season begins in the fall with some fall races, and training goes right through the winter as long as it allows.

"That's probably one of the reasons we had such a good year, because we had such a mild winter," Heil said. "We were rowing in February. That has never happened before."

Future with Michigan rowing

Heil just completed her senior season, but Idoni has two more years of athletic eligibility left. She plans on returning next year, but hasn't made any longer range goals than that.

"This year went well and I hope next year will be the same," Idoni said. "You have so much going on, and then you have your school work. It's much different than playing sports in high school."

She hopes to crack into the starting lineup in the 1V8 boat in the fall.

"Hopefully I'll be in the 1V," Idoni said. "It's something you have to earn, and it's definitely a goal. We graduated 10 seniors, so there definitely will be spots open. It's definitely going to be a huge challenge."

HELPFUL

current operations.

And like any relationship, business owners and local governments have their share of triumphs and mishaps. In general, however, businesses are happy with their local governments.

"I've got good stories about small government and bad stories about big government," said Dave Zoldowski, owner of Auto One on North LeRoy Street. "I'm finding personally the city of Fenton is great to work with. They're really sincere, but still have to operate by rules."

Zoldowski recently appeared before the Fenton City Council on behalf of the businesses on North LeRoy Street, asking for assistance to help market the 80 businesses. This week alone, Zoldowski has had two meetings with the city on how to bolster business in the north end of town.

Zoldowski said times are getting tougher for owners due to what he called the "Wal-martization" of small businesses. Since consumers are using smartphones and purchasing goods from the Internet, smaller, non-corporate businesses are struggling to keep their prices attractive and costs low. Working with local governments can help strengthen a store's community presence.

Chris Weir, owner of CrossFit Raw Intensity and Weir Building Company, echoed Zoldowski's view of Fenton city officials. Both of Weir's businesses are in Fenton Township. He moved his building company out of the city to keep his two businesses close to each other. For Weir, working with Fenton Township has been nothing but positive.

"Even though they're short on staff, Fenton Township still has one of the fastest turnarounds for permits," Weir said. Weir has received permits as fast three days after submission to the township. "Normally with the economic downturn you would see services decline. They're still making it work though, everyone is very professional."

One benefit that businesses have in the tri-county area is the smaller sizes of the cities and townships. Councilors, trustees and city managers are more accessible than leaders in a big city.

"I can walk in and talk to the city manager or police chief at any time," said Chris Acox, owner of Total Wellness Chiropractic in Linden. Acox said police Chief Scott Sutter was accessible and easy to work with when Sutter was interim city manager.

But not every interaction with the city of Linden has been smooth for Acox. Acox said the city once threatened to jail him for 90 days and fine him $500 because one of his signs was on city property. Acox eventually worked things out with the city but still believes officials can improve their relationship with Linden businesses.

"When you talk to the planning commission there's no personal, human element. They say, 'here are the rules, follow them or you're getting fined,'" Acox said. Acox has served on the Linden Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and understands that the city must follow ordinances. At the same time however, Acox said Linden needs to have more leniency and view businesses case by case, not as a whole.

"The city needs more flexibility. The whole point of the DDA was to attract new people into Linden," Acox said.

Businesses looking to get established or make additions have to meet zoning ordinances and site approval with the city. Thomas Broecker, operations manager and deputy clerk for Fenton Township said municipalities aren't trying to judge whether a business will be successful or fail, but rather if they fit the proper zoning ordinances and site plans.

"We're always here to work with people and businesses on any problem," Broecker said of the staff in Fenton Township.

Summary

► Businesses in the tri-county area, overall, believe their local government is usually helpful. Being accessible and working with each business individually is important to business owners.

"I'm finding personally the city of Fenton is great to work with."

Q.

There is periodic knocking noise that seems to happen more often when the ice cube maker is turned on, any advice?

A.

Is the unit still making ice, if not the mold heater may be bad and the cubes are stuck. If that is the case you will need a new icemaker. If the unit is still making ice the gear in the timer may be bad. If you turn off the icemaker and the noise goes away, then you need a new icemaker. Hope this helps!

Tips to stay cool in extreme heat

►Health department:
prevention is best defense against heat-related illnesses

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Summer has arrived with a vengeance. People with air-conditioned homes are staying inside and those without, are doing what they can to stay cool.

Summer often brings very high temperatures that may last for days or weeks. A heat wave can cause severe heat-related illness, such as heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Very high body temperatures may damage the brain, other vital organs or cause death.

The Genesee County Health Department (GCHD) is reminding everyone that prevention is the best defense against heat-related illnesses. By keeping cool, you and your family lessen the risk of becoming a victim of heat-related illness.

Summary

►The Genesee County Health Department (GCHD) and the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) offer tips to keep you and your pets cool during times of extreme heat.

Important tips for surviving hot summer days

• Stay hydrated.

Drink plenty of fluids, especially during heavy exertion. During hot weather, you should drink eight to 10 glasses of fluids a day. Water is best. Avoid drinks with alcohol, which increase fluid loss.

• Wear appropriate clothing. Use a sunscreen with a sun protection factor (SPF) number of 15 or higher.

• Limit physical activities. Rest often and plan outdoor activities early in the day or in the evening.

• Pace yourself. In a hot environment, it is safer to work slowly and gradually pick up your pace. When working in the heat, monitor the condition of your co-workers and have someone do the same for you. If you feel at all uncomfortable, stop all activity; get into a cool area, or at least in the shade, and rest.

HOT LINE CONTINUED

FOR ALL OF you people heading south of town on South East Street — if you have missed the signs, the speed limit is 25 mph. Slow down! Many thanks from all of the kids, dogs, and families living on that street.

WELL, I DON'T think you 'get it.' What do you think those young men and boys will be concentrating on, God and what is being said in church, or those young ladies and girls with minimal clothing on? They could try wearing crop pants and a sleeveless top.

I FEEL SORRY for my dad and the greatest generation in the World Wars, Korea, and Vietnam that fought against socialism and communism. Obama is just smacking all the soldiers of the past hundred years in the face by bringing back these failed antiquated policies of the 20th century.

IN YOUR DREAMS, Obama may be great, but history will show him to be worse than Carter and now worse than Nixon, with Obamagate. His cover-up of gunrunning has been exposed and he should be brought up for impeachment.

Don't forget the family pets during extreme heat

*The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals
(ASPCA) offers tips to pet owners*

• Visit the vet - A visit to the veterinarian for a spring or early summer check-up is a must.

• Made in the shade - Pets can get dehydrated quickly, so give them plenty of fresh, clean water when it's hot outdoors. Make sure your pets have a shady place to get out of the sun, be careful to not over-exercise them, and keep them indoors when it's extremely hot.

• Know the warning signs - Symptoms of overheating in pets include excessive panting or difficulty breathing, increased heart and respiratory rate, drooling, mild weakness, stupor or even collapse. They can also include seizures, bloody diarrhea and vomit along with an elevated body temperature of over 104 degrees.

• No parking! - Never leave your animals alone in a parked vehicle. A parked car can become a furnace in no time, even with the windows open, which could lead to fatal heat stroke.

• Make a safe splash - Do not leave pets unsupervised around a pool — they're not all good swimmers. Introduce your pets to water gradually and make sure they wear flotation devices when on boats.

• Screen test - Keep all unscreened windows or doors in your home closed and make sure adjustable screens are tightly secured.

• Summer style - A lightweight summer haircut helps prevent overheating. Be sure that any sunscreen or insect repellent product you use on your pets is labeled specifically for use on animals.

• Street smarts - Don't let your dog linger on hot asphalt. Their body can heat up quickly, and sensitive paw pads can burn.

• Avoid chemicals - Commonly used flea and tick products and lawn and garden insecticides can be harmful to cats and dogs if ingested, so keep them out of reach. Keep citronella candles, oil products and insect coils out of pets' reach as well.

• Call your veterinarian or the ASPCA Animal Poison Control Center at (888) 426-4435 if you suspect your animal has ingested a poisonous substance.

• Party animals - Remember that the food and drink offered to guests may be poisonous to pets. Alcohol can cause intoxication, depression and comas. Avoid raisins, grapes, onions, chocolate and products with the sweetener xylitol.

• Fireworks aren't very 'pet-riotic' - Leave pets at home when you head out to Fourth of July celebrations, and never use fireworks around pets.

Gary Daniel

■ 55-year old

■ Member of Loose
Senior Citizen Center

“The Lord is my Shepherd.”

My name is: Gary Daniel

I am: 55 years old, and was born in Flint.

My family: my parents, Paul and Zella, who have passed, a brother Paul and sister Zella. I have two daughters Samantha and Caitlin.

What sports and leisure activities do you enjoy?
Singing, I'm the choir director for Loose, we perform tomorrow at the VFW.

My dream car is: My corvette that got stolen. It was a 1968 hard-top convertible.

My all-time favorite movie is: 'Praise Band,' about putting together more contemporary music into the churches.

My earliest memory is: Being in camp and canoeing, fishing, playing volleyball.

If you could have one superpower, what would it be? I'd definitely have to say flying and look at the world from an eagle's perspective.

I always: It's a toss up between pray and reading the Bible.

I never: I try to never be unkind to anyone.

If you could make one rule everyone has to follow, what would it be? Have everyone be kind to one another.

Is there an event in your life you would like a 'do-over' for? I would say further my education when I was younger. I should've gone for a master's.

If you could travel back in time to witness one event, what would it be? Going back in time and witnessing the birth of Christ.

What advice do you have for the young generation? Stay away from drugs and learn as much as you can.

What career did you work in? I was a heating and cooling technician and divisional manager for the Dayton Hudson-Marshall Fields Corporation.

If you had to walk through downtown all day wearing a sign, what would it say? 'Think first' on the front. 'Jesus saves' on the back.

What is an upcoming event you are looking forward to? Bassin' for Senior tournament tomorrow at the Loose center.

What has been the best day in your life so far? The births of my two daughters were the best two days of my life.

My parting advice for a better world is: Be kind to one another.

Kids experience growth, summer fun at special diabetes camp

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Fenton Twp. — Before Brianna, 12, of Ovid could get in the water with the rest of her group on Wednesday, she had to test her insulin levels. All 10 or 12 of the teenage and pre-teen girls had to — they all have Type 1 Diabetes. The entire camp of around 200 5-17 year-olds have the same condition.

“I need a ‘sharps,’” called one girl, meaning she needed a ‘sharps’ container for the device that pricks their finger, allowing a drop of blood to be tested for safe insulin levels. The trained camp counselor handed out the red container to safely store items, such as needles.

They need a score of at least 100 to go have physical activity. In this case, the 95-degree weather drew everyone to the beach for playing in the water and sailing. One girl scored a 60, and had to drink a can of juice and wait 15 minutes before getting in the water. Soon, all of the kids would be able to forget for a few minutes that they are diabetic, and play in the sun.

Camp Midicha at Camp Copneconic is the largest diabetic camp in the country with 528 campers, ages

Summary

► Camp Midicha at Camp Copneconic is for youths 5-17 who are living with diabetes. The camp includes many regular camp activities but also diabetes education. This is one of several special camps hosted by Camp Copneconic in Fenton Township.

See CAMP on 4B

Attendees at Camp Midicha at Camp Copneconic in Fenton Township enjoy the heat on the first day of summer. With some precautions these children with diabetes can partake in all camp activities.

Brianna, 12, of Ovid tests herself for insulin with a drop of blood before getting in the water on Wednesday.

Cabin clinician Darcy McGinness returns insulin pumps to campers after they are done playing in the water. The pumps dispense insulin and cost $6,000 each.

Watching YOUR calories

Here are some general guidelines men and women should follow when choosing a diet plan.

- 2,500 calories per day for men (more if you are very active)
- 2,000 calories per day for women (more if you are very active)
- * If you need to lose weight, start by eating 300 to 500 less calories per day and exercise more.

Q How can I help my children to develop healthy eating habits?

A By teaching your children healthy eating habits, you can keep them at a healthy weight. Here are some simple approaches parents can take to develop healthy eating habits in their children include:

- Guide your family's choices rather than dictate foods. Make a wide variety of healthful foods available in the house.
- Eat meals together as a family as often as possible. Try to make mealtimes pleasant with conversation and sharing, not a time for scolding or arguing.
- Involve your children in food shopping and preparing meals. This will teach your children about nutrition, and provide your kids with a feeling of accomplishment.
- Discourage eating meals or snacks while watching TV. Try to eat only in designated areas of your home, such as the dining room or kitchen.
- Encourage your children to choose water as their beverage. Over consumption of sweetened drinks and sodas has been linked to increased rates of obesity in children.
- Try not to use food to punish or reward your children.

After a brief lesson, campers are able to take small sailboats out on Wednesday.

CAMP

5 to 17. It is a partner camp between Flint YMCA Camp Copneconic and the American Diabetes Association (ADA).

Most of the children have Type 1 Diabetes, meaning their pancreas does not produce insulin and they require an insulin infusion to live. The cause for Type 1 is not known, said Stephanie Camalo, director of programs for the ADA. A small percentage of children have Type 2, which normally shows up in adults, and is more likely caused by their lifestyle.

Camalo said both types of diabetes require a healthy balanced life with meal portion control, but 'Type 1' children require regular insulin injections. These kids test themselves at least seven times a day and have a constant insulin supply through a small pump clipped to them like a smartphone.

Much of the programming at this camp is the same as the regular day camp; there are no restricted activities, said Camalo. "We take precautions," she said. This includes blood sugar testing, but the kids can still do just about anything that regular campers can do.

The schedule starts at 7:45 a.m. with the raising of the flag, and ends around 10 p.m. with lights out.

In between are a flurry of activities and many are part of the regular day camp. Activities include open swim and discovery trek. Before each activity, and meal, insulin levels are tested and adjusted, if needed.

"The kids learn from each other, they learn to embrace life, even with their disease," said John Carlson, branch executive director for the camp. He said the camp teaches the kids to manage their diabetes through friends and role models at the camp. "Camp is just an environment that opens them up to new ways of dealing with the fact that they have diabetes," he said.

Encapsulated into the camp experience is diabetes education. Emily, 14, of Flint said she is still learning new things, even after four years of coming to camp. "I really like it here, the environment's really friendly."

Though they take the classes, Carlson said the real education comes from being surrounded with kids dealing with the same issues as them. Camalo said many of the kids are often the only ones they know with diabetes. Here, they can stay overnight, and learn from others. "They grow from that experience," said Carlson.

"These kids have strong character;

they were thrown a curve ball in life."

That curve ball reminds them every-day, many times a day that they have a condition, and it in some ways makes them different from other children. But at camp, Carlson said they see other kids dealing with the same disease. "I think there's strength that comes from that." Suddenly they are surrounded by a group of peers who live the way they do, and a strong medical support structure so they feel safe.

At camp, they get to just be kids. As a job, he said, "It's completely gratifying." In just a week of being there, Carlson sees healthy growth in the campers. "You will see courage," he said. They learn how to manage their insulin levels, and more than anything, learn how to have a healthy active life. "They're out enjoying life, learning about healthy recreation options and activities," he said.

"Resident" campers stay all night, and day campers go home at night. Either program lasts one week. There is one week left in Camp Midicha. Essentially, Camp Copneconic staff runs the camp activities and facilities. The ADA provides volunteer medical staff and education, and a part time, seasonal camp director. The ADA provides medical supplies, such as syringes, insulin, test strips, meters and glucose tabs. An ad-hoc infirmary is set up in the conference center.

The camp costs $600 for residents and $285 for campers who don't stay overnight.

Camalo said the goal of the camp is to provide the best camping experience possible for kids there. "That's what we strive to do," she said. "It's such an amazing experience." She added that parents also get a break, knowing their child is taken care of for a week.

OTHER PARTNER CAMPS

Partner camps are a significant part of what Camp Copneconic does. Other camps include the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation of America, called "Camp Oasis," "Camp Quality USA" for children living with cancer, and "Camp Kesem" through the University of Michigan that hosts young family members of those with cancer. There's a camp from the National Kidney Foundation of America and Asthma Camp through Hurley. For more information, go to campcopneconic.org. Select the "Summer Camp" tab, and scroll down to "Partner Camp" for more information about these camps.

An expected 800 bikers to swarm tri-county area

►Argentine, Fenton, Holly part of six-day cross-state PALM ride

By Tim Jagielo
tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Bicycles might outnumber cars traveling roads through Fenton, Holly and Argentine on Wednesday, June 27.

Pedal Across Lower Michigan (PALM) will spend six days traveling from St. John, on Lake Michigan, to New Baltimore on Lake St. Clair. Part of this six day journey will head right through the tri-county area. A news release said, "The ride helps promote bicycling by demonstrating that people can cycle public roads safely and enjoy doing it... from the seat of a bike, the beauty and charm of rural Michigan can be enjoyed up close."

Ann Walker, a Fenton Township resident and a member of PALM said the bicyclists will be in the area from about 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, June 27, and wants to give motorists a heads up. "If there is another way to get there, take a different route," she advised, asking for patience, and a little room for the riders.

Riders will stop at the Tyrone Covenant Presbyterian Church on White Lake road in Tyrone Township for watermelons, which is a regular part of the trip.

Summary

► The tri-county area will receive an influx of 800 bicyclists traveling across the state on June 27, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. as part of a six-day trip. Motorists are asked to avoid the bike route if at all possible.

On many roads, Walker said the motorists and bikers should be able to share the roadway — but on others she asks for some space.

Roads where drivers should be careful or try to avoid, are Bennett Lake Road between Linden and White Lake roads, White Lake Road between Bennett Lake and Hartland roads, Hartland Road/State Street between White Lake Road and town, Main Street/Grange Hall Road from South Lemen to M-15 in Oakland County.

She asks that anyone who uses the roads along the route to try to avoid them at these times, or at least be aware.

"If there is another way to get there, take a different route."

Once the group finishes its state-wide journey, they partake on a PALM parade, like this one in 2010.

The PALM bike route

- PALM is pedaling in from the west, into and out of, Argentine via Silver Lake Road.
- Riders turn right (southeast) on Lobdell Road, to Linden Rd.
- Right (south) on Linden Road to Bennett Lake Road.
- Left (east) on Bennett Lake Rd to White Lake Road.
- Right (southeast) on White Lake Road to Hartland Road.
- Left (northeast) on Hartland Road into Fenton (State Street) to South Holly Road.
- Right (east) on South Holly Road to South East Street.

- Left (north) on South East Street to East Caroline.
- Right (east) on East Caroline to South Lemen.
- Left (north) on South Lemen to Main Street.
- Right (east) on Main Street, which becomes Grange Hall Road.
- The route goes through Holly on Grange Hall Road. The route stays on Grange Hall Road into Oakland County to their destination at Brandon High School in Ortonville.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | SALLY RUMMEL

Doug and Rebekah Gregory and their three children show one of the Argentine Lighthouse's most popular menu items, a tall, hefty burger presented with homemade onion rings.

Argentine Lighthouse reopens, offers new made-from-scratch menu

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

The Argentine Lighthouse has once again become a bright spot in the community, re-opened Feb. 1 by a family dedicated to its success.

Doug and Rebekah Gregory focus their efforts offering a fresh, made-from-scratch menu and an attention to cleanliness and customer service.

"People want quality food, competitive prices and cleanliness in their restaurant experience," said Doug, a former chef at the Tawas Bay Yacht Club, Lakewood Shores Beach Resort in Oscoda and locally at the Beech Tree Restaurant back in the early 90s. "I wanted my own small place, where I could make everything that my mother had taught me about southern cooking and more. Ninety-nine percent of our menu is made from scratch."

Specialties include North Atlantic cod, fresh walleye and grouper, as well as baby-back ribs so tender that they fall off the bone. Burgers are made out of freshly ground beef, weighing in at a hefty seven ounces. Surrounded on the plate by homemade onion rings, it's a meal people want to come in for often.

The Argentine Lighthouse continues its long tradition of breakfast served all day. Omelets, breakfast burritos and homemade buttermilk biscuits and gravy are some of the favorites on the menu. "All of our soups are homemade, too," added Doug.

If you still have room for dessert, they're also all made from scratch. Key Lime pie, carrot cake with cream cheese frosting and cheesecake are all made in the Argentine Lighthouse kitchen by Doug or Rebekah.

The Argentine Lighthouse, located at 8393 Silver Lake Rd., Linden, is open daily at 6 a.m., Monday through Thursday and Saturday until 8 p.m., Friday until 9 p.m. and Sunday until 3 p.m. For more details or to place an order, call (810) 735-4510.

Summary

► The Argentine Lighthouse has been re-opened by Doug and Rebekah Gregory, specializing in made-from-scratch menu items from breakfast through desserts.

The new officers, including Commander Sam Alvarado (front, center), have taken control of the Hulet-Bravender VFW, with renewed energy.

Holly VFW is 'alive and well'

►Holly VFW recovers with new officers, energy

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

An injection of new members and current members taking the initiative has saved the Hulet-Bravender Holly Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) post.

Ex-Commander Don Winglemire described these members as 'younger.' These younger members are mostly Vietnam veterans, who responded to that saying, "Hell, we're all retired."

But there is a renewed energy there, with new events coming up.

"We stepped up to the plate, because we're not going to let our VFW go down, it needs to be there, we need to help other veterans."

Sam Alvarado
Holly VFW post commander

Winglemire gave up his commandership, with Sam Alvarado becoming the new active commander. Under Alvarado is a full slate of new officers. "I think it's great, they've got the energy, they've got things they want to do," said Winglemire, who also sits on the Holly Village Council. "They've got a lot of enthusiasm and energy," he said.

Alvarado took over June 9, this year. "We're coming up with ideas and suggestions on how to increase our membership, and to let the community know we are alive and well," said Alvarado, who was asked to take on the responsibility, which he feels good about.

"I'm willing to do whatever it takes to succeed," he said. "I'm learning to pass it on to the next commander."

Alvarado said the post can teach veterans about the benefits they are entitled to, and also give them a space to play pool, cards and hang out.

Alvarado himself is a Vietnam veteran, serving in the 25th infantry division as a medic in the reconnaissance platoon. He's been a member of the VFW for 35 years. "We stepped up to the plate, because we're not going to let our VFW go down, it needs to be there, we need to help other veterans," he said.

A pig roast is set for Saturday, July 21, at 1 p.m. for all area veterans, regardless of foreign war status. Attendees can bring a dish to pass because Alvarado is not sure how many are coming. He'll roast the 250-pound pig himself. "It's a lot of fun," he said.

HOLLY VFW MEETINGS

Meetings are every second Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Hulet-Bravender VFW Post 5587, at 201 Airport Drive in Holly. Contact Sam Alvarado at (810) 955 6799 for information about membership.

ANSWER KEY LOCATED IN THIS EDITION

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please say a few words about the prognosis and treatment of cervical cancer? My daughter, 45, was told at a recent checkup that she has a few cells of this kind, and she is reacting as if she has received a death sentence. Since it was caught early, should her outlook be more cheerful? — J.B.

ANSWER: All women are indebted to Dr. George Papanicolaou, who developed the Pap smear for the early detection of cervical cancer. The cervix, by the way, is the necklike projection of the uterus into the vagina. It was the site for the most common cause of cancer death in women before the Pap smear came into wide use. That was in the early 1940s. Since then, deaths from cervical cancer have been cut in half, with about 4,200 deaths occurring annually and 12,200 new cases detected each year. Most of the deaths are in women who did not have Pap smear testing.

I'm not clear what you mean by "a few cells of this kind." If the cells obtained on a smear show low-grade changes, a woman's chances of having cervical cancer are close to zero. Follow-up smears are the only treatment needed. If the cells show high-grade changes, the doctor will perform a colposcopy. Colposcopy is an examination of the cervix with an instrument that has a magnifying lens so suspicious areas can be readily seen and biopsied. Results determine what the next steps should be. However, at these stages -- long before the cancer has spread -- it is still quite curable.

Your daughter can trust her doctor to take the appropriate steps depending on the results of her Pap test. She does not face a death sentence. If she has any questions about her diagnosis, she should call her doctor for an explanation of her test results.

Homemade cleaning supplies

Homemade Spray Cleaner Recipe

Mix in a sprayer bottle:

- 1 cup white vinegar
- 1 cup water

Uses: In the kitchen, use vinegar-and-water spray to clean countertops, lightly soiled range surfaces and backsplash areas. In the bathroom, use vinegar spray cleaner to clean countertops, floors, and exterior surfaces of the toilet. And no, your bathroom won't smell like a salad! Any vinegar aroma disappears when dry.

Homemade Glass Cleaner Recipe

Mix in a sprayer bottle:

- 1 cup rubbing (isopropyl) alcohol
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon white vinegar

Uses: windows, mirrors, chrome fixtures and for a shiny finish on hard-surface ceramic tiles. Rubbing alcohol provides the base for an evaporating cleaner to rival commercial window and glass cleaning solutions.

Furniture Polish

Mix in a sprayer bottle:

- 1 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup lemon juice

Uses: Lemon juice dissolves dirt and smudges, while olive oil shines and protects the wood.

Encounters in coffee shop give mom jitters

DEAR AMY: I am a stay-at-home mom of a 4-year-old and 10-month-old, every two weeks or so I find time to take them to a coffee shop for a treat. Invariably, while we are there, some guy wants to converse with me and ask about my kids. I am introverted and also cautious, especially being a mom on my own with two young kids in tow, and have no desire to converse with these guys, or give information about my kids. Short of giving up our occasional coffee shop "treats," how should I approach these situations? — Awkward Mom

DEAR MOM: If you want your children to be introverted, shy and skittish around people, then by all means stop taking them to places where they will encounter people in an environment that you don't control. However, the very best way to give your children self-confidence and social skills is to encourage them to have these brief interactions.

DEAR AMY: How do I call a truce on sibling rivalry and form a relationship with my only sister? My younger sister has always felt annoyed to be "in my shadow," and often accuses my parents of loving or favoring me more. The final straw (for her) was when I disclosed that I am expecting my third child (due four months after her first). I was excited that we could share our pregnancies. Instead she cut off all communication with me. She told our parents that she doesn't think they'll be excited for her child. This is ridiculous. So why isn't she kinder to me? How can I build a bridge with her? — Sad Big Sis

DEAR SAD: Unfortunately, you cannot fix it on your own. It will not help for you to endlessly tolerate poor treatment, either. A simple statement: "I'd like to have a better relationship with you" may prompt a response, leading to an opening.

Tortellini and Ham Salad

INGREDIENTS

- » 1 (9 oz.) package fresh cheese tortellini
- » 1/4 cup olive oil
- » 2 T. red wine vinegar
- » 2 t. finely chopped fresh rosemary or 1/2 t. crushed dried rosemary
- » 1/2 t. minced garlic
- » 1/2 t. sugar
- » 1 1/2 cups diced ham
- » 1 cup diced red bell pepper
- » 1 (4 oz.) jar marinated mushrooms, drained
- » 1/2 cup chopped black olives
- » 4 scallions chopped
- » Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
- » Grated Parmesan (optional)

DIRECTIONS

1. Bring a large pot of lightly salted water to a boil. Add the tortellini and cook according to the package directions, or just until tender. Drain the water, rinse the tortellini under cold water, and drain it again.
2. In a large bowl, whisk together the oil, vinegar, rosemary, garlic, and sugar. Add the tortellini, ham, bell pepper, mushrooms, olives, and scallions to the dressing and toss to coat. Season the mixture to taste with salt and pepper.
3. Cover the bowl and let the salad stand at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes. Serve with grated Parmesan, if desired. Makes 4 servings.
