One ridiculous camping trip

► Shipwrecks, rain, fire, wind, hiking and fun on Manitou Island

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

South Manitou Island — Waking up outside to thunder and lightning, snorkeling out to a spooky shipwrecked freighter, meeting the ageless lighthouse keeper, and getting rained out twice, while camping with friends Kevin and Jeff on Michigan's South Manitou Island.

Pretty much every experience of the trip could have been its own story.

We camped on the southernmost of the two islands, North and South Manitou Island. Both are part of the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Park, accessible via a ferry that debarks from the quaint town of Leland, located on the northwest coast of the lower peninsula, about 25 miles from Traverse City.

There are no showers or stores on the island, nor is power available at any of the campsites. If you didn't think to bring your own water you'll be making a half-mile hike to the faucet south of the campsites on a regular basis. There is only one occupied structure on the island, a small building where a National Parks Service ranger stays.

Marsh Auto Sales

Used car sales lot opens in Holly

Business profile

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Ryan Marsh has loved working on cars since he was 15 years old. Now he has turned that passion into a business, selling affordable used cars at Marsh Auto Sales.

"It started out as a hobby and now it's a business," said Marsh, whose business has been open since May.

Marsh has carved his own niche in the used car market by specializing in used cars in the $1,500 to $10,000 range. "We want to be known as the place where everybody can afford to buy a used vehicle, whether you're looking for a car, truck, van or SUV."

Marsh Auto Sales is a family business, with three Marsh brothers, Jesse, Shane and Taylor, helping him in sales and office work. Marsh also employs two others who work in detailing.

Marsh encourages prospective buyers to stop in, take a test drive and have a mechanic check out any vehicle that they're interested in. "We can help you with the process of financing through local credit unions and banks," he said.

Marsh Auto Sales is located across the street from McKay's Do-It Hardware, in the former Suski building at 15133 North Holly Rd. Hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, call (248) 382-5666.

CAMPING TRIP

No one leaves the island unless they have a powerful boat to make the trek across unpredictable Lake Michigan. We were dropped off at 3 p.m. Friday evening and picked back up on Sunday at 11 a.m.

You have to take the ferry through the foggy, choppy, splashy two-hour ride to the island, and any equipment or supplies you'll need, or want, must be carried by hand or packed in your backpack. In our case, that included a 17-foot aluminum canoe, which made getting to our campsite quicker.

After setting up camp, we snorkeled around the teal colored water in wet-suits, enjoyed the campfire made from a pile of wood we split, and ate hot bean sandwiches and raw garlic to help ward off mosquitoes. We consumed bagged wine and carried on too-loud-after-quiet-time conversations.

The thing about an island where you can't shop or escape is that you have to meet people. The other campers, including their kids, seemed inherently more adventurous, prepared and disciplined. They were friendly and we enjoyed spending some time with them.

After wearing out our welcome at one group's campfire, we ended up sleeping under the stars, falling asleep to the sound of the waves splashing against the shore and the wind sifting through treetops.

We were awakened early by thunder, lightning, and rain — lots of rain. Not surprisingly, Mother Nature had called our bluff. We ran a half mile through the downpour down to the empty boathouse-turned-receiving-area at the dock and slept there on the hard concrete in soggy sleeping bags. After breakfast we laid the sleeping bags out on the beach to dry and set off for the lighthouse and shipwreck.

The lighthouse was easy. The shipwreck was not. The 2.8 miles we walked felt more like six, when hiking while carrying all our gear.

The ghostly shipwreck finally became visible through a clearing, seemingly a mile away, down a 60-foot cliff, protected by rolling 5-foot waves.

The rusting hulk looked like a grimy, bird-infested movie set — and smelled like it also. But the 100-yard swim against the waves with my friends, with waterproof camcorder firmly gripped in my hand, was one of the most exhilarating and memorable events of the trip.

After exploring the ship and recording lots of footage and photos, we swam back, exhausted, made the difficult climb up the dune-cliff and back to the trail, and triumphantly began the 3-mile trek back — and were immediately smacked down by another downpour.

Did I mention that our sleeping bags were still out on the beach, 'drying'?

After three miles in the rain, it finally stopped and we arrived at our campsite to find that our campfire and firewood had been taken over by the people who actually had the real reservation there.

We used the empty (also spooky) boathouse for shelter again that night, and still crammed as much fun into the time as possible, though permanently cold and damp. I turned in early for some much-needed sleep.

The trip was certainly memorable and I would not hesitate to go back — but next time I would definitely bring proper rain gear, and maybe a set of silverware.

“We consumed bag wine and too-loud-after-quiet-time conversation.”

Your crock pot to the rescue

►Cook 'low and slow' this summer without heating up your kitchen

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

You may think that your crock pot is for cooking comfort food during the long, cold winter months, but it can also be your best friend during the heat of the summer. Keep your kitchen nice and cool during the summer, and think how good it will feel — and smell — to come home to dinner all ready to eat.

Jessica Miles, who works full-time at The State Bank, shared a recipe she found on Pinterest for "Mom's Pepper Steak."

The only ingredient she changed was instead of using fresh tomatoes, she used a can of Italian tomatoes. She also turned the recipe from a stovetop recipe into a slow cooker recipe, and has made it several times.

"I love it when I walk through the door after work and the house smells so good," she shared on Facebook.

Here's the recipe she's sharing, as well as a few others that looked good to this writer as I was contemplating our own dinner plans for the evening.

RECIPES

Ribs in the Crock Pot

INGREDIENTS:

4 lbs. of ribs
1 onion, chopped
¼ c. honey
¼ c. flour
1 c. barbecue sauce
1 T. yellow mustard

DIRECTIONS:

Place ribs in slow cooker. Cover with onion. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over ribs. Cook on low 6-8 hours.

5-star Lasagna

from food.com

4 to 6 servings

INGREDIENTS:

1 lb. lean ground beef
1 onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, smashed
1 (28 oz.) can tomato sauce
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
1 ½ t. salt
1 t. dried oregano
12 oz. 2% cottage cheese, or your choice
½ c. grated parmesan or asiago cheese
12 oz. lasagna noodles, uncooked
16 oz. shredded mozzarella cheese

DIRECTIONS:

Brown ground beef, onion and garlic in skillet. Add tomato sauce, paste, salt and oregano. Spoon a layer of meat sauce on the bottom of the slow cooker. Add a double layer of uncooked lasagna noodles (break to fit) and top with cheeses. Repeat with sauce, noodles and cheeses until all are used up. Cover and cook on low for 4-5 hours.

RECIPES

Mom's Pepper Steak

6 servings

INGREDIENTS:

1 ½ lbs. sirloin steak, cut into ½ inch strips
1 T. paprika
2 garlic cloves, crushed
2 T. olive oil
1 c. sliced onions
2 bell peppers, sliced
2 large tomatoes, diced (Miles substituted a can of Italian tomatoes)
1 c. beef broth
¼ c. water
2 T. cornstarch
2 T. soy sauce
3 c. hot cooked rice

DIRECTIONS:

Season steak with paprika and rest at room temperature while preparing remaining ingredients. Sauté crushed garlic, add steak and brown gently, taking care not to burn garlic.

Place steak at the bottom of the crock pot and add the remaining ingredients, through the beef broth. Cook on low for 7-8 hours. Before serving, combine water, cornstarch and soy sauce and stir into the crock pot until mixture is thickened. Serve over freshly cooked rice.

Crockpot Cashew Chicken

from favfamilyrecipes.com

INGREDIENTS:

2 lbs. boneless skinless chicken breasts, cut into smaller pieces
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ t. black pepper
1 T. canola oil
¼ c. soy sauce
2 T. rice vinegar
2 T. ketchup
1 T. brown sugar
1 garlic clove, minced
½ t. grated fresh ginger
¼ t. red pepper flakes
½ c. unsalted cashews

DIRECTIONS:

Combine flour and pepper in Ziploc bag. Add chicken and shake to coat. Heat oil in skillet over medium-high heat. Brown chicken two minutes on each side, then place in slow cooker. Combine soy sauce through red pepper flakes (7 ingredients) in small bowl; pour over chicken. Cook on low for 3-4 hours. Add cashews and stir. Serve over hot cooked rice, if desired.

Sally Rummel's favorite crock pot recipe

Root Beer Pulled Pork

8 servings

INGREDIENTS:

1 (2 lb.) pork tenderloin
1 (12 oz.) can or bottle of root beer
1 (18 oz.) bottle of your favorite barbecue sauce
8 hamburger buns, split and lightly toasted

DIRECTIONS:

Place the pork tenderloin in slow cooker; pour the root beer over the meat. Cover and cook on low until well cooked and the pork shreds easily, 6 to 7 hours. Drain well, stir in barbecue sauce. Serve over hamburger buns. Note: you can also use pork shoulder if you want more full-fat barbecue flavor.

MY MISTAKE, OUR Legislators work 86 not 85 days a year. Ten to 15 hours a day? Start at 10 a.m., done by 3 p.m., that doesn't equal 10 hours. The 86 days also doesn't equal 365 days. Easy on the name-calling. It says a lot about a person.

Q: Getting a loud creaky sound, right front end, rotational with the revolution of the wheel, stops when car stops. Makes noise when wheels are straight or turning. Makes the noise in gear or in neutral, as long as the car is in motion you can hear it with the rotation of the tire. Is not related to braking. Brakes were checked and serviced. Louder at slower speeds. It's a creaky, rubber on metal, binding sound. 2000 Grand Prix. Creak, Creak, Creak. Faster as the wheels go faster, slower as the wheels go slower. It does not make this noise all the time. Not the same volume each time. Very loud one day and not so loud the next. Can go several days without hearing it at all. It cannot be duplicated or recreated. It now is making a rattle sound when going over uneven pavement and the steering seems a little loose. — Deeble

A: This sounds like a hub cap or possibly a tire issue but could be a wheel bearing as well, the first thing to try is if the car has a hub cap remove it and see if the noise goes away, also check the air in the tires, I have seen low air pressure cause the tire to make this noise when contacting the wheel, if you do not have any luck you are welcome to bring it by the shop for a look at by one of my mechanics, we have a chassis ear that we can use to aid in finding strange noises while driving.

Meet Chuck Gosh

- Pilot
- Ski instructor
- Adrenaline junkie

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Chuck Gosh of Groveland Township retired from Pontiac Motors in 1982. Since then, he's been a ski instructor, pilot, water skier, biker, keeper of acrobatic pigeons and of course, a family man. At 83, he plans to do all these things another 10 years or more.

Where is the name 'Gosh' from?

Originally, it was 'Goshgarian,' which is an Armenian name. I think 100 years ago when they sectioned and quartered it, they didn't realize it was a U.S. slang term. That's how the name Gosh came to be. I'm a quarter Danish, quarter German and half Armenian.

Tell me about your family. I met my wife 40 some odd years ago skiing.

"(With) boating

you can do anything."
Chuck Gosh

TRI-COUNTY TIMES
FILE PHOTO

Chuck Gosh, 83, takes a flight earlier this month for a Times series on area lakes. He has been flying since 1949, and still instructs snow skiers, and rides motorcycles.

She was a school teacher from the Boston area.

I ended up flying back and forth to Boston, and I ended up marrying her.

I have a boy and two girls, and the boy will be 62 on Saturday. He was born on my 21st birthday. I have two daughters. One was born on my birthday also. August 2 is a big day. Another daughter was born on Mother's Day. Both of them went to U of M. I have grandchildren and a great grand-daughter who is 14.

How long have you been flying? I got my first airplane in 1949. I was 17. I was still in high school.

What do you like about flying? As opposed to boating — you're restricted by the shoreline. When you're flying you can do anything. I've had boats, I've done a lot of waterskiing and ski jumping off ramps, but I prefer flying. You can give yourself your own thrills when flying.

I do power-on stalls and power-off stalls, and other things people don't enjoy. They get sick. I had one fella throw up on me. I don't do that with other people anymore.

How often do you fly now? Usually once a week on weekends. I like to go to pancake breakfasts, they have them all over Michigan. This week, I'm going to a pancake breakfast in St. John. They have a dirt strip right next door. It's a lot like in Holly when people sit around with their old cars, the camaraderie.

How long will you be able to fly? I feel really good. I still ride my motorcycle. I've had one since I was in high school. I still teach skiing at Mt. Holly. I've been doing it for 32 years. I'm the director two days a week. I can give lessons, I can do anything. I love snow skiing, they pay me for it. I guess I'm lucky. I get a check-up every 24 months, so I can still fly. Otherwise, I'd probably never go to a doctor.

What do you like about skiing? It seems to keep you more flexible. It keeps you more alert. It's just an enjoyable recreation and I think it's very healthy to use your muscles. I think it keeps you in good shape. I'm not only interested in staying in good shape, but just the fun of it. It's an exhilarating sport.

Do you still water ski? No, I don't have a boat capable of pulling me. I have a kayak, and a 13-foot combination of a canoe and a boat. I am part of Shiawassee Headwaters. We go down the Shiawassee a couple times a summer to clean out the logs. That's grueling work. It's not fun, but it's like volunteering for something worthwhile.

Are you an adrenaline junkie? I guess so, probably, because I still like the motorcycle. It's an 'Enduro,' one you can pop wheelies on, You can also do that, still? Yes, it's got a 400cc motor, so it's got plenty of power for that.

What's your favorite or best accomplishment? Meeting my wife at Mt. Tremblant in Quebec. She's a lot better educated than I am. She has a degree from Middlebury in Vermont, it's a prestigious school. She's a little smarter than I am. She has lots of degrees. What's something few people know about you? I'm such an outspoken person, I don't think I have any secrets. I really love animals, most people don't know about that. Right now I have pigeons, roller pigeons. They do backward somersaults when they fly. I just like to watch them fly around the field.

Market analysis and appraisals ? What's the difference ?

Both help determine the value of a property, but for different purposes

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

When you have decided to put your house on the market, the first question on your mind is likely, "How much is my house worth?"

Setting a price for your property isn't as simple as it sounds. You'll want to work with a Realtor who knows the market and can set a realistic price based on the market, comparable sales in the area and your home's own features and "selling points."

The price you decide upon has to stand the test of not only a potential buyer, but also the lender that will loan money to the buyer for the purchase.

There are two tools for determining the value of your home:

A Comparative Market Analysis (CMA) will determine the current market value so you can choose the listing price where your home will sell quickly and for the highest amount possible.

The information will come from the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), where brokers and their agents pool information on listed properties for sale. The MLS also contains sold data, historical trends and property tax roll data.

The CMA includes houses that have been recently sold and homes for sale in your immediate neighborhood that are most similar to your home in appearance, features and general price range. Once the price has been set and you have a prospective buyer, the bank will order an appraisal when the buyer applies for a loan. The biggest calculator is the price per square foot of sold comparables," said Scott Meyers, of RE/MAX Platinum in Fenton.

The difference between a CMA and an appraisal is that the appraisal is performed by a licensed appraiser, not a real estate agent. Even though the appraiser is hired by the bank, the appraiser has no vested interest in the transaction.

The appraisal is designed to protect the bank so that it doesn't loan more money on a property than it is worth.

The appraiser will visit your home and compare it to other similar homes based on square footage, finishes, age, condition, location and more. The data collected will be compared to property tax records and properties that have recently been sold, as well as sales trends to determine the arc of prices up or down. Appraisers also use information from the local MLS.

What happens if an appraisal comes in lower than the asking price of the home? "The bank won't loan the money for the home, and the seller will likely reduce the price for the buyer. The buyer also has the option of coming up with the difference out of pocket," said Meyers. "It happens more often on waterfront property."

One thing is for certain: no home will sell for more than it's worth in any market. If you price your home based on the information suggested by the CMA, chances are good that the buyer's appraisal will support the sales price.

“There were a lot of new people moving into the city of Fenton in the last year. When someone stops in at our office with their paperwork from closing, we provide them with lots of information and brochures and flyers about services, what’s going on in the city, etc.”

You’ve moved, now what?

Check out these tips to make your family’s move go more smoothly

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

If you’ve recently moved into the tri-county area, you are hopefully discovering that you now live in one of the most beautiful areas of Michigan.

Settling into your new home is more than just unpacking your boxes. It’s about feeling at home in your new community and making your family feel comfortable in new surroundings.

There’s a pristine inland lake at almost every turn, and the Shiawassee River literally runs through each community of Holly, Fenton and Linden. You’ll find quaint shopping areas near national chain stores you’re familiar with.

Our towns are small enough that you might see a familiar face or two when you run into the grocery store, yet we’re large enough to enjoy a bit of anonymity. Close proximity to expressways can carry you anywhere you need to go, making the tri-county area a hub for Michigan to the north, south, east and west.

IF YOU’RE NEW TO TOWN, YOUR FIRST STOPS SHOULD BE:

- Your municipal office for brochures, information about services, community events, location of parks and more.
- Get in contact with your local chamber of commerce office. Summer is a perfect time to get familiar in an area with so many family-friendly events going on, from festivals to weekly concerts, farmers markets, etc. Strike up a conversation with someone enjoying a shared experience and you may find a new friend or someone who can give you “the lay of the land.”

- The Tri-County Times office at 256 North Fenway Dr. in the Industrial Park area of Fenton to pick up a copy of the twice-weekly newspaper and get a subscription for the Midweek and weekend editions. Pick up the 2014 Source Book to find everything you need to know about Fenton, Linden and Holly, from historical information to municipal, school and community details, including a list of businesses arranged by category.
- Take a drive around the shopping areas of your new town and familiarize yourself with grocery stores, dry cleaners, banks, pharmacies and other daily necessities.

THINGS TO DO IMMEDIATELY:

- Have mail forwarded automatically from your old address.
- Update your Driver’s License and license plates.
- Register to Vote. In some states, you can do this when you update your driver’s license.
- If you haven’t yet set up your cable, Internet, and phone service, now is the time to do it.
- Change all locks, alarm codes, and garage door codes.

- Arrange for a safe deposit box at your local bank if you need to store important papers or your household inventory.

- If you haven’t created a household inventory, do this as soon as you move into your new home and continue to keep it updated.

- Keep all receipts related to the move in a folder. Some expenses may qualify for tax deductions.

THINGS TO DO BEFORE YOU HAVE AN EMERGENCY:

- Locate the nearest hospital.
- Check with your insurance company to find out which of the nearest hospitals is considered “in-network.”
- Find a new primary care physician and make sure she/he is accepting new patients. Find a new pediatrician for the kids. Have your medical records forwarded.
- Find a new dentist and have your dental records forwarded.
- If you have pets, find a new veterinarian.
- Write down emergency phone numbers, including doctors’ offices, poison control, police, and fire department. Post near the kitchen phone.
- Make sure your mailbox or driveway is clearly marked with the house number.
- Change batteries in the smoke detectors.

Did you remember to change your address AND phone number for:

- Bank statements and car loans.
- Credit card statements
- don’t forget gas station, department store, and other retailer credit cards.
- Insurance policies (health, auto, and home). Make sure the move does not affect your coverage.
- Financial and legal documents, such as retirement accounts, investment accounts, attorneys, and social security.
- Cell phone bills.
- Student loans.
- Your employer’s human resources department. (Update previous employers if you expect documents related to taxes or pension plans.)
- Doctors and dentists.
- Professional memberships or licensing boards.
- Rewards programs.
- Magazine and newspaper subscriptions.
- Any regular deliveries that are made to your home.
- During a move, you can be particularly susceptible to identity theft if mail is not forwarded properly. Watch your credit card and bank accounts carefully and check your credit reports two months after a move.

Home warranties . . .

►Are they a good value for buyers/sellers?

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

You just bought a new home and a month later, your refrigerator stops working. What do you do?

If you had a home warranty in place, it might cover the cost of repair or replacement. Homes, like many appliances, electronics and cars, often come with warranty plans that provide service and “peace of mind” when there’s a breakdown or repair needed.

Typically, home warranties cover the most important systems in any house: plumbing, electrical wiring, heating and air conditioning, major appliances and more. Often, these plans come about during a real estate transaction. Usually at closing, the buyer chooses to buy such a plan so that if something goes wrong during the first year, it won’t be so expensive. Sometimes, the seller pays for the coverage so the buyer won’t be calling after closing if something breaks.

HOME WARRANTIES USUALLY WORK LIKE THIS:

If a home system or appliance breaks or stops working, the homeowner calls the home warranty company. They, in turn, call a provider with whom they have a business arrangement. The provider fixes the problem. If an appliance is malfunctioning and can’t be repaired, depending on the contract coverage, the home warranty company will pay to replace and install the appliance.

In addition to the cost of the home warranty, typically about $250 to $400, there may be service fees and/or deductibles to pay.

If it sounds too good to be true, it just might be. Some plans have serious drawbacks and snares for the unwary consumer. Local Realtors give the plans mixed reviews.

John Wentworth of ReMax Platinum in Fenton doesn’t sell any home warranties in his real estate group. “It’s a gimmick,” he said. “The Realtors get a kickback from them. I just don’t deal with them at all in my transactions.”

Kristy Cantleberry of ReMax Grande in Grand Blanc feels that warranties can be helpful in certain situations. “It’s like added insurance,” she said. “But I never recommend it when clients buy a newer home.”

IF YOU’RE INTERESTED IN A HOME WARRANTY, YOU NEED TO FIND OUT:

- What does the warranty actually cover? Just like in health insurance, some “pre-existing conditions” aren’t covered (i.e., repairs to systems that were defective, in the warranty company’s opinion, before the policy went into effect).

- What options are available to you regarding annual premiums and service charges per visit?

- Check the fine print of annual contracts for limitations on what the warranty company will do or pay for, in its repairs. Some exempt restoring certain materials to “finished” condition, while others exempt specific products (icemakers, for example).

Check out consumer complaint and rating websites, which are easily available with a quick search. There have been complaints about poor customer service, as well as shoddy quality parts and materials.

Pros & Cons

“Sometimes home warranties are helpful, sometimes they’re not. It’s like added insurance in the right situation.”

HOUSE PLAN OF THE WEEK

First Floor	1373 sq.ft.	Second Floor	545 sq.ft.
Living Area	2091 sq.ft.	Bonus Room	192 sq.ft.
Garage	429 sq.ft.	Dimensions	60'4"x39'8"

2000 SERIES

Fitzgerald PLAN 30-492

The intriguing Fitzgerald has plenty to catch the eye. Four gables face the front, wooden shutters accent most of the windows, and copper sheathing overscores the garage door and two upper windows. Three arched windows echo arched openings on the porch's upper edge.

In some respects, this plan bows to tradition. Most of the bedrooms are upstairs, and gathering spaces are well defined. The parlor (or dining room) and living room are separated, and the kitchen is linked, yet slightly removed.

Weddings create timeless dilemmas

DEAR AMY:

My sister-in-law and her daughter are making plans for the daughter's wedding. During a recent family reunion they said that they did not want any small children at the ceremony and were going to make arrangements for a qualified sitter to be available at the church to watch the children during the ceremony. All are welcome at the reception. This offended my daughter, who has a 4-month-old baby. She feels her parenting skills are being attacked in that she would sit in the back of the church and remove herself and the child if she became noisy. She also feels that because she and her child are family that makes this request very rude. She stated that she would not leave her child with a stranger (the child will be 16 months old by then), and if her child were not included, she would not attend. I have tried to talk to my daughter to say that this is a reasonable request by the bride and she should not feel that request is rude. I feel she should respect the wishes of the bride and go, leaving her child in the care of the sitter for the 30-minute duration of the ceremony. My daughter still disagrees with this request. Please give us your advice on this.

— Grandmother in the Middle

DEAR GRANDMOTHER:

Well, I've heard of 'Bridezillas'; your daughter sounds like a 'Frankenguest.' I don't know what your daughter's own wedding was like, but if she'd care to view a videotape or two of what weddings can be like where toddlers are present, I'm sure I could arrange it. A 16-month-old should not be expected to necessarily hold it together during a church ceremony, and I think it is considerate of the marrying couple to recognize this and be willing to arrange for a sitter for the youngest guests. Your daughter has several months of motherhood before this event to realize that sometimes the best thing for baby and family is to be happily engaged separately for a short time. If she is offended by this, it doesn't sound as if she would be able to be a good and gracious guest, and maybe it would be better for everyone if she stayed home.

DEAR AMY:

I was proposed to last night. I'm 47 and my husband-to-be is 58. We have lived together for the last five years. We have everything we need and more. I am wondering if it would be proper to register at a travel agency for our wedding? We will go to Australia and Fiji for our honeymoon.

— Bewildered Bride

DEAR BRIDE:

First of all, congratulations! I know that many couples are choosing less conventional ways of accepting gifts from friends and family, and I think this is a great idea. Many travel agencies will set up special funds for your wedding trip; you can notify your wedding guests that in lieu of material gifts, they could contribute to your honeymoon through this fund, if they'd like.

Heart risk: like father, like son

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am 69. Two years ago, I had a heart attack followed by double bypass surgery; two vessels on the back of my heart were blocked. I had no symptoms. My doctor, family, friends and I were stunned. I was too healthy to have been struck by a heart attack. I was at risk due to my male family members having heart issues. My father died of his third heart attack at age 60. I followed a heart-healthy lifestyle: low body fat, healthy weight, no smoking, no drinking, no red meat, lots of exercise indoors and out. My cholesterol readings had always been in the good range. I am now on simvastatin and losartan daily. I regularly take my blood pressure readings. Since my heart attack and my surgery, I have followed the therapy lifestyle diet in an American Heart Association publication. A year after my heart attack and surgery, I had a treadmill stress test, and all was well. I see my cardiologist every six months and my primary doctor quarterly. What preys on my mind the most is whether or not plaque is building up in any of my blood vessels, leading to a killer heart attack. I wish there was a noninvasive means to at least annually determine the health of my blood vessels.

I do not want to wait for symptoms to occur. I want early detection to prevent another heart attack. — M.S.

ANSWER: Your letter underscores that heart disease can happen even when you do everything right, that a family history is a significant risk factor and that heart attacks happen even in people with good blood cholesterol. Your question is about a screening test for heart disease, to see whether there are blockages that need treatment before any symptoms develop. There are two kinds of tests: those that look at the anatomy of the heart, such as an angiogram or CT angiogram, and those that look at its function, such as a stress test. The problem with pictures of the blood vessels is that it's likely you have some blockages. However, small blockages actually may be more likely to cause a heart attack than big ones, since the smaller ones can rupture and cause a blood clot, which starts the heart attack. A stress test, such as the treadmill ECHO you did, is better at showing if the heart is getting all the blood it needs during exercise. My colleagues in cardiology and I recommend a good diet and exercise regimen, a statin, blood pressure treatment such as what you are getting, daily low-dose aspirin and a periodic stress test. An angiogram would be considered with any new symptoms.

iPhone tip of the week

Touch ID for your iPhone 5s

WHAT IS TOUCH ID

Touch ID allows you to log into your device by placing a finger on the home button. It's safer than the generic 4-digit pin because no-one can look over your shoulder and easily see you type in a four number combination. However, it's not possible for someone to take your device and unlock it with their fingerprint.

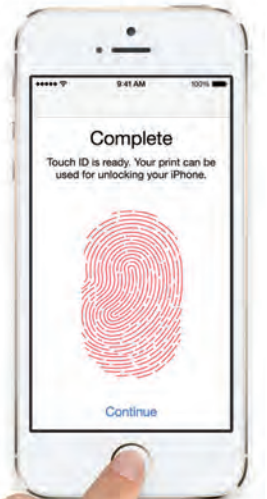

NOT JUST FOR UNLOCKING

Unlocking the device is not the only thing you can do with Touch ID. Apple also allows you to authorize purchases from the App and iTunes stores via Touch ID.

SET-UP

To set up a fingerprint, go to Settings > Touch ID & Passcode. You'll be prompted to set a passcode, which will be there for additional validation. Follow the instructions on screen to register a fingerprint by touching the home button when asked. The whole process should take less than a minute.
