North LeRoy Street project almost done

► Road is open while all that remains is finishing touches

Fenton — Adding traffic lane lines, some cleanup and a final inspection by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is all that is left for the North LeRoy Street construction project to be completely finished.

Paving was finished on Sunday, a delay from Friday due to rain. The project cost more than $1.25 million with engineering costs. Fenton City provided $280,000 and more than $1.12 million paid by grants.

Department of Public Works (DPW) Director Daniel Czarnecki said the engineers did an excellent job. “I think people will see that a million

►Foundation raises more than $6,000 for impoverished mountain families

Rose Twp. — A chilly breeze pushed against the tent fabric of multiple shelters, covering clothing, knick-knacks, books and furniture at 6440 East Holly Rd. in Rose Township.

The garage sale at the Angel Haven Foundation was in its fourth day and about a dozen people were picking through the six tents and thousands of items surrounding the home.

The Angel Haven Foundation is a non-profit organization committed to assisting the impoverished and remote areas in Virginia.

For 15 years, Carl and Shirley Roos have been assisting the 178 families in areas that were once employed by coal mines, now closed down. Unemployment there is about 90 percent, according to the Roos.

They hold these garage sales semi-yearly, taking the proceeds to buy food, water, clothing, medical supplies and other necessary items to help them survive.

The Roos also accept monetary donations. The items they sell are also donated, with the best or most requested items being taken up to the mountain town a few times per year. The next, and last trip of this year takes place right after Thanksgiving.

Shirley Roos said they had 300 or so people at this sale, since it began on Thursday of last week. At one point cars were lined up along her winding driveway all the way to the road. They sold $2,000 worth on Thursday and hoped to reach $4,000 on Sunday. Overall, she was hoping to top $5,500 this year. She said donations have been solid.

"Excellent, people are very generous," she said. "One man handed us a $50 bill for a paperback book." She said a few people that shopped there were originally from the

Regardless of who shopped, it was a bigger sale than it has been in the past. "We have half again as much in donations as last year," she said.

If you missed the sale, but want to shop, or donate goods, the sale is being held again this Saturday and Sunday at 6440 East Holly R. In all, the four-day sale pulled in $6,400. "Is that cool or what," said Shirley.

BEYOND PLANET EARTH

►Space exploration brings us closer to finding out why we, solar system are here

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

What is the farthest you have ever been away from home? No matter how far, it is likely that the Curiosity rover on Mars has you beat as it navigates the red planet, more than 30 million miles from Earth.

Summary

►The Mars rover Curiosity, the Messenger probe and New Horizons are all bringing us new information about our solar system.

Curiosity is the latest of many manned and unmanned missions into the final frontier.

"This is the largest rover we have had on the planet Mars yet," said Richard Walker of Longway Planetarium. "Its instruments are much more sophisticated."

Curiosity rover is equipped with many cameras and is capable of taking video. It has tools to measure humidity, pressure, wind speeds, radiation, and a 7-foot robotic arm, which it used this weekend to touch its first rock.

The job that awaits the Curiosity rover is related to the recent discovery that there was water on Mars at some point.

"Ok, if there was water, was there ever life there? That's what Curiosity is looking for, to see if conditions are there to make life possible in the past," Walker said.

While Curiosity is the most recent project and receives the most media attention, NASA is currently working on other projects and missions as well. In 2006, NASA launched the New Horizons spacecraft, which is headed toward Pluto and beyond. The spacecraft will travel more than three billion miles, and is not expected to reach Pluto until July 2013.

Other missions include the Messenger, which is a robotic spacecraft currently orbiting Mercury. Due to its proximity to the sun, using the Hubble telescope without damaging it is difficult. The Messenger spacecraft has been orbiting the innermost planet of the solar system since 2004.

With the space shuttle system retired, NASA is currently working on finding a replacement. The Commercial Crew Integrated Capability program has provided more than $1 billion in funding to develop a new system of sending astronauts into space within the next five years, according to wired.com.

The company SpaceX, which received funding from the program, is scheduled to fly the first commercial resupply mission of the International Space Mission next month.

While looking ahead at the future of space exploration, it is sometimes hard to separate fact from science fiction, as the two are intertwined quite a bit. Future proposals being considered by NASA include a "gateway spacecraft" 277,000 miles from Earth – putting it 38,000 miles past the moon. This is more than 100 times further than the International Space Station.

Accomplishing such a task would be quite a bit in our future, and would also require the use of another in development NASA project, the Space Launch System (SLS). The SLS is meant to serve as a replacement to the retired space shuttle, and is scheduled to be completed by 2017.

Why we yawn, get goose bumps

►Many natural human reactions, like blushing, are not fully understood

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

While we may all like to think we are in control of ourselves — sometimes our bodies are in control of us. Thankfully, we do not have to remember to force ourselves to breathe — we do that automatically.

Our bodies have many different types of reactions that seem completely outside of our control, and have been the subject of much study and research over the years.

Blushing

A blush is easy to recognize, as a blushing person quickly stands out in a crowd, likely much to their displeasure.

Two different types of blushing have been identified — the classic blush, when the face quickly turns a shade of red, and the creeping blush that progresses over time.

Why do we blush at all, though? Physically, the answer is simple. Blushing occurs from the relaxing of blood vessels, which allows more blood to pass through which in turn causes your skin to turn red.

Psychologically, blushing, is a little more complicated. It is thought

Diversions and distractions

Most are aware of the video of Mitt Romney speaking to donors at a fundraiser in Boca Raton.

The video was reportedly 'leaked' by James Carter IV, the grandson of former President Jimmy Carter. Hmmm — what a surprise!

It's all part of the Democrats' attempt to distract attention from the president's miserably-failed record.

Romney was correct when he told the donors, 'Forty-seven percent of Americans pay no income taxes.' He was also right when he suggested that '...47 percent of the people ... will vote for the president no matter what' and that they 'are dependent on government' and 'believe that they are victims.' Democrats are the party of government and the more people they addict to government the better for Democrats.

Romney refused to back down, but did admit his remarks had not been 'elegantly stated.'

What Romney might have said was, 'My policies will help people get jobs and earn a decent wage while President Obama's policies will cause more people to rely on government than on themselves.'

Will the same media hold the president to the standards he set for himself? The president says he tried to 'reach out' to Republicans, but they refused. What they refused to do was give in to big government and his tax-and-spend agenda.

Do the promises Obama made four years ago still matter? They should, especially when he has failed to fulfill most of them. But don't look for the moderators of the upcoming debates to hold him accountable.

During the Oct. 3 presidential debate, Romney might also reference a comment the president made last February: 'One of the proudest things in my three years in office is helping to restore a sense of respect for America around the world...'

In light of the uprisings that have included the burning of American flags in the Middle East and the murder of Americans in Libya, that's one more broken promise that can be added to a growing list.

With comments like these, there's no need to go behind closed doors.

It's all out in the open.

OBAMA DECIDED THE violent attack on our embassy wasn't a spontaneous demonstration. He now agrees with everyone else that, 'It's self-evident the event was a planned terrorist attack.' Obama had prior warning but took no action to increase security. He's busy campaigning while Americans are dying. He's incompetent and disgraceful.

TO THE PERSON that said, 'Polls don't lie,' polls can and do render false information. Get your facts straight before you contribute to the demise of America.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT spent $70,000 for ads on Pakistani TV featuring Obama and H. Clinton rejecting the content and message of the anti-Islam movie-trailer they linked to the anti-American terrorist attacks. Obama apologized that our freedom of speech hurt the feelings of Muslims as the protesters call for death to Americans.

I WAS SO sad to read that one of the managers at the Panera Bread in Fenton has been killed in a motorcycle accident. Mr. Muncy was always so helpful at the store and tried to always please his customers. May he rest in peace and comfort for his family.

HAVE YOU SEEN the playground at Ellen Street? The staff, principal, and families volunteered their time and resources to make that school even better. And it was completely grant funded. Ellen Street is a great place to be. Check it out.

School choice

As your editorial suggested, the Chicago teachers' strike dramatized just how unsustainable the public-education monopoly has become in America's Second City. ('Time for school choice in Chicago,' Sept. 19.) The stark reality is that the three-year deal that ended the strike promises teachers double-digit pay increases and other perks that a bankrupt city simply cannot pay for, short of receiving a federal bailout. It is instructive that 50,000 of Chicago's 400,000 public-school students lost no classroom time during the strike.

Is sleep deprivation the reason Romney is blowing it?

'Saturday Night Live' opened its new season with a sketch in which President Obama acknowledges that 'things aren't great, the economy's in the tank' and 'the job market is horrible,' but says he's not worried because his campaign has a 'secret weapon' to guarantee a win. Cut to Mitt Romney.

When satirists think that the idea that your campaign is tanking has been sufficiently internalized to use it as a premise, you know you're in trouble. The question is: Why? Why can't Republican Mitt Romney seem to break open a tight race with President Barack Obama given the nation's sluggish economy and conservative enthusiasm to beat the Democrat?

The answer certainly isn't the lack of money. Between the campaign, the RNC, and outside super PACs, Romney supporters have raised over half a billion dollars.

So if it's not about external conditions or money or talent, then it must be about poor decision-making.

What is behind all these bad decisions? Here's my theory: not enough sleep. And I have evidence. While I was at the Democratic National Convention in Charlotte, a journalist told me that senior Romney adviser Eric Fehrstrom sleeps only three or four hours, then wakes and checks his e-mail, sends out replies, and then gets another hour of sleep. Voila — mystery solved!

And sleep plays a vital role in decision making. According to the Harvard Medical School's Division of Sleep Medicine, lack of sleep played a 'critical role' in the nuclear accidents at Three Mile Island and Chernobyl, the wrecking of the Exxon Valdez and the explosion of the Challenger space shuttle.

So, adding up the clues, it seems the culprit in the killing of Romney's chances just might be mind numbing sleep deprivation among senior campaign advisors.

Am I saying he would be beating Obama if his staffers just got more sleep? No, but at this point it can't hurt. Half a billion dollars is great, but the benefits of a good night's sleep are even greater.

Linden — Securing the Union Block property is costing the city more than officials budgeted for.

On Monday, Aaron Hess of Atwell Environment told Linden City Council that the Union Block property had no environmental concerns; however, adjacent properties such as the Beacon and Bridge gas station could pose problems for the property. Hess said possible contamination from surrounding properties could affect the water on the Union Block property and suggested a phase two environmental study.

Councilors were surprised by the recommendation. The LaFontaine family, who currently own the Union Block property, had previously conducted their own environmental study, which recommended a second phase. Councilors were unaware of the LaFontaines' report.

"This is news to me. This is news to the council," said Councilor Danielle Dixon. "Why weren't we made aware of this earlier?"

Phase one of the environmental study did not include excavation, Hess said. Phase two would include three temporary 16-foot wells, where Atwell would test water for possible contamination. The phase two study will cost the city $5,250. Hess said the study could be completed within a month.

Ford's recognition was held at the Holiday Inn Gateway Center in Flint Township. More than 100 people attended the event, including anti-bullying advocate Kevin Epling and Fenton Mayor Sue Osborn. Ford was also presented with awards from State Rep. Joseph Graves and other State politicians, who were not at the gathering.

Fred Huag, the project director of the Characters Unite program, said awarding Gabe was not a difficult choice.

"There were more than 1,000 applicants for the award," Huag said. "Gabe was easily in the top 15." Judges reviewed Ford's website and saw her videos online.

According to the USA Network website, the Characters Unite Award is given to those who "made significant and lasting differences in efforts to fight prejudice and discrimination, while increasing tolerance, respect and acceptance." Winners are given a $5,000 grant from USA Network to donate to a project.

Ford will use the grant money for her project "The Friends of Gabe and Izzy Charity."

Graves said Ford's work against bullying prevents other social issues and has a greater impact on society. "I've learned through Chasing the Dragon that most kids turn to drugs because cases of bullying," Graves said.

Osborn presented Ford with a key to the city so she "may always have a way home."

"We are so proud of her," Osborn said.

Ford said she would continue to speak publically against bullying.

Church acquires new pipe organ

► Concert planned to showcase majestic instrument

Fenton United Methodist Church has a new 33-rank American Classic pipe organ for its sanctuary. This instrument is a merger of a 12 and half-rank Moller organ, purchased in 1977 with a 20 and half-rank Schantz organ, gifted to the church in 1999.

The Schantz organ, designed by the late Arthur Strahle, was received from the former Parkland Presbyterian Church of Flint in 1999. The Lauck Pipe Organ Company of Otsego constructed the organ.

Summary

► The Fenton United Methodist Church celebrates its new pipe organ with a free concert on Sunday, Oct. 7.

To celebrate this new instrument, members of the Flint Chapter, American Guild of Organists (AGO), are planning a Members' Recital to be held in the church sanctuary on Sunday, Oct. 7 at 3 p.m. The concert will showcase the dynamic power, majesty and versatility

These projects and those even farther in the future, all contribute to the goal of adding to our scientific knowledge. "The biggest, broadest goals are that we want to know where we came from. It's the same as why would we study history," said Dr. Rajib Ganguly, assistant professor of physics at the University of Michigan-Flint. "We want to know 'what are the things that led up to us being here,' and part of that is 'how did our solar system get here.'"

Every mission to study space helps these goals, according to Ganguly. "By going out and studying other things in our solar system, we get clues to try and answer those big questions," he said.

Voting

'I registered to vote nearly 40 years ago but have never voted. Am I still eligible to vote and do I need to do anything other than show up at the polls on Election Day? If not, what do I need to do to be able to vote in the presidential election?'

I will presume that you first registered to vote in 1972 in anticipation of that year's Presidential election when President Richard M. Nixon ran against George McGovern. Although you didn't vote, you may recall that President Nixon won re-election in a landslide, carrying 49 states and receiving 520 of 537 electoral votes. Things didn't go particularly well for President Nixon after that and he became the first and only president in American history to resign from office on Aug. 9, 1974.

I won't detail the reasons or the resulting consequences but suffice it to say they are a part of American history.

To answer your precise question, as long as you are a United States citizen, at least 18 years of age by Election Day and a resident of Michigan and the city or township where you have registered to vote, you are eligible.

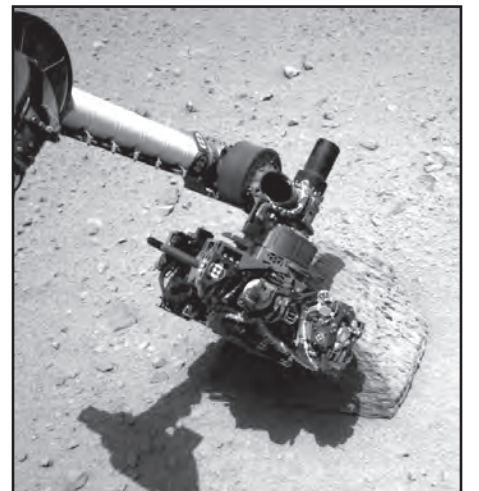

My guess however is that you may not be living at the same location where you were 40 years ago and you will have to re-register to vote with your new address if you've moved to a new city or township. If you've simply moved within the same city or township you must update your address.

Generally, you must register at least 30 days before the election. This year's deadline to register is Oct. 9.

You can register to vote for federal, state and local elections by mail, at your county, city or township clerk's office or by visiting any Secretary of State branch office.

All of the above information is from the Michigan Secretary of State website and there is also a special website section that will allow you to see if you are currently registered to vote.

It is wonderful to hear that you want to vote in this November's election and I strongly suggest that you and everyone else who has election questions visit the website and register to vote.

DRUGS CONFISCATED AT STOP

At 1:35 a.m. on Sept. 22, a Fenton police officer stopped a Chevy Cavalier on Jennings Road, near Owen Road on a registration violation. The passenger, a 22-year-old Fenton male had a warrant for his arrest from Flint. Police recovered marijuana, Xanax tablets and 2 grams of crack cocaine from the man. The man was arrested and taken to the police station. The drugs were confiscated. Lt. Jason Slater said they will be presenting the information to the county prosecutor for charges. The driver, a 22-year-old Fenton woman and another passenger, a 19-year-old from Flint were released on scene.

FLINT MAN STEALS LIQUOR

At 7:40 p.m. on Sept. 21, Fenton police were sent to a grocery store on Silver Parkway to investigate a retail fraud complaint. Store employees told police that they had surveillance video, which showed a 35-year-old Flint man concealing two bottles of liquor in his waistband and exiting the store without paying for them. The suspect is also a parole absconder. Police are seeking an arrest warrant for this latest retail fraud.

MEN GUT DEER IN SANCTUARY

At 1:12 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 23, a Fenton police officer on patrol spotted a Chevy Impala exiting the parking area of Dauner Sanctuary, near the gun store. Because of the time, the officer pulled the car over and made contact with the driver and passenger. The Fenton men said they had struck a deer with the car near Ponemah Drive around 9 p.m. They loaded the deer into their car, drove it over to the sanctuary where they proceeded to gut it. The deer was hung up and the men said they planned to retrieve it later. Police called the DNR, who later confiscated the carcass. Police will be forwarding the information over to DNR for charges.

National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day this Saturday

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) has scheduled another National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day, which will take place this Saturday. Locally, residents can stop by the Fenton Police Department in downtown Fenton from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is a great opportunity for those who missed the previous events, or who have subsequently accumulated unwanted, unused prescription drugs, to dispose of those medications safely. On April 28, citizens turned in a record-breaking 552,161 pounds (276 tons) of unwanted or expired medications for safe and proper disposal at the 5,659 take-back sites that were available in all 50 states and U.S. territories. When the results of the four Take-Back Days to date are combined, the DEA and its state, local, and tribal law-enforcement and community partners have removed more than 1.5 million pounds (774 tons) of medication from circulation. These take-back events highlight the problems related to prescription drug abuse and give citizens an opportunity to contribute to the solution. "The abuse of prescription drugs is a common gateway to heroin", said Fenton Police Chief Rick Aro. The drug take-back program is a way for members of the community to keep their prescription drugs from falling into the wrong hands and possibly contributing to another heroin addiction. "Our department encourages everyone to empty their homes of outdated, unused prescription medications by participating in this initiative."

Fenton police will not be accepting any liquids, needles or patches in this event. Packaging should also be removed from the prescriptions being discarded.

STOCK MARKET

news. Following the stock market can be dizzying and difficult to do.

Local experts agree, however, that generally people should not be too concerned about market gains and losses.

Dennis Leyder, president of wealth management at The State Bank, attributed the obsessive interest in the stock market to the constant stream of information from 24-hour cable stations and the Internet.

“People spend too much time with too much information,” Leyder said.

Leyder said investors and people have become more weary of the stock market since 2009, when the stock market began to take a dive and money from website startups began to dwindle. In Leyder’s experience, the downturn has had a negative impact on younger people, who are hesitant to invest in a 401K that is involved with the stock market.

“(Young people) are extremely reluctant. People need to get back into dividend paying, high quality global companies,” Leyder said.

University of Michigan-Flint Professor Christopher Douglas said people generally view the stock market as an overall barometer of how well the economy is doing. But when it comes to day-to-day details, Douglas doesn’t believe people should panic over points or market swings.

“The most effective way to participate is to buy and hold,” Douglas said. “It’s not a good idea to take in one piece of information by itself.” He recommends people view the stock market as a piece of the economy’s health instead of the overall picture.

Bruce Burwitz, who teaches a finance class at Fenton High School, generally sees people overreact when stocks begin to fall in price. Instead of purchasing more stock, Burwitz said people usually sell from fear of losing on their investments.

“It takes a long time to see what the market is doing,” Burwitz said. “It’s tough to make short-term money because it fluctuates so much.”

For those who are invested in the stock market and like to be up to date on their investments, Burwitz recommends they use online websites where they can view their own portfolios. Mutual funds are another option that has less stress since investment is overlooked by a professional. Mutual funds invest in low risk companies that traditionally turn a profit.

All three financial experts agree there is no individual industry or stock in the market that directly affects people.

Success in the market takes decades.

to be a sign of social communication. Someone who blushes indicates they are receiving unwanted social attention. Psychologist Bruce Poulsen believes that blushing could serve an evolutionary purpose in our past to reduce interpersonal conflicts and maintain appeasement.

Tickling

Everyone has been tickled at some point in their life. Some may like it, while others may hate it. Surveys have been conducted to show that men tend to enjoy it more than women.

Strangely though, we are unable to tickle ourselves, and the precise reason for this is not fully understood. One theory is that our brain anticipates our movement if we try to tickle ourselves, and prepares itself for it. We do know our body already behaves like this with other parts of our body. We do not feel the movement of our vocal cords when we speak, for example.

According to the Discovery channel's website (www.discovery.com), to fend off a tickle attacker, all you need to do is to simply place your hands on your assailant's hands. This will trick your mind into thinking that you are the one doing the touching, and leave you tickle free.

Goosebumps and chills

You may be listening to a new album or watching a dramatic television show when it hits you — a chilling sensation down your spine and goose bumps.

According to a research paper published in Nature Neuroscience, listening to a great piece of music that provokes an emotional response can cause the release of the chemical dopamine, which results in the sensations of the 'chills.'

Goosebumps can also be brought about by a situation of great anxiety that provokes a fight or flight response. They cause your hair to stand on end. This served as an evolutionary purpose of making animals look bigger, and therefore more intimidating when dealing with predators.

Summary

► Many natural human responses, such as blushing or yawning, are not fully understood and are big focuses of study.

Yawning

We yawn due to a combination of several factors. One bit of often circulated folk lore is that yawning increases your oxygen supply, which is actually incorrect. Other things associated with yawning, such as boredom and tiredness, are also believed play a part in making us yawn.

Another factor could possibly be a warm brain. A recent study by Andrew Gallup of Princeton University and Gary Hack of the University of Maryland claim that yawning may help to regulate your brain's temperature.

Of course, one undeniable cause of yawning is other people, and there is little that can be done to prevent it. "Yawning is contagious. Seeing, hearing, thinking or reading about yawning can trigger yawns, and attempts to shield a yawn do not stop its contagion," Gallup wrote.

and a half dollars doesn't really go very far."

The construction was originally scheduled to end in August, but was delayed by a water main breaking and days receiving heavy rains.

Councilman Les Bland said that he had heard a lot of complaints about the construction. "The project did not go on for much more than four months. For the amount of work that was done out there, that was not a lot of time. People were just not understanding what had to be done," Bland said. "I think overall that this went excellent, and I hope the project goes as well next year."

City Manager Lynn Markland said Czarnecki deserved a lot of credit for all of his work on the construction project.

Councilwoman Pat Lockwood hopes that communication between businesses and the city can continue to improve on future construction projects. "I think we may have underestimated how much some of the businesses really suffered during the construction."

Construction season is expected to begin anew next year with an even larger project, this time on South LeRoy Street with the city's upcoming streetscape project.

"I THINK OVERALL THAT THIS WENT EXCELLENT, AND I HOPE THE PROJECT GOES AS WELL NEXT YEAR."

Pvt. Anthony S. Klenk, an Army National Guard member and Linden native, was one of five soldiers to receive a "Challenge Coin" from Third Army Commanding General Lt. Gen. Vincent Brooks, following his visit to the Bagram Airfield Retrosort Yard in Afghanistan on Sept. 16.

This coin is handed out to enlisted personnel by high-ranking officials for a job well done to indicate excellence.

The goal of these yards is to reduce the amount of excess material in Afghanistan and to re-distribute high demand items like office supplies, computer cables, etc., back to units at no charge. In August, Bagram Airfield Retrosort Yard produced more than 400 20-foot shipping container equivalent units, far exceeding all historical productions.

Klenk is the son of Todd and Roxanne Klenk of Linden. This is his second year of deployment in Afghanistan, which will end this November.

Is it fall allergies, sinuses or a cold?

► How to tell the difference

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Although flowers are no longer blooming and the air has turned crisp and cool, many people with allergies find that the “triggers” are still there in the crisp, cool months of fall.

What causes autumn allergies?

Male plants release pollen into the air in order to reproduce. When these pollen or other allergy triggers get into the noses of certain people, their immune system mistakenly sees them as “foreign invaders” and releases antibodies to go after bacteria, viruses, and other illness-causing organisms.

These antibodies attack the allergens, which then leads to the release of chemicals called “histamines” into the blood. In turn, these histamines cause the runny nose, itchy eyes, and other symptoms of allergies.

Ragweed is the biggest allergy trigger during the fall months. About 75 percent of people who are allergic to spring pollen-producing plants are also allergic to ragweed, according to medical experts. Ragweed pollen travels for hundreds of miles in the wind, so it can still make allergy sufferers miserable.

Mold is another allergy trigger, with spores that can easily get airborne. Mold thrives in damp areas, both indoors and outdoors. Autumn’s piles of damp leaves are breeding grounds for mold, as are damp basements and bathrooms in a person’s home.

Another common allergen is dust mites — microscopic, spider-like insects that can get stirred into the air when homeowners turn their furnace on for the first time in the fall. From the air, dust mites can make their way into an allergy sufferer’s nose, triggering sneezes, wheezes, and runny noses.

Sometimes it can be difficult to determine which of these medical conditions are causing these symptoms, because allergies can be very similar to sinusitis and a good old-fashioned cold.

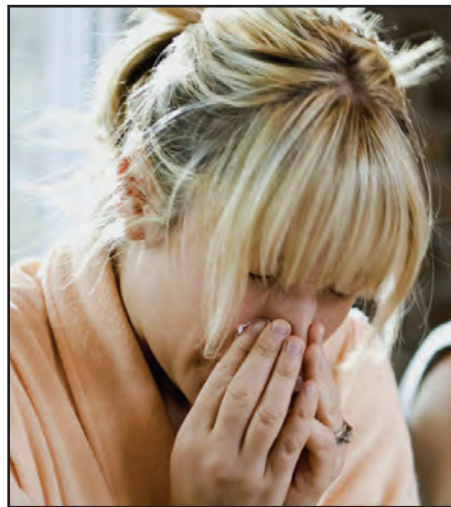

Dr. Steve Houser, an ear-nose-throat physician in Cleveland, Ohio, says that more than half of his patients with sinus issues also have an underlying condition of allergies.

Nasal congestion, itchy eyes/nose and watery eyes are frequent complaints for all three conditions. In sinusitis — a swelling of the inner lining of the sinuses — the swelling blocks the openings in the sinuses through which mucus drains into the nose. It feels much like a head cold, with a stuffy or runny nose and a headache.

What sets a sinus issue apart from the others is a nasal discharge turning to yellow, green or brown, as well as the worsening of the symptoms. Usually, symptoms of sinusitis are temporary, but may become chronic if symptoms last more than four weeks. If sinusitis is the result of a bacterial infection, antibiotics may treat it, but if it’s a viral infection, the use of steam to open up the mucus membranes is an option.

People who have perennial allergies seem predisposed to chronic sinus disease because of the constant swelling and inflammation that occurs in their nose/sinus outflow tracts, said Houser. Dust, mold and seasonal allergies can be the forerunner of a sinus condition, with medical attention focused on the infection by using an antibiotic, which may also successfully treat the underlying allergy.

Damp leaves and mold can cause allergic reactions during the fall months.

How to tell the difference between a cold and an allergy

COLDS

- Symptoms usually appear one at a time, first sneezing, then a runny nose, then congestion.
- Symptoms last from seven to 10 days.
- Mucus is often a yellowish nasal discharge, due to an infection.
- Sneezing is less common than with allergies.
- Colds are more common in the winter and may be accompanied by a fever.

ALLERGIES

- Symptoms occur all at once and continue as long as a person is exposed to the allergy-causing agent.
- Mucus is generally a clear, thin, watery discharge.
- Sneezing is more common than with colds, often occurring two or three times in a row.
- Allergies are more common in spring through fall, when plants are pollinating.
- Allergies are not usually associated with a fever.

study and closing fees could cost more than $15,000. Originally, the council set aside about $12,000 for due diligence and closing cost fees.

In August, city attorney Chuck McKone told the council that he did not expect due diligence fees to cost more than $7,000. All together, purchasing the Union Block property will cost the city $245,000.

In order to complete a secondary study, the city will seek financial assistance from the Marlene Allen of Wilcox Engineering said cracking was a common problem. She proposed using well screens to filter the sediments.

The well was built in 2004 and cost the city $74,000. Allen said the repairs could cost up to $50,000.

“It’s almost as expensive as digging the well,” said Councilor Ray Culbert. “I’m confused as to how we can have someone drill a well, not use it for four years and not have any liability.”

“I’m confused as to how we can have someone drill a well, not use it for four years and not have any liability.”

City Attorney Charles McKone said there was not a warranty on the well when it was installed. Allen added that warranties are generally not included with wells. Councilors were baffled and did not want to proceed with repairs without a guarantee that the well would not malfunction for a set amount of years.

Well No. 5 pumps out 750,000 gallons a minute, what Mayor David Lossing called “a significant amount of money.”

“This is about well-being because it’s drinking water,” Lossing said to Allen, advocating for quality assurance after the repairs.

The well is nearly 900-feet deep, with the fracture at around 250-feet deep. Allen does not expect the fracture to increase in size and she said the screens should fix the sediment issues.

The city’s four other wells pump an average of 450 gallons per minute said Scott Fairbanks, the city’s director of public works. In order to work on Well No. 5, other wells will have to be shut down, thus decreasing the overall amount of gallons of water the city can produce. The well’s operation is essential to the city, as the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) requires municipalities to have at least two different operating water sources. Currently, four operating wells act as Linden’s water source.

“We need to address this right now. We don’t want to lose another well and not have water for the city,” Culbert said.

Council agreed to include quality assurance in the next bid process.

the two males in a vehicle. The suspects were in possession of stolen property, which included GPS units, iPods and other electronic devices.

While the suspects were being questioned, they admitted to entering unlocked vehicles in the Holly, Fenton and Linden areas to steal electronics and money. Holly police believe that Hamilton and his accomplice entered as many as seven to 10 vehicles. It is unknown at this time as to how many vehicles were hit in Fenton and Linden.

Det. Julie Bemus said the Holly Police Department believes that the stolen property that her department recovered was taken by the suspects during the last week. Many of the items have not yet been claimed and police are attempting to identify owners.

Summary

If electronic devices have been stolen within the past week and you live in the Linden, Fenton and Holly area, call Holly police at (248) 634-8221 to see if they have your items. Police arrested two male suspects Saturday night and recovered numerous items.

Residents missing such items from vehicles in the last week should contact Bemus at (248) 634-8221 to identify their belongings.

The suspects have been charged with larceny and marijuana possession in Oakland County.

Charges in Genesee County have not yet been filed.

LaFontaines, as well as more time to make a final decision on the purchase.

“I think we should stop running so fast,” said McKone. He recommended the city seek at least a 90-day deadline extension for the purchase. “I will not recommend this council move forward without phase two. If we don’t get the extension, we won’t have the knowledge.”

Hess said it is the responsibility of the property owner to address contamination issues. The council voted to have City Manager Mark Tallman and McKone renegotiate with the LaFontaine family on how to proceed with phase two of the study.

“We expect 100-percent participation costs (from the LaFontaines),” said Councilor Ray Culbert.

Live 'Dragon' taping draws 600

►Anti-drug program to be made into DVD to spread message

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Fenton — The camera crew set up their equipment, blue and white stage lights were cutting through a wall of fog, the Black Keys blasted from the stage sound system and the audience started to filter in as the live Christian band got ready to play. This wasn't the Pontiac Silverdome, DTE or the Palace of Auburn Hills, it was the Fenton Freedom Center, almost ready to kick off the biggest "Chasing the Dragon" event yet, organized by Community Parent, Inc. (CPI).

The free event on Saturday featured four live musical acts with rapper Json, David Michael, Michael Maher Band, Oaker Parker and Chelsea Hudson. The event was a live taping for a professional DVD. Like most of the CPI activities, this was largely funded by a Genesee County Sheriff's Department grant and funds from local businesses and organizations.

The anti-drug presentation has been done at several area schools, but has not featured so many speakers, or any musical acts, let alone a fog machine, lights and free pizza. CPI co-founder Bob Krug said producing the DVD was necessary because the organization simply cannot go everywhere that they are requested.

School districts in the Midwest and as far away as Alaska have requested a presentation. "It has snowballed into this," he said, adding that they have surpassed the 20,000 mark in reaching kids with their presentation.

Nine speakers presented at the taping. Krug said the speakers were important to the presentation because they put a face to the name and to the stories of tragedy. The audience saw Sam Jawhari talk about the loss of his daughter and Lake Fenton High School student Briona to heroin in February of 2010, just after the jarring 911 call was played.

"It's always about educating people in the audience," said State Rep. Joseph Graves (R-Argentine Township). Speakers were interviewed on camera, with no script, and the raw footage will be turned into a DVD that they are able to share with school districts.

Sam Jawhari said the cameras and the professional treatment don't change the delivery of his message. "(The speeches are) very emotional for me," he said. "It's like reliving her death, going to bury her. The message has to go nationwide. This is the only way to do it." Heroin and drug abuse is an epidemic all over and this presentation is the way to move it forward, he said.

As usual, his fiery emotional speech was without notes. He said he feels Briona's presence when he speaks. "She kinda helps me take over," he said.

Rapper Json Watson headlined the event and as the Michael Maher Band played, he relaxed in the dressing room, surrounded by other musicians and speakers. "I come from a background of doing drugs and things like that." He said by God's grace, he's saved, and drug free.

"I'd just love my music to spread a positive message," he said. Json's earlier influences are Tupac Shakur and Biggie Smalls, but with a broadened scope.

Jim Wiegand, pastor of the Fenton Freedom Center was just happy to be able to offer the organization a venue. "We're with them 100 percent," he said.

Krug said around 600 attended. "The Fenton's Samantha Moss shot an 85, leading the Tigers to the Davison Invitational title on Monday.

Fourth-ranked Fenton golfers win Davison invite

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Fenton varsity girls golf team keeps providing evidence why the squad is one of the best D2 teams in the state of Michigan.

The team added more evidence on Monday, capturing the Davison Invitational at Davison Country Club.

The Tigers' Samantha Moss and Meghan Berry each led the team with 18-hole scores of 85, sparking the team to a score of 346, 10 strokes better than second-place East Lansing. East Lansing is the sixth ranked team in Division 2. Davison was third (361), while Rochester was fourth (363). The seventh-ranked team in D3, Linden, placed fifth with a 369, while Holly was 12th (416). Fenton had a 'B' team as well, earning 18th (436).

Olivia Fabatz followed Fenton's top two with an 87. Tailer Przybylowicz carded an 89. Sara Cummings also earned the honor of lowest scoring freshman with a 95.

"We haven't been playing that great in the nine-hole matches, so I was a little concerned," Fenton coach Kurt Herbstreit said. "Meghan and Olivia had their best scores by two strokes.

"When you have good competition and you've never won there before, that's kind of neat too. It's the first time we've put the Fenton name on the list (of winners), so that's definitely big."

Linden's Julie Guckian came within two shots of earning medalist honors, carding a 77. Majja Satkowiak scored an 89, while McKailey Mitchell had a 98. Sierra Juhl had a 105.

"This is one of the best finishes, if not the best finish, a Linden team has had at this tournament," Linden coach Todd Skinner said.

Holly's Paige Johnson led the Bronchos with a 97. Alex Johnson carded a 102, while Landy Hill netted a 107. Taylor Turner had a 110.

Fenton's 'B' team was paced by Andrea Buterakos' 99.

Linden boys CC beats field at own invitational

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Linden — As successful as the Linden varsity boys cross country team has been over the last 10 years, winning its own invitational hasn't always come easy.

In fact, entering Saturday's Linden Invitational, the Eagles had never won the meet since moving to their new course and hadn't won since 2008.

That skid came to an end on Saturday.

Linden placed all five of its scoring runners within the top 23, earning the Eagles the victory in the big school division of the Linden Invitational. Linden recorded 67 team points, 11 better than Brother Rice. Holly placed fourth (148), while Fenton placed 13th (293). Linden's 'B' team placed ninth with 234 points.

Lake Fenton competed in the small school division, taking seventh with 178 points.

"This is the first time we've won the meet since 2008. ... I thought the team performed very well," Linden coach Clint Lawhorne said. "Many kids on the team were 30 seconds to a minute faster on the course this year than they were last year at the Linden Classic."

Roger Phillips edged out Brother Rice's John Penington for first place. Phillips finished in 16:13.56, while Penington finished in 16:15.4. Fenton's Max Kryza placed fourth (16:40.03), while Linden's Graham Elliott was fifth (16:44.68).

The rest of Linden's scorers were Dave Doyle in 16th (17:14.40), Ryan Torok in 22nd (17:23.82) and Kyle Susalla in 23rd (17:24.12).

Eagles place fifth at own meet; Holly earns third at Jackson

Linden — The Linden varsity girls cross country team came home with the best showing of the female squads in the tri-county area at the Linden Invitational.

The Eagles placed fifth in the big school division, while the Fenton Tigers were 11th in the same class. Lake Fenton's girls competed in the small girls division and took ninth.

The Eagles were paced by Sydney Elmer, who posted a time of 19:54.22, placing sixth. Salem's Kayla Kavulich won the race in 18:54.37, the only large school participant to finish below 19 minutes. Stockwell Academy's Lauren Benstead finished the small girl race in 18:05.41. She was the only runner to finish below 20 minutes in that event.

Elmer had two other teammates finish in the top 50 of the big school race. They were McKayla Guy in eighth (20:12.33) and Courtney Davis in 27th (21:22.45).

"I was happy with the results," Linden coach Teresa Wright said. "Considering we ran in the large school division with D1 Salem taking first and third, I thought the girls did very well placing fifth. ... Our team continues to improve and we are looking forward to the (Metro League) jamboree on Wednesday."

Fenton had two runners in the top 50. They were Emily Kinser in 29th (21:27.52) and Emily Bemis in 43rd (21:55.52).

"Emily Kinser finally hit the 21s with a time of 21:27," Fenton coach Todd Mills said. "The girls are getting stronger. We just need to step it up a little. Many of the members of the team ran their best times on Saturday."

Lake Fenton's girls had two participants in the top 50 of its race, and both happened to finish in the sweet 16. Laura Carlson placed 12th (22:09.41), while Becky Fernelius placed 16th (22:31.87).

HOLLY GIRLS PLACE THIRD AT JACKSON INVITATIONAL

The Holly girls placed third overall in D2 action, at Ella Sharp Park. The top-ranked team in D2 won the event. East Grand Rapids had 45 points, while Jackson Lumen Christi took second (103). Holly had 124 points, placing its top five scorers all within the top 32 places.

Charlotte Ruffini placed 19th (20:19.2) and following her was the Bronchos' pack. Each of the next five runners finished within 33 seconds of each other. Maggie Schneider placed 22nd (20:27.9), Shannon Westfall took 25th (20:36.0) and Abby Brown placed 31st (20:50.8). Courtney Kettle was 32nd (20:52.5), while Alex Matvchuk placed 43rd (21:00.6).

"We placed runners in the top 35 finishers of a field of around 160 runners," Holly coach Matt Weisdorfer said. "All 15 team members either had a season-best or a career-best time. In addition, looking at last year's regional results, we have a team that is about where we were last year at the regional with six meets to go in the season this year. We had a 30-second gap from runners first to fifth and a 40-second gap from runner one through six. This is something we have been working on for the first third of the season. And our team has finally clicked. They are ready to really show our brand of running, which, of course, is pack-style running."

Area firefighters and EMS workers compete during Hero Bowl III at Fenton High School two years ago. Hero Bowl V, whose proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society, will be Saturday at Lake Fenton High School at 7 p.m.

Hero Bowl competitive flavor, charitable efforts continues to grow

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

When Hero Bowl coordinator Joshua Lawrence set up the first football game between firefighters and EMS workers, it was a backyard affair.

"It was just an excuse to come out and play football," Lawrence said. "It was a backyard game in T-shirts."

Five years later, it's much bigger than that. Hero Bowl V is scheduled for Saturday at 7 p.m. at Lake Fenton's football field. The game already has 600 presold $5 tickets, with its proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

"We are hoping for it to be the biggest year so far," Lawrence said. "We've partnered with the American Cancer Society and we've definitely made it bigger than what we have done in the past."

Many sponsors are helping with the game. There will be vendors, including a hair salon who will be providing haircuts. There will be therapy dogs and bounce houses at the end of either end zone as well.

The football game follows traditional prep football rules with 12-minute quarters. The players wear jerseys and padded pants.

After the game, the participants and the fans will head to Legends Sports Bar and Grill, the home of the after-game party.

"No, I never thought back in the day it would get this big," Lawrence said. "It's certainly grown in magnitude of what it was before."

Tickets can be purchased at the game for $5 each.

Weinberg's goal sparks Tigers to 2-0 win vs. Clio

By David Troppens
dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Clio — With Fenton looking for a goal to ice its boys varsity soccer contest against Clio on Monday, Julian Weinberg may have came up with one of the best goals of the season.

With 6:37 left, the Tigers had a throw-in from Jacob Davis to Weinberg, who was just inside the 18-yard box. Immediately, he took a quick shot that hit the upper corner of the goal off a severe angle.

The goal gave the Tigers a 2-0 road victory against the Mustangs, keeping Fenton in control of its own Metro League championship hopes.

"Usually I would've passed that, but I saw an opportunity, so I took a shot and got the finish," Weinberg said. "I saw the net wasn't that far away, so I thought I'll shoot it. It was the best goal I've ever had."

The win puts Fenton at 3-0-1 in the Flint Metro League, one point ahead of Lapeer West in the standings. However, West has a game in hand.

"We snuck by them," Fenton coach Matt Sullivan said. "I'm glad we found a way to win, which is good. Our defense saved us again. That was a clutch goal by Julian at the end."

"It was a great goal, a great shot. Upper 90 from that far out — that's an impressive shot."

The wind played havoc with the game. In the first half, Fenton was against it, but it didn't keep the Tigers from scoring. Davis took a free kick, just inside the traditional corner kick spot. He sent it to the farside post to Jacob Kinsman who scored the ball within five yards of the goal. Fenton led with 8:34 left in the half.

The contest remained 1-0 until the final goal with 6:37 left. In between, Clio didn't get off too many outstanding chances, but did have a couple. However, each time Clio did get the shot within the pipes, Fenton keeper Carl Berkey proved strong, making four saves. The Tigers only had 18 shots themselves, with seven being on net.

"Honestly, we didn't play well but we found a way to win, and that was the main thing," Weinberg said.

"It was a good lesson for us," Sullivan said. "We learned to come out hard every game."

Weinberg likes the team.

"In all my four years this is the best team I've played with," Weinberg said. "We are the most bonded. We have the most potential. It is just a fantastic group of boys. It doesn't get any better than this."

INVITATIONAL

"It is exciting to think that Graham and Roger were as fast on Saturday as they were at the state finals last year," Lawhorne said. "It gives you some idea of how fast our team can be by the end of the season if we keep working hard and running aggressive, intelligent races."

Holly had all five of its scoring runners finish in the top 50. The race had 137 runners complete the course.

Dilon Lemond led the squad in 12th (17:06.87). Not far behind was Nate Frasier in 13th (17:08.19). The rest of the scoring five were: Vincent Cantu in 34th (17:47.14), Nick Myers in 42nd (18:05.85) and Keenan Steele in 47th (18:24.43).

"My guys did well," Holly coach Richie Brinker said. "We had a goal of closing the gap between us, Clio and Linden. I was really excited when the results were posted that we finished fourth overall and ahead of Clio. (Later) I noticed Clio ran without their three-man, but I'm still happy that eight out of 15 guys had lifetime bests for the 5K."

"Dilon and Nate led the way for us and were able to get closer to breaking the 17-minute barrier. ... The ship is headed in the right direction, and the guys have been working hard. I remind them daily that hard work pays off."

Fenton's next runner to finish after Kryza was Jacob Lee in 44th (18:09.48). No other Tigers finished in the top 50.

"The race didn't go exactly as we planned," Fenton coach Todd Mills said. "Max was leading at the two-mile mark, but finished the race in fourth. Max was upset at himself for not running a faster two-mile split and let it affect him, which led to him dropping back in the race."

"Jacob Lee is steadily improving and should be much stronger come league time."

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | MARK BOLEN

Holly's Dilon Lemond (front) and Nate Frasier finished in 12th and 13th places, respectively, for the Bronchos at the Linden Invitational.

The Blue Devils had three runners finish in the top 50 of the small school race. Caleb Fletcher placed 19th in 18:51.21. Meanwhile, Winston Ray placed 33rd (19:28.60), while Jake Fletcher was 43rd (20:20.37).

"As a whole, my runners ran strong and showed grit," Lake Fenton coach Chris Sobczyk said.

"When looking at the times of my runners compared to what they can do, and also runners from teams in our conference, it appeared that most runners were slower than their season bests."

The Metro League teams compete in the second Metro jamboree at Torzewski County Park on Wednesday. Lake Fenton hosted three other GAC teams in a meet at Lake Fenton on Tuesday.
