Lossing: ‘We don’t just make this stuff up’

►City officials have yet to prove validity of sewer tap-ins

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

In the 22 years Andree Rocheleau has owned Barbichon Dog Grooming in Linden, sewer usage has never been a problem. That all changed when Interim City Manager and Police Chief Scott Sutter and another city worker approached the 80-year-old business owner and informed her she would have to pay an

Experts tell how to spot a liar

►Automatic reactions give fibbers away

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Darryl Douglas, UM-Flint Psychology lecturer, said that a long pause before answering a question could signal a lie. “That’s a pretty big red flag,” he said.

Red flags, and subtle signs can save you a headache with a business deal, or interpersonal situation, or maybe give you something else to think about while watching “Lie to me.”

Many believe that a liar can be spotted by an averted gaze — Douglas agrees with this behavioral sign, but said that a person looking to the left as they lie is a myth.

Other clear signs are involuntary. A person breaking into a sweat when they hadn’t before can indicate they are lying, along with a red face and heart rate increase. This is because

►Students enjoy day off, outdoor workers bundle up

By Sharon Stone

Tri-county area students woke up to the announcement that school had been cancelled Tuesday, not for snow, but for extremely cold temperatures.

In Fenton, temperatures dropped to 3 degrees Fahrenheit at 10:30 p.m. Monday, prompting area school superintendents to consider cancelling school. Rather than wake-up alarms greeting parents and their children, many woke up to their cell phones beeping with the announcement that their school was closed for the day.

By 7 a.m. Tuesday, temperatures were at minus 5 degrees, with a wind chill factor of minus 19. That’s cold — and dangerous. The National Weather

SMART SOLUTIONS

1 Water therapy

When a hectic day leaves you feeling frazzled, summon serenity with this water-therapy trick: Draw a hot bath and fill a squeeze bottle with lukewarm water. While relaxing in the tub, drizzle the contents on your face in a clockwise motion; repeat five times. The waterfall-like sensation slows activity in the brain's hippocampus, where stressful memories are stored. Plus, it just feels terrific!

2 Rate your hunger

Before eating seconds of your favorite dish, rate how hungry you are on a scale of 1 (very hungry) and 7 (very full). You should try to stay between 3 and 5. This Zen technique, called mindful eating, connects you to your body's satiety signals so you know when to stop eating.

What to eat for a healthier lifestyle

► The New American Diet emphasizes healthy non-processed food choices for longevity, quality of life

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

This just might be the last diet you'll ever need. The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) New American Diet by John Whyte, M.D., offers no gimmicks, calorie counting or points — just a healthy emphasis on whole foods over unhealthy processed ones.

The New American Diet is geared toward utilizing what science now knows about the effects of dietary and lifestyle choices on the incidence of cancer and other diseases. While it is geared toward the audience of AARP readers over 50, the diet's emphasis on eating non-processed foods including lean proteins, whole grains, low-fat dairy, fruits and vegetables is a healthy diet for any age group.

Do not pass go, do not collect $200.

These words have been long ingrained in popular culture ever since they were first printed on the cards for Monopoly. Since their inception, board games have helped bring people together over a night of fun and competition.

Today, board games have found themselves with a lot more competition than before, battling video games and Netflix for the attention of bored people looking for something fun to do.

Many board games have addressed the topic by transcending their original format. Digital editions of board games are very common, whether it be a game of Risk or Monopoly, allowing players to sit back and let the computer handle the rules of the game.

The popularity of Words With Friends, an online Scrabble imitator that allows you to play back and forth with friends, shows the appeal that these

An imperial president

One definition of 'imperial' on dictionary.com is, 'of the nature or rank of an emperor or supreme ruler.'

At his news conference last Monday, a petulant, threatening and confrontational President Obama spoke like an emperor or supreme ruler. All that was missing was a scepter, a crown and a robe trimmed in ermine.

Not only did he supply long answers to relatively easy questions, but much of what he said bore no relation to reality.

He spoke of having had the debate over the economy during the 2012 campaign and boasted, '...the American people agreed with me.' Forty-seven percent of voters supported Mitt Romney and other Republicans in the last election. Ninety-four million people eligible to vote didn't vote. Can Obama really claim 'the American people' agreed with him?

The question Major Garrett of CBS News posed to the president on raising the debt ceiling in tandem with spending cuts exposed his hypocrisy and that of many congressional Democrats: 'You yourself, as a member of the Senate, voted against a debt ceiling increase. Many people are curious about is this new adamant desire on your part not to negotiate, when that seems to suggest that we are going to go into a default situation, because no one is talking to each other about how to resolve this.'

The president dissembled, talking again about how Congress had authorized all the spending and how we must now 'pay our bills.' But when he was an Illinois senator and voted against raising the debt ceiling in 2006, he said, 'The fact that we are here today to debate raising America's debt limit is a sign of leadership failure.' Except when he's the leader, then it's someone else's failure.

The president says he will reduce debt with a 'balanced approach,' by which he means offsetting higher taxes on the wealthy with spending cuts, which will never materialize. It won't work. Whatever tax revenue government manages to save, Congress will always find a way to spend it.

President Obama will not negotiate about raising the debt ceiling? Not surprising. Imperial leaders don't negotiate.

OUR BRILLIANT DEMOCRAT politicians say we need more gun laws. We can't even enforce the laws we have on the books now and we need more? Chicago, a Democrat run city with one of the most restrictive gun laws in America, had more homicides than troop killings in Afghanistan.

TO THE INDIVIDUAL stating Democrats voted for Senate Bill 907. You're correct. That bill allowed homesteads in a trust to claim an exemption. It was the Senate Roll Call 170, on 2011 House Bill 4361 that eliminated Homestead exemption for some seniors, the Senate Democrats voted 'no' 100 percent on that bill.

NRA shoots down its own ideas

Sometimes the leaders of the National Rifle Association don't seem to know how to take 'yes' for an answer.

Their ridicule of President Barack Obama's comprehensive response to the complex problem of gun violence includes a rejection of ideas they suggested.

Remember how NRA Executive Vice President Wayne LaPierre, after the Newtown massacre, eagerly blamed just about everything but federal gun policy?

Remember how he attacked gun-free school zones, lax mental health facilities and even violent video games — but not military-style assault weapons, high-capacity magazines or his own organization's resistance to such sensible ideas as background checks for gun purchasers at gun shows?

Among his legislative gun control proposals and 23 executive actions, President Obama agreed in some form with all of those ideas from LaPierre. Obama called for federal aid to states for the hiring of up to 1,000 new 'school resource officers,' which would be specially trained police officers that work in schools where school districts want them.

Since 1996, Congress actually has handcuffed the federal government's ability to conduct any research into firearm safety. Under NRA pressure, lawmakers removed research funds from the CDC that was being used for any research that 'may be used to advocate or promote gun control.' The NRA was particularly alarmed by a study that showed a gun kept in the home to be 43 times more likely to be involved in the death of a member of the household than to be used in self-defense. The NRA solution: ban the research.

To help ensure that Congress will block the president's proposals, the NRA didn't even wait to hear him say what they actually were before launching an outrageous attack video on their website.

President Obama's announcement nullified the video's argument, which was ridiculous anyway. The children of presidents are protected by Secret because they are more at risk.

Besides, if anybody sounds 'elitist,' which my dictionary defines as one who believes in 'a sense of entitlement enjoyed by a group or class,' it's the NRA.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | MICHIGAN HUMANE SOCIETY

Leaving a pet outside in frigid temperatures can be dangerous. Animal cruelty is also a misdemeanor, punishable up to 93 days in jail or $1,000 fine.

Don't forget our four-legged friends

► Owners urged to protect pets during extreme weather

With temperatures plummeting across Michigan, the Michigan Humane Society is reminding pet owners to keep a close eye on their pets.

According to the MHS, too many animals will be left outside to fend for themselves, forced to face the frigid winds and extreme temperatures with no food, no water, no shelter, and no hope. The MHS is urging pet owners to protect their pets with these cold weather safety tips.

- In frigid temperatures, pets should not be left outside for any length of time. Be sure to bring small or shorthaired pets in when temperatures reach 15-20 degrees Fahrenheit. Be sure to take into account precipitation and wind chill.
- Cats should be kept indoors or at least brought into a warm, animal-proofed garage during severe weather. Roaming cats often seek the warmth of car engines, so be sure to knock on the car hood or honk the horn before starting your car to startle them and give them a chance to escape.
- Increase the amount of food you provide for dogs left outside by 10-20 percent during the winter months. The extra calories are needed to help an animal to stay warm.
- Regular access to clean, unfrozen water is also critical. Check drinking water frequently — every few hours — to ensure that it is unfrozen.

• If an animal is cold to the touch, or his paws and ears are pale, he may be suffering from frostbite. Move the animal to a warmer area and contact your veterinarian immediately.

If pet owners leave their animals outdoors for any length of time, they are required by Michigan state law to provide enough food and water, as well as adequate shelter. MHS recommends that dogs be provided a well-built, insulated, slant-roofed doghouse. The interior should be just large enough for the dog to stand and to lie down comfortably and slightly elevated from the ground for air circulation. The door should face away from prevailing winds and have a protective flap to eliminate drafts. Clean, dry straw should be provided for bedding, rather than towels, rugs or blankets, which absorb moisture and freeze in frigid temperatures.

Any observed animal cruelty should be immediately reported to the local animal control or police. Failing to provide proper provisions for pets can result in misdemeanor animal cruelty violations carrying a sentence of up to 93 days in jail, up to a $1,000 fine, community service, and loss of pet ownership for a specified amount of time. Violations that are more serious could warrant felony charges.

of the stress telling a lie causes. As the person lies, the chemical cortisol is released. This is the same chemical that regulates that body's immune function and inflammatory response, and is often called the "stress hormone."

Douglas said a lie causes stress in most people, because lying to someone is taboo. "We're not supposed to do it."

It may also become easier to spot a liar because so much communication happens online, that when a person tries to lie to a person in their physical presence, they can't escape the giveaways, because they're automatic. Even if a person believes the lie, they'll still have a reaction.

The exception are anti-social people, who have no conscience; they don't cling to social norms or rules. Pathological liars learn to lie convincingly over time and can also hide the signs.

According to Psychology Today, there are several reasons people are bad at spotting a liar. For one, most people give others the benefit of the doubt — as a default, we assume someone is telling the truth. We also may rely on cues that a liar could be aware of. For example Psychology Today suggests that someone who is lying may engage in more eye contact just to appear truthful.

To be better at spotting a liar, Psychology Today said bluntly, to not be gullible, and realize we naturally want to trust others. Considering the plausibility of a story and focusing on verbal cues are also helpful. The person may have a paradigm when it comes to truth-telling. How did they behave when definitely telling the truth, versus statements they are making now?

Knowing how to spot a liar can help with interpersonal, or big business plans. "It's practical because it tells us the character of the person themselves," said Douglas.

Det. Ron Skarzynski of the Fenton Police Department has conducted hundreds of interviews across his 28-year career. At this point, it's not too difficult to tell if someone is lying to him.

"We wouldn't be able to solve any crimes if we couldn't," he said. Skarzynski said he can usually tell quickly whether someone he is interviewing is lying, and uses mostly non-verbal cues to tell. Like Douglas said, contrasting normal behavior to behavior when they are lying is useful.

This is the biggest tactic, because police interviewers generally ask questions to which they already know the answer.

Skarzynski said most people want to tell the truth, they just don't want to face the consequences, so many people lie. "People feel better after telling the truth, but getting them to tell the truth is very difficult," he said.

"It's practical because it tells us the character of the person themselves."

— Darryl Douglas
Psychology lecturer,
UM-Flint

Other reasons we miss spotting a liar

1. Some people just appear more honest or deceptive. There are individual differences in nonverbal expressive style that lead some people to look more honest and others as more dishonest. This is called the "demeanor bias." People who are emotionally expressive and who move and speak more freely and fluidly are judged honest. Those who are stoic, with hesitant, staccato speech styles are seen as more dishonest.

2. We don't get much feedback about our detection accuracy. As a result, we aren't able to hone our detection skills. We might think someone is lying, but if we don't actually find out whether it was a lie or a truth, we aren't able to learn to get better at detection.

3. We simply get out foxed. Deception is a complex social interaction, much like a dance or performance. The very best liars know how to look honest (demeanor bias), they monitor their behavior, rehearse their answers, and study the detectors' nonverbal behavior to see if they are suspicious or gullible and adjust accordingly.

report*TOOL KIT STOLEN FROM GARAGE

At 2:35 p.m. on Jan. 19, Fenton police responded to the 500 block of North Oak Street to investigate a breaking and entering of an unattached garage. The homeowner said someone entered his unlocked garage overnight and stole his Craftsman tool kit and four knives from his workbench. The resident estimated the value at $200. Neighbors questioned told police they did not hear or see anything.

BLACK ICE DANGERS

Fenton police responded to several traffic incidents Monday morning, caused by icy road surfaces. Conditions were ideal for black ice, moisture and very cold temperatures. Police Chief Rick Aro said a 27-year-old Swartz Creek man, driving a 2003 Chevy Tahoe lost control when he hit an icy patch on southbound U.S. 23 just south of Owen Road at 7:30 a.m. His Tahoe spun and crashed into a tree. He was not injured.

CRASH ON SILVER PARKWAY

At 3:30 p.m. on Jan. 21, Fenton police responded to Silver Parkway, near Jennings Road on a report of a two-vehicle crash. A 32-year-old Linden woman, driving southbound in a Pontiac G6, attempted to turn left into a shopping center parking lot. As she turned, she drove into the path of a northbound van, driven by a 38-year-old Fenton man. The woman was listed as the at-fault driver on the crash report. There were no injuries.

Ask the

judge*Ever changing laws

It should come as no surprise to anyone that laws change on an almost daily basis throughout the United States.

Indeed, it has been reported that after the November 2012 election, the Michigan legislature sent some 282 passed bills to Governor Snyder for his review. The vast majority of these bills were signed into law.

The question is often asked as to why the laws change so frequently. Of course, there are many explanations as to why this happens, which include public health, safety and welfare needs, changes in commerce and technology, federal laws requiring changes in state laws and many more.

It is fair to say that when the laws change not everyone is pleased.

The legislative and executive branches of our government are responsible for passing and enacting new laws and the judicial branch is required to interpret the law.

This is as it should be and our system of having three branches of government has served us well since our United States Constitution was enacted in 1789.

Michigan laws are introduced by a representative or senator in the form of a bill and then voted upon by the legislature. The governor then reviews passed bills and either signs or vetoes them.

What many people may not know is that there are times when the judicial branch also has at least an indirect input on the introduction of a new bill. This happens not by any action on the floor of the legislature but rather in the form of an opinion by the Court of Appeals or Michigan Supreme Court in the context of interpreting a specific law. The judiciary by definition has no legislative powers, but can indicate in an opinion that there is an issue or problem with a law it is reviewing and which only the legislature can remedy.

I can't say if a study has ever been done as to how often, the legislature has taken up such suggestions but I do know that the law will continue to evolve and change as the perceived needs of society require and each branch of government will continue to play its role under the law.

Service Clerk Len Carrette of Holly pushes carts back into the lobby of VG's on North LeRoy Street in 8 degree weather on Tuesday. "You're going to get me in trouble (with my wife)," he said. "I'm supposed to be wearing a hat."

HYPOTHERMIA

can't be avoided. If you plan to venture out in near-zero temperatures, take enough time to properly prepare yourself for the cold. McKee said several loose layers are needed to be safe. The base layers should be thermal underwear or under armor, with loose fitting jeans over them. McKee recommends wearing one size larger than usual to give room for the layers and not restrict blood flow. Socks should also be layered, and the final layer should be a good winter coat, and lip balm.

"Any exposed skin is affected by the cold weather," she said. "Fashion isn't always the best choice for the weather."

Your vehicle should have more than a quarter tank, and a plan should be in place should you have to be outside longer than expected, or if your car should break down. The point of preparation is to avoid hypothermia, and frostbite.

McKee said if you begin to shiver, or have numbness in your limbs, it's time to go inside. If you stop shivering, you may be on your way to hypothermia. If your skin tingles, or is painful, you also need to go inside — that's the first signs of frostbite.

"Typically your brain will tell you," she said, adding that common sense is the best strategy for staying safe in extreme cold.

COLD WEATHER TERMS

Hypothermia

Prolonged exposure to cold will eventually use up your body's stored energy. The result is hypothermia, or abnormally low body temperature. It can be deadly. Symptoms: shivering, exhaustion, confusion, fumbling hands, memory loss, slurred speech, drowsiness.

What to do: Get the victim into a warm room or shelter. Remove any wet clothing. Warm the center of the body first. Warm the chest, neck, head, and groin — using an electric blanket, if available. Or use skin-to-skin contact under loose, dry layers of blankets, clothing, towels, or sheets. If conscience, warm beverages can help increase the body temperature. After body temperature has increased, keep the person dry and wrapped in a warm blanket, including the head and neck. Get medical attention as soon as possible.

Frost bite

Frostbite is an injury to the body that is caused by freezing. Frostbite causes a loss of feeling and color in affected areas. It most often affects the nose, ears, cheeks, chin, fingers, or toes. Frostbite can permanently damage the body.

Symptoms: A white or grayish-yellow skin area, skin that feels unusually firm or waxy, numbness.

What to do: Get into a warm room as soon as possible. Unless necessary, do not walk on frostbitten feet or toes — this increases the damage. Immerse the affected area in warm water. Do not use hot water. One can also warm the affected area using body heat. Do not rub the frostbitten area or massage it at all. This can cause more damage. Don't use a heating pad, heat lamp, or the heat of a stove, fireplace, or radiator for warming. Affected areas are numb and can be easily burned.

Mission trips to Guatemala prove worthwhile

►Local families provide relief to struggling country

By Olivia Dimmer

intern@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

No matter how many times Cinda Rachor boards the plane to take a six-hour flight to Guatemala, the excitement never fades. Rachor, along with the rest of her family and friends, make a mission trip to Guatemala twice a year. She goes more often to visit her would-be adopted daughter, Amelia, who is caught in a mess of legal snares set up by the Guatemalan government.

"Guatemala closed its doors to adoption in the U.S. in 2008," Rachor said. "So many orphans are stuck there, like Amelia. There's no telling when we will have Amelia, but that doesn't stop us from going to Guatemala and providing relief when we can."

The mission trips that the Rachors and their associates go on are all Christian based efforts organized through Forever Changed International, the purpose of which is to aide the world's forgotten children. Rachor has been involved with this organization so long that she is now on the board of directors.

Each mission trip changes with the relief items needed. While the volunteers are in Guatemala, they help build shelters, hand out relief items and give love and comfort to orphans, widows, the homeless and women in abusive relationships.

"Once you have seen these conditions, you really will be changed. Guatemala is my favorite place to be. Even when I come home, I always think, 'It's not over. What else can I be doing to help?'"

Cinda Rachor
Fenton resident

"When we go we help to set up cribs, paint rooms and simply give relief and compassion to the community," Rachor said. "Guatemalan water is some of the most contaminated in the world, so we also help to build water purification systems. We always welcome others to come with us and help aide the people there."

Any interested volunteers may contact Cinda Rachor at (810) 750-0355, or through ForeverChangedInternational.org. Fundraising events are available to raise money to travel to Guatemala and buy relief items.

being a hotel tycoon in Monopoly isn't your thing, maybe you would like to play as a robot racing through a factory or the admiral of a starship. With a little imagination and a few friends — there is a board game for that.

A common misconception is that board games are meant for kids. In reality, there are games available for all ages, with varying levels of complexity.

Bob Huffman, owner of B.C. Comix in Fenton, said he is excited to see the next generation of board games.

"The evolution of board games over the last few decades has been quite exciting. The average player of board games today is looking for more complex interaction," Huffman said. "They want something they can play multiple times with their friends and still have a unique experience each time. This has led board game manufacturers to produce new and unique styles of games."

Huffman listed Betrayal at House on the Hill as a cooperative game where players are working together against the board game. Other games include titles like Dominion or Legendary where the players build a deck of cards out of the contents of the game to play against each other.

Games are not just a great social experience for you, they can also be a great experience for keeping your mind sharp. Whether you are picking up a new game to try out, or are simply breaking out an old classic, there may be some health benefits to giving the dice a roll.

Darryl Douglas, a professor of psychology at the University of Michigan-Flint, said that playing board games can be beneficial for people that are experiencing general cognitive decline as they age.

"In the very early stages of dementia, that kind of activity, even jigsaw puzzles, playing cards, board games, any of those things can be very effective in staving off the more onerous parts of the disease process," he said.

Young or old, there has never been a better opportunity, or better reasons, to set up a new board game.

Most popular board games of all time.

With thousands of board games now on the market, there are plenty to pick from. The classics however, remain popular.

Battleship: Any child who has not had the opportunity to proclaim in a dissatisfied voice, "You've sunk my battleship!" has missed out on an important rite of passage. Naval combat has never been more fun.

Monopoly: You have more than likely played at least one game of Monopoly in your life — and you probably did not play it by the rules. The iconic game of property management has a long history — and with that comes a slew of house rules people have accrued over the years, for better or worse. With countless themed editions, you can get your taste of Monopoly in any form that you like.

Scrabble: The game for those with an extensive lexicon and puzzle solvers, Scrabble is as much knowing the right word as it is knowing when to use it. It's popular with professional scrabble tournaments played across the globe, some competing for grand prizes up to $50,000.

Yahtzee: A competitive game of luck first marketed in 1956, Yahtzee is fun for all ages. A popular party game, there is no denying that it has earned its fixture in American popular culture.

risk of diabetes. In addition to water and coffee, iced tea and hot tea, as well as low fat milk would be good drink choices, according to Easlick.

- Get fishy — the good omega-3 fatty acids contained in fish help your brain health and your waistline. The diet recommends eating fish two to three times a week, and red meat once a week at most. Embrace whole grains — as a major source of vitamins, minerals and fiber, they cut can risk of heart disease, respiratory illness and some cancers. Fill up on whole wheat bread, pasta and brown rice.
- Fill up on fruits and vegetables — consuming these antioxidant rich foods will result in longevity and weight loss. The diet recommends staying away from potatoes for the first few weeks of the diet, then add them back in without the fattening toppings.
- Include low-fat dairy — as a rich source of calcium and vitamin D, eating low fat dairy can also result in weight loss, with up to three servings a day to maximize health benefits. "Milk does not have to be vitamin D milk to contain vitamin D," said Easlick. "All milk is fortified with vitamin D. Milk labeled vitamin D is whole milk, containing the most fat and calories per serving."

- Be wary of "diet" foods — many low-fat or fat-free products are loaded with sugar and are highly processed. This diet recommends that people eat a small helping of a higher fat food periodically.
- Cook more meals at home — at least for the first few weeks until you learn more about how to make healthy food choices. When dining out, follow these healthy portion guidelines: fruits and vegetables should be the size of your fist, meat should be no bigger than a deck of cards, and fish should be the size of a checkbook.

- Inspect food labels — scan labels for calories and other nutrients. Learn to choose products based on their healthy label profile.

- Snack twice daily — smart snacking is advised between breakfast and lunch and lunch and dinner. Great healthy snacks include a handful of nuts, baby carrots and hummus or fruit.

- Chew gum — not only does chewing gum keep you from nibbling unhealthy foods, it also releases hormones that signal your brain that you're full. Always chew sugar-free gum to take care of your oral health.

additional $3,000 for a sewer tap-in fee, as well as fees from the past 32 years — 10 years before she started her business.

"I'm not paying anything, this is not fair," Rocheleau said. "I live alone. I hardly make any money."

Rocheleau is one of 21 business owners officials in Linden are hitting up for sewer tap-in fees.

According to Mayor David Lossing, the fees stem from a November 2012 audit of sewer tap-in fees, the first the city has ever conducted. Lossing said the audit is in response to meeting representatives from the Genesee County Drain Commission and possible sewer rate increases.

Lossing, who has been serving as mayor since 2004 and as a city councilor from 1998 to 2004, blamed the lack of assessing sewer fees in the past to "lax administrative oversight."

"The sewer fund has about $1.6 million in it, however there's only $160,000 in cash," Lossing said. "The rest is tied up in assets. The other alternative is you give the units away — $240,000 of taxpayer money."

Although Lossing said the audit was not complete until November, business owners approached the council in early October, after receiving letters from the city about the imposed sewer fees.

Like Rocheleau, the city was attempting to collect back sewer fees from various business owners, including 30 years worth of fees from Linden Hotel owner Jack Furry and 15 years worth from Jim McIntyre, who owns the building housing the Subway sub shop.

Lossing said the city would not be pursuing back taxes past 2012, stating, "I'm not sure we can legally do that." In a Times article published Jan. 12, 2013, State Rep. Joseph Graves (R-Argentine Township) of the 51st District said that he is investigating the legality of the Linden City Council assessing fees from decades past and may introduce legislation preventing what he called, "over-reaching government."

Lossing, Sutter, City Attorney Charles

McKone and Department of Public Works employee Jason Payne are scheduled to meet the 21 business owners at an open meeting Wednesday, Feb. 6 to discuss various payment options. Lossing said the city plans to charge $3,000 for the first tap-in fee and $2,000 for each additional tap-in needed. Under the current plan, Lossing said the city would save business owners $60,000.

"The formula is based off of what the county made. We don't just make this stuff up," Lossing said.

When asked to provide documentation proving the city was deficient in funds, Lossing said the city is currently working to gather the information and would present it at the Feb. 6 meeting. Lossing requested the Times refrain from publishing any articles on tap-in fees until the city could provide the requested documentation.

The Times will follow up with any documents provided in the future.

Genesee County Drain Commissioner Jeff Wright said that neither he nor any of his representatives have ever met with anyone from Linden. Wright also said that sewer rates are not increasing at the county level and that the county does not charge for sewer tap-in fees.

Bill Rose, who served as mayor of Linden from 1996 to 2002, said sewer fees were never a problem during his administration.

Fenton Township Deputy Clerk/Operations Manager Thomas Broecker said the township conducts regular reports on sewer tap-ins and cannot recall charging a business for past tap-in fees.

Alpine Marketplace owner Norman Yono said when he expanded his business in September, sewer fees were not brought up once. Yono said city officials approached him in November and informed him that he owed the city $20,000.

"When I turned in my site plans in August, the city said there was no need for additional fees," Yono said. "The city said they got orders from the county to put in fees."

Ray Culbert, who has served on the city council for 22 years and the planning commission for 35 years, did not respond before press time.

David's Dabblings

Entering Tuesday night's game against Davison, the Fenton varsity boys basketball team has won 26 regular season games in a row. Yes, that's 26!!!

After winning four straight Metro League titles, the Tigers are putting together another impressive run toward a league crown this year. They entered the Davison contest 10-0 and unbeaten in the Metro League. In fact, when I look at the Associated Press Top 10 teams in Class A, I only notice three teams that are unbeaten on that list — No. 1 Detroit Pershing (12-0), No. 3 Saginaw Arthur Hill (11-0) and No. 4 East Kentwood (10-0). There are, no doubt, other unbeaten teams not in the top 10. For instance, Grand Blanc is the first team on the honorable mention list and the Bobcats also remain undefeated. However, area fans must scratch their heads when they see that the Tigers garnered only one point from pollsters. Counting down the poll would put them No. 23 in the state.

Twenty-three? Really? That's where they belong? I've never been a bandwagon fan when it comes to Metro credibility. I've probably been as hard as anyone on the league. However, the lack of respect that the Tigers are getting in the poll is silly.

But, hey, what do polls mean anyway? Really, they mean nothing. But it would be nice to see the Tigers get at least a little respect.

Winter Classic enjoys strong sophomore season

►Weather goes from unseasonably warm to perfectly cold during competition

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton Twp. — It was a cold day. The winds were whipping around on Barnum Lake, with a dusting of snow.

With temperatures in the teens, and the wind chill even lower, temperatures were about 30 degrees colder on the ice surface than they were just 24 hours ago on Saturday.

But to those who were competing in the second-annual Lake Fenton Winter Classic Pond Hockey Tournament, they didn't mind. In fact, for at least one competitor, Sunday's second-day of hockey action was downright balmy.

"I usually play in the UP," Marquette resident Jay St. John said. "It's nice here. The ice is a lot better than up north because it's not as cold as it could be."

"It was about two (degrees) when I left (Marquette). This is pretty decent."

In reality, it would've been harder to find a better setting for a pond hockey tournament. And it seems, after just its second season, tournament director Sean Lapham, has put his dream on the map.

"I am so happy we put our community on the map," Lapham said. "Everybody, all my sponsors — Lakeside Market, The Fireplace, Labatt, Yamaha — and all these people that came out here and believed in us, it's awesome."

The event started Friday night with a tourney celebration, and games began on Saturday morning and continued through Sunday. Lapham said 36 teams from all over the Midwest and Canada competed. There was a total of 287 players at the event competing at various levels.

And from most respects, it seems competitors had a good time.

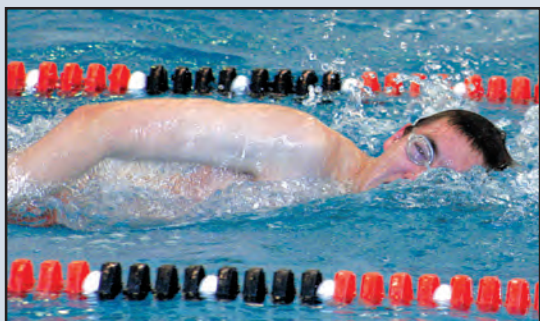

"It's been a great time, a fun time," DeWitt competitor and Lake Fenton graduate Jeff Thoman said. "The weather (on Saturday)

Tigers place solid second at county meet

Problems, problems, problems.

All teams, to an extent, have them.

And Brad Jones' boys Fenton swimming and diving team is no exception.

But Jones won't complain. The "problems" he's thinking about only occur when a team is getting better. And, that's definitely the case with the Fenton Tigers.

The defending Metro League champions pretty much showed that there is probably little competition headed for them in league action as the Tigers placed second at the Greater Genesee County Swimming and Diving Championships at Fenton High School's pool

Friday and Saturday.

Grand Blanc were the expected and eventual overwhelming champions, winning with 530 points. However, Fenton was an overwhelming second-place finisher with 356.5 points. The closest Metro League foe to the Tigers was Swartz Creek, who placed fourth Lake Fenton's Chase Hanson scored a game-high 27 points in the Blue Devils' 61-49 victory against Lakeville Friday night.

Blue Devils making steady progress, capture third victory of season

►Linden boys, girls drop verdicts against Metro League foe Lapeer West

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball team has shown solid signs of improvement this year.

And that progress can be easily seen through the victory total.

Not even halfway through its season, the Blue Devils have already surpassed their win total from a season ago.

The Blue Devils improved to 3-5 with a 61-49 road victory against Lakeville Friday night.

Lake Fenton (2-4, 3-5) took a 36-26 lead into halftime and held on to earn the victory.

Chase Hanson had his first 20-plus point game of the season, scoring a game-high 27 points. Twenty-one of his points came on three-pointers. He also had four rebounds. Meanwhile, usual leading scorer Darian Welch also had a strong night. He netted 16 points, four rebounds and three assists.

Sawyer Scott and Jeff Burke capped Lake Fenton's scoring with nine points each.

Lake Fenton hosted Perry Tuesday night. The Blue Devils travel to Montrose on Friday.

LAPEER WEST 56,
LINDEN 29

The Panthers outscored Linden 24-2 in the opening quarter, as the Eagles were forced to play the game with a limited bench.

Kyle Korman scored a team-high 10 points for Linden (0-9), while Travis Rinks netted eight points. Cody Grandy chipped in five points.

Zeshawn Jones-Parker led Lapeer West with a game-high 21 points. Cullen Turczyn added nine points and 10 assists.

Linden hosted non-league Fowlerville on Tuesday. The Eagles return to Metro action on Friday at Brandon High School.

GIRLS BASKETBALL
LAPEER WEST 32,
LINDEN 28

The Eagles led 8-1 after one quarter, but followed that period up with its own dryspell in the second quarter, allowing West to get back into the game and eventually win the contest.

Linden scored just two second-quarter points, and trailed 11-10 at the intermission. The contest remained close throughout, with the teams tied 22-all entering the third quarter. However, the Eagles (5-4, 6-4) scored just six fourth-quarter points, allowing West to sneak by with the win.

Niki Sargent led Linden with nine points and eight rebounds. Maija Satkowiak netted six points, while Rachel Maxheimer had four points, six assists and four rebounds. Kelsey Brecht had four points, seven rebounds and three steals.

Linden traveled to non-league Fowlerville on Tuesday. The Eagles return to Metro League action on Friday at Brandon High School.

Holly girls bowlers earn county championship

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Holly varsity girls bowling team would've been happy just making it to the round of 16 at the Oakland County Girls Bowling Championships held at Troy's Thunderbird Lanes on Saturday.

Imagine how elated the Bronchos must've been when they found out they were county champions.

The Bronchos, who qualified 12th in the during the qualifying block, ended up defeating Lakeland 321-302 in two baker games in the championship round of the tourney.

"Personally I thought we'd at least make it and have a chance to contend," Holly coach Jeff Suma Jr. said. "But the girls were happy to just qualify. When they called they qualified 12th, they all screamed."

The Bronchos earned a pinfall total of 2,892 during three individual games and four baker games rolled by the five team members. A baker game consists of each bowler on the team bowling two frames. The Bronchos qualified by just over 200 pins.

As each of the baker elimination rounds continued, the Bronchos got a little better. They beat South Lyon in the round of 16 by a 299-281 score. In the quarterfinals, the Bronchos won 301-255. In the semifinals, the Bronchos cruised by top-seeded Waterford Mott, 306-275.

In the finals, the Bronchos led after one game, but fell behind during the second game after five straight open frames. However, Audrey Currier got a strike in the seventh frame, and it was followed by strikes from Lisa Collins and Shannon Westfall, putting the Bronchos back in the lead for good.

In individual action, Westfall placed for a tie in 14th with a five-game pinfall total of 562. Heidi Martin was 29th with a 524.

Suma Jr. was pleased with the team's performance.

"They bowled well," Suma Jr. said. "Our motto this year has been to show emotion because we have a lot of girls that don't show that much. It was awesome to see them jump around and freak out a bit."

The Bronchos also had their boys team compete in the men's division, but the squad was unable to advance to the round of 16. The Bronchos placed 24th with a total pinfall of 3,211. The team's best team series was a 943. Their best baker game was a 156.

was kind of marginal with the ice conditions, but it's a real fun event."

"It sounded like a fun event. I love hockey so I decided to come out and play," said Traverse City resident Rob Morgan. "This is our first one. I haven't played in awhile, and was a little rusty. But it's been a lot of fun."

The event involved many volunteers. Players from the Fenton/Linden co-op hockey team helped with keeping scores and with puck retrieval. Meanwhile, parents helped with the many duties as well, including the concession stands. Lapham donated $2,000 to the hockey program.

"It's very upbeat," said one of the parents, Michelle Broadworth. "It's great to see a great number of people come out to support the event. You can tell everybody loves hockey."

The event even lured some fans. Area resident Justin Colby brought his daughters — Tara and Kara — to the ice to watch the event. And while he watched, his daughters had fun on the perfectly slick ice surface.

"I saw a lot of people out here, and I've wanted to come out, and today was the day," Colby said. "I used to play when I was younger, but that's a long time ago. I got (my daughters) out here to get some exercise and see what it's like. I really enjoy it. It makes me want to put some skates on."

Saturday's event was seasonably warm, creating a slushier playing surface, but the cold Saturday night weather made the conditions perfect for Sunday.

"The conditions are completely different," Thoman said. "Yesterday, it almost wasn't hockey. Today this is hockey. But this is what pond hockey is all about. You change with the conditions."

The event consists of seven-player teams who compete in a four-on-four hockey game without traditional goalies. The "boards" are two-by-fours. When

Winter Classic Tidbits

Here are a few facts about the second-annual Lake Fenton Winter Classic.

- Originally scheduled to be held on Lake Fenton near the Moose Lodge, it was moved to nearby Barnum Lake last year due to better ice conditions. It remained there for the second event.
- The event donated $2,000 to the Fenton/Linden co-op high school hockey program.
- This year's winners get entry to the 2014 tournament for free.

a puck flies out of the playing surface, another puck is thrown on the ice immediately. The goal is a wooden slot that's about four inches high. The game is fast-paced, with two 20-minute halves. There is a five-minute break in between halves, certainly a well-needed rest after the action. Some games can see the winning team score as many as 30 goals. Frequently, the total is much lower than that.

The winning trophy, the Des Crowley Memorial Cup, is named in honor of a deceased friend of Lapham's. The winners get to hold the cup over their heads and have their names engraved on it. If they desire, they also get to compete in the 2014 tournament for free.

Last year Lapham's name was engraved on the trophy because his team won its division of the tournament.

"At the end of the day it's about keeping the memory and the legacy of Des alive," Lapham said. "It brings tears to my eyes every time I talk about it."

This year's championship teams were: The Hattrick Swayze's in the Tin Foil Division, Scooter's in the Open Division, KVH Russians in the Bronze Division, Canadian Tuxedos in the Silver Division and Bear League Sports in the Gold Division.

On Saturday (above), ice surfaces on Barnum Lake were a little slushy due to the 40-degree temperatures at the second-annual Lake Fenton Winter Classic. However, by Sunday (right), temperatures were ideal for pond hockey as the mercury remained below 20 degrees with wind chills in the single digits for most of the day.

with 194 points. Holly placed eighth with 156 points.

"The boys have never been in this spot before. The girls have been here several times. As we enter the league part of the season, as we can see from the county meet, we stand out pretty high among the Metro League teams," Jones said. "From here on out we'll be struggling and competing among each other to get state cuts because we'll only be facing one or two state qualifiers from the other teams. This is something we are not used to dealing with."

Honestly, the reason the Fenton boys haven't had to deal with it in the past is because in the past they weren't at this level to make the issue come into play. With stronger swimmers, therefore more swimmers with the potential to earn state cuts, suddenly it has become a "problem."

"It's a nice problem to have," Jones said.

The Tigers' strong showing at the county meet was paced by Mike Banner. Banner competed in three events which placed either first or second. He won the team's only county championship by winning the 200 freestyle (1:54.92). He came close to earning a second in the 500 freestyle, with a runner-up time of 5:07.64.

"He was just touched out (by .02 second). That was a great race for Michael. and now he's only a handful of seconds off the state cut in the 500, which is his goal."

He also teamed with Brant Cassidy, Alex Chase and Adam Andreski for a second-place performance in the 400 freestyle relay (3:32.46).

Chase was the final area swimmer to earn an individual second. The Fenton senior posted a time of 59.55 seconds in the 100 butterfly. Cassidy placed third in the 100 freestyle (51.11) and fourth in the 200 freestyle (1:58.46), earning himself a fine day. Other Fenton swimmers to place in the top five individually were Macklin, fourth in the 100 backstroke (1:09.37); Andreski, fifth in the 50 freestyle (23.64); and Landis, fifth in the 100 backstroke (1:04.39).

The Tigers' 200 medley relay had a strong outing. The team of Landis, Macklin, Chase and Brent Nakkula placed third (1:52.37).

"I'm very pleased with what we've done so far. It was a nice way to open the second part of the season," Jones said. "(Moving forward) we want to get as many kids qualified for the MISCA meet as we can. We go down there in 2 1/2 weeks and I want to see if we can get some state cuts. Right now we have someone qualified (for the MISCA meet) in every event but the backstroke and the individual medley. That's very good for us. We certainly have never taken a crowd that big in that many events on the boys team in a long time."

The Holly Bronchos had three individuals earn top-five performances. Aaron DeHaven was the team's top performer, taking second in the 200 freestyle (1:55.21). Meanwhile, Peyton Molzahn took fourth in the backstroke (1:01.47), while Dillon Slate placed fifth in diving (272.20). Molzahn, and DeHaven teamed with Tyler Degarmo and Joey Baker to place third in the 400 freestyle relay (3:48.20).

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you give us some information on adult drooling? My husband, 87, is normal in all other ways, but cannot control his drooling. He won't leave the house because of it. — E.K.

ANSWER: With aging, we have less-effective swallowing mechanisms. In our younger years, saliva is constantly, automatically and imperceptibly swallowed throughout the day. At older ages, it stays in the mouth, and its only exit is through the lips. A second cause of drooling is the sagging of tissues around the mouth, another consequence of aging. The lips and mouth tissues cannot hold saliva in the mouth like they used to.

THE IMPOSTER

Nicholas was 13 the day he disappeared (June 13, 1994). He would have been 16 and 8 months when he was reported found in Spain (October 7, 1997)... In 1994 a 13-year-old boy disappears without a trace from San Antonio, Texas. Three-and-a-half years later he is found alive, thousands of miles away in a village in southern Spain with a story of kidnap and torture. His family is overjoyed to bring him home. But all is not quite as it seems. The boy bears many of the same distinguishing marks he always had, but why does he now have a strange accent? Why does he look so different? And why doesn't the family seem to notice these glaring inconsistencies? It's only when an investigator starts asking questions that this strange tale takes an even stranger turn. R, 1 hr. 35 min.

THE PAPERBOY

A sexually and racially charged film noir from Oscar-nominated director Lee Daniels (Precious), The Paperboy takes audiences deep into the backwaters of steamy 1960s South Florida, as investigative reporter Ward Jansen (Matthew McConaughey) and his partner Yardley Ache-man (David Oyelowo) chase a sensational, career-making story. With the help of Ward's younger brother Jack (Zac Efron) and sultry death-row groupie Charlotte Bless (Nicole Kidman), the pair tries to prove violent swamp-dweller Hillary Van Wetter (John Cusack) was framed for the murder of a corrupt local sheriff. Based on the provocative bestselling novel by Pete Dexter (Mulholland Falls, Rush),

The Paperboy peels back a sleepy small town's decades-old façade of Southern gentility to reveal a quagmire of evil as dark as a Florida bayou. R, 1 hr. 46 min.
