“When people call the Hot line to thank somebody for helping them, why don't they just thank them themselves at the time they are helped? I always wonder about that.”

“I find it amazing that one float in the parade has caused so much drama. If the PFLAG community wants to have a float, they can. The city cannot discriminate. Next year I will scream

Freedom Festival — Volunteers, donations key to Fenton's biggest celebration of the summer

With an estimated 10,000 people packed into Fenton for this year's Freedom Festival, it is clearly one of the biggest events of the year for the city.

With parades, races, fireworks and much more, planning an event of this size is not easy, and it's not a job that can be done alone. Every year, a committee of up to 30 volunteers begin meeting in January to meticulously plan out Fenton's biggest summer celebration.

Fenton Township may have new park by this fall

► Soccer, baseball fields, amphitheater part of proposed plans

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

It has been more than a year since it was originally proposed but Fenton Township officials are still working to create a park on vacant land close to Fenton and Thompson roads, near Wiggins Road. A walking path, baseball and soccer fields are some of the proposed features Township Clerk Robert Krug is working to have implemented into the park.

"We have the permits now. I'm going to try to pull off a meeting this week," Krug said, who added that construction of the park could begin as soon as this fall.

So far, three soccer fields and three baseball diamonds are in the works. Each field will be designated for an age group, ranging from elementary school kids up to adults. In later stages of the park, Krug would like to see a sledding hill implemented, as well as a splash pad and an amphitheater.

Krug proposed the layout for the park during a township meeting last July, where trustees supported the creation of the park. Although the total cost to build the park will require about $500,000, Krug said he would work to use as little township funding as possible. Construction of the park will rely mostly upon community input and donations. So far, Krug said Lawrence Engineering PC has donated time and resources to surveying the property. Krug is also working with other groups such as the La Forza Soccer Club, Boy Scouts and local Little League teams to help build the fields and walkways.

"I still want to point out it's for the people who are in our area. Our goal is to not use township funds and make this a true community effort," Krug said.

When initially proposed, some residents near the site of the proposed park were opposed to its construction, citing the possibility of increased traffic and decrease value in neighboring properties. Krug has said in past township board meetings that he'll address some of the neighbors' concerns, whether by installing fencing near their properties or adjusting some of the park's layout so neighbors have more privacy.

The land for the proposed park covers 36 acres and includes two wetlands. About 20 acres of the land is expected to be usable for the park.

FENTON HOME INVASION, AUTO THEFT

On July 3, at 5:45 p.m. Fenton police responded to a home in the 15000 block of Bealford Drive to investigate a stolen car and home invasion complaint. The 62-year-old homeowner told police that she and her husband left home around 11 a.m. and returned about 5:30 p.m. A 1998 Buick they own had been parked in the driveway but when they returned home, it was gone. The homeowner said the suspect must have broken into their home to get the car keys to steal the car since they couldn't find the keys. Police recovered evidence left behind by the suspect. The theft was reported to GAIN, the county's auto theft team.

Twinkies back after 9-month hiatus

► More than 50 million Twinkies to be delivered across the nation next week

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Rocky Balboa. Steve Jobs. Robert Downey Jr. — everyone loves a good comeback story. On Monday, June 15, the country will witness one of the sweetest comebacks of all — the return of everyone's favorite golden, cream-filled treat. Yes, it's the Twinkie.

After filing for bankruptcy, snack food based company Hostess has been reborn as Hostess Brands LLC, with new owners, and shedding $1.3 billion of debt that led to its downfall.

The new company wants to more aggressively focus on marketing the spongy treat. "Wherever you find a Snickers bar or M&Ms, you should be able to find a Twinkie," Hostess CEO C. Dean Metropoulos said to the Wall Street Journal.

It's not just Twinkies making a return either — other Hostess brands such as Ding Dongs and Ho Hos will also find their way back to store shelves.

"People miss the whole line," said Carol Maciejewski, VG's store director. "I think people are really excited about it. We'll see how it goes, but we get a lot of people asking for the Hostess line."

snack dates all the way back to 1930, when they were first concocted by a baker named James Dewar. Originally made with banana-cream filling, banana rationing in World War II resulted in switching to a vanilla cream, which proved to be immensely popular, even to this day.

It's not banana rationing that poses Twinkie's biggest obstacle now — it's returning to a market that has since been filled with copycats.

"In the meantime what's happened is everyone else has come up with their own imitations. Perfection Bakery have they're own, what I call 'like-Twinkies,'" Maciejewski said, though she admitted they just aren't quite the same.

It is a common rumor that the ingredients involved in making a Twinkie will allow the snacks

Kicking the sugar habit

► Feel better, help your heart by lessening your sugar intake

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If you start out your day with sugar in your coffee, a soda pop with lunch and a processed alfredo sauce on white pasta for dinner, you've already consumed more sugar than your body can process — and that's not including regular sweet snacks, like cookies, candy or ice cream.

The average American consumes 32 teaspoons of added sugar per day, in addition to the naturally occurring sugars in fruit, milk or whole grains, according to Sarah Easlick, M.S., R.D., clinical nutrition manager at McLaren Regional Medical Center in Flint.

"Sugar comes in foods you don't even think about," said Easlick. "Read your food labels carefully. Food products you want your family to consume should contain less than 30 percent of sugar."

How to read food labels

Food labels can be confusing, however. Just because there's a nutrition-oriented statement on the package (like "contains whole grain" or "25 percent less sugar") doesn't mean there isn't a shocking amount of sugar (see sidebar). Even healthy-sounding brands like Weight Watchers or Skinny Cow carry many products loaded with sugar.

See SUGAR on 19A

Regular "healthy" foods contain close to the daily allotment of sugar that is suggested each day. Read labels carefully to see amounts.

License plate, thy name is Vanity

I travel a lot by car, averaging about 30,000 miles per year. That's a lot of road hours so I have a variety of activities to help pass the time, such as books on tape (actually, CDs), XM radio (not worth the cost in my opinion), CDs of my all-time favorite music (Beatles still rule!!!) and, my favorite, trying to break the code of those witty vanity plate punsters.

In a world now dominated by text conversations where pretty much all messages are based on the same fundamentals as vanity plates, it's easier than ever for those clever communicators to stump me as to the true meaning of their eight digit (including spaces) license plate postings.

For instance, imagine my consternation recently when an attractive lady driving an expensive foreign vehicle sporting the plate ILVTOFU zoomed by me not too long ago. Fortunately, she also had an "I Think Therefore I'm Vegan" bumper sticker that solved the mystery.

Never one to miss any opportunity to siphon more income from the few of us that are actually still working, Michigan is now considering auctioning off popular plates to the highest bidder like some other states do.

They may be onto something. A doctor in Dallas, TX purchased 'PORSCHÉ' for $7,500, as well as 'AMERICA' for $3,000 at auction. 'I will get my American citizenship next month, so it means a lot to me,' said Salman Waheed, an intensive-care physician.

Some people just have too much money. A businessman in Abu Dhabi bought a license plate that simply reads '1' at an auction for $14.3 million in 2008.

The U.S. state with the highest vanity plate penetration rate is Virginia, with 16 percent of all vehicles opting for VPs. It's important to note that most Washington politicians live in Virginia. Coincidence? I think not.

States have long denied certain combinations of letters or numbers considered obscene or inappropriate. Some reference drugs, some are invitations or statements of a personal nature (such as the Vegan lady), and some would send a sixth grade classroom of boys into fits of uncontrollable laughter.

Here are a few examples of license plate creativity that didn't quite make it past the censors: MEANMF, SZM-TRS, TITSUP, KISMYS, XX TATAS, DOGDOO, 4NIK8, SHARTD and 370H55V (look at it upside down).

Conversely, here are some which slipped by the censors: OSI-IT, GR8N-BED, BAD A55, FLASHME and EFFIT.

Here are some I've seen that stumped me for a bit: MDEULOK (I looked), LDYNRD (I first thought Lady Nerd but finally figured out Lady In Red), ZERODN (mortgage guy), H8 3PUT (golfer), IMCUTE (she was), LV2KRE8 (artist?), GRYSQRL (senior citizen?) and URLO2ME (on a big truck).

My choice, which I recently checked and is still available in Michigan for a mere $30, is: FIR KNG. Of course, that would be like having a sign on my car that says "key me!"

Well, that's all for now.

Police receive few, if any, fireworks complaints

►All calm despite expanded fireworks law

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Included with most Fourth of July celebrations is a nighttime sky illuminated with the bursting of fireworks and the accompanying thunderous booms. Most people in this country expect these planned, or sometimes random, celebrations of independence.

Up until last year, the setting off of fireworks that projected up into the air had to be handled by professionals. In 2011, however, legislation in Michigan passed, which allowed residents to light projectile fireworks the day before, on and after a national holiday.

This opened up the opportunity for some to take the law too far and light fireworks beyond what was permitted.

In response to the new legislation, last month, Fenton City Council implemented its own ordinance that prohibits the use of fireworks between 1 and 8 a.m. within city limits. Violators could be charged up to $500, as well as additional fees for storing, disposing or destroying confiscated fireworks.

Looking back over this past Fourth of July holiday, local police report that things were calm and complaints were few.

Lt. Jason Slater of the Fenton Police Department said that on the Fourth of July, around the time of the city's own fireworks, some people gathering to watch the display from public property apparently felt the need to launch their own projectile fireworks.

Police were on hand monitoring the gatherings and spoke to several people reminding them that they did not have permission to light their fireworks on public property. Slater said everyone they spoke with were respectful, cooperative and explained that they did not realize it was against the law. "Our main focus was safety," said Slater.

The lieutenant added that Fenton police responded to one noise complaint on the Fourth, but it was for a loud party.

Linden Police Chief Scott Sutter said

Council considers censuring member

►Accused council member Jackie Campbell not present

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly — Holly Village Council Member Jackie Campbell may be heading to being officially censured by the village council. Censuring is essentially an official slap on the wrist from council, which doesn't have the ability to remove her.

Censuring a council member was on the agenda, but it was struck from the meeting because the person possibly being censured was not present — Campbell was excused from Tuesday's meeting, and the meeting prior for medical reasons.

The issue of censuring entered into official discussion at the previous meeting, when the agenda was amended to include a discussion on "council member misconduct."

The misconduct in part stems from a letter Campbell read into the minutes during the meeting on June 11 when the fate of the dispatch center was decided. She read a letter from a resident, who was arguing in favor of keeping Holly's own dispatch open. When Campbell read the letter, her words from the resident were officially included into the record of that meeting.

At the June 25 meeting, Council Member Ryan Bladzick pointed out discrepancies between what Campbell had said aloud, and the letter she submitted into the record. In

Summary

►The topic of censuring a council member appeared on the Tuesday agenda. The ire is directed at Council Member Jackie Campbell, who read a letter into the minutes of a previous meeting. The words she read and the letter itself did not match.

RESCUE

occurred in the 600 block of Hickory Street.

By 5:14 p.m., the fire department was arriving at the man's home. Firefighters found the man, stuck in the top of a tree that he had been trimming. The injured man was about 65 feet in the air, unable to pull himself out of a V near the top of the tree because of his broken ankle.

After assessing the situation and determining their best approach to bring the injured man down safely, the fire department backed their ladder truck into a very tight driveway off Silver Lake Road and accessed the tree and patient via the basket on their ladder truck.

Firefighters lifted the man from the tree and placed him into an orange Stokes basket, used in rescue situations. He was then lowered to safety via the ladder truck at 6:09 p.m.

The man was transferred to the care of STATEMS workers who transported him to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township.

Fenton Fire Chief Robert Cairnduff said two of his firefighters have experience in climbing and trimming trees and they had the proper equipment to climb the tree to reach the victim before they set up the ladder truck. "They were essential to us reaching the patient and being able to remove him safely from the tree," said Cairnduff.

Winners spend a day at Capitol with lawmaker

►Rep. Joe Graves sponsors summer reading program

State Rep. Joe Graves will sponsor a summer reading program for children in the 51st House District, with the winners invited to spend a day with him at the state capitol.

Graves (R-Argentine Township) said the contest is open to children in first through fifth grades and is being conducted with the Genesee District Library (GDL).

"Children who read are able to travel to new places and experience new ideas they may never encounter elsewhere," Graves said.

This contest is a fun way for children to remain engaged in learning during the summer, which will make the transition back to class in the fall much easier.

LIBRARIES PARTICIPATING IN THE PROGRAM ARE:

• Fenton Winegarden Library
200 East Caroline St., Fenton

• Linden Library
201 North Main St., Linden

• Goodrich Library
10237 Hegel Rd., Goodrich

Children can obtain bookmarks at the libraries and keep track of books they read. The bookmarks will be turned in at the libraries by September, and the names of winners will be drawn at the end of the program. The winners will be Graves' guests in Lansing later in the fall.

For more information, contact Graves toll-free at 866-989-5151, or via email at josephgraves@house.mi.gov.

CHASE

area police agencies and soon afterward, Lt. Jason Slater of the Fenton Police Department sent out a radio alert that he had spotted the truck in downtown Fenton. Slater initiated a traffic stop to the truck, at which point the driver sped away northbound on LeRoy Street.

In addition to Fenton police pursuing this stolen truck, patrol cars from Linden, Argentine Township, Grand Blanc Township, Mundy Township, Michigan State Police and the Genesee County Sheriff's Department assisted as it entered their jurisdictions.

Traveling southbound on Linden Road, the driver lost control of the pickup truck as he attempted to turn east onto Thompson Road. He crashed in the 4500 block of Thompson Road, just east of Linden Road in Fenton Township. When the truck crashed into the ditch, the driver fled on foot. Fulton said police found the man in tall weeds about 20 minutes later and he was taken into custody around 11:30 a.m.

The suspect was transported to the Genesee County Jail for questioning. Fulton said police believe this suspect might be linked to several other auto thefts in the past week. Fulton said Argentine police will be seeking an arrest warrant for the car theft and a cooperative investigation with area police agencies will follow. Slater said they will be seeking charges of fleeing and eluding, as well as being in possession of a stolen vehicle.

It was unknown immediately if drugs or alcohol contributed to this incident.

Residents near the crash site were treated to a front-row seat to the incident. One resident watched police enter her backyard, guns drawn, and she was told to get back inside, and stay inside. She saw the suspect, his arrest and extraction from her property. She said it was scary waiting to see what would happen next.

Camp Oasis empowers children to feel 'normal'

►Copneconic hosts camp for children with IB Disease

By Olivia Dimmer
news@tctimes.com;

Fenton Twp. — The morning sun beats down on the 143 campers that make up Camp Oasis one of the many camps at Camp Copneconic. Campers have just finished their 9:30 a.m. breakfast and are about to head out to their daily activities — rock wall climbing, archery, swimming and keeping up with their daily regimen of prescription pills.

Although they look and act just like any other camper that visits the grounds of Camp Copneconic, Camp Oasis kids live with Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD), which most commonly manifests itself in the form of Crohn's disease, that can affect any part of the gastrointestinal tract and cause pain, or Colitis, inflammation of the colon or large intestine.

These campers range in age from 7 to 17, but all have one thing in common — their disease, and how that disease makes it difficult for them to be 'normal.' Camp Oasis aims to make these children feel 'normal' through the weeklong camp filled with activities, a talent show, events, IBD-friendly meal plans and opportunities to bond with other children and older mentors who also have IBD.

"This is my fourth year counseling on a volunteer basis here and driving up from Kentucky to do so," said Jonathan Rohman, who was diagnosed with IBD his freshman year in high school. "I felt that my experiences would be good to share with other kids. I love hearing the kids'

Ask the FINANCIAL ADVISOR

Q. I am ready to make investing a priority. What is the best way to get started and stay on track?

A. In working toward investment goals, you need to be persistent. One of the best ways to demonstrate persistence is to invest automatically. You simply need to have your bank automatically move money each month from a checking or savings account into the investments you've chosen. Automatic investing gives you the discipline to stay invested, even during periods of market uncertainty. By regularly putting the same amount of amount toward the same investments, you'll automatically become a "smart shopper," because when prices drop, your monthly investment will buy more shares, and when prices rise, you'll buy fewer shares. Keep in mind, though, that systematic investing does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss. So, do what it takes to become an automatic investor. It's easy, it's smart — and it's effective.

Q: My PCV valve rattles loudly while engine is at idle. I've replaced it three times. What could be the problem?

- Aaron

A: Aaron, The first thing I ask is, are you using an OEM quality PCV valve (meaning A/C Delco or from the dealer)? We see a lot of aftermarket PCV valves cause problems. Next thing that comes to mind is to check the port where the PCV hose hooks to the engine. Make sure it is clear and getting full vacuum. Other than these items, try a good cleaning of the throttle bore and check the timing if it is adjustable.

Council sells village building to local business owner

►Vacant municipal building at Cyclone Park likely to be revamped, used as offices

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiello@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Holly — At its meeting on Tuesday, the Holly Village Council voted 6-0 to sell the village offices at 202 South Saginaw St. for $411,000. Council member Jackie Campbell was excused from the meeting.

John Colucci, owner of Real Barre and CSM was the sole interested party in purchasing the building when it was initially proposed to be sold in April. Colucci currently leases space upstairs for staff.

Colucci attended the meeting and addressed council about the building. "I just love Holly. I think it's the coolest little downtown atmosphere," he said when he made it clear he could have taken his investments anywhere. Colucci sees the plan for the building as a partnership with the village which needs the income and investment.

With the building, he said he wanted to remove any hint of the styling from the '80s and return as much of it back to its historical look, with a little bit of color. "The building's not being taken care of," he said. "I'm gonna take care of it because it's my home."

Colucci plans to expand his current businesses into the building, which he believes will create jobs and bring more foot traffic downtown.

Real Barre will take up most of the retail space, and will include a "high end nail salon and spa" called Topsy, which will serve beer and wine.

The audience bubbled with excitement, and Council Member Bob Allsop made the motion to sell the building to Colucci, including some extra curb repair for around $5,000.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

John Colucci has proposed a land contract sale of the village offices, which was accepted at the meeting. Colucci will be moving his family upstairs from Fenton.

Terms of the contract

The building will be sold for $411,000 through a 48-month land contract, after which the village offices will probably be moved to the vacant municipal building at 504 East Maple St. at Cyclone Park.

During the 48-month term, the village will be responsible for up to $30,000 worth of structural repairs to the building, which will be deducted from the final $361,666 balloon payment.

The village is also responsible for utilities, repairing broken windows and curb repairs among others.

Colucci Group will be responsible for repairing structural issues on the upper levels, and air conditioning repairs.

The village can also stay in the building rent-free, while the new location is renovated, which is roughly expected to cost $100,000.

In all, the offices will cost Colucci $488,774.40 over the 48-month period, with $2,014 monthly payments. The final balloon payment will be $361,666.

Rubber Ducky race nets $18,732

► Proceeds from Rotary event goes toward local programs

By Sharon Stone

ssstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

More than 2,100 ducks were sold at $10 a piece for the Fenton Rotary Club's Rubber Ducky Regatta Race, held on the Fourth of July during the Fenton Freedom Festival. These sales grossed $21,000

Summary

► The Fenton Rotary Club netted more than $18,000 with their 25th annual Rubber Ducky Regatta Race. The money raised will be used on various programs in the tri-county area.

for the club to use for prizes, expenses and projects within the community.

Hal Richards and Noah Morgan were the co-chairs of this year's Rubber Ducky Regatta. It was the 25th annual race hosted by the Fenton Rotary Club.

Many of the 2,100 tickets sold came from the community's local businesses acting as sponsors. Sponsors would buy 10 tickets for $100 and they receive a plaque with a Rubber Duck mounted to show their local support.

After paying out prizes for the first-place prize of $1,000 and smaller amounts ranging from $500 to $50 for second through 15th place, and other expenses, the Fenton Rotary Club brought in $18,732, which it plans to give back to the community through various projects it does in the community.

The Fenton Rotary does several major service projects including the Angel Tree Program where they promote the giving season to help support more than 130 families in this area.

Community Service Chairman Brad Alvord also leads a ramp building program where Rotarians build anywhere from two to three ramps for disabled citizens in this community to help make their homes more accessible via a wheelchair ramp.

The Rotary also hosts an annual Senior Picnic for the seniors in the area on Lake Fenton, as well as supporting the schools local debate clubs, and providing scholarships to area students.

The Fenton Rotary Club is actively seeking new members. Anyone interested in getting involved in the community and promoting their motto, "Service Above Self," should contact Membership Chair Ron Haldy at rhdaldy@hotmail.com or Noah Morgan at noahcmorgan@gmail.com.

Fenton firefighters cut ventilation holes for practice through the roof of the old Fenton Cinema building, which will be demolished.

Old cinema used for fire training

►Fire department holds training session on vacant commercial building

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

With Creative Foam planning to demolish the old Fenton Cinema building to make way for a new structure, the Fenton Fire Department asked for and received permission from the building's new owners to use the vacant building for fire training.

Fire Chief Robert Cairnduff said his staff does not get many opportunities to train on commercial buildings so they were eager to take advantage of the circumstances.

Cairnduff said Mark Shepler and Dave Swallow from Creative Foam understood the fire department's desire to use the vacant building and made sure they could use it despite the training would slow down Creative Foam's schedule for demolition.

"We are very grateful that they worked with us," said Cairnduff.

Cairnduff invited neighboring Linden, Fenton Township and North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA) to take part, however, only NOCFA was able to send a crew over on the day of training, June 27. About 20 firefighters from Fenton City took part.

The focus of training was to practice ventilation on a commercial roof. The old cinema has a gravel, rubber membrane, foam insulation and a metal deck layered roof, which is common in a lot of commercial buildings in the area.

The chief said when firefighters battle a fire in a building, one of the key things they do is to cut a hole above the fire to ventilate the smoke and heat inside to make it easier to get to the fire and to make the environment in the building safer. Multiple openings were cut into the roof practicing how they would do it in an actual fire.

While crews were on the roof, they also had crews inside the building practicing searching a large building and stretching hose lines inside a large commercial building.

"We don't get the opportunity to train on roofs like this very often, so we were excited to get the opportunity," said Cairnduff.

Shepler said, "Creative Foam Corporation was pleased to offer the fire department use of the building to hone their fire fighting skills under relatively safe conditions."

Former president to pay club back $16,767

►Embezzlement defendant banned from sportsman's club, on probation for five years

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

On Thursday, a former president of the Linden Sportsman Club was ordered to pay back restitution of $16,767. This came on the heels of him pleading guilty in May to embezzling the funds from the club located on Hogan Road in Fenton Township.

Steven Fowler had pleaded guilty to one five-year felony of larceny by conversion of an amount between $1,000 and $20,000.

An investigation into Fowler's actions began in May 2012, when board members suspected that club money were missing. Fowler, who was president at the time, had a debit card with access to the club's financial account. Board members filed a complaint with the Genesee County Sheriff's Department and an investigation led to charges against Fowler.

The investigation by the sheriff's department revealed that Fowler had used the debit card and took money from the club and used it for personal gain.

On Thursday, Circuit Court Judge Joseph Farah ordered Fowler to pay restitution of $16,767, with monthly payments of $290. The judge also ordered Fowler to five years of probation. In addition to being banned from the Linden Sportsman Club, the judge said that Fowler cannot be in charge of any organization.

stories, their struggles, and how they still come out positive.”

Becky Johnson Rescola and Dawn Aubrey work together with the Crohn’s and Colitis Foundation of America to make this camp possible for the kids who need it. The camp is funded mostly through benefactors, donations and with the help of countless volunteers.

“Kids with IBD tend to miss a lot of school,” Johnson Rescola said. “They have growth delays, or have to be on steroids and look differently because of that. Some get thinner, others are not so thin. They have to leave class to use the bathroom a lot and need special provisions while taking tests. All these things make them stick out—and as a kid, the last thing you want to do is stick out. But when they come to Camp Oasis, they can come to terms with that. For some kids, this is the first time they have ever met someone else with IBD.”

This experience, she says, opens children with IBD up to accepting what they have to live with and with ways to cope. Camp Oasis, because of the special circumstances, has approximately six nurses on staff during the day, Gastroenterologist “Mostly we deal with homesickness,” Ann Hootner Jones, the clinical psychologist for Camp Oasis said. “But because they have IBD, some emotional issues can arise. They can be frightened and uncomfortable with what is happening to their body and can’t deal with it alone. But in meeting other boys and girls like them, they begin to have a more positive outlook. It’s a phenomenal experience.”

Summary

► Camp Oasis, housed at Camp Copneconic, is a weeklong camp for children who suffer from Inflammatory Bowel Disease, most often taking form in Crohn’s Disease or Colitis.

Camp Oasis participants and their families pay a $50 administrative fee to attend the camp. For more information on volunteer work or making a donation, visit the Crohn’s and Colitis Foundation of America online at ccfa.org.

“Everyone supports everyone here,” Aubrey, who works as an administrative assistant and camp director, said. “It is amazing to witness the growth in kids over the week they are here. They can start out shy and end up singing in the talent show just a few days later.

“This is the one place these kids get to feel normal, and nothing less. This is truly an Oasis for them.”

SPORTS TRIVIA

GOLF

Q How many times has Tom Watson won The Open Championship?

A Watson has won it five times. He earned victories in 1975, 1977, 1980, 1982 and 1983.

David's Dabblings

We are getting to the point in the summer where it seems the only sport with anything going on is baseball.

That's not entirely true, even if it feels like it sometimes. And to prove it I thought I'd list a few things that should keep people's interest over the next month.

1. The Open Championship (starts Thursday): It's a bit tougher to watch than many other golf majors due to the time, but there's something about the majors that make them more entertaining. I like the extended coverage. And, strangely, I find the first two rounds usually more exciting than the last two.

2. The Gold Cup final (July 28): That's as long as the United States men's soccer team makes it to the final, which they are expected to do. It isn't the World Cup, but it's still a tourney and it would be nice to see the U.S. win it.

3. Preseason NFL football (Aug. 4): The regular season doesn't start until September, but the preseason starts in about three weeks with the Hall of Fame game. I won't be watching it, but you can bet a bunch of NFL-loonies who watch anything NFL will be glued to their televisions.

Chauncey is back

Chauncey Billups has returned to the Detroit Pistons' organization, a team he helped lead to an NBA Championship during the 2004-05 season. Here is a list of some other players who left Detroit, but returned later. There's a bunch of people left off, obviously.

Player	Team	Comment
Ben Wallace	Pistons	His defense led the Pistons to a title. Returned for three years starting with the 2009-10 season.
Chris Osgood	Red Wings	Was on two Stanley Cup teams, was gone for five years and then helped Wings win another cup.
Todd Jones	Tigers	He saved the last game at Tiger Stadium. Came back in 2006 and played three more seasons.
Kirk Gibson	Tigers	A key member of the 1984 championship team. Left after 1987, he returned in 1993 for three seasons.
Anthony Carter	Panthers/Lions	Carter started his pro career with the USFL Michigan Panthers and ended it with the Detroit Lions.
John Ogradnick	Red Wings	A big scorer with bad teams until the 1986-87 season. Returned in 1992-93 and played in 19 games.

Hey now, you're an All-Star

► Minor League Quadtown All-Star games are a hit

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — The game was over, but it seemed the fun was just starting for the Lake Fenton and Linden Minor League All-Star softball teams.

And even in defeat, the Linden softball squad gave the Lake Fenton team a chance to feel like winners. After the game, the Linden team did a cheer for Lake Fenton and then did a human bridge so that the Lake Fenton squad could run through it.

Indeed, it was hard to tell who just won or lost the game.

Fenton's Shegos headed to Notre Dame College

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Mitchell Shegos thought basketball was his sport.

After all, he played varsity basketball as a sophomore and his thought process made sense.

But then, Shegos transferred to Fenton before his junior season and things started to change. And it's a good thing they did. After two outstanding varsity seasons with the Fenton varsity football season, Shegos is weeks away from starting his collegiate football career at Notre Dame College, located near Cleveland, Ohio.

Morrison shows progress at Motocross' Redbud stop

►Fenton resident has two more events left during the season

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Chris Morrison feels he's getting closer.

Being able to compete in his first-ever media day session at the Redbud stop of the Lucas Oil Pro Motocross series, the Fenton resident had reason to feel good about his weekend.

However, the rookie professional is still looking to qualify for the final events — the last two motos during the week.

"It definitely helps, I did much better than I did the previous weekend," Morrison said. "During the first practice I had the 11th fastest time in qualifying, so that's a big improvement.

"This one I felt like I had more of a chance to make it than the other ones. My lap times went from 15 seconds slower to just four seconds. That's a huge difference, dropping 10 seconds in qualifying time."

In the last-chance qualifier, he placed 14th. He needed to finish in the top four to earn a spot in the finals. It was Morrison's third event of the season, and it was the only one he'll have in his home state.

"It was cool because I had a lot of friends and family there," Morrison said.

"We took a group shot with all the people there. It helps you along knowing you have all that support at the track."

Morrison plans to race two more times this year, including on July 27 at Spring Creek in Millville, Minn.

ALL-STAR

But while every player likes to win, just the fact that the Quadtown Minor All-Star Tournaments for baseball and softball teams ages 9 and 10 happened suggests how every organization was a winner.

At Fenton's Andrew G. Schmidt Middle School, the Linden softball team beat Lake Fenton's squad in the finals 12-1, while just a few feet away Holly's All-Star baseball team defeated Linden's stars 11-4. The tournaments involved All-Star teams from Little League organizations in Holly, Hartland, Fenton, Lake Fenton and Linden.

"I think the communities loved it," said

Linden baseball co-coach Jim Shadduk. "I thought it was very well attended. A lot of the kids from the other teams came out and watched. It was a lot of fun."

"It was great," Holly baseball co-coach Rob White said. "It was a lot of fun. What a great group of kids we had. We had a really close game (in the semifinals with a win against Fenton) and (Linden) played a good game too. It was fun."

The baseball game remained a pretty decent pitchers' duel early on, but the Holly bats eventually blew the game open for the team. Jacob Pittenger and Alec Boan had home runs for Holly, helping result in the easy victory.

"We always preach we want to have fun and play as a team," White said.

"These guys really embrace that. They definitely had fun and they played together well. A lot of them already know each other. It was a team bonding thing."

Both baseball All-Star teams were made up of three players in each organizations' four squads.

In the softball game, Linden's bats and pitching were too much for Lake Fenton to overcome. On the mound, Jillian Wright and Ellie Klocek combined to lead Linden to the win. At the plate, Lauren Buerkel was a perfect 10-for-10 at the plate. Linden earned its spot in the final by defeating the Fenton All-Stars 12-2 on Monday. Lake Fenton advanced with a 10-9 victory against Hartland on Monday as well.

"Playing as a team and bringing the three (Linden) teams together was really cool," Linden softball co-coach Mark Magalski said.

In defeat, Lake Fenton had fun, doing cheers most of the contest.

"They love to do their cheers and they are all smiles," Lake Fenton all-star coach Heather Tanner said. "At this age it is a lot of fun."

SHEGOS

"When I first hit high school it was always basketball," Shegos said. "I made varsity as a sophomore and that was really my sport. But that was until I moved, had a great junior year and it sparked me. That's when I grew a stronger love for football besides basketball."

Shegos made an immediate impact on the Fenton football program, making key plays in several games as a wide receiver and a defensive back. He helped lead the squad to a victory against Linden and a 9-3 record overall, capturing a district and Metro League championship.

During his senior year, Shegos was a known entity, but it didn't keep him from dominating action on the football field. He caught 42 passes for 726 yards and 11 TDs, a Fenton school record. He also ran for a score as well. On defense, Shegos had 40 total tackles, defended 15 passes and had seven interceptions. He returned one of them for a TD.

Shegos said moving to Fenton benefited his career.

"When I came in it was a good program. It was definitely one of the top programs in the league and I wanted to keep it that way," Shegos said.

Shegos was looking at many of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference teams when he was searching for a school. He looked at Grand Valley, Ferris State and Northwood as well. When he signed with Notre Dame, Western Michigan also asked him to join the Broncos as a walk-on. Obviously, Notre Dame College won out.

"The coaching staff is fantastic," Shegos said. "When I made my first visit, it seemed like the right place. They have a lot of similar coaches to what we have in Fenton, so we clicked that way too. The campus is not too big or not too small. It has just the right amount of students and the academics are great."

Shegos, who always wanted to play for Western after his older brother played at Kalamazoo College, said becoming a Bronco was tempting.

"Ever since my brother graduated at Kalamazoo College, I had eyes on Western," Shegos said. "Western was the top school I wanted to go to, but it didn't work out and I had to set my priorities down a bit."

The Falcons posted a 3-8 record overall last year and a 2-8 mark in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Association. However, the program is moving to a new Division 2 conference this season, the 11-team Mountain East Conference. Shegos plans on remaining at receiver and possibly as a special teams returner.

"I'll be a receiver, but I'm not sure if I'll be on the outside or the slot," Shegos said. "I went to camp last week and talked to the head coach. I could end up retuning kids.

"When I went to camp they said there are two things that can hold a freshman back — they may not be physically ready and they may find it hard grasping the learning part. Physically, I'm ready. The thing is can I learn the offense and learn the system."

Shegos is glad he transferred from Kearsley to Fenton. Not only was he part of a successful football program, he was part of the group that brought the Fenton boys basketball program back on the map.

"I wish I did it a lot earlier than my junior year," Shegos said. "It definitely was a change. I didn't know anyone or the coaching staff. It's similar to going to college. But looking back it was one of the greatest decisions my family and I ever made. Everyone is so kind.

"It was a great two years. I'll keep all the memories with me."

Now he hopes to make more at the collegiate level.

David's Dabblings

A few thoughts about the area's sports scene and some others not dealing with sports at all.

BILLUPS IS A BAD IDEA

On Thursday, the Pistons signed themselves a point guard who is two years removed from a serious torn Achilles injury and is 37 years old. There's a pretty good chance they are hoping this player will earn himself a spot in the rotation, and, who knows, possibly start if all other options fall apart.

Doesn't sound very encouraging, does it?

I could've written this. The Detroit Pistons signed a part of their championship past today when "Mr. Big Shot" Chauncey Billups inked a two-year contract.

I'm sure doing so would brighten up the attitude of most reading this column. Some people would've probably felt downright giddy.

I think these two sentences show the power of nostalgia for a past hero — particularly a championship hero — play in the role of sports not only with the fans, but, frequently, with the teams themselves.

Due to injuries, Billups has played a whopping 42 games in the last two NBA seasons. And when returned last season, he wasn't particularly effective, suffering other injuries as the year progressed. And the injury he suffered a few years ago was an Achilles tendon tear, something that takes someone who is 23 a couple of years to truly recover from. Billups will be 37 when the season starts this fall. Billups isn't Mr. Big Shot any more — he's just shot.

But what happens more often than one would ever imagine, a player like Billups will find a role with a team that there's a great nostalgia hook with. There was a time when Billups made the Pistons President of Basketball Operations, Joe Dumars, look like a genius, when Billups fit the point role perfectly, leading Detroit to the 2004-05 NBA Championship. Conversely, one of his worst failings was the trading of Billups. Since then, the Pistons have fallen to the depths of the worst teams in the NBA. And now, Dumars has that chance to bring Billups back. Billups says he feels as healthy as he's been in two seasons. It's thought Billups could assume a leadership role not only for Brandon Knight as a point guard, but for the entire squad. For those who haven't noticed, the Pistons are direly void of quality veteran leadership. And, in the process, he can certainly be serviceable as a rotation guard. All that can happen, right?

Nostalgia makes people think that because they want it to be true. However, chances are this move will only work to hinder the Pistons' long-term chances of becoming a consistent winner again. After not making the playoffs for four straight seasons, what team would look at an injured 37-year old to help create some solutions to your team? The answer is a team that remembers Billups' glory days and so desperately wants to see the return of those days in the same uniform they happened in. Unfortunately, the chances of that happening are pretty slim. If you want Billups to mentor, give him an assistant coach position. While Dumars is at it, offer an assistant coach spot to Rip Hamilton and Ben Wallace, they are free.

However, giving Billups a spot on the roster and in the rotation makes no sense. All it is, is fool's gold.

SUGAR

How much exactly is a gram of sugar?

One teaspoon of granulated sugar equals four grams of sugar, i.e., 16 grams of sugar listed in a product is equal to about four teaspoons of granulated sugar.

Keep in mind that the grams of sugar listed on a nutrition label includes natural

Summary

►There are many good reasons to lower your sugar intake, whether you follow a more structured method like this Three-Day Sugar Fix or follow everyday tips to help you make better choices at the grocery store.

sugars from fruit (fructose) and milk (lactose), as well as added sweeteners like refined sugar or high-fructose corn syrup. That's why the label on a carton of regular low-fat milk listing 13 grams of sugar per cup or on Raisin Bran (or any cereal with dried fruit) seem unexpectedly high.

Why is sugar so bad for you?

Sugar not only leads to weight gain, according to Patricia Farris, MD of Tulane University and co-author of "The Sugar Detox: Lose Weight, Feel Great and Look Years Younger." People who eat a lot of sugar have nearly double the risk of heart disease as those who eat less. They're more likely to develop insulin resistance and diabetes. For people interested in looking more youthful as they age, take note that sugar triggers the production of chemical compounds that accelerate skin aging.

Is sugar really addictive?

For many people, sugar cravings are actually more intense than cravings for addictive drugs like cocaine and heroin. That's why Dr. Farris feels that people who have trouble with sugar cravings need to totally eliminate it from their diet — at least to detox for three days, then once the cravings are gone, gradually add it in again in with healthy foods like fruit, dairy, whole grains and more. Likely you'll crave less of the "sweet stuff" and occasional treats, like dark chocolate, will taste better than ever in much smaller amounts.

“Sugar comes in foods you don't even think about. Read your food labels carefully.”

Sarah Easlick, M.S., R.D.,
Clinical Nutrition manager at McLaren-Flint

The buck stops here.

A dollar spent locally circulates 14 more times in the community.

Here are some tips from Woman's Day magazine for cutting down on sugar:

- Break the habit: Cutting down the amount of sugar in your diet needn't be an all-or-nothing proposition.
- Read labels: The first five ingredients listed make up the majority of any packaged food. If sugar in any form, is there, move on.
- Watch what you drink: Go with juices labeled "100 percent juice" instead of "cocktail" or "punch," and mix with water or seltzer. Make your own unsweetened iced tea.
- Pick homemade foods: Home-made foods tend to have less sugar.
- Alter recipes: You can almost always cut the sugar by half in cookie or cake recipes without compromising flavor or texture.
- Write it down: Keep a food diary for a week, and you'll uncover all sorts of easy-to-slash sweet stuff.
- Go easy on the fakes: Artificial sweeteners can actually foster a taste for sweets. Cut down on them gradually to kick the habit.
- Out of sight: Kids brought home candy from a party? Toss what they don't eat so you won't be tempted.
- Retrain those taste buds: If you must have something sweet to after a meal, try more healthy options like fruit or plain lowfat yogurt. Over time, you'll feel more satisfied with healthier "sweet" foods.

Detoxing your body from too much sugar

First step: Three-day sugar fix

During the first three days:

- No foods or drinks with added sugar. No candy, cookies, cake, doughnuts, etc. Not even a teaspoon of sugar in your morning coffee.
- No artificial sweeteners of any kind, including diet soft drinks.
- No starches or fruits (just for three days), except a little lemon or lime for cooking or to enhance a glass of water or tea.
- No dairy, except for one to two teaspoons of butter for cooking.
- Lots of protein, vegetables (except no starchy ones like corn, potatoes, squash, beets, etc.).
- Eat nuts — two one-ounce servings a day from your choice of almonds, walnuts, cashews. They'll keep you full and satisfied when you crave a sugary snack.
- Drink lots of water and no alcohol (that will be added in on Week One.) to stay fresh and last for decades. This idea, which has permeated throughout popular culture including references both big and small in television and films such as Family Guy, Zombieland, and WALL-E is however, nothing more than an urban legend.

In fact, Twinkies used to only have a 26-day shelf life. Upon their rerelease, Hostess Brands will now have an extended shelf life of 45 days.

If anything is clear, people have missed their delicious golden snack. An individual Twinkie itself may not be immortal, but consumers' love of the snack may be. "Hostess is everyone's favorite," Maciejewski said.

CENSURING

response, Council President Jason Hughes struck a small paragraph from the record, which Campbell read, but was not actually in the letter.

"I used to live in Milford, I chose to move over here from Holly because I wanted our dispatch," was a part of the sentence Hughes had struck from the record. Campbell was excused from the June 25 meeting also.

Without giving details, aside from the letter, council also wanted to discuss possible violations of ethics and rules and procedures.

When reached by phone, Campbell said she was unable to comment on the issue, and referred any questions to her attorney Tom Ryan. Ryan said he was still in the information gathering stage and said, "I just hope people leave Miss Campbell alone so she can recuperate." Campbell said she may have suffered a mild stroke or heart attack because of the stress of the incident, on top of recovering from surgery related to cancer.

On Tuesday, resident and planning commission member Tony Engelberg used his time at the microphone to accuse Campbell of treason, and asked for her resignation.

"In my opinion, council woman Campbell has betrayed the trust put in her by the voters of this community, breached the faith in this community by her comment at recent budget meetings," said Engelberg. "In this country, penalties for treason have included life in prison, or death by hanging or firing squad. In the case of Miss Campbell, her resignation would satisfy me."

In the Merriam-Webster Dictionary, to "censure" is, "a judgment involving condemnation."

To Hughes, censuring is the only tool council has to correct another council member's conduct. He was responsible for drafting the resolution. "I felt that the issues that had been brought to my attention at least deserved discussion," he said.

Former council member William Kuyk, also an outspoken council member, was censured three times over his 10 years on council. "Every time it was illegitimate," said Kuyk. "The idea is to defame the person and put them in their place," and added that he believes Campbell did nothing wrong.

Hughes said the matter will not be discussed until Campbell returns from medical leave.

"I used to live in Milford, I chose to move over here from Holly because I wanted our dispatch."

Excerpt from the comments in question read by Council Member Jackie Campbell

CELEBRATION

In addition to the volunteers, essential components of a successful Freedom Festival are the many non-profit and civic groups in the area.

"Everyone has a certain thing they do, the Lion's Club does the chicken BBQ, the American Legion does the pancake breakfast, the Rotary Club does the duck race," said Pat Lockwood, chairperson of the Freedom Festival.

The festival also acts as a major fundraiser for many of the civic groups in the area. In return, they make donations to help fund the festival. Lockwood said that such a donation is not required, and leaves it up to the organizations to make their best judgment in regards to how much to donate.

"With the Freedom Festival itself, the only thing we do is pay our bills. No one is paid, we don't keep any money," Lockwood said.

The fireworks committee is chaired by Les Bland. Every two to three years, Bland brings the Fireworks contract to the Freedom Festival committee.

This year the fireworks display lasted for roughly 36 minutes, which was a $12,000 display.

The fireworks are paid for through donations, some through businesses, while others are collected by volunteers who this year waited outside of VG's and Walmart. The money raised not only pays for the fireworks themselves, but for insurance coverage as well.

"We are proud of the display we were able to bring to the communities," Lockwood said.

Scott Grossmeyer may be the newest member of the city council, but he has been involved with the city for many years. For 15 years he has been working on the Freedom Festival's parade.

The Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce handles some administration duties for the festival, including parade registration, which costs $20. This money then goes directly into the Freedom Festival's funds.

"This year was a little smaller than last year," said Shelly Day, the Chamber president. "On election years we tend to get more entries from political candidates."

A unit in the parade can be an individual walker, a float. This year the parade was made up of 120 units.

"We are always very happy with it. It's a lot of work to put that parade on," Lockwood said.

For most people, the fireworks that start at 10 p.m. every Fourth of July are the closing act of the Freedom Festival, and a great way to end a fulfilled day. Behind the scenes however, there is much more to be done.

"The next day we meet at 6 a.m. and go out to the parking lots and pick up trash," Lockwood said. "We want to have a great event but also make sure we have a great cleanup crew."

Just one week after, on July 11, the Freedom Festival committee meets once more to discuss what went well, and what can be improved on for the following year. Then in the following January, the process begins again.

Summary

► Planning for the Fenton Freedom Festival is done at monthly meetings, which become more frequent as the event approaches. Money raised goes directly into the event which is staffed entirely by volunteers.

Meet Laura Blanchard

Expatriate to Japan, mom, Kindermusik
owner/instructor, church choir director

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Laura Blanchard of Fenton Township has been living in Japan since July 2012, following her husband, Rob on his two-year assignment as senior manager at Nissan Technical Center in Atsugi, outside Tokyo. Not only did she have to prepare daughters Molly, 9 and Julia, 7, she also had to make arrangements for their home, her Kindermusik business and her choir director position in her absence.

You're home now for an extended summer vacation now that your kids are out of school for the summer. What do you miss about home when you're in Japan?

I miss being able to hop in the car to go somewhere. We have a car and Rob drives to work everyday, but I don't drive in Japan. We take the train or subway wherever we go. I miss daily interactions with people because I don't understand the language very well. It's hard to read road signs, parking signs, etc.

I'll step out of my comfort zone in many situations, but one thing I haven't been brave enough to try over there is a haircut for myself. I'm afraid I won't be able to communicate and will end up with something I don't like!

Here at home, I feel much more connected. I also miss stores like Target, where you can get anything you need. Rob's summer vacation is much shorter. He'll be coming home the first two weeks of August, and he's most excited about our family spending one of these weeks at his family's cabin near Beulah.

What do you like about living in Japan?

It's been a great opportunity for our family to see the world. We've seen Mt. Fuji and Kyoto in Japan, as well as every kid-friendly activity, including Tokyo Disney, which is in two parts: Disneyland and Disneysea. We've ridden elephants in Thailand and in December, we'll be traveling to Australia and New Zealand with my parents for two-and-a-half weeks.

How do you like Japanese food?

We mostly prepare American foods at home, but I do experiment with some easy Japanese kits like yakisoba, which contain noodles, sauce and you just have to add meat and vegetables. The funny thing is that I can sort of figure out what's in the box by looking at pictures, but I have no idea how to read the cooking directions! I've had

"I miss being able to hop in the car to go somewhere."

Laura

to take a picture of them and send them to my Japanese language teacher or a friend who speaks Japanese. We also love the toasted sesame dressing, which I have to bring home in huge quantities for my family.

Where do you shop?

There is a Costco that about an hour's drive away, and that's like a dream come true for this American mom, especially for fruit and meat. But we only can do it about every six weeks, because the highway tolls alone cost about $30, not to mention the gas at $1.17 per liter. That's about $4.33 per gallon.

I hear that fruit is pretty expensive in Japan.

The cheapest watermelon I've ever seen was for $16 and the most expensive was $120. We've got to have fruit, so we end up buying things that are in season and not too perishable. In grocery stores, the produce display is like a work of art.

How have your daughters adjusted to their new culture?

The kids had no concept when we told them they would be moving to Japan. But they've jumped into their new life with both feet. Molly can even speak quite a bit of Japanese. They attend the American School in Japan in Chofu. It's about a 30-40 minute bus ride every day from our home in Shibuya. Japanese school buses have very plush seats, plus seat belts and bus monitors. They go to school with kids from Japan, the U.S., the Philippines, India, etc. What the kids miss most is family, especially grandparents. My mom came over with us for a couple of weeks when we moved in, and my sister will be coming in September. Rob's had a few cousins and other close friends visit, too. The kids also miss our church, Transfiguration Lutheran Church (TLC) in Fenton, but they're getting used to Tokyo Union Church.

Are you eager to get back to America for good?

We sure are. We'll miss a lot of things about Japan, especially the adventure of the whole experience. I'll miss the neighborhood 7-11 store, which is so close, convenient and safe that Molly can go on her own. That's one of the best things about Japan. If you'd drop anything valuable on the ground and come back later to get it, it would still be there. Rob thinks it's all about karma.

I'm also looking forward to getting back to my Kindermusik kids and working with Shelly Gillett-Behrens, who has been teaching in my absence. I also look forward to my choir director position at TLC, but hope maybe interim director Lisa Bayer will be able to help out a little, too.

RECALL NOTICE

Q. I have a GE front load washer, and I heard there is some kind of recall on them. Is that true?

A. Yes. ## THIEVES

800 block of South LeRoy Street, he decided to leave the comfort of his patrol car and walk around hoping to catch any perpetrators in the act of stealing. Slater said this is exactly what happened.

In the area of High and LeRoy streets, Cole heard a car door shutting and spotted two parked vehicles with their inside dome lights on. Looking more closely, he observed an individual in one of those vehicles. As he approached, two individuals fled from the vehicles.

Cole caught up with the individuals — a 16-year-old Fenton male and an 18-year-old Fenton male — and took them into custody for questioning. Both teens had backpacks.

Slater said it was soon determined that the backpacks contained items, including electronics, taken from several vehicles, including some south of the Fenton border into Livingston County. Police turned over information to the Livingston County Sheriff's Department for related charges.

A homeowner in the 800 block of South LeRoy Street determined that a set of headphones taken from his unlocked vehicle was the same set Cole observed one of the suspects throw to the ground.

After being transported to the police station, the mother of the 16-year-old was called and he was released to her after he was processed.

Slater said police are attempting to return all of the recovered items to the rightful owners. Some of the items included clothes, cell phones, GPS units, electronics and sunglasses.

Police believe there is a third suspect connected with this series of larcenies. The matter has been turned over to Fenton detectives for follow up and a complaint will be submitted to the Genesee County Prosecutor's Office for possible charges.

Police Chief Rick Aro said, "These crimes seem to be an ongoing problem due to the fact that we continue leave our cars unlocked and valuables in plain sight."

"Tom Cole took the initiative to vary his patrol techniques and it paid off.

"We encourage our officers to be proactive; to look for suspicious persons or vehicles and not wait to take a report after the crime has occurred."

and Lahring roads the same day. On July 9, a member of Genesys Athletic Club reported that their GMC Envoy had been stolen from the parking lot. It was recovered the same day near Four Lakes Avenue and Crystal Cove. A third complaint came in on July 10 from a resident in the 3000 block of Rolston Road. Their van had been stolen. Lanning said the sheriff's department is working on some leads and a possible suspect has been identified. Unlawfully driving away with another person's auto is a five-year felony.

his department did not receive any noise or fireworks complaints between July 2 and July 5. "It was relatively quiet," he said.

With residents in Michigan able to set off a larger array of fireworks, including those that rise up into the air, some people expected the number of complaints to rise, as well. Sutter said he believes that residents in the area are adjusting to the new law and setting off their personal fireworks during the permitted times.

Argentine Township Police Chief Dan Allen echoed the comments made by Fenton and Linden police and added that Argentine received no fireworks complaints.

Isle Royale

Life lessons on Michigan's untouched gem

By Tim Jagielo
tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

A dozen species of mammals, fresh water fishing, 165 miles of marked trails and a distinct quiet are hallmarks of Michigan's own National Park, Isle Royale.

Summary

► Michigan's own national park Isle Royale, is a nature lover's playground with 165 miles of marked trails and a real chance to connect with nature, amid all the flora and fauna within.

The island is 50 miles long and nine miles wide, and is only accessible by boat. There is one lodge on the eastern tip of the island, and welcome centers at either end. There are no roads or stores, just a lot of trails, the occasional park ranger and nature.

To Fenton First Presbyterian Church Pastor Dale Swihart, this island in Lake Superior, just south of the Upper Peninsula, is like a second home. "It gets in your blood, it really does," said Swihart, who this year will return to the island for his 31st time. "It's part of Michigan. It's right here in our backyard."

Look 10 years younger in one hour

'The Hour Lift' facelift now most popular cosmetic procedure — lasts for 10 years

“The results will last between five and 10 years, depending upon the patient.”

Dr. Eric Seiger
Skin & Vein Center in Fenton

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

She eats right, she works out and takes care of herself every day. She wants her face to reflect this same youthful vitality that the rest of her body shows.

That's why one local 69-year-old woman, who asked to remain anonymous, is in the pre-op area of the Skin and Vein Center in Fenton for "The Hour Lift," a mini-facelift procedure that's becoming more and more popular.

"We've been doing these for about 15 years, but they've become much more mainstream now since makeover shows on TV began to glamorize them about 10 years ago," said Dr. Eric Seiger, board certified dermatologist and cosmetic surgeon. "It's not a 'taboo' thing anymore."

Dr. Seiger estimates he has done between 2,500 and 3,000 of these procedures, on women as young as 24 and for a couple who was each 86 years old. "I'd say the median age for this surgery is about 58, and 95 percent of my patients are women. The results will last between five and 10 years, depending upon the patient."

The difference between The Hour Lift and a regular facelift is that The Hour Lift involves cutting the skin and tightening the facial muscles, rather than moving the facial muscles. The areas primarily improved by a facelift are the jowls, cheeks and neck. There's a huge difference in recovery time and price. "It's the difference between a three-day recovery and a two-week commitment," said Dr. Seiger.

The price is also a huge factor in a person's decision to undergo this procedure. Dr. Seiger says he used to charge $3,800, and he cut the price to $2,900 when the economy changed a couple of years ago. A full facelift will cost between $6,000 and $15,000 — depending upon the scope of the procedure. These elective cosmetic procedures are not covered by insurance.

"The number one thing that patients say to me is, 'I don't want to look 20 years old again. I just want to look in the mirror and be able to look as good as I feel inside. I want to feel refreshed,'" said Dr. Seiger.

For the 69-year-old patient who was waiting for her procedure, The Hour Lift was not only for her own self-esteem, but also for her success in the business world. "A youthful appearance validates your professionalism," she said. "This is how we get measured for our success."

Thinking about having 'The Hour Lift'?

Here's what to expect:

Q: What happens before the procedure?

A: Prior to surgery, you may be given a medication to help you relax. Local anesthesia is then administered to minimize discomfort.

Q: How long does the procedure take?

A: One to 1½ hours.

Q: What actually happens during the "One Hour Lift"?

A: A short incision is made in front of the ear. The surgeon gently lifts the tissues under the skin, removing any extra skin. The surgeon re-drapes the overlying skin, leaving the patient wrinkle-free with a firmer, more youthful jaw line.

Q: What can I expect during recovery?

A: Post surgery, patients wear an ice-containing head garment for 24-48 hours. They are likely able to shampoo and wear make-up the day after surgery. Sutures will be removed in six to eight days, resuming normal activities within three days.

Q: Does it hurt? Will I bruise or swell?

A: Approximately 85 percent of patients experience no bruising. There is minimal pain, controlled with oral medication.

Q: How long will the results last?

A: Look five to 10 years younger, with results lasting usually five to 10 years.

Q: Can I talk to anyone who has had the procedure?

A: The Skin and Vein Center can arrange for a contact with someone who has had the procedure and agrees to speak to prospective patients.

Myth or Truth:
Avoid hot showers when you're sunburned.

There are ways to soothe sunburn beyond aloe vera.

Truth: Honey and other common kitchen ingredients — think milk and oatmeal — can help ease skin inflammation and your misery. Also try applying moisturizer after cooling it in the refrigerator, or an ice pack wrapped in a light cloth.

▲ MYTH OR TRUTH?
Your eyes can get sunburned.

Truth: Symptoms include blurred vision, irritation, pain, redness, tearing, and temporary vision loss. Protect yourself by always wearing sunglasses — they do more than make you look movie-star cool — and a brimmed hat. Go for sunglasses that provide full protection against ultraviolet light. Their label should say that the lenses block 99 or 100 percent of UVA and UVB rays.

Hopping on one foot while banging the side of your head with your hand dislodges water from your ear.

Myth: Since your ear canal is curved, this isn't an adequate way to release water. Press your thumb behind your ear, on the cartilage above your earlobe, and then wiggle your ear until the water drips out.

Myth or Truth:
Sand is nothing more than a harmless nuisance.

Myth: Research suggests that spending hours in the sand raises the risk of diarrhea and other gastrointestinal sicknesses since it's packed with bacteria. Wash your hands in clean water with lots of soap to remove E. coli and other germs.

Facing and fixing personal problems

The long distance call from a minister facing a problem in his church was different from most I've received. Usually these contacts for counseling and requests for prayer by pastors have to do with problem prone people in their congregations who are giving them trouble. This honest preacher had concluded he was the problem.

'I've been watching what's been happening in my church and see that I'm the reason for it,' he said, adding 'Pray that I will be revived.'

'You're halfway there,' I replied.

The moment we face up to our faults and start doing something about them, we're on our way to greater effectiveness and better relationships with others. This minister was determined to remove any roadblocks to spiritual awakening in his church by enlisting some long distance praying for the needed breakthrough in his church to begin in him.

The world known evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, once said he faced his worst enemy each morning while shaving. Moody didn't mean he hated his image in the mirror before him, but in confronting his weaknesses early and overcoming them before they spoiled his day he increased his potential to make a difference in the lives of others and the world. We're still reaping the benefits of his early morning honesty and prayers.

A woman with whom I shared a dentist's reception room told me about her former addiction to smoking. Her husband had urged her to quit many times but to no avail. As we continued our conversation while awaiting our dental appointments, she described finally ending her bondage to nicotine. This new freedom was like a breath of fresh air and she was eager to talk about it.

'Stopping smoking was one of the easiest things I have ever done,' she said.

Why then had she been bound by this addiction for so long?

She'd been unwilling to face her problem and pray for deliverance from it.

The power to stop smoking had been within her since the day she had come to faith but had been untapped until she accessed it. Prayer made her freedom possible.

Several months had passed since I had seen a longtime friend. At our last meeting he had been overweight and having health problems. Now he appeared athletic, trim and healthy. He was clearly on a different course in life and was enjoying it.

What happened? He had faced his problem and decided to fix it.

Early mornings now found him on long walks during which he spent time praying and reflecting on his relationship with God. While in the past he had thought he didn't have time to be away from his office, he had discovered these active quiet times exercised his mind, body and soul; improving both his health and his productivity.

Facing personal problems can be frightening but without facing there's no fixing.

And here's the good news: God loves us and cares about those pesky problems that plague us...so we don't have to face them alone.

Consider this unconditional call: 'Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest' (Matthew 11:28).

Whatever our problems, His grace is sufficient for them all.

Alumni Association awards five scholarships

►Members hope to spur interest, donations

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

The Fenton High School Alumni Association has awarded $127,500 to Fenton High School graduates since 1995 and alumni members hope to continue this program for many years to come.

To do so, however, the alumni association needs the community's financial help. Donors do not have to be Fenton High School alumni. For example, a non-alumni individual gave $7,500 in memory of his wife who taught at Fenton many years ago.

This spring, the Fenton High School Alumni Association presented this year's awards to Connor Davidson, Jessica Esch, Mitchell Lockwood, Jacob Rositano and Jessica Taylor. All of these graduates are seeking four-year degrees. Vocational, technical students may also apply for these scholarships.

The idea to award the scholarships was conceived by Robert Dery who was the alumni association president in 1994. Alumni were solicited for donations. To acknowledge everyone's generosity, the names of those donating $1,000 or more are inscribed on a plaque displayed in the high school main corridor.

An endowment fund was established with the Community Foundation of Greater Flint and interest earned from this fund has allowed the committee to present five scholarships annually.

You can learn how to make a gift in honor of a classmate, family member or friend at www.cfgf.org or call Sandra Murphy, Director of Donor Services at 810-767-8270. The Community Foundation can also assist donors with testamentary language for wills and bequests and other types of charitable giving.

Summary

►The Fenton High School Alumni Association is seeking donations. Those interested may go to FentonAlumni.org to see how to become a donor and help a future Fenton High School graduate pay for college.

SunRy's Archery

Business profiles

Local archer, businessman expands into Fenton

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Step into SunRy's Archery in the former Fratz Consignment location in Fenton Township and you'll be sure you've walked into a northern hunting lodge — complete with deer, bear and fish mounts, a log interior equipped with a huge stone fireplace and more.

What sets this place apart from other outdoor sports stores is that all the trophies are real mounts of hunts from owner Ryan Payton and other family members, who has lived a lifetime of hunting and archery. "I'm obsessed with hunting," said Payton, who has won numerous state championships of "Shooter of the Year." This weekend, he's competing in nationals in Ohio.

But opening up SunRy's Archery has been his largest endeavor to date, following years of planning his own store having already successfully owned a small, rural archery shop in Gaines for 1 1/2 years.

"We outgrew our little shop in Gaines and I felt the time and economy were just right for a larger, more fully outfitted store," said Payton. "Everything fell into place with a lot of hard work until our opening last month. We did all the work ourselves and are very proud of how it has turned out."

People come in and are amazed by all the mounts, because they think that the full-size bears are something that were bought. "They are from our own actual hunts, and show our customers our level of expertise in all areas of archery, from hunting to competition and target shooting," said Payton. "We're the most knowledgeable sport shop in the area when it comes to hunting."

A full-service pro shop demonstrates SunRy's Archery's commitment to customer service, from fitting and tuning bows to each customer, to helping them with form. To do this, they use all the best equipment, from bows by Bow Tech, Quest, Prime, Darden and Diamond, to crossbows by Parker, Stryker, Darden and Ten Point — plus all the accessories, including bow fishing gear, tree stands, arrows and targets. "All of our products are ones that we believe in, use ourselves and stand behind," said Payton.

In addition to a full line of equipment and accessories, SunRy's Archery offers a full repair service and plan to start beginner classes later this month.

SunRy's Archery is located at 1442 Torrey Rd., telephone (810) 936-0066. Store hours are Monday, Wednesday, Friday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 10 to 5 p.m. The store will be open seven days a week beginning in August. ## Billmeier Studios

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Billmeier Camera Shop owner Terry Green has always wanted to be a one-stop photography shop, where a customer could not only buy top equipment by Nikon, Canon and Sony, but also have photos taken, processed, framed and finished.

He has now experienced this goal with the opening of Billmeier Studios, an in-house photography studio led by photographer/studio manager Mike Naddeo.

This new studio is located at the top level of Billmeier Camera Shop in downtown Fenton, where other special photography services are located — from full photo lab processing to data recovery, photography classes and more. Professional framing in the Edge Gallery downstairs then provides a finished product. The new studio is today's new version of contemporary photography, following the closing of Imaginique Studio several years ago.

"We're not your typical photo studio," said Naddeo, who specializes in portraiture and commercial work. "We are part of a new crop of photographers with more contemporary style on location with dynamic lighting, etc."

That means you'll find Naddeo shooting in both the studio and at mobile locations, whichever best suits the needs of each individual customer. "We are very competitively priced, because we do everything in-house. We've got a lot of exciting senior and family packages," said Naddeo, a professional photographer with a bachelor of fine arts degree from Northern Michigan University.

Billmeier Studios is located inside Billmeier Camera at 100 South LeRoy St., Suite A. For more information, call (810) 629-2287 or visit www.fenton-camera.com

This July trip will also be his 21st with a group of high school students and another adult from church, and likely his last group trip as he is retiring at the end of 2013.

In 2012 the group hiked 50 miles over an eight-day period, lived in tents and ate on the trails. They steamed clams and ate dried food.

Church member Heidi Ritchie, 16, was one of the eight youths that roughed it and hiked more than she thought she could. Her biggest adjustment to absolute nature was leaving the iPod behind. "I missed my music, and also not knowing what's going on back at home," she said. Because of her trip, she feels she has less of a need to be connected through technology.

The most interesting thing she saw was a moose and her calf near Rock Harbor.

"They were really used to people and that was really really cool," she said. They were close enough that Swihart was able to get detailed photographs.

Last year, the group could hear wolves howling near the camp. They also saw various waterfowl, river otters and foxes, all strikingly close-up.

On the hikes each camper carried bowls, eating utensils, part of the tent with their partner, first aid, clothes, bug spray, sleeping bag and two meals. It costs about $500 per person, with the largest expense being the $110 boat ticket.

cooking gear and portable solar showers. "You have to learn how to shower with a liter of water, but it's very warm," said Swihart.

With all the hiking there are occasional injuries. The most serious was a fractured ankle in 2011. "That led to an interesting adventure to extract that person and get them back to the mainland," he said.

Each year the church group is comprised of just 10 because of national forest regulations. If the group was larger they'd have to split up the group. Swihart hopes that the trips are enriching for the young people.

"I hope they connect with nature at a deeper level than when they are home," he said. Bonding with friends and practicing their Christian faith are all things he hopes the attendees get from the trips.

Personally, he has several reasons for coming back to the island. "I guess it's the solitude and the wilderness," he said. Swihart also enjoys the common interest and respect for nature in the people that they meet on the trails. "When I get there I tend to relax, I try to relax and be in tune with nature," he said. "I guess it's another way of saying, it's an easy place to feel closer to God."

In 32 trips, little has changed on the island. Roots and rocks on the trails are as he remembers them from prior years.

"Most of the time it's just you, the insects and the birds," said Swihart. He said everything seems loud and fast back on the mainland after nine days of nature.

A cleaner carpet may be easier than you think

►Homeowners likely have everything they need to deal with common stains

By Ryan Tackabury

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

One of life's small pleasures is walking across a room with a new, clean carpet. No matter how vigilant you may be though, given enough time, eventually an accident will happen.

Someone might drop a plate or spill a glass — or perhaps an unknowing four legged family member left a trail of muddy paw prints across the floor.

Don't fret — act. The severity of a stain can be mitigated if you act quickly, soaking up what you can of a spill in the case of liquids with towels, though be sure not to rub the spill into the carpet. Next, you need to worry about the aftermath — the stains.

How you deal with a stain depends upon what type of stain you have to deal with. The first step in cleaning up your carpet is therefore to identify the stain.

Water-soluble stains are caused from substances such as alcoholic beverages, colas, gravy, ice cream, jelly, milk, or mud. If this is the source of your unpleasant carpet blemishes, the cure is a cleaning solution composed of ¼ teaspoon of non-bleach detergent and 32 ounces of water.

Some water-soluble stains are a little extra resilient, and can come from blood, chocolate, tea, vomit, or wine. In these particular cases, you will need some extra strength — a cleaning solution made up of one tablespoon ammonia mixed with 1 cup of water.

Had an unfortunate incident that resulted in your nail polish being introduced to your carpet? The solution is simple enough — nail polish remover can do the trick.

If a pet didn't make it outside or to the litter box in time, a mixture of half vinegar and half water can be used to help remove the stain, followed by a mixture of ½ teaspoon of non-bleach detergent mixed with 32 ounces of water.

Spilled wax or a misplaced piece of chewing gum from a likely soon to be scolded child can be removed from the carpet by using ice to freeze the substance. Use an ice pack or simply ice in a plastic bag and place it on the wax or gum for roughly a half hour, then use a butter knife to lift the gum off the carpet and break into pieces. Use a mild detergent and blot the area after.

Now that you have identified the stain and have the proper cleaning solution, you will also want to know proper cleaning technique. Removing a stain is as simple as blotting the stain spot and dry it, starting from the outside and then working your way inward. Then rinse the spot with water, and repeat the process until your carpet looks clean.

Not all carpets are created equal — before using a cleaning solution, test it in a small area of your carpet first to check for potential discoloration.

It is important that you also do not scrub the carpet with the cleaning solution.

Vigorous scrubbing can break down the fibers of the carpet, allowing the spill to make its way deeper into the carpet pad, which can then become a much bigger problem for you.

"It's recommended that you have your carpet professionally hot water extracted every 12 to 18 months, that's what keeps your warranty intact," said Rich King of Stanley Steamers. "You will need to show receipts to show you have it done professionally."

When doing spot removal on your own carpet, King recommends being careful, especially when buying a stain-removing product. "You have to be very careful. There are some good things out there but there are some things that include optical brighteners, and they can void warranties."

State Bank in Fenton. "It used to be different. A year or two years ago it used to be seven years, but that was changed by the government."

According to its website, the Michigan Department of Treasury currently has millions of dollars in lost and forgotten assets from bank accounts that have become dormant, and uncashed checks and valuables left in safe deposit boxes.

If you believe you have lost money due to a dormant account, you can go to the website for the Department of Treasury for the state of Michigan at www.michigan.gov/treasure, or do an online search for 'Michigan's Money Quest.' Once there you are able to enter your name and see if the government is in possession of any of your lost assets.

Recovering your lost money can be a time consuming process — the best solution of course, is to be certain to not let your account fall into dormancy in the first place.

Summary

►Identifying the origin of a carpet stain is important in determining what the right solution is to remove it.

Don't let your bank account fall dormant

►Inactive bank accounts will eventually be handed over to Michigan Department of Treasury

By Ryan Tackabury

Do you have a bank account that you haven't touched in a long time? While it's good to have your money stashed away for a rainy day, you will want to be careful with your account.

At The State Bank in Fenton, after 24 months of inactivity, meaning there has been no deposits into the account and no withdrawals, an account can go dormant. After this point, the account holder has 45 days to contact the bank before the funds are handed over to the government.

"They require you to keep your account active and if you do not we have to send the money to them," said Chris O'Conner of The

DEAD MAN DOWN

Niels Arden Oplev, the acclaimed director of the original The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo, makes his American theatrical debut with the new action thriller, Dead Man Down. Colin Farrell and Noomi Rapace star as two strangers who are irresistibly drawn to one another by their mutual desire for revenge. The film co-stars Academy Award (R) nominee Terrence Howard and Dominic Cooper, from a screenplay by J.H.Wyman (Fringe). R, 1 hr. 58 min.

ADMISSION

Tina Fey (30 Rock) and Paul Rudd (This is 40) are paired for the first time on-screen in Admission, the new comedy/drama directed by Academy Award nominee Paul Weitz (About a Boy, In Good Company), about the surprising detours we encounter on the road to happiness. Every spring, high school seniors anxiously await letters of college admission that will affirm and encourage their potential. At Princeton University, admissions officer Portia Nathan (Tina Fey) is a gatekeeper evaluating thousands of applicants. Year in and year out, Portia has lived her life by the book, at work as well as at the home she shares with Princeton professor Mark (Michael Sheen). When Clarence (Wallace Shawn), the Dean of Admissions, announces his impending retirement, the likeliest candidates to succeed him are Portia and her office rival Corinne (Gloria Reuben). For Portia, however, it's business as usual as she hits the road on her annual recruiting trip. PG-13, 1 hr. 47 min.

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.

To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm a 26-year-old woman with an embarrassing problem. I'm growing a mustache. What causes this? I have started to shave, but I worry that shaving is going to make the hair grow faster and coarser. I see some hair on my breasts, too. What can I do about this? — V.K.

ANSWER: Hair growth in females in places where it should be found only in males is hirsutism (HERE-suit-izm). Such areas include the skin above the upper lip, the chin, the chest, the thighs, the upper back and the abdomen. Hair in those places is sensitive to the action of male hormones. Common causes for such hair growth are idiopathic (a definite cause not found), menopause (when female hormone production dips) and polycystic ovary syndrome. Polycystic ovary syndrome is fairly common. Signs of it are a diminution or complete stoppage of menstrual periods, hirsutism, obesity and large ovaries with many cysts. One of the mechanisms responsible for some polycystic ovary symptoms is an overproduction of androgen — male hormones. The unwanted pattern of hair growth stems from androgen excess. Idiopathic hirsutism — hair growth without a cause found — might be a mild form of polycystic ovary syndrome. That's a popular theory expounded by many experts. Rarer causes of hirsutism include adrenal gland overactivity, tumors of the adrenal gland or ovary, pituitary gland tumors and some prescription medicines. You're not going to solve this on your own. You need a doctor to evaluate your hormone status. The appropriate treatment hinges on finding a specific cause. When a cause cannot be found, shaving, electrolysis, depilatories (chemical hair removers) and laser treatments are options. Shaving doesn't make hair grow faster or coarser. Vaniqa cream, a prescription item, gets rid of unwanted hair quite well. Birth-control pills work when a woman needs estrogen. Spironolactone, a water pill, can counter the influence of male hormones and is often useful.

When in doubt — consider the obvious

DEAR READERS: I'm marking my 10-year anniversary of writing the "Ask Amy" column by rerunning some of my favorite Q-and-A's from the early days of the column.

DEAR AMY: How do we go about avoiding all that sex and violence that is currently showing on our VCR? It's a real problem for us. — Tami and Vicki

DEAR TAMI AND VICKI: I would suggest that you remove the tape immediately. (2004)

DEAR AMY: How do you tell a gal you won't marry her because you are allergic to her stupid cat? Actually, I think she loves the cat more than me! — Disgusted

DEAR DISGUSTED: If you think your gal loves her cat more than she loves you, then she probably does. Telling her you won't marry her might not be a problem. (2004)

DEAR AMY: I have been following basically the same route to work for the past seven years. In that time I recognize several good-looking women driving the same route. I have only seen these women in their cars. I wonder how they would look if I could see them out of the car. Since I know where they turn in to their places of work, it would be easy to follow them one day and watch. If I did this, would I be a stalker? — Doug

DEAR DOUG: No, you'd just be a creep. For now, it's a legal distinction — which I hope you won't explore further. (2003)

DEAR AMY: I am the mom of a great 16-year-old who spent many months successfully communicating to me why thongs are "status quo" and not status-making apparel among teenage girls. It is the panty lines, which they consider to be more revealing than "what's underneath." — Been There, Done That

DEAR BEEN THERE: If your teenager managed to convince you that panty lines are more revealing than "what's underneath," then I'd say that she has a very bright future in advocacy, because she got you to take a position that makes no sense whatsoever. (2005)

iPhone
tip of the week

Change Siri's accent (and gender)

Siri's accent is automatically set to American English for those who buy the iPhone in the US, but being a multifaceted personal assistant, she can put on a foreign accent at the drop of a hat. Under General Settings, look for Siri. From there, a Language option gives you five choices as to Siri's vernacular — English (Australia), English (United Kingdom), English (United States), French, and German. The two latter options change Siri's entire dialect, of course, but English speakers who want a slight taste of Britain or Australia are in luck. Keep in mind that the British Siri is a man.

Cheesy Jalapeño Pull Bread Recipe

INGREDIENTS

- 1 rustic loaf of bread, unsliced, either Italian or French
- 12 oz. shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- 1/4 cup (less or more to taste) chopped pickled jalapeños
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions, including greens
- 1/4 cup (4 Tbsp) butter, melted

METHOD

1. Preheat the oven to 350°F. Slice the bread almost all the way through (not all the way) in a cross hatch pattern, spacing an inch between the slices.
2. Place the shredded cheese in a large bowl. Toss with the green onions and jalapeños. Pour over with melted butter and use your clean hands to toss, to distribute the butter evenly through the cheese.
3. Place the bread on a large sheet of aluminum foil (large enough to wrap the bread) on a baking sheet. Stuff every crevasse with the cheese mixture. Wrap with the aluminum foil. At this point you can make ahead and refrigerate until ready to bake.
4. Place in the oven for 15 minutes. Then uncover the foil from the bread and cook for 10 minutes more, until all of the cheese has melted.

Place on a serving board or plate to serve.
Yield: Serves 8.
