FENTON RESIDENTS REMINDED OF CURFEW

At about 4 a.m. on Friday, June 28, a Fenton police officer spotted two young males riding on a moped on Torrey Road. With the number of larcenies that have been occurring during the nighttime hours, the officer stopped the moped to speak with the riders, a 15-year-old from Fenton Township and a 15-year-old from Fenton. When asked why they were out, one said his mother wasn't home. The teens were taken to the police station, processed and released to a parent. A breath test revealed that both teens had been drinking. They were cited into probate court. Lt. Jason Slater wants to remind parents and young people that Fenton has a curfew. Youth under age 12 can only be out between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. if they are with a parent or guardian. Youth 13-16 cannot be out between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. without a parent or quardian. Individuals 17 and up who are not a parent/guardian can be cited with a misdemeanor for aiding a younger person to stay out past curfew.

A turning point!

By Foster Childs

If I Were

Step right up folks, I want to tell you about an amazing device you simply can't live without.

It winks, it blinks, it comes in every size, color and shape imaginable.

It's practical, tactical, tactful and thoughtful.

Why it's so necessary that most people own not one, but two of these astonishing devices.

It's a hallmark of safety and civility.

And yet, so simple to operate, a child of 2 could easily use one.

Yesireee folks, it's a thing of beauty to behold, a credit to the cleverness of mankind, and a marvel of American ingenuity. I'm speaking, of course, about a turn

For those of you that aren't familiar with it, it is that little lever generally located just behind and on the left side of the steering wheel.

Amazingly, through the miracle of electrical engineering, just the casual flick of a fingertip will initiate a process by which an exterior light will blink on and off on the same side of your vehicle, and in the same direction, that you are planning on turning.

I'm going into great detail regarding turn signals because, as any driver can tell you, most motorists today clearly aren't aware of either how or why turn signals operate.

your intentions.

Some turn signal facts:
1) Using your turn signal does not negatively impact your gas mileage.

2) Activating your turn signal while already halfway through the turn is useless. Any driver with the ability to spell DNA has already figured out

3) Turn signal use does indicate a level of cranial ability able to determine that the owner of the cranium (you) is not the center of the universe.

4) Using your turn signal does not give other drivers a tactical advantage. This is not war. You are not McCloud.

5) Turn signal use does not make other drivers think you are a weenie.

The bottom line? Turn signal use is more than a courtesy. Turn signals inform other drivers of our intention to alter the direction and/or speed of the 4,000+ pounds of metal, glass and rubber we are operating at speeds of 25-75 miles per hour amidst hundreds of other 4,000+ pound vehicles moving at 25-75 miles per hour. This in turn allows these other drivers to make adjustments in their driving based on this critical information.

It's ironic that back in the days when vehicles had no turn signals, drivers made known their intentions through hand signals with their arm sticking out of the window...rain or shine. Despite modern technology reducing the function to a simple flick of the fingertip, many of today's cell-phone addicted drivers are inconsiderate clods too caught up in their own petty world to observe even the simplest of common courtesy/safety practices to their fellow motorists.

To them I say, 'do unto others...'

Free stuff

Dear Editor.

A friend sent this to me, it explains everything.

The folks who are getting the free stuff don't like the folks who are paying for the free stuff, because the folks who are paying for the free stuff can no longer afford to pay for both the free stuff and their own stuff.

And the folks who are paying for the free stuff want the free stuff to stop. And the folks who are getting the free stuff want even more free stuff on top of the free stuff they are already getting!

The people who are forcing the people who pay for the free stuff have told the people who are receiving the free stuff that the people who are paying for the free stuff are being mean, prejudiced, and racist.

So, the people who are getting the free stuff have been convinced they need to hate the people who are paying for the free stuff by the people who are forcing some people to pay for their free stuff and giving them the free stuff in the first place.

We have let the free stuff giving go on for so long that there are now more people getting free stuff than paying for the free stuff.

Welcome to today's America.

I AM SICK to death of government trying to control every aspect of our lives. With the forced closing of Internet Cafés, to get the game experience now you must drive for over an hour and pad the pockets of huge casinos whose goal is to rob you.

WHY DOES THE government fund both birth control and abortions? Both are personal decisions that should be made, and financed, by the individual.

TO ALL BIKERS, you can't just act like a vehicle some of the time. If you want to ride in the street, stop at the lights and stop signs. Many just follow the rules when it is favorable to them, then ride through red lights and stop signs.

Miniature golf offers maximum summer fun

► Many memories made from simple recreational fun on mini golf courses

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

There are many places in our childhood memories that bring up a happy nostal-gia — and one of them is miniature golf. Designed with a child's imagination in mind and mimicking a miniature Disney World, these 18 holes of fun can make every putt a minivacation.

Miniature golf is a novelty version of golf, played with a putter and golf ball on a miniature course that features obstacles such as alleys, bridges, windmills and tunnels.

Its earliest form was built in 1867 at the Ladies Putting Club in St. Andrews, Scotland, where an 18-hole putting green was once the golf course for women, who at the time weren't allowed to swing a club past their shoulder. Today, it is known as one of the most prestigious greens on the British Isles.

The first person to patent a game of miniature golf was Garnet Carter, calling it "Tom Thumb Golf" in 1927. He built his miniature golf course, designed by his wife with a fairyland theme, on Lookout Mountain in Tennessee to draw traffic to the hotel he owned.

This recreational fun grew into a more competitive sport when Putt-Putt was founded in 1953, designed to allow straight putting only, with no gimmicks. Along with McDonald's and Holiday Inn, it became one of American's first roadside franchises, numbering almost 500 in the U.S. at its peak. By the 1990s, they had declined to just 100 Putt-Putt courses, because of growing competition from mammoth family entertainment centers and a "played one, you've played them all" public perception.

However, as a recreational hobby miniature golf has continued to grow, remaining a popular family sport at several locations in the tri-county area.

Locally at Uncle Ray's Dairyland in Fenton, owners

Dave and Todd Durant offer a combo of ice cream and mini-golf for much the same purpose. "It's a 40 minute journey of fun," said Dave, who cross promotes his popular ice cream shop and miniature golf course, which the Durant brothers call Uncle Ray's miniGOLF. "It's a time when everyone in the family interacts and laughs together with 'old school' old-fashioned fun."

Fenton ArtWalk draws regional artists

▶Third annual event slated for July 13

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Be sure to include a trip to downtown Fenton on Saturday, July 13 to enjoy this year's Fenton ArtWalk. It runs from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and it is being held backto-back with the 12th annual Bastille Day Race, hosted by The Laundry from 7:45 to 10 a.m.

The Fenton ArtWalk will run from The Laundry at the corner of Shiawassee Avenue and Adelaide Street to LeRoy Street, then north on LeRoy to the Biggby Coffee and Kimberly Kay Furniture Shops.

Edward Jones office located on Mill Street will give free smoothies to the first 100 guests and they are hosting live music with pianist Christie Dover, and an interactive community art project outside.

More than 55 talented artists are participating and will display and sell their art in unique storefront venues. In addition to local Fenton artists, the ArtWalk has attracted artists from across the region. As many as 27 different businesses and community locations are participating.

The Lake Area Visual Artists will be showing artwork at the Fenton Community and Cutural Center, adding a new venue to the event this year.

Live entertainment and fun activities for the whole family will be featured throughout the event, including at the Winegarden Library, and Fenton United Methodist, First Presbyterian and St. Jude's Episcopal churches.

The Sweet Adelines chorus will sing a cappella and the "Living Art" program of Corunna High School Art Club will showcase living statues. Michael Kassel returns to play ukulele and the Steel Head Band will play the steel drums.

Visitors can stop by the information booth to get a free gift while supplies last and take a map to continue their cultural experience with a walking tour of the public art sculptures downtown.

Guests are also encouraged to stop inside the community center to see the Fenton public art mural, "Song of the Shiawassee." This mural was gifted to the city by local artists. A total of 15 canvases were painted and assembled to create this 6- by 7.5-foot mural, which is valued at more than $10,000.

Lt. Jason Slater of the Fenton Police Department said that considering the number of people in town, incidents they responded to were minor. Two calls came in for people fighting and two calls came in for young people throwing fireworks at cars, however, the complaints were unsubstantiated. Slater said police warned several people who were lighting their own fireworks while on private property during the official fireworks. This is against the law and all of the offenders were cooperative.

"Pretty quiet day actually, it was an odd one," said Fenton Fire Chief Bob Cairnduff. There were two crashes in Fenton, but they weren't alcohol or holiday related.

Last year's temperatures climbed near a dry 100 degrees, while this year it hovered at around 80. Hotter temperatures compound the affects of alcohol causing more fire department calls and it puts more stress on equipment.

Genesee County Sheriff's Department reported one 24-year-old male, jailed for essentially sucker-punching another partygoer unprovoked at the point party on Lake Fenton. He was jailed, but there were no other medical emergencies for trauma.

"We were very blessed to have a very quiet, smooth Fourth of July," Swanson said, and mentioned there were 1,500 people out, on about 300 boats Thursday night at the southern point of Lake Fenton.

Fenton Township Fire Chief Ryan Volz reported five medical calls, but not related to the holiday. In 2012 his department ran 10 fireworks related grass fires last year, but none this year.

Holly Police Chief Michael Story said there were complaints of fireworks being thrown at the lakeside park during the fireworks event Thursday night, and one complaint of fireworks being set off at 1:12 a.m., after the midnight time limit, but no suspects were located.

North Oakland County Fire (NOCFA) Chief Jeremy Lintz said no one was hurt due to fireworks in Holly Township or Rose

Linden woman to establish youth group in Denmark

► Charity Lloyd will attend bible college, begin youth group

By Olivia Dimmer

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Embarking on a six-month journey to a foreign country at 26 might seem like a lot to take on, but Linden local Charity Lloyd plans to do just that on July 31.

After coming across a bible college in Denmark that piqued her interest, Lloyd enrolled into a six-month long program, which will focus on leadership and scripture that will equip her with the tools to begin and run a successful youth group. She will attend the Impact School of Revival in Roskilde, Denmark.

"The program will be able to give me the knowledge I need to share with the kids there," Lloyd said. "I will learn how to organize outreaches to grow the group, as well as help the youth there make good choices in life."

In Denmark, young people can legally make adult choices at 16, leaving more room for mistakes and making it easier to follow the wrong path, according to Lloyd. It was for that reason she decided Denmark would be the best place for her to begin a youth group.

"I believe children around the world are making adult decisions at a young age, but are not being well equipped with proper understanding of their choice's consequences," Lloyd said. "I chose Denmark for local resources, society freedoms, as well as cultural similarities and differences with the States. I hope my leap of faith will ignite an interest in others to have a changed worldview and make a greater exchange."

Lloyd said her involvement with the Big Brother Big Sister organization of Flint helped strengthen her interest in working with youth.

"I think it is important for the next generation to see the benefits of helping others locally and globally," Lloyd said. "My vision is to encourage focus on better life decisions for success and positive community growth, by living out my dream of loving and recognizing individual's worth."

AS AMERICANS STRUGGLE to meet their financial obligations, including our tax bills, it's hard to understand some of Obama's actions. Obama's new 'Power Africa' initiative to increase electricity in Africa was announced. Obama personally pledged $7 billion of U.S. taxpayer money for Africa's electricity project. Is that what America needs?

IF YOU TRULY care about your country, then write and call your elected representatives and demand campaign finance reform to get corporate money out of politics. THE ADMINISTRATION IS in the process of changing the name of the new Health Care from Obama Care to Unaffordable Act Care because it is so unpopular, he doesn't want his name associated with it.

OBAMA CARE STRIKES again. The student loan law that was part of the Health Care bill in 2011 raised interest rates from 3.4 percent to 6.8 percent on July 1. All young voters, and there were many, that voted Democratic will now owe twice as much for their education. Why was it so secret?

THE CITY OF Fenton responded to the propaganda of the 'Tri-County Times, Hot line,' and removed the YIELD signs at cross walk. By the way, YIELD does not mean STOP. The state law still requires drivers to stop for pedestrians in a cross walk.

Aaror

Aaron, The first thing I ask is, are you using an OEM quality PCV valve (meaning A/C Delco or from the dealer)? We see a lot of aftermarket PCV valves cause problems. Next thing that comes to mind is to check the port where the PCV hose hooks to the engine. Make sure it is clear and getting full vacuum. Other than these items, try a good cleaning of the throttle bore and check the timing if it is adjustable.

Q. I think I may have a bird building a nest in my dryer vent, isn't there supposed to be a screen that stops them from getting into my vent?

A. No. dryer vent hoods come in two styles. If you have the louvered style and any of the flaps are missing critters can get in, and it looks like a dandy spot to nest to a bird. If you have the hood style, there should be a flapper inside the hood. Over time lint can build up at the opening and hold the flapper open allowing enough space for the critters to enter. If you put a screen in the opening the lint will plug the vent and your clothes will take hours to dry if at all. Take the time to inspect your vent to insure it is closing properly between loads! Local host families needed

Fenton area families are still needed to host students who will study at local high schools for a semester or school year. Families of all types are eligible to host including those with young children or teens or families with no children at home. They are expected to treat their exchange students as family members. The students, who will arrive in August, are participating in the SHARE! High School Exchange Program to learn firsthand about Americans and our way of life. They speak English, have medical insurance, and bring spending money for personal expenses. The SHARE! Program, sponsored by Educational Resource Development Trust (ERDT), a global educational nonprofit foundation, was created to provide opportunities for greater understanding between Americans and peoples of the world. Cemetery Walk reveals local history

▶Event in Holly set for July 28

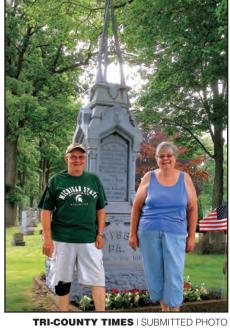

In remembrance of local veterans and marking the 150th anniversary of the battles at Gettysburg and Vicksburg in July of 1863, the Holly Historical Society will present a Cemetery Walk at Holly's Lakeside Cemetery.

The event will take place on Sunday, July 28 from 1 to 4 p.m. The cemetery is located at Park and Thomas streets, north off Maple. The entry fee is $5 for adults and $3 for students. It will start with a ceremony at the poignant Civil War Veterans Monument at 1 p.m.

Visitors will meet eight local citizens who played a part in our history and who are buried within our community.

Walk committee members include Worley Smith, Linda Smith, Linda Dagenhardt, and Joe Mishler. They are local history buffs, who have been researching our past veterans and working on the program for over a year.

On the shores of Bush Lake, the oldest grave in historic Lakeside Cemetery dates back to 1841, but was not platted mobile homes up to living standards, an issue Mathis said she's been dealing with ever since she became supervisor 12 years ago.

"More people need to see what we have in this community," Mathis said. "It's bad. When you drive in, you see it's poverty, it's crime, it's everything."

The recent review of the mobile home park revealed that 10 homes were vacant. One was condemned by the township's Building Inspector Dave Gibson. Many of the other abandoned trailers needed updated safety features such as fire and carbon monoxide alarms.

Mathis said that throughout her years as supervisor, she's encountered crime, neglected children and animals in the park. Although township workers do what they can to keep the park free of crime and mobile homes livable, Treasurer John Tucker said township officials have limited powers when it comes to enforcement in the trailer park.

"There was a perception for a number of years they were being discriminated against. What effectively happened was the state took control of mobile parks away from the governments," Tucker said. "We're left to fight with sticks and rocks. We've got nothing effective because Mobile Home Commission (MHC) sets the standards. They're the ones who enforce everything.'

Mathis said she's had representatives with the MHC come to the park numerous times during her tenure as supervisor. Each time, Mathis said MHC workers say they can only enforce the grounds of the mobile home park and not what goes on inside of them. For > Mathis and other members of the board, the inability to enforce rules and lack of intervention from the MHC has been frustrating.

> "We're working hard and getting nowhere. That's because of the weapons we're left with," Tucker said.

> While Ponemah Mobile Home Park has a reputation for crime and drugs, Township Clerk Robert Krug noted that it doesn't mean everyone who lives there is involved in criminal activity.

"These are not bad people in bad situations — they're good people in a bad situation," Krug said.

Mathis said she's had eight trailers removed since she's been township supervisor. She told the board that she will continue to work with Gibson, township fire chief Ryan Volz and park manager Mel Rosema to bring the rest of the park up to existing health codes.

product if it's certified organic," said VG's Manager Laurie Bishoff.

When buying products that you want to be organic, make sure to check the label carefully. Some foods can be labeled as organic, though up to 5 percent of the ingredients could potentially be non-organic. Meanwhile, food can also be labeled as "Made with organic ingredients," and still have up to 40 percent be inorganic.

Another thing to look out for is something labeled as 'natural.' While it of course sounds like a good description -after all, who wants to eat something unnatural—it is a much more vague term.

Natural is a less defined term in food packaging, and can change in meaning depending on where in the country you are and what type of product you are dealing with. Genetically modified food, growth hormones, can be used in natural food, which also does not see the same level of rigorous inspections and certifications as organic products would.

Some believe organic foods taste better, and can be healthier by not being genetically modified. Also, with less chemicals used to grow the food, growing organic is said to be healthier for the environment itself.

There are a few misconceptions as to what organic food is not. A lot more work is required to grow organic food — so don't expect to pay less for it. The food itself is also not necessarily any more nutritious. Just because the produce you pick up is organic also doesn't mean you shouldn't wash it before eating.

The biggest misconception is that organic food is pesticide-free. The USDA keeps a list of pesticides that can be used in organic farming — including pyrethrin, rotenone, copper and sulphur.

Still, the popularity of organic foods is hard to deny.

"Organic products have increased in popularity over the past few years," said Bishoff. "Some people feel it's more environmentally safe. In fact, as of 2011, 4.2 percent of all food sold in the United States is organic, which equates to an

Fenton police are continuing their investigation regarding a retail fraud complaint at a retail store in the 1000 block of Silver Lake Road. The owner said that on Saturday, June 22, a white female with blonde hair entered the store. Believing that the woman had behaved suspiciously, the owner later reviewed the security video and observed the woman shopper conceal two tablecloths in her purse and exit without paying. The owner saw the woman leave in a white Cadillac. Using the license plate of the Cadillac registered to a Fenton Township resident, police are attempting to locate the woman, described as in her late 30s or early 40s.

HOLLY WOMAN SHOPLIFTS

At about 5:20 p.m. on Sunday, June 30, Fenton police responded to a retail store on Owen Road to investigate a shoplifting complaint. An employee reported that a female shopper, later identified as a 58-year-old Holly resident, entered the store, selected two cell phone cases and window decals and walked to the craft aisle, where she removed the items from the packaging and concealed them in her purse. She was observed paying for items in her cart, but not the items in her purse. She was confronted outside and escorted back in. She has an Aug. 5 court date for retail fraud.

BREAKING AND ENTERING IN HOLLY

On June 25, at about 8 a.m. a Holly police officer was dispatched to the 3500 block of Grange Hall Road to investigate a breaking and entering complaint from an auto business. The business manager reported that someone had broken into an outlying scrap shed located on the property. It was locked up at 5 p.m. the previous day. At 7 a.m., he found the lock to the shed had been cut off. Aluminum transmission cases were stolen and aluminum parts were stolen from a 55-gallon barrel. The lock was found nearby, as well as a nearly empty barrel. Tire tracks near the scene were processed and the lock was recovered as evidence.

HOLLY MAN'S WALLET STOLEN

On Saturday, June 22, Holly police were dispatched to a home in the 800 block of Canyon Creek Drive to investigate a larceny from an auto complaint. The owner of a 2013 GMC Sierra pickup truck told police that sometime overnight, someone entered his unlocked truck and stole his wallet, which was stored in the center console. Police advised the man to cancel all credit card accounts and to see if there was any unauthorized activity on the accounts. Police have no suspects.

SUPER DRUNK DRIVER

At 4:15 a.m. on June 15, a Holly police officer observed a black 2008 Dodge Avenger traveling above posted speeds and striking the curb on South Saginaw Street. The officer initiated a traffic stop and made contact with the driver, a 24-year-old Linden woman, who the officer suspected had been drinking. The woman told the officer she had been at a bon fire on Grange Hall Road and had consumed four beers. After failing field sobriety tests, the woman consented to a preliminary breath test where she blew a .28 percent blood alcohol content. She was arrested and booked at the police station. Her car was impounded.

Local clinics can help with minor sickness and injury when traditional doctors' offices are closed for the night or weekend.

Locally, Fenton Hometown Urgent Care is open for late-night medical troubles. They offer services like X-Ray, EKG, prescriptions, DOT testing and physicals and can treat fractures, cuts, flu and colds. They are located at 3220 West Silver Lake Rd. Fenton, at West Silver Lake Road and Silver Parkway.

The Fenton Medical Center Late Hours Clinic also accepts walk-ins and is open late nights and weekends. You can find them at 102 North Adelaide St. in Fenton across from Sawyer Jewelers.

A little farther away is the Genesee Urgent Care on South Linden Road near the McLaren Behavioral Health Center, and Advanced Urgent Care in Hartland off Highland Road. All of these clinics come equipped to handle minor medical ailments.

Once you have visited any of the extended hours clinics in the area, you might also need to fill a prescription. Luckily, there are three 24/7 pharmacies that are all about a 30 minute drive from Fenton. There is a Rite Aid located at 841 South State Rd. in Davison, as well as two 24/7 Walgreens that are located at 502 South Ballenger Hwy. in Flint, and at 901 South State St. in Davison.

Although local late night or extended hours clinics can provide help in a minor medical problem, larger more life-threatening emergencies should be handled at the nearest hospital ER. These clinics are designed to be an after-hours doctor's office and should be treated as such.

THE BEST REASON that the American people need less federal government laws, rules, and regulations is that new federal regulations have decreased our standard of living by 75 percent since 1949. That's more than 1 percent decrease every year for the past 64 years. We need our individual independence back.

IF IT REALLY worked, I wouldn't mind it — the road tar and chip that is. It makes a mess of everything including our expensive cars. If everyone got together and formed a class-action suit against the road commission, maybe this poor excuse for road maintenance would cease. Anyone in?

Morrison loving life as pro on motocross circuit

▶ Competing as a 'privateer' is tough, but Fenton resident up for the challenge

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Chris Morrison understands the toll being a professional on the Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship circuit can have on one's body.

Ask him to and he can show you scars on his ankles, wrists and arms. And hanging on one wall of his family's home is a small picture frame with some motorcycle parts and an event and date listed within it. It lists the Big Air Open on June 25, 2011. It serves as a reminder, almost like a battle trophy, of the dangers of the sport.

"That's when I broke my ankle," Morrison said.

He also knows it's very expensive. That became abundantly clear when he held up a recent package of parts he purchased for his motorbike. The pieces fit in a box about the size of a shoebox.

'This little box cost me $400," Morrison said. "Without my professional discount it would've been $500."

He also knows as a rookie professional riding by known what is a 'privateer' (a professional with little sponsorship money), the odds are stacked against him at any race he competes at.

Yet, he continues to ride. Why? Because Morrison has no choice. It's in his blood.

"This has always been a dream of mine since I was a kid," Morrison said. "We'd always watch motocross and that's what we thought was really cool. Me and my brother (Al) fantasized about it. But my Dad did it too, so it was in our blood to be competitive."

Morrison's professional career continued this weekend, while competing during the tour's most recent stop — the Redbud in Buchanan, located in Michigan near the Indiana border. It was his third professional event of the season. Morrison is hoping this weekend is the first time he qualifies for what

A few thoughts about the area's sports scene and some others not dealing with sports at all.

TRAILS ARE A VITAL KEY TO OUR OUTDOORS VACATION

When we go on vacation there are three rules my wife and I usually follow. First, the venue usually has to have either a Major League or a Minor League ballpark so we can go to a game. Secondly, it has to have a zoo. That means we spend about half of our vacation time in silly cities like Toledo, Louisville, Akron and Grand Rapids.

However, we also have our outdoor 'adventure' side. When it isn't baseball season most of our vacations involve one thing — trail walking.

I really don't know exactly how that became the Troppens family's No. 1 outdoor sporting activity. Neither of us hunt. Neither of us really walked trails during our adult lives before we met, but that's what we do now.

Maybe I can trace it to one event. Awhile back (an easy way to say I don't know what year it was), Anna's sister got married in Kentucky at Pine Mountain State Park. We loved it. We walked the mountainous trails whenever we got a chance that weekend. And since then, pretty much every non-summer vacation we've taken has involved trailwalking somewhere in a park in Kentucky.

It hasn't been without its follies. A year after Anna's sister's wedding we ventured to Pine Mountain again. We arrived about an hour before dark, but still decided to walk down a long path we've never hiked before, with nothing that qualified as emergency equipment. My thought was we'd got about 20 minutes in one direction and walk right back. However, when I suggested we should head back, Anna gave me this 'What kind of wimp are you' look, so we continued on. But we learned something that day — it gets dark in the Kentucky mountains really quick. It became apparent we weren't going to finish the walk fast enough to get back before dark, so it was starting to look like we were going to spend a cold spring night in the mountains with some hungry bears. It got to the point you almost couldn't see your next step (on mountains) when we just happened to cross a road. SAVED. We walked the road for about two hours until we found out where the heck our cabin was. It's the closest we've come to being on an episode of 'We should be Dead' or something like that Recently, we've been attacking the Michigan State Park trails more. There are a ton of paths and during the spring we were about the only ones on those paths. Recently I was on vacation so we went to a local park for a small hike. Within about 20 paces on the trail I found out why we never do these walks in the summer. mosquitoes loved me. They attacked me as though I was Berlin at the end of World War II. Even bug spray didn't help much. We got about a mile into the walk and turned back. I'm certain we'll be back on that path again before the end of the year, but not before October rolls around. Yeah, summer trail walking isn't for me.

I think we'll keep the summer for the ballparks and zoos. The mosquitoes have won. I'm sure Daniel Boone would not be impressed. But at least I won't need a blood transfer.

usually go to the highly funded professional drivers.

After qualifying riders have one more chance to qualify in the 40-bike field in a five-lap race around the course. Usually the field consists of up to as many as 50 drivers — most privateers like Morrison — vying for the final four spots. It's not an easy task. And so far, Morrison has found qualifying for the motos pretty challenging.

"My last time I was 57th in qualifying time," Morrison said. "Unfortunately, I couldn't race in the last-chance qualifier (race) because I crashed and damaged my bike too much."

Much of this week was spent with his mechanic, and Dad, Gene Morrison, preparing his one competition bike for the weekend event.

"(Before I was 16) We spend a lot of time working on the bike," Morrison said.

Morrison realizes the odds are against him as a privateer. At 23, he's also older than many rookie professionals. Most compete throughout their childhoods and become pros in their late teens. Morrison, who is also known for his watersport talents, didn't start competing until he was 16.

"I was supposed to be able to race once I turned 18," Morrison said. "But when my brother started racing, I was allowed to race for the first time when I was 16.

"We would trail ride up North or at a local track for a practice day, but that was about it."

Once he started competing, Morrison quickly advanced through the motocross stages. Last season he earned enough points within a year period in a pro-am circuit, allowing him to earn his pro license.

"I went to California and raced in pro-ams and got sixth overall," Morrison said. "It got me enough points to be a professional."

Morrison seems to be having the time of his life.

"It's fun to do, but the racing part is really addicting," Morrison said. "Once you win a couple of times, you really get hooked — the adrenaline rush you get for winning. It's like every other sport. The competitiveness makes it addicting, but you are also racing, jumping and so much else is going on. It's a dangerous sport. Not many people do it, so I think that heightens it."

Colton Care, 14, of Fenton Township shot this wild turkey on May 6 in Oakland County. It weighed 20 pounds, had a 10 ½-inch beard and 1-inch spurs.

The Tri-County Times wants to give our readers the chance to show off the trophies they get this season. If you have a turkey worth showing off, snap a photo and bring it in or mail it to the Times office.

"I had to put an Eagle on my helmet and he had a Fenton 'F' on his. We were cool. We had to come together."

All three players enjoyed their weeklong All-Star Football game experience, but it wasn't easy work. In preparation for the June 22 contest held at Grand Valley State University's Lubber Stadium, players experienced a couple of days of three-a-day practices and had to learn the playbook within a week.

"We got at it every day," Holly's graduated running back said. "We had two to three practices every day. We were getting after it because we wanted to beat the West squad. We got kind of manhandled last year, so they kept putting it in our head how we want to represent the East side of the state, every moment we had a chance.

"We started out on Sunday with a walkthrough practice, but we had three days in the week where we had three-a-day practices. Sometimes they were with pads and sometimes with helmets. They varied. We pretty much eat and slept football for a week."

Brown had a hint it was going to be hard work. Linden has a tradition of having players competing in the All-Star game, and Brown was told by ex-Linden star Kevin Baker about the experience.

"Kevin messaged me and told me it was going to be hard work," Brown said. "I looked that the schedule and I saw we were going to have three-a-days. Some days it seemed like it took forever. We'd get up at 7 (a.m.) and be done by 11 (p.m.).

"We had quite a bit of time between practices so it wasn't too strenuous. Mentally I had to learn a whole new offense as fast as I could."

For Chappell it was quite challenging. Once the game began, linemen were asked to play some snaps at the tackle position and then at the guard position. This meant Chappell had to learn assignments for two different positions.

810-433-6822 | www.timesmobileapps.com

"It was really difficult to get all of the plays," Chappell said. "I had to learn the playbook by scratch and do it for two different positions."

Playing time was pretty evenly distributed for all positions. For Chappell, he'd spend a series on the bench, a series at right tackle and then a series at right guard. Papuga played fullback. And because he was the team's only fullback, whenever the play needed one, he was called into duty. Brown split the quarterback duties with the other West signal-caller approximately every two series during the game.

Papuga was on the winning East squad. The East earned a 20-3 victory. Papuga rushed five times for 26 yards. He had one incomplete pass throw in his direction. He said most of his action came on the trap play — something he was very used to running at Holly. His biggest run was a 10-yard scamper.

"Thirty-two trap right up the middle," Papuga said, explaining the play name. "It was working good all week. We had really good linemen and they gave me a good hole. It was always there. I'd cut off-guard and I always had something. That was fun to run because I've been running it since the third grade and up."

Brown completed 4-of-8 passes for 64 yards. But it was a run play that almost scored a TD that burns in Brown's mind. It was the West's first possession of the second quarter.

"I'm pretty sure I scored and the ref said I didn't," Brown said. "I was scrambling and right next to the pylon. I thought I crossed the ball and the refs said I stepped out. And on the replay it looked like I scored. I think I'll remember that my whole life."

The three college-bound football players enjoyed their experience.

"It was great," Brown said, who is headed to Northern Michigan. "It was pretty crazy knowing you are on TV, realizing it all came together and you are playing against a bunch of college kids. It was as close to the college experience as you can get in one week."

"It was a great time, especially winning," said Papuga, who will be playing at Michigan Tech. "I hear they might change the All-Star game to Michigan against Ohio, so it was really cool to win the last one. ... I'll remember the great times and friends I met."

been the complete opposite of previous years. Some are speculating that something is amiss with the weather.

But this summer's weather isn't abnormal for Michigan, according to a meteorologist in White Lake. In fact, the frequent rains and average weather of mid 60 degrees F is on par with most Michigan summers.

"This year I've talked to people about how cool it's been, but it's been close to normal," said Joe Clark, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service. "The reason that this year is different is last year there was a strong drought that kept spreading."

Last summer, most of the country was affected by drought, causing one of the hottest summers on record.

Western states like Arizona and Colorado are currently facing scalding temperatures and devastating droughts, causing wildfires and people to relocate from their homes. Temperatures have consistently stayed above 100 degrees F in the west. Last Sunday, wildfires in Arizona claimed the lives of 19 elite firefighters belonging to the Granite Mountain Hotshots.

Michigan too has faced some extreme weather this summer, albeit not as severe and in a completely different spectrum. In late May, tornadoes ripped through Genesee and Shiawassee counties, affecting several homes including those in Fenton Township.

Though the temperature has been average for Michigan, Clark does admit that an abnormal amount of rainfall has occurred in late spring and early summer of this year. Still, May and June is the rainy season for Michigan and summer overall in Michigan is supposed to be filled with rain.

"There's no specific reason why we've had so much rain," Clark said. "I wouldn't say there's any substantial mechanisms to blame for it. We can attribute it to chance."

Last month, the Flint area received 4.5 inches of rain. In June 2012, the Flint area received .83 inches of rain. The average temperature this past June was 78 degrees F. In June 2012, the average temperature was 82.9.

In Clark's opinion, most people view this summer as colder than normal because they expect the extreme heat and dryness of the past two summers.

"The odds of us seeing heat like last year is very low," Clark said. "I would say we're probably getting over the hump of rain. I don't expect the second half of summer to be as wet."

doesn't have mountains and waterfalls, which just makes a course expensive," said Dave. 'What we offer is enough challenge in a level of play that's fun for everyone, whether you're 5 or 95."

He's also proud of the professional setting of the course, which he adds is meticulously maintained. "It has all been rebuilt over the years, and is state-ofthe-art. That's why it's so popular," he said. The course also adds competitive fun with BIG SHOOTER golf, also known as prize golf, where golfers can win ice cream prizes on seven different holes.

The sky's the limit at Area 51 Adventure Center, a miniature golf course with an aviation theme, appropriately located next to Captain Phogg's Balloon Quest at 2470 Grange Hall Rd., between Fenton and Holly.

"It's a full 18-hole course that's nicely taken care of," said the manager, who asked to remain anonymous. "The mini golf course has been in business in Holly for 18 years. We get compliments on the course all the time."

Miniature golf is "big business" at many popular vacation destinations throughout the U.S., with between 5,000 and 7,500 courses, according to the U.S. Miniature Golf Association. Several popular courses have made it onto a list of favorite Travel Channel destinations, including the "Around the World" course in Lake George, N.Y., where two side-by-side courses represent countries U.S. on another side.

Meet Jeff Zielinski

Hockey fan, father of three, head golf pro and daily operations manager at Spring Meadows

By Olivia Dimmer

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Jeffrey Zielinski lives for golf. As the head golf professional for Spring Meadows Country Club, he teaches the sport and works to keep fellow golfers happy. In his free time, he travels to courses around the state and in Florida. He is a certified PGA professional and has even played in big events like the Buick Open. Although much of his waking life revolves around the game, he has a big heart for his family and the country club members he strives to make happy.

How did you go about obtaining the title of 'Head Golf Professional?' I've been the Head Golf Professional here for 20 years, and another role I took on about five or six years ago is daily operations manager. I'm the liaison between the board of directors and the staff. I teach lessons, I run the events for the players, and I'm in charge of the golf shop and the day-today play as well.

When did you discover you had a talent for golf? I guess it was my sophomore year in college. I started to play quite a bit. I had only played baseball at the time and fell in love with the game. I loved the game, you can play it forever, it's an excuse to travel and families can play together. Jeff Zielinski > challenge. I never competed in golf in college, but I've taken lessons over the years from Hank Haney and David Leadbetter golf academy. I went to Siena Heights College and Ferris State University.

> Have you participated in any large golf events or tournaments? I played in the Buick Open in 1994 and 1996. I ended up having an old friend, Kirk Foley, caddy for me in the event. I've only been in two tour events. This Monday is the state pro pro. Dave Tokarsky and I are partners in that.

> How did you end up working at Spring Meadows? I worked in Florida, Boca Raton specifically, for six or seven years. I worked in Lima, Ohio for a little bit. I went through the proper training to be a Class A member of the PGA. The opportunity came up that Spring Meadows was looking for a head golf professional and I applied for the position and fortunately got it. Twenty years later, I'm still here. Do you have any other hobbies besides golf? I like hockey, I play it three days a week in the winter. I have a little bit more free time in the winter — summer is more of a six-day week. I do work year-round but the hours are less, with the snow on the course, it's not as busy.

Tell me about your family. My wife, Lori, and I have been married 22 years. She graduated from Fenton High School. We have three kids, Lindsae just finished her sophomore year at Concordia University in Ann Arbor. Our oldest boy, Zac, just graduated from Lake Fenton this year. Our youngest Jake is a sophomore at Lake Fenton High School. They are not into golf or hockey as much, but rather basketball. Lindsae is a college cheerleader.

What is a day on the job like for you? Day to day we interact with the members and make sure they are having the best time they can have. We make sure the golf course is flowing properly with the play going on out there. We make sure the conditions of the course are kept up properly and the staff is servicing the members and preparing for the events.

Our Junior golf program was this past Tuesday. We had about 120 kids in that. We made a new rule this year that grandparents can have their grandkids play in the events. We are an active club, we have a lot of kids and ladies activities. We have a 'Guys and Dolls' program on Friday nights. We are very family oriented. We have a youth room here, which is unusual for clubs to have. We are going to be one of only a handful of clubs to host the men's and ladies' amateurs. We hosted the men's in 2009 and in 2016, we will host the ladies' Michigan amateurs.

Do you have a favorite course you have visited? My favorite course in Michigan in Arcadia Bluffs. It's right on the water. A long time ago, I shot a 62 there so that has something to do with it. I like older golf courses, like Spring Meadows. Spring Meadows is one of my favorite clubs. I'm taking a trip in mid-July with Kirk Foley, the guy I mentioned earlier, to Pine Valley, which is number one rated in the country. After that, Pine Valley might be my new favorite club.

What do you like best about your job? The best part is being at a country club all day every day. We're in the happy business. Everyone comes in happy and ready to have a good time. The challenging part is keeping them that way. We want them to leave happy, too.

What advice would you give to a beginner in golf? The advice I give to a lot of my students is to buy wiffle balls. I learned to play the game in my backyard with an old club. Lessons are the key. There are several pros in the area to get you started on the right track. You can play it for a lifetime.

Toby Keith reaches new heights with 'Red Solo Cup'

"Red Solo Cup" — you're not just a cup. Ain't that the truth. Love it or hate it, the wildly infectious party anthem by Toby Keith is arguably the earworm of the year. When the video hit YouTube in October 2011 — a masterpiece of ridiculousness featuring star cameos ranging from Carrot Top to Ted Nugent — it caused an immediate sensation, as well as millions of folks banging their skulls trying to get the chorus out of their heads.

Keith himself — who actually had no hand in writing the hit — should be surprised by the tune's massive popularity, considering he's repeatedly described it as "the stupidest song I have ever heard in my life."

The country superstar was presented the song for possible inclusion on his 2011 fulllength Clancy's Tavern by his songwriter friends Brad and Brett Warren. He told them right off the bat that it was dumb, but also "freakin' awesome."

"It's like you're almost embarrassed to say that you like it," he told CMT. "I love it."

Clearly, plenty of people agree: Despite the clip's un-P.C. elements — including strong language, scantily clad women, and a cup transformed into a poorly disguised bong — it's escaped serious criticism. The song itself hit No. 1 on the Billboard country charts, No. 15 on the all-genre top 100 Keith's highest on this chart to date. The year ended well for Keith, with Forbes magazine listing him as the world's 10th highestpaid musician (a tie with Justin Bieber) via estimated earnings in 2012 of $55 million. That's a lot of red Solo cups.

"What's great about this song is it does everybody the same way it did me," Keith explains of his hit's popularity. "I can't get it out of my head. I laugh every time I hear it. Sometimes it's good for the world to hear something like that."

As Keith himself serenades his favorite party accessory in the song, "Thank you for being my friend."

Let's all raise our cups to that!

"In 14 years they are decomposable..."

3B

At the Keep America Beautiful Great American Clean Up event in New York City, Solo Cup Co. and TerraCycle announced that they have banned together to create the Solo Cup Brigade, a disposal solution for the millions of single-use cups sold each year.

The idea is simple. Individuals, schools, offices, nonprofits anyone really — signs up on the TerraCycle website. You collect Solo plastic cups and return them to TerraCycle, which will recycle the material into playground equipment, park benches and outdoor furniture.

For every cup received, Solo will donate two cents to Keep America Beautiful or the member's charity of choice. Solo also picks up the shipping costs that are associated with sending the collected cups to TerraCycle.

"This is a terrific new partnership that creates a whole new recycling program for plastic cups," says Kim Frankovich, vice president of Sustainability for Solo.

While the recycling messaging will be on the Solo Squared cups, which have replaced most of the iconic red cups on store shelves, the Cup Brigade is open to all Solo brand plastic cups.

The book that makes us free

'The truth shall make you free,' is a universally accepted, well-known quote, appearing on cornerstones of colleges and in other public places, but many do not know it is taken from the Bible (John 8:32), the Book that sets people free.

Many lovers of freedom have spoken about the importance of the Bible and its impact on America.

Near the end of his life, Patrick Henry said, 'Here is a Book, the Bible, worth more than all others that were ever printed.' George Washington concluded it was impossible to rightly govern the nation without the Bible.

Abraham Lincoln wrote: 'I am profitably engaged in reading the Bible. Take all of this Book upon reason that you can, and the balance by faith and you will live and die a better man.'

The respected statesman, Daniel Webster, declared, 'If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible our country will go on prospering, but if we and our posterity neglect its instructions and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury our glory in profound obscurity.

William McKinley, our 25th president, said, 'The more profoundly we study this wonderful Book, and the more closely we observe its divine precepts, the better citizens we will become and the higher will be our destiny as a nation.'

Woodrow Wilson, our 28th president, warned: 'A man has deprived himself of the best there is in the world who has deprived himself of a knowledge of the Bible.

The roots of liberty reach deeply into the Bible.

'The Bible has been the Magna Carta of the poor and oppressed,' wrote the English scientist, Thomas Henry Huxley. And so it has. Study a map of the world and you will see that wherever the Bible has traveled freedom has followed.

Celebrating our independence then ought to include reading and applying the Book that makes us free. Churches should be packed with grateful worshippers who come to be refreshed by the teachings of the Book carried by the Pilgrims and others who came here to find freedom to worship God as they pleased and to declare the teachings of the Bible publicly without fear of persecution.

If we forsake the Book of freedom, we are likely to lose our cherished liberty. If we declare ourselves independent from God, we cannot expect His blessings.

Our high regard of the Bible in the past provides a rich heritage that flows through our documents of freedom. But the freedom spoken of in the Bible is not just national and political; it is individual.

A troubled man once called to find help to overcome his fears. When I pointed him to the Bible, he expressed fear that this might just make him feel guilty and condemned. Later he called to tell me how wrong he had been. The Book he had feared was not condemning at all. Instead, he's beginning to see it as a means of freedom from the fears and anxieties that can trouble us all.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES I TIM JAGIELO

When not avoiding river obstacles, the experience of traveling down the river can be very relaxing.

SHIAWASSEE

15-minute drive on the road between Holly and Fenton spans hours on the river as it twists and turns, revealing forests and swaths of fields that generally go unseen.

Summary

▶ Passing through forests and fields of reeds and tall grass, the Shiawassee River is a true escape right here in the tri-county area.

Those who decide to make the trip will need a little grit. Depending on the weather and time of the year, navigating the river can range from pleasant to an absolute pain. It's not uncommon to encounter downed trees, where travelers will have to maneuver canoes and kayaks over and under them. Spouts of dry, hot weather can significantly lower water levels, banking canoes and kayaks at low levels.

Oh, and be prepared to encounter loads of spiders and other insects. Passing through dark tunnels and running into tree leaves are inevitable parts of the adventure, covering your canoe or kayak with unwanted passengers.

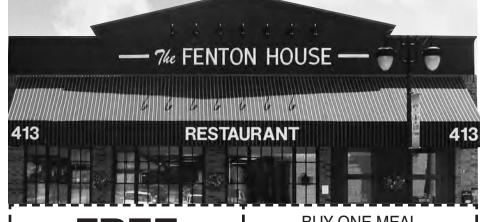

TRI-COUNTY TIMES I TIM JAGIELO There are several places where avoiding low-hanging brush is impossible. Some locations are clearer than others.

Despite these obstacles, a trip on the river is one of the most relaxing summer activities in the local area. Deeper parts of the river are prime locations for fishing and swimming. Small mouth bass, rock bass, sunfish and pike can all be found in the river. Travelers will encounter a variety of landscapes, from deep forests to grasslands to small islands.

Thankfully, when it comes to clearer passage ways, passionate people volunteer annually to clean the river of debris and downed trees. Groups like Keepers of the Shiawassee and Headwater Trails gather every spring and work to keep the waterways travel friendly. These groups have also helped create boat launches and installed mile markers throughout the river. While this summer has been cooler compared to last year, the increased rainfall has given a tremendous boost to the water levels of the river.

For those who do not have a canoe or kayak, Heavner Canoe and Rental out of Milford often works with local river volunteer groups and provides rentals for events. The next event is planned for July 10, where Headwater Trails will be traveling from the Linden Mill Pond to Lake Ponemah and back, with the intention of photographing that area of the Shiawassee River.

For more information on rentals, call Heavner Canoe and Rental at (248) 685-2379. For events, contact Sue Julian of Headwater Trails at (248) 634-3513. Events are also listed periodically in the Times.

Whether your child is an athlete or just wants to improve strength in everyday movements, CrossFit Raw Intensity has summer classes that will help him or her meet these goals.

Classes are offered in three age groups with age-appropriate programming, according to CrossFit Raw Intensity owner Chris Weir. Elementary classes are for 5 to 7 year olds, Jr. Varsity classes are for 8 to 11 year olds and Varsity classes are for 12 to 17 year olds. Each class runs for 45 minutes.

"The goal for all kids' age groups is to get them moving properly, with functional movements that are done in real life," said Weir. "First, we work on teaching them to move safely and effectively. Then we increase intensity and weight loads."

All classes use a combination of gymnastics, body-weight calisthenics and dynamic weightlifting elements to develop capacity across all 10 physical skills of strength, stamina, endurance, flexibility, power, speed, coordination, agility, balance and accuracy. These are the same skills that are taught in Cross-Fit's adult classes.

Kids' classes are offered five days a week in CrossFit's expanded, state-of-the-art fitness facility at 14261 Torrey Rd. in Fenton, in the same complex of businesses as Chris' Automotive Repair. Autumn Brawner is a CrossFit coach for both adult and kids' classes.

The space was recently expanded to 6,500 square feet, according to Weir. Summer programming continues through Aug. 30, with a limited number of openings in all three levels of classes. "We realize that kids do have other activities, vacation plans, etc., so we don't expect that they can always work out five days a week, but the opportunity is there for those who can," said Weir. "They are a very committed group. Their progress has amazing."

Outdoor living

Enhance your home patios, decks and porches for your best summer ever

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Now that summer is here, you wish you had a deck or patio that could truly be your focal point for outdoor living, with as easy maintenance as possible. Maybe your old wooden deck has seen better days and needs an upgrade, or you don't even have an outdoor deck or patio.

Whether you'd like to expand your living space outdoors by adding a patio, deck or porch, or improve upon the one you have, you've got lots of options to think about.

What's a deck?

A deck used to refer to weight-supported surfaces on ships, but today it refers to elevated structures installed along the back side of a house. Although decks were traditionally made of wood, modern decks often feature composite materials made from recycled plastics — eliminating the need for most maintenance. However, the materials cost about double the price of a wood deck.

PROS of wood deck:

- natural beauty
- blends well with landscape
- low cost
- •easy to install

CONS of wood deck:

- high maintenance
- fading over time
- •subject to damage, like warping or rotting, plus insect infestations

What's a patio?

Patios are flat, ground-level structures that can be made from a variety of materials from stamped concrete to laid brick payers.

Now is the time to think about building or improving your deck, patio or porch.

"Pavers are still very popular," said Joe Kudwa, owner of Agroscaping in Swartz Creek. "We use them for patios, walkways, etc. They don't shift or heave. Look at downtown Flint — they've lasted forever, and they're easier to fix than concrete."

Today, many brick pavers are made of half porcelain and half concrete, according to Jim Ray of Michigan Landscape Supply Company in Fenton. "These new pavers have a much higher PSI, which means they can withstand more pressure before they'll break," he said.

Homeowners can do a brick paver project on their own, "but it's a process," said Ray. "You have to make sure you're doing the process correctly. The most important thing is a proper base, then the right grade and level. Actually laying the pavers is easy, once you've completed the important preparation steps."

Scott Schupbach, who has been laying concrete in the tri-county area for many years, was the first one to offer stamped concrete when it first became available in the market. "Concrete will outlast pavers," said Schupbach. "You can also be more creative with concrete,

Location, location, location

►Where your 'dream house' is located has huge effect on price

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

The home of your "realistic dreams" may have three bedrooms, two baths, an updated kitchen and about 1,500 square feet of space, but where it is located may have more to do with the price than the house itself.

Location, location, location has always been the mantra of real estate transactions, whether you're buying or selling. It's especially true if you're talking about different geographical areas of the country, where a three-bedroom ranch might command more than $800,000 in California and less than $150,000 in Mississippi or Arkansas

In three area communities of Fenton, Holly and Grand Blanc, the price discrepancy between locations may have more to do with variances in neighborhoods and other factors that might affect a property's value.

For example, if a property is on a busy main road, the noise factor and safety factor for children will reduce the price.

Proximity to expressways for ease of commuting can be both a positive

Taking shelter from the storm

► Homeowners have a variety of options in choosing a 'safe room' for their house or property

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

In the unfortunate incidence that a tornado warning is issued in the tri-county area, where should you go to avoid serious injury or death?

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the aver-

Summary

► Michigan is considered at "moderate" risk for tornado activity, according to maps released by the National Weather Service. A U.S. Wind Zone Map shows that southern Michigan from Detroit south is in an area of 250 mph winds, while the majority of the state is in a wind zone area of 200 mph winds.

National Oceanic and nistration, the average lead time for tornado warnings is 13 minutes, which should get you to safety as long as the decision to leave is carried out immediately, you know exactly where to go ground storm shelters.

Many experts agree that a person's odds for surviving a direct hit with a strong tornado (EF-4 or EF-5) are greatest in a below-ground storm shelter. If a below-ground safe room is not available, but a basement is present, experts suggest going to the basement and getting under sturdy furniture or a stairwell.

For existing homes without a basement, retrofitting a small, interior room or adding a safe room above ground within a large room may be a cost effective alternative. An approved safe room has reinforced walls, ceiling and door. The term "safe room" applies to all shelters, buildings or spaces designed to the FEMA criteria.

Here are a few different types of safe rooms:

• Underground shelter — made from reinforced steel or concrete installed underground in a yard or underneath a garage. Both the walls and ceilings are made from reinforced material. They are resistant to extreme winds and debris, but may be difficult to access during a storm.
• Part of the house — new homes can be outfitted with something that looks like a fortified bank safe. The structure is often made using reinforced concrete or wood and steel, and can double as a closet or storage room. It should be self-contained and anchored to a home's foundation to resist overturning or lifting up during windy conditions.

• Prebuilt shelter — can be installed inside an existing home in a range of styles: welded steel box, steel skeleton with steel panels or a prefabricated unit that is then bolted together. They should also be anchored to a home's foundation.

Here are a few facts to consider

The cost for a steel-reinforced 8x8 foot room is between $6,600 and $8,700. The agency has some rebate programs to offset these costs for homeowners.

Generally, mobile home occupants should seek safe shelter elsewhere, as a mobile home offers little protection from a tornado. If you live in a mobile home park, consider approaching the owner as a group about building a storm shelter.

What supplies should be in your safe room?

- flashlight
- basic toolsblankets
- first-aid kitemergency radio
 - radio bottled water
- batteries
- dry food

what the future

►Interest rates, home prices moving upward

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If 2013 is the year you're thinking about buying or selling a home, now is the time to "get off the fence" and move into action. That's the word from local real estate agents, who are continuing to work to keep up with the real estate market that has rebounded in both home sale prices and interest rates.

The last week in June saw the biggest one-week leap in mortgage rates in 26 years, according to USA Today.

The average 30year fixed-rate mortgage rose to 4.46 percent, the highest in almost two years, and up from under 4 percent the week before. That means these historically low rates are on the rise.

"Interest rates are still incredibly low from an historical perspective," said Brian Garrow, broker/owner of Garrow & Associates in Grand Blanc. "Home values are not back where they were in 2006, but have significantly come back from the crash in '08."

Patrik Welty of Legacy Realty in Fenton says that no doubt, the numbers are moving strongly in the right direction. "Home prices have risen in excess of 10 percent over a year ago," he said. "We don't know what the future holds, but if you're sitting on the fence waiting for home prices to go down, that's not likely to happen."

Even with home prices on the rise, they're still at a decent price, according to Kristy Cantleberry of the Go Kristy Team at ReMax Grande in Grand Blanc. What has changed in this market is the lack of inventory of homes for sale, driving up the competition for those available homes.

"To buy a home in this market, you're competing against multiple offers," said Cantleberry. "You must have your financing in order and be ready to buy, or don't bother to look. By the time you'd be ready, that house will be gone.

What's "old" has become "new"

Exposed aggregate used to be a popular look in the 1950s and '60s and is now becoming a new trend, according to Schupbach. It gives a decorative, textured look to your patio, with all the advantages of concrete.

What's a porch?

Porch comes from the Latin word "portico," which in classical Greek and Roman architecture was a roof structure supported by columns leading to the entrance of a building. A porch can be a signature architectural feature of the front of your home, or can be a quiet, screened-in version that will extend your outdoor living into three seasons of the year.

Screened-in porches are becoming more and more popular, as people try to bring the best of the outdoors in, and leave the rest outside. Mostly shielded

Typically, our houses are only on the market from zero - thirty days."

She also expresses the importance of working with a Realtor that's on top of the market and can get prospective buyers' listings as soon as they're available. "You have to see them right away or they'll be gone," said Cantleberry.

Cantleberry says that the biggest question a buyer has to ask him or herself when the offer is up against multiple offers for the same house: At what price are you willing to lose this house for? "Many offers are coming in above appraisal," she said.

The biggest catch-22 for Garrow is that the numbers are still "right on" for people to buy, but there needs to be more sellers willing to sell. "If you were 'underwater' with your mortgage before, you might want to check and see where your home value is today," said Garrow. "You may want to take advantage of low interest rates if you're looking to downsize. It's a great time to sell."

Before any project is started, check with your local zoning inspector to make sure you understand the rules in your area.

from the elements, these rooms allow a homeowner to indulge in décor — from furniture and lighting, to rugs and other accents — that echoes the interior style of the rest of the home.

Screening-in your existing porch, if you have one, or replacing a torn or damaged screen, is much easier today with innovative screen hardware.

Before you start any outdoor project:

Whether you build or improve your patio, deck or porch, you'll need a permit from your municipality. Buried gas, water and electric lines will need to be located and flagged. Check with your local building and zoning inspector to find out the rules in your area.

and negative, depending upon a community's perception as a "bedroom community."

With Grand Blanc having larger employers than Fenton and Holly, the latter two communities will be more dependent on access to expressways and quality of roads, according to Legacy Realty owner/broker Patrik Welty. "There are more people working in the area of Grand Blanc than in Fenton and Holly," he said.

Factors that positively affect a property's value in a certain location would include:

- The quality of the school district
- Supply and demand in that area
- The characteristics of a neighborhood and how well it's maintained

"The perceived desirability of an area through amenities like shopping, lakes, parks and recreation will have a positive affect on a property's value in that area," said Welty.

Negative effects on property values based on location include:

- being located near a pylon or a substation
- being near or next to a railway line
- backing onto an industrial site, noisy pubs, shops or commercial properties
- being next door to a rundown property
- being near a sewer treatment plant or other undesirable smell

recipe from allrecipes.com

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was very interested in your column on the DASH diet. Is there a diet sheet listing all the items pertaining to this diet? How can I get one? I think it's a doable diet. — I.P.

ANSWER: DASH, Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension, is a doable, simple and good-tasting diet. People are disappointed to find out that the diet is contained on one page with straightforward directives. The sheet lists the number of servings of a particular food group, what constitutes a serving and examples of the foods in each group. That's all there is. You can expect a drop of 8 to 14 points in blood pressure if you're faithful to it. One of the most important diet changes is limiting sodium (salt) consumption to 1,500 grams. Here's the diet:

GRAINS: Six to eight servings a day; whole-grain breads like wheat, cereals (both dry and cooked), brown rice and pastas are grains. A serving is one slice of bread, one cup of dry cereal and half a cup of cooked cereal.

FRUITS: Four to six daily servings, with a serving being a moderately sized whole fruit, a half-cup of frozen or canned fruit or a half-cup of fruit juice. VEGETABLES: Four to five servings a day, with a serving being one cup of leafy green veggie, 1/2 cup cut up, raw or cooked vegetables or 1/2 cup vegetable juice.

DAIRY: Two to three servings a day of low-fat dairy products, with a serving being a cup of skim or low-fat milk, a cup of yogurt or one and a half ounces of cheese.

LEAN MEATS, POULTRY, FISH: Six or fewer servings a day. A serving is one ounce of cooked meat, skinless chicken or fish. One egg is also a serving. NUTS, SEEDS, DRY BEANS: Four to five servings a week. One serving is a third cup of nuts, 2 tablespoons of peanut butter, a half a cup of dry beans. FATS AND OILS: Two to three servings a day, with a serving being equal to 1 tablespoon of low-fat mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon of margarine, 1 teaspoon of vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons of salad dressing. SWEETS: Five or less a week. A serving is a tablespoon of sugar or a teaspoon of jam or jelly.

Sample scripts for 'how to say it'

DEAR AMY: My brother is trying to get me to date this girl I don't like. She's one of those futureless, pot-smoking screw-ups with the IQ of a sponge, one of the 'bad crowd' (like about every other person in this town). I know he's just trying to help me, so how do I tell him to stop and not to try again? I highly doubt any of the people he knows would interest me at all.

— Don't Like Her

DEAR DON'T: I'd probably leave out the futureless, potsmoking screw-up with the IQ of a sponge part and just cut to the chase. You could say, 'Thanks, man, but I'm all set.'

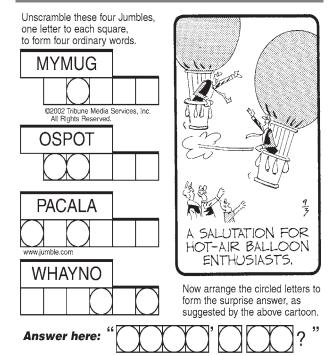

Then I think it's time for you to book your bus ticket. If you are surrounded by such losers, it sounds like it's time to make plans to 'get out of Dodge.'

DEAR AMY: My first-grade son brought home some corrected homework the other day on which the teacher had written this note: "Write neater." Under any other circumstance, I would never correct another adult's grammar; that would be rude and embarassing. But she is a teacher, after all, and she would probably appreciate being reminded that adjectives modify nouns and adverbs modify verbs, and the grammatically correct statement is, 'Write more neatly.' Any thoughts?

— Stickler for Grammar

DEAR STICKLER: If you think your son's teacher would appreciate having her grammar corrected by you then, by all means, let her know that this language breach is something with which you cannot put up. (By the way, you've misspelled 'embarrassing' in your note to me, but, hey, I'm just letting you know.) But since it's rather toward the beginning of the school year, why don't you sit on your grammar issue for a few more weeks and assume that she might have committed a one-time offense. If you notice further grammar problems or if your son comes home with his participles dangerously dangling, you should speak with her. But don't get cute by circling her comments in red pen or anything. Just tell her you're a stickler and say you've noticed a grammar issue: Is she aware of this?

Canine Parvovirus Can Kill Puppies

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Please encourage your readers to get their dogs vaccinated against the parvovirus. This summer, the virus seems to be everywhere in my area. My two dogs are vaccinated regularly, and I'm keeping them inside and away from other dogs for now, just in case.

— Dolores

DEAR DOLORES: Absolutely! Diseases like canine parvovirus can spread rapidly among dogs that live close together, such as in shelters or kennels. So it is very important to keep your dog's vaccinations up to date. If you're not sure whether your dog was vaccinated against this deadly virus, contact your veterinarian. Puppies are the most vulnerable to one form of parvovirus that attacks their heart muscles, which can kill them. So vaccinating puppies that are between 6 weeks and 6 months old is critically important. Adult dogs tend to suffer from the more common intestinal form of parvo: They'll experience lethargy, vomiting, diarrhea and weight loss. It quickly can cause severe dehydration, so you must get a sick dog to the veterinarian right away. The virus is transmitted through direct contact with infected dogs, or through eating infected stool -- gross, but it happens. In addition to vaccinating your dog, keep your yard clear of dog feces and don't let your dog sniff or eat other dog's stools. If you plan to board your dog at a kennel, ask the owner if there are procedures in place to prevent parvo transmission (such as making sure all dogs have their shots before allowing them), and take a tour to make sure the facility is clean and well maintained.
