Former LF superintendent dies suddenly

►Ralph Coaster remembered for passion to build new state-of-the-art high school

By Sharon Stone sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Ralph Coaster, the former superintendent and principal for Lake Fenton Community Schools died Sunday, Oct. 20. He was 64.

Lake Fenton Board of Education Secretary Alberta Martin has known

Coaster for many years and she was on the school board when Lake Fenton hired him. She said Coaster died while outside at his Grand Blanc home on Sunday and that his wife found him when she went outside to check on him.

Ralph Coaster

Martin said she saw Coaster not too long ago and she remembers him saying he had never felt better. “He was so upbeat and happy,” she said. She added that he was enjoying his retirement and doing quite a bit of camping with his wife. “He cared for kids,” said Alberta. “This is a sad, sad thing.”

Before retiring in 2010, Coaster had See SUPERINTENDENT on 2

New senior center building in ‘last stretch’

Drywall contractor Shawn Richards sands the walls in the new 4,000-square-foot activity room in the building that is replacing the one that burned down in 2011. By Christmas, the fragmented activity groups and classes, which have been held at local schools and churches, should be back under this roof.

Linden — On Monday, pinochle players chat and play, while the sounds of construction push vaguely through the large metal door separating the former “Building C,” from the brand new community building at the Loose Senior Citizen Center.

“It’s gone up fast, it’s really attractive,” said member Dave Fantagrossi, before the cards on his table were dealt.

“We can hardly wait to get in,”

“They’re excited, they want to go in tomorrow.”

Carl Gabrielson Executive Director, Loose Senior Citizen Center said Marilyn Wales.

Building C will be known as “The Annex,” as it is connected to the new building, simply named “The Loose Building,” at least for now.

In 2011, “Building B,” the 3,000-square-foot former church building burned down, cutting the 4,000-member center for senior activities meeting space down considerably. Since then, the center has relied on the generosity of local schools and churches to keep the full roster of activities going.

In May the new building broke ground. Now, the 6,000-square-foot building is closed against the weather and looks nearly finished from the street.

“The building is absolutely beautiful,” said Loose board member and Fenton City Councilwoman Cheryl King. She said the loss of the old building was See ‘LAST STRETCH’ on 11

Recordings of Township minutes to become available to public

► Township tosses cassettes for digital technology

By Amy Mayhew

news@totimes.com; 810-629-8282

Holly — The old dual cassette tape recording system used to record nearly two decades of township meetings will be retired as the Holly Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously to fund a new digital recording system.

Last month, several township residents complained about the antiquated recording system, blaming poor recordings for inaccurate meeting minutes.

During the Oct. 16 Holly Township Board of Trustees meeting, Clerk Karin Winchester recommended the board approve a new standalone digital recording system, the DM246 four-channel digital courtroom recorder for $1,595.

With six hours of recording time, Winchester said the system will come with four standard flat microphones and stands for the board, as well as an additional microphone and stand for members of the public to use during public comment.

“This package burns CDs instantly — you don’t have to worry about the machine-to-computer failure,” Winchester said. “These are pretty much fail-proof — and it is digital,” she added. “It does CDs — it does all sorts of media that you can transfer and we can email to the public so that it is available for them in any form.”

In a vote of 5-0, the board approved Winchester’s recommendation. In the weeks ahead, Winchester said she will continue to work with Supervisor Dale Smith in finding a suitable PA system for the township meeting chambers.

Community mourns Ralph Coaster

The Lake Fenton community is mourning the loss of a former school administrator — and friend. I knew Ralph Coaster from the days when he was principal at Torrey Hill Middle School (now Torrey Hill Intermediate School). I remember a cute photo of my son Brad, who was in sixth grade, and Ralph posing together after Brad was named Student of the Month in 2000. What great memories.

Sharon Stone
Editor

When I began working for the Tri-County Times in 2003, I covered the construction of the new high school. During that time, I had many interviews with Ralph, who had become superintendent, to discover all the details about the new school that my children would one day attend. I respected Ralph and his work ethic for the daunting task of overseeing an entire school district.

My most vivid memory of Ralph, however, was after I had given the most emotional public speech of my life. In 2004, I stood up in front of the graduating class at Lake Fenton and handed out our first Brad Stone Scholarship. My son Brad passed away in 2000 from an asthma attack and our family established a scholarship for Lake Fenton graduates in his memory.

During that 2004 speech, I read aloud the essay that Tyler Rossmassler had written and which eventually led to him winning Brad’s scholarship. I barely got through my speech, and even today I can feel the weakness in my legs and elbows as those emotions come flooding back. I remember seeing my teary-eyed family in the audience as I awarded the scholarship to Tyler and showed him the plaque, which had his name engraved on it.

As I exited the stage at the old high school (now Lake Fenton Middle School), I felt so alone and I could feel my heart racing. As I began to open the door to the hallway, the door opened practically by itself. In the hallway was Ralph, waiting with a big hug for me. As a father himself, he knew what a painful experience I had gone through and was there for support. I can remember him saying, ‘you did good kiddo.’

Yes, the Lake Fenton community lost a wonderful advocate for children, a loving husband, and father and to me a man that I will always remember as my friend.

Coaster returned to Lake Fenton in 1997 when he was hired as principal at Torrey Hill Middle School (now Torrey Hill Intermediate School).

In June of 2000, he began his role as school superintendent, replacing Gerald Laskey, who had retired.

In 2010, as he was preparing to announce his retirement before the school board he said in an interview with the Times, “Everyone should leave a place a little bit better so that the next person can take it to the next level.”

Coaster said in that same 2010 article that he considered the growth of the district, approval of the bond to pay for the new high school, the passing of the sinking fund to improve all of the facilities and being ranked in the top five for Genesee County for the MEAP scores are accomplishments that he treasured. “The building of the new high school on time and $1.5 million under budget was a phenomenal accomplishment.”

Energy drinks

Is the boost worth the risk?

By Amy Mayhew

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Are we becoming a nation of energy-boost addicts? Sure, we all partake in an occasional cup of coffee or an icy cold soda for a little boost now and then, but the fact is Americans are spending more than $12.5 billion per year on energy drinks, shots and drink mixes. That is 60 percent more than we spent five years ago on drinks like Red Bull, Monster, Rockstar and 5 hour Energy.

What's in an energy drink?

According to energyfiend.com, the top five ingredients found in most energy drinks include vitamin B12, vitamin B6, caffeine, vitamin B3 and Taurine.

B vitamins are added to most energy drinks with the promise that they will boost mental and physical performance. While a vitamin B deficiency can lead to fatigue, getting more of it doesn't equate to more energy. In fact, those having too much vitamin B in their systems will likely discharge the overage in the form of urine. Most levels of the B vitamins found in energy drinks aren't toxic, but too much of B6 can be dangerous.

The extrovert vs the introvert

► Do you know which personality type you are?

“The meeting of two personalities is like the contract of two chemical substances. If there is any reaction, both are transformed.”

Carl Jung
Psychologist

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Do you thrive in a group setting or are you more comfortable working alone? Are you loud and boisterous with your responses or are you quiet and calculating before you speak?

These are two basic questions to discovering if you're an extrovert or introvert, two widely adopted personality types developed by Swiss psychiatrist Carl Jung.

Extroverts are generally stereotyped as outgoing and happy while introverts are usually characterized as quiet and somewhat antisocial. But emerging research over the last century suggests that both personality types are more than classifying people as loud or shy, discovering instead that each type processes information and reacts to situations differently.

Merriam-Webster defines an introvert “to turn inward upon itself” or “to concentrate or direct upon oneself,” while extroverts are “being predominantly concerned with and obtaining gratification from what is outside the self.”

According to Discover Magazine, Jung saw introverts as people who are calm when they're alone but stressed out in social situations. Extroverts, on the other hand, draw energy from socializing and become anxious when

The right-wing amateur hour

Once again, it appears that President Barack Obama could hardly have chosen a more inept bunch of opponents and critics. It's only too bad that the nation has to suffer for it.

As the president and Republican lawmakers struggled amid record low approval ratings to agree on ways to reopen the government and avoid defaulting on its debts, everybody in Washington was coming up with theories as to why so much has gone so wrong. Here's my theory: Too many amateurs have taken over.

I'm only serious. Americans have a long and storied romance with the populist ideal of the amateur. Yet the founders wisely structured our national government to avoid having too much direct democracy, which they saw as something akin to mob rule.

AMATEUR LEADERSHIP. As the GOP has splintered into a sensible center vs. radical right-wingers, House Speaker John Boehner, a skilled and well-experienced professional, has looked more like a dog being wagged by a tea party tail. Even when he has the votes to pass a budget or raise the debt ceiling, he is reluctant to bring a bill to the floor because they're mostly Democratic votes. He fears losing his speaker seat if he does that too many times.

AMATEUR RESEARCH. Experienced leaders know better than to listen too much to those who already agree with them. But today's partisan media environment leads to more political polarization by making it too easy for people to choose not only their own opinion but also their own ego-stroking version of reality.

AMATEUR ECONOMISTS. The hazards that such closed information loops pose to democracy — and good sense — can be seen most vividly in the default deniers. Yes, like the deniers of climate change and President Obama's birth certificate, we have some Republican lawmakers in both houses of Congress who deny that it would be all that bad to let the full faith and credit of this nation's finances go into default. Try that excuse the next time you have to make a car payment.

MY GOODNESS, I was just reading in the paper. I knew the federal government was big, but I didn't know it was that big. There are two million employees and that doesn't include state, city, county or villages. They say 800,000 would be furloughed. Wouldn't that be a pity. I didn't realize that they were the biggest employer.

NEVER AGAIN WILL I waste my Sunday watching the Lions. They were totally inept. Detroit, Michigan, we deserve better than that.

HEY PEOPLE WAKE UP I just filled out my absentee ballot. There were three tax increases and one renewal. You get what you vote for.

I WAS RECENTLY in Canada visiting relatives. While at lunch, I started a conversation with the people at the table next to me. When I told them I was from the United States, they asked what I thought of the government shutdown. I told them that if the American people did their jobs the way the government does we would all be out of a job. Obamacare was voted into law. Shutting the government down is not going to change it.

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS want to adopt, but have to go overseas because of the greed of a lot of the adoption agencies. Why can't mothers who want to abort put in the paper 'baby unwanted free to good family?'

IF YOU REALLY want to know how greedy our leaders are, pay attention to the news. They are worse than 10 year-olds. Lord help us.

IF REPUBLICANS WITH their black-mail tactics can repeal Obamacare,

The bums aren't the problem, we are!

A new Associated Press poll reveals some troubling statistics for members of both major political parties, if they can be troubled, given what looks to be their lack of concern for what they are doing to the country.

The poll finds fewer people approve of President Obama's job performance (confirmed by a new Gallup Poll, which shows a 37-percent approval rating), but that Republicans score even worse at 5 percent approval. The poll 'finds few people approve of the way the president is handling most major issues and most people say he's not decisive, strong, honest, reasonable or inspiring.'

The poll also shows many people are fed up with the government, leading to a return of the 'throw the bums out' mentality. But the problem does not lie with the 'bums.' If it did, the newest elected 'bums' would have fixed things by now.

It's the rabid careerism of politicians and the entitlement mentality of too many voters that has consumed Washington and led to its dysfunction. Putting healthy people in an environment where plague rages ensures they will likely contract the disease.

It's difficult to change Washington because too many benefit from its current practices. Republicans, who appeal to constitutional limits, spending cuts, lower taxes and the repeal of unnecessary regulations, are lambasted — even by fellow Republicans — when they try to rein in unsustainable spending. The Washington establishment is powerful and anyone who seeks to alter it risks isolation and condemnation.

Since Franklin Roosevelt's 'New Deal,' many Americans appear to have abandoned self-restraint, individual responsibility and accountability in favor of government as provider, protector and guarantor. We once promoted individual initiative, now we seem to punish the successful and treat the unsuccessful as victims.

Nothing would change Washington faster than the transformative idea that only we can make our lives better by our financial and moral choices.

Such a message will be labeled 'harsh' by some, but it is necessary to restore a sick economy and a nation that needs to return to its constitutional roots. This return is the cure for our national dysfunction.

Head lice advice

►Back to school often means infected kids

Area children are back to school — and some of them might be toting head lice. As anyone who's had an infected child knows, this involves both treating the lice on the child and doing some cleaning at home.

Anyone can get lice regardless of age, income, race or ethnicity, but most cases occur in children, according to the Genesee County Health Department (GCHD) website. The lice are passed from person to person, usually by close contact. They are usually found in hair, most often on the back of the neck and behind the ears, according to Web MD.

Each week, schools report the number of children with head lice to their local health department. It's important for parents and caregivers to know what to look for, and what to do when children have lice, GCHD said. Most schools require a child to be lice- and nit-free before he or she can return to class.

A head louse is a tiny brownish, wingless insect, which feeds off the human scalp. Head lice do not hop, jump, fly or swim. They move about by grasping onto a hair with lobster-like claws on the end of their appendages. Head lice live close to the scalp where the temperature is to their liking and their food (human blood) is readily available. Lice are sensitive to heat and light.

The most common sign of head lice is itching, according to Web MD. One might also see the insect and/or its eggs, or "nits."

Adult head lice are large enough to be seen with the naked eye. Nits are the size of a grain of sand and a whitish/opal color. They are attached to the hair shaft near the scalp.

Ridding a child of head lice might involve some "nit-picking."

Nits are not contagious and do not fall or come off of the hair shaft voluntarily. They can be removed with fingernails or a fine-toothed comb. Combs meant to remove fleas from pets are less expensive than those designed for head lice in humans.

A pharmacist, doctor, health department or school nurse can advise parents on products to use in treating head lice on the child. All products used on the child should be labeled for human use.

Neither lice nor nits can survive when the temperature is far from the normal temperature of the scalp. It is important to wash clothing and bedding in hot water to rid them of lice and nits, Web MD instructs. Unlike fleas, which are about the same size, lice do not live in carpets or vacuum cleaners.

How to prevent head lice

- Ask children not to share hats, combs, and other items.
- Frequently examine the scalps of school-age children. It may help you discover and treat lice before they spread to the rest of the family.
- Avoiding prolonged close contact with a person who has lice will also reduce your risk.

graduates leave the state, down slightly from 50 percent in 2007. In order to retain younger, educated workers, lawmakers may offer a tax break for college graduates who choose to stay and work in state.

House Bill 4182 was introduced by State Rep. Andy Schor (D-Lansing) this past spring and has yet to be passed by the state House of Representatives. Should the bill ever become a law, eligible individuals could claim an income tax credit equal to 50 percent of the amount of qualified student loan payments made during a tax year, which is up to 20 percent of the average yearly tuition for Michigan's public universities.

"If Michigan's economy is to continue growing, then we need to offer options that will help our best students want to stay here instead of going to other states," Schor said in a press release. "This tax credit will make our state more competitive for employers looking for talented, hard workers."

According to projectstudentdebt.org, the average Michigan college graduate had an average of $25,675 in student debt upon graduation in 2010. Students who graduated from private colleges were more likely to have bigger student debt, with the average student from the College for Creative Studies graduating with $47,604 and students from Albion College amassing $34,282 in student debt.

With the state unemployment rate at a steady 9 percent last year and a massive job loss earlier in the decade, retaining college grads has been difficult for lawmakers.

Michigan isn't the only state losing a large amount of young people, however. The National Center for Education Statistics reports New Jersey, Texas, Illinois and Maryland have seen a massive exodus of college graduates as well. States like Arizona, Massachusetts, Alabama and South Carolina have seen increases in educated young people. Denver, Washington D.C., Seattle and Austin were listed as the most popular cities young people relocated to.

Other states around the country have implemented similar programs to help retain college graduates. Opportunity Maine offers a similar tax break. Legislators in Oregon have a pilot program called Pay Forward, Pay Back, where graduates pay a low percentage of their paycheck toward their student debt for 20 years.

TIGERS ARE OVERPAID. The two highest paid ballplayers stunk up the baseball diamond with their lackadaisical playing. Fielder and Cabrera make a combined $44 million a year and show up for playoff games unprepared, three years in a row.

THE CORNERSTONE PROJECT sounds like a real winner for downtown Fenton. As a taxpaying citizen, I am eager for the project to be completed and add some much needed businesses and residential leasers to the LeRoy Street strip.

CONGRATS TO FENTON football team. Great effort to have no losses this season. Hope you go undefeated and win in State playoffs. Does anyone know how many undefeated football teams Fenton has produced in the last 50-60 years? Can only think of two and they were in 1966 and 1967.

RESPONSE
 officials at their board of trustees meeting Monday, addressing concerns about response times and the coverage area of ambulance companies.

“Under our new system, we see these ambulances on patrol in the county,” Ackley said. “We know exactly where they are.”

Ackley described the old system of dispatching ambulances through telephone calls as archaic. He said under the new system, dispatchers know where their units are located in the county and how many units are available to them. Since the implementation of the new system earlier this month, Ackley said paramedic response times have averaged six and half minutes, which was nearly twice as fast as the old response times.

Ambulance response times have come under scrutiny in Fenton Township when Genesee County Commissioner Tony Brown claimed STAT EMS took more than an hour to respond to a student athlete injury at a recent Lake Fenton football game. STAT EMS Chief Operating Officer Joe Karlichek said the lengthy response was due to heavy traffic and the injury being classified as tier two, preventing the unit from using emergency lights.

Like Brown, Township Clerk Robert Krug scrutinized the county medical control’s tier system, believing injuries involving high schoolers should be classified as a tier one injury so ambulances can use emergency lights on the way to the scene. Ackley did not agree with Krug’s assessment.

Also of concern was contracted ambulance companies providing coverage outside of their contracted area. Ackley said each ambulance company within the county said they would respond to a life-threatening call in another municipality, if they had the closest units.

Township Supervisor Bonnie Mathis said an ambulance is regularly called to St. John Church about every six weeks due to a heart attack or other health problems during Mass. She said unless the direct phone number to the Fenton Fire Department is used, ambulances from other companies may be called in. Ackley said dispatchers have to call the closest ambulance to an emergency, per state law, which may result in contacting an ambulance that is not contracted to a specific municipality or area.

“Our position is if I have an ambulance right in front of your church, why would we want to call someone who is three miles away?” Ackley said.

Overall, Ackley and the board of trustees agreed the new ambulance system is a welcomed improvement for the residents of Genesee County.

“My people are so happy right now. I think for Genesee County, this is long overdue,” Ackley said.

The Office of the Great Seal of Michigan

Although I don’t have official poll results on the question, it is my belief that if you were to walk up to somebody and ask them to tell you about the Office of the Great Seal the likely response would be that they had no idea what you were talking about.

The likely reason for this is that this particular office doesn’t receive much publicity. However, as a part of the Executive Office of the Michigan Department of State it plays a vital governmental role as the official depository of certain documents for filing from local and state governmental agencies and certifying their authenticity.

The Office is also responsible for authorizing notary public commissions, maintaining the records required to be filed with the Secretary of State, issuing certificates of authority and apostilles for documents going to other countries, and keeping and protecting the Great Seal and ensuring its proper use. As an aside, an apostille is a special type of certification.

Some examples of the documents that are filed include administrative rules, gubernatorial appointment and proclamations, charters and boundary changes and certain oaths of office.

As to the ‘Great Seal’ itself, think of our State of Michigan flag. On the flag are an elk and a moose, a bald eagle and a crest with the word ‘Tuebor’ and much more. This is the official Coat of Arms of the State of Michigan and if one puts the words ‘Great Seal of the State of Michigan A.D. MDCCCXXXV’ around it you have our seal.

The seal has a history all its own. It was designed by Lewis Cass, a famous figure in early Michigan government, and was officially adopted on June 2, 1835 by Michigan’s Constitutional Convention of 1835.

There are many interesting parts of the seal including the Latin phrase, ‘Si Quaeris Peninsulam Amoenam Circumspice,’ which means ‘If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you.’

Much more about the Great Seal and the Office is available on the Michigan Secretary of State website.

Sonow, if somebody asks, you’ll know.

BURTON WOMAN SHOPLIFTS

At 1:35 p.m. on Oct. 19, Fenton police responded to a retail store in the 3700 block of Owen Road for a shoplifter in custody. Police made contact with the 26-year-old Burton woman who had her 7-month-old baby with her. The loss prevention employee reported that they watched the woman select several items, place them in her cart and exit the store without paying. The employee confronted the Burton woman outside and escorted her inside to await police arrival. The woman told police initially that she forgot to pay, but then told them that she intended to pay had she been approached. She has a Nov. 25 court date for retail fraud. The $156 of store merchandise was returned to the store.

Caffeine stimulates the central nervous system and puts the body on alert. Caffeine increases heart rate and blood pressure, but decreases a body's hydration level. Most folks begin to experience sleeplessness, heart palpitations, headaches, nausea and a general case of "the jitters," after ingesting more than 200 mg of caffeine.

Taurine is an amino acid that supports neurological development and helps to regulate the level of water and mineral salts in the blood. Taurine is also thought to have antioxidant properties.

While taurine is found naturally in meat and breast milk, it's commonly available as a dietary supplement. In fact, according to the Mayo Clinic, some studies suggest that taurine may improve athletic performance, which might explain why it is used in many energy drinks. Additionally, the Mayo Clinic says up to 3,000 mg per day of taurine is considered to be safe — but moderation is important as there is very little known about the effect of heavy or long-term use.

What's on the label?

In April, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) issued a stark warning against energy drinks and supplements containing dimethylamylamine (DMAA), an organic compound that the FDA maintains some energy drink manufacturers "mask over" with other names.

Energy drink-related visits to the ER have been on the increase, exploding in 2011 to 20,000 visits, and often being linked to heart problems associated with caffeine overdoses. The majority of the patients are teens and young adults who are unaware of the health risk associated with consuming the product.

A 2013 congressional report found that energy drink manufacturers independently determine whether to call their drinks beverages or dietary supplements — each of which have different sets of rules for what can be added and what must be disclosed on the label.

Energy drinks can't include ingredients that aren't recognized as being "generally safe" for foods by the FDA while beverage manufacturers don't have to disclose how much caffeine is in their drink, nor file a report with the FDA if somebody reports serious side effects from drinking it. Therein lies the rub.

What are the risks?

An Australian study published by energyfiend.com lists the top 10 health risks associated with energy drinks to be heart palpitations, tremors, agitation, upset stomach, chest pain, dizziness, tingling or numbing of the skin, insomnia, respiratory distress and headache.

The website maintains that in moderation, most people won't have any adverse, short-term side effects from drinking energy drinks, however the long-term effects from their consumption isn't fully understood yet.

Local expert weighs in on energy drink

From an energy or health supplement standpoint, Brian Feldman, the owner and “I pretty much just tell the folks I train to simply stay away from the energy drinks.”

Brian Feldman
Snap Fitness of Holly, owner/general manager

general manager of Holly's Snap Fitness, in Holly said he is not a big fan of energy drinks.

"Specifically, I think the worst thing about energy drinks is the amount of sugar in them," Feldman said. "Caffeine can have some negative effects, too, but overall, it's the sugar and some of the chemicals that are used in those drinks that make them unhealthy."

While diet energy drinks may lack sugar, they often contain aspartame, which, Feldman maintains, is another drawback.

"Higher levels of aspartame and a whole host of other chemicals open up another can of worms," he said. "I pretty much just tell the folks I train to simply stay away from the energy drinks."

they're alone. In a world where working and interacting with others begins in grade school and continues on into careers, it can be easy to dismiss introverts and assume extroverts are always happier and more successful, due to their outgoing personality.

Susan Cain, a corporate lawyer who quit her job to become a writer and a speaker, said introversion isn't about being shy but more about how information is processed. Cain argues that some of the best ideas are formed when people are alone as opposed to a group setting, where people's opinions can be shaped by the most dominate person in the group as opposed to the best argument presented.

"It turns out we can't even be in a group of people without instinctively mirroring their beliefs," Cain said in a 2012 TED Talk. "And groups famously follow the opinions of the most dominate or charismatic person in the room, even though there's zero correlation between being the best talker and having the best ideas."

For Cain, the most fruitful way to reach solutions includes people developing ideas on their own and then meeting together after having a period of reflection.

That's not to say extroverts don't have their own set of strengths. As social creatures, humans interact for survival and pleasure and it can be hard not to be envious of those who are far more outgoing than we are.

According to the Wall Street Journal, some studies suggest that extroverts are happier than introverts and that forcing yourself to interact with strangers can make you happier. A 2012 Journal of Personality article detailed an experiment where introverts were forced into more day-to-day social interactions for a week. At the end of the week, participants reported elevated feelings of happiness acting like an extrovert instead of an introvert.

Whether you identify yourself as an introvert or extrovert, take comfort in the fact that people don't wholly embody one personality type. Jung himself believed that all people exhibited signs of both personality types and could force themselves to act more outgoing or reflective.

Fibromyalgia

► This often misdiagnosed disease disrupts lives with pain, fatigue and anxiety

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Doreen Ahearn feels like she has the flu every day of her life. Fighting muscle pain and headaches, this 53-year-old Linden woman still works every day and tries to remain active and upbeat, but it's a daily battle for her and at least five million others in the U.S.

She suffers from fibromyalgia, a disorder characterized by widespread musculoskeletal pain, accompanied by fatigue, sleep, memory and mood issues, according to mayoclinic.com.

AMERICAN HEALTH JOURNAL

Although fibromyalgia is not visible to others, those afflicted with the disorder experience pain daily, typically in the upper body as well as other areas of the body.

"It has made my life much more difficult," said Ahearn. "It's something I live with every day. Even though I look fine on the outside, my muscles hurt so bad that even a hug hurts. It hurts to be touched. It's extremely painful, but people can't see it, which makes it difficult for others to understand."

Who gets fibromyalgia?

Ahearn fits a typical profile of a patient suffering from fibromyalgia. Her gender makes it much more likely for her to have this disorder than males. Other women in her family also suffer from fibromyalgia, which tends to run in families.

Symptoms sometimes begin after a physical trauma, surgery, infection or significant psychological stress. In other cases, symptoms gradually accumulate over time with no single triggering event. Ahearn was diagnosed about 16 years ago by a rheumatologist. "Every year, it gets a little worse," she said.

Sleep issues are one of the most difficult aspects of living with fibromyalgia. Sleep is often disrupted by pain and many patients have other sleep disorders, such as restless legs syndrome and sleep apnea that make symptoms worse. "I never get

MICHIGAN VOTES

What your legislators voted on this week.

► Weekly roll call of state representatives and senators

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

The Mackinac Center for Public Policy provides a weekly report of how elected officials in Michigan have voted and on what topics. This report was released Friday, Oct. 18.

Senate Bill 307: Let more cities impose additional public safety property tax.

To allow cities with fewer than 70,000 residents to impose "special assessment" property taxes to pay for police and fire services. These taxes would be imposed over and above regular property taxes and require voter approval. According to the Senate Fiscal Agency, this could allow 278 cities to impose these additional taxes.

Passed 37-0 in the Senate

Sen. Jim Ananich
D-Genesee County Y

House Bill 4952: Halt unemployment benefits for failed drug test.

To make a person ineligible to collect unemployment benefits if a prospective employer requires a drug test as a condition of a job offer and the individual either refuses to take the test or fails it.

Passed 28-10 in the Senate.

Sen. Jim Ananich
D-Genesee County N

Senate Bill 475: Establish trampoline court regulations and liability limits.

To establish standards and regulations for trampoline courts and operators, and grant these businesses limited immunity from lawsuits if the proposed regulations are followed.

Passed 25-12 in the Senate.

Sen. Jim Ananich
D-Genesee County N

Senate Bill 277: Repeal requirement commercial trucks display owner's name.

To eliminate a requirement that commercial vehicles weighing more than 5,000 pounds must display the owner's name on the cab. Wrecker trucks and road service vehicles would still be subject to the mandate.

Passed 38-0 in the Senate

Sen. Jim Ananich
D-Genesee County Y

House Bill 4866: Authorize new bicycle rider hand signals.

To establish new signals for bicycle riders. Left turns would be indicated by extending the left arm straight out, right turns by either extending the right arm, or the left arm with forearm raised, which is the current standard, and slowing or stopping by "extending the left hand and arm downward."

Passed 106-0 in the House

Rep. Joe Graves
R-Argentine Twp. Y

Senate Bill 332: Exempt "natural fertilizer" from phosphate content restrictions.

To exempt "natural fertilizer" from restrictions imposed by a 2010 law restricting spreading a fertilizer containing more than 0.5 percent of the plant nutrient "available phosphate" on a lawn, golf course or other grass.

Passed 102-6 in the House.

Rep. Joe Graves
R-Argentine Twp. Y

Senate Bill 489: Revise detail of property tax imposed on business tools and equipment.

To revise details of a 2012 law that exempts from property tax up to $80,000 worth of tools and equipment owned or leased by a business in a particular jurisdiction. The bill would empower local assessors to retroactively deny exemptions for the three past years, authorize criminal penalties for claiming the exemption on ineligible property, revise what property is eligible, impose new record-cleaning requirements on business and more. It and Senate Bill 490 are considered a "clean up" of provisions in that 2012 law.

Passed 82-26 in the House.

Rep. Joe Graves
R-Argentine Twp. Y

House Bill 3121: Give five-year tax break to buyers of school property.

To give owners of property purchased from a public school district a five-year property tax exemption. Local tax-collecting units (local government) could opt out of providing the exemption.

Passed 62-44 in the House.

Local author and historian, Evelyn Lutz has published the history of Holly's Seventh-Day Adventist Church and the Adelphian Academy (AA), "How Adventism Came to Holly, Michigan, and How it Grew."

Having done most of the research and writing for the book several years ago, Lutz formally published the book this year as a way of celebrating the 150th anniversary of the organization of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

The book includes life sketches of early Michigan Adventist pioneers, information about the Holly headquarters of the former East Michigan Conference, camp meetings, photographs of both old buildings and new, local church school information and accounts of the Consecration and Dedication Services for the current Seventh-Day Adventist Church on Fish Lake Road.

devastating. "I'm excited about this, I really am."

Inside, the new building smells like spackle and drywall. Shielded electrical wires hang from exposed ceilings. After the drywall was "mudded" on Monday, primer was painted on Tuesday.

Executive Director Carl Gabrielson said the new building will cost $860,000, paid for with insurance money and donations. It is being built by Case Construction Services.

The next big expense could be furnishing the inside. The center may take out a loan if need be, to finish the project and outfit the offices.

Of the 6,000 square feet, 4,000 will comprise the activity center, the rest, offices. As the new building will double the size of the old, Gabrielson admitted the fire was a blessing in disguise, and left them no choice but to upgrade their facilities.

Today the building is in the "last stretch" of construction according to Gabrielson. Parking lots are finished and striped, and with light poles installed. Consumers Energy will be hooking up

Gabrielson hopes the building will be open by Thanksgiving, and fully functioning with activities by Christmas. The reason activities won't automatically shift to the new facility is the sheer volume of scheduling needed — October alone has around 400 classes scheduled, with anywhere from a few to 20 people per class.

more than a few hours of sleep at a time," said Ahearn. "This is one of the hardest parts of having fibromyalgia."

What are some of the symptoms?

Many people who have fibromyalgia also have fatigue, anxiety, depression, tension headaches, irritable bowel syndrome and temporomandibular joint (TMJ).

People with fibromyalgia have trigger points in their body that are especially sensitive to pain. These points are typically in the upper body, shoulders and back, back of the head, sides of hips, inner knees, outer elbows, etc. Current thinking centers around a theory called "central sensitization," according to mayoclinic.com. This theory states that people with fibromyalgia have a lower threshold for pain because of increased sensitivity in the brain to pain signals.

How is fibromyalgia treated?

Ahearn wears a pain patch to help her get through each day with the pain. "I can't take medication that is sometimes helpful for the disease, because it messed up my ability to think clearly," she said. She wears the pain patch in one spot for a week, and then switches it to a different location. "The pain patch helps a lot," she said.

While there is no cure for fibromyalgia, there are medications that help minimize symptoms. Medications designed to treat epilepsy are often useful in reducing certain types of pain. Lyrica (pregabalin) was the first drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration to treat the disease. Exercise, relaxation and stress-reduction measures also may help.

How does lifestyle affect fibromyalgia symptoms?

Maintaining overall health is an important goal for people suffering from fibromyalgia. That means eating a healthy diet, exercising, pacing activity, establishing sleep routines are important aspects of self-care. Therapy and holistic practices like acupuncture, massage therapy, yoga and tai chi are often helpful, too.

Q He was on three World Cup championship rosters with Brazil as a player, starting with 1958. Name him.

A Argued as the greatest soccer player in the history of the game by many, Pele was on Brazil's World Cup championship team in 1958, 1962 and 1970. He didn't play in the final in 1962 due to injury, but did start one game.

BEST TIGER OPENER

It's hard to believe a team with the starting pitching the Tigers had this postseason couldn't make it to the World Series, yet it didn't happen.

As talented as Detroit's offense may look on paper, we've learned the value of solid base running and defense. The Tigers are their own worst enemies. Their lack of speed meant it was nearly impossible to steal a run here or there with a runner getting an extra base on a hit, or beating out a potential double play. It meant they either crushed the ball consistently and scored a lot of runs or couldn't score at all.

And then, there's the defense. The Tigers were mediocre with the glove, rarely taking hits away.

We've learned it takes being able to do the little things if one wants enhance their chances of winning a title, and the Tigers can't do those little things.

Linden makes Wright moves, wins district crown

►Eagles' junior scores three times in 3-0 victory vs. Fenton Tigers Fowlerville — Kevin Wright has picked the right time to get hot.

The Linden junior led the second-ranked Eagles by scoring a three-goal hat trick in Linden's 3-0 Division 2 district championship victory against area rivals Fenton at Fowlerville High School on Saturday.

The win put Linden's varsity soccer team in the regional semifinal against Petoskey on Tuesday. Results of that game were not known at presstime.

Wright has been on fire recently, scoring eight of his 20 goals this season in the last four contests. He ended up being all the offense for both teams on Saturday. He had the proper motivation. He was going against the Tigers and his best friend, and Fenton striker Aron Ferguson.

"It's always fun playing against Fenton," Wright said. "My best friend plays for Fenton and I love playing against Fenton. It's always an aggressive game. It's always back-and-forth, a good game and it feels amazing to win. We're one step closer to states."

"Kevin is such a great player, but in all reality he's playing out of position," Linden coach Kevin Fiebertz said. "He's not a forward by any means, but his pace is incredible. He can run at you and run all day. He's really come on toward the end in the goal scoring. (Zach) Bakos did much of the scoring at the beginning, but Kevin has come out and done a lot of the scoring here at the end. We needed it. We need to spread the wealth out a bit."

When Wright wasn't scoring, the Linden defense was play-

Fenton places fifth at state, Shegos records ace

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Fenton varsity girls golf team did what they wanted at the Division 2 state meet held at Forest Akers East Golf Course Friday and Saturday.

And Madison Shegos did something she never expected.

For the second straight season, the Fenton Tigers placed fifth at the state meet, posting a team score of 737. Meanwhile, for the first time ever Shegos carded an ace. She posted a hole-in-one on the par-3, 18th hole, recording the first ace on the redesigned hole.

"When the ball came off the club, I thought the shot was going to be short," Shegos said. "It landed on the collar and it just appeared like someone was pulling the ball on a string to the cup. The ball just disappeared."

The Tigers were paced by Samantha Moss, who finished seventh overall with a 92-73-165. She was hoping to contend for the individual title. Instead, Moss put together the best round of the tourney during her second day after a tough first 18 holes.

"Part way through her first round she just lost her swing," Fenton coach Kurt Herbstreit said. "She was feeling pretty good on the second day. She was disappointed because she could've had a chance to contend for the top spot, but her second round shows her determination and heart to go out there and do what she did."

Tailer Przybylowicz followed Moss with an 89-91-180, while Maddie Brown carded a 92-103-195. Sarah Cummings had a 103-94-197, while Shegos carded a 109-103-212.

The Tigers were pleased with their finish. Climbing in the top four would've been tough considering South Lyon placed fourth with a 702, 35 strokes better than Fenton's final score.

"That's what the goal kind of was," Herbstreit said. "We wanted to finish fifth. We didn't think we could jump those other schools."

Holly's Paige Johnson also competed and posted a strong 93-99-192.

Linden at the D3 state meet

Linden's Hannah Joslin competed at the meet held at Grand Valley State University's The Meadows, and carded a two-day, 36-hole score of 97-103-200.

Fenton volleyball advances to finals of Davison invite

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Linda Rusaw has a goal. The coach wants to see her team win what would be an unofficial title. She wants the Fenton varsity volleyball squad to end the season as the best team in Genesee County.

The Tigers are making a pretty convincing argument that they might be just that, and made some more points toward that view on Saturday at the Davison Invitational.

The Tigers won five straight matches and advanced to the championship game, before losing to Ann Arbor Huron 25-15, 25-11 in the title match.

In the process, the Tigers (29-14-3) won four straight matches in straight sets and also defeated a Genesee County squad in the semifinals, Davison, by a 25-20, 20-25, 15-12 verdict.

Linden also competed at the event, going 1-2.

"It was a fun day," Rusaw said. "Every team had strong players and then we beat Mason in the quarterfinals and Davison, who we played in August, in the semifinals."

"We don't want to lose a match to any team in Genesee County. I know it sounds silly, but it's one of those things if people ask if you played so and so in Genesee County, we want to be able to say we beat them. It's bit of a pride thing. We want to be the best team in Genesee County and that's a realistic goal for us."

Fenton beat Bay City Western, Mason (twice) and Henry Ford II as well en route to the title match. And while making it that far, the Tigers had an impressive day attacking the ball.

Carly Granger led the Tigers with 41 kills and a 38.1 hitting percentage, while Bobbie Eastman had 40 kills. Jaime Hansen followed with 30 kills, and Cassidy Rourke chipped in 18 kills.

"We had a good hitting weekend, and we're up to .204 as a team," Rusaw said. "That's exciting because we are getting more kills and getting less errors. We are not going up in one category and up in the other. We are going up in one and going down in the other."

The Tigers' defense was paced by Granger's 42 digs, while Amanda Carty had 33 digs. Hansen and Ashley Bearden had 29 and 27 digs, respectively. Bearden had 114 assists and also led the team with nine aces.

The Eagles lost to Marysville and Ann Arbor Huron, but defeated Capac 25-13, 25-15, 25-10.

Taylor Ovington led the Eagles with 21 kills, 10 digs and four blocks, while Rebecca McDonald had 20 kills and five blocks. Bridget Adams chipped in 16 kills and five blocks, while Megan Klavitter had 20 digs. Bri Holscher had 17 digs.

Lake Fenton at the Bendle Invitational

The Blue Devils won the Silver Division Championship at Bendle, earning a 3-2 record for the day. Lake Fenton beat Bentley (twice) and the International Academy of Flint. The Blue Devils beat Bentley 20-25, 25-22, 15-5 in the title match.

"The team has made some great strides in these last few weeks by executing more on the court and terminating the ball for a score," Lake Fenton coach Angel DelMorone said. "The passing continues to improve, but our offense is beginning to connect. The setters are making better choices and hitters are finding open real estate — that's always a plus."

Autumn Beardsley led the offense with 29 kills, while also providing 12 digs and five blocks on defense. Alex Brumley chipped in 11 kills and three blocks. Alyssa Rogers had 34 assists, while fellow setter Riley Cole had 22 assists. Cole also had 11 kills and 10 digs. Alex Brumley chipped in 11 kills, while Reagan Goupil had seven kills.

Fenton moves one step closer to league crown, beats Bronchos

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The Fenton varsity girls swim team prepared for Thursday's Metro match with Brandon in prime form against the Holly Bronchos.

The Tigers captured the top spot in every event — sometimes officially and sometimes in exhibition — leading Fenton to a 99-76 victory against Holly. The Tigers competed each of the final four event as exhibition events.

"It was a good meet," Fenton coach Brad Jones said. "We were able to move our lineup around quite a bit last night. ... Our swimmers did very well taking the lead role in most events and our top girls got a chance to swim some events out of their normal events."

The Tigers spread out the wealth, having only one swimmer win two individual events. That competitor was Gabrielle Haaraaja, who won the 200 individual medley (2:24.33) and the 100 butterfly (1:05.07). The other individuals to place the best time in an event during the night were: Grace Siefker in the 200 freestyle (2:24.38), Lauren Davis in the 50 freestyle (28.05), MacKenzie Deputy in diving (199.95), Emma Cagle in the 100 freestyle (1:02.84), Brianna Costigan in the 500 freestyle (5:42.12), Addison

Holly tennis places 12th at state meet

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

What was a strong season for the Holly varsity boys tennis team, concluded on a reasonably high note as well on Friday.

The Holly Bronchos had four flights win matches, helping lead the squad to a 12th-place team finish in the Division 2 state meet last weekend.

The seven points represent the most points the Bronchos have scored at the state meet since 2005.

"I was really proud of what the boys did," Holly coach Will Sophia said. "It was our best finish since 2005. We were one point away from the top 10."

The Bronchos had two singles flights and two doubles flights earn victories. No. 3 singles player Mitch Hughes opened the tourney with a 6-4, 6-4 second-round victory against Gibraltar Carlson's Aaron Herman. However, he was forced to face the No. 1 seed in the next round, Midland Dow's Varun Shanker in the quarterfinals, losing a 6-2, 6-0 verdict.

No. 4 singles player Will Moller also had the No. 1 seed in his bracket. But before losing to Midland Dow's Michael Szabo 6-0, 6-0 in the round of 16, he defeated Grosse Pointe North's Tyler Scoggin 6-3, 7-5 in the opening round.

Holly's No. 2 doubles team of Parker Cuthbert and Taylor Mills also moved forward to the quarterfinals, winning a second-round match against Gibraltar Carlson's Joey Carrer and Alexander Montry 6-3, 6-2. They lost to the No. 2 seed from Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern, Pameet Gogireddy and Alex Winks, by a respectable 6-2, 6-2 margin.

Finally, the No. 4 doubles team of Morgan Baylis and Aaron Vergith also made it to the quarterfinals. They beat Birmingham Groves' Jack Dolan and Nas Sorrell 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 in the round of 16, but lost to No. 1 seed Cole Williamson and Spencer Bouck (Midland) 6-0, 6-1 in the quarterfinals.

"I'm proud of the seniors and the leadership and dedication they showed not for just four years, but for six or seven when you talk middle school and then longer when you talk the Holly summer tennis program," Sophia said. "They've been the heart and soul of the Holly tennis program for eight, nine and 10 years. It's going to be a challenge to replace all of those seniors."

"With Ben Thornton back there, his voice, him coming back from the Wolves, he's a big part of our defense back there," Hoerberling said. "He's winning all the headers and directing the other guys. He does a great job."

"Our defense has done a great job all year," Fiebernitz said. "Normally we are three (defenders) in the back, but with the conditions (wet, rainy and cold) we had to go with four which takes a little out of our offense and our midfield. ... They didn't get too many quality shots, which is good, and the big thing is we held strong. The conditions favored Fenton more than it did us because of the style of play, but a win is a win."

The first half featured pretty even play between the two area rivals, but the Eagles eventually took the lead for good with 8:30 left when Zach Bakos attempted a shot. It was saved, but Wright responded with his first goal on a rebound shot. Linden held a 1-0 lead at the half.

"It kind of bounced out and I kind of took a touch and placed it because the keeper came out," Wright said. "I got it and placed it."

During the first half, Fenton had two shots on net during the first 20 minutes, but wouldn't have another one the rest of the contest.

In the second half the Eagles took a little bit stronger control of the flow of play, and Wright made sure it showed on the scoreboard. He gave the Eagles a 2-0 lead with 16:53 remaining in the contest. The play started with cross in the box, which tapped off of Tyler Ziccardi to Wright, who scored.

Fenton's final decent shot to get back into the contest came with 11:30 left in regulation. The shot was provided by Cole Jamison from about 15 yards out, but the shot soared wide. Then, with 9:15 left in the contest, Wright iced the victory with a final goal on an assist by A.J. Brasseur.

"I took a touch to my left and cut it across," Wright said. "That's what I've been trying to do lately. I took a touch to my left, played it with my left all the way across."

The Eagles beat Fenton for the third time this year, and were thrilled with the result.

"It's a great feeling, especially beating our hometown rival and especially doing it with this great group of guys," Hoerberling said. "I wouldn't want to do it with anybody else."

"I think we have what it takes to go all the way," Hoerberling said. "With Zach Bakos in our center, he's a good leader on the field and off the field, so we kind of follow in his footsteps. And with his leadership, I think we can make a run for it."
