By Sharon Stone

Ronald Smith, 43, of Highland, formerly of Holly, is dead and Holly police have arrested a 37-year-old Fenton man following an incident outside a Holly bar.

Det. Julie Bemus of the Holly Police Department said Holly police responded to Martini’s Bar & Grill on Apollo Drive in Holly at 10:20 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 12 after receiving a report that an assault had just occurred.

Responding officers found the victim, later identified as Smith, lying unconscious.

Assisted living facility coming to Fenton Township

Vicinia Gardens’ first 12,000-square-foot building will be completed by spring 2013.

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@ctimes.com; 810-433-6795

The local developer of a new assisted living facility in Fenton Township has begun working to clear the land in preparation for construction.

The planned unit development (PUD) is being developed by Linden resident and developer Steve Steffey combines an assisted living facility, memory care facility, independent living senior apartments and detached garden homes.

The first phase, which has just begun, includes the assisted living and later, memory care facilities.

The development is called Vicinia Gardens and will feature a craftsman or cottage-style fascia. “It’s because of the generation we’re trying to appeal to,” said Steffey. His company, Assisi Care, has facilities in Burton and Clio.

Steffey said the groundwork with water, sewer and electrical systems is currently underway. The first 12,000-square-foot assisted living building will be completed by spring of 2013 and the memory care building of similar size will be underway within a year of the assisted living building’s construction. Steffey will manage the facility once it is built.

The assisted living building will house 20 residents and cost $3,395 to $3,500 per month depending on the patient’s needs.

The rest of the development that extends southward into the property will be undertaken as the market allows and demands, said Steffey.

During public hearings on the project last December, Steffey told Fenton Township officials that each facility in the first phase would create 20 or more jobs.

Total density for the development is 161 units, 23 fewer than the 184 units previously approved for this property. The project includes a Type 1 community well system that will provide arsenic-free water to the entire complex.

The development sits west of Jennings Road, south of Owen Road, in Fenton Township, just west of the Fenton City border. It is bordered by Autumn Wood Drive and Silver Chase Boulevard and the shopping center that includes Mancino’s and Kathy’s Patisserie Cakes & Bakes.

Opinions about this year’s team, along with information about the past

It seems wherever you go in Michigan these days, there’s one question that comes up immediately — “How about them Tigers?”

And why not? At press time, the Tigers led the American League Championship series two games to none against the New York Yankees, assured of at least a 2-1 lead when this publication was printed. Everyone has Tiger fever. While they do, we thought this might be a good time to answer some questions.

Miguel Cabrera won the Triple Crown. What is the Triple Crown anyway?

For those afraid to ask because they thought the Triple Crown involved horsescracing, here’s your answer. Traditionally, the three statistics that are always presented in baseball history are batting average, home runs and runs batted in (RBIs). If a player leads the league in all three categories, it is considered winning the Triple Crown. Since post World War II, only five players have won it. The only other Detroit Tiger to win it was Ty Cobb (1909).

Should Cabrera be the American League’s MVP or should Justin Verlander win the Cy Young Award for a second year?

Because he won the Triple Crown, it’s going to be hard to deny Cabrera. However, it might be Anaheim Angels’ Mike Trout. He had an outstanding offensive season. He also brings more dimensions to the game than Cabrera. I’d vote Trout, but Cabrera will probably win it. Somehow, it seems Verlander is being ignored in Cy Young Award talk and yet he almost had the same season last year when he won the Cy Young and the MVP.

For five years of his life, David Shotwell chased the dream of every poker player. As a professional Texas Hold ‘Em Poker player, Shotwell made it to the Holy Grail of poker games, competing in the Main Event of the World Series of Poker in Las Vegas. And although he didn’t win, the experience has given Shotwell skills that he will use for the rest of his life.

“It’s very difficult to be good at the game, sustain it and balance it with a personal life,” Shotwell said on playing poker professionally. “It’s so different from any other job. Your hobby becomes your life.”

Shotwell decided to pursue poker as a career after watching Rounders, a movie about high stakes poker. He developed his skills by reading and playing as much online poker as possible, winning as much as $8,000 in a weekend from online tournaments. Shotwell grew confident enough to bet it all and try his luck in Las Vegas.

Shotwell played dozens of tournaments and competed in the Main Event once. After six hours of playing and going up against hundreds of players, Shotwell was eventually beaten by a Four-of-a-Kind hand, despite having a Full House. Still, he...

ROMNEY, OBAMA AND Biden: The Good, The Bad and The Ugly. The VP debate Thursday night showed the true and real Biden. An angry old white man that needs some more fiber, or should it be mineral oil? Ryan showed some real class and will make a great VP.

THE MOMENTUM is shifting again after Joe Biden tore Paul Ryan a new one. That was fun to watch.

I VOTED FOR President Obama. I am sorry to say. Our president basically ignored the pleas of the staff in Benghazi resulting in their murder because he was too busy campaigning. Disgraceful. He should be held accountable.

REGARDING TRICK-OR-treating person in Linden who was disappointed. How old is your son? I took my 15-month-old son and he had an awesome time. You also didn’t have to pay $5 you had paid ahead of time, and it definitely paid for the candy. He got tons! Fun event!

THE PRESIDENT is not a magician who can wave a wand and instantly cure a recession — Gerald Ford. Mitt Romney and his Republicans are challenging Rep. Paul Ryan, the real winner was off stage: President Barack Obama.

That’s no swipe at Ryan. Former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney’s running mate narrowly accomplished what normally is expected of aspiring vice presidents: He held his own, avoided tripping over the furniture and caused no apparent damage to the guy at the top of the ticket. That was Biden’s task four years ago. Still a senator from Delaware, he only had to appear statesmanlike and avoid any hint of condescension toward then-Gov. Sarah Palin.

This time, after Obama’s lackluster debate performance a week earlier and a big surge in national polls for Romney, Vice President Biden’s mission was elevated from Do-no-harm to Stop-the-bleeding. Biden soon appeared to be accomplishing both missions. Partisan tweets across the Twitter-verse during the debate indicated a clear trend: Obama supporters were delighted with Biden and his Republican challenger.

Biden did what debaters are supposed to do and that Obama had failed to do: Take the fight to their opponents with a passion, even when the passion tests the boundaries of propriety.

On issues that varied widely from Libya, Iran and Afghanistan to taxes, debt, Medicare and Social Security, Biden blunted the Romney-Ryan assault on the Obama administration’s record, pointed out spin, for spin, and threw in some counter-punches of his own.

Among the highlights: Biden was at his most assertive in defending Social Security and Medicare, partly to clean up some damage Obama did by sounding too conciliatory the previous week.

Obama, speaking of himself and Romney, said, ‘I suspect that on Social Security, we’ve got a somewhat similar position.’ Biden, responding to a question from moderator Martha Raddatz of ABC News, highlighted the differences between the two campaigns on what may be the government’s most popular program.

Halfway through the debate, at least one liberal Twitter tweeter nominated Joe Biden to substitute for Obama in all future debates. That’s not going to happen. But Obama could use a confidant of Joe in his own performance.

Looking back at the great debates

Presidential debates typically make for memorable moments

By Ryan Tackabury
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Presidential debates have become an American tradition. Over the years the debates have had varying degrees of influence over the elections and some have clearly been more memorable than others.

As everyone is pondering and scrutinizing what happened during Tuesday evening’s debate between President Barack Obama and Mitt Romney, here’s a summary of a few past debates that have gone down in American history.

Lloyd Bentsen’s famous put down

In 1988, vice presidential nominee Dan Quayle came under fire for his lack of experience. When this topic was mentioned in the vice presidential debate, Quayle compared his experience to that of John F. Kennedy’s experience before he had taken office. This was a comparison that Quayle’s opponent, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, did not take to.

“I served with Jack Kennedy. I knew Jack Kennedy. Jack Kennedy was a friend of mine. Senator, you are no Jack Kennedy,” Bentsen said to applause. Bentsen may not have won the vice-presidency, though he has gone down in history as having one of the most memorable debate moments of all time.

Reagan pokes fun at his age

In 1984, Ronald Reagan ran for re-election against challenger Walter Mondale. Reagan was 73 years old at the time, and already held the record for being the oldest person to be inaugurated as the President from his previous term, a record that he still holds to this day.

When asked during a debate if his age would affect his ability to lead the country, Reagan said it would not, then replied with a humorous quip.

“...I will not make age an issue of this campaign. I am not going to exploit for political purposes my opponent’s youth and inexperience,” he said.

Reagan takes on Carter

Reagan’s showing in 1980 may not be as memorable as his quick witted comeback he would make four years later, perhaps because his remarks in the debate that won him his first term were more tactical than they were funny.

After President Jimmy Carter went on the offense, Reagan was able to side step the accusations and attack aimed at him with four simple words — “There you go again.”

Admiral James Stockdale’s poor showing

Not all debates are memorable for how quick-witted the candidates are — sometimes they just come off as confused and meandering.

In 1992, Adm. James Stockdale was Ross Perot’s vice presidential nominee, and could have performed better in the vice presidential debate. His opening line, “Who am I? Why am I here?” found itself parodied endlessly. His showing in the debate was considered a disaster, at many times bordering on the completely incoherent.

The first televised debate

The first debate in 1960 between Sen. John Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon was the first debate to be televised. Those who listened to the debate on the radio agreed hands down that Nixon had won the debate. Those who watched the televised broadcast and saw a sweating Nixon, however, had a different opinion.

The debate gave Kennedy a boost in the election, and would forever change how candidates would prepare themselves for debates.

outside of the bar. Holly Fire Department and Groveland EMS responded to the scene. Smith was transported to a nearby hospital in critical condition.

Based on their investigation, police said Smith had been punched in the face by another man, who had since left the bar. When Smith was punched, he fell backward and struck his head on the concrete. As a result, he sustained a severe injury to his brain.

Summary

Holly police arrested a 37-year-old Fenton resident Friday night for aggravated assault against a 43-year-old Highland man, who has since died from his injuries. The victim, who struck his head on concrete after he fell backward outside a bar never regained consciousness.

The 37-year-old Fenton man was subsequently arrested near the scene for aggravating assault and parole violations. Interim Police Chief Michael Story said the suspect is being held on an unrelated charge. Smith never regained consciousness and was pronounced dead on Monday, Oct. 15 at Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township. Charges against the suspect are pending and further information about him will be released after he is arraigned in Oakland County district court.

Story said the police department has more interviews to conduct and they are awaiting the results of the autopsy. Once their report is complete, they will present their findings to the county prosecutor, who in turn will issue charges.

Mike Burns, assistant city manager and DDA director said that plans are moving along quite well, with the city having received the Clarkston Union’s site plan earlier this month.

“They are currently going through the review process, and should be finalized in the next couple of weeks,” Burns said. “They want to begin construction as soon as possible.”

Construction on the fire hall will begin sometime this winter, and could possibly be as early as this November.

When finished, the Fenton Fire Hall is expected to have an open fire pit kitchen, a 60-tap beer garden, rooftop and outdoor patio dining, and a lounge area in the building’s bottom floor. Planned to accompany all of this is also the serving of a Fenton Fire Hall ale.

What many may anticipate the most however, could be the renowned macaroni and cheese the Clarkston Union serves that will soon be making its way to Fenton.

Board debates use of CDBG funding

Low to moderate income neighborhood required, hard to find in township

By William Axford
axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792
Fenton Twp. — Township officials are anticipating receiving $111,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding in 2013. Street improvements, code enforcement policies and sewer improvements are some of the activities the CDBG funds can be allocated for. But there’s a catch — the funds have to be used to benefit lower to moderate-income families in Fenton Township.

That’s a problem township officials are encountering when it comes to deciding where to apply the funds.

“According to the last census, we really don’t have low to moderate income neighborhoods,” said Operations Manager Thomas Broecker. Trustees discussed various projects that needed improvement within the township at Monday’s meeting, including upgrading fire department equipment, improving the sewer system and removing blight on township property.

Broecker said that each project may be covered by CDBG monies but the township may have a hard time getting the projects approved under the guidelines, given that lower income families are spread out throughout the township and are not concentrated in one area.

Citizens who spoke during public comment urged trustees to use the funding for bicycle and walking paths.

“People would slow down. It’d help our businesses more,” Fenton Township resident Sandy Williams said. “It would give us the opportunity to get to know each other and promote health.”

Township Treasurer John Tucker agreed more walkways would be ideal. However, the township has had difficulty in the past establishing walkways next to roads since the engineering of the road would have to be adjusted. Tucker said the Genesee County Road Commission has blocked such project proposals in the past.

Beth Redmond, of Fenton Township, suggested the CDBG funds be used for a food bank.

“We always do this at Christmas time and I always wonder what happens to these families for the rest of the year,” Redmond said.

Broecker said he would investigate the possibility of a township food bank further but said he had the feeling it might not be approved.

Township Supervisor Bonnie Mathis suggested using the funds for residents in the Lake Ponemah Mobile Home Park. Broecker said that suggestion was probably not viable, as the funds have to be used for those who own property. Residents in the mobile home park own the trailers but not the land.

“That doesn’t make sense. By the very virtue of the definition, you’re not helping people,” Tucker said, noting that most people who own land have the ability to pay for it.

Township Clerk Robert Krug suggested using some of the monies for a proposed park on Thompson and Wiggins Road.

The township has until Nov. 16 to submit a plan to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in order to receive the funding. Broecker said surveys will be mailed to households in the township to determine if and where the funding can be applied.

Mathis said, in her experience, that most families who are low to moderate income do not wish to be identified and could possibly have skewed the census.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES  TIM JAGIELO

Just for the thrill of growing

By Tim Jagielo

Holly — On Friday, Mark Clementz stood with relief, in the bed of the pick-up truck that would cart his 1,478.5-pound pumpkin to a competition in Ohio on Sunday. “Adrenaline baby!” said Clementz with a howl after it was safely loaded. “This was like Christmas for a kid.”

Moments before, as it dangled from a specially designed harness from a neighbor’s wrecker, there was a real danger it could have split, ruining months of hard work. “It’s a whole season of work right there,” said a friend who was there. Clementz said the effort was more like 20 years. “Twenty years before I got this lucky,” he said.

In preparing for the Ohio Valley Giant Pumpkin Growers competition over the weekend, he started with three plants bred to grow big, but two of them split as they grew, leaving the pale orange giant that pulped more than 60 gallons of water every day, for 97 days as his only chance. “This one kept growing and never looked back,” he said.

The pumpkin, which is a squash, gourd and pumpkin hybrid, won Clementz an eighth-place award, out of 39 who competed. He’s also number 50 out of the entire world, currently. Clementz received cash awards, and sold his pumpkin for $500. “I would do this if there was no prize money, just for the thrill of growing them,” he said.

He submitted a second-place watermelon at 221.5 pounds, and a tomato at 3.36 pounds, earning him the “Grand Exhibitor” award.

The winning pumpkin was named after his grandson, Jackson Reed, of almost the same age. Clementz was hoping to beat the state record of 1,725 pounds. His goal for next year is to focus on a heavy gourd, to tackle the world record of 2,009 pounds.

Clementz enjoys the challenge of growing, but also feels a deeper purpose to his gardening. “(God) put us here to pull weeds, man,” he said, meaning he believes gardening is an essential function of being human. “I think it’s a God-given instinct to garden.”

LUCK Continued from 3 said he met the nicest people during the event, which isn’t always the case in high stakes poker games.

“It was very fun, it’s a good group,” Shotwell said. “The tournament is like a lotto ticket. They know one of these people could become astonishingly rich.” But no matter how good you are at the game and no matter how many friendships you develop, Shotwell said the game will wear you down.

“Poker is an isolationist life — your coworkers are your competitors,” Shotwell said. “Your loss is their win. A lot of kids get jaded. I was jaded.”

Shotwell described the ‘regulars’ of the poker circuit as 55-year-old obses unmarried men. Nerds, jocks, degenerates, ex-converts and people with competitive personalities are some of the players you can be sure to come across while running the gauntlet of big league Texas Hold ’Em. Shotwell developed a lot of friends who he couldn’t stand speaking to.

“People go broke not because they’re bad at poker. They go broke because they don’t plan (their money),” Shotwell said. “Self discipline is the number one attribute in poker.”

So where does a professional poker player go after they fold their last hand? Ironically, Shotwell is now in the line of work that inspired him to play poker — the movie business. Shotwell moved to Los Angeles and currently writes movie scripts. He is in the process of submitting a movie to film festivals, including the Sundance and Toronto festivals.

The five years of playing poker has influenced Shotwell’s writing, particularly when it comes to a character’s habits or delivery of speech.

“What I’ve learned from poker is that I definitely am a people reader,” Shotwell said. “I know people’s subtext more aptly than other people do. It translates over into how I write about people.”

Would Shotwell do it all over again, knowing what he knew now?

“I would never say (anyone) shouldn’t play it for a year. It’s such a slim percentage for the long term path though.”

How to become a professional

Shotwell’s favorite quote on the game of poker is “In the time it takes to be a good poker player, you could have become a doctor.” Mastering the game of poker takes dedication and hard work. Here’s some advice from a former pro:

• Get involved in the online community. Shotwell recommends the website twoplustwo.com, where many users share strategies, former hands and other tidbits on the game.

• Play the game as much as possible. Visit the local casino or go to regular games going. The more people you play, the better you become. Be forewarned though that regulars to the games are not always experts. Pay attention to the community too.

• Read up on strategy. The more poker books you read, the more you can contribute to online communities and apply to your games.

David Shotwell said he learned how to read people from years of playing poker professionally. It now influences his movie script writing.

“It’s so different from any other job. Your hobby becomes your life.” — David Shotwell former professional poker player assistant principal of Linden High School. “They are becoming more prevalent, it seems like every student has one. Instead of fighting the inevitable, it’s become kind of the exception to the rule.”

Dreasky isn’t too far off in saying that nearly every student has a smartphone. According to assessment management firm Piper Jafray, 34 percent of high school students have an iPhone, with 40 percent of students intending to purchase an iPhone in the next six months. The survey did not include tablets, other smartphones or iPods that are capable of connecting to the Internet.

With so many students with Internet accessible devices and schools expanding their wireless capabilities, school officials are finding it’s sometimes easier to embrace technology rather than to fight it.

“We’re training teachers how to use cell phones as instructional instruments,” said Lake Fenton High School Principal Todd Reynolds. “The perception is that kids will get onto sites, check e-mail, text, etc. But the more you show kids you’re willing to trust them, the better they will trust you.”

At Linden and Holly high schools, cell phones are banned during school hours unless a teacher encourages the use of mobile devices in the classroom. Instead of visiting a computer lab, students may be able to do research right from their desk. If they have a useful app for class work, teachers may authorize students to use it.

At Fenton High School, Principal Mark Suchowski said students are not allowed to use mobile devices during school hours. Although Fenton does have wireless Internet access, students do not have authorization to use the network.

Lake Fenton High School has a more liberal policy, allowing students to use cell phones during passing time and lunch. Reynolds said educators used to have a problem with students using bathroom passes to text and check e-mail during class hours.

“Cell phones are becoming a part of life. Instead of denying it, we’re trying to teach kids appropriate times to use them and when not to use them,” Reynolds said.

Dreasky said the cell phone policy at Linden High School is reviewed, as needed, which is usually annually. Dreasky said the process of setting policy on cell phones is finding a “balance between educational purposes and disruptive personal use.”

But despite the growing acceptance of cell phones in the classroom, students still face harsh penalties if caught using mobile devices when they’re not supposed to. Cell phones can be confiscated and may be returned to the student at the end of the day. If the problem persists, parents may have to pick the cell phone up from school or the student may be suspended.

“Do we have a big problem with it? No, the kids are pretty good about not being blatant about it,” said Mark Mattingly, a counselor at Holly High School.

Some useful apps for school

Here are some apps that Mashables.com recommends for students:

Essentials by AccelaStudy. A free foreign language app that has flashcards and audio quizzes.

Graph calculator. Instead of paying $100 or more for a graphic calculator, download it for $2.99. The app does everything a graphic calculator can do and even allows students to take pictures of graph and e-mail them.

Studious. This app is a personal planner, complete with a calendar to mark due date assignments and exams.

The Chemical Touch. A fully interactive Periodic Table. Each element on the table has properties and definitions with a single tap. It’s only available for iPhone and costs $0.99.
BREAKE-INS which occurred in the early morning hours of Sunday, Oct. 7.

Police Chief Daniel Allen said at approximately 5:13 a.m. on Oct. 7, Hope Lutheran Church at 7356 Silver Lake Road, Church of the Nazarene at 16248 Seymour Road and Church on the Street at 15015 South Seymour Road had reportedly been broken into.
Entry was made into Hope Lutheran Church through a kitchen window on the southeast side of the church, through a north side window at the Church of the Nazarene and through a south side window at the Church on the Street.
The suspects stole an undisclosed amount of cash, several musical instruments and other miscellaneous items.
A gift card stolen from one of the churches on Sunday was later used by the suspect at a Walmart store in Canton. A male suspect was caught on the store’s surveillance camera after purchasing a car stereo system with the card.
The break-ins remain under investigation. If anyone has information they are to contact the Argentine Township Department at (810) 735-5317 and ask for Det. Doug Fulton or Allen.

TIGER
Tampa Bay’s David Price will probably win it, but one can easily argue Verlander over Price. Whatever happens, both had outstanding seasons.
Verlander is sizzling in the postseason
Since 2006 he’s been recognized as Detroit’s top starting pitcher, and since 2009 most have recognized him as one of the few true ace pitchers in baseball. But he has struggled in the postseason. Verlander held a 3-3 record with a lousy earned run average (ERA) of 5.57 before this year. However, this year he’s been masterful, posting a 2-0 record with a 0.56 ERA. He has allowed just one run and seven hits while striking out 22 in 16 innings of work. That label may be gone.
Other great postseasons by Tiger pitchers
One that sticks is Mickey Lolich. Lolich collected three wins in the 1968 World Series, helping lead the Tigers to the World Championship. He pitched three complete games, allowing just five runs.
Another pitcher that can challenge Lolich is Kenny Rogers in 2006. He started three postseason games, winning all three and not allowing a single earned run in 23 innings of work. He allowed just nine hits and struck out 19.
Team the Tigers have done the best against in postseason play
Until 1994, it was impossible for the Tigers to face the Yankees in the playoffs due to the previous play-off format. Since then it’s happened two other times. In 2006, the Tigers beat the Yankees three games to one (3-1) in the American League Divisional Series (ALDS). Last year, the Tigers also beat the Yankees in the ALDS, 3-2. This season, entering Tuesday night’s game the Tigers enjoyed a 2-0 lead. History is on the Tigers’ side this season. No team has ever won a series after losing the first two games at home. The first two games were at Yankee Stadium.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read your article on osteoporosis, as I have it. I was put on Actonel (risedronate) by my former doctor. My new doctor had me switch to Fosamax (alendronate) when it came out as a generic. This doctor says you must take vitamin D and calcium also. Are they necessary? — B.G.

ANSWER: They are necessary. They work hand in hand with osteoporosis medicines. Calcium is the mineral needed for strong bones. Vitamin D enhances the absorption of calcium from the digestive tract into the blood. Not having a supply of these two is like trying to build a sandcastle without sand.

Three area football teams gunning for league titles

By David Troppens
droppens@tctimes.com, 810-433-6789

Week nine of the prep football season means one thing for three tri-county teams — a chance to earn a league championship.

Lake Fenton will be seeking an outright Genesee Area Conference Red Division title, while the Fenton Tigers and Linden Eagles will be fighting to earn a share of the Flint Metro League championship.

All three also play teams that are right in the conference title fight as well.

Perhaps the Blue Devils’ matchup-up is the easier to grasp since the entire GAC Red championship will be determined at one site when Lake Fenton hosts Montrose at 7 p.m. Both teams enter with 6-0 GAC Red records and 7-1 overall, and both have been the dominant teams in the conference.

The defending GAC Red champions Montrose have been dominant against the other conference squads, outweighing them by a combined 224-61 in the six games. The Rams’ only close game among the group was a 13-12 victory against Goodrich. However, the Blue Devils have been even better than that. The Blue Devils have outscored its GAC Red foes 320-39, earning continuous clock mercy victories in all but one GAC Red game, a 34-7 victory against Goodrich.

“That was our goal all along,” said Lake Fenton coach Eric Doyle about winning a conference title. “It’s the first of a few goals for us. It’s another step and we are excited for the opportunity.”

“You don’t beat these guys by accident. You have to do the right things. They are a well coached team and we have to be ready to play and answer that emotion. If we do that, then it’s about our execution.”

The battle in the Flint Metro League involves four teams in two games, but remains pretty easy to grasp. The winner of the Lapeer West at Fenton contest will earn a share of the GAC Red title.

Website plays guessing game with state playoff picture

By David Troppens
droppens@tctimes.com

With the MHSAA prep football playoffs less than two weeks away, it’s natural for fans to wonder who their team may be playing in the playoffs for the first round.

For those who are interested, there’s a website for you.

One check on snooze2you.com and you’ll find their projections for the state playoffs entering Friday’s final week of the regular season. Actually, the site has been creating possible playoff scenarios since the third week of the regular season was completed.

According to the site, two of the three tri-county squads headed for the playoffs would likely have No. 1 seeds in their districts if the playoffs started today.

Entering the ninth week, the “mapology” projections, as the process is called on the website, have Fenton as the No. 1 seed of the Region 2, District 2 bracket in the Division 2 tournament. Fenton (7-1) would host ex-Metro League member Oxford (5-3), while Walled Lake Northern (6-2) and Walled Lake Western (6-2) would face off in the 2 vs. 3 matchup.

The No. 1 Linden Eagles (7-1) would host North Branch (5-3) in the opening round, while Lapeer West (6-2) would be the No. 2 seed hosting St. Johns (5-3) in Division 3, Region 3, District 1 action. Such a bracket could give the Eagles a chance to avenge their only loss of the regular season against Lapeer West during the second week of the playoffs.

Based on the brackets, it’s Lake Fenton who seemingly can’t get a break. Despite holding a 7-1 regular season record, the Blue Devils are projected to be a third seed in Division 5 action in the Region 4.

Fenton tennis excited about being at home for state meet

By David Troppens
droppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

When it comes to competing in a state meet, it’s always exciting.

The Holly varsity boys tennis team knows that as well as anyone. The squad has made going to the state tennis meet a part of its regular-season schedule over the years. But this season will be a little extra special because the tourney will be at Holly High School.

The D2 state tournament — hosted among Holly and Fenton high schools and Genesee — starts Friday with opening-round matches. It will conclude Saturday with the semifinals and finals. The Bronchos, who qualified for the state meet by winning a regional title at Fenton, are excited to be staying at home.

“That will be a fun time. That definitely will be,” Holly player Connor Bilkos said. “I’ll miss not going to an overnight tournament. Those are fun, but it’s nice to be at home.”

“It’s really convenient and makes it really nice for us,” Holly’s Taylor Mills said. “It’s going to be fun playing on our own courts. It may be a little advantage.”

If it is an advantage or not, no one can say for sure. However, most state tourney trips involve going to a facility where the Bronchos play just that one time during the season. However, see HOLLY on 15

Fenton soccer advances to district semifinals

Preparing for fourth contest against rival Linden this season

By David Troppens
droppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — A.J. Huntely doesn’t get many chances to score goals.

So when he gets them, he remembers those chances.

He got one on Monday during the Fenton Tigers’ 3-0 district victory against the Brandon Blackhaws.

It came in the second half, while the game was still, reasonably, in doubt. The Tigers led just 2-0 when the Tigers had a free kick near the Blackhawks’ net. The initial kick from J.D. Davis nearly went in itself. It bounced right off the crossbar and right back in front of the Brandon net. That’s when Huntely came in and pounded the ball into the net, giving the Tigers a pretty decent 3-0 lead with 23:34 remaining in the second half.

“Usually the only opportunities I get are on free kicks when I crash the net,” Huntely said. “I got one at Kearsley where I did almost the same thing. It was off the goalie, and I got the rebound.”

It was only right that a Fenton defender scored a goal. After all, for much of the season the Tigers’ defense has been close to perfect. Brandon managed just three shots on net all night long against the Tigers and keeper Carl Berkey, making it much easier for the Tigers to assure the victory. It marked the 10th shutout victory for the Tigers this season.

Actually, the defense could be attributed to all 11 players on the pitch. Fenton’s defensive third for most of the game.

“We can be a dangerous team when we are sharing the ball on offense,” Sullivan said. “It gives our defense time to sit back, and any time that a team comes out of the zone, we can jump it. We have quality forwards and midfielders kept possession of the ball so much that Brandon found penetrating the Tigers’ side of the field difficult. It wasn’t like Fenton pounded the Brandon net with shots all night long — the Tigers had just seven shots themselves — but they kept the ball away from their

Fiebertnitz clinches milestone win in Linden’s 8-1 verdict vs. Creek

By David Troppens
droppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

It was Kevin Fiebertnitz’s 300th victory as a varsity boys soccer coach.

The game also earned his Linden squad a spot in the district semifinals against the Fenton Tigers today at 7 p.m.

The Linden Eagles got goals from six different players resulting in an 8-1 district opening victory at Swartz Creek High School Monday. Linden got every player into the contest and scored four goals in each half. Kevin Wright and Michael Ziccaardi led the offense, each scoring two goals. Wright also had an assist. Meanwhile, Zach Bako had a goal and three assists.

Fiebertnitz put his 300th varsity boys soccer victory into perspective.

“It’s a sign of longevity. I guess I don’t think the kids knew anything about it. I didn’t say anything to them about it.

We’ve had some good teams at Powers Catholic, and when I took over the boys at Linden in 2003, we have done really well. It’s a credit to the kids.”

Bakos and Wright took part in three of the four Linden goals in the first half. He assisted both first-half goals by Wright, who scored unassisted for the team’s third goal. Meanwhile, Wright assisted Ziccaardi’s first-half goal, the second goal in the game.

In the second half, Kyle Frederic, Ziccaardi, Colin Rhead and Patrick Labahn each scored. Rhead and Labahn scored on penalty kicks. Cole Birchmeier also finished with an assist.

The win sets up the fourth match between Fenton and Linden this year. The teams are 1-1-1 against each other. The game is slated at Fenton High School for a 7 p.m. start.

“The beautiful thing about it is both teams know each other very well and both teams respect each other very well,” Linden coach Denny Hopkins is glad his team is in the position it’s in.

“Since what happened at Lapeer West we’ve been taking it one game at a time,” Hopkins said. “The kids know if they just worry about themselves and deal with what they control, they have a chance to share it with somebody.”
Shaw captures a first at prestigious MISCA meet

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Hailey Shaw and the Fenton varsity swim team found out what they are capable of before this season is over at the Michigan Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association Meet this weekend.

Shaw won one event and took second in another, creating evidence once again that she will be a force to be reckoned with at the Division 2 state swim meet at the end of the season.

Shaw won the 200 freestyle with a time of 2:07.58, while placing second in the 100 backstroke (57.64) in a meet that fields the toughest competition during the regular season. Her biggest competition in both events came from Groote Pointe South’s Gabrielle DeLoof. DeLoof won the 100 back-stroke (57.31), while taking second in the 200 IM (2:07.61).

“She just beat out DeLoof (in the 200 IM). It was a great race. She swam really well,” Fenton coach Brad Jones said about Shaw’s performance. “DeLoof went 2:06 last year at the state meet, and both went 2:07, so we know there are faster races out there.”

Meanwhile, Gabrielle Haaraoja found out she should earn a couple of second-day individual swims herself. She took seventh in the 50 freestyle (24.82) and 18th in the 100 freestyle (55.58).

“They are ahead of where we were last year, so we are feeling good about it,” Jones said.

The Tigers also had the 400 relay team of Haaraoja, Davis, Meagan Cassen and Shaw place 15th (3:46.06) with their best time of the season. Most of the drop came from Davis and Cassen.

“We got big drops out of those two,” Jones said.

“Davis and Cassen still have a whole lot to lose. Gabby and Hailey can come down a little but now they know what is possible.”

Finally, Cassen, Shaw, Davis and Haaraoja placed 29th in the 200 medley relay (1:58.01).

“We just had a great day at MISCA,” Jones said. “Everybody swam their best times.”

Holly had one individual at the meet. That was Courtney Konopitski. She also performed well, placing 19th in the 50 freestyle (25.42). She also placed 30th in the 200 freestyle (2:01.48).

defenders who can jump those balls and lock the other teams in, and it kind of snow-balls. It gives our offense more chances.”

The Tigers took the lead just 6:05 into the contest off a direct kick. Davis took this one as well about 25 yards out just wide of one of the posts of the net. He took the shot and it cleanly went in about five feet inside the near-side post. Fenton led 1-0.

Brandon had one of its few chances just minutes later when the ball danced around the Fenton box with Berkey fighting to get back in between the ball and the net. He finally did after the ball jostled around for about 10 seconds, catching the ball after about the third header.

The Tigers took a 2-0 lead with 23:05 left in the first half. The goal was set up by a cross from Anthony Flannery, who had the ball wide about 15 yards from the end line. He crossed the ball to Julian Weinberg who was near the middle of the field from about 25 yards out. Weinberg then blasted a shot that went in just above the keeper’s save attempt.

Fenton held on for a 2-0 halftime lead.

The Tigers always seemingly had control of the contest while up 2-0, but eventually Huntley’s goal pretty much iced the win.

The Tigers now play the Linden Eagles today in the district semifinals at Fenton High School’s soccer field at 7 p.m. It will mark the fourth time the two teams faced each other this year. They are 1-1-1 against each other.

“This gives us all the confidence going into our next game,” Huntley said. “Of course, it being Linden, it’s going to be a hard-fought battle. Winning this game is a confidence booster going into Linden.”

I don’t think Fiebs (the nickname for Linden varsity soccer coach Kevin Fiebertz) and I have to even show up on Wednesday,” Sullivan said. “The kids are going to be ready. These guys have a lot of respect for each other. It’s going to be a great game, a coin flip either way.”

The winner of Wednesday’s game will play either Holly or Goodrich in the district finals Thursday at 7 p.m. at Fenton High School. Holly plays at Goodrich in the other semifinal, also on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

District 1 bracket. The Blue Devils would face undefeated and second-ranked Frankenmuth in the opening round, while Flint Powers Catholic (8-0) would be the top seed, facing Almont (5-3).

Of course, these are just unofficial projections and there is still a week left to play. There will certainly be many changes to the playoff landscape by the time Friday night is over. But, for many, guessing game at this time of the season is just as fun as the games. And that includes the varsity football coaches themselves. Of course, guessing who they may play has added benefits. Most teams will have a couple advanced scouts from their programs attending possible first-round opponents on Friday night.

“I’ve looked at the projections. They’ve been right on in the past and they’ve also been far off,” Lake Fenton coach Eric Doyle said. “So many things can happen. One team can change everything up. I know they have us going to Frankenmuth, and with Powers (in the other half of the bracket), but that can change. We are fine where they send us.

“They are fun to look at. And I am as guilty as anyone else when it comes to looking at them.”

at home, the Bronchos not only practice there, but they host their share of duals and tournaments during the year as well.

No one knows the courts better than Holly.

“I think it is because we are there every day, playing,” Mills said. “It’s just like another day, another match for us.”

There are other benefits to being at home.

“Being at home for states is really cool,” Gunnar LaFave said. “I think it’s kind of an advantage because we will have more fans coming to states to support us. I would guess that’s an advantage.”

The Bronchos aren’t creating strict goals. Instead, they are sticking with their usual more abstract objectives.

“We just want to do the best we can,” Bilkoos said. “We are going to keep playing like we are playing and see what happens.”
