SMART SOLUTIONS

1 Clean tile grout

When even expensive tile cleaners leave your grout looking dingy, reach for soda. Using an old toothbrush, apply cola to the affected areas. Allow it to sit for 10 minutes, then wipe away with a soapy cloth. The phosphoric acid in the beverage fizzes and seeps into the mortar, dissolving embedded stains and restoring the concrete to its whitest.

2 Water stains on wood furniture

Dissolve water stains from wooden furniture overnight. Rub ½ teaspoon mayonnaise directly on to the stains with a paper towel and leave overnight. The next day, simply wipe with a clean damp cloth. The mayo absorbs water from the marks, dissolving them and restoring the wood's natural luster.

Hypnosis

► How it can help you reach your goals, address issues and redefine who you are

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Every year, millions of Americans embark on a New Year's Resolution — to lose more weight, to find true love, to quit smoking — the list is endless. And, a month later (right around this time to be exact), those resolutions are either going on strong or have already been discarded.

Tired of taking an endless array of drugs or changing your diet every few weeks? Finding self-help books not very helpful? The reason you're not able to change probably lies in your method. One alternative is to try hypnosis, which can change someone on a psychological level.

"As far as your mind and your understanding of what happens, when you change your habits, you can re-see how you do something," said Dr. John Tomlinson, who has his own hypnosis practice

See HYPNOSIS on 16A

Common misconceptions about hypnosis

Source: mind-bodydynamics.com

• A person under hypnosis is asleep or unconscious. Actually, a person in a hypnotic state is more fully awake with increased alertness and heightened concentration, increasing his or her receptivity to suggestion.

• You won't remember anything after hypnosis. A person is more aware of everything during hypnosis, and then may have a "dreamy" feeling with a fading memory, like emerging from a deep daydream or nap.

• A person can be hypnotized against their will. Hypnosis is a state of consent and cooperation. A client can end his or her session at any time.

• You may do or say something silly while under hypnosis. You can't be made to do anything under hypnosis that you would find objectionable under normal circumstances. You don't lose control or reveal personal secrets, unless you wish to do so.

• A person can't get stuck in a hypnotic trance, it's a natural state that people enter into and exit from all the time, similar to heightened concentration while watching TV.

Hypnosis can be an effective form of therapy to help people make changes in his or her life. Under hypnosis, a person is more prone to positive suggestion and accelerated learning.

Dreaming deeper

The meanings of your dreams 9A

► How to remember, analyze, and better understand the subconscious through dreams

Car troubles, missing teeth, losing a loved one, falling, sinking and being naked in public — these are common topics of people's dreams. Dreams can take the mind on some seemingly random adventures, but under each dream or nightmare lies a deeper message from the subconscious.

Mental health counselor William McDonald believes that every dream that a person can remember is like a knock on the door from deep within the mind and should be given proper attention.

Super Bowl interview with the King

What factor will most affect the outcome of the game?

In a word, coaching. That doesn't make sense. Coaching is definitely important, but at the end of the day it's the players who are on the field. Give me an example.

For starters, typically a team arrives at the stadium for a regular game two hours before kickoff. In the Super Bowl they arrive three hours ahead. A typical NFL game lasts around three hours, but a Super Bowl can run anywhere from four to four-and-a-half hours. Many coaches don't adequately prepare their players. It's like playing two games.

By Foster Childs

Hmmm, that makes sense. Anything else?

Yes. The game experience is really weird, especially in the pregame. Every player has a pre-game routine that they've used throughout the 17 previous games. That routine is useless in the Super Bowl because there are so many celebrities, cameramen, media and officials roaming the sidelines and on the field prior to the game. Not all coaches, and thus players, are prepared for this. All of a sudden a player looks up from an interview and it's game time.

Hmmm, very insightful. Anything else?

Absolutely. The energy in the stadium is different than any other game they've ever played in because the stands are largely filled with fans who aren't partial to either team. Players are accustomed to playing in an environment where they are either cheered or booed rabidly. The lack of hometown energy from the crowd is palpable, and distracting, to the players. This too needs to be addressed by the coaching staff.

Wow, you are good. Anything else?

Of course. Halftime is a huge factor. Both teams have played 17 games that have a halftime break of 12 minutes. In the Super Bowl the halftime is at least 30 minutes. Because adrenaline and emotions are so high, many players crash physically and mentally during the extended halftime. No one recognizes it until a player makes a mental mistake on the field. Many coaches don't address this factor either.

Damn, never thought about that. Anything else?

Certainly. With two full weeks between the last playoff game and the Super Bowl, the temptation to the coaches to keep tinkering with the game plan during the two-week layoff is huge. Many over-think the game and end up tweaking to the point where their game plan is not the same one that got them to the Super Bowl.

Okay, here's the biggie... who do you think is going to win?

My money is literally on the Ravens for the simple reason that while both brothers are excellent coaches, I think John is the better coach. Additionally, Baltimore is getting three-and-a-half points in a game I think will be decided by a field goal. Note: I've lost two of my last three Super Bowl bets.

IN 2014, HHS will report to Obama that owning any firearms is a significant health risk/hazard. You see, he issued an executive order for this study. He will use the results to make insurance premiums to go sky high for any gun owner. Elections have consequences.

LIBERALS AND PROGRESSIVES cannot handle the truth — this is why they bash Fox News and talk radio. Obama wants to silence Fox News and talk radio — just in case the libs wake up and smell the dead roses Obama has planted.

WHEN WILL KING Obama own up to his failed economic policies and stop blaming Bush, Republicans, Super Storm Sandy and the looming defense cuts, which he supports. The list of his scapegoats grows daily.

THE ECONOMY DECLINED in the last quarter of 2012. Why? Because of the reduction in defense. The government's largest jobs program, defense, is targeted unfairly. Solution, look at entitlements, were the real money in government is.

I SEE THE Senate just passed a higher debt ceiling without a limit. Hmm, Obama can spend as much as he wants in the next 90 days. Isn't that exciting. I sure am a happy American to be able to pay more taxes — not.

IS LIBERALISM A mental illness? The Fort Hood killer was a Dem/Muslim. Columbine parents were registered Democrats. The Colorado theater killer was a staff worker for Obama's campaign. The Newtown kindergarten gunman was a registered Democrat. Virginia Tech murderer sent hate mail to Bush II. Are these coincidental?

She has been helping to care for her nieces and nephews a lot lately, especially her sister, Amy O'Rourke's four children, now that their mom is raising them alone. Their father, Patrick O'Rourke, was killed Sept.

Q. What can I do to help reduce the energy use of my appliances?

A. The biggest energy consuming appliance in your home is usually your refrigerator. Keeping the condenser coils under the refrigerator and in the back of the unit will help to increase air flow, and remove the heat from the refrigerant. This will result in shorter run times and reduce energy cost.

The second energy consumer is usually the washing machine. The trick here is to do full loads, and when you don't, select smaller load size on machine. A standard top load washer can use up to 35 gallons of water when super or large load is selected. Conserve and SAVE

Police&Fire report

ATTEMPTED BREAK-IN OF CAR

On Friday, Jan. 25, a Fenton police officer responded to a student parking lot at Fenton High School to investigate a complaint made by a 16-year-old Fenton resident. Police Chief Rick Aro said the student had left his '99

Mercury Sable in the parking lot overnight because of the bad driving conditions. When he returned to the car on Jan. 25, he saw that someone had broken the back window and damaged the side mirrors in an attempt to break in. Police are checking with the school to view surveillance video of that parking lot to identify a suspect.

MEDS STOLEN FROM VAN

At 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 30, a 40-year-old Fenton man filed a larceny from an automobile complaint with Fenton police. The man said his unlocked van was parked at his home in the 800 block of Third Street and between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Jan. 25, someone entered it and stole his GPS, personal check book, credit cards and three bottles of his prescription medication. Police have no suspects.

Anti-bully speaker Keenan West begins his energetic presentation at Lake Fenton High School Thursday afternoon. He is joined by dozens of middle school students who flocked to the stage.

A different anti-bully presentation

►Speaker Keenan West uses music, media, real life to make point

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Lake Fenton — It started with a couple of brave volunteers, who drummed up the courage to dance before the entire student body as speaker Keenan West sang along with dance track “Dynamite” by Taio Cruz.

Then more students rushed the stage to join the party, flooding it in an unplanned show of enthusiasm — for an assembly on bullying.

The auditorium at Lake Fenton High School rumbled, and was more like an all-ages club Thursday afternoon. Lake Fenton Middle School students and staff were bused over to catch what seemed an effective presentation on bullying, by West, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

West used short video clips and relatable scenarios to illustrate the effects of bullying. “This crazy epidemic can stop,” he said. “But it has to stop only because of you guys.” This is a central point to PACER.org, the national organization with which he partners.

He quickly talked about being a tattletale, using the phrase from hip-hop, “don’t be a snitch.” He laid out the difference between reporting wrong doing, and ratting out a fellow accomplice. “It’s OK to speak up and do what’s right,” he said.

This relates to the first of his seven points, “Pay attention,” basically, don’t ignore someone else being bullied. He made it clear that someone who does this is just as guilty as the bully.

While West used examples students understood, they were engaged, listening and shouting out responses.

This is the second time West has spoken to Lake Fenton students, and the strength of his prior presentation brought him back.

Lake Fenton Middle School Principal Daniel Ferguson acknowledged that one assembly will not end bullying in schools.

“Continuing our efforts promoting character education and communicating with our parents as they serve as the greatest role models for all children is the only effective solution,” said Ferguson.

“This crazy epidemic can stop. But it has to stop only because of you guys.”

We all know the relentless and damaging effects of time, but Cindy has a long history of reversing that clock. Getting to know her and the types of treatments she provides can literally shave years off your face.

“My start in this profession and my continuing passion comes from a need and desire to help patients at all levels of skin care. I, myself, had a young adulthood where acne more than just affected my face; it affected who I was. Embracing the medical and cosmetic foundations of dermatology truly changed every part of me and made me stronger”.

Skin care and skin enhancement techniques have advanced as rapidly as any area of medical technology. Cindy’s expertise and years of experience allow her to tailor a specific course of treatment that enhances the total health and wellness of her patients. She states “Helping a patient feel better and more confident psychologically is as much my goal as the physical treatment”.

Cindy offers:

- Facials customized to skin type
- Chemical Peels
- Spider Vein Injections
- Botox Injections*Facial Filler Injections
- Intense Pulse Light Treatments-for skin discoloration and broken capillaries as well as consultation on many other skin services, products and treatments. If you are waging a battle against those things that make you feel self-conscious then Cindy Wagner, R.N. and The Silverton Skin Institute have the tools for a better you.

Cindy began her journey into skin care more than fifteen years ago by working for a Plastic Surgeon in Bloomfield Hills. She then obtained her Aesthetician’s License and Medical Assistant certification. Most recently she received a degree and license as a Registered Nurse. She believes staying up to date with the necessary educational and licensing requirements is paramount. Cindy indicates “Not just the products change and become more complex but also the techniques required to utilize them. Constant training and learning are required as well as working closely with the physicians on staff”.

Getting her most recent degree caused Cindy to take time from her practice. As a “Thank You” to the numerous patients who so kindly waited for her return and to also invite those who would love to see just how much better they can look; The Silverton Skin Institute and Allergan (the manufacturers of Botox, Juvederm and Latisse) are hosting a “Welcome Back” and “Patient Appreciation” event on Wednesday February 13th from 4:00-6:00pm. ### Amendment to state constitution would end public assistance to illegal aliens

On Wednesday, Sen. Joe Hune (22nd District) introduced Senate Joint Resolution K, which would propose an amendment to the Michigan Constitution to prohibit illegal immigrants from receiving public assistance from the state of Michigan. "Michigan is among many states that are being inundated with illegal immigrants," said Hune (R-Hamburg). "The very least we can do is to make sure that these illegals receive no assistance from our state at the expense of our taxpayer dollars." He said state taxpayers spend nearly $1 billion annually for services for illegal immigrants, such as healthcare, education, welfare, jails and human services. Under President Obama's plan, announced in June, illegal aliens up to 30 years old who entered the U.S. as kids (so-called "dreamers") won't get deported but will be granted work permits and a chance at American citizenship. "The federal government has failed Michigan in the ongoing threat posed by illegal immigrants," Hune said. "The president's plan is not strong enough in enforcing reforms to immigration, and it's time we make sure our tax money is spent wisely, on Michiganders." SJR K has been referred to the Senate Committee on Families, Seniors and Human Services.

No dental insurance?

►CareCredit offers payment options to make health care more affordable

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

With about 130 million Americans having no dental insurance, paying for regular dental care can be a challenge, especially for more expensive procedures.

Many local dental offices, in addition to other health providers, offer CareCredit to their patients to help them pay for dental care, whether for preventive treatment or cosmetic and surgical procedures.

What is CareCredit?

It's a credit line for treatments and procedures from health providers for the entire family, even pets through veterinary care. Many health providers for vision, hearing, dental, veterinary, cosmetic treatments or surgery offer CreditCare, to make their treatment plans more affordable for patients.

How does it work?

CareCredit provides an interest-free credit card for purchases and payments made in a 12-month period, and longer, for qualifying patients. Low interest rates are available for qualifying patients with larger expenditures paid over more time. Bills of $1,000 or more are eligible for a 24, 36 or 48 month payment plan and bills of $2,500 or more may be eligible for a 60-month plan. Patients can avoid paying interest by paying the full amount due by the end of the promotional period set by CareCredit. Minimum monthly payments are required.

Who benefits from CreditCare?

"We absolutely use CareCredit with our patients," said Joni Hajek, office manager for Chapin Dental Center in Linden. "More and more people are now getting approved for up to 12 months interest-free."

The health care provider pays the interest on behalf of the client, but most providers feel it is a win-win for their practice. Patients without dental insurance are able to get work done that they otherwise might not be able to afford to do, because they couldn't pay for the treatment at the time it is completed. "It helps us quite a bit," said Dr. Chapin. "I'm more focused on getting the treatment done and getting a patient's dental problem solved. This helps make it affordable for them."

Patricia McGarry, DDS in Linden, agrees that Care-

Credit benefits both the practice and the patient. "CareCredit is very well-used in our office," said McGarry. "Our patients are very happy with the plan, which is why we offer it."

Dr. Steven A. Sulfaro, of Sulfaro Family Dentistry in Holly, uses CareCredit for his patients who don't have dental insurance, and also his own in-house dental plan. "Patients pay an upfront fee that will provide all preventive care for the year, including exams, cleanings, X-rays and fluoride treatment," he said. "Any additional work that is needed, like fillings, we provide at a 20 percent discount. It has been very popular for us. Our patients like to know that there is an affordable plan in place for them."

CareCredit is very well-used in our office. Our patients are very happy with the plan, which is why we offer it."

Patricia McGarry, DDS

What does dental work cost?

• Fillings can cost anywhere from $100 to $300 per area filled. One tooth may require multiple areas to be filled. Fillings are the appropriate treatment for cavities.

• Teeth bleaching is usually around $300. This is designed to make your teeth whiter and is considered cosmetic, so most insurance companies will not pay for this procedure.

• A crown, or a cap that goes over the top of your teeth and essentially becomes the new surface of the tooth, can cost between $700 and $1,200. Crowns can be ceramic, metal mixtures, or solid gold. The price may vary widely depending on which material you use, with a metal mixture normally being the cheapest.

• A dental bridge, which is a set of caps that fit over several teeth, is normally around $2,000 to $3,000, again depending on the material used.

• Simple tooth extractions to remove wisdom teeth, loose or broken teeth that are visible are around $100 to $200 per tooth.

• Surgical tooth extractions, to remove teeth that are not visible above the gum line, such as impacted wisdom teeth, are around $200-$400 per tooth.

What are other payment options?

Not all health providers offer CareCredit, so it is important that people ask their dentist beforehand about this no-interest plan.

Many dentists also offer other options to make treatment plans more affordable for their patients who don't have dental insurance.

"We have a Healthy Smiles Program, which consists of two cleanings, two exams, one set of X-rays and 15 percent off other dental work during the course of a year," said Hajek. "With 12 monthly payments of $30, it allows people to spread payments out for a year. It really helps people without insurance."

Businessman, military hero dies from bone cancer

►Leonard Roche leaves legacy of family, honor and humor

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Leonard Roche, 89, founder of Kan Rock Tire Company, passed away Wednesday, Jan. 30 from complications following a bout with multiple myeloma (bone cancer).

His life ended just as he lived it — surrounded by his loving family at his Fenton home. While he was best known locally as a business owner, the man behind the tire company was most fulfilled in his role as a family man.

After meeting his wife, Helen in Kansas City, Mo., they married in 1951 and raised their family of six children, moving to Fenton from Flint in 1970. As their family grew to include 12 grandchildren and eventually two great-grandchildren, Roche cherished his role as the family patriarch, making every one laugh at his Irish humor.

"He was extremely loving," said his son, Tim, who worked with his father for 33 years at Kan Rock Tire. "He never had to raise his voice to get our attention when we were kids. He just gave us 'the look,' and we knew we were in trouble."

But it was his strong foundation of moral values and honesty that may be Roche's strongest legacy. Tim remembered being just a young boy when he found a ball in a neighboring street and brought it home to play with in his own yard. "When Dad came home from work, he asked me where I had gotten that ball," said Tim. "Then he followed me back to return it to the exact spot where I had picked it up. I've never forgotten that lesson. These moral values set by my dad permeated everyone in his business as well."

Roche never talked about his military service in World War II, but his victories on the battlefield helped pave the way for perseverance in the business world as well. He earned two Purple Hearts in 1945, as well as two Bronze Stars and other awards.

Enlisting in the Army at age 19 with the rank of Sergeant, he arrived in Europe after landing as part of the D-Day Invasion at Normandy. He fought his way across Europe and was at Hitler's Eagle's Nest when the Germans surrendered. Then he was sent to Japan after a military chaplain told him, "Go ahead and get married if you want, but figure on leaving a widow."

The Japanese invasion would have resulted in many more casualties than D-Day, but didn't happen because of the bombings at Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The troops were diverted to the Philippines for cleanup of the remaining Japanese.

While Kan Rock Tire evolved over the years into a large mid-Michigan business with 10 locations, its humble start as an independent service station were a testament to the man behind the scenes. "There were some lean years when Dad made sure everyone else got a paycheck except him," said Tim.

Temrowski Family Funeral Home in Fenton is handling funeral arrangements. Burial will be at Great Lakes National Cemetery, Holly.

Leonard Roche died this week from complications of bone cancer. He and his wife Helen married in 1951 and raised six children.

CRASHES

were transported to nearby hospitals for minor injuries.

"There were very icy roads and a whiteout at the time of the accident," said Gary McNally, battalion chief of the Mundy Township Fire Department. "When we got on scene, we called Fenton City, Fenton Township and Grand Blanc Township (fire departments)."

McNally said the Mundy Township fire department received the call at 12:30 p.m. By approximately 3 p.m., the fire departments had cleaned up the

The exact site of the crash was located between the Baldwin and Thompson Road exits, shutting down that portion of southbound U.S. 23.

"It was miserable," said Volz, who drove through the whiteout conditions. He warned drivers to be "very cognitive of what's in front of you. Be sure to look for brake lights."

Another major crash occurred Thursday morning on southbound I-75 near Detroit, where three people were killed. The Detroit News reported 30 cars were involved in the crash, prompting the need for 20 ambulances.

“The purpose of dreams is healing,” said McDonald, who has had more than 35 years experience in dream exploration and counseling. “Dreams can energize people to take action in their life and give them power over situations they felt they did not have any in.”

McDonald says that when looking for the meaning behind a dream that dream dictionaries can be helpful and for the most part accurate, but a person should look for patterns rather than symbols. McDonald often looks for action and drama patterns in his patients’ dreams to uncover the underlying theme of the dream.

“Often advise my patients to go back into that dream and see if they can fix the bad things that happen,” McDonald said. “For example, if a person dreams about having their teeth fall out, the question is how do we get the teeth back in, literally in the dream and figuratively in that persons life.”

McDonald advises taking control of that dream and analyzing what the dream wants you to do in your life. To dream of having one’s teeth fall out often means that a person fears being considered unattractive or has feelings of embarrassment, loss or no control over their life. A person needs to pay attention to their dreams in order to reverse the patterns of dreams that may disturb them.

“When a person has a reoccurring dream, that means their subconscious is trying to get their attention,” McDonald said. “Most dreams operate on a strictly subconscious level, where we don’t remember them. The ones that come close to the surface are the important ones signaling distress or other messages.”

To remember a dream a person has had, McDonald advises keeping a pen and paper by the bed to record dreams. When waking up from a dream, don’t move; this will cause your mind to come out of the dream and forget it. Instead, try to remember a specific tangible object in the dream and a few words about what

and their meanings

Car Troubles: Often the car represents the body. Being out of control of the car means that a person feels some loss of control in their life.

Missing or faulty teeth: Teeth represent the ability to ‘bite into’ a situation and grab onto something. Feelings of loss, embarrassment and ugliness are associated with this dream.

Being lost or trapped: Being stuck between two decisions or being literally trapped or lost in some other situation in life.

A loved one dying: A fear of losing that person and the idea that some part of you is attached to that person (i.e, a part of you is dead, too).

Falling: Feeling overwhelmed by life and the stress it brings.

Being Chased: This meaning can vary on what a person is being chased by. Take time to analyze the person or thing chasing you and why you may feel threatened by it.

Nudity: Feeling awkward, exposed or vulnerable in life.

Flying or having trouble flying: Flying means to find new levels of happiness in life, while having trouble flying can denote having some one or something hold a person back from freedom.

happened in the dream, and then write them down. This ‘key’ will help unlock the dream later for analyzing.

“There is nothing random about dreams, it is a part of something deeper,” McDonald said. “The subconscious does its job for a reason, whether to bring information to you for healing or to make changes in your waking life.”

Shooting for fun

► Focus is on family, sport and personal protection

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Nick Danhausen is passionate about guns. "I just love seeing the kids shoot, when they hit a good score, it's like running track, they're so excited."

To be clear, he's passionate about sport shooting and what it can do for families, and children. His daughter Erin, 20, who attended Linden Community Schools, is a champion trap shooter. She may have grown up around responsible gun ownership, but statistics always show the difference between what one sees as a piece of sports equipment, and a weapon for inflicting harm.

Between Aurora, Colo., Newtown Conn., and Kern County Calif., shootings and guns have stayed in the news and on the minds of gun reform, and gun rights advocates since December 2012. There were two shootings that week.

While it may be a political hot button issue today, for many families owning and using firearms is a matter of daily life.

On Monday night, a group of adults were shooting at the Fenton Lakes Sportsman's Club in Fenton Township. They shot revolvers in a course that included kneeling, lying prone and shooting left-handed. Stafford Baumgardner carefully filled his speed loaders for his .38 revolver, while chatting with the other members. He shoots "because I don't like to play golf," he said.

He and other members worked carefully within the rules of the range, taking all aspects of safety very seriously. Marcia Lefort also shot on Monday night, and has been for 12 years. She grew up around guns. In her home, "they're everywhere." Guns are a part of her life for the fun, sport and camaraderie. She lives alone, so peace of mind is also important.

On the flip side, the statistics gun control advocates provide are bleak. The Children's Defense Council said in a report that in 2008 and 2009, 5,740 teens were killed by guns, or 55 each week for two years. But in homes like Nick Danhausen, guns are a matter of sport. "My daughter does shoot and she shoots competitively, so I don't see all bad things with guns," he said.

His daughter Erin is a clay shooter. "She's had guns around her whole life and started using around age 12," he said.

Erin belongs to a big hunting and gun family, and was taught early on, never touch the trigger, and never look down the barrel.

"My daughter does shoot and she shoots competitively, so I don't see all bad things with guns."

— Nick Danhausen
Gun owner

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Members of the Fenton Lakes Sportsman's Club in Fenton Township work through a shooting course Monday night, as part of the Police Pistol Combat (PPC) league, which is held several nights a week. The range master in the booth behind them directs the course.

Nick said the guns were kept in carefully locked storage or in his sight constantly while Erin was growing up.

As a sport, Erin shoots clay discs of a slightly larger diameter than a softball — she's good enough to receive a scholarship for half her tuition at Bethel University. She sees the shotgun she uses for competition as a piece of sports equipment, not a weapon. "It's like a baseball bat, you want to be responsible, you have to be aware there's other people around you," she said.

Erin uses the same precautions her father did, with a safe, and locking gun case. At 20, she is familiar with gun laws, especially focused on gun travel laws. "I believe that taught me responsibility," she said.

Brett Selby of Fenton makes his living off firearms, in a way. He is Southgate police officer, and he runs Personal Defense Service, a school for obtaining a Concealed Pistol License (CPL). He either shoots with the local sportsman's club, or even in his backyard.

Almost his entire family shoots as well. His 4-year-old has shot before, along with his 7- and 10-year-olds. His 3-and-a-half-year-old does not shoot, but his wife has a CPL. "We make it a family event," he said of target shooting. "We all have a passion for it."

With the push for gun control, Nick does see a valid argument for a reasonable ban on certain weapons and magazines. What Nick is actually worried about is the slow erosion, the slippery slope to eat away at the rights of responsible gun owners. While discussing his daughter's career and the family aspect of shooting, he never mentioned second amendment rights, or home defense.

For Erin and Nick, guns aren't weapons, they're a mechanism to bring family together, and open up new worlds to the youth. In a big weekend shoot with hundreds of kids firing at targets, and a thousand rounds being fired, he said no one is ever hurt.

This has been the experience of members of the Fenton Lakes Sportsman's Club, as they shoot competitively in a warm, inviting atmosphere.

For their part, Fenton police stay out of the political arguments brewing, and just want common sense. "We just advocate responsible gun ownership," said Lt. Jason Slater of the Fenton Police Department. They strongly advise gun owners to use trigger locks, gun safes and keep them out of reach of children. He said the odds are a thief won't carry away a gun safe. "That's our big thing," he said.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Marcia Lefort scores another member's targets. A light and friendly atmosphere was bolstered by the respect for the guns they used.

Firing sixty rounds — among friends

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Fenton Twp. — ‘You wanna shoot my gun?’ asked Marjorie Hamway with a grin. I was taking shots of her at an advanced shooting league at the Fenton Lakes Sportsman’s Club Monday night.

She was using a .38, and I, Nikon D300s.

I ducked the question, asking with a smile for her full first and last name, why she likes to shoot and how long has she been shooting.

As a reporter and photographer working in a welcoming community, I deflect free things for ethical reasons — the parameters are a little complicated, but can be summed up this way: if it’s fun to do with my subject, it’s probably unethical.

This includes having a drink with the city council, or shooting a subject’s gun. I heard her ask again, ‘you have time to shoot six?’

Sometimes my nit picky ethics are overpowered by friendliness.

I acquiesced. It’s only six rounds, and I like to shoot.

Marjorie fitted me with a holster, and a bracket for speed loaders, and her .357 revolver. ‘I took down a doe with that one,’ she said.

She also meant 60 rounds. We filled 10 speed loaders, and she showed me how to use them.

I was set to take the same Police Pistol Combat (PPC) course as the other league members, with my own targets. I followed the instructions, which included shooting right-handed from 21 feet, and then shooting from several positions at the full 50 feet, including left-handed, on a timed basis with everyone else.

I fumbled enough with the ‘speed’ loaders, dropping the bullets at one point, that the range master had to turn the target back for me after everyone was finished. It was like watching the cross-country race flags be taken up just as I made it past them in college.

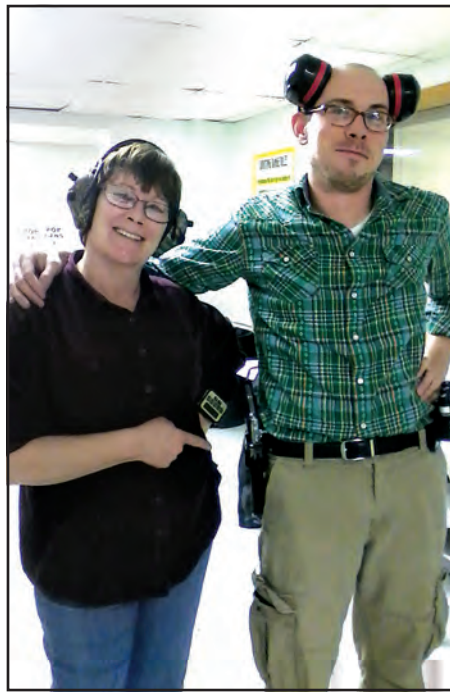

After 60 rounds, I scored a 385 out of 600, and took some light ribbing from the members for hitting a ‘bystander,’ — I missed the target almost completely for a few rounds.

The reasons people like Marjorie and company shoot is for the friends and friendly competition, something to do, and another forum to relate and belong.

They probably shoot for home protection as well, but the conversation before and after their practice seemed just as important as the shooting itself.

I went home, washed the lead off my hands and showed off my lack-luster targets.

Sixty rounds among friends makes it hard to see the darker side of the gun debate, and it still exists, but not for responsible, informed gun owners like many that exist in the tri-county area.

Marjorie Hamway and I before a 60-shot, timed adventure. Marjorie fitted me with a holster and a bracket that holds speed loaders for her .357 Smith and Wesson revolver.

in Grand Blanc. "Once (patients) change, they don't go back to their previous behavior."

One may instantly think of pocket watches swinging like pendulums and patients lying upon a long leather couch, while mumbling gibberish. But a session with today's hypnotherapist does not include any of these clichés.

According to Dr. Tomlinson, certain information is processed in different parts of the brain. Words, for example, are comprehended by the left side of the brain while feelings and pictures are broken down in the right side of the brain. Tomlinson said hypnotherapy crosses between both sides of the brain and thus taps into the subconscious.

"Once people start pretending, they get to the subconscious, and that's where the problems are," said Tomlinson, who works with patients to overcome smoking, weight issues and anxiety. "When you go into your subconscious and you're looking at something over and over again... that is far more efficient than physically doing it."

By tapping into the subconscious, a hypnotherapist can address issues a patient sees repeatedly inside their head. Tomlinson said that once a patient can confront issues in their subconscious, that person can then begin to 'redefine' themselves.

Tomlinson identifies two different categories at a patient's core level of being: the first being "I am" statements and the second being "you are" statements. The first statement deals with how one sees themselves, while the second addresses how one thinks everyone else sees them.

"Trying to change at a superficial level, it is very difficult to change," Tomlinson said. "After hypnosis, people change how they define themselves."

Other issues Tomlinson faces while performing hypnotherapy includes what he calls "defiance issues." Tomlinson addresses these issues by changing a patient's "you are" statements. The hypnotherapist identifies people with defiance issues as those who don't take well to commands and may develop behaviors simply out of rebellion.

"People with defiance issues are suckers for reverse psychology," Tomlinson said. As far as anxiety, or even chronic pain, Tomlinson said he works with patients to redirect their attention to other things in their subconscious. Where one may have panic attacks due to a past accident or feel pain from an old scar, Tomlinson works to replace that image in one's subconscious.

Willing to put hypnosis on the line? Tomlinson, located at 8382 Holly Road in Grand Blanc, said his sessions are two hours long at $100 a week. While $50 per session may seem steep, Tomlinson points out that his sessions cost half of what people usually pay an hour to have their car fixed at a dealership. Plus, with the Journal of Applied Psychology giving hypnotherapy a 94-percent success rate for quitting smoking, those $50 sessions could end up saving you thousands of dollars throughout your lifetime.

Tomlinson requires a minimum of four sessions and, depending on which issues you are addressing, listening to CDs and reading certain texts daily for one month.

"Once we change those neurons in the brain, you don't go back to what you used to do," Tomlinson said.

The Tri-County Times wants to give our readers the chance to show off the trophies they catch this season. If you have a fish worth showing off, snap a photo and bring it in or mail it to the Times office.

Brady James, 8, of Linden caught this 33-inch Northern Pike — his first fish while ice fishing with his dad — on Jan. 26. They were fishing on Lobdell Lake in Argentine Township.

Focus on Vision

By: Dr. Juan Alvarado

Eyes on Learning

School and computer and cell phone use increase the visual demands on your child drastically. There are many visual tools kids need in order to learn effectively.

Multiple visual systems/tools are used in school that can break down and many are not obvious to the parent or teachers. The easy one to spot is poor visual acuity (if the kid can't see the chalkboard, ding-ding-ding...there's a problem).

Other equally or more devastating visual problems that decrease a child's learning potential are visual fatigue and poor eye teaming/visual coordination to name a couple. Both drastically decrease reading (books, computer, chalkboard) and comprehension at all ages.

Insidious medical problems often are present as well that are hard to detect such as mild lazy eye or a small eye turn that only occurs during reading. The latter by the way is extremely hard to detect without an eye doctor specifically looking for it.

With most of these conditions the child is 100% unaware these problems are occurring.

Often I have seen kids that appear to have ADD or Dyslexia who simply need eye exercises or therapeutic lenses which improve concentration and visual organization.

Standard eye exams and screenings are not enough to effectively isolate vision learning problems and that's why we always perform many extra tests and employ very high tech equipment with each and every eye exam we perform.

She is hoping to reach out to others who may need help with child care or tutoring, so that she can maintain her independence. "I absolutely love being around children and being a light to them," she said. "I can babysit or supervise anyone who is 5 and up and tutor anyone who is 3 and up, with reading, writing, spelling, etc."

At home with her parents, Steve and Linda Corry, she has the ability to offer services there, or in a wheelchair-accessible location. With a Linden address, a Howell phone number and Hartland school district, Halle can reach out to families in the Linden, Fenton, Howell and Brighton areas, she says.

Both mother and daughter enjoy a close relationship, working together to help their family through their pain of loss in the last year. "It's getting better every day," said Linda.

Unfortunately, Linda understands all too well from her own experience the pain that her daughter Amy and family have gone through since O'Rourke's

What is cerebral palsy?

Cerebral palsy is one of the most common congenital disorders of childhood, affecting muscle tone, movement and motor skills. CP is usually caused by brain damage that occurs before or during a child's birth, or during the first three to five years of a child's life. About 500,000 children and adults of all ages in the U.S. have the condition. Premature babies, particularly those who weigh less than 3.3 pounds, have a higher risk of CP than full-term babies.

"My dad lost his life as a B52 pilot in 1960," said Linda. "My older sister was 12, my twin and I were 9 and my little brother was 9 months old, just like Stephen was when Pat died."

As winter season nears end, Tri-County Top 5 heats up

► Few changes made in Top 5, but many remain close to sneaking in it

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Not much has changed this week among the top five teams on the Tri-County Top Five.

However, don't look at that as meaning there isn't some challenging going on in the polls. There is, but most of it involves teams trying to get into the poll. There are some quality contenders that are working their darndest to get on to the list.

Perhaps the biggest name not in today's poll is the Fenton varsity boys swimming team. The Tigers remain undefeated in the Flint Metro League after a victory against Holly on Thursday, and recently qualified their first relay team for the state meet. It's going to be hard to hold them back if they continue to post strong results. Fenton girls basketball also remains in the conversation. Trailing the Metro leaders by just one game in the loss column entering Friday night's game with Swartz Creek, the Tigers remain just on the outside looking in.

The upcoming week should be a big one. Of course, the Fenton varsity boys basketball team faced Swartz Creek on Friday. That will be factored in next week. But it's in wrestling where we could see some activity. The league meets were on Saturday and team districts are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday this week. If Holly wants to hold on to its spot, winning a district will be pivotal.

Here's the this week's Top Five:

No. 5 - Holly wrestling: The Bronchos capped the dual portion of the FML season by beating Linden and Fenton on Tuesday, putting them at 8-0 entering the league meet. The Bronchos have gone 24-0 in Metro dual meets over the last three years. Pretty impressive indeed.

No. 4 - Fenton/Linden girls skiing: The co-op squad continues to dominate the competition at Mt. Holly, and will be expected to win the mountain's league title next week. Their biggest key will be what they do when they face competition outside Mt. Holly. It's pretty obvious if Fenton/Linden is on its game, no one can touch them among the teams that compete at Mt. Holly.

No. 3 - Holly girls basketball: The Bronchos are beating the teams they need to defeat as they prepare for the second run through the top teams in the Metro League. That second run starts Tuesday when the Bronchos travel to Clio, the team Holly is tied with for first place in the Metro. Holly beat the Mustangs earlier this season at home. The question remains if they can repeat the feat at Clio High School.

Holly's final run for the league title isn't going to be easy. The Bronchos also face Linden and Fenton on the road the second time around the league. They also have a testy non-league contest against Lake Fenton, later in mid-February.

No. 2 - Holly girls bowling: The Bronchos keep on cruising. After a 29-1 victory against Fenton, Holly has defeated league foes by a combined 153-27. Unfortunately for the Bronchos, Kearsley has done even better. The Feb. 9 matchup between the league's top two teams should be exciting.

No. 1 - Fenton boys basketball: The big game on Friday was Fenton's home game at Swartz Creek. If the Tigers won that game, their spot on the top of this list will only be solidified.

Holly edging closer to third straight league title

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — It hasn't been an easy season for the Holly varsity wrestling team.

They've had wrestlers quit the team, and others move out of the district. Others had grade issues and couldn't continue for those reasons.

And through it all, the team has taken a small beating. The Bronchos remain ranked ninth in the state, but Holly has taken a few extra losses outside the league.

However, there's one thing you can bet on when it comes to the Bronchos. They won't cry about their issues.

And that mentality has served Holly well. In what has felt like a somewhat "down" season for the program, the Bronchos are halfway to their third straight Metro League championship. They earned that step by completing their third straight undefeated dual season in Metro action on Tuesday, defeating Linden 53-24 and Fenton 67-12.

If Holly wins Saturday's Flint Metro League meet, a task that isn't a given, the Bronchos will capture their third straight outright title.

If they finish at least second, they'll assure themselves of at least a co-Metro League title.

It's no secret to the Bronchos why they've done what they've done.

"It's a lot of hard work in the room," Holly senior wrestler Mason Cleaver said. "Every year we have our second-tier guys step up and fill holes we need them to fill. Then we have our freshmen step up — like my little brother Colton Cleaver, Sam Johnson and Keegan Soles — fill holes where we need them to. Everyone is doing their part on the team."

"If people knew what we have gone through this year," Holly coach Don Pluta said. "We've done it with smoke and mirrors. We can sit here, whine and cry about injuries, about kids quitting and moving, but that's not going to get the job done. Nobody cares, so we have to solve the problem."

Actually, Pluta has spun that last phrase as well. He reminds his wrestlers of the movie Apollo 13, the space mission in which an explosion

Holly, Lake Fenton wrestling teams aiming for third straight district crowns

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Holly varsity wrestling team has won three straight team district titles.

The Bronchos would love to make it four.

They'll get a chance to do just that in front of a home crowd on Thursday during a Division 2 team district meet with Brandon, Lapeer West and Goodrich involved in the mix.

Ninth-ranked Holly in Division 2 opens up against the team that has been the Bronchos' biggest challenge in the Metro League this year, the Brandon Blackhaws, in a 5:30 p.m. semifinal. The winner of that match will face the victor of the other semifinal, which also starts at 5:30 p.m., about 15 minutes after the semifinals are completed.

The Bronchos are excited about the proposition of earning their fourth straight district crown.

"We've won three in a row and we want to make it four," Holly coach Don Pluta said. "If we can do that, it would be a nice accomplishment for our kids. It will be tough with Brandon and West there."

Holly's quest for a third straight trip to the team state meet in Battle Creek will be a challenge. If the Bronchos do win on Thursday, chances are they'd be in a team regional at Brandon a week later which fields the top-ranked D2 squad in the state, St. Johns. Barring a major upset, St. Johns should advance to the regional and probably would be the Bronchos' regional title match-up, if the Bronchos win their regional semifinal match.

Fenton will be hosting another team district on Thursday. The Tigers will face

While Eagles rebuild, Coleman experiences solid season

►Linden defeats Fenton, loses to Holly in dual

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — Cliff Coleman wanted to get that 100th win.

It's been a goal of his since eighth-grade, a year before he even was able to join the Linden varsity wrestling team.

And now as a senior, he's not only reached the century mark, but gone well beyond it, making him one of the Eagles' top success stories this wrestling season.

During a year in which the Linden varsity wrestling team has a lot of youth and inexperienced grapplers learning their trade, Coleman is one of the steady veterans on the team. And he looked every bit that part during the Eagles' dual meet with Holly and Fenton Tuesday night, capturing victories in both of his matches.

"I wanted to be Linden's first heavy-weight wrestler to win over 100 matches," Coleman said. "Doing that puts me as one of the best heavyweights in school history."

"It's a big accomplishment I wanted. It's a goal I set in the eighth grade. I told (Linden coach Todd) Skinner and my dad I wanted to get 100 wins, and I'm glad I accomplished that."

Linden defeated Fenton 64-18, but lost to Holly 53-24 during the mat action. However, Coleman collected win No. 119 with a pinfall victory against Holly's Cam Guzdziol and his 120th win with a 10-0 major decision victory against Fenton's Carl Coster. He was the only Linden wrestler to win two matches on the mat on Tuesday night. Now he has his sites set on the state individual state tourney. The senior would love to cap his Eagles career with a few more wins, and spot at the individual state meet.

"I feel confident," Coleman said. "I have some mistakes I have to learn from, but other than that I'm pretty good."

He also feels good about the Eagles' wrestling program. While Linden capped the Metro dual season with just a 3-5 mark, he seems to have a solid understanding where the Eagles are at this time.

"With the young squad we have, I think we are doing great," Coleman said. "We have a bunch of freshmen, sophomores and juniors on the team, and just four seniors. So right now, we are doing good. We have had some improvements."

The Eagles struggled against Holly, but that was to be expected against the two-time defending champions. However, the Eagles did have three other victories against the Bronchos. Luke Zimmerman (112) opened the meet with a pinfall in 5:48, and Linden followed it with another pinfall victory in the night's fourth match, when Austin Golden (130) recorded another pinfall victory. However, Holly won each of the next seven matches, earning the Bronchos the win. Linden's Nick Siou (215) ended that streak with a pinfall win in 1:45, followed by Coleman's (285) pinfall win.

For Fenton, it's been a tough season with numbers and results. The Tigers had just four varsity wrestlers, but did post wins in five of their eight matches on the mat.

Scott Becker (215) was Fenton's sole double-winner, earning two pinfall wins. Meanwhile, Bo Brancheau (152) and Norman Golden (103) each recorded pinfall wins against Linden.

"We are just going out trying to win the majority of the matches we wrestle and we did a nice job with that," Fenton coach Bruce Burwitz said. "We are pretty happy as far as that is concerned. The guys are wrestling pretty well for having limited workout partners. It's hard to get the intensity in the room when you only have eight guys in there, but we do the best we can to simulate matches and keep things going."

DISTRICT

South Lyon East in one of the semifinals, while the Linden Eagles face fifth-ranked Fowlerville in the other semifinal. Both of those matches begin at 5:30 p.m. The winner of those two matches will face off in the finals later that night.

Linden coach Todd Skinner understands his team has a tough mission in the semifinals. His focus is more on Saturday's start of individual districts.

"We are trying to have a strong finish," Skinner said. "We are kind of focused on the individuals because team-wise we still have a couple of forfeits in our lineup. But we have kids that want to work hard, and we have a lot of underclassmen so we are excited about that."

The Tigers are going to have trouble trying to advance considering their limited team size. They also are focusing on individual districts.

Lake Fenton also is hosting a team district, but its D3 team tourney will be Wednesday. It will only have two teams due to two squads opting out of the tourney. That means the Blue Devils will be going for their third straight district crown against Durand.

Of course, two seasons ago the Blue Devils advanced to the Division 3 state championship match, losing to Richmond in the finals 33-22. It was current Lake Fenton varsity head coach Vance Corcoran's first year as the mentor.

"I think our chances are pretty good at winning this year as well," Corcoran said. "We beat Durand earlier this season like 62-12."

Tooley's intensity sparks Holly's 68-46 win

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Lance Baylis isn't too keen on phrases like "play hard" or "play with intensity."

So instead, the Holly varsity boys basketball coach just tells his team to play like freshman Adam Tooley plays.

It worked Tuesday night.

After a slow start, Tooley's work ethic helped take over the game as he led the Bronchos to a 68-46 Metro League victory against Lapeer East.

"Ambiguous words like 'play hard' and play with intensity' are not defined enough," Baylis said.

"So in the locker room I said 'Play like Tooley plays.' They understand what that means. It's all about using terminology the players can understand. When you say 'Play like Tooley,' everyone knows what that is."

Tooley came off the bench to score a season-high 10 points, provide five steals and four rebounds. His numbers played a large role in sparking the Bronchos' victory.

"Adam Tooley sets the tone," Baylis said. "This guy plays as hard as anyone I've had in eight years."

The Bronchos (7-4, 8-5) were playing their second straight game in which it was played after school was cancelled earlier in the day. On Friday at Swartz Creek, the result was a 15-0 deficit early and an eventual loss. On Monday, the Bronchos started slow again, trailing 7-2 early in the first quarter. However, this time Baylis was prepared.

"It was the second game in a row we played a game at night we didn't have school and that's a recipe for disaster," Baylis said.

"It disrupts your normal routine. You don't know what your players are doing at home.

"I was ready for that and I made wholesale substitutions two minutes into the game. It was like a hockey change. As soon as the guys saw that they woke up because they knew if they didn't wake up soon they wouldn't be on the floor. The intensity kept increasing, increasing and increasing."

Before the first quarter was over, the Bronchos had cut the East lead to just 11-8. Holly took the lead for good in the second quarter, by outscoring East 16-7, giving Holly a 24-18 lead at the break.

Holly's leading scorer Kyle Woodruff set the tone to start the third quarter. He had two three-pointers to start the quarter, eventually helping the Bronchos establish a 36-22 lead.

East was able to cut the gap to 40-35 late in the third, but the Bronchos scored the final four points in the third quarter and led 44-35 entering the final period. The Bronchos cruised from there, scoring 24 fourth-quarter points, en route to the blowout home win.

Woodruff led all scorers with 17 points, while Joshua Simms provided 11 points. All 11 Holly players that played, scored at least one field goal.

The Bronchos (7-4, 8-5) now prepare to play mostly at home during the final seven games of the season.

"We are ahead of schedule," Baylis said.

"Five of our last seven games are at home, and we have a chance to end up with a much better than expected season.

"With (Isaac) Casillas out, we don't return one player that averaged two points a game last year. We are doing this basically from scratch. We have a good chance to finish third and exceed our expectations."

made it seem getting the astronauts home would be nearly impossible. In one scene, Pluta has adopted a phrase.

"(Ed) Harris is in the control center and he's saying 'Work the problem people, work the problem.' And that's what we've been trying to do all year," Pluta said.

The Bronchos didn't have too many problems on Tuesday. Against Fenton, there were only four matches which took place on the mat, meaning the victory was assured before the start of the match. Colton Cleaver (103) won a 4-0 decision, while Kyle Pepper (152) captured an 8-0 major decision win.

The Linden Eagles put up more of a fight, but the Bronchos had a stretch in the middle of the match in which their wrestlers won seven straight matches.

Before the string, the Eagles actually led 12-9, but Cleaver (135), Jesse Torres (140) and Anthony Gonzales (145) responded with first-round pinfall wins. Kyle Pepper (152) won by tech fall 17-2, and Andrew Scott (160) followed that win with a pinfall win in 57 seconds. Vincent Bianchi (171) won by forfeit, while Johnny Williams (189) earned a tight 5-4 decision.

Other victors for Holly were Colton Cleaver (103) by forfeit, and Jacob Palleson (119) by pinfall.

Pluta said the Bronchos have reason to be proud of their accomplishments.

"We're going for three in a row," Pluta said. "The last three years we are 24-0 in Metro League dual meets. That's a nice accomplishment for the kids."

"(Going 8-0 in the) Flint Metro League is sweet," Mason Cleaver said. "My freshman year we had Oxford (in the league) but they got out and now it's fun being on top of the league three years in a row. We are making a name for ourselves. Plus, we've gone to states the last two years too."

Winning the league meet won't be easy on Saturday. Brandon is a strong competitor, and there are many other teams with strong individuals.

"We're confident, but we know we are going to get a push from Brandon, Lapeer West and Kearsley," Pluta said. "There are other schools with good kids.

"We know there is going to be some tough competition. We'll see how it goes."

that under the National Cemetery Act of 1973, Mina was not allowed to be buried at the cemetery alongside other veterans.

"When I called on it, I kind of got snickered at. I think the gentleman I called thought I was joking," Etlinger said. "I was offended, being a military mom for eight years."

Mina was a military working dog (MWD) who was adopted by Etlinger's son Army Sgt. Corey McCourt, who is currently deployed in Afghanistan. As Mina's last handler, Sgt. McCourt jumped on the chance to adopt Mina and make sure the last years of his life would be his best.

When Etlinger inquired further as to why Mina could not be buried in a national cemetery, Etlinger said representatives with the Federal government told her MWDs were viewed as equipment, not soldiers.

"They have ranks. They have serial numbers tattooed in their ears," said Etlinger's husband Robin. "They're just like soldiers and they have a right to be honored as a soldier."

Veteran's Affairs Spokesperson Josephine Schuda said that given the current law, there is no way workers with the Federal government nor officials at GLNC can allow Mina to be buried at the national cemetery.

"Military dogs do honorable work but the National Cemetery Administration is not permitted to bury animals there," Schuda said in a telephone interview from Washington D.C. "There are no provisions for animals. We understand how service members would like to include their dog comrades but this is outside our scope."

Summary

►Mina, a military working dog who served nine tours in Afghanistan and rose to the rank of sergeant, is not allowed to be buried at Great Lakes National Cemetery in Holly Township. The prohibition is due to a Federal law that prevents animals from being buried in national cemeteries.

When asked about MWD's being viewed as equipment, Schuda said, "I can't believe that, I've never heard of that. Sounds like someone made that up."

GLNC Foreman John Shilling said that while the cemetery is proud of MWDs, they cannot make exceptions for Mina.

An Honorable burial

While service dogs are not permitted to be buried in national cemeteries, there are places where MWDs are honored and buried. Phil Weitlauf is the director of the Michigan War Dog Memorial in South Lyon, an organization comprised of military veterans who operate a cemetery specifically for service dogs. In addition to dogs who have served in the military, Weitlauf said the cemetery honors all dogs that have served including police dogs, seeing-eye dogs and border patrol dogs.

Weitlauf said the current status of MWDs can make things complicated, especially when it comes to burials and recognition.

"The main reason that MWDs cannot be recognized for any heroic action or cannot receive any military recognition is because they're viewed as equipment," Weitlauf said.

Weitlauf plans to have a funeral for Mina in the spring, once Sgt. McCourt is back from deployment and can attend the funeral. Although Mina is scheduled to have what Weitlauf calls 'full blown' military honors – including a full color guard, a flag line up, a military chaplain and the playing of Taps – Weitlauf said his organization has to be careful when honoring Mina.

"This is an interesting thing. What line do you cross from a dog to a human?" Weitlauf said. "This can open a lot of controversy. You would do a flag folding for a soldier, but would you do it for a war dog hero? Probably not."

Weitlauf said Mina's funeral is currently scheduled to be close to a human veteran's funeral.

And, while funerals can be quite expensive, the Etlingers don't have to worry about covering any fees for Mina. Mike Zehnder of the Oakland County Medical Examiner's Office has offered his services to the Etlingers, free of charge. During his service in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Vietnam Conflict, Zehnder said he worked alongside MWDs and admired them greatly.

"This dog is a hero. Mina was on nine bomb-sniffing missions and nobody was ever hurt," Zehnder said. "His performance was obviously exceptional."

Zehnder said Mina will be cremated with a U.S. flag. Zehnder is also picking up the cost of the headstone.

"It's a well deserved ending for a war hero," Zehnder said.

As far as having the classification of MWDs having their status changed from equipment to soldier, the Etlingers and Weitlauf have been contacting politicians to see if future MWDs can be buried in national cemeteries. Weitlauf said Mina's burial, and burials for other service dogs, are open to the public.

"Right now, our group is doing what our government can't or won't do," Weitlauf said.

CAMERAMAN

had to stand and would block somebody. ... We were in the aisle, there was a long-distance play and we were blocking the end of the play. And never in my life have I seen or heard a priest say 'Get the (expletive) out of my way. I paid for these tickets.'"

That can be one of the hardships of spending your career as a sports cameraman for the National Broadcasting Company (NBC). Harbaugh, who shares a distant family relationship with the Harbaughs coaching in Sunday's Super Bowl XLVII, covered about five Super Bowls as a handheld cameraman during the '70s and '80s as one of NBC's primary camera crews during the era.

"It was just fun being there," Harbaugh said. "It's a thrill being there, knowing millions of people would love to be there. And while you are there, you get more of a 360-degree perspective — the sights and the sounds you don't get on television. It was a wonderful experience."

Working for NBC, Harbaugh, 73, also worked at many World Series, many golf tournaments and even the Olympics. He started as an assistant to the cameraman. Later in his career, he was the man looking through the bulky camera lens. What he saw was what the sports fans experienced from their television sets. His work has won four Emmys, including two national Emmys. One was for the 1978 World Series, a championship won by the New York Yankees against the Los Angeles Dodgers. The other was for Super Bowl XIII, a 35-31 victory for the Pittsburgh Steelers against the Dallas Cowboys.

Evolution to becoming a sports cameraman

Harbaugh was born in Pennsylvania, a farm child. He remembers watching NBC News' Chet Huntley and David Brinkley.

"I thought it was so fascinating. Here I was in Pennsylvania and I'm watching a guy from New York talking to a guy in Washington," Harbaugh said. "And then the man in Washington said 'Let's go back to our man on the street.' ... I thought it was the most fascinating thing in the world — four people in different parts of the country and I was seeing them instantaneously. At that point I had no desire to be a farmer."

After spending some time in the Army he moved to California. Harbaugh went to television radio school and eventually got some work with NBC in 1969 working with video tape. One day, in the early 1970s Harbaugh was asked if he wanted to work with another cameraman, Bob Keys, carrying his backpack, covering the Dean Martin Tucson Open, a PGA golf event. Running a camera was a two-man job.

“You really don’t know what’s going on. If you are doing your job, you are not aware of the game itself. You are responsible for your area, and to get the shot, whatever that shot may be. You get to enjoy the game after it.”

Rodger Harbaugh

Ex-NBC sports cameraman explaining how much he was able to enjoy the events while doing his job. He worked sporting events like the Super Bowl and the World Series.

"He told me I needed someone I could depend on to carry this backpack for me," Harbaugh said. "NBC did a lot of golf back in those days. ... He asked me 'Do I want to do it?' and I said 'Sure.' I went to Tucson and it was beautiful. I thought, 'This is it. I like this sports thing.'"

The event sparked a working relationship between Harbaugh and Keys. As Keys' assistant, Harbaugh had to carry cumbersome equipment that was connected to the cameraman's equipment by a 20-foot cable. It was the assistant's job to keep up with the cameraman and to make sure the action captured was being received by a receiving tower. It took teamwork to get the job done.

A few years later, Harbaugh got his chance to be the cameraman. Harbaugh's first event was the Tucson Open. "I remember it very well," Harbaugh said.

He also remembered it being challenging because he spent most of the tournament fighting through the crowds, making it tough to keep up with the golfers. He later learned it was a rookie mistake when he talked to fellow NBC cameraman and friend Cory Leible while eating.

"He told me, 'Rodger you are the cameraman. You walk on the side like the golfers do.' I was quite embarrassed."

A career as a sports cameraman

Harbaugh bounced back from that slight embarrassment to have an outstanding career as a cameraman with NBC. His long-time assistant was Tom Forletta. They frequently worked football games, golf meets and baseball games. And he got to know some of the athletes.

"(Pro Football Hall of Famer) George Blanda would sit toward the end of the bench on his helmet and look around. I'd be there and we'd make idle chit-chat," Harbaugh said. "I'd have idle chit-chat with Terry (Bradshaw)."

Harbaugh remembered one time when he was asked to take a stand-alone shot of Bradshaw.

About Rodger Harbaugh

The Harbaugh name

Yes, Rodger Harbaugh is related to the two Super Bowl head coaches, Baltimore's John Harbaugh and San Francisco's Jim Harbaugh, but they are distant relatives. Rodger used to talk to the brothers' dad, Jack, on the phone in the past, but he's only talked to Jim Harbaugh once while on assignment during a football game.

Media credential buttons

During his career, Harbaugh collected some of the media press passes he received during his career with NBC. Included on his board are credentials to Super Bowl XI, the 1974 World Series, the 50th All-Star Game and many golf tournaments. It's only a sample of some of the events he covered. "I didn't save all of them," Harbaugh said. "I wish I did."

Survivor

Harbaugh also did camera work with many of the reunion shows during seasons with the hit reality game show Survivor. Among those that he remembers working were Pearl Island, Australia, Thailand, Africa and Guatemala.

There was no etiquette, just get to where you are going, push and shove and get the shot.

"In golf everything has to be silent, but as I got older that's what I enjoyed about golf. I am tired of people screaming or shouting."

Harbaugh loved his career. "I'm one of the luckiest people on the face of the Earth," Harbaugh said. "It's amazing some of the people I've seen and the places I've gone. I had a wonderful, wonderful career."

contact numbers for any of our four school districts, to acreage and depths of our area's 47 lakes is included, along with every area business, listed both by category, and alphabetically.

It is a valuable source of information — right at your fingertips — whether at home or at work. Putting together the award-winning reference book is a yearlong effort by members of the Times' staff.

"People who see it for the first time are always amazed at the wealth of information it contains," said Gail Grove, advertising director for the Times. "Every year, we add new content. You can order a pizza, look up where your seats are at any of the Detroit sports stadiums, find a plumber, or make a camping reservation at a state park in the UP. It's got it all."

The Source Book doesn't contain just businesses and information, it also includes valuable coupons for services in the tri-county area. These money-saving coupons are located near the front of the book and are good for the entire year.

Are you looking to order lunch on the go? Menus at many of the tri-county restaurants are also included in the book.

"I love my Source Book," said Christy Sutherland, of Argentine Township. "I use mine all of the time. Everything you need in our area is right there. I even keep one in my car for quick reference numbers. The menus and restaurant listings make ordering lunch a breeze."

A complimentary copy of the 2013 Source Book is delivered to all Tri-County Times subscribers.

Additional copies are available at the Times corporate office at 256 Fenway Dr., for just $3. The office is open Monday through Thursday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday.

Meet Jackie Campbell

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If you want to hear Jackie Campbell's opinion, all you have to do is ask. Having served as a council member for two years, she said that she is sometimes seen as the rebel of the Holly Village Council because she will always share her thoughts, and takes pride in standing up for what she believes in.

What is your view on your job as a council member? Everybody knows but I am very black and white. I am very much believing in our oath of office. We are to represent and be the voice of the people, but we are also here to uphold the law. Too many people have tried to in the past, have voted on an issue based on their own personal feelings, and we are not supposed to. We are supposed to vote based on facts and the guidelines of the law. We've got legislative body all the way up into Washington that thinks they are above the law, but they're not. We are held in a higher standard because we are supposed to set the example of the law. The law is there for everyone.

Why did you first decide to run to become a council member? I really wanted to make a change and a difference. I felt as though I wasn't being represented correctly, and I wanted more for our town. I wanted us to get back into the accordance of the law. We needed change, and we needed people to understand the law, our charter, and to let the people speak and be heard.

Do you think you have managed to help bring about the change you wanted? We have come a long way in the past two years. We have come a long, long way. We brought back more law and order; sometimes it's not a popular decision. It doesn't matter how we feel, we must uphold the law. There are a lot of things we have accomplished. We inherited some very poor issues with our past manager and litigation issues. For myself, I started the program for the American flags, and my goal is to hit every main street with an American flag to show our patriotism and especially with the national cemetery. I fought hard to follow our charter and to clean up stuff. It's not just me though, it's been our manager and the council and the whole administration. We have cleaned up a lot of crap and a lot of lies. I have to commend every one of our staff members, including our city manager, for going the extra miles — not mile, miles, plural, and giving a thousand and one percent to listen to the citizens, their respect and high morals.

Do you have a favorite part of Holly? Absolutely. That's the people that live here. The people that volunteer because they care about this community, there are even a lot of young people that care and get involved. I have seen the very best of Holly growing up, and I have seen its very worst. I myself would like to see the very best again.

I have been told you used to work in the medical field, has that experience helped your work as a council member? Yes it has. I was in the medical field and in nursing, until I was involved in a really bad automobile accident and I couldn't work the floor any more, and then I went back to school to become a medical biller and I'm now retired. I was able to reach out to indignant people and seniors who couldn't or didn't understand their insurance and how it worked, especially if they were part of an HMO. I would help them, and get them their medication.

How do you stay in touch with the people you represent? I have an open door policy here at

ASK THE MECHANIC

Chris Wilkinson,
Certified Mechanic

Q: I have a 2002 Dodge Dakota 4X4. When driving straight and/or turning right I hear a rumbling/growling noise. The noise goes away when turning left. It sounds like it is coming from the front end and more on the right side, I think. What could this be?

A: Jeff, this is most likely a bad wheel bearing causing this noise. You will need to jack up the front wheels. Check for any movement in the wheel by trying to move it in at the top and out at the bottom, going back and forth. Sometimes we have to run the vehicle on the hoist and listen with a stethoscope to pinpoint the exact cause when there is no obvious play in the wheel bearing. They can be tricky as far as sounding like a right side when it is actually the left or vice versa. That is why we double check them with the stethoscope.

What women want... for Valentine's Day

Massage? Flowers?
Jewelry? Candy?

Romantic date night tops list of best gifts

By SallyRummel • news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

You can't buy love, but that doesn't stop millions of Americans from expressing their affection for each other on Valentine's Day — coming up on Thursday, Feb. 14.

Candy, flowers, cards, jewelry, dining out, clothing and gift cards are a few of the most popular, traditional ways to observe this romantic holiday.

But how closely does Cupid's arrow really hit the mark when it comes to getting women what they want for Valentine's Day?

According to Money Talk News, a romantic date is actually at the top of the list for most women.

That date may include a dinner out, candy, flowers or any other of the traditional gifts thought

How to celebrate many Valentine's Days 'happily ever after'

ADVICE FROM COUPLES WHO HAVE SPLIT

- Expand conversations beyond the talk that is about the business of the household. Talk about your goals and dreams together, and have conversations about things you both enjoy, such as books, movies, current events.
- Express your love daily through simple gestures and do small things that make life easier for your spouse, without being asked.
- Talk openly about finances — the number one conflict in marriage. Think about what money means and represents to each of you, start with painless money conversations, then begin to find common ground with your spouse about family spending rules and limits.
- Don't play the 'blame game' for a marriage's problems. Try to blame the relationship or circumstances, rather than your spouse, when feelings escalate to anger. Say something like, "We're both really tired right now ..." People who continually blame the other person are more likely to struggle in future relationships, too.
- Don't let boredom get the best of your relationship. Add a new shared activity, add mystery and surprise and add adrenaline to your relationship to rekindle your passion, excitement and interest in each other.

HURLEY has HEART

"I just want everyone to know that I wouldn't be here without Hurley. They saved my life."

– Maxine Sissons, Cardiac Survivor

Maxine Sissons is beating the odds. The 74-year-old mother and grandmother is beating the odds, all because of Hurley Medical Center. On December 2, 2010, the Swartz Creek resident had sweating, nausea and chest pain. Sissons was rushed to Hurley Medical Center. She suffered a massive heart attack, went into cardiac arrest multiple times, and required three stents to repair her heart in a life-saving surgery at Hurley.

Today, Sissons says every day is a gift. "I am so grateful to be here with my family and helping educate women about heart health. I wouldn't be here without the clinically excellent and compassionate care at Hurley," says Sissons. Heart attacks are the number one killers of women. Sissons says, "I want women to know the warning signs because I didn't. If women become educated, they won't become a statistic like I almost did."

"Maxine's situation was life or death when she arrived at Hurley. We found she had 100 percent blockage in one artery and 99 percent in the other. If we didn't use stents to open the arteries, she wouldn't be here right now. Maxine suffered no neurological or long-standing effects from her hospitalization, and today she is enjoying a full and happy life. It's really a miracle that Maxine is here," says M. Luay Alkotob, MD, FACC, FSCAI, Hurley Cardiologist.

Sissons adds, "I will always remember the wonderful care I received. I just want everyone to know that I wouldn't be here without Hurley. They saved my life."

VALENTINE'S DAY

of for Valentine's Day. The important part of the evening is the time spent together, apart from life's many other stresses.

"I'd like a dinner out with my husband, alone," said Janet Beilharz of Fenton. "A massage would be nice, too."

Carrie Bard-Denike of Fenton also said she'd like a couple's day out, a massage and a movie. She just gave birth to their fourth son on Jan. 30. "I'd love a night out just with my husband — no kids!" she said.

Couples can reap the benefits from a date night out at any time, especially when it's on a weekly basis, according to the National Marriage Project. Couples who "date" are more likely to enjoy a high quality relationship and lower divorce rates.

While a date night is a top Valentine's Day option, many women also enjoy other thoughtful gifts that they wouldn't buy for themselves — from spa gift certificates to jewelry.

In fact, jewelry, romance and Valentine's Day are very compatible, as this holiday is one of the top two days of the year for proposals, second only to Christmas. About 220,000 proposals will take place on Valentine's Day this year, about 10 percent of the year's total, according to valentinesday.org.

"It's actually my biggest day of the year for engagement rings to be ready," said Chip Beltnick of Sawyer Jewelers. Engagements or not, Valentine's Day is still a big day for jewelry, comprising 19 percent of holiday purchases. "Pandora heart beads are very popular, along with heart necklaces," said Marie Marsh, assistant manager at Medawar Jewelers in Fenton.

With eight billion sweetheart conversation candy hearts sold every year between Jan. 1 and Feb. 14, candy is a big seller for Valentine's Day. In fact, about half of all Valentine's Day gifts are a gift of candy. "It's our third biggest holiday, after Easter and Christmas," said Carol Schuler of Sweet Variations in Fenton. "Women tend to get truffles and chocolate covered cherries, while men are often given the nut, caramel and toffee 'tiger paws.'"

For people who want to give and receive flowers for Valentine's Day, red roses remain the "language of love" for this romantic holiday. But roses don't have to be arranged in a traditional style. "We're styling our roses in European fashion," said Jon Gerych, of Gerych's in Fenton. "French Pavé style, with clumps of bountiful blossoms, is especially popular this year."

But roses aren't the only flower that is desired for Valentine's Day.

"I want an orchid for Valentine's Day," said Gina Korpela of Fenton. "Orchids are beautiful and unique and they live longer than roses. They also symbolize 'love, wealth and attraction.' Roses are cliché, everyone gives and gets roses. Simple but beautiful, that's just my preference."

Unsinkable people in unthinkable storms

News of a triple tragedy in the lives of longtime friends sent me to the telephone to assure them of our concern and prayers. Their daughter, Carol, had died, the victim of a brain aneurism, a son-in-law had suffered a serious head injury in an automobile accident that required him to be placed in a nursing home and a newborn grandchild had undergone surgery for a malignant brain tumor. All of these unthinkable trials followed the death of another much-loved son-in-law only a year earlier at the end of a courageous but losing battle with cancer.

My call found these wounded ones incredibly positive, choosing to give thanks for God's love rather than focusing on their losses. Their grief was real. But so was their confidence in the Comforter. Even their expressions of concern over the condition of the injured son-in-law and the newborn having to undergo brain surgery were tempered by faith. Nor was there evidence of anger at God. During this trying time, they had found the One they trust sufficient for every emotional and spiritual need.

Through centuries of trials and persecutions, believers have discovered their Lord to always be up to the occasion. The apostle, Paul, no stranger to sufferings himself, wrote: 'We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken, cast down but not destroyed' (2 Corinthians 4:8-9).

What encouraging words for all who are passing through storms!

Most of us have known people who were serene when everything seemed to be crashing down around them. In the most trying of circumstances, they have remained trusting and unshaken. Those going to comfort them often come away comforted. They have been living examples of the peace of God, no matter the circumstances.

When preparing His disciples for the most severe trial of their lives, our Lord told them there was no need to have troubled hearts: 'You believe in God, believe also in Me,' He said (John 14:1). His advice must have seemed impossible to put into practice at the time, but after the unthinkable had happened at the cross, these people of faith recovered from their despair and set out to spread the message of God's love as they had been instructed to do. We're still benefiting from their obedient efforts and the unexplainable strength they found at the time of their greatest weakness, the time when their hearts were so troubled they would have found it easy to give up.

In his widely read book, 'Secrets of the Spirit,' Ray Stedman says at a time when he was experiencing deep distress he thought of the words given to the disciples by their departing Lord and they took on new significance. He discovered the way to find comfort when unthinkable things happen is to 'believe in God, who is still in control, who knows what He is doing, who is capable of exercising infinite wisdom, infinite power, and infinite love.'

How do you react when trouble comes? Do you become pessimistic? Depressed? Angry with God? Unpleasant to be around because you lash out at others?

Trust God to bring you safely through these tough times.

You'll be unsinkable, even during unthinkable storms.

February is National Children's Dental Health Month

Local dentists provide care, education for kids and families

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Dr. Jeremy Grove doesn't usually have many openings at his busy Linden dental practice on Fridays, but he set aside the entire day on Friday, Feb. 1 for very special appointments — young children who wouldn't normally have access to dental care.

As part of the "Give Kids a Smile" campaign during National Children's Dental Health Month, Dr. Grove and his staff provided exams, cleanings and any other dental work that needed to be done for these kids, many of whom haven't had regular dental care. "It's our way of giving back to the community," said Suzanne Puffpaff, office administrator.

This is a program Dr. Grove has been providing for the three years he has had his practice, and it had been a long-time tradition for Grove's predecessor, Dr. McEwen. "We also give out educational materials throughout February, as part of National Children's Dental Health Month," said Puffpaff.

This year, it is expected that more than 15,000 kids throughout the state will receive free oral health screenings, dental treatment and oral health education as part of the Give Kids a Smile campaign in Michigan. More than 300 members of the Michigan Dental Association, along with hygienists, dental assistants and volunteers will participate this year.

Dr. Susan Thomas, from Dr. Bo Shumaker's practice in Fenton, volunteers at a dental office in Roseville that is providing care through Give Kids a Smile. "I've also volunteered in the past at dental schools at University of Michigan and University of Detroit-Mercy," said Thomas.

National Children's Dental Health Month was first held as a single-day observance on Feb. 8, 1949. It became a week-long event in 1955, and was extended to a month-long celebration as it is known today in 1981.

"Oral health is such an important part of a child's overall good health, and yet it can be overlooked in young children," said Michigan Dental Association President Gary Jeffers. "Good oral health habits should begin with an introductory dental visit before a child's first birthday. Children's teeth are meant to last a lifetime, and with proper care, a healthy diet and regular dental visits, children can have a healthy and happy smile."

'Snack smart' to protect your teeth

►Parents can help guide children to choose snacks and snack times for better oral health

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

It's not just about what you snack on, but when you snack on it that can cause problems for healthy teeth. Many snacks contain sugar, which can cause a physiological chain of events inside the mouth that promotes tooth decay.

How does sugar attack your teeth?

Invisible germs called bacteria live in your mouth all the time. Some of these bacteria form a sticky material called plaque on the surface of the teeth. When you put sugar in your mouth, the bacteria in the plaque gobble up the sugar and turn it into acids. These acids are powerful enough to dissolve the hard enamel that covers the teeth. This is how cavities get started.

"Too much of anything is bad," said Dr. Steven Sulfaro of Sulfaro Family Dentistry in Holly. "Parents have to help guide their children and monitor their eating habits."

If you don't eat much sugar, the bacteria can't produce as much of the acid that eats away a tooth's enamel.

Before munching on a snack, ask yourself:

Is this snack loaded with sugar? If so, there may be a better snack choice that will satisfy your hunger.

Is it a gooey or chewy sweet? These textures spend more time sticking to the surface of your teeth than a hard candy. Because they stay in your mouth longer than foods you quickly chew and swallow, they "bathe" the teeth longer in sugar.

When you're deciding about snacks, think about:

The number of times a day you eat sugary snacks. If you snack after school, before bed or at other times during the day, choose something without a lot of sugar or fat.

If you eat sweets, eat them as a dessert after a main meal rather than several times a day between meals.

► There are pros and cons to each type of orthodontic treatment

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

At age 55, Robin Ham of Fenton Township is a typical candidate for Invisalign orthodontic treatment.

As an adult, she's more comfortable aesthetically with the clear plastic mouth guard-type appliance that barely shows while it does its work. Her orthodontic treatment plan from Patricia McGarry, D.D.S. is less extensive than that of some others, which may have required the stronger force of traditional metal braces.

Comfort

Comfort is one of the considerations patients must decide when choosing an orthodontic option. Invisalign's clear aligners are smooth, causing little or no irritation to surrounding gums or the inside of the mouth.

“It hasn't been uncomfortable at all.”

— Robin Ham
Invisalign patient at Dr. Patricia McGarry's office in Linden

“It hasn't been uncomfortable at all,” said Ham, who has been wearing Invisalign for almost a month. “I haven't had any pain, although it's inconvenient to take out the appliance in order to eat, brush and floss.”

For optimum results, Invisalign patients are required to wear the appliance for 22 hours a day, taking it out only to eat and maintain oral hygiene. “With the appliance in, I can't have anything to drink that has color,” said Ham. “In other words, no coffee, tea, pop, juice, etc. Just water and clear liquids. When the appliance is removed, there are no restrictions on eating or drinking.”

Clean

The ability to remove the appliance is actually one of the main advantages of Invisalign. It is easier to keep to a regular oral hygiene regimen of brushing and flossing. Since the aligners are removed before eating or drinking, less food gets stuck between teeth, avoiding potential dental issues.

Commitment

There are fewer office visits required with Invisalign. With each visit, Ham has been provided with two sets of aligners, to change at home once every two weeks. “I go back to Dr. McGarry's office every four weeks for a progress check on how the process is going,” said Ham.

Cost

Invisalign is typically pricier than traditional metal braces, but not by much. Experts estimate that Invisalign treatment costs about $500 more than metal braces for a 12-month treatment plan.

Carriers

Many offices do carry the Invisalign system of braces. For more specific information, contact your own dentist or orthodontist, or visit invisalign.com

Invisalign vs. traditional braces

PROS:

- Invisible tooth straightening
- Ability to maintain oral health by removing aligners
- Pain-free
- Can help preserve and maintain cosmetic and restorative dental procedures

CONS:

- May not be appropriate for serious orthodontic cases
- May take longer to achieve same effects as braces
- Because they are easily removable, patients may choose to wear, or not wear, the aligners for the optimum amount of time

Traditional braces

PROS:

- More affordable
- More control by dentist that treatment plan is being followed because they are not removable

CONS:

- Pain, mouth discomfort
- Tooth decay from inadequate brushing and flossing
- Tooth discoloration
- Tooth/bracket breakage
- Difficulty eating
- Not as aesthetically pleasing

Best of both worlds?

Even when Invisalign isn't recommended as the appropriate first course of action, dentists often find the aligner treatment useful in the completion or maintenance of a cosmetic or restorative process.

Smile

► It can change your life and that of others

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

There's a reason that a smile is said to be a universal language of goodwill and kindness. A winning smile can make peace, be flirtatious, welcome in a stranger, help one move up the corporate ladder and win the trust of a child.

Because a smile is in a very central, noticeable part of one's face, it becomes a key source of non-verbal communication. A smile conveys a powerful range of emotions — from acceptance and confidence, to greeting and happiness. Many experts say that a smile, or lack of one, can make a significant difference in a person's professional and personal life.

Simply said, it's hard to dislike someone who smiles at you. A smile sets up a reciprocal reaction. Recipients almost always smile back.

Benefits of a smile:

- You appear friendly and confident.
- It raises your own mood and that of others.
- Smiling makes you feel good.
- It reduces stress.
- A smile attracts others to you, even beating other features, such as eyes and one's physical build.
- It makes a strong first impression.

Since a smile does have the power to change your life, it's important that you feel good about the smile that you present to the world. In fact, 90 percent of Americans agree that an attractive smile is an important social asset. Unfortunately, about 50 percent of Americans aren't satisfied with their smile.

“We can completely change the smile of someone who has grown up not comfortable with the appearance of their teeth — whether it's an orthodontic issue, discoloration, missing teeth, etc.,” said Dr. Susan Thomas, associate dentist with Dr. Bo Shumaker in Fenton. “This is the most rewarding part of our work. We can give anyone a sense of confidence.”

“Most of these procedures are minimally invasive. We can give anyone a sense of confidence and even change their personality, with a new smile.”

'Pearly whites'

 By Sally Rummel
 news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Teeth whitening continues to be one of the most popular cosmetic dental procedures available.

Teeth whitening procedures have come a long way

Teeth whitening has come a long way, whether you choose to have procedures done in the dental chair or do-it-yourself with at-home whitening products.

Local dentists say that Zoom! is out, and stronger, faster whitening products are in. "There's not as much demand for Zoom! lightening in our office, because the results aren't as long-lasting as some of the newer products," said Dr. Patricia McGarry, of Linden. "For patients who want in-office whitening using Zoom!, we also make custom trays for them so they can maintain their brighter smile at home."

What's new in whitening products?

- Tray-based tooth-whitening systems, purchased either over-the-counter or from a dentist, involves filling a mouth guard-like tray with a gel whitening solution which contains a peroxide-bleaching agent. Dental office professionally applied gels have a stronger hydrogen peroxide concentration, usually ranging from 15 to 43 percent.

- Daytime whitening, which uses a custom-formed tray for about 15 minutes with a higher concentration of hydrogen peroxide, according to Dr. Don Chapin, of Chapin Dental in Linden.

- Some offices use a combination of professional whitening done with a whitening product applied directly to the teeth,

“For patients who want in-office whitening using Zoom!, we also make custom trays for them so they can maintain their brighter smile at home.”

— Dr. Patricia McGarry, of Linden

then used in combination with heat, a special light or a laser. However, these treatments tend to be more expensive in the long-run than custom trays and not as long-lasting.

- Whitening rinses are used similarly to mouthwashes, but contain hydrogen peroxide to whiten teeth. Manufacturers say it may take about 12 weeks to see results, because there is less contact time on the teeth than with whitening strips or custom trays.

- Whitening toothpastes containing carbamide peroxide or hydrogen peroxide can lighten the tooth's color by about one shade, compared to treatments at the dental office which can make teeth three to eight shades lighter.

At-home whitening vs. professional whitening

- Strength of bleaching agent. Over-the-counter products usually contain about 3 percent hydrogen peroxide, compared to 15 to 43 percent hydrogen peroxide in the dental office.

- OTC bleaching trays or strips are a one-size-fits-all non-exact contact fit, compared to a custom mouthpiece tray from dental impressions, which provides maximum contact between the whitening gel and the teeth.

- OTC bleaching is less expensive than professional whitening, however Dr. Chapin adds that his patients have found

See PEARLY WHITES on 9B

5 quick ways to whiten your teeth:

1. In the shower: Stop stains and tartar build-up using Crest Whitestrips Daily Whitening Plus Tartar Protection.

2. At snack time: Choose crunchy fruits and veggies such as apple slices, carrots and celery sticks, which actually help clean your teeth while you munch.

3. After lunch: Chew sugar-free whitening gum to absorb some of the new-to-the-surface stains when you don't have time to brush.

4. Night out: Use a lip gloss with blue undertones to make teeth appear whiter, plus a shiny, minty formula will give lips and breath a boost.

5. After dinner: Swish water in your mouth for 30 seconds right after eating to help prevent stains.

It's Children's Dental Health Month

Just a few tips to help keep your child's teeth healthy

Do Baby Teeth Really Matter?

Taking care of your baby's teeth can mean a healthier smile. Creating a dental routine early can ensure a lifetime of healthy smiles for your child. Baby teeth are important teeth, and cavity prevention starts even before the first tooth appears. By teaching your children the benefits of brushing and flossing, you are putting them on a course to be "mouth healthy" for life.

Teaching your child good oral hygiene habits early can lead to a life-long healthy smile, but did you know that just because babies don't have any visible teeth, doesn't mean they can't get cavities? The baby's primary teeth are all ready present in the jaw at birth. And those baby teeth begin coming through the gums around 6 months helping set the stage for future smiles by keeping space in the jaw for adult teeth.

Baby Teeth Matter...

When a baby tooth is lost too early, the permanent teeth can drift into the empty space and make it difficult for the other adult teeth to find room when they come in. This can make teeth crooked or crowded. That's why starting infants off with good oral care can help protect their teeth for decades to come. The ADA (American Dental Association) recommends that parents take children to a dentist no later than their first birthday and then at intervals recommended by their dentist.

Toothbrush wars

► Manual vs. electric — choose wisely for optimum oral hygiene

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

The choices can be overwhelming. Most stores that sell oral hygiene products sell dozens of different types of toothbrushes — from cute Disney character themes to ergonomic styles and electric brushes.

Here are general tips for selecting a toothbrush, whether it is manual or powered.

TIP #1:

Size — Adults need a toothbrush head a half-inch wide and one-inch tall for easy access to all teeth surfaces. The handle should be long enough to hold it comfortably in your hand.

TIP #2:

Bristle type — Choose a soft-bristled toothbrush to avoid damage to the gums, root surface and protective tooth enamel.

Tip for brushing your teeth

Experts suggest that you brush your teeth at least twice a day for two minutes each time. Some electric varieties have a built-in timer so you know when you're done, or you could hum a song like "Happy Birthday" or download two-minute songs from brushdj.com, aquafresh.com or toothtunes.com.

For even more tooth protection, choose rounded tip bristles.

TIP #3: Ask your dentist for a recommendation or look for manual or powered toothbrushes marked with the American Dental Association (ADA) Seal of Approval.

SNACK SMART

Damaging acids form in your mouth every time you eat a sugary snack, and continue to affect your teeth for up to a half hour before they are neutralized and can't do any more harm.

The more times you eat sugary snacks during the day, the more often you feed the bacteria the fuel they need to cause tooth decay.

Whenever you eat a sweet snack, be sure to brush your teeth right afterward.

Use these snacking tips:

TIP #1:

Choose sugary foods less often.

TIP #2:

Avoid sweets between meals.

TIP #3:

Eat a variety of low or non-fat foods from basic food groups.

TIP #4:

Brush your teeth with fluoride toothpaste after snacks and meals.

TIP #5:

Keep in mind that brown sugar, honey, molasses and syrups also react with bacteria to produce acids, just as refined table sugar does.

“If you're going to give your child juice, read the labels first. Make sure it's a natural juice, with no extra sugar added.”

Dr. Don Chapin,
Chapin Dental, Linden

“Never, ever put a child to bed with a bottle containing milk or juice. Water is just fine, however. You're just 'bathing' their teeth in sugar. If you're going to eat dessert or a sugar snack, do it during mealtime and brush afterward.”

Dr. Steve Sulfaro,
Sulfaro Family Dentistry, Holly

Manual vs. electric — which is better?

The best toothbrush will be the one you're most likely to use well, so that should be your best guide.

Certainly, there is more cost to an electric toothbrush — both initially and to replace the removable toothbrush heads. But if using an electric toothbrush helps you keep your teeth cleaner, you may find you have less money spent at the dentist.

If you have limited mobility from a condition like painful arthritis, you might find an electric variety easier to use.

Studies have shown that overall, there is not a significant difference between both of their abilities to remove and plaque and prevent gum disease. However, a rotation oscillation electric toothbrush (bristles go round and round and back and forth) has been found to be more effective than a manual toothbrush.

If you tend to brush too vigorously, which can damage your gums and teeth, an electric toothbrush may be gentler, while cleaning the areas at the same time.

the OTC whitening strips to be expensive because several packages have to be purchased for long-term maintenance.

• When using OTC products, you're not being supervised in a dental setting to determine how effective bleaching will be based on your own medical history, your teeth's stains and the number and location of restorations.

How long do teeth whitening effects last?

People who expose their teeth to foods and beverages that cause staining (coffee, tea, soda, for example), may see whiteness fade in as little as one month.

Those who avoid those foods or beverages may see results last for about a year before another whitening treatment or touch-up is needed.

How to protect your teeth from sensitivity while whitening?

Dr. Patricia McGarry suggests putting Vitamin E around the gums so that the bleaching solution won't burn sensitive tissues. She also suggests using toothpaste with recalcitrant in it to make your actual tooth structure harder, to lesson sensitivity. "I recommend brushing with it for two to three weeks before you even start bleaching your teeth," she said.

Leonard Charles Roche

Leonard Charles Roche - devoted husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather and business owner died Wednesday at the age of 89. He was surrounded by family during his last days at the home where he and his wife Helen raised six children. Born January 3, 1924 to John and Ann (Lemieux) Roche in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada, he and his family moved to Flint and he graduated from Flint Technical High School in 1942. He became a United States Citizen before enlisting in the Army at the age of 19. He served three years, attaining the rank of Staff Sergeant during World War II in Europe and The Philippines. He was a proud member of the 86th Black Hawk Division, attending reunions and gatherings of the Division throughout his life. He received two Purple Hearts in 1945 and was also awarded two Bronze Stars, the Victory Medal, American Theater Ribbon, European African Middle-Eastern Theater Ribbon, and an Asiatic Pacific Theater Ribbon. After the war, while living in Kansas City, Missouri he met his wife of 61 years, Helen Marie Kann. He and Helen married in 1951 and raised seven children, John, Anne (Tom) Brown, Susan (John) Leadley, Tim (Chris) Roche, Laura (Don) Beach and Nancy Smith (Alan Sauve). After relocating back to the Flint area, he went into the service station business. That business paved the way for future ventures and the formation of Kan Rock Tire, Corp. which has grown to a chain of nine stores in the greater Flint area. A business from which he never retired and continued to be a part of until the end of his life. Civically minded, he was involved in local politics, community organizations and was a member of St. John's Catholic Parish. Always a natural athlete, Len could be found working out at the gym most mornings well into his 80s, he was an avid gardener, outdoorsman and traveled the world with his wife and family, trading stories and speaking his native French whenever possible. He was a natural storyteller and was known to regale friends, family and strangers with tales of travel, history and his long and interesting life. He was a devoted grandfather to 12 grandchildren: David (Kim) Brown, Jennifer Brown (Nola du Toit), Alyson (Nicholas) Kechkaylo, Heidi Leadley, Emily Smith (Charles Flaishans), Amanda Boilore (Zack Beard), Jacob Roche, Erin Beach, Patricia Smith, Mary Beach, Madeline Roche and Jacqueline Roche and two great-grandchildren, Brady and Zach as well as numerous cousins, other family and friends. He is also survived by his sister Mary (Don) Schlotterbeck, and was preceded in death by his parents, brother Lawrence and son Patrick. A Funeral Mass will be celebrated on Tuesday, February 5, 2013 at 10:30 AM at St. John's Catholic Church, 600 North Adelaide, Fenton. Fr. David Harvey officiating. Friends may visit on Sunday, February 3rd and Monday, February 4th from 5-8 PM (1700 hrs-2000 hrs) at Temrowski Family Funeral Home, 500 Main St., Fenton. In lieu of flowers, donations may be to any charitable organization in the name of Len Roche. Share memories at www.temrowskifamilyfuneralhome.com.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Two years ago I had shingles, and I now suffer the after-effects of it. The sores went away in a month, but the stinging, burning, throbbing pain is still with me. I cannot wear clothing over the affected shoulder. No medicines have eased the pain so far. Is there any help? — M.L.

ANSWER: You now are dealing with postherpetic neuralgia, pain that lingers long after the shingles rash has gone. The virus that causes shingles is the same virus that causes chickenpox. Almost every adult on this continent harbors that virus, now called herpes zoster. It lives on in nerve cells.

From time to time, at older ages, it awakens from its hibernation, travels down the nerve to the skin and causes an outbreak of blisters on a red base. The outbreak goes away in about three weeks. Pain can linger for a long time — months, to years. In traveling down the nerve, the virus damaged it.

I can list some of the postherpetic neuralgia medicines. Two are antidepressants — nortriptyline and amitriptyline — given not for depression but for pain relief. Cymbalta (duloxetine) is another antidepressant that can lessen postherpetic pain. Lyrica (pregabalin) is an anti-seizure medicine that's approved for this problem. Neurontin (gabapentin) is another seizure medicine used for control of the lingering pain of shingles.

Capsaicin lotion, cream or gel (Zostrix, Capsin, R-Gel) is applied directly to the involved skin. A higher concentration of capsaicin comes as a patch that's applied in the doctor's office, left on for an hour and then removed. Treatment can be repeated in three months. It's called Qutenza. Another skin patch is the Lidoderm patch. The latest medicine is Gralise, an extended-release form of gabapentin — Neurontin. It requires fewer doses.

Dad is the ultimate DJ in this household

DEAR AMY: For years my husband has been controlling which television programs we watch and which radio stations we listen to. When I choose a radio station, he tells me the music is garbage and will tune it to his station. Until now, I've never felt it was worth arguing over. Yesterday he was out of the house, and I was listening to a station that my daughters and I enjoy. When my husband came home, my daughter expressed her concern that the station was "not one of daddy's." She didn't want to be confronted by him and went upstairs. Sure enough he came in, realized that it was not one of his stations, said the music was garbage and turned off the radio, despite my objections. His inflexibility and dominating behavior are obvious to me in other situations that are more important to me (such as the extreme lack of organization in the house and his unwillingness to look for a job). — Unable to Change Course

DEAR UNABLE: You have wrapped many complaints about your husband into one bundle. From your account he is intimidating and domineering — so intimidating that he has trained your daughter that he literally owns the airwaves. Imagine the impact of his behavior on your girls' impression of how men do/should behave. You should try to mediate some of these issues in couples counseling. Failing that, if you are unwilling to leave the marriage, you should pursue counseling to learn why (and how) you stay.

Wingless Buffalo Chicken Pizza

- INGREDIENTS
- 3/4 lbs. chicken breast cutlets
  - Extra-virgin olive oil, for drizzling
  - 2 t. grill seasoning, eyeball it
  - 1 pizza dough, store bought or from your favorite pizzeria
  - Cornmeal or flour, to handle dough
  - 2 T. butter
  - 1 T. Worcestershire sauce, eyeball it
  - 2 to 3 T. hot sauce, medium to spicy heat
  - 1/2 cup tomato sauce
  - 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
  - 1/2 cup blue cheese crumbles
  - 3 scallions, thinly sliced
- DIRECTIONS
1. Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Preheat grill pan to high.
  2. Place chicken on a plate and drizzle extra-virgin olive oil over the chicken then season with grill seasoning. When grill is hot, add chicken and cook about 3 minutes on each side.
  3. Stretch dough to form pizza using cornmeal or flour to help you handle it. If you let it rest and warm up a few minutes it will handle even easier. Set pizza on pizza pan to the side and clean board.
  4. In a medium skillet over medium heat, melt butter and stir in Worcestershire, hot sauce, and tomato sauce.
  5. Remove the chicken from grill and thinly slice it. Add chicken to sauce and coat. Cover the pizza dough with the saucy Buffalo chicken, cheeses, and scallions. Bake 18 minutes or until crisp.
