Linden native advocate for 'plain language'

►Author's book condemns 'legalese' as root of many consumer problems

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Linden native Joe Kimble wants people to use plain English.

This Thomas M. Cooley Law School professor has written his second book, "Writing for Dollars, Writing to Please: The Case for Plain Language in Business, Government and Law" to demonstrate the benefits of clear writing and how it can save money.

Kimble cites that poor communication and confusion caused by "legalese" plays a significant role in a lack of consumers understanding of many important documents, including insurance policies, mortgages, credit card regulations, even product information that accompanies drug prescriptions.

"It's a huge problem," said Kimble, a 1963 graduate of Cranbrook Schools in Bloomfield Hills. His mother, Marge Kimball, still resides in Linden.

"I've been advocating for plain language, not just in law, but also in business and in government. Using plain language pays off for everyone in fewer mistakes, faster compliance, better decisions and less frustration."

Kimble's first book, "Lifting the Fog of Legalese: Essays in Plain English," was published in 2006 and is now in its third printing.

"Writing for Dollars, Writing to Please" is available for purchase on Amazon.com.

SMART SOLUTIONS

1 Nausea

If you or your little ones are prone to nausea during road trips, keep a pack of peppermint gum handy. The natural oils in peppermint help ease the queasies by slowing stomach contractions.

2 Headaches

Relieve headaches instantly. Next time your head is pounding, try this tension-tamer. Grab a small chunk of hair and gently tug and twist for two or three seconds. Repeat all over your head to stimulate blood flow to the scalp, easing the pain immediately.

It's often been said that one man's junk is another man's treasure. While this may be an ancient adage, it is as true as ever today with Freecycling programs.

The Internet has made it easier than ever to reach out and connect with people in your community that you may never have met before. People have made use of this new way to communicate to find ways to get rid of things they don't want – and acquire things they do.

"Freecycling is keeping useful items within the community. Say you have a dresser you no longer need, you can offer it to the group," said Stephanie Pytlowanyj, who oversees the southern Genesee chapter of FreecyclePlus. "Then if someone in the group is interested in it, they e-mail you and pick up the item."

Chick-fil-A president Dan Cathy is in hot water because he committed the cardinal sin in an age of political correctness: Thou must not speak ill of anything gays, lesbians, bisexuals or transgenders wish to do.

In an interview with the Baptist Press and later on a Christian radio program, Cathy defended marriage between a man and a woman and when asked about the company's support of traditional marriage said, "Guilty as charged. We are very much supportive of the family — the biblical definition of the family unit."

Cathy believes American society is rotting (and where is evidence to the contrary?) because the country has turned away from God.

That was it. Cathy did not say he would deny someone with a different view than his the right to eat in or work at any of his fast-food restaurants. He did not say anything hateful about them. He simply expressed a deeply held conviction rooted in his Christian faith.

The reaction tells you everything you need to know about liberals who believe every sort of speech, activity and expression should be protected, except the speech, activity and expression of evangelical Christians.

Boston Mayor Thomas Menino said he would try to deny Chick-fil-A's application for permits to open restaurants in that city. Menino wants to ban Chick-fil-A in Boston, not for discriminating against customers or employees, but because of its owner's beliefs, a threat he has since backed away from.

In Chicago, Mayor Rahm Emanuel has said, "Chick-fil-A's values are not Chicago values." Are Chicago values represented by Louis Farrakhan with whom Emanuel is going to partner in hopes of reducing the number of homicides in his city? The Weekly Standard found a video posted on the Nation of Islam's website of a Farrakhan speech two months ago in which he blasted President Obama for endorsing same-sex marriage. That goes a lot further than Dan Cathy.

The real 'war' in this country is a war against conservative Christians and a denial of the same rights the LGBT community claims for itself. Free speech is an American value. We shouldn't settle for anything less.

LEROY STREET IS going to be awesome, just like Adelaide. This is government working at its best.

Why is running for president so difficult?

This weekend I saw something amazing — a speech by Mitt Romney in which he was relaxed and natural, making jokes that weren't painfully awkward. After the speech, he took questions for 20 minutes, and answered them all thoughtfully and thoroughly.

Who was this man, I wondered. Certainly not the same Mitt Romney I've seen in the last two years or so. Turns out the speech was recorded in 2000. Romney was addressing the National Press Club about the Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City that he had recently become the head of.

He talked about how the Olympics aren't about just branding and money, but character. He talked about how he loves the Olympics because they're an antidote to the world his kids see.

So what happened to that guy? How did he come to be replaced with the tightly wound, dissembling, robo-candidate with a fake smile plastered on his face that we see today?

It made me wonder: Why is running for president so often diminishing? What is it about the process that turns thoughtfulness and confidence into desperation, insincerity and cynicism?

We have 25 million people unemployed or underemployed. We're on the edge of falling back into recession and none of the problems that led to this seemingly endless financial crisis have been solved — or even really addressed. And yet our presidential campaign has devolved into a never-ending contest to see which side can catch other side in the worst 'gaffe.'

What might actually move the needle is for one of the campaigns to try reconnecting the disconnected electorate to the race. What if one of the candidates tried appealing to our better nature instead of our worst instincts? Since the idea is to connect with human beings, what if the candidates just decided to take the risk of talking like human beings?

There's plenty to be outraged about when it comes to the real problems we're facing. The race for the most meaningful office shouldn't have to be so demeaning — for the candidates or for us?

Fenton library outgrowing building

►Officials share details with neighboring township

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Fenton Twp. — The Fenton Jack R. Winegarden Library meets the city's building enforcement code — from the 1940s.

The roof leaks and there is not enough parking available for staff, let alone patrons. The confined space of the building has forced library officials to turn down presentations and other programs interested in visiting the building at 200 East Caroline Street.

Since 1987, the library has operated at the site of Fenton's former post office, which was built in 1943. And after 25 years, the library is beginning to outgrow its own building.

"We are falling behind. Fenton has established one of the best school districts in the state. Now we need to do the same with our library," said Bobbie Sweetman, Fenton Winegarden Library board president and member of the Fenton Downtown Development Authority.

Sweetman and library board member Dennis Weinand gave a presentation on the importance of libraries in communities at Monday's Fenton Township Board of Trustees meeting. Library officials are currently conducting fundraiser efforts to either expand their current building or find a new location.

Summary

►The Fenton Winegarden Library has outgrown its current location and library officials are seeking a solution to this situation.

Weinand said an average of 12,000 to 15,000 patrons visit the library every month, making the location one of the heaviest for foot traffic in the city.

Fenton Township Clerk Robert Krug suggested the library be added to the Fenton Community and Cultural Center or to consider moving to other existing buildings within the city. Sweetman agreed but said taxes, space and accessibility could create difficulty if the library moves to a new location.

"The first thing we want to do is discover what we can do with our existing site," Sweetman said. The second choice for Sweetman would be finding a modest location that can meet most of the library's desired goals.

Study areas, handicapped accessibility, more parking and rooms for presentations are some of the future goals for the library.

Fenton Township Supervisor Bonnie Mathis said the township would meet with the city of Fenton to discuss a possible solution to the library's concerns. Weinand said a feasibility study on the current location will be conducted by the city of Fenton and will guide how library officials should proceed.

"Our future world leaders must have access to education," Weinand said.

For more information, call the Fenton Winegarden Library at (810) 629-4267.

waiting to turn left into a friend's driveway. As an eastbound vehicle passed by her, she began her turn, not seeing the motorcycle quickly enough.

Fulton said the woman tried to speed up to avoid being struck, however, the motorcycle clipped the back end of her S-10 pickup truck, causing Spencer to be thrown over his bike.

Spencer was rushed to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township for emergency surgery, but was pronounced deceased around midnight.

The female driving the truck was not injured. Alcohol is not believed to be a factor in the crash. Silver Lake Road was closed to traffic while the Michigan State Police traffic crash reconstruction unit conducted its investigation. The area reopened to traffic just after 11 p.m.

"Yo...How You Doin'?"

Affordable Scrubs & Uniforms

Here it is Folks, the story behind the headline...whenever I greet people, whether in the Affordable Scrubs & Uniforms store or out and about, I always ask "Hey, How Are You Doing?" Many times, my salutation comes out "Yo, How You Doin'?" with a New York type accent...I'm a Michigander but it just comes out that way. Sometimes, people will mimic me back...always with a smile on their face. I like that! Nevertheless, when I ask the question, I am always sincere.

We live in crazy times; job concerns, weather, finances, health...all that and more affect "How we are doing." Of those, I believe our health is the most important. Persons with cancer have become one of our leading concerns, which is one that has personally touched my family. We all know someone that is fighting the disease, have been blessed with remission or cured. We all ask, "How can we help?" Well, here's my idea...

In the month of August, for every customer that makes a purchase in my store, I will donate $1.00 to Cancer Research AND if that customer says, "Yo, How You Doin'?" I'll add another $1.00!

Come visit us to help raise money for a great cause! We have a great selection of Medical Scrubs, Accessories, Lab Coats, Solid and Print Tops. What we don't have in stock...we'll be sure to order for you at no additional cost. Quality name brand items at great prices for both women and men (yeah guys, we have great stuff for you, too)!

We hope you are healthy, happy and "Doing Well!!!"

Sincerely,

The Affordable Scrubs & Uniforms Team

appreciate a good deal can get the best deal they can ask for — free, by just spending a little time searching through listings and a short drive to pick up their item.

Of course, beggars can't be choosers.

If you desire a specific item, you will have to be a little lucky to find what you are looking for. Even still, there is no shortage of items that people want to get rid of. Books, shirts, packages of diapers, a train track set, a lampshade, and candle making supplies are all examples of recently listed items people are offering to give away through freecycling.

The process can also work for you in the opposite way as well, if you have something that you want to get rid of, but don't want to or just can't seem to throw away.

"We are keeping the landfills from getting filled up and helping each other out in the community," said Pytlowanyj.

There are many ways you can start freecycling, with several groups available online depending upon your location.

Those in the tri-county area are the first people in the country to experience a new type of freecycling, called Freecycle Plus.

David Rogelberg, founder of Freecycle Plus at www.freecycle-plus.com, described the website as being a more modern way to give and receive items.

"This movement has been going on since 2003. Freecycle Plus is a new platform for this movement, that brings freecycling in to today," he said.

"We are keeping the landfills from getting filled up and helping each other out in the community."

Stephanie Pytlowanyj
Southern Genesee County Freecycling

Freecycle Plus uses a system that will earn you points for giving away items that you no longer want. These points are then used in an auction like system to bid on items that other people are giving away. This encourages people to be more active in the community, and to offer up items for others instead of simply taking what is offered for free.

The system helps to also build a better community by encouraging people to give more, and discouraging negative actions like never actually picking up items that you claimed you would. "It creates a really nice dynamic, where your reputation matters," Rogelberg said. "I think this is really going to take the country by storm."

Freecycle Plus is still new, though its member base is growing. "I think Fenton should be pretty proud that we are the first community in the nation to be part of this new way of recycling," Pytlowanyj said.

Premises liability

Anytime a person is hurt while on someone else's property, a question can arise as to the potential liability of the owner or possessor of the land for the injuries. In the law, this is referred to as 'premises liability.' Therefore, it is important for the owner or possessor to know what the potential liability may be.

In Michigan, there are three recognized common-law categories for persons who enter upon the land or premises of another — trespasser, licensee or invitee. The duty of the owner to the visitor is dependent on which category the visitor happens to be in.

Case law tells us a trespasser is a person who enters upon another's land without the landowner's consent. The landowner owes no duty to the trespasser except to refrain from injuring him or her by willful and wanton misconduct.

A licensee is a person who is privileged to enter the land of another by virtue of the possessor's consent. A landowner owes a licensee a duty only to warn of any hidden dangers the owner knows or has reason to know of if the licensee does not know or has reason to know of the dangers involved. The landowner owes no duty of inspection or affirmative care to make the premises safe for the licensee's visit. Typically, social guests are licensees who assume the ordinary risks associated with their visit.

Invitees are persons who enter upon the land of another upon an invitation, which carries with it an implied representation, assurance or understanding that reasonable care has been used to prepare the premises and make it safe for the invitees' reception. There is a duty to warn the invitee of known dangers and a duty of inspection and, depending on the circumstances, to repair. Typically, a person entering upon another's premises for business purposes is an invitee.

There's an old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Knowledge of the law of premises liability can be a powerful cure.

WHY DOESN'T THE township buy the trailer park on Eastview Drive? Sell it to a builder and put up some nice condos. Who cleaned up the park on Wiggins and put in new trailers? The entire neighborhood needs to get their property taxes lowered.

Police&Fire report

MAN DUMPS OLD CAR PARTS

On Aug. 6, Fenton police were dispatched to city-owned property on Jayne Road, near South LeRoy Street. DPW workers discovered auto debris amongst the brush. The identification number on a car part led police to the owner of the parts, a man living on South Adelaide Street, who admitted to dumping the old parts there while he refurbished his vehicle. The case remains under investigation.

TEEN ARRESTED

At 12:20 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 3, Fenton police were sent to the area of Ellen and East streets on a report of a white male entering parked vehicles. Police made contact with a 16-year-old Fenton male matching the description provided. The teen denied entering vehicles. Police detected the odor of intoxicants and the teen admitted to drinking beer earlier. The teen was arrested for a curfew violation and Under 21 Consumption, taken to the police station for processing and released to his mother.

DISORDERLY INTOXICATION

Just after 3 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 5, Fenton police were sent to the area of Shiawassee Avenue and Rounds Drive on a report of a white male, later identified as a 34-year-old Fenton man, laying on the ground, and unresponsive. The man, who reportedly was walking home, awakened and became verbally loud and abusive after police arrived. STAT EMS responded and checked him out medically. A preliminary breath test revealed a blood alcohol content of .237. After being cleared by STAT EMS, he was arrested for disorderly intoxication and lodged at the police station until he was sober. He has a Sept. 10 court date.

ELECTRIC SCOOTER STOLEN

On Aug. 3, Fenton police responded to a home in the 500 block of South Lemen Street to investigate a larceny from garage complaint. The homeowner reported that someone entered her garage and stole her son's electric Schwinn scooter, valued at $200.

HOME INVASION

At 11:50 a.m. on Aug. 6, Fenton police responded to a home in the 15000 block of Eddy Lake Road to investigate a home invasion complaint. The 46-year-old homeowner told police that she came home and found a 21-year-old female relative in her home. She said the relative gained entry through an open window. After the relative left, the homeowner discovered $400 and jewelry missing. The case remains under investigation.

"More and more drugs are becoming available in topical form," said Joe Starrs, Rphat VG's Pharmacy.

Summary

►Patches aren't just used to help people quit smoking. More and more drugs are being made available for topical use, and people are embracing this new technology as they become concerned about the risks of pills.

Icy Hot or Bengay, which treats short-term muscle aches and pains, easing symptoms for several hours.

Prescription patches, such as Duragesic, are designed to treat more severe or chronic long-lasting pain, for example, from cancer.

Some medications are particularly well-suited to patch form because they enter the body through the skin, bypassing the liver, where they could do damage or be broken down and made less effective. Because of their unique delivery system, patches often cause less stomach upset than prescription pills.

But patients need to use caution when using prescription pain patches, as with any narcotic medication. They can be addictive, while over-the-counter pain patches do not contain narcotic ingredients that are addictive by nature.

However, the most common complaint people have with "Patches are convenient for people, because they don't have to be taken every day like pills do."

There are two different kinds of patches: one that provides a drug locally, such as an over-the-counter pain relief patch. Some of the brand names you'll find at the drugstore include Salopas, Tiger Balm, patches is minor skin irritation around the site. "You also must be sure that the patch will adhere to your skin," said Starrs. Patches need to be placed in areas where they will stick — not on bending elbows or places with excess body hair.

Many other countries have embraced the use of topical treatments much more so than the U.S., where 88 percent of pain relief comes in the form of a pill. Europeans get about one-quarter of their pain relief from patches or creams, and the Chinese relieve about half their pain this way, according to a recent story in USA Today.

Baby Boomers are leading this trend, as they become troubled with the "aches and pains" of advancing age and the risks of using pills.

One of the downsides of using a patch rather than a pill is its cost. "They can be more expensive because of the technology needed to manufacture a patch," said Starrs. "Usually, the insurance company will provide coverage, but many people will be charged a higher co-pay."

As with all medical decisions, it pays to talk to your doctor first, to determine which form of a prescription will be most beneficial to you.

The Taste in Fenton offers event goers the opportunity to sample food from local eateries. An art contest and live music is also planned for the event, which will be held this Saturday at the Fenton Community and Cultural Center.

TASTE

Winery and Brewery, Crust and Sagebrush Cantina are a few of the restaurants scheduled to be at the event.

Included this year is the 34th annual Art at the Center, sponsored by the Fenton Kiwanis Club, where one contestant will be awarded $1,000 for their art. A winner will be chosen by popular vote amongst attendants at the event.

Returning this year is Crust's Pie Eating Contest. The children's pie-eating contest will start at 11:45 a.m. The grand-prize winner will receive $100 cash. The adult contest (13 and older) will begin at 4:45 p.m. and the grand-prize winner will receive $500 cash. Second-place winners from both contests will receive one pie per month for a year, while third-place winners will receive a cookie a month for a year. Contestants will be selected by a drawing prior to the pie-eating contest.

The bands "Mike Espee Blues" and "Too Much Fun" will return this year as the entertainment. A 5K and 10K Run/Walk will start at 10 a.m. The race is a charity for the Fenton Fire Department. For more information, visit fentonchamber.com or call the Fenton Regional Chamber at (810) 629-5447.

Following last year's Taste in Fenton event, Chamber President Shelly Day said, "We heard nothing but good comments. It was a nice crowd and the variety of food was excellent."

HARRY REID IS a lawyer, and knows that hearsay does not stand up in court, yet he uses it to attack Mitt Romney. What a hypocrite. What side of the fence is Bill Clinton on? One time he was talking Republican ideas, next thing he's supporting Obama. I wonder how he will vote.

I'M CONSIDERED POOR, and it sounds like you are also. I want a job, and I think you do too. People who create jobs are in the upper income bracket. I'd like them to keep their money, and spend it creating jobs, instead of letting the government waste money, and then we can both get jobs. Doesn't that make sense to you?

WHO CLEANED UP the mess after Jimmy Carter? It was President Reagan. Remember the hostages that were held for several days that were released as Reagan was sworn in as president? They say history repeats itself, I hope it is true, and Mitt Romney can clean up the mess Obama has made of our government. Why does Obama appear so religious in a crisis, but does not support a national day of prayer? Think about it.

IT'S SUCH A shame that I have to live around neighbors who are constantly meddling in other people's business. You people need to grow up, and mind your own business and do your own thing with your own life. I don't care what you think. We're not doing anything wrong, you are.

STATE REP

includes much of the tri-county area. It is a two-year term.

Based on the unofficial results, Graves defeated John Lauve (R-Holly) by a wide margin. Likewise, Losey defeated Ryan Starski (D-Goodrich).

Graves was elected to the seat in February as a replacement for Paul Scott, who was recalled from office last November. Graves gave up his seat as Genesee County Commissioner in the sixth district to serve as state rep. Former state rep Fred Shultz was appointed to fill Graves's vacated seat.

As of 11:30 p.m., 28 of the 35 districts were tallied. Graves had 3,101 votes (81 percent) while Lauve had 697 votes (18 percent). There were 15 write in votes (less than .5 percent). In total, 3,813 votes were cast for a Republican nominee.

On the Democratic side, Losey amassed 1,804 votes (67 percent). Starski had 859 votes (32 percent). There were eight write in votes (.3 percent). In total, 2,671 votes were cast for a Democratic nominee.

"I am grateful for the support of everyone who went out and voted for me today," Graves said in a statement.

"My message has been very clear: it's time for the legislators to be held accountable to the voters," Losey said. "We need to be heard. We are responsible for building this state, this country."

Fenton Township

All of the incumbents seeking reelection to serve on the Fenton Township Board of Trustees were reelected on Tuesday to another four-year term. All candidates were Republican.

With about a 14 percent voter turnout, Supervisor Bonnie Mathis and Treasurer John Tucker were reelected. They ran unopposed.

Clerk Robert Krug was reelected by defeating newcomer Nikki Haley by a vote of 636 to 347.

Four incumbents and one newcomer ran for the four available trustee seats. The four candidates with the most votes were elected. Including absentee ballots, Trustee Rob Kesler was the top vote getter with 680 votes, followed by Mark Goupil, with 633, Vince Lorraine, with 617 and newcomer Shaun Shumaker with 609 votes. Andrew Marko received 595 votes.

Krug said the trustee race was very close and all of the candidates are very good people. He believes it was as close

Fenton schools millage renewed

►Funds will be used for building repairs

The Fenton school district will continue to receive funds from the 25-year-old millage fund. The .9 mills is estimated to generate $690,000 for the district's "sinking fund." The renewed fund will be used for capital repairs such as roof repairs, flooring, heating and cooling systems. Of the 10 precincts, seven of them had a final tally shortly after 11:30 p.m., with 672 votes (55.58 percent) of the votes in favor of the millage and 537 votes (44.42 percent) against it. There were a total of 1,209 votes cast.

as it was because of the low voter turnout.

The clerk said election workers dealt all day with ballots that were rejected because the voter filled it out incorrectly. If a person inadvertently or purposely voted for both Democrats and Republicans, the ballot was rejected. Voters were given an opportunity, or numerous opportunities, if needed, to fill out their ballot correctly. Voters will be able to split their ballots at the general election in November.

Krug said he has been told that the straight ticket was put into effect because in past presidential elections, both parties alleged that people from the other political party would vote for the weakest opponent in the primary election to give their favorite candidate an edge in the general election. The straight ticket made it so that this could no longer be done.

Genesee County Drain Commissioner

Genesee County Drain Commissioner Jeff Wright is the projected Democratic winner from Tuesday's election by defeating D.A. Stewart of Fenton. He will face Republican Robert Stewart of Fenton in November.

Genesee County Board of Commissioners – Sixth District

Tony Brown, of Fenton Township, has advanced to the general election in November as the Republican candidate, hoping to be elected as the next county commissioner, representing the sixth district, which includes the Fenton and Linden areas. He will face write-in Democrat candidate Peter Ponzetti, of Grand Blanc, in November.

Argentine Township

Supervisor Robert Cole, Clerk Denise Graves and Treasurer Norman Schmidt ran unopposed and were reelected in Tuesday's election.

There are two trustee spots available. On the Republican side, incumbent Thomas Hallman received 277 votes (93.9 percent) compared to write-in candidate Larry King, who received 18 votes (6.1 percent). On the Democrat side, incumbent Teresa Ciesielski received 250 votes (56.31 percent) compared to newcomer Bill VanKuren, who received 191 votes (43.02 percent).

Graves said all four trustee hopefuls will advance to the general election and the two with the most votes at that time will be elected to serve on the board.

Tyrone Township

Not much will change in Tyrone Township. Marna Bunting-Smith will continue to serve as township treasurer. Bunting-Smith was appointed to her position by the Tyrone Township board in June after former Tyrone Township Treasurer David Kurtz resigned. Mike Cunningham will resume his role as township supervisor. Township clerk Keith Kremer will resume his position as well. Bunting-Smith, Kremer and Cunningham all ran unopposed for their perspective positions. Results for township trustees was not posted at press time.

Holly Area Schools

The sinking fund ballot proposal was voted down by residents. With 75 percent of precincts reporting, 2,671, or 61 percent voted against the sinking fund, and 1,710 voted for it.

Holly Township

Republican incumbent Karin Winchester received the most votes for the Republican candidates. As both Beverly Lauinger and Winchester registered as Republican, Winchester was essentially reelected to serve another term as clerk for Holly Township. She defeated Lauinger by a vote of 686 to 353.

Incumbent Mark Freeman (R) was also reelected to serve another term as treasurer. He defeated Republican challenger Debra Musgrave by a vote of 564 to 459 in the same manner. Trustee information was not available at press time.

Rose Township

Paul Gambka defeated incumbent Supervisor Glen Noble in the supervisor race for Republican nominee. Gambka received 480 votes to Noble's 441 and Bill McDonald's 144 votes.

Incumbent Clerk Debbie Miller defeated Patricia Walls by a vote of 729 to 389. Trish Trevethan was the projected winner in the treasurer's race. She received 575 votes to incumbent Susan Slaughter's 569 votes. Incumbent Trustee Dianne Scheib-Snyder and Thomas Kemp were selected as Republican nominees. Scheib-Snyder took 598 votes or 34 percent, and Thomas Kemp took 446 votes of 25 percent. Tim Claus took 377, and Jim Porter 364.

Constable Emile Bair (I) was not unseated as nominee by challenger David Allemon Jr. Bair took 644 votes, over Allemon's 356.

Election decides who the next sheriff will be.

With more than 85 percent of the precincts reporting numbers to the Genesee County Clerk's Office by 11:45 p.m., Pickell was the projected winner with 65.8 percent of the votes, compared to Johnson's 19.48 percent and Allen's 14.62 percent. These numbers are unofficial and will change as more precincts submit their results.

With Allen being a police chief in the tri-county area and the sheriff's department providing police coverage to Fenton Township, this race was talked about often. Allen and Pickell each alleged that the other candidate's campaign workers either moved or covered each other's campaign signs, which were on display throughout the area.

While Pickell and his supporters gathered at Foutch's Pub, at the corner of Linden and Corunna roads for their election night party, Allen and his supporters gathered at El Cozumel Mexican Grill in Burton.

"All I know, is I've never been a quitter," said Allen. He didn't officially declare defeat to Pickell to his remaining supporters, but he received hugs and hand shakes of consolation as they left for the night. "There's still a lot to do in Argentine Township," he said.

Hundreds treated to sights, sounds, tastes of Holly

► Annual Chamber event fills downtown streets

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly — It was hot on Saturday, but not too hot to keep people away from downtown Holly.

The annual Sights, Sounds and Tastes of Holly pulled in an estimated 500 to 600 people, said organizer Sandra Kleven, of the Holly Area Chamber of Commerce, which is a little more than last year.

Area restaurants including the Holly Hotel and Fenton Winery and Brewery provided samples of their goods in exchange for a ticket, which attendees bought in packs of 15.

Live music was provided by country band Wreck-Less from Midland, and Lester's Blues.

For the first time, an art show, "Year of the Youth," was held under a tent showcasing Oakland Community College student work.

"This is really awesome, isn't it?" said July Hay of Holly as she left the art tent. She especially liked the art exhibit, which featured a "rat-rod," a custom built roadster that art show organizer Anthony Scott hired as a sculptor. "It's all art," he said.

Artist Megan Orange of Flint was happy to sell a few pieces.

Kleven said that people camping nearby from out of state and even Canada stopped by. "They were very pleased with the event," she said.

She believes that more food tickets were sold this year than in the past, though there were fewer vendors this year, with 10 instead of the 15 in 2011. Kleven said the vendors were pleased with the turnout. The weather mostly cooperated, with a light sprinkle around 9:30 p.m.

Trent Maple, 19, of Holly attended on behalf of the Holly Area Youth Assistance (HAYA) and Holly Area Community Coalition. "It helps bring people together," he said of the event.

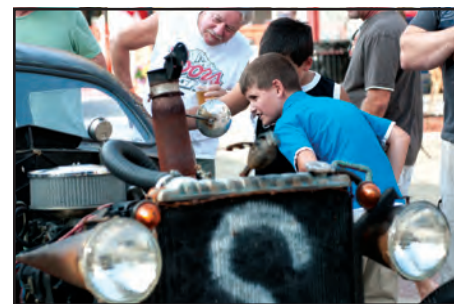

Organizations like HAYA benefit from raffles held at the event, and ticket sales go back to the chamber of commerce, though Kleven said they lose money on the tickets.

"We want to thank all of our restaurants for participating, and we appreciate everyone who comes out and attends," she also thanked her volunteers and major sponsors.

discussed a new version of the chicken ordinance that will be officially voted on Monday, Aug. 13.

The proposed ordinance would allow for up to three chickens to be kept in backyard chicken coops, and would require an annual permit to keep the animals.

According to Brad Hissong, city building and zoning administrator, those who are found violating the ordinance will have to pay a fine of $125 the first day of violation, $250 the second day, and $500 the third day as well as every day after.

"I hope this works out well for everyone who wants to have chickens."

Pat Lockwood
Fenton City councilwoman

The new ordinance was taken up by the city after the planning commission had voted against the ordinance last month.

Councilman Bradley Jacob said that prohibition of something is the government having the utmost intervention the government can have on a matter. "This is an opportunity for us to get the government out of people's lives," he said.

Councilwoman Lockwood was in favor of having a strong ordinance since the matter was new to the city. "I hope this works out well for everyone who wants to have chickens," she said.

"As far as I am concerned, you can have up to six chickens and it won't make a difference," Bland said.

Although he was comfortable with more, Bland proposed initially setting the ordinance to allow for three chickens, and allow the city to see where things go from there.

Not everyone was as ready to open the city up for chickens. Mayor Sue Osborn said, "I've had people say to me, 'Let them move to the townships if they want chickens.'"

In response to the mayor's comment, Councilwoman Cheryl King said, "I've said the same thing.

"I am not for opening Pandora's Box for this," she said. "I am not going to vote for this if it's over three chickens," Councilman Benjamin Smith said that he was still against the ordinance allowing for chicken ownership in the city.

Fenton resident Malissa Bossardet, who, by raising a handful of chickens with her children, brought this issue to the surface last year. "I am extremely disappointed on the max of three hen chickens. One hen lays one egg a day. Three chickens will supply three eggs per day. In my case, I have three children and myself, so this means we will be short one egg per day.

"Three chickens are just not enough to sustain a family of more than four people. The whole idea of backyard chickens is healthy sustainable living. With five hens I am able to feed my entire family and share my delicious eggs with my neighbors."

Bossardet's other concern is that the city is looking to enforce this ordinance under code enforcement. "This basically means that hefty fines can be levied on homeowners for non compliance," she said. "I don't think the city of Fenton should focus on policing this situation and capitalizing on fines. The keeping of domestic animals falls under zoning and it makes sense that backyard chickens should as well.

"I strongly urge the city of Fenton to increase the maximum of hens to five and place this ordinance under the zoning amendment."

FOR THOSE OF you who call Obama a socialist, why don't you ask Socialist Party USA what they think of Obama? They said in an interview with Time Magazine that Obama is way too conservative to be a socialist.

LAST TIME I checked, I could carry my CPL license in my wallet and enter a restaurant/bar without being profiled. Thanks to one place, the bouncers denied me entrance because my CPL license fell on the ground. You've lost my business, as well as many of my friends.

HOLLY RESIDENTS BEWARE: We have an outside water meter and we are not supposed to be charged sewer on our outside water usage, only our inside usage. Our water bill was over $180 and we complained. They got upset, but we walked out with $108. What a difference.

WHY SHOULD I pay into Social Security when no retiree who votes is willing to pay into my education?

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can you tell me about hypothyroidism? Does taking iodine help? I hear that taking thyroid hormone is a lifetime commitment. — C.N.

ANSWER: Hypothyroidism is a thyroid gland that's putting out way too little thyroid hormone. All body processes slow. People become weak and are exhausted. They're cold when others are pleasantly warm. They gain weight without overeating. Their skin dries. The face becomes puffy. The heart beats slowly.

Worldwide, iodine deficiency is the main cause of a sluggish thyroid gland. It is not in North America. Here, the main cause is an attack on the gland by the immune system.

The appropriate treatment is supplying the hormone in pill form. It usually is a lifelong treatment, but it's not an onerous one. It's taking only one pill a day.

SPORTS TRIVIA OLYMPICS

Q Who coached the 1992 U.S. men's basketball team?

A The "Dream Team" was coached by Detroit Pistons' coach Chuck Daly. It was the first Olympics in which professionals were allowed to play. The U.S. wins the gold.

Top Olympic Images

Here are some images that stick in sports editor David Troppens' mind about the Olympics through Monday night's action.

Usain Bolt wins the 100 again: In what is the premier sporting event of the summer games, Bolt proved to be the fastest human on the Earth for a second straight Olympics, winning the 100 with a time of 9.63 seconds. While Americans might think Michael Phelps is the face of the last couple Olympics, he isn't — at least not to the rest of the world. It's Bolt.

McKayla Maroney's vault in the team gymnastics competition: She may not have gotten the gold in the individual event finals, but her vault during the team competition was eye-popping. It was explosion and grace combined with a perfect landing. It made me take notice.

Gabby Douglass: With her outstanding talent and her infectious smile, she'll become the endorsement winner of these Olympic games. Whether she takes first or last, she's fun to watch.

Alex Morgan's header goal to beat Canada: I missed all but the overtimes of this game, but from just the little I saw it was obvious this was pretty much a gruelling game. And it looked headed to penalty kicks until Morgan's header goal, giving the U.S. a 4-3 win against Canada with about 30 seconds left. Pretty dramatic ending in England's greatest soccer stadium. It was fitting.

Training partners finish 1-2 in the 10,000 meters: Britain's Mo Farrah won the gold medal in front of his friend and training partner, United States' runner Galen Rupp. Seeing the two celebrate afterward was a nice touch.

Canoe trip symbolizes start of Linden football's season

►Event gives team chance to have fun before practices begin

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Harrison — It started as a thought 13 years ago when Linden assistant football coach Jeff Krause offered to allow the varsity squad to use his cabin for a team camp the weekend before the start of football season.

That first season, numbers were low. And in future seasons, there were other foibles. But through it all, the camp has survived and has become as much a part of the Linden varsity football season as the annual Linden-Fenton game.

Linden football coach Denny Hopkins remembers that first year; it happened during his second year as Linden's head varsity football coach.

"We thought we'd go to a team camp and coach Krause offered up his cabin," Hopkins said. "That first year we had, maybe, 16 kids that took advantage of it. But it has grown every year since then."

It's obvious why it has grown. This season, Krause hosted the team, once again, on his property. It consists of over 100 acres of land with an unassuming ranch house on the front of the property. Very little of the land is cleared for residential living, maybe about two acres. The rest remains in pretty much a perfect natural state. A swamp is located on one side of the field property and trees for a forest on the other. In the back, the forest wilderness continues. Follow the approximately two miles of trails and you'll see different environments as you walk. Some areas are fields, while others have nice pine trees, maple trees or even birch trees. It marks the perfect property to tent up over 40 varsity football athletes for just over two days.

"It gives the guys a chance to hang around guys they usually don't hang around with," Hopkins said. "We want to get a bit of team unity, but at the same time we want them to have fun. We put the kids in a different situation because on Monday it's going to be football, football and football. This is something for us to see these kids away from football, but still together as a group. I really think it's nice that our older kids get to learn and get to know the younger kids."

The event has nothing to do with football, with the exception of it being a football team in the woods. The trip began with a large convoy of coaches and students driving all the campers to Harrison. Once there, the players found their plots and placed their tents into the plot of land. Most shared tent space with teammates. Some connected their tents with others expanding their Harrison — This is a story that started over a year ago.

Sometime during the 2010-11 boys varsity basketball season, Linden head coach Denny Hopkins, who also happens to be the varsity football coach, asked this reporter if he'd like to go on the annual football team canoe trip.

The canoe trip occurs annually (at least for 13 years) the weekend prior to the official start of prep football season. The Linden varsity football team goes on a camping trip to a location of one of the coaches' summer homes/cabins and they enjoy a weekend of fun, food and competition.

I was unable to go last year, but this year I was lucky. Once again, I was asked if I wanted to go to assistant coach Jeff Krause's ranch, located just under an hour north of Mt. Pleasant, to attend the annual camping and canoe trip. This time I went. Here's a little diary of some of the activities during the weekend. I'll have to admit most of the times are estimates.

FRIDAY
12:55 p.m.

The sports editor finally arrives, five minutes before we are supposed to go. I'm sure there was a little bet going among the coaching staff if I would show up or not. But, I did.

After being briefed how we were going to leave — assistant coach Nick Douglass would lead with coach Hopkins trailing behind the convoy — we take off. I follow right behind Douglass as the No. 2 vehicle in the convoy. It's supposed to be a two-hour trip.

2:45 p.m.

It looks like the trip is going to take a little longer than expected. One of the students' vehicles is having troubles and Hopkins has driven to the front of the convoy to drive the group to the side of the expressway. It's decided the convoy is going to leave at the next exit to examine the problem.

It becomes obvious the truck isn't going to finish the trip. The players driving in it move into new cars/trucks, while I use most of my empty space to carry the players' luggage. It gives me a tiny sense of pride because I actually end up being a semi-help being there with that role.

Hopkins asks, "So is this going to be in the story?" I tell him it will be.

3:30 p.m.

We are in Harrison. But instead of driving to a front-yard driveway, we are led down a trail. We drive down it, through quite a few twists and turns with the vehicles snugly fitting the trail. We've taken the back way into coach Krause's 100-plus acre lot of land. And it's a nifty one at that. Apparently, there were deer through the trip in the woods as someone declares, "I almost hit a Bambi in your backyard."

3:35 p.m.

It's time for the players to put their tents up. I find out I won't have such concerns. I'm staying in the house. Krause's parents stay in the home during the summer, and his dad assures me, "This is your home" for the next two days.

Meanwhile, the players work on putting their tents together. Some are more efficient than others. Cliff Coleman, Quinten Moughler and Collin Fenwick are the first to get their tents completed. Eventually, tents of all shapes and sizes are laid out in about a two-acre plot that was cleared out for this exclusive purpose. One camper isn't using a tent. That's Aaron Kersten.

"I'm going Bear Grylls' style," he tells me.

4 p.m. - midnight

It's game time, with dinner time snuggled in between the games.

There are two clear-cut favorites. A game called Spike Ball becomes the game of choice during the daylight hours. It involves a ball that's about the size of a softball, but made with the materials you'd expect from a children's ball. There's also a net that looks like a circular trampoline. Teams of players try to hit the ball off of the trampoline while hitting the ball off their hands. They are given three hits on a team to hit the ball off the trampoline. If they do, the ball is now in possession of the other squad until they do the same. The team that ends the rally loses the point.

It looks like an addicting game. And as the night goes on, it seems some players start to figure it out. Games are highly competitive.

Once it gets dark, the traditional bean bag toss game is the competition of choice, if not for any other reason but the winning team will get free ice cream at Dairy Queen on Saturday.

I am partners with Hopkins. While we hang for a couple of rounds, it's apparent we can't hang with the best teams. We lose a lopsided game in the quarterfinals. Yet, I thought we played reasonably well. I mention I think I now know how Clio football feels when they play their 'A' game against the Linden football team, and still lose by 40 points.

The eventual winners end up being the team of Kyle Babcock and Cody Grandy.

FRIDAY NIGHT/SATURDAY MORNING

After the bean bag toss game ends, some players roam through the woods playing their version of hide-and-seek. Others sit around the campfire or in their tents and just talk. Meanwhile, the coaches are inside the house, discussing the depth chart on offense, defense and special teams.

While I won't go into great detail, I quickly learn that the Linden coaches seemingly like their depth as it seems the biggest question marks come beyond the second string. I also learn the voting system. All the assistant coaches get one vote, and Hopkins gets one more vote than the assistant coaches who area. And some were more adept at putting their tents together than others.

Once that was completed, Friday would've been best termed as game night. For most of the afternoon a game called Spike Ball held the players' attention. Later in the night, the traditional bean bag toss game had everyone's attention. But, there's plenty of extra time, just to get to know the team.

"The time we get for free time we usually get in a group and just talk," senior captain Eddie Walterhouse said. "We talk about life — talk about things that might have bothered you and just random things. That's how you get closer to your teammates and just bond."

"When you are a young guy on a team, you know some upperclassmen, but when you come here, you have all that spare time and you cherish those moments with your teammates. You get to know people. Instead of just seeing them at school, you get to know their lives and they share things with you. It's an awesome experience."

Others agree.

"It's just about spending time with all of my friends and having fun," senior Nick Carlson said. "Pretty much all the new guys that came in to get to learn — the juniors and the sophomores — we get to learn about them, make them feel a part of the team and bring everyone back together."

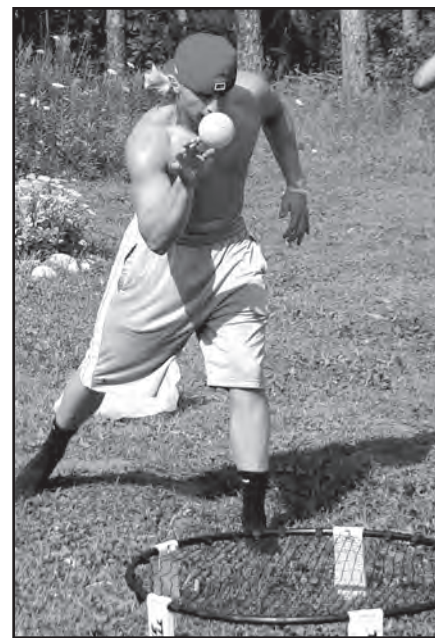

"Absolutely, (it helped me last year). All the older guys were my friends. And it all happened in one weekend."

The highlight of Saturday was the canoe trip down the Muskegon River. The four-plus hour trip involved some canoe wars, some water fights, and some extra trips off the river. This year that involved a trip on shore near large sand hills off the shore where the players were able to jump off the top and some land as far as two-thirds down the hill. Near the same spot, a family had a make-shift water slide. Many took advantage, sliding down the hill, hitting a small ramp and then landing in the river.

"The canoeing is what started it all," said senior Kyle Babcock. "The slide was cool. We didn't get to do it last year."

"It's just a little vacation before you go to hell week. It's fun."

And another added benefit — the players getting to see the coaching staff in another light. Where else would one get a chance to see Hopkins sing and dance to Beyonce songs, or see assistant coaches like Desi Mayner man up on the grill for an hour? Meanwhile, it seems Krause takes the time to see how many times he can lead one of the players astray with a wild comment that is obviously not true. Yet, quite frequently the players seemed to sucker right into the comment.

It's hard to believe that about a day after the camp is over, these are the same men that will run the players through grueling two-a-day practices.

"You get to see them take a step back from football, and see something besides their serious side," Walterhouse said. "We see their side having fun and see their dad side. They are enjoying their time with us, but you know they are going to beat our butt when we get to two-a-days. It's nice to see them take a step back and be able to take a step back, talk to them, get to know the coaches and get to understand where they come from. It's a perfect trip to get to know anything."

The activities vary a little bit each year as well. In the past there were euchre tournaments. And it looks like there's a possibility bowling could be on the agenda next year. But whatever seems to happen, it appears everyone has fun.

"I think the kids like it," Hopkins said. "At about 7 or 8 (Saturday night) they are pretty tired, and they'll probably sit around the fire and for the first time talk football. They'll mention practice starting Monday and stuff like that. But that's about it. We just want them to have fun before we go back to work."

If that was the mission, consider it a mission accomplished.

happen to be in the meeting.

The coaches tell me some interesting stories as the process moves on. I hear stories about how some outstanding Linden players didn't want to be moved up to varsity when they were, obviously, ready for the challenge. I hear stories about some players I never really saw play. And we all discuss some players we all saw play.

Meanwhile, the players are having fun outside, yet behaving quite maturely. I made a few trips outside to walk the paths and run into quite a few. I try to scare a group when they walk by, but fail to accomplish my task.

1 a.m.

It's pretty much just me and Hopkins watching the Olympic coverage. Volleyball is on. That brings the conversation to his daughter, Cori Mason, and her volleyball career. It's clear Hopkins loved watching Cori play volleyball and I learn a little about Cori, who is Linden's varsity volleyball coach, that I didn't know beforehand. It sounds like one day she'll be pounding on the doors of the Linden Athletic Hall of Fame.

SATURDAY

8 a.m.

I'm not a morning person, but I happened to get up early on Saturday. I came outside to sit on the back deck, and I'm glad I did. Because at 8 a.m. assistant coach Krause comes out and yells, "It's time to get up." About five seconds later, he shoots a starter's pistol in the air and says, "I said it's time to get up." Quickly, everyone does get up and is rewarded with some of the best cinnamon rolls one could ask for. The size of almost two donuts, these babies cost just 85 cents a piece at the local bakery.

I hear Mason Belbot exclaim he doesn't like cinnamon rolls. Assistant coach Desi Mayner quickly replies, "That's un-American."

10 a.m.

It's time to canoe. We are going to be canoeing on the Muskegon River through a resort named the "Old Log Resort."

Our canoe trip is about 12 miles long and is expected to take about four hours. The players pair up in canoes and go ahead of the coaches. Meanwhile, the coaches create a "canoe pontoon" with our boats, connecting the four canoes with ropes. It makes us safe from being tipped, but makes our craft much slower. For most of the trip, we trail a large chunk of the student canoeists. That works out well, though, as we get a chance to relax and see the foibles in front of us. Many students seemingly have more fun tipping than rowing.

Noon

About one-third through the trip, we reach a large sand hill. And near the hill a family has created a makeshift water slide. We catch up to the kids at the extreme sand hill. It's obvious this is a traditional stopping point, as the kids are jumping off the hill and landing about two-thirds down the hill because of the extreme angle. I take pictures of the kids while they jump over me. I don't try the jump "knowing" I'd break my ankle if I did.

A bunch of the kids make their way to the water slide. Now, this is my speed. I give it a try and love it. Eventually, coach Hopkins also works his way up to the slide and becomes the only coach to participate. The stop proves to be the highlight of the canoe ride.

3 p.m.

We reach the end. We also see some man-made "springs." People can ride their canoes under them and get a nice shower of water. We do one, and it feels good, however. Soon we reach the end of the trip and everyone comes in — all safe.

4 p.m.

It's dinner time. Both dinners consist of hot dogs and hamburgers. Hopkins tells me they have 400 hot dogs and 400 hamburgers for the trip.

5 p.m.

It's time for Dairy Queen, the only true trip to town during the weekend. I almost miss it. I was roaming the trails when I came back just at the last second to make the trip.

7 p.m.

It's karaoke time. All the kids compete, either solo, or in groups. The first to go is Hopkins. One hasn't lived until they've seen Hopkins sing and dance to a Beyonce song. Songs range from "Girls Just Want to Have Fun" to "American Solider."

In the middle of the karaoke competition coach Krause gives me a tour of his land. It's apparent Krause loves deer. He has many blinds in which to hunt from. But just as he might hunt from them, he probably spends more time just enjoying watching the deer during the offseason. I learn a little of the history of the land and enjoy the tour.

8 p.m.

It's time to do the only semi-football related task — learn the Linden fight song. Players group up in threes to show they know the words. Some succeed the first time, others don't. Shockingly, the group that probably should feel the most heat are the captains. They take three attempts to complete the task. But once everyone does, they come together for one large group sing-a-long — "Onward Linden, Onward Linden...." I have the song memorized.

It's time for me to leave about 12 hours earlier than the group. With a wedding anniversary coming up, I figure leaving Saturday night is my best bet to having Sunday pretty much open with my wife. As I leave I whistle "Onward Linden" a couple of times. My wife is a Linden graduate, so maybe I can impress her with my version.

Penny Lynn (Bickersteth) Tarrant

1949-2012

Penny Lynn (Bickersteth) Tarrant - age 63, of Amelia Courthouse, Virginia, passed away at home July 16, 2012. She was born in Flint, Michigan, in 1949 as the youngest of three sisters Patricia Giannone of Port Orange, Florida, and Paula Smith of Flint, Michigan, whom she leaves behind. Penny was both a graduate of Flint Southwestern class of 1967 and a member of UAW Local 651. She retired from Delphi and worked at AC Spark Plug for many years. Left to celebrate her life, Penny also leaves behind two children, Jason (Stephanie) Tarrant of Stafford, VA, and Julie (Tanya) Tarrant of Lake Ridge, VA., as well as two granddaughters Devin (Jason) Tarrant, age 9 and Dylan (Jason) Tarrant, age 4. Known by many as the "Flag Lady", she was very passionate about her country and the American Flag, having helped to initiate and pass Michigan Senate Bill 211 in 1991, which in summary, allowed condominium owners to fly an American Flag without Condo HOA interference. Her story was portrayed in local, regional and national level media.

A memorial service is planned for Saturday, August 18, 2012, at 11 AM at Swartz Funeral Home in Flint. Final resting will be in Sunset Hills on Flushing Rd in Flint. In lieu of flowers, the family is taking a collection for the Genesee County Humane Society.
