Best Michigan roadside attractions

From a genuine tourist trap addict

By Yvonne Stegall • ystegall@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Ever since I was a kid and my parents took me to my first tourist trap, I have been addicted. I make it a point to return to my favorite roadside attraction destinations at least once every three years. Some of them change, and some of them never change. The only thing that makes me sad are the ones that go away — like Prehistoric Forest in Irish Hills and Deer Acres in Pinconning (which has been slated for reopening for about three years now).

As a self-proclaimed 'tourist trap addict,' I feel I should share with you my top choices for Michigan's

HONORABLE MENTIONS

- Cross in the Woods — A 28-foot-tall crucifixion sculpture located in Indian River.
- Castle Rock — A castle-shaped rock jutting out over the roadside in St. Ignace.
- Mystery Hill — Another mystery spot, this one is located in Onsted.

odd attractions.
Dinosaur Gardens — This prehistoric zoo is located at 11160 US Highway 23 S, in Ossineke. Enjoy a walk through the woods where there are giant monstrous dinosaur replicas, and many mosquitoes. The earliest photo I have found of this awesome destination was when I was about 5 years old — probably the first time I went there.

ATTRACTIONS

Not only are the dinosaurs fun to look at (and touch), Dinosaur Gardens offers a wide array of fun items inside their gift shop.

Call of the Wild Museum

For those who do not appreciate taxidermied wildlife, Call of the Wild Museum at 850 S. Wisconsin Ave. in Gaylord is not the destination to visit. According to their website, Call of the Wild opened in May 1965 by Carl and Hattie Johnson and is now operated by their three children. It is an educational exhibit filled with critters and history. Each animal display shares information about their habitat, feeding and mating patterns, and more. While most of the animals are displayed behind glass, there is one room where kids can actually touch a deer, a bear and even a skunk.

Sea Shell City

One of the most comical, and somewhat less impressive attractions Michigan boasts is the "Man Killing Giant Clam," located at Sea Shell City. The clam is a crusty white bivalve (long dead) covered in plastic seaweed. This one is an interesting place to stop once, but the attraction is one that has never called me back. Sea Shell City is mainly a gift shop filled with shells, none of which comes from Michigan.

If you have the time and energy to make a trek across the bridge, St. Ignace offers a bunch of great roadside attractions, including these three:

Mystery Spot

Mystery Spot, at 150 Martin Lake Road in St. Ignace, is not the only place of its kind, but it is strategically located in an area populated with other roadside attractions.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | YVONNE STEGALL

This is the fierce mountain lion visitors see while strolling through the museum.

The story behind this stop is that in the early 1950s, three surveyors named Clarence, Fred and McCray came from California to explore the Upper Peninsula. They stumbled across an area of land where their

“This is Call of the Wild’s 50th summer. Call of the Wild has become a family tradition for many families.”

Janis Vollmer
Owner, Call of the Wild Museum

surveying equipment did not seem to work properly. As they continued their research of this land, they noticed a constant feeling of being light-headed.

Later, they realized their queasiness and problems with the surveying equipment only occurred in an area about 300 feet in diameter.

Millions have visited the Mystery Spot, many of them returning often.

While I have only been to this one once, it was not my first mystery spot, nor will it likely be my last.

The best part? Sitting in a chair that is balanced only with its back legs on a small leg against a wall!

Weird Michigan Wax Museum

One of my weirdest discoveries when visiting the Upper Peninsula was the Weird Michigan Wax Museum at Martin Lake Rd. & US 2 in St. Ignace. It is home to some of the strangest wax figures ever, including The Snake Princess of Belle Isle and The King of Beaver Island. Each exhibit has some relation to myth, or fact, in Michigan’s own strange history.

While this is only a taste of the wonderful oddities in our great state of Michigan, it is surely a list that will get you on the road to find your own beloved tourist traps to visit every few years and share with your children.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | YVONNE STEGALL

My step-daughter, Devon Stegall, was willing to pose for a fun photo at Dinosaur Gardens. Look at that face!

GADGETS FOR A SIMPLER, SMARTER HOME

► Gadgets of the future that you'll want in your home today

Fridge Mount for iPad

Slip your iPad into this case and instantly transform the kitchen into a hub for calendars, shopping lists, watching the news, and looking for recipes.

$39.99 Belkin.com

Ambient Umbrella

A wireless receiver at the handle of the umbrella connects to AccuWeather and then glows and pulses a gentle blue light if the weather looks frightful.

$125.00 Amazon.com

Amazon Trash Can

The Amazon Trash Can has a tiny camera and a bar code scanner that records everything you throw away — from household cleaning supplies to milk cartons — and sends the information to Amazon.com, where it is immediately reordered and shipped to you. No more grocery lists. Prototype

SpareOne Plus Emergency Phone

This phone operates without a SIM card and works as long as it's remotely near a GSM cell tower. It's waterproof and extreme weather-resistant, holds a charge for 15 years, has one-button emergency dialing, lets you talk uninterrupted for 10 hours, and comes with a built-in LED torchlight. Oh, one more thing — it runs on a single AA battery.

$59.99 Spareone.com

Meter Plug

Slip this nifty plug between the wall and your suspected watt guzzler of choice, fire up the app, and break down electricity consumption by the hour. Meterplug displays stats in actual costs and automatically adjusts according to local utility rates.

Coming Soon $59.95 Meterplug.com

Crock-Pot® Smart Slow Cooker with WeMo™

Now there's no need to worry if you get held up at the office or stuck in traffic. Use the free WeMo App to monitor cooking status, turn the Crock-Pot® Smart Slow Cooker on or off, and receive notifications when cooking is complete all from your smart device.

$129.99 Belkin.com

Nest Protect

Rather than emitting an eardrum-shattering squeal, this smoke and carbon-monoxide detector alerts you to hazards in a calm female voice which says helpful things like "There's carbon monoxide in the den." If it mistakes your smokey cooking for a fire, you can set it wise with a wave of your arm. $99.00 Nest.com

CITY OF LINDEN NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS TO BYRAM LAKE

The Linden City Council will hold a public hearing in the Council Chambers on the lower level of the Mill Building at 201 N. Main Street, Linden, Michigan on Monday, August 25, 2014 at 7:00 p.m. to hear citizen's comments on continuation of the Byram Lake Improvement Project. The project will be financed by a special assessment district which includes all properties in the city within 500 feet of Byram Lake which abut the lake. A copy of plans and cost estimates for the project are on file with the City Clerk.

The current aquatic plant control program on Byram Lake is scheduled to end this year. It is proposed to continue the project through 2019 with a combination of herbicide treatments, mechanical harvesting for aquatic plant control and continued water quality monitoring to gauge the effectiveness of the project. Estimated project costs for the proposed project 2015 through 2019 are:

| Improvement | Cost |
|--|-----------------|
| Aquatic Plant Control (Herbicide Treatments/Mechanical Harvesting) | $27,000 |
| Aquatic Plant Control Coordination/Field Evaluations | 6,000 |
| Water Quality Monitoring | 4,000 |
| Administration and Contingency | 3,000 |
| Total | $40,000 |

In order to ensure assessments levied are proportionate to the benefit derived from the project, it is proposed that lot size be considered when determining individual assessments. Under this plan, a "unit" assessment would be levied against lots with a mean lot width of 300 feet or less. Lots greater than 300 feet in width would be assessed two units in the proposed Byram Lake special assessment district. This equates to a unit assessment of $264.90 per year for 5 years.

Any person wishing to comment may do so in person or in writing by addressing written comments to Lynn M. Henry, City Clerk, at P.O. Box 507, 132 E. Broad Street, Linden, Michigan, 48451.

PLAN 10-404

The Palmary is a colonial-style home with traditional detailing. Its symmetrical central section has all the right touches, from the arched and columned entry porch, to shuttered multipaned windows and attic dormers.

Inside, the layout is a comfortable blend of classic styling and contemporary amenities, starting with the elegant curved staircase that sweeps up the left side of the lofty two-story foyer. Move past it to step through an arch into a bright living room with a wide masonry hearth.

Gossip transforms teacher into terrible teen

DEAR AMY:

There is a teacher at the local high school who I see at many social, school and sport events. She is always telling stories about the students at the school to anyone who will listen. These stories are highly confidential in nature, such as a young adult who was hospitalized for depression and a suicide attempt, a child who has anorexia and an anxiety disorder, parents who are going through a nasty divorce, etc. I have both pulled her aside and also said in front of the entire group that she is gossiping and that I think she should stop sharing this information, but she does not stop. She once said that she would not use the child's name, but it is obvious who the child/family is by the details of the stories. How can I get her to stop? Should I tell her supervisor or the principal? I do not want these early episodes and mistakes to follow them through life.

— Concerned Parent

DEAR AMY:

Our sixth-grade daughter, 'Anna,' has a school friend 'Krista,' who she really connects with, but Krista's mother is a nightmare. She intrudes herself uninvited, behaves badly and is overall inappropriate. Anna and I recently witnessed her yanking Krista around by the hair while insulting her. Privately I told her how uncomfortable what she did to her daughter made us, hoping to advocate for the child. Her response to my admittedly intrusive critique of her parenting was predictably awful, and she told Krista that I think she is a lousy mother. Krista is welcome in our home, but I will not allow Anna to return the visits, nor does she want to. Is there a good way to allow Krista to visit my daughter in our home but not in hers? We have been able to find excuses so far, but what do I tell a 12-year-old?

— Challenged

DEAR CHALLENGED:

This mother already knows you disapprove of her parenting because you were brave enough to be honest with her. She has told her daughter that you think she's a lousy parent — and so it is out there. Explain to 'Krista,' 'I've talked with Anna about this and I don't feel comfortable sending her to your house right now. But we always love having you here and would like you to be with us whenever you want.' You don't need to supply reasons, but let the girl know that the directive comes from you.

DEAR PARENT:

When a teacher disrespects students through gossip, it turns the teacher into the very thing she criticizes: an immature, misbehaving, attention-hogging teenager. You have tried and obviously cannot get this teacher to stop gossiping. The only course of action left to you is to contact the principal and possibly the superintendent of the school. If this teacher is violating official privacy guidelines, then she should get into trouble.

Stretching helps ease back pain

DEAR DR. ROACH: My wife suffered from spinal stenosis. She had a cortisone shot, which helped for 90 days. She had regular physical therapy meetings. She was in constant pain, but insisted on playing tennis (against her doctor's wishes). Then, we happened to vacation for a month in Florida, and one of the offered activities was a "stretch" workout. She insisted that she wanted to try it. After the very first time she thought she felt a little better. She went to several of the sessions, and finally asked the trainer what she could buy to keep it up at home. The trainer suggested a stretching DVD. It takes about an hour to complete, and she now does it three times a week. She plays hard tennis five days a week, hasn't complained about pain since 2010, and hasn't needed any physical therapy, either. I continue to be amazed. Certainly this kind of therapy can't hurt anyone, since you do it only to your personal comfort levels. Perhaps you might mention this type of therapy in your column sometime. It worked miracles for us at virtually no cost. — R.M.

ANSWER: Spinal stenosis is caused by pressure on the nerves at the level of the spinal column. Physical therapy is one effective treatment, and one I always recommend prior to considering surgery. I thank you for taking the time to point out that gentle stretching can help, probably by opening up the spaces in between the vertebrae to allow the nerve more room.

iPhone tip of the week

Lock focus and exposure

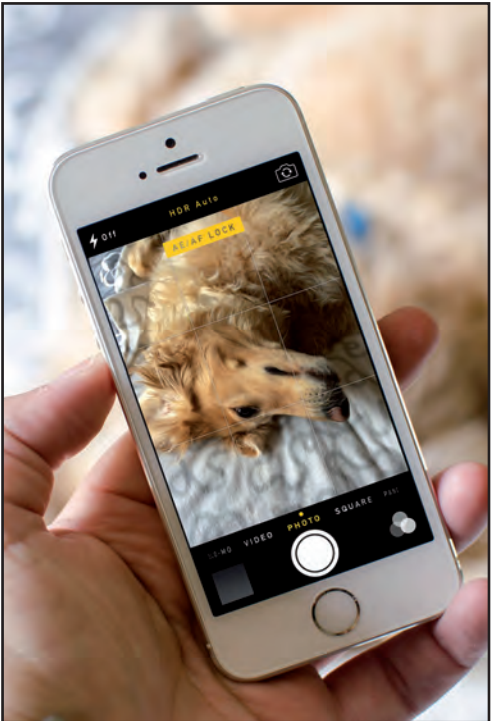

TAP TO SET FOCUS

When the camera is active, tapping the screen sets the focus and exposure for that object. But, the moment the camera moves, these settings are lost.

HOLD TO LOCK FOCUS

To lock the focus and exposure, tap and hold until you see a yellow bar appear at the top of the screen. Even if you change your composition, the focus and exposure will be unaffected.

Recipe of the week

GRILLED CHIPOTLE LIME FLANK STEAK

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 T. chipotles in adobo
- 2 T. extra-virgin olive oil
- juice of 2 limes
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1/4 t. coriander
- 1/2 t. cumin
- 1/4 t. smoked paprika
- 1/2 t. chili powder
- 1/4 t. pepper
- 1/2 t. kosher salt
- 1 flank steak

DIRECTIONS

1. In a small bowl, whisk together the first ten ingredients. Place your flank steak in a plastic bag and pour in the marinade. Refrigerate for at least 12 hours or overnight.
2. Remove the steak from the refrigerator 30 minutes prior to grilling and remove excess liquid with a paper towel.
3. Preheat grill to high. Cook for 4-5 minutes on each side for medium-rare. Allow the steak to rest for 10 minutes before slicing.

Recipe from www.themessybakerblog.com

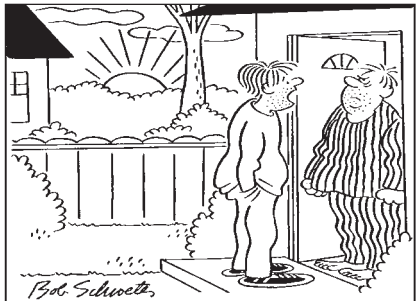

This grilled chipotle flank steak is thick, juicy, and grilled to perfection. The flavors of zesty lime and smoky chipotle combine to create a flavorful cut of beef.

DON'T START COLLEGE BY GETTING INTO BIG DEBT.

Mott Community College is the #1 college destination for new students from Fenton, Lake Fenton and Linden.

Southern Lakes Branch Center is your hometown college!

For a solid foundation of college learning and tremendous cost savings, taking your first year or two of college at Mott Community College is a smart idea.

Save on room and board costs, take advantage of small class size and professors who teach their own classes, and save with MCC's lower tuition rates.

Most MCC students are able to work while attending college and MCC college credits transfer to any university in Michigan and most in America.
