Community Center project moving forward — ‘finally’

► After years of delays $1.9 million fundraising goal reached

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

The revamping of the Fenton Community and Cultural Center has been a community dream since around 2005. After fundraising, which stalled during the recession and then more fundraising, and adjusting of goals, the rubber is about to hit the road with the $2.3 million project.

“I think people will be so pleased with it.”

Sue Osborn
Fenton mayor

With sufficient funds raised, the project may begin soliciting bids for a winter construction project. Fundraising co-chair Pat Lockwood said there is currently about $1.9 million in the building fund, and reaching $1.8 million was the “trigger” to allowing the main construction project to move forward.

“The community has really rallied around, and really come forth,” said Lockwood.

This is the light at the end of the 50th anniversary of JFK’s assassination ignites memories for local residents

“I actually saw John F. Kennedy in Houston the day before he was killed.”

Joanie Tarkleson, Fenton

Not everyone can say they actually saw President John F. Kennedy the day before he was assassinated, but Fenton resident Joanie Tarkleson can. November 22 marks the 50th anniversary of Kennedy’s assassination in Dallas, Texas.

Tarkleson, 60, grew up in Houston, and had the opportunity to catch a glimpse of the President as he left the airport the day before his visit to Dallas.

“I actually saw John F. Kennedy in Houston the day before he was killed,” Tarkleson said.

“My mother was very excited

Fifty years later the assassination of President John F. Kennedy is still a mystery to most Americans. The photo above shows President Kennedy, his wife Jackie, Texas Governor John Connally and his wife Nellie, and the two Secret Service agents in the front seat of the limousine just moments before Kennedy was fatally shot.

Police & Fire report

Catalytic converter stolen

An auto dealership in the 16000 block of Silver Parkway in Fenton filed a larceny of a catalytic converter complaint with Fenton police. An employee said between Nov. 8 and 11, someone cut the unit from a 2001 Olds van that was parked in their lot. There are no suspects.

Attempted home invasion

At 12:30 p.m. on Nov. 13, Fenton police responded to a home in the 800 block of Silver Lake Road to investigate an attempted home invasion complaint. The 39-year-old homeowner said overnight between Nov. 12 and 13, someone had removed a screen from a house window. She noticed footprints near a basement window. The suspect(s) were unable to gain entry into her home.

BMW keyed in parking lot

At 4:30 p.m. on Nov. 14, a 67-year-old Linden woman reported to Fenton police that someone keyed a 3-inch gouge on the door of her 2013

Canned veggies battle it out for flavor, value

► House brand beats out name brands for affordability, quality for the price

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

When you open up a can of green beans or corn in your kitchen to make a recipe, you might be tempted to ask “is that all there is?”

Certainly, the net weight of the vegetable itself is far less than the can, once you’ve removed the water. But the water does serve a useful purpose during the canning process, and much of the liquid retains the valuable vitamins and minerals from the vegetables. While you wouldn’t likely serve up the drained vegetable water as a beverage, you may find it works well to flavor soups and stews instead of water or broth.

You will find a huge difference in price at the grocery store when you’re buying name

What you won’t find is an appreciable difference in quality or net weight that makes the expensive ones worth their price tag.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

For the sake of science, and also saving money at the grocery store, features writer Sally Rummel made 45 separate food and liquid weight measurements in reporting for the story.

brand canned vegetables like Del Monte and Freshlike, compared to a house brand. What you won’t find is an appreciable difference in quality or net weight that makes the expensive ones worth their price tag.

In a simple home kitchen experiment, I compared $1.19 cans of name brand green beans, corn and carrots with house brands priced between 69 cents and 79 cents. Whether I measured a house brand or name brand, water made up close to half of the weight of the can.

For example, Del Monte green beans contained 7.25 oz. water and 7.5 oz. of beans alone. House brand green beans didn’t fare

More unsolicited advice: How to hire a photographer

► Experience, personality and portfolio counts

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

My mantra around the office is always, “It’s OK if you don’t hire me, but PLEASE do your research.” Especially with weddings... the idea is to only have one.

Here is my genuinely impassioned advice for hiring a photographer at your next big life event.

The portfolio

You’ll research a restaurant, floor covering, schools, movies and music before buying — becoming a knowledgeable consumer for photos is the same.

The portfolio is the thing that is supposed to sell you on their service. A photographer’s portfolio should represent the very best of what they’ve done recently. Look at many portfolios, from a variety of photographers to learn about what quality is, and what you like. Many of these will be online.

When I shot my first wedding, the couple handed me a few stock wedding photos to give an idea of what they were looking for. That’s a fair idea, but instead I suggest picking someone with photos you like, not asking the photographer to emulate someone else. Each photographer will have their own style, and photos of the same event will be different for each shooter.

Little known JFK assassination facts

■ FEW PEOPLE KNOW that for some odd reason the repaired historical vehicle continued on as a presidential limousine until 1967 and was finally retired from government service in 1978. It's now on display in the Henry Ford Museum (just 40 miles from Fenton) in Dearborn.

■ OSWALD'S GRAVE is in Rose Hill Memorial Burial Park in Fort Worth, Texas. The original tombstone, which included Oswald's full name and dates of birth and death, was stolen; today, the grave is marked by a stone, which reads simply, Oswald. He was killed before standing trial for the murder of President Kennedy. As a result, he's still presumed to be technically innocent according to the law.

■ MOST PEOPLE don't know that Jack Ruby's real name was Jack Rubenstein. He never changed it legally but always went by Jack Ruby.

■ OSWALD'S TOE TAG fetched $8,800 at a Dallas auction in 1994. In 2009, a gray fedora worn by Jack Ruby when he shot Lee Harvey Oswald sold for $53,775 at an auction of items linked to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The shackles Ruby wore when he lay dying at Parkland Memorial Hospital sold for $11,054 and an X-ray of Ruby's brain garnered $776. At this same auction, a front page of The Dallas Morning News that Kennedy had signed for a maid at a Fort Worth hotel on the morning of his death sold for $38,837.

■ NEARLY EVERYONE believes that the 1961 four-door Lincoln Continental limousine Kennedy was riding in when shot was black, but it was actually blue. It was painted black after Kennedy's assassination.

■ IN THE SPRING OF 1964, a box arrived at the National Archives in Washington, DC. The return address was on O Street, the Georgetown residence of Jacqueline Kennedy's mother. Packed inside was the bloody pink wool suit Jackie was wearing on Nov. 22, 1963. Since it arrived, the box has been kept in a windowless room where the temperature never dips below 65-degrees and never hovers higher than 68-degrees. Humidity is maintained at 40-percent. Officials believe that in this environment, the suit will last indefi-nately. Per Caroline Kennedy's instructions, the suit will not be made available for public viewing until the year 3007.

■ LEAST KNOWN FACT. This is very gruesome, but accurate. As Dr. Marian 'Pepper' Jenkins, the doctor on duty at Parkland Hospital that day, prepared to declare the official time of death of the president, Jackie Kennedy slowly walked over to him and silently extended her cupped hands. He asked quietly, 'Yes, Mrs. Kennedy?' When he held out his hand she placed in it a small, two-inch portion of the president's brain that she'd been holding since the shooting, nearly two hours earlier. This is also substantiated by Governor Connally's wife's Warren Commission testimony, which states that Jackie said to Mrs. Connally, moments after the third shot, "...they have killed my husband, I have his brains in my hand." Jackie repeated it several times.

YOU MUST SURELY see some good things in your life. Let's be positive and thankful for what we have from God. It would thrill my heart to hear nice things.

I GOT A new word or maybe two words for Obamacare. It should be ObamaCareless or ObamaScare. That seems to fit a lot better. Not only did he lie about it, I don't think he knows what it is. Two or three years from now, it will be banned, if it ever even gets started.

I USED TO smoke the evil weed so I know what I'm talking about. It is the gateway drug. Once they legalize it, they will legalize everything else and we will be in worse shape than we are now.

►Times seeking best area photos for 2014 Source Book cover

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

It's that time of year again. The Times is in the process of producing the 2014 edition of its award-winning Source Book and we are seeking photos from around the tri-county area to be part of the cover design.

To encourage your entries the staff at the Times is holding an online photo contest. Residents of the tri-county area can win a $100 gift card if their photo, submitted online at tctimes.com, is selected for the front cover. This could be the chance of a lifetime to share your best and most unique photos of area scenery, community events, family, pets, children, merchants or local activities to name just a few ideas. The more unique the photo, the better the chance of winning.

This will be the 18th year that the Times has published its Source Book, a must-have reference guide, packed from cover to cover with critical and useful information about businesses, organizations, schools, political offices and much more.

Gail Grove, longtime advertising director for the Times, said she constantly hears positive comments from both businesses and residents on how useful the Source Book is to them. Every year new content, advertising opportunities and pertinent information are added to further enhance its value.

Don't wait — log on to tctimes.com and click on the "Photo contest" link on the top right for to submit your winning entry.

Many a feather were ruffled by Fenton's "Be Closer" campaign when it was introduced a few years ago. The teal and concrete "welcome" signs drew a fair amount of ire in the Times' Hot lines.

Now that some time has passed, the Times would like to see if public opinion of the signs has changed. This information will go into a story for the next Weekend Times.

To voice your opinion, go to tctimes.com to take the poll. You can also submit a Hot line on the website, by calling (810) 629-9221 or sending a text to (810) 771-8398.

Three injured in Holly crash

► Police say alcohol does not appear to be a factor

By Amy Mayhew

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Holly — A crash along North Holly Road Monday afternoon sent three people to the hospital — two having been released with minor injuries and the third having sustained a fractured pelvis in the crash.

The crash occurred around 3:30 p.m. on Nov. 12 on North Holly Road near the intersection of Quick Road.

According to the Holly Police Department, a 29-year-old Holly man was southbound on North Holly Road when he swerved across the centerline, crashing head-on into a northbound pick-up truck driven by a 53-year-old Birch Run man.

A third vehicle driven by a 48-year-old Fenton woman rear-ended the pick-up truck, pushing her vehicle underneath the pick-up.

All three individuals were transported to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township for treatment.

Holly police reported that traffic was re-routed around the crash scene for an extended period of time until the investigation could be concluded, and the scene could be cleared. Although alcohol does not appear to be a factor in the crash, the crash remains under investigation.

WHEN I READ the idiotic comment in the Hot lines that suggests that conservatives had put a virus into the healthcare website to sabotage it, I could only roll my eyes and wonder where people get these weird ideas. Too much liberal talk radio?

THANK YOU FIRST Methodist Church for putting on such a wonderful tribute to our Veterans. Very, very moving.

I SEE ON TV and I read it in the paper that often they are referring to the State Department. Does anyone know what the State Department is? Is it some group of elite cops that can control everything?

KIWANIS CLUB BRINGS CHRISTMAS SPIRIT TO LINDEN

The Kiwanis Club in Linden is continuing its tradition of bringing the Christmas spirit to downtown Linden. President Don Rajsich said the club has been decorating Linden with the same candy canes and wreaths they've been using since the 1960s. This year's decorations will be aglow however, as the club has had them refurbished with LED lights from Bronner's in Frankenmuth and Chapel Hill Electric in Fenton. Though the decorations were originally only set in front of businesses that donated to the club, Rajsich expects to fill in more gaps around town. "We're trying to make things look more uniformed. We have 16 wreaths and 34 candy canes," Rajsich said. "We have decorations on Silver Lake Road, Linden Road, Rolston Road and Bridge Street." For those interested in helping or donating to the Kiwanis Club in Linden, Rajsich can be reached at (810)629-0268.

Focus on Vision

By: Dr. Juan Alvarado,
O.D., Diplomate, American
Board of Optometry

STATISTICS ON CHILDREN'S VISION

According to the Eye Care Council, "Eighty percent of learning in school is visual." This is one of the many reasons that the doctors at Fenton Vision Center recommend children have their first eye exams before kindergarten.

The American Optometric Association (AOA) also recommends first exams at age six months, then at three years, then before kindergarten. I agree with this approach as well. The following are some facts from the AOA.

- Twenty-five percent of kindergarten students have a vision problem.
- Eleven and a half percent of teenagers have undetected or untreated vision problems.
- Thirty to forty percent of all high school graduates have a vision problem.
- Sixty percent of individuals enrolled in literacy programs have a vision problem.
- More than thirty percent of special education children have a vision problem.

We often see children and young adults with vision problems that went undetected until the individual was behind in school. Many school districts provide vision screenings for children; however these should not replace a comprehensive examination by an optometrist.

Our pediatric examinations are extremely thorough. We make every effort, not only to gather all appropriate data from children, but to also minimize their anxiety. Let's face it, "bedside manner" is critical in examining kids.

NEXT TIME FENTON High School or the Fenton school district wants a tax increase tell them to go out and hug the brand new fence they put around the baseball diamond and soccer field. Oh and who got the fence they just took down? Where did that go?

MY GOODNESS FELLOW Americans we've elected a babbling, rambling idiot for a president, unbelievable. He needs help.

AS PREDICTED, OBAMACARE is becoming a disaster and deteriorating daily. Someone famously said, 'Any person who thinks they can be happy and prosperous by letting the government take care of them, should take a look at the American Indian.' Obama is making Bernie Madoff seem like an honest man.

DOES ANYONE REMEMBER the name of the store that was where the North LeRoy VG's is now? It was there before Kmart was there. Perhaps had FW in its name. I think it was a department store. They had appliances. This would be around 1975.

I'VE BROKEN DOWN Obamacare to its simplest form. You must buy insurance you don't want, on a website that doesn't work, or you will be fined. What can possibly go wrong?

READ CLOSELY, AMERICA was founded by Christians, the Constitution was written and approved by Christians and Deists. Some States had sponsored denominations. Jefferson had church services in the capitol building, which started with Washington and went on during several Presidents' administrations. However, no federal government sponsored religious group.

AFTER FIVE YEARS of Obama rule, there are 16 million women on food stamps. Two out of every five single mothers are on food stamps and healthcare costs are skyrocketing. This is Obama's war on women!

BUSINESSES

Authority (DDA), Chamber of Commerce, and several individuals representing Oakland County's Main Street program converged on seven new businesses, helping the owners celebrate, and conducting ribbon-cutting ceremonies at each location.

Among the new businesses were Suski Used Cars on North Holly Road, Fabulous Finds Consignment and Retail on North Saginaw Street, Holly Hills Primitives on Civic Drive, Real Barre on South Saginaw Street, Wilkinson's Tool Chest on South Saginaw Street, Battle

Alley Tattoo on Battle Alley and Avia Family Dining on South Saginaw Street.

"Holly's downtown is the busiest it's been in 15 years," Village Manager Jerry Walker said. "The place is hopping, and we hope to attract more businesses — and visitors — in the future."

The seven new businesses bring a combined 36 new jobs to the community.

"In addition to the 36 jobs created by these new businesses, we have a position open for a new DDA director and Main Street manager," Walker said. "We are looking for a leader who will continue this growth in economic development in the village and its historic downtown."

MICHIGAN VOTES

WHAT YOUR LEGISLATORS
VOTED ON THIS WEEK

The Mackinac Center for Public Policy provides a weekly report of how local elected officials in Michigan have voted and on what topics. This report was released Friday, Nov. 8.

Senate Joint Resolution V: Call for U.S. balanced budget amendment convention

Passed 26 to 12 in the Senate

To submit an application to Congress calling for an "Article V" constitutional convention, limited to proposing an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that prohibits the federal government from spending more in any fiscal year than it collects in tax and other revenue (balanced budget amendment). Legislatures representing two-thirds of the states must request this to get a convention, and three-quarters of the states must approve any amendment proposed by an "Article V" convention for it to become part of the constitution. The resolution names 17 states that have submitted applications.

Sen. Jim Ananich D-Genesee County voted:

☐ YES ☒ NO

Senate Bill 652: Establish state Appeals Court as venue for suits against the state

Passed 57 to 52 in the House

To establish that the venue for all legal claims against state agencies, commissions, boards, etc. (the state "court of claims"), will no longer be the Ingham County circuit court, and instead will be the state Court of Appeals (which consists of 24 judges elected in four regional elections).

Rep. Joe Graves R-Argentine Twp. voted:

☒ YES ☐ NO

House Bill 5050: Ban credit card fraud "skimming" devices

Passed 109 to 0

To authorize criminal penalties for the use of a "skimmer" device to gain access to a person's financial accounts (for example, when using an ATM machine). This and other bills in a legislative package would authorize the same penalties as a 2012 law banning "automated sales suppression devices" for falsifying electronic cash register records (called "zappers"): Five years and a $25,000 fine for a first offense, increasing to 15 years for a third and subsequent offenses.

Rep. Joe Graves R-Argentine Twp. voted:

tunnel for the committee striving to improve Fenton's architectural gem, which includes Pat Lockwood and Bob Burek.

The project is moving forward, "Finally," said Mayor Sue Osborn. "And I think people will be so pleased with it."

As previously reported in the Times, The 5,400-square-foot addition of the building will include two classrooms for arts and cultural programs, with a gallery upstairs, adding on to the building's existing 11,000 square feet.

The building will see renovations made to the current structure, including a new elevator, restorations to parts of the flooring and to make the building more handicap accessible. New restrooms will be accessible, independent from the rest of the building, allowing them to be opened for outdoor events while the rest of the building remains closed.

Osborn said the goal is to keep the structure of the building, maintaining its historical aesthetic, while allowing the new changes to shine through.

The building's upgrades are being funded by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to the tune of $1.3 million, and the rest from private donors. Unlike the Cornerstone building, streetscape or Fenton Fire Hall, this is not technically a city of Fenton project, but Osborn sees it as part of the greater revitalization of the city.

These other projects will likely increase demand for a community space. It will serve as a meeting space and a place for parties, weddings receptions and other events as well as classes.

"The DDA and the city want to see more activities down there to draw more people downtown," she said.

Lockwood said that while the $1.8 million allows for general construction, another $400,000 needs to be raised to actually furnish the new classrooms being built. A pottery class, for example, needs a kiln to bake projects, and programming itself costs money. At least one donor wanted their money to be put toward a sculpture garden, and Lockwood said an enclosed dumpster area is also being researched.

The Fenton Community and Cultural Center as it should look when the addition is complete. The project can begin once bids are received.

Sally Rummel found that house brands in some cases provide more food for less money than the name brands.

quite as well, containing 8 oz. water and 6.25 oz. of beans alone. But when comparing house brand corn with Freshlike corn, the cheaper brand won. The house brand contained 9 oz. of actual corn packed in 5.5 oz. of water, while Freshlike contained 8.5 oz. of corn in 5.75 oz. water.

Obviously, this was an unscientific experiment done in a home kitchen with rudimentary measuring tools, but the point was clear: house brands of canned vegetables don't differ enough in weight or quality (we ate the corn for dinner!) to justify paying so much more.

Before you dismiss canned vegetables as a lowly form of nutrition, you should know that they are usually picked and processed on the same day, taking only a few hours from harvest to processing. There is no need for preservatives because the heat and pressure in the canning process preserves them. Yes, you may have to read labels carefully for sodium content, but note that there are many low-sodium, no-sugar options that cater to almost any nutritional need.

While you might not think of opening up a can of green beans or corn for Thanksgiving dinner, you might want to think again. When used with a proper recipe, you will find them to be an economical, "dressed up" alternative to more expensive vegetables that are out of season.

SALLY'S PERSONAL FAVORITES:

Better-than-average canned green beans

(Recipe courtesy of allrecipes.com)

INGREDIENTS:

2 (15 oz.) cans green beans
1 T. instant minced onion
1 t. bacon bits (fresh is best!)
¼ t. salt
¼ t. pepper

PREPARATION:

Drain one can of the green beans. Empty both cans into a medium sauce pan and add onions, bacon bits, salt and pepper. Cover and cook on medium heat for about 10 minutes. Tip: let the ingredients bubble and DO NOT take the lid off. The bacon bits and onions soften and enhance the flavor of the beans. Serves 3-4.

My Aunt Mary Lou's Easy Corn Casserole

INGREDIENTS:

½ c. butter, melted
2 eggs, beaten
1 (8.5 oz.) Jiffy corn bread mix
1 (15 oz.) can whole kernel corn, drained
1 (14.75 oz.) can creamed corn
1 cup sour cream

PREPARATION:

Preheat oven to 350 degrees and lightly grease a 9x9 baking dish. In medium bowl, combine butter, eggs, corn bread mix, whole and creamed corn and sour cream. Spoon mixture into prepared dish. Bake for 45 minutes, or until the top is golden brown. Do not overbake.

PIPELINE

"It's taxation without representation," said Stewart, who has been involved with water issues in Genesee County since the early 1980s. "Residents should be aware the Karegnondi Water Authority (KWA) is potentially getting into their property taxes and using it as a line item to pay off the bond."

Stewart became suspicious of the new pipeline and the bond to pay for it after reading a legal notice in The Flint Journal. Stewart interpreted the words "If the city of Flint fails to fulfill its payment obligations under the Contract, the County of Genesee has covenanted and agreed to make any such missed payment" to mean residents within the county will pay for the costs not covered by the city.

"The KWA is doing this pipeline, that's fact," Stewart said. "But the fact is, how are they going to fund it?"

Genesee County Drain Commissioner and CEO of KWA Jeff Wright said the new water pipeline will not increase taxes for Genesee County residents. Wright also added that the water pipeline will most likely cost near $265 million rather than the limit of $300 million.

"Payment for the pipeline will come from existing revenue we collect from our citizens. It does not include property taxes at all," Wright said. "We have about 250,000 people on the system right now, out of 422,000 residents in Genesee County."

Currently, water in Genesee County comes from the city of Detroit, which Wright said the county purchases for $25 million a year. The money spent paying Detroit for water will be diverted into paying for the new pipeline from Port Huron.

Switching Genesee County's water supply from Detroit to Port Huron has drawn strong feelings and arguments from supporters and critics. The Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD) issued a press release April 1 denouncing the pipeline, stating, "The insistence of Flint officials to pursue construction of the KWA pipeline can only be attributed to a 'political' objective that has nothing to do with the delivery — or the price — of water."

DWSD claims to have spent $44 million in 2012 on improvements to stations that serve Genesee County and that the department attempted to negotiate new water rates for the county, only to be refused by county officials.

Wright said the existing pipeline that transfers water from Detroit is crumbling and that it would cost county residents more to rebuild the existing pipeline, rather than construct a whole new one. Add increasing water rates from DWSD, Wright said building a new pipeline will save residents more money.

"Detroit has publicly said they would have to rebuild the pipe if we don't do it. We've had shutdowns and were once out of water for three days," Wright said.

Stewart is still convinced however that residents will be on the hook for up to $300 million.

"Fresh water is Michigan's best resource. The water authority has stolen Flint's gold," Stewart said. "KWA is asking for money and they're going to put it on the taxpayer."

Payment for the pipeline will come from existing revenue we collect from our citizens.

Jeff Wright

Genesee county drain commissioner

Summary

Fenton resident Bob Stewart believes Genesee County residents may have to pay off a proposed $300 million bond through property taxes. Genesee County Drain Commissioner Jeff Wright denied this, stating a new water pipeline will be paid through existing revenue.

Teen grabs for deputy's gun

At 3:10 a.m. on Nov. 11, Fenton police responded to an apartment off Torrey Road to check on the welfare of a 19-year-old Linden male who was reportedly hallucinating. The teen told Fenton police and a Genesee County sheriff's deputy that he had taken some illegal drugs. He was sweating profusely and was very agitated. In the hallway, the teen said he needed a gun and grabbed for the deputy's holstered gun. After struggling with the teen, police tased him to get him under control. STAT EMS transported him to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township for treatment. Police obtained a two-count felony warrant, which includes attempt to disarm a police officer (five-year felony) and resisting and obstructing police. As of Friday, the teen had not yet been arraigned.

that he was coming to town, so she packed us up into the car, and took us to the airport."

Standing on a boulevard area outside of the airport with an enormous crowd of people, Tarkleson said she was within one car length of the President. "We watched as he drove by in the back of a convertible," she said.

"He had a police escort and another police car behind the convertible, but other than that, there were no other police — no barriers or anything."

That evening, Tarkleson said she remembers hearing her parents discuss how odd they thought it was that the President was virtually unprotected.

The next day at school, Tarkleson remembers learning that Kennedy had been assassinated in Dallas. "They sent us home from school," she said.

"When I got home, both my mother and my grandmother were bawling their eyes out — I remember it being very upsetting to see the grown-ups crying so hard."

While Holly resident Pam Krantz didn't have a specific connection with JFK's assassination, her family had a special connection to JFK, as her uncle's brother was a secret service agent for Jackie Kennedy.

Krantz said all her family knew was that her relative had been sent to Texas to set up the communications aspect of the trip, but didn't know if he had been involved in the shooting. "The secret service didn't do things on a routine basis — each day he had a different responsibility."

Krantz said her relative learned the President had been shot on his flight back to Washington D.C. "He thought the world of JFK," she said. "I wish he would have lived long enough to share some of his stories with us — I'm sure I heard some, but as a teenager, I didn't pay attention."

Former superintendent for Holly Area Schools, Kent Barnes, 62, said he was a seventh-grade student at Sturgis Elementary School in Sturgis, Ky., when he learned of Kennedy's assassination.

Jack Ruby is captured on film a split-second before firing the single shot that killed Lee Harvey Oswald. The murder occurred on Sunday morning, November 24, 1963 on live TV with most of the nation watching.

"I remember it was after lunch that our principal, Mr. Bowers Wallace, came over the PA system to let us know that President Kennedy had been shot," Barnes said. "As a seventh-grader at the time, my classmates and I were concerned that our president had been shot, but had no understanding of the immense significance of the event."

Oakland County Commissioner Bob

Hoffman also remembers the day Kennedy was shot "like it was yesterday."

A seventh-grade student at the time, Hoffman said students were notified of the shooting on the school PA system after a student's mother called the school to deliver the bad news.

"It was a really sad time," Hoffman said. "Most of all, I remember being scared," he said. "With so much on the news about Russia being the U.S.' biggest foe, we were all just really scared of what would happen without Kennedy's leadership."

Five decades of conspiracy theories

Just a little more than a thousand days into his presidency, two bullets struck and killed John F. Kennedy — one in his head, and one in his neck — while his motorcade wound its way through Dealey Plaza in Dallas, Texas. Kennedy was the youngest man ever elected President, and was also the youngest to die.

Having been seen with a rifle on the sixth floor of the building where he worked, Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, was accused of assassinating Kennedy. After the shooting, Oswald was spotted leaving the scene, and was confronted by J. D. Tippit, an officer on the Dallas police force. Oswald allegedly shot and killed Tippit, and was later arrested at the Texas Theater.

Oswald never got the opportunity to tell his side of the story, as he was shot and killed by Dallas nightclub owner, Jack Ruby, just two days after Kennedy's assassination, and as law enforcement officers were transporting him to the county jail.

The presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren concluded that Oswald acted alone, having single-handedly fired three shots, two of which hit and killed Kennedy — end of story.

That conclusion, however, didn't pass the sniff test with the public, and in 2003, an ABC news poll found that 70 percent of Americans believed that Kennedy's death was the result of a much broader plot.

More recently, the numbers have slipped. An AP-GfK survey conducted in mid-April revealed that 59 percent of Americans still think multiple people were involved in a conspiracy to kill the President, while 24 percent believe Oswald acted alone, and 16 percent are on the fence.

Experts now believe that Jackie Kennedy was actually retrieving a portion of her husband's shattered skull just seconds after the fatal shot that killed the president.

Among the initial conspiracies was that the trajectory of the bullets didn't "square" with Oswald's position from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository. Other theories suggest that a second gunman may have been involved — perhaps taking a shot from the infamous "grassy knoll" at Dealey Plaza. A third theory buys into an even broader conspiracy — that Kennedy was killed by CIA agents acting in anger over the Bay of Pigs incident, at the command of the Vice President, or maybe even under the direction of KGB operatives. Another suggests that mobsters were responsible for Kennedy's assassination in retaliation for his brother Robert Kennedy's role in initiating prosecution of organized crime rings.

More on the Grassy Knoll theory

The "grassy knoll" theory got more press in 1979 when an investigation by the Congress' House Assassinations Committee disagreed, saying that a fourth shot, which missed, had been fired from behind a picket fence on the grassy knoll. In 1982, a special panel of the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) disagreed, insisting that the fourth shot was just "random background noise."

JFK assassination researcher, D. B. Thomas, published a 2001 article in Science and Justice Magazine, saying that the NAS study was flawed, and that the House committee was correct — four shots were fired.

Determining whether three or four shots were fired came down to technology, and in 1963, audio and video technology left a lot to be desired.

Researchers used the famous silent home movie of JFK's assassination filmed by Dallas dressmaker, Abraham Zapruder, coupling it with a sound recording from a Dallas police transmission channel, recorded when a motorcycle patrolman inadvertently left his microphone on. Using these two mediums in tandem, members of the house panel were able to use an audio filtering technique to isolate "audible events" during a 10-second timeframe, and believed they heard four shots, not three.

Using two other recordings of the Dallas police transmissions from the radio channels the police were using that day, the NAS rebutted. Having spliced two separate and incomplete recordings together, the NAS concluded that the supposed grassy knoll shot occurred too late to be a part of the assassination.

Thomas disagreed, and used a different instance of "cross talk" to determine that the gunshot-like sound from the grassy knoll occurred "at the exact instant that John F. Kennedy was assassinated." Additionally, Thomas tabulated that there was more than a 96 percent chance that a second gunman took the fourth shot, and that it was the one that killed the President.

ASSASSINATION

Some think LBJ was to blame

In his new book, “The Man Who Killed Kennedy: The Case Against LBJ,” author Roger Stone puts Kennedy’s assassination on his vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson. Stone claims LBJ had Kennedy killed, and then as newly appointed president, used those powers to cover up the murder.

In addition to Kennedy’s murder, Stone blames LBJ for his alleged complicity in at least six other murders including a Department of Agriculture official who had been investigating a close associate of ► November 22 marks the 50th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Several local residents share their memories of that fateful day.

Summary

Johnson’s and his own sister, Josefa Johnson, who Stone said, “was a fairly high-profile bisexual at the time.”

Stone, who used to work on the Committee to Re-elect Richard Nixon, references a series of interviews he conducted with Nixon, toward the end of Nixon’s life. According to Stone, Nixon “never flatly said who was responsible (for Kennedy’s death). But he had said, ‘Both Johnson and I wanted to be president, but the only difference was I wouldn’t kill for it.’”

Conspiracy theories around Oswald’s demise

Even Ruby’s role in the assassination of Oswald is up for debate, after Bob Jackson, a former photographer for the Dallas Times Herald and the man who captured the image of Ruby shooting Oswald in a Pulitzer Prize winning photo spoke up after more than four decades of keeping mum. Forty-three years later in 2006, Jackson revealed for the first time after the shooting that he didn’t see a single speck of blood on Oswald’s body or at the crime scene.

“I sure did think it was strange not to see any blood whatsoever,” Jackson told listeners of the Greg Szymanski radio show, “The Investigative Journal.” “I stayed on the scene well after Oswald was taken away in the ambulance and I never did see any blood — not one drop.”

Jackson’s startling revelation backed up other researchers who claimed that Oswald and Ruby faked the shooting as part of an undercover operation designed to eventually eliminate Oswald’s knowledge of the real JFK assassination team, as well as his part played as the government’s “patsy.”

Conspiracy theorists further believe that Oswald was most likely told to fake the shooting only to be later double-crossed by CIA operatives who killed him in the ambulance in order to eliminate loose ends in the Kennedy assassination.

The 50th anniversary of President John F. Kennedy’s assassination and the end of an era posthumously christened as “Camelot” has been discussed for a half century. With very little closure over the demise of a hugely admired President, chances are, the world will still be discussing the circumstances surrounding Kennedy’s death for the next half century to come.

Studio Manager Mike Naddeo of Billmeier Studios in Fenton suggests looking for versatility, professionalism and a likable personality when choosing a photographer. See sidebar for more tips.

TIPS FROM BILLMEIER STUDIO

Mike Naddeo is studio manager for Billmeier Studios. He shoots on location, and he works in the studio.

- Good rapport with photographer — “If you guys aren’t getting along, you just won’t get good results,” he said. “You just won’t be happy with what you get in the end.”
- Established — Naddeo suggests also going for a photographer with a reputation, and ask to see a client list. For him, he wants to see a photographer holding the camera correctly, which is the left hand under the lens, and the other holding the camera.
- Interesting compositions — “I can tell if someone is a pro or not just by the way they’re standing,” he said. A photographer should be moving and changing the point of view for their photos.
- Versatility — Naddeo prefers a photographer be able to work in different styles, while also offering consistent color in the photos.

Experience does, repeat, does count — a lot

The family-friend may not be the best choice for big events or milestones. Of course, more choices come with more of a budget; starting out, I was that kid with the camera taking the pictures, almost for free.

Experience does count. It means being able to handle your event quickly, and stress free, which in turn lowers your own stress. They’ll get it right the first time and have fun doing it. If they have fun, you can more easily have fun. Who can smile at a scowling, stressed out photographer?

People skills

You have to like the photographer, and like their work, too (see the bit about scowling, above.) If you don’t like the person behind the camera, it will show on your face. This is where references will be useful.

On the photographs themselves

Ask if your photographer shoots RAW (pronounced “raw”) images — they should enthusiastically say “yes.”

RAW is a file format that indicates a slightly more advanced photographer, and also promises better images with more depth and detail. Most professionals shoot RAW today, because it’s like having a film negative saved away, instead of a print.

Really look at how the photographer handles inside lighting. This can separate the student from the professional. Does an image look too yellow, green, blue? Are they creative with their flash? Their photos should not evoke “heck, I could do that,” more often than not.

Nicole Marie Renwick will become the bride of Alan Bruce Easton on June 14, 2014. The Ceremony will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Fenton. The bride’s parents are Edward and Nancy Renwick of Fenton and the groom’s parents are Bruce and Susannah Easton of Goodrich. The couple plan to honeymoon on an Alaskan cruise, and will then reside in Orlando, Fla.

BIRTHDAY

LLOYD RICHTER CELEBRATES 100TH BIRTHDAY

Lloyd J Richter of Fenton celebrated his 100th birthday on Friday, Nov. 15. He was born in Chesaning on Nov. 15, 1913 to Edith (Thiel) and George Richter. In 1936, he married Lydia Miller of Chesaning and they had 66 wonderful years of marriage. He has two remaining children, son Gordon of Micco, Fla. and daughter Noralyn of Fenton, five grandsons and four great-grandchildren. One child, Gary, died at 31. Lloyd worked at Bower Roller Bearing and Aviation Corp. in Detroit. Moving to St. Helen, he built cabins on Richter Street. In 1949, he moved to Fenton and worked at Fisher One in Flint and the Tank Plant in Grand Blanc. He opened Richter Sales & Service in Fenton in 1955 in his garage and later built his store with his nephew Joe Schneider on North LeRoy Street where Auto Value Parts is currently located. Richter became sole owner of the business a few years later and retired in 1969. He wintered for 31 years in Florida with his wife. A celebration was held on Nov. 16 with many of his relatives and friends.

It may be off-putting to some photographers, but this is important, especially for a wedding — ask about looking at a recent wedding, in its entirety. You will need some rapport with the photog to make this request. If you are paying thousands of dollars for a wedding, it’s a fair request.

This is important to see how they handle low light, and movement in low light, like the church or the dance floor, not just sunny outdoor portraits.

BEST THANKSGIVING TURKEY EVER

“I get more compliments on the turkey every time
I serve a Spartan one.”

Mark Russell
Meat Department Manager at VG's Grocery

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If you're like 95 percent of other Americans, a turkey will be the main centerpiece of your Thanksgiving table. Whether you're a seasoned cook or a novice in the kitchen, there are tips that may help you buy your turkey this year, as well as roast it and carve it.

Buying a turkey

The main question you'll need to ask yourself is whether you want to buy a fresh or a frozen turkey. Both are available at local grocery stores in Fenton, Linden and Holly. Fresh turkeys are also available through vendors at the Flint Farmers Market and locally at the Thompson Creek Turkey Farm on Hill Road in Mundy Township.

The advantage to a fresh bird is that they haven't been injected with artificial flavors or sodium and they don't require days to defrost safely, but the downside is their higher price. While frozen turkeys can be found on special for as low as 59 cents per pound, a fresh bird will run at full price at about $2.40 per pound, but ran on special at Holly Foods last year for 99 cents per pound.

“Turkey prices are higher this year, so I'm not sure yet what our costs will be,” said Craig Leppek, meat manager at Holly Foods.

Summary

A turkey will be on the Thanksgiving table of most Americans this upcoming holiday. Here's how to buy the best bird and prepare it perfectly for your Thanksgiving dinner.

If you do want a fresh turkey this year, it's important that you pre-order your bird so that you will have your choice of size. “Your fresh turkey will last up to two weeks in your refrigerator,” said Leppek. “They come in chilled, almost to a frozen state.”

While fresh turkeys have an appeal to certain cooks, most local meat managers agree that the Spartan frozen brand turkey offers superior results.

“I get more compliments on the turkey every time I serve a Spartan one,” said Mark Russell, meat manager at VG's Grocery on Silver Parkway.

How to carve your Thanksgiving turkey

To prepare for carving, have the following ready: warm serving platter, kitchen scissors, sharp 10-inch slicing knife, carving fork to arrange, serve the meat.

Step 1: Preparation

Let the turkey stand at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes; then transfer turkey from roasting pan to a carving board, using your hands protected with paper towels or kitchen towels. Remove all the string with scissors.

Step 2: Remove, sever drumsticks

Place the knife against the thigh, and cut down to expose the leg's second joint. Apply pressure at the joint with the knife and cut through. Repeat with other drumstick.

Step 3: Slice neck cavity

Use an oval incision that allows you to remove the stuffing while leaving skin intact.

THE MAN WHO SHOT THE ZAPRUDER FILM

Sources: mentalfloss.com, jfk.org

► Abraham Zapruder's amateur footage of the John F. Kennedy assassination is one of the world's most instantly recognizable clips. Zapruder himself doesn't get quite as much press, so let's take a look at five things you might not know about the cameraman and the odd journey his film has taken.

FAQ: ZAPRUDER FILM

Q: Will computer enhancement bring out more details of the shooting?

Perhaps, but it is not likely. The amount of detail recorded on film depends on the type of film, whether the exposure and focus were set properly, and the technical quality of the lens. Computers cannot sharpen what isn't there.

Q: Is the Zapruder film the only film of the assassination?

Yes and no. It is the only film known to exist showing all of the shooting. Three other home movies show part of the assassination, and as many as five still photographers took at least one picture while shots were fired.

Q: Did Kennedy's limousine driver turn and fire the fatal shot?

No. The "driver did it" theory started with a poor-quality copy of the film in which the image was very unclear. What was thought to be a pistol was actually the top of a passenger's head.

Q: Has the Zapruder film been altered to hide evidence of a conspiracy?

No. Most alteration theories originate with people who have little, or no, technical experience with motion picture special effects and who do not realize there are obvious, telltale signs of such work.

Q: Are some of the Zapruder frames "missing"?

Yes. Six frames, from two different parts of the original film, were accidentally damaged by Life magazine personnel while they were preparing pictures for publication. Fortunately, three duplicate copies were made of the original film before the damage occurred.

Q: Why was the Zapruder film not shown on television right away?

When Abraham Zapruder sold his film to Life magazine the day after the assassination, it was with the understanding that the magazine not exploit the graphic details of the president's death. Life executives agreed to withhold the film from public exhibition until emotions cooled down.

Q: Can you hear the shots on the Zapruder film?

No. Amateur 8mm home movie cameras in those days did not have sound capability.

HE WASN'T A PROFESSIONAL CAMERAMAN

His real work was in the dress game. Zapruder, who had immigrated to New York from the Ukrainian city of Kovel as a teenager, found work in the garment industry and eventually opened Jennifer Juniors in Dallas. His offices were in the Dal-Tex building located across the street from the Texas School Book Depository from which Lee Harvey Oswald fired the fatal shots at the presidential motorcade.

HE DIDN'T EVEN WANT TO TAKE HIS CAMERA

The famous film might not even exist if not for the persistence of Zapruder's secretary. Zapruder had originally planned on bringing his camera, a Bell & Howell Director Series Model 414 Zoomatic, to work with him to film the motorcade. When he woke up on the morning of the assassination, though, he thought it was too gloomy outside to get decent footage, so he left the camera at home. Zapruder's secretary convinced him that it was worth the trouble to go home and retrieve the camera.

THE FILM EARNED HIM A LOT OF MONEY

Zapruder quickly contacted authorities and let them know that he had footage of the assassination. The Secret Service and FBI asked Zapruder for copies, but they told him the original was his. Whether he kept the film or sold it was up to him. Zapruder was open to selling the footage, but he wanted to make sure it ended up in the hands of a group that would treat it with dignity. Life magazine swooped in and bought the print rights of the film for $50,000. The magazine then realized that it would be smart to buy all of the rights, so it renegotiated a deal in which Zapruder would receive six annual payments of $25,000 in exchange for the print and motion picture rights. Zapruder didn't hoard the money, though. His lawyer worried that the story of a Jewish man cashing in on the assassination might incite anti-Semitic sentiment around Dallas, so Zapruder gave the first $25,000 payment to the widow of policeman J.D. Tippit, one of Oswald's other victims.

In the 50 years that have passed since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, only one film has emerged that shows the shooting from start to finish.

HIS FAMILY GOT THE FILM BACK...

The American public got its first look at the full film when ABC's Good Night America ran it as part of a March 1975 broadcast. The next month Time

Inc. sold the copyright and the original film back to the Zapruder family for $1. (Abraham Zapruder had died of stomach cancer in 1970.) Zapruder's family really capitalized on the film after reacquiring the copyright. His son rented the film out for one-time viewings, and although estimates of the exact fee vary, Oliver Stone allegedly paid at least $40,000 to use the footage in his film JFK.

...AND THEN LOST IT AGAIN

A 1997 decision by the Assassination Records Review Board took the original copy out of the Zapruder family's hands. The Justice Department actually had the task of acquiring the film and compensating the Zapruder family for its loss, and that's where things got interesting. The government offered $1 million. The Zapruder family countered with $30 million. After a couple of years of haggling, a federal arbitration panel awarded the Zapruders a $16 million payment for the film in 1999. That fee only paid for the physical copy of the film, though. The Zapruder family maintained ownership of the copyright. Not for long, though. On Dec. 30, 1999, the family donated the copyright, along with its collection of films and photographs, to the Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza.

Nothing takes God by surprise

'You saved my life,' said the woman on crutches.

Surprised, I asked what I had done.

'You once said nothing takes God by surprise,' she replied. Then she explained how she had felt while waiting in an emergency room to learn whether her leg would have to be amputated as the result of a serious auto accident.

The assurance that God knew all about her distress and that whatever was ahead for her was no surprise to Him brought her peace of mind even in that painful experience. Now she was recovering and wanted me to know how grateful she was that she had lost neither her leg nor her sense of God's unfailing care.

When John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church, was 6 years old, his family's house went up in flames. All the children were taken to safety except John, who was forgotten until someone heard him crying. His father ran to the stairs, hoping to rescue him, but they were so nearly consumed by the fire they would not bear his weight. In despair, he fell on his knees and asked God for help.

Meanwhile, young John had climbed up on a clothes chest in the bedroom and was looking out the window. Neighbors, who saw him there, quickly rescued John by hoisting one man on the shoulders of another. A few moments after the rescue, the roof fell in.

Samuel Wesley, John's father, was overcome with gratitude. 'Come neighbors,' he said, 'let us kneel down and give thanks to God. He has given me all my children. Let the house go. I am rich enough.'

Wesley's childhood rescue from the flames so impressed him that under one of his portraits he wrote: 'Is this not a brand plucked from the burning?'

John Wesley could not be lost to the fire because God's purpose in his life must be fulfilled. His powerful ministry would transform England and the Wesleyan revival would impact the entire world. It still does.

During the Reformation, a man tried to frighten Martin Luther by telling him if he did not change his ways, he would lose all of his support.

'And where will you be then?' the doubter taunted.

Luther's answer proved his faith: 'Where I am now,' he said, 'in the hands of Almighty God.'

There are many things to trouble us in life, but God is greater than them all, even those that have discouraged you today.

We cannot escape the news of developments that pose threats to our future, especially in this age of instant communication. But we can remember the Lord knows all about our trials before they arrive and is able to bring good out of them, no matter how impossible that seems to us when we are going through them (Romans 8:28).

True, we do not know what the future holds but faith enables us to know the One who holds the future. Since He is good (Nahum 1:7), the future of the faithful is bright.

Resting in God's love allows us to look beyond our present problems, expecting better days ahead because we have placed all our tomorrows in His hands.

Keep looking up! God loves you. And nothing takes Him by surprise.

Teen clubs offer outlet for various interests

► Local high school students can join, work together toward goals

By Torrey Christopher

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

While many schools offer traditional clubs such as student council and National Honors Society, area high schools include opportunities for students with unique interests as well.

LINDEN

VARSITY CLUB

Adviser: Courtney Pinteck

Number of members: not currently recorded.

What: "The initial goal is to give back to a community that gives us so much support. I want our student/athletes to recognize they have an impact on the community and ultimately we are trying to better develop their leadership skills. Students are required to donate 10 community service hours over the course of the year back to the community," said Pinteck.

Who: Students with a 2.8 GPA or higher and have earned two or more varsity letters. They also must complete an application that discusses their involvement in both the school and community.

When: Once a month, at meetings they discuss upcoming events and volunteer opportunities.

QUIZ BOWL

Adviser: Dan Schneider

Number of members: 12 on varsity, 10 on JV.

What: "Quiz bowl is an academic competition where each school forms a team and competes against other teams. At Linden, we participate in the Genesee Academic League (more than 20 schools in the county) in the fall and the Metro League in the winter," Schneider said. "Competition involves several different formats, but basically students have to answer questions more quickly than opposing teams. The questions mostly come from the major subject areas (math, science, English, social studies), but occasionally there are also sports or pop culture questions."

Who: Any student at Linden in grades 9-12 can be on JV. Tryouts are in September for varsity.

When: Practices are held on Tuesdays after school. Meets are held bi-weekly on Wednesday against other teams in Genesee County.

LINDENSPANISHCLUB.ORG

SPANISH CLUB

Adviser: Matt Schartow

Number of members: varies between meetings.

What: "A group of students who get together to enhance their speaking abilities through various means," said Schartow. "We plan for our big trip and the fundraisers that go with it. This year we are going to Spain and in 2015 we are going to Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands."

Who: Anyone interested, mostly students in a Spanish class.

When: Meeting times vary depending on when planning for fundraisers and the trip is necessary.

LAKE FENTON

ROBOTICS CLUB

Adviser: Jean Webster

Number of members: 35

What: "The Robotics Program is a multi-grade extracurricular activity of our Engineering Academy. The high school team competes in the FIRST Robotics Challenge (FRC), Team 2145 the HAZMATs (Hardworking Adolescents Zealously Making Automated Technology)," said Webster. "The team competes in many district and state competitions as well as demonstrations locally."

Who: Any Lake Fenton High School student.

When: Meetings happen year round and each trimester the team focuses on different competitions demonstrations and applying for scholarships.

DRAMA CLUB

Adviser: Brenda LaBonte

Number of members: Don't currently keep record of members, however, it could have as many as 65 kids working on a production. The group currently includes students who are involved in many other extra curricular activities such as athletics, robotics, and yearbook.

What: "We are a school club that meets to put on theatrical plays, contests and presentations for our community," said LaBonte. "We perform two plays each year, a musical and a 'straight show' — a drama or a comedy production, as well as host the Lake Fenton Idol competition, Lake Fenton's Got Talent presentation and other events as we can fit them into the schedule. Our productions are presented to the community at large — everyone is welcome and encouraged to attend."

Who: Membership is for anyone who expresses an interest, everyone is welcome to join.

When: Monthly

FENTON

THINK FIRST FENTON

Adviser: Lori Thompson

Number of members: Club does not keep track and it has varied numbers of students in attendance.

What: "It's a club that focuses on anti-bullying efforts, activities, and programs so that FHS students know that they are not alone, have support of other FHS students and faculty, and that we are a group of people that want the best for all who attend FHS," said Thompson.

Who: All Fenton High School students.

When: Meetings are held twice a month to discuss ways to bring awareness to bullying and provide anti-bullying messages to students through posters and T-shirts.

CAPTAINS CLUB

Adviser: Matt Sullivan

Number of members: 50 to 85 consistently over the last nine years.

What: "It's a service organization compiled of athletes who volunteer their time," Sullivan said. "They tutor students of FAPS, work with handicapped children at the Knopf Center in Flint and assist in the Genesee County Special Olympics athletic events."

Who: 10th through 12th grade athletes who were nominated by their varsity coach.

When: Members meet once a month.

Cable, Wi-Fi and DSwhat?

►The pros and cons of different forms of Internet connections

By William Axford

axford@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Internet access is by far the most dominate form of media in America and arguably the world. The Pew Research Center estimates 85 percent of American adults have some form of access to the Internet, which amounts to approximately 200 million people.

But as people who have fought with Internet providers over slowdowns and interruptions, not all Internet connections are created equal. Here's a breakdown on the strengths and weaknesses between wireless, cable, broadband and other Internet connections.

Wi-Fi — Often mistaken as a wireless Internet network, Wi-Fi stands for Wireless Fidelity and is the technology that allows computers, phones and other devices to connect to the Internet wirelessly. A wireless local area network (WLAN) is the actual wireless Internet network and generally uses radio waves to connect technology to the Internet. Wireless networks can be established with nodes, ports that connect to cable or DSL modems, cellular towers and other devices. WLAN has now become synonymous with Wi-Fi, though the two mean separate things. While wireless networks are great for freeing up space, factors like the weather, other electronics and even the number of people in a room can disrupt connection. Thankfully, companies are constantly updating their products, minimizing the amount of interference with each new model.

Wireless, cable, DSL and fiber optics are four main ways people can connect to the Internet.

Cable — Cable used to refer to the provider of television shows. These days, it's been broadened to the Internet, with cable companies now offering connections. Cable works through a modem, a device that converts digital information into wireless signals, according to explainthatstuff.com. If you used the Internet in the 1990s, you're probably all too familiar with dial-up Internet, where users got online through telephone lines. Cable Internet works in a similar fashion however, instead of accessing the Internet through a single line cable is comprised of multiple lines. Cable, either wirelessly or through direct hookup up via chord, is faster and more reliable than Wi-Fi. As such, Cable Internet access is generally more expensive in price.

Digital Subscriber Line (DSL) — Just because phones have gone mobile doesn't make old phone lines completely obsolete. DSL is a type of broadband Internet connection that uses phone lines instead of cable hookup. Unlike dial-up Internet, DSL allows users to stay online while receiving phone calls. DSL has less bandwidth than cable, which can cause slower connections. However, cable connections are more affected by a high concentration of Internet users than DSL. If you live in a densely populated neighborhood, DSL may be a smarter choice than cable.

Fiber Optics — The future of the Internet is speed and no connection is faster than fiber optics. Instead of radio waves, fiber optics utilize light waves and has been used to establish long-distance communication with phones, radios and televisions. Fiber optics in computers would bring an unseen speed and strength to Internet connections.

Holiday disasters

►Readers recount stressful holiday moments, while local experts help solve them

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If your holidays resemble National Lampoon's "Thanksgiving Family Reunion" or "Christmas Vacation," you're in good company. Not many people slide through the holidays unscathed, but there are a few ways you can prepare in advance to avoid some holiday disasters.

Disaster scenario #1

Pamela Raymond responded to the Times' Facebook request for holiday disaster stories, writing, "One year, our refrigerator broke on Thanksgiving, so we bought a new one on Black Friday. Another year, we dropped the raw turkey on the floor, but waited until after dinner to share this with the family. Last year, we had a fire in our oven. As we rushed to get kids out of the house, the lack of air in the oven put the fire out. The oven suffered no damage and our meal was spared."

Another reader, Mary Webber Carsten, also suffered an appliance disaster. She wrote, "A couple of years ago, my pan of cheesy potatoes ran over in my lower oven, and started a fire. My son, thinking he would save the day, grabbed the fire extinguisher and started spraying! Well, he put the oven fire out all right, and ruined the potatoes, and the overspray got on much of the other food, too!"

EXPERT TIPS: Rick Taylor of Mr. Appliance in Linden said, "If an appliance is giving you signs of an issue or problem, don't wait until the last minute to call for service, because appointments fill up quickly this time of year." He also added, "Cooks shouldn't self-clean their ovens the day before a big holiday. Sometimes that causes the oven to quit unexpectedly."

Jeff Stone, owner of the Sears Home-town Store in Fenton, said, "You'll want to buy a new appliance before you have an emergency situation with an old one. If you're buying in a hurry, because you are in a desperate situation, you'll likely pay more than if you are able to plan your purchase ahead of time."

Disaster scenario #2

Nancy Donlon, formerly of Linden, now of Queen Creek, Ariz., certainly remembers New Year's 2009. She and Dennis' daughter, Sarah, was about to be married on Jan. 3, and her mother-in-law and two sisters-in-law were coming in from Florida on New Year's Day. "On New Year's Eve about dinner time, we noticed the house was cooling off," she wrote. "It became clear that the furnace wasn't working, so we had to search for someone to repair it. We paid a premium for the repair, but by midnight (Happy New Year!), it was humming right along. Mom and sisters arrived to a toasty warm house and certainly appreciated it!"

EXPERT TIP: Dan Lamb of D & T Heating & Cooling in Bryon, advises homeowners to maintain their furnace equipment well, with filter changes monitored and changed as needed. "Preventive maintenance is key," said Lamb. "For equipment 12 years and older, have an annual maintenance check, which we'll do with a full inside inspection. For newer equipment, every two years is recommended."

Disaster scenario #3

Mary Ann Podjun, formerly of Linden, now of Casper, Wyo., recalls a year when she was planning for a women's cookie swap at her house. She wrote, "I was making my poor family nuts by holding them hostage in keeping everything clean and immaculately decorated as I prepped and cleaned. One week before the gala event, the Christmas tree, loaded for bare, toppled to the floor in all its Christmas glory! You could have heard a pin drop in that house and then, I began to wail! Yes, I am sitting here remembering with a chuckle under my breath, but I thought I was going to explode at the time. By the way, that party was so much fun, and my family was so happy when it was over!"

Podjun also recalled during that same event that her daughter, Adrienne, dropped the red Christmas Punch out of the microwave all over the kitchen floor, just ahead of the guests' arrival."

EXPERT TIP: Perhaps try a bigger, more durable tree stand with stronger screws to keep your tree upright, especially if the trunk is crooked. Another suggestion is to use a hook from the ceiling (preferably white) and attach clear fishing line from the top of the tree to the hook. This could work well in a household with pets and/or small children.

As for floor spills, Candace Jordan of Lil House of Carpets suggests this fool-proof method for mopping up stains from carpet: Blot the liquid up as much as you can with paper towels, clean rags, etc. Use just water first, don't overwet the area. Keep blotting it up and get as much of the spill transferred on to the cloth or towel. Then use a few drops of liquid dishwashing soap like Dawn or Joy, and clean the spot without rubbing too hard. "That will break down the fibers," she said. "Then rinse with plain water."

Disaster scenario #4

Lisa Oliver wrote, "I am not a cook. So, I ordered a full Thanksgiving dinner from Meijer's. I went to pick it up at around 2 p.m. that day. Guess what?! It was a kit that had to be cooked! Most embarrassing thing ever. We had thought we were going to eat at around 3. That didn't happen."

Q. I need to replace my electric stove top because it is really old and the coils are bent. After looking at the stores I realized that they are very expensive. Do you recommend a certain brand or type that will insure I get my money's worth?

A. Most electric stoves are pretty much the same. You have a control switch, wires and a burner coil. Past that, whatever unit you like the look & price of is the one for you. Having said that if the only thing you dislike is the warped burners on your current model, they can be replaced fairly inexpensively. Call and Mr. Appliance will get you a solid quote and make the repair or replace option easier.

HOW TO KEEP WALKWAYS ICE-FREE THIS WINTER

Slippery roads aren't the only hazard of winter's treacherous weather conditions. Icy sidewalks can be very dangerous, even for simple jaunts outdoors to get the mail. First, shovel snow frequently to prevent icy build-up, and then spread with sand to help pedestrians maintain their traction.

Rock salt may be inexpensive, but it's the worst thing to use on concrete, stamped concrete or brick pavers, according to Glenn Haege, American's Handyman on the radio.

Sand is the safest, cheapest thing to use, but it provides traction, not de-icing. Haege recommends the use of a 50/50 mix of sand and calcium or magnesium chloride to melt the ice, while continuing to provide traction. On pavers and decorative concrete, he also suggests homeowners use a plastic shovel rather than metal, to eliminate the potential for scratching and damaging it. Another option is to use electric snow-melting mats, from a company like HeatTrak.com.

A quick look at Pinterest showed a homemade de-icer, containing 1 t. Dawn Dish Liquid, 1 T. rubbing alcohol, ½ gallon hot/warm water, poured over walkways.

TURKEY

Holly Foods and other local grocery stores will be running turkey specials from now up through Thanksgiving. They will also be open on Thanksgiving Day for limited hours, in case you forgot something for your Thanksgiving table.

Alpine Marketplace Meat Manager

Chris Hawk advises customers to order their fresh turkeys ahead, saying they can pick them up even on the day of Thanksgiving. "We order Amish Valley brand fresh turkeys ahead, and want to make sure you get the size of turkey you want."

In addition to fresh and frozen turkeys, Alpine also offers a Butterball fully-cooked turkey. "It's frozen, so it has to be thawed before re-heating," said Hawk. But he agrees that nothing beats a home-cooked turkey.

Once you've decided what kind of turkey you'd like to serve, you'll have to determine how big of a bird to buy. Real Simple magazine makes it easy:

- For just enough turkey for Thanksgiving dinner with no leftovers, buy $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 pound per person.
- For enough leftovers to enjoy during the long weekend aim for 1 to 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds per person.

Russell advises customers to go with a larger turkey for the best value. "The size of the carcass of a 12 pound turkey is about the same as an 18 pound one, so what you're getting is more meat," he said.

Real Simple also suggests that if you need an extra large turkey to feed a crowd, consider buying two smaller birds at 12 pounds each, because they will defrost and roast faster, retaining their moisture better, than a huge turkey.

Other options for Thanksgiving are Jenny-O Turkey Store direct from freezer to oven turkeys in full size, half-size or breast portions. "They are a little pricey, but a wonderful option," said Russell at VG's Grocery. "We've used them at home ourselves." If you really don't want to cook or are hosting just a small family event, you can also grab Thanksgiving dinners-to-go at all local stores, complete with all the trimmings.

Cooking your turkey

Here's how to cook the perfect Thanksgiving turkey, according to Rick Rodgers, a cooking teacher and author of numerous Thanksgiving cookbooks.

- Buy a fresh turkey.
- Remove the giblets and set aside.
- Rub the bird with a stick of softened butter, or half a stick for a bird smaller than 16 pounds.
- Season the inside and outside with a light coating of salt and pepper. Don't add any other seasonings, as they'll just burn.
- Stuff the turkey, if desired, but stuff

Step 4: Scoop stuffing

Use a long-handled spoon to remove stuffing and transfer to a serving bowl.

Step 5: Slice thigh meat

Slice the thigh meat from the bone. It should be very tender from resting in the juices.

Step 6: Slice breast

Place the knife horizontally at the bottom curve of the bird's breast and slice in toward rib cage to create a "guide cut." Then make a slice from the top down alongside the rib cage, cutting carefully.

Step 7: Create slices

Cut vertically through the breast meat to create medallion slices. Repeat steps 6 and 7 on the other side of the breast.

Place the knife at the first wing joint; insert the knife point and twist it to sever the wing. Repeat with other wing.

(Source: www.marthastewart.com/274893/how-to-carve-a-turkey)

it loosely, as it will expand. Don't make stuffing ahead and put it in the refrigerator, as it will be like a cold ball inside the turkey and might never cook enough.

• Cover the turkey's open end with foil, crumpled up a bit so it stays in place.

• Cover the turkey's breast with foil to deflect some of the oven's heat so it slow cooks in this area. Remove the foil for the final hour or so to let the skin brown.

• Pour two cups of chicken or turkey broth into a roasting pan. Then put a metal rack in the pan and place the turkey on this rack so it's above the broth. The broth creates steam to help the turkey cook evenly. This broth will also reduce to a glaze that will improve your gravy. Don't use a disposable aluminum foil roasting pan for this job.

• Cook at 325 degrees F. for about 15 minutes per pound of turkey. This is just an estimate — the turkey is ready when it reaches 175 to 180 degrees on a meat thermometer inserted into the meatiest part of the turkey's thigh. Baste the turkey a few times during that last hour to help brown the skin.

• Let the bird sit, uncarved, for about 30 minutes after it comes out of the oven, to let the turkey's juices redistribute throughout the meat.

Meet Julie Evans

- Drive-thru bank teller
- Dog and cat lover
- Friend to all

By Sally Rummel

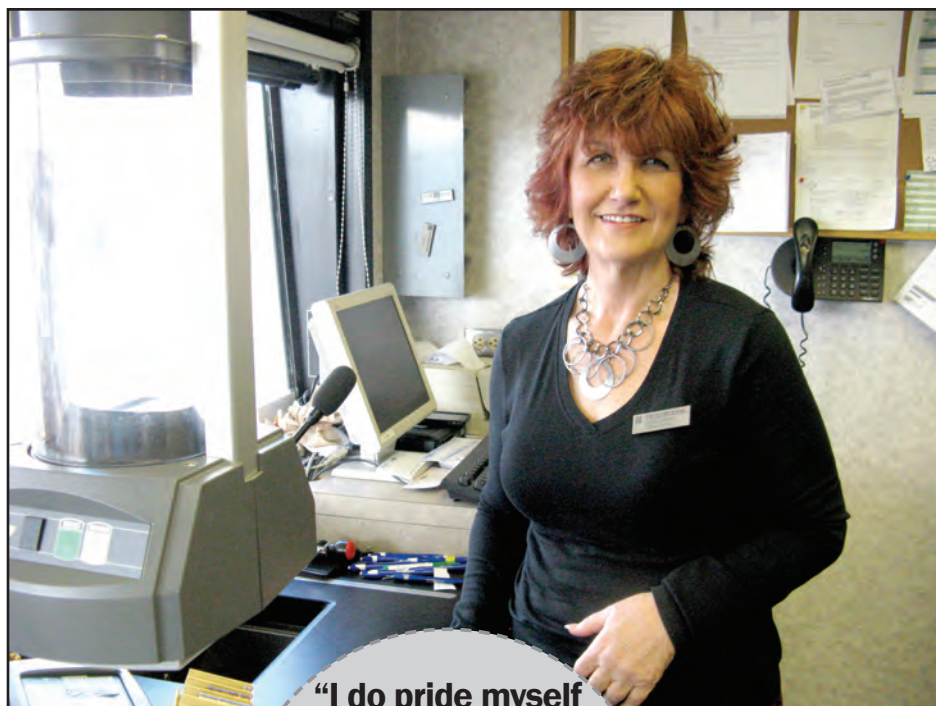

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Julie Evans, 63, has been working at The State Bank's main branch on LeRoy Street in Fenton for 14 years. As a part-time customer service representative, she's a familiar face at the drive-thru, where she spends 90 percent of her professional time. She knows almost all of her customers by name, even the four-legged variety. She counts her customers and her co-workers as good friends that she is privileged to see every day.

I know you're from the Downriver area of Detroit. How did you end up in Fenton? I worked for 16 years at a "mega-bank" in the Downriver Detroit area that had started out as a small, community bank, similar to The State Bank. They started merging with huge corporate banks and lost all their personal service. I became pretty disillusioned with the banking industry after that.

We had a home up here in Fenton and moved here after my husband retired. After nine months of being home, every day seemed like 'Groundhog Day,' just repeating itself over and over. I ended up getting a job here at The State Bank and I love it. We're still geared very much toward customer service. The customer is still No. 1 here. I like the fact that the bank president's office is close enough that you can stop in and talk. Don Grill used to know our names and now Ron Justice does, too. They remember to say something about our personal lives when they see us. It's a good environment to work.

What is it about banking that you enjoy so much? I love the people. My co-workers and customers are my friends.

"I do pride myself in remembering just about everyone's name. That's quite a feat because I deal with more than 100 different customers every day."

Julie Evans

I really find joy in being out with people. My job here is my anchor in life. I look forward to getting dressed up every day and coming to work. I had sold all my jewelry when I left my other job, and I had fun replacing it. I'm known for the statement jewelry I wear here. I hear that you are very good at remembering peoples' names. I do pride myself in remembering just about everyone's name. That's quite a feat because I deal with more than 100 different customers every day. It's unusual that I get a customer I don't know by name. I even know the names of the dogs that come through the drive-thru. There's Scooter, who waits patiently for his treat, then there's Henry, a great big huge St. Bernard. I love them all.

What is it about the drive-thru that you like so well? I like the fast pace of the drive-thru. There's very little downtime. We've got treats back here, there's heat in the drawer, so it's not even cold! What do you do when you're not at The State Bank? I spend most of my weekends Downriver where my daughter Angela and her husband Greg live. I get to see my 8-month-old granddaughter, Madilynn Grace, a lot. While there, I also take care of my elderly mother, who has dementia.

What is the most interesting thing about you that most people don't know? Probably that I feed and shelter feral cats. People can sometimes be very heartless when it comes to getting rid of animals. At one time, I fed four or five at one time, and built a shelter at one side of my house with a light and blankets during the winter. Today, I feed and take care of one cat I call Baby. He's been around for about 10 years.

Holly's Sherman Middle School to reopen next year

►Village and Holly schools to discuss shared services

By Amy Mayhew

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Holly — Holly's sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade students will be heading back to Sherman Middle School next year after members of the Board of Education voted unanimously to reopen the school, they closed in 2011.

The matter was discussed during the Nov. 11 Holly Area Schools (HAS) board meeting.

During the Oct. 28 board meeting, Superintendent Dave Nuss told board members if the district expands its early childhood programs, he believes enrollment can increase and at least sustain itself, estimating an increase of 42 students or more, or approximately $294,000 in additional student revenue.

Expansion of the early childhood programs, Nuss said, would mean reopening

Sherman Middle School to make more room at the elementary school level.

Nuss anticipates increasing early childhood enrollment from 112 to 176 students for an additional $227,392 in student revenue. "The foundation of our proposal or recommendation is that we expand our feeder program that involves early childhood and develop a well-articulated program for the early-on program," Nuss said during the Oct. 28 meeting.

By recruiting more students at the early childhood program level, Nuss believes the district will be better able to retain the students over the long haul.

"I believe that the real future lies in getting those kids into our programs earlier to meet our wonderful teachers and to see what we have to offer, then they'll stay," he said.

After having two weeks to consider Nuss' proposal, board members revisited the matter on Nov. 11 before voting on it.

"After listening to what the administration has presented and analyzing and taking time to see what that would do for the district, I'm very much in favor of going with (Nuss' recommendation)," Board Member Robin Carnes said. "But I would like to also add an addendum on there that the district and the community as a whole needs to know — and I would covet their support — for the decision that we make."

"Because it may not be as easy as it appears on paper, and there may be hard times yet to come, but at least we're proposing to open up the building, and giving our students and our district the opportunity to shine."

Board President Tony Mayhew agreed. "We're in a different position than we were three years ago where now the elementary schools are full, and we're working on building the feeder program, as we call it," he said. "We're not reversing the decision we made to close Sherman Middle School, we're adjusting our plan to support the proposed increase in enrollment."

"We've just adopted a whole different way of delivering some of our programs to the community," trustee Leon Sharpe said. "And we need the space."

In a vote of 6-0, the board approved Nuss' recommendation to reopen Sherman Middle School in the fall of 2014. Vice President Sue Julian was excused from the meeting.

In light of the fact that there will be some vacant real estate at the Karl Richter Campus (KRC), on Tuesday night, village officials gave Village Manager Jerry Walker the green light to begin discussions with the Holly Area School administration on possibly relocating the village offices to KRC.

Walker told council members that he envisions transforming KRC into a Community Center, possibly utilizing certain attributes of the building for community events.

"I think really at this point the concept is very simple — the school has space available," he said. Walker said renovations have begun on 504½ Maple Street, but that if a deal was struck with the school district, work could be "buttoned up," and the building could be used for storage in the interim.

"I think this is a good opportunity for us to engage in some detailed discussions with the school district, see if there is something feasible that can be worked out to benefit the village and to benefit the schools, but most of all to benefit the community," Walker said. With a gymnasium, library, auditorium and meeting center that could be used by the community, Walker said the building offers "a lot of opportunity."

Walker is expected to get with Nuss and HAS Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services, Steve Lenar in the near future, and make a recommendation to the council no later than Jan. 14, 2014.

Summary

►The Holly school board voted to move sixth-, seventh- and eighth-graders back to Sherman Middle School next year. The move opens up office space at the district's Karl Richter Campus and the village of Holly is interested in possibly working out a deal to utilize the building.

MAN OF STEEL
A young boy learns that he has extraordinary powers and is not of this Earth. As a young man, he journeys to discover where he came from and what he was sent here to do. But the hero in him must emerge if he is to save the world from annihilation and become the symbol of hope for all mankind. PG-13, 2 hr. 23 min.

TURBO
Turbo is a high-velocity comedy about a snail who dares to dream big - and fast. After a freak accident infuses him with the power of super-speed, Turbo kicks into overdrive and embarks on an extraordinary journey to achieve the seemingly impossible: competing in the world's fastest race, the Indianapolis 500. With the help of his tricked-out street-wise snail crew, this ultimate underdog puts his heart and shell on the line to prove that no dream is too big, and no dreamer too small. PG, 1 hr. 35 min.

PAUL G. DONOHUE, M.D.
To your good health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The thought of colon cancer makes me cringe. My father died of it. Colonoscopy wasn't done in those days. I'm interested in learning all the ways to diagnose colon cancer in its early stages. Can you give me the rundown? — N.C.

ANSWER: Colon cancer makes everyone cringe. It's the third most common cancer in men, being surpassed only by prostate and lung cancer. It's the third most common cancer in women, with breast and lung cancer coming in first and second place. Colonoscopy, the inspection of the colon with a telescope-like device, has greatly reduced deaths from colon cancer. Not only does this exam give doctors a comprehensive view of the colon, but it allows them to biopsy suspicious areas and suspicious polyps. Almost all colon cancers start out as polyps. A polyp looks a bit like a small plant breaking through the soil. A simple test for colon cancer is examining a stool specimen for occult (hidden) blood. Even early cancers can cause minor bleeding. Another stool test is FIT, fecal immunochemical test, a way of detecting hidden blood by a different method. Both of these tests are done yearly. A test that detects altered DNA — cancerous changes in colon cells — is a third test done on feces. It is constantly being fine-tuned. Double-contrast barium enema was the chief test for colon cancer detection until colonoscopy was widely adopted. It's still a useful test. Barium is introduced into the colon through the rectum, and then the barium is drained. What's left is a thin coat of barium on the colon wall. Next, air is passed into the colon. The result is a clear picture of the colon lining and a clear picture of any incipient cancer. CT (computed tomography) colonography, also called virtual colonoscopy because the procedure produces pictures similar to what's seen by the naked eye in a colonoscopy, is a scan after air is pumped into the colon. If you're deciding which test is most appropriate for you, depend on your doctor's judgment.

Caked-on makeup throws guy for loop

DEAR AMY: My girlfriend, a natural beauty, has recently started doing her makeup (and other people's makeup) as a hobby. She is 24 and really doesn't have a clear direction about what she wants to do in life, aside from raising our amazing son, who just turned 2. She has shown some initiative in pursuing the idea of going to beauty school. The catch is ... she is horrible at it. In recent weeks, she spends hours just caking it on. I have nicely hinted that she may be using a little too much. I have even flat out told her it is caked on. She is taking the beautiful face I fell in love with and masking it with layer upon layer of facial product. Please help me find the words to get through to her while encouraging her to get better without making a spectacle of herself. — Makeup or Breakup

DEAR MAKEUP: You should assume, kindly, that — like an amateur musician learning to play a new instrument or someone learning woodworking — she will improve. Be completely supportive and urge her to translate her interest into professional training. There are some amazing YouTube channels showing makeup techniques; research this, and send her links. Tell her, "You know me — I will always think that less is more, especially with you. I want our son to see mom's natural gorgeousness. But I also understand you are practicing."

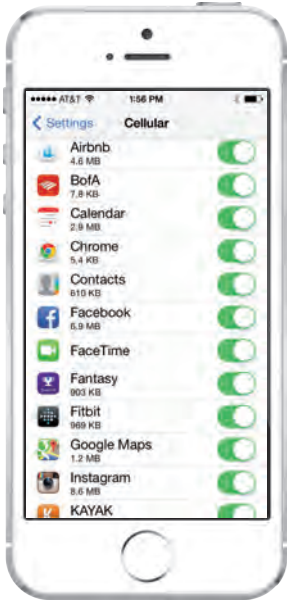

DEAR AMY: My husband and I recently moved and found a lovely place to rent. Every month when we get paid, I write out the check for the next month and mail it faithfully. I ask my landlord to notify us when he receives it, so I can be sure it doesn't get lost in the mail. However, after receiving the check, he waits around two weeks to cash it. How do I get him to deposit it right away? We are tight on money, and I need to be sure I can get the food and diapers my baby needs. — Tight Tenant

DEAR TIGHT: You are a very responsible tenant, but your budgeting issues are not your landlord's problem. Even if you request that he deposit your rent checks promptly, you will not be able to guarantee that he will always do this. You could set up a separate account only for rent, or you could contact your bank and your landlord to establish a monthly transfer directly from your account to his each month. This would ease your anxiety about the mail and his banking schedule.

Monitor app data usage

With iOS 7, you can monitor the data usage of an individual app. Head over to Settings > Cellular and scroll down to "Use Cellular Data for" section. You can reveal the data usage each app has used. If any of app eats up too much cellular data, you can disable it from using cellular data network.

The tip is provided by Handbook for iPhone Lite.

TORTELLINI SOUP WITH PARMESAN CRISPS

PREP TIME:	COOK TIME:	YIELD:
10 minutes	20 minutes	6 servings

INGREDIENTS

Recipe from makingthymeformehealth.com

- 2 (9 oz.) packages refrigerated tortellini
- 10 cups vegetable broth
- 3 cups fresh broccoli, destemmed and cut into bite size pieces
- 2 T. olive oil
- 1 small yellow onion, diced
- 1 t. dried parsley
- 1/2 cup grated (not shredded) parmesan cheese

DIRECTIONS

1. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F and divide six heaping tablespoons of the parmesan onto the non-stick baking mat, at least one inch apart, and then set aside.
2. In a large pot or Dutch oven, warm the olive oil over medium heat. Add the onion and sauté for three to four minutes, until translucent.
3. Next, add the broth and the parsley and bring to a boil. Reduce to a simmer then add the broccoli and the tortellini and allow to cook for about 10 to 15 minutes, until broccoli is tender and tortellini is cooked through. Remove pot from heat and set aside.
4. Place the parmesan crisps in the oven and bake for three to five minutes, until they turn a light, golden color. Remove from the oven and allow to cool for a few minutes.

Kenton PLAN 10-587

If you're searching for a small starter home with a spacious feel, the Kenton just might fill the bill. What's more, it is equally well suited to singles or families looking to downsize their living space, expenses and maintenance obligations.

Entering, you find yourself in a large and naturally bright great room that comprises the living room, dining room and kitchen. Its vaulted ceiling slopes up from the front, crests above the kitchen's work island, then slopes down toward the dining room and the rest of the L-shaped kitchen at the rear.

Light spills in through the expansive front window plus four side windows. Still more washes in through French doors at the rear, and another wide window over the sink. The doors open onto a covered deck, which could be screened, if flying insects are bothersome during outdoor meals.

SPORTS BRIEF

More DeWitt coming up for Linden football

For those who found the Linden-DeWitt play-off battles entertaining over the last two seasons, you'll get a chance to see the two strong football programs face off at least once during each of the next two prep football seasons.

With the additional non-league game needed to fill Linden's nine-game football schedule, the Eagles have reached an agreement to open each of the next two seasons against DeWitt. Next year's game will be at Linden High School. In 2015, the Eagles will travel to DeWitt.

Linden lost in six overtimes to DeWitt in the 2012 regional championship game at Linden High School, and lost a 27-13 verdict at DeWitt in Nov. 8's district championship game.

Tigers' strong season ends in regional semis

►Northville's Abbott leads Mustangs past Fenton for second straight year

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Novi — It was a season that included another undefeated Flint Metro League championship.

It included 40 victories overall, and a second straight district crown.

But the Fenton varsity volleyball season ended a little sooner than the Tigers hoped on Tuesday at Novi High School.

Playing the role of underdogs, the Tigers lost in the Class A regional semifinals to the same team that ended their season a year ago in the quarterfinals, the Northville Mustangs. Led by Division 1 college recruit Symone Abbott, Northville defeated Fenton 25-18, 25-16, 25-10.

What probably made the loss hard wasn't the fact the Tigers lost, but it didn't rank with one of Fenton's best efforts during the season. The Tigers struggled with service reception, with passing and with hitting errors more than they have during most of the season.

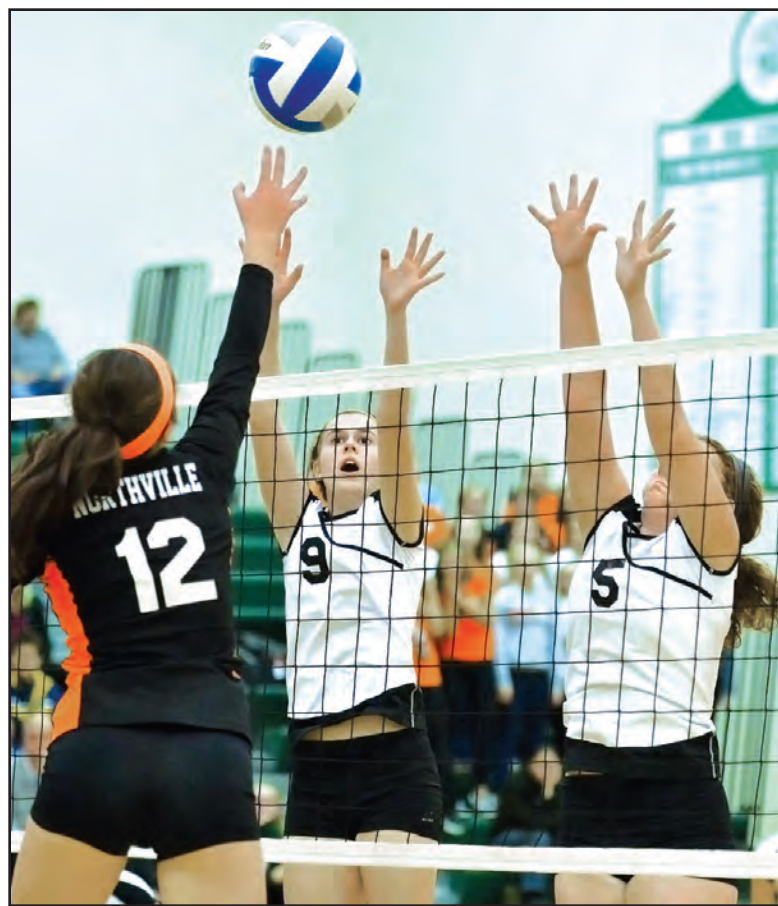

"We definitely didn't (play our best)," senior Ashley Bearden said. "I think we let our nerves get the best of us tonight, but it's OK. I think we had a good season and we played well. I just didn't think we gave it our best tonight."

Of course, Northville's talented team had a lot to say why the Tigers struggled. Their strong passing, powerful offense and good service kept Fenton on their heels most of the game, putting the Mustangs in charge throughout the night. Led by Abbott's 15 kills, Northville collected 37 kills in the three sets, pretty much dominating the match at the net.

"They are a good team," Fenton senior Bobbie Eastman said. "Symone is amazing. She's going Division I and I've played against her before. They are a good team."

They are a good team, granted, but I felt like they didn't beat us, but we beat ourselves," Linden's sophomore quarterback Noah Sargent attempts to leap to the endzone in the Eagles' 27-13 loss to DeWitt.

Eagles youth might mean their best days are ahead

DeWitt — During Linden's varsity football game's Division 3 district championship contest at DeWitt on Nov. 8, one thing was pretty apparent while watching the game.

That is the Eagles best days seemingly are ahead of them.

Entering the season the Eagles were a squad filled with new starters. Bringing a varsity program from a year ago to a game this year would've done one no good, because so many of the names changed from that program.

But, as the Eagles fought against the No. 1 ranked team in Division 3, eventually losing a hard-fought 27-14 verdict, it was easy to see how the Eagles' youth has turned from a concern this year to a reason of great excitement for the future.

"The young team looks great," said Linden senior Nick Sioui. "That's an incredible group coming up. I have a lot of great hope for Linden. I'll be here every game next year."

Why not be there every game? It should be a fun season.

Linden's biggest offensive gainer in the contest was sophomore quarterback Noah Sargent, completing 18-of-30 passes for 200 yards. He also ran for 102 yards. Sargent threw one TD pass, and guess who that was to? It was to fellow sophomore Kevin Bates,

Fenton's Cowger satisfying dream, signs with Minnesota

►Senior's goal to play softball with Golden Gophers will start next season

By Torrey Christopher

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Ever since Fenton senior Ellie Cowger was little she never cheered for Michigan or Michigan State, because her allegiance was University of Minnesota and she dreamed of playing softball there.

And now her life-long dreams have become a reality. When Cowger starts her college softball career next fall, she'll be a Minnesota Golden Gopher. Cowger verbally committed during her junior year, but can now make it official.

"I chose the University of Minnesota because it has been my dream school from the time I was little," Cowger said. "Once I was older and beginning to seriously search for a college, not only did I love the University of Minnesota coaches and the way they ran their softball program, but the school offered everything I was looking for academically. Their business school is one of the top in the nation so I hope to be admitted to that college with-in the University and have the chance to study finance or marketing."

Minnesota is also the home to many of Cowger's family members, including her sister, Kate.

"I also chose Minnesota because a lot of my family lives around that area," Cowger said. "My sister lives 10 minutes from campus and other relatives live close as well. Having visited often, Minnesota has always been like a second home to me."

Although playing at Minnesota has always been her dream, Cowger did keep her options open, but always came back to Minnesota.

"I also looked at (Grand Valley State University), Loyola in Chicago, Iowa State, Bowling Green, (Michigan State) and Butler. I really liked GVSU and considered it very seriously," Cowger said. "They have a good softball program and I was offered a scholarship to play there, but I knew that Minnesota was where I wanted to be. When they made me an offer in September of 2012, I took it."

The Golden Gophers appear to be a team on the upswing under fourth-year head coach Jessica Allister. The squad qualified for the NCAA regionals last spring and finished the season with a 36-19 record, the best mark by the team since 2003. The squad finished third in the Big Ten Conference with a 14-6 record.

Cowger led the Tigers in innings played and stolen bases in both 2011 and 2012 and was All-Metro in 2011, 2012 and 2013. She holds the Michigan High School Athletic Association record for single season stolen bases (65). She led the Tigers with a .515 batting average and 47 runs scored. She also has a 24-game hitting streak she'll take into next season. On the pitcher's mound, Cowger had a 9-10 record with a 2.86 earned run average. Along with Fenton's varsity team, Cowger will play softball Michigan Lookouts U18 squad. The team was ninth in the nation a year ago.

"It will be nice to get some more games in before I head off to college," Cowger said. "Our team finished ninth in the nation last year so we'll be working hard to get that far again. This summer I'll also be doing weight lifting and conditioning program that the Minnesota coaches give to us in order to come prepared to work hard right off the bat."

who also had an interception on defense and a blocked extra-point kick on special teams.

Of the seven players who caught a pass, six were not seniors. Bates was a sophomore, while Jake Marshall, Marshael Ryan, Zac Kentish, Gage Smith and Austin Buerkel are juniors. On defense, nine players earning tackles return next season. The juniors not mentioned previously on that list of tacklers were Kyle Korman, Austin McNeil and Andrew Roberts.

Linden co-head coach Denny Hopkins is excited about the youth on the team, but realizes it's just potential right now.

"I hope that they realize that they have to put in their time if they really want to be good players, and that comes after Thanksgiving in the weight room," Hopkins said. "This is a very talented group. If they want to spend time in the weight room, they can be very good. We'll see."

Bates said the team can learn from their first season of varsity experience.

"We can always improve," Bates said. "We can get better in every way possible. We have to get bigger, faster and stronger. We will be very good next year."

Copley satisfies D1 goal, signs with Cleveland State

► Vikings like Holly senior's versatility

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Holly — It's been a goal of Allyssa Copley's since the eighth grade.

And now the Holly senior 6-foot-1 basketball player has accomplished it.

Copley signed a National Letter of Intent to play Division 1 collegiate basketball at Cleveland State next fall.

"This means a lot. I've been playing basketball since I was really little," Copley said. "And I've been working really hard. Just knowing that my dream that I have had for so long is coming true is a great feeling."

"I always wanted to go to a D1 school, and knowing that I can finally do it made me want to do it even more, made me think, 'I'm going to do it, and that's where I am going.'"

Copley also looked at Cornell University and the Naval Academy, but being a Viking won her over.

"When I got down there I felt like I was already part of the team," Copley said. "They welcomed me in. They have great academics there. They have what I want to study and I really felt like there was a good connection with the coaches there. That was my really big thing. I wanted to be connected with the coaches."

Cleveland State is thrilled to be getting Copley.

"With Allyssa we were intrigued by her ability to extend the defense with her three-point shot, as well as take it to the basket on the drive," Cleveland State women's basketball coach Peterson Abiad said in a story on the team's website. "She had a great summer, and we are fortunate to receive her verbal commitment on her visit to Cleveland State."

Copley has been the dominant prep girls basketball player of the tri-county area ever since she began playing varsity ball at Holly as a freshman three years ago. She's a two-time Tri-County Girls Basketball Player of the Year, and a two-time First Team All-Metro honoree. During her junior season last year, she averaged 11.1 points, 10.3 rebounds, 2.1 assists, 3.3 steals and 3.0 blocks a game, leading the Bronchos to an 18-4 overall record.

Copley also plays for the Michigan Shock, her AAU team.

Holly varsity girls basketball coach David Hall is excited for Copley.

"It's good for Allyssa. It's great for the kid. She's worked hard," Hall said. "It's something she's strived to do and it worked out. I'm happy for her. I'm looking forward to her next four or five years, finishing this thing out, getting her degree and continuing on becoming a better person. She's grown so much the last four years, and she'll continue to grow."

Fenton coach Linda Rusaw said. "They are good, but when they serve, I don't care what the color of (the other team's) uniform is. We should be able to serve-serve. We should be able to hit."

The Mustangs' dominance started from the opening moments in the first set. Abbott took control from the start, posting kills during the match's first three points and during Northville's first four points. Later, she even earned an ace at the service line, dropping the Tigers to an 8-2 deficit. The Tigers (40-17-2) fought back. A kill by Fenton's Cassidy Rourke cut the gap to 11-8, and it got as close as 11-9 on a service point by Amanda Carty.

The Tigers still trailed just 13-11 after an Eastman ace, but an Abbott kill and a Fenton hitting error helped the Tigers fall back behind by a 15-11 margin. The Tigers never got any closer than four again in the first set.

In the second set the Tigers scored the first point on an Eastman kill, but steadily fell behind 10-2 after that. An Abbott kill made it 8-2. Back-to-back aces by Katherine Boss and back-to-back kills by Abbott put the Tigers down 12-2 early in the second set.

The Tigers tried to work themselves back into the match. Consecutive kills by Bearden cut the gap to 17-12, and consecutive kills followed by a block kill from Eastman cut the margin to 18-15, but then service reception did the Tigers in. A failed tip kill gave Northville the service back, and the Tigers struggled with service reception on three straight volleys. A Fenton hitting error followed, putting the Mustangs up by a 23-16 score. Later, the Tigers were called for a violation, giving the Mustangs the 25-16 victory.

In the third set it looked like the Tigers might give the Mustangs a challenge. Bearden opened with a kill, putting Fenton up 1-0. Northville scored the next five points, but the Tigers cut their deficit to just 6-5 after a Carly Granger kill. With Abbott losing her service with Fenton trailing just 8-6, it looked like the Tigers had a chance to possibly win the third set. Instead, the Tigers had several free balls, overpasses, service reception miscues and hitting errors, allowing Northville to go on an 8-0 run, raising their lead to 16-6.

The Tigers were able to cut the gap to just 16-8 after a shared block kill by Rourke and Granger, but a kill by Chloe Kiple, two Fenton service reception errors and a hitting error, raised Northville's lead to 20-8, effectively ending any hope of a Fenton come back. Northville eventually earned match point on a Fenton hitting error.

Tuesday's results can't erase what the Fenton varsity senior class has accomplished. Back-to-back Class A district titles, which included one trip to the Class A state quarterfinals their junior season may make the senior class the most successful Fenton team in terms of Class A postseason success.

"It's been a great four years," Bearden said. "It's been a great experience, great girls. I am just happy to be part of the Fenton volleyball program, for sure."

"I am mostly going to remember that I was on the team that went the farthest (in the Class A tournament) so far," Eastman said. "It is a cool feeling."

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | SCOTT SCHUPBACH

Fenton's Kailey Maks (right) dives to dig a ball during the Tigers' loss to Northville on Tuesday. Teammate Jaime Hansen is watching in the background.

"I've been playing with these girls since the eighth grade and Cheese (Rusaw) has been coaching us since eighth grade. This feels like family to us."

Rusaw will miss the seniors. Included on that list is Jaime Hansen, Bearden, Morgan Gavulic, Cassidy Rourke, Dori Carpenter, and Eastman.

"It was a great season and a great group of kids," Rusaw said. "It's a great legacy for these six seniors."

"These kids are dedicated. They are great kids. They work hard. They've done everything I've asked them to do and more. They did some stuff I didn't ask. They are just above and beyond. Their leadership and work ethic is amazing."

Bearden led the Tigers with eight kills, while Eastman had five. Granger chipped in three.

Eastman had two block kills, while Rourke and Granger shared two block kills. Kelsie Fisher led the squad with 12 assists while Bearden had six.

Fisher also had seven digs on defense. Amanda Carty led the team at the service line with 12-for-12 serving, including two aces.

University and the University of Detroit Mercy competes in.

The squad is off to a 1-1 start this season, recently defeating Lake Erie 76-48, and has established itself as one of the stronger squads in the Horizon League. The team was just 13-17 a year ago with a young roster, but played in postseason tournaments in each of the previous two seasons prior to last year. In 2010-11, the Lady Vikings posted a 21-12 overall record and were invited to the Women's Basketball Invitational. In 2009-10, the program went 19-14 and qualified for the NCAA tournament by winning the Horizon League postseason tournament. The squad also qualified for the NCAA tournament in 2007-08.

Abiad said she likes how Copley will fit in with her three other seniors she signed to next year's squad.

"(They) all have experience playing a post position, as well as having our preferred versatility to step away from the basket," Abiad said. "They have the skill set necessary to play a five-out motion offense and will fit nicely into our offensive system."

Copley is excited to get the signing done and move on with her senior season.

"The recruiting process was stressful, to be honest," Copley said. "But once you know where you are going, you know. Cleveland State was like that for me."

"It takes a lot of stress off of me. Once you figure where you are going, you can relax and focus on my team and my school work."
