A candlelight vigil Thursday evening at Silver Lake Park beach brought Brady Morton’s family, fraternity brothers, ski club members and classmates together to mourn in unison. The hundreds who gathered on the beach held candles, cried, laughed, hugged and remembered the popular teen before launching luminaries into the dark sky.

“He touched a lot of people, not too many people have lived that much in 20 years,” said Larry Morton, who said Brady was his greatest accomplishment.

There have been numerous stories published over the last few weeks about the conditions at the Genesee County Animal Control (GCAC) facility. From rumors of poorly treated animals to some lost pets not being available for viewing by their potential owners.

Earlier this month, the volunteer program was suspended, due to reported threats to employees from volunteers. However, not all volunteers believe that is the reason. Kari Martin, volunteer rescue coordinator for dogs at GCAC, See ANIMAL CONTROL on 6A

The Laundry makes list of ‘top breakfasts’

Fenton restaurant one of 21 eateries selected as ‘best breakfast spots in America’

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Breakfast just may be the most important part of the day.

Just ask Mark Hamel, owner of The Laundry in Fenton, which was recognized by thrillist.com, a national social website, on a ranking of “The 21 Best Breakfast Spots in America” last Sunday.

An editor from the New York-based website went around the country, reviewing restaurants for unique breakfast experiences, and nominated The Laundry.

The review recommended the Bacon ‘n Brie Hotcakes, which are described on the menu as “a stack of tender, fluffy pancakes loaded with applewood-smoked bacon and melted Brie cheese, topped with apple-cinnamon compote and served with 100 percent pure maple syrup.”

Hamel said these sweet and savory pancakes have been on the menu for just a few months and are a popular “unique” breakfast offering on The Laundry menu. Best-selling entrees include Eggs Benedict, Spanish Conquistador, All Hams on Deck and Loaded Scrambles.

Breakfast has been a daily staple at The Laundry since the restaurant opened in 1997. “We started out serving just breakfast and lunch, then added dinner a few years later,” said Hamel. “Breakfast has always been a big part of our menu.”

While Bacon ‘n Brie Hotcakes sound like quite an early morning splurge, Hamel says he’s not surprised that they’re so popular. “People don’t seem to mind ‘splurging’ at breakfast, because they feel they have an entire day to work it all off. Trends of meal choices at lunch and dinner tend to be more healthy.”

Hamel is still amazed at the response he’s gotten from this national recognition. “Within a day of that list coming out, over 20,000 people saw it and shared it on Facebook,” he said. “I even heard from a friend of mine in Nepal.”

He was also quick to give credit to his staff on Facebook, saying “Congratulations to Executive Chef Jody Brunori and The Laundry staff, both front and back of the house, who serve up the most important meal of the day, every day of the week.”

The review can be seen at www.thrillist.com. A simple search of The Laundry will take you to their story.
First day of kindergarten

Initial step in long education journey

By Sally Rummel

If you have a child getting ready for his or her first day of kindergarten, you’re probably more nervous and excited than your child. That’s because kindergarten is the first rung on your child’s academic ladder, and there are other physical, social and emotional steps that need to be climbed, too.

“The most important thing for parents to do is to be excited for their child and to share that excitement with them,” said Kristie Brown, who’ll be starting her 16th year teaching kindergarten at Rose Pioneer Elementary School in Rose Township. “It will be a whole new journey of your child learning many new things.”

This is the year he or she will become a mathematician, a writer and a reader. “We make our kindergarten students believe they can be all these things,” said Brown. “We encourage a can-do attitude!”

With school being just nine days away, here are some suggestions from Brown to prepare your kindergartner for that important first day of school.

Tip #1: Be there after school, so you can have a conversation together about your child’s day.

Tip #2: Read to your child every day. Kindergarten will be the beginning of your child learning how to read by knowing the alphabet, and the sounds of letters.

Tip #3: Set bedtime and morning routine to reduce the stress on both the child and parents. “If the day starts out well, it will likely go well,” said Brown.

Tip #4: Encourage independence in your child. Your child will need to do many tasks at school, from putting on a coat and zipping it to putting on and taking off shoes, emptying a backpack and relaying notes to their parents, etc.

Tip #5: Teach respect and empathy for others. “Kindergarten is like a big ‘play date; only with 21 friends,’” said Brown. “They love to hear that. It helps them to learn taking turns, learning about their own emotions and those of others, etc.”

Tip #6: Turn everyday activities into an opportunity to learn. “If you’re making a bed, put on the pillows and add three more, asking your child how many there are,” said Brown. “When you give them crackers or grapes, ask them to count them with you.”

Tip #7: Encourage responsibility. Teach them how to make their bed, pick up their toys, help set a table, etc. It will make them feel important and a part of a larger community than themselves.

Encourage independence in young children by teaching them how to tie their own shoes.

Tips for high school freshmen (and their parents)

Help ease transition into high school experience

Freshman year isn’t just nerve wracking for the teenagers who are entering high school for the first time, it’s also sometimes an anxious time for their parents. High school is much different from elementary and middle school, so it is important for parents and students to be prepared.

Freshman year is not just the beginning of high school; it’s also the time to start being focused and thinking about the future.

Angela Seyfried, English teacher at Lake Fenton High School, has plenty of experience working with freshmen. Not only does she teach freshman English, but she was also a freshman mentor last school year. She shared some important tips, for both parents.

What we agree on

This is my paraphrased version of a column by John Hawkins regarding the ongoing events in Ferguson, Missouri. I believe that most Americans are on the same page with regard to what’s going on in Ferguson, Missouri. In fact, I think that all of us are in agreement on a lot more than we realize. So maybe it’s a good idea to focus on what we do agree on instead of looking for more reasons to further divide America.

I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — agree that if the dead teen, Mike Brown, was a threat to the police officer then the shooting death of Mike Brown was justified. Conversely, if Mike Brown was not a threat to the officer, then the officer — like any criminal — should be held accountable for his actions.

I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — should agree that we should wait to find out all the facts before rendering a judgement of any kind. That’s why we have a court and legal system — to judge on facts, not rumors from pre-disposed reporters, professional race-hating ‘activists’ or hyped up residents.

One reporter stupidly stated that ‘white people don’t care when a black man gets shot by the cops.’ Well, no shift Sherlock. We also don’t care when a white man gets shot by the cops. If some hophead high on crack — white or black — is waving a gun at a convenience store clerk, customer or a cop, he should most certainly be shot in order to mitigate the possibility of injury or death to the store clerk, the customer or the cop. I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — would agree with that.

It is an elemental right of the citizenry to assemble and peacefully protest — as long they are obeying the law. Unfortunately, many aren’t. They are simply stealing, looting and destroying the private property of their neighbors and fellow residents. I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — agree that these thugs should be arrested and prosecuted for their crimes.

I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — agree that the effect of the behavior of the rioters, looters and agitators will be felt for generations in Ferguson. Many stores and businesses will close their doors and leave forever. Jobs and income will be lost, along with their associated payroll and property taxes. The boarded up buildings will stand for decades as an eyewore. Housing values will plummet and many families will lose the equity they built for years in their homes. I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — feel their pain.

Let’s focus on common ground — what we agree on — instead of allowing politicians, race-baiters, deceitful news organizations and other self-serving opportunists (definition: a person who exploits circumstances for personal gain) further divide America. They will not quit selling us until we stop buying. So let’s stop buying it and call these jackals out for what they are — traitors to their race and their country. I believe that all of us — white or black, liberal or conservative — would agree on that.

THE MEDIA is afraid to report the other story about what is happening in Ferguson, Missouri. The story is ‘Why does the black race have to resort to violence, burning and looting their neighbors?’ What a disgrace to their race.

Part-time kindergarten is back in Fenton

Despite $8,000 cost, school board officials believe program will boost enrollment

By Tim Jagielo
tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

The Fenton Area Public Schools (FAPS) administration recently reversed an initial decision to cut half-day Kindergarten for the 2014-15 school year. For the first time in the district’s history, it was not going to be offered. Demand was not too high, and there was a cost savings of about $40,000.

But recently, they changed their minds. “We believe there is enough of a demand for a half-day program that will make it financially possible,” said Superintendent Timothy Jalkanen.

For this school year, only morning half-day kindergarten is available. School buses will pick up students in the morning, and they will have to be picked up by parents afterward.

Part-time kindergarten is not offered by any other district in the area, as the Michigan Legislature has announced that it will be cut funding by half, for half-day kindergarten.

Although the building, staff, facilities, maintenance and everything is used full-time, the students essentially leave after half a “shift.” The school is reimbursed roughly $3,500 for that half-time student, instead of $7,000, which funds all the school’s costs. Couple decreased funding with lukewarm enrollment, the district decided to cut it.

But a concerned group of local parents engaged the district through school board meetings, and drummed up support and interest. Now, Jalkanen said that parents should contact FAPS if they’re interested in enrolling their child for half-day kindergarten class.

FAPS board member Drew Shapiro said the school board offered suggestions on whether the option should be reinstated, and the administration made the choice. Shapiro personally supported half-day kindergarten. While it will now cost the district about $8,000 to offer the program, he sees it as an investment in combating declining enrollment.

“If we can get them into the Fenton school system, it’s going to help keep our enrollment numbers up later on,” he said.

“We’ve spent money elsewhere in the past, in my opinion,” he said, referencing a $30,000 study FAPS has paid for. “If we can spend $8,000 on curriculum, I’m all for it.”

McCaslin Lake Road to be resurfaced

State funding will cover majority of costs

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6796

The Genesee County Road Commission, in conjunction with the State of Michigan, has announced that McCaslin Lake Road from Silver Lake Road to Finch Drive in Argentine Township will be under construction beginning in early September.

McCaslin Lake Road reconstruction will be predominantly funded using Road and Risk Reserve (RRR) Funds from the State of Michigan. The work will consist of pavement base crushing and shaping, asphalt resurfacing, bridge deck resurfacing, and guardrail.

Expected completion date is Nov. 14. Through traffic will be detoured via Rolston, Seymour and Silver Lake roads. The roadway will be open to local and emergency vehicle traffic only.

Motorists are advised to allow themselves additional time to reach their destinations.

Supervisor Bob Cole said for years McCaslin Lake Road has been the worst road in Argentine Township. He said this project is a part of the state’s projects, funded through taxes. Cole credits local state rep. Joe Graves for getting the state to take care of Argentine Township.

Cole said the road was originally paved in 1967, retopped in 1977 and in 1998, chip seal was applied. “That was the last time it was worked on,” said Cole. “It’s falling apart.”

Knowing that the roadwork will inconvenience some of the township residents, Cole reminds everyone that, “you’ve got to break some eggs to make an omelet.”

McCaslin Lake Road will be resurfaced with state funding. The project is expected to be completed by Nov. 14.

The Genesee County Board of Commissioners oversee the funding and policies of GCAC.

Pegge Adams, Genesee County commissioner for District 9, and Animal Control committee chair said, “There has been a lot of controversy, but much has not been based in fact.” She said We on the morning that the Board of Commissioners heard from state inspectors, who paid a visit to GCAC last Friday. “It was an unannounced, surprise visit, as they all are,” she said. “They have not yet provided a written report, but indicated that they saw no serious violations.”

GCAC volunteers aren’t the only ones speaking out about the poor conditions though. Roberta Angelo, one of the founders of GRACE (Genesee Residents for Animal Control Evolution), said there are three main concerns when it comes to the conditions at Animal Control. These include the care of the animals, the high kill rate, and the large intake of dogs and cats.

Volunteers are also confused as to why they are not able to view the strays that come in, which are kept in a locked room. Not even people looking for lost pets are allowed in this room and these dogs appear to stay in their cages indefinitely. Adams cites safety reasons for this.

Holly’s American Legion and VFW posts to host public ceremony honoring veterans

Holly’s American Legion Post 149 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5587 will unveil and dedicate a monument at the Great Lakes National Cemetery on Sunday, Aug. 24, at 1 p.m. The service is open to the public.

The monument lists both posts and the community of Holly with the following engraving, “Honoring those who answered the call. Let us forget.” The monument also contains the emblems of both posts and a Holly leaf. The monument honors the service of all those people who served in the military throughout the area’s long history.

Those who have served include American Revolutionary War Veterans, War of 1812, Mexican War, Civil War, Indian Wars, Spanish American War, World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, Persian Gulf War, Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, and many other conflicts.

The Holly monument honors the commitment of our veterans not to let those who served and sacrificed be forgotten. Great Lakes National Cemetery is located in Holly Township and is sacred ground.

The Holly monument is located on the Memory Trail toward the back of the cemetery and was designed by Legionnaire Dan Stashko. Both posts worked closely to bring the project to a successful conclusion.

Dyer Funeral Home and Monument Company was of great assistance to the success of the project, according to Joe Mishler, commander of American Legion Post 149 in Holly.

Holly to spend $34,500 on two new tornado sirens

Enhanced early warning system intended to fill voids

By Terry Connell

Holly Twp. — The Holly Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved the addition of two emergency warning sirens on Wednesday. The proposed locations, both in northwest Holly Township, have been determined based on studies identifying more densely populated areas where residents are likely to be outdoors away from other types of warning systems like TV or radio, or the existing sirens might be difficult to hear due to distance.

The addition of the two warning sirens supplements the existing seven and is part of a cooperative effort shared by the Department of Homeland Security, Oakland County, and Holly Township.

According to Holly Township Clerk Karen Winchester, once the proposal is approved by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, contractors will be hired and construction can begin. Winchester estimates the construction could be complete within 30 days and could be done before November 2014.

As part of an ongoing project spanning several years aimed at enhancing the early warning system, the tax-funded cost was accounted for in the current Holly Township budget. The quoted cost to erect and activate the pair of sirens is set to not exceed $34,500.

Quick facts

- Two additional early warning sirens approved to be erected in northwest Holly Township.
- Expected completion as early as November 2014
- Total cost to taxpayers not to exceed $34,500 — already allocated from budget

New Moon Visions reverses decision to continue its work for Fenton’s DDA

New Moon Visions (NMV) will continue to provide marketing, public relations, merchant outreach and event promotion and coordination services for the Fenton Downtown District Authority (DDA) through June 2015. Under a separate contract, NMV will also handle marketing for the Streetscape through completion of the project.

“I am pleased to see that New Moon Visions will return to assist with the downtown merchants and the downtown Streetscape,” said Mayor Sue Osborn. The support of the Fenton DDA, the merchants, and the City Council contributed to New Moon’s decision to work with the DDA and its merchants to continue to grow in the coming year.

“I am glad that New Moon Visions will continue to provide marketing services for the City of Fenton DDA,” said Craig Schmidt, DDA chairman. “As was heard from local business owners and echoed by DDA board members, New Moon has done an excellent job of marketing the district for the past several years and we look forward to continued success moving forward.”

At the conclusion of the marketing contract in June 2015, a decision will be made to renew the contract, to move forward with an in-house marketing director or to explore other options.

“We are thankful for the opportunity to continue to serve as part of the Fenton DDA team in the revitalization effort and to continue to build relationships with the merchants and the community,” said Kim Rivera, President, New Moon Visions.

teen, who was turn 20 on Aug. 29, went missing during the Huron Float Down last Sunday afternoon.

The Float Down is a popular annual event on the St. Clair River where thousands of participants float down the river in different types of rafts and inflatables.

Morton and a group of about 40 of his college friends were taking part in the Float Down when he dove off his raft to swim and drowned. The athletic teen was a longtime member of the Silver Lake Ski Club.

Jacob Rathbun, Morton’s Theta Chi fraternity brother at the University of Michigan-Flint was part of the Float Down. He said within seconds of Morton diving into the water one of the girls in their group noticed he hadn’t come up as expected and alerted the others. Rathbun, who has worked with the Genesee County Sheriff Department’s marine patrol, immediately got up and started scanning the water for his friend. In less than a minute, he was on a marine patrol boat searching for Morton with binoculars.

The St. Clair County Sheriff Department’s marine patrol reacted immediately as Morton’s friends showed them where they last saw him. “One second he was there, the next he was gone,” said Rathbun. “None of it makes any sense.”

Some of Morton’s college friends scanned the water from shore, some looked from marine boats and the others stayed in their rafts. “It’s just tragic,” he said. “Brady had so much going for him, you can’t explain what happened.”

Rathbun went to Morton’s ski show and Morton promised him that he would teach him how to water ski. “He was just an amazing person.”

Nick Nivison, Morton’s big brother at the fraternity, was also part of the Float Down. He said out of everyone he knows, Morton was the most passionate, dedicated and hard working. “He had so many talents,” Nivison said. “So many things he accomplished — this is just mind-blowing.”

As his big brother, Nivison and Morton spent a lot of time together and became good friends, especially this summer. “He always talked about his ski team and about his girlfriend, Natalie,” he said.

During the panic of searching for Morton, Nivison said some of their friends were running back and forth on shore looking for him and others were in the water. “Within minutes the whole group was completely silent,” he said. “It was eerie.”

Longtime friends Sawyer Hobson and Elliot Bourdeau, along with Bourdeau’s brothers, Blake and Elijah, drove over to Port Huron on Monday to lend support to Brady’s parents, Robin and Larry Morton, as the search continued.

Hobson and the Bourdeaus met Brady as young kids while attending Lake Fenton schools. Morton transferred to Fenton schools while in high school.

Hobson, a resident of Fenton Township, said they all considered Morton a really good friend. “He definitely had his head on his shoulders,” he said. “He was just smart all-around.”

During the search, Hobson and the Bourdeaus shared stories with his parents. “It was rough on everyone,” he said.

In addition to the St. Clair County Sheriff’s Department, the U.S. Coast Guard, local and Canadian police and residents, and numerous volunteers, including Silver Lake Ski Club members, assisted with the search, which lasted 70 hours. The sheriff’s department indicated that alcohol could possibly be a factor in the drowning. An autopsy was scheduled for this Friday.

Associate Editor Tim Jagielo contributed to this story.
The preacher and the president

‘What are we going to do about the president?’ asked my minister friend.

His question took me by surprise. And though many years and presidential administrations have passed since its asking, my response would be the same today.

‘Our responsibility is to pray for the president,’ I replied, baring my answer on Paul’s call for patriotic praying. In his words, we’re to pray for all who are in authority that we may live quiet and peaceful lives (1 Timothy 2:2).

If my answer seems too simple, consider what it demands. Prayer demands faith. We’re to pray for leaders and expect the best from them.

During this crisis of confidence, our prayers should embrace all government leaders and ought to be heartfelt cries for both protection from terrorism and a national spiritual turnaround.

Is there any hope of such awakening in our time? Doubters don’t think so but the Biblical account of an unwilling missionary’s ministry in Iraq may offer hope for today.

While Israel was sent to Iraq to warn one of its largest cities, Nineveh, of coming judgment there seemed little hope. Still, shortly after the reluctant prophet’s arrival in sin city the unthinkable happened: the king became so convicted of his evil life that he repented and urged others to do the same. This surprising royal response to plain preaching may have seemed a bit fishy to Jonah but soon the entire city followed the king’s example, sparing it from destruction.

Prayer also demands forgiveness. ‘And when you stand praying, forgive,’ said our Lord (Mark 11:25). But forgiving political opponents can be difficult to do.

Jonah was upset over the forgiveness granted to the immoral king and his subjects. This seems to have been one of the reasons he hadn’t wanted to urge them to face up to their sins; fearing they would be forgiven and the city spared. Their repentance had robbed him of the joy of witnessing their destruction. ‘I knew you were a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger and of great kindness,’ he complained.

Can you identify with this pouting prophet? Do you know someone you don’t want to forgive? Power to forgive comes from being forgiven and both our own forgiveness and the ability to forgive are the results of God’s love. Forgiving another person may enable you to pray more effectively for your family, your church, your country, even your president and other national leaders.

Prayer also demands self-examination. A promise given to King Solomon and his people about confessing their sins and seeking forgiveness offers a solution to our present moral and spiritual needs.

‘If My people who are called by My name will humble themselves, and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and heal their land’ (2 Chronicles 7:14).

FRESHMEN

Tip #1 — Parents should attend orientation. This is something that many schools are doing now, according to Seyfried. She said that these are usually held in spring or in late summer. While you may have missed orientation for your freshman this year, you can still take time to talk to their teachers when it comes time for parent-teacher conferences.

Tip #2 — Seyfried said, “Many parents step back during high school. While it’s good to allow your teens to make choices and learn from them, this is the time in life when they need their parents the most.” Even if you think they aren’t listening, they are. In fact, her freshman students have told Seyfried that they do hear what their parents are saying to them.

Tip #3 — There is definitely a bigger workload in high school, including freshman year. Seyfried said that both students and parents need to be prepared for more work in general, and for an increase in independent work.

Tip #4 — Seyfried suggested parents encourage their teens to advocate for themselves. “If they have a question or don’t understand a grade they’ve gotten, or anything else, they should ask a teacher.” She added, “Communication is one of the most critical skills needed for college and career success.”

Tip #5 — “Teachers, counselors, and principals are there for the students. Seek them out for help, that’s why they are there,” Seyfried said. “Don’t be afraid to speak up and get that help.”

While all of these tips can pertain to both students and parents, Seyfried added one special message strictly for students. She pointed out that she has had numerous juniors and seniors tell her that they wish they could re-do freshman year, because GPAs are hard to raise.

Pet boarding for dummies

Follow these tips so that your pooch has a happy stay while you’re away

By Yvonne Stegall

Whether you are a first time boarder, or a pro at arranging care for Fido when travelling away from home, here are some tips that can ensure your dog (or cat) has a happy stay at the kennel while you are away.

The first decision a pet parent needs to make when it comes to the inability to take their pet on vacation with them is where the pet is going to stay. Some people don’t think boarding kennel as their first thought or option. However, allowing your pet to stay with friends can have dire consequences — from a lost pet to a lost friendship.

Brenda Seabrook, owner of Twin Oaks Kennel in Holly, suggests, “Finding a professional that knows the ins and outs of animals.” While it might cost more to professionally board your dog, “The amount of money is never worth what the consequences could be,” she added.

Kris Weber at Bennington Hills Kennel in Fenton offers some helpful suggestions. “For first-time boarders, I would suggest that they visit the kennel they want to use. Schedule an overnight for their pet before leaving them for an extended stay, that way they know how they did and the pet knows the owner is coming back for them.”

Many people, even after boarding their dog a few times, are unsure of what they really need to send with their pooch to the kennel. “Don’t just think it, only bring what the kennel allows you to bring,” said Weber. “First-time boarders should always bring their pet’s own food. It is for their benefit. They are already in a strange place with strange people, the last thing they need is to change their food and then get sick or upset tummies from the different food.”

Weber said that pet owners should also make sure that their food is in a container with a sealed lid and marked clearly with their pet’s name and feeding instructions.

While many articles online suggest bringing something from home for your pet, like a blanket or favorite toy, and many kennels even suggest it, Weber said “Don’t bring something that smells like you, it’ll just upset your pet when they cannot find you.”

Lisa Kowalski at Wag n Pur Elite Pet Boarding in Holly suggests that first-time boarders take a complete tour of the facilities they are interested in, and look into more than one. She said that “it is important to make sure there is a clean environment and that your dog will get personal attention.”

As far as when to book, Kowalski’s place is often full ahead of time, so she suggests booking as soon as you know your plans.

“The most important things to remember when it comes to boarding is your family pet is that you want to make sure they have fun while you are away, that they are comfortable in their kennel, and that you have given all the information possible to your boarding facility to ensure your pet has a safe and happy visit. That includes letting them know about any aggression or fear tendencies, medical needs, and what kind of treats or toys they enjoy.”

Picking a boarding facility

• Trust your senses when visiting a kennel as a possible “vacation” spot for your dog.
• Make sure that the whole kennel, outdoor and indoor runs included, is clean and orderly.
• Make sure there are no offensive odors. There should be adequate ventilation. A well-run kennel should not stink of doggy odors.
• Make sure the temperature is adequate, not too warm and not too cold.
• Ask to see the outdoor running area. It should be close to spotless and made of gravel or concrete.
• Ask how frequently the areas are cleaned.
• All responsible kennel owners and operators will ask you about your dog’s vaccinations and will require proof of certain shots.
• All responsible kennel owners and operators will show you each area in which the dogs are kept.
• The outdoor runs — and the whole kennel should be very secure. Many dogs will attempt to break out, so talk to the kennel owners about this if you’re worried.

Single bite from ‘lone star tick’ could trigger allergic reaction to red meat

By Yvonne Stegall
ystegall@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Ticks were worse this year in most areas of our state. It had a little something to do with that nasty cold, and long, winter. With that in mind, news has been going around the Internet, from Men’s Fitness to Today.com, about one tick’s bite that just might cause you to have severe allergic reactions when you eat red meat. That tick is the lone star tick, so named for the yellow spot on its back and the fact that it originated in Texas.

Neil Walker, Department of Entomology at MSU said, “This is the first time I have heard about the allergy problem, but it sounds entirely possible.”

Online reports claim that this particular tick has a sugar that humans don’t have, called alpha-gal. This sugar is also found in red meat — beef, pork, venison, rabbit — and even some dairy products. The sugar is fine when ingested through foods, but a tick bite appears to trigger an immune response, in which the body sees the sugar as a foreign substance and releases antibodies to attack it. The next time the person eats red meat, the body has the same reaction, often sending them into anaphylactic shock.

If you think there is no worry about a tick from Texas affecting people in Michigan, think again. Walker said, “The lone star tick, Amblyomma americanum, is increasing in number of populations in lower Michigan and that does mean that both people and animals (both companion animals and wild animals) will be bitten more frequently by this species of tick, particularly, in the southwest Michigan region where temperatures are warmer along the lake zones.”

The allergy issue started only a few years ago, and has been growing and spreading from the Southwest and the East to more parts of the U.S. It also looks like the allergy subsides after some time, but can return with another tick bite, making it risky to eat red meat for anyone who has contracted this bizarre illness the first time.

Just like with normal allergies, allergic reactions can be treated with antihistamines. This helps relieve any itching from hives that happen when the body reacts to the tick bite. According to Today.com, some people with the allergy now carry epinephrine shots in case they are stricken again with this strange allergy.

Meat allergy isn’t the only damage the lone star tick can cause

• They are also known to spread several serious bacterial infections, such as ehrlichiosis and the potentially deadly tularemia.

• Symptoms usually appear within 30 days of a bite and can include: fatigue, fever, headache or muscle pain, swollen glands

• Circular rash reminiscent of the Lyme rash, although experts believe that the rash is sparked by a different bacterium.

One woman and Linden lists 24 men and two women.

The Michigan Sex Offender Registry (SOR) is a database containing the names, addresses, and listed offense information of all persons in Michigan convicted of certain sexual offenses. The complete SOR is only available for law enforcement purposes.

When first established in 1996, the PSOR was only accessible to the public by visiting a local law enforcement agency to view a paper copy of the list. In 1999, however, the PSOR became available online at www.mipsor.state.mi.us.

Along with the offender’s last reported address, the Michigan State Police, which maintains this registry, lists what tier level the individual is classified. In the tri-county area, the majority of listed offenders are classified as Tier 3 (see sidebar for offenses) due to the crimes for which they were convicted.

Men and women classified as Tier 1 must register for 15 years. Tier 2 offenders must register for 25 years and Tier 3 offenders must register for life. Prison time does not count toward the years.

Registered sex offenders are not permitted to reside, work, or loiter within 1,000 feet of a school. Doing so would be a violation of the Act.

Offenders who move to another state are required to report to their nearest law enforcement agency three business days prior to moving to provide their new address. The MSP Sex Offender Registration Unit then notifies the other state of the offender’s reported new address. Offenders who move to another country are required to report to their local law enforcement agency 21 days prior to moving to provide their new address.

Anyone wanting to keep track of a particular registered offender can do so through the MSP’s website. Also, anyone can sign up for email alerts if a registered offender moves into a particular zip code.

Fenton Police Chief Rick Aro said that his officers go out and verify each SOR address in the city. “Keep in mind all 42 in that zip code don’t live in the city limits,” he said adding that state police and the sheriff’s department check the remaining addresses.

“We monitor the offenders in our area on a regular basis and enforce the rules. If an offender is not in compliance, they either fix it or we arrest them,” said Aro.

“We haven’t experienced any problems when an offender moves in. Our experience has been that individuals on the SOR list comply with the statute.”

Fenton store returns WWII items to family

Veteran’s entire history found in storage unit

By Yvonne Stegall
ystegall@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

When Rebecca and David Howard purchased the storage unit at Access Storage in Holly to find treasures for their own shop, Howard’s Hidden Treasures, they got something they never expected. They found a nearly complete history of a man named Cecil O’Connell.

When Rebecca first discovered O’Connell’s WWII Army trunk, she found all of his personal information — his birth and death certificates, marriage licenses (from two marriages), and even his discharge papers from the military. While she was looking through these personal belongings, her husband, David, came across his memorial flag as well as Purple Heart. “His whole life was in there,” said Rebecca.

They pieced O’Connell’s life together with letters, photos, and all of his personal paperwork and they were compelled to return these items to his family. They contacted veterans affairs, but weren’t able to get anywhere, and they even posted on their Facebook page. They contacted a local TV station for assistance, and later worked with Troy Sawada from Phantom Investigations in Clio. Sawada saw the original story on TV and wanted to help out, so he volunteered his time.

“This is what I do for a living,” said Sawada. “Cecil would want this to go back to his family. When people can’t find someone, they don’t have access to the databases investigators do, where they can get a hold of cell phone numbers.” It took Sawada just a couple hours to track down one of O’Connell’s daughters.

Amongst the items found was a letter to O’Connell’s family from the president, who at that time was Bill Clinton. Looking through these items was like stepping into history.

The Howard’s were going to donate the items to a local museum if they weren’t able to find the family. Cecil Daniel O’Connell was born April 5, 1919 in Detroit and he died Jan. 28, 1994 in Holly.

New city administrator quits after just one week

Recently retired Brad Hissong lends city a hand in meantime

By Ryan Tackabury
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Fenton — Brad Hissong served as Fenton’s Building and Zoning Administrator for 16 years before retiring just last month. Today, he is back, lending a hand to the city.

Hissong’s return comes after Scott Lindhardt, the man hired to fill the position, left after about a week.

City Manager Lynn Markland said that Hissong was contracted to return on a temporary basis until the position can be filled with a new employee.

The position is not an easy one, and it comes with a lot of responsibilities. “The position is a department head position. He is the chief building official who oversees our building and zoning admission, and he often oversees the code enforcement officer and the person who does building inspections,” Markland said.

Markland said that Lindhardt left the position to accept another job offer. The search resumes to find a new building official. “We’re going to go back to our resumes we had. Fortunately, with Brad contracting back for us for a few weeks or so it gives us time to take a breath and find someone,” Markland said.

Taylor Campbell, 21, didn’t let life-threatening disorder define her

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Taylor Campbell was someone you always remembered after meeting her for the first time.

Her heart and her personality were larger than life, even bigger than cystic fibrosis, with which she had been diagnosed as an infant. She was so outgoing, even as a child, that she was named Junior Grand Marshal of the Linden Summer Happening Parade back in 2002, when she was a third grader at Central Elementary in Linden.

After her health seriously declined about three weeks ago, she took her last breath on Tuesday, Aug. 19 at 5:20 a.m., surrounded by family and friends. She was 21.

Taylor was especially close to her brother, Chris, 24 and sister, Melissa, 27 and her nieces Avannah, 6 and Rilynn, 2.

“Nobody tells you it’s going to sneak up on you; it’s going to take you,” said her mom, Julie Campbell. “Now my mission may be for me to be the ‘CF Mom’ who goes around and helps other families through this.”

Taylor was the “baby” of the family, the third child of Darwin and Julie Campbell, of Fenton. Even as a youngster, people recognized a spirit and wisdom about her that belied her age.

“She was insightful and had that special quality to take a CF-riddled life and make it above normal,” said her dad, Darwin, in a written statement.

Her friends admit she stood out in a crowd, even though she was just a wisp of a girl.

Colin Gagnon said, “She was a ‘people person;’ she always knew how to brighten a room. She taught me how to live life to the fullest, without caring what anyone else thought.”

Another friend, Amber Gerhart, said, “She always inspired me to be happy, positive and love the life that you have.”

“What is Cystic Fibrosis?

Cystic Fibrosis is a life-threatening disorder that causes severe damage to the lungs and digestive system. An inherited condition, cystic fibrosis affects the cells that produce mucus, sweat and digestive juices. In CF, a defective gene causes these secretions to become thick and sticky. Instead of acting as a lubricant, the secretions plug up tubes, ducts and passageways, especially in the lungs and pancreas.

Memorial T-shirt to benefit Campbell family

As a special memorial to Taylor Campbell’s family, friend Britni Snavely has designed a T-shirt to remember the recent passings of more than a dozen classmates from Linden High School, including Taylor, who graduated from LHS in 2011. All proceeds from the sale will benefit the Campbell family, according to Snavely. The shirts are available for $20 each, by emailing the customer’s name and size to snavely0404@gmail.com. Deadline for orders and payments is Friday, Aug. 29. To view the T-shirt design, visit www.facebook.com/britni.snavely.
Real hitting begins at Thursday scrimmages

Tigers look solid on both sides of the ball during their practice session

Fenton — There was hitting. There were great plays and mistakes. There were even referees. It was about as close to a real football game as you could get at Fenton High School Thursday afternoon. But, of course, it wasn’t.

Around the state, Thursday was a day most Michigan teams had their first — and for most their only — scrimmage before playing for real next Thursday. Fenton hosted Midland for its annual event with the Chemics, in front of about 100 fans. It started with the freshmen and JV squads earlier in the afternoon, and was followed by the varsity teams at 4 p.m. Meanwhile, Lake Fenton, Linden and Holly were competing at their own scrimmages at away venues. For the squads, the scrimmages represent the first, and only, time they’ll have contact against another team until the opening games. For the most part, Fenton coach Jeff Setzke was pleased with his squad.

“We are sick and tired of hitting each other and sick of practicing, so when you get a day to actually do some actual scrimmaging (you look forward to it),” Setzke said. “We’ll have to look at the film. You expect to see mistakes in these first games — losing the edge, getting hooked a little bit, pass-block breakdowns. We’ll see all those things on film and we’ll have to get them corrected. But overall I’m pleased. The kids played hard.”

After a summer of 70-something-degree weather, the scrimmage weather was a bit on the harsh side. Temperatures hovered mid-80s with a reasonably high humidity rate. The rains that were possible, however, never came.

Despite graduation losses, Linden appears to be area’s elite soccer squad

By David Troppens
dtroppens@tctimes.com, 810-433-6789

Last year it was good to be on the Linden varsity boys soccer team. The squad was ranked No. 1 for a part of the season and capped the year with a perfect Metro League record, a district title and a 25-2 record overall.

Will it be a repeat story for the Eagles this fall? There are reasons suggesting it could.

After all, the team returns two All-State players — Ben Thornton and Kevin Wright. Linden head coach Kevin Fiebertnitz said out of his top six players from last year, five are returning this year. However, that’s the good news.

That same squad also lost 11 of its players from a year ago due to graduation. And the Eagles also lost who was probably their best player, Zach Bakos, and lost their starting keeper.

So when it comes to Linden, it’s a matter of wondering if the glass is half full or empty.

“We lost about three-fourths of our team a year ago, so it’s probably fair to say we are rebuilding,” Linden coach Kevin Fiebertnitz said. “But I like to think of it as retooling a little bit.”

Fiebertnitz’s area rival coaches are concerned about Linden again this fall.

“Linden is still the team to beat.”

Fenton coach Matt Sullivan said. “They have their studs.”

“Linden looks pretty solid again this year,” Holly coach Mike Steibel said. “They lost some but have most of their best players back.”

What may be the best approach is a middle ground. The Eagles are certainly one of the favorites to win the league crown again, but it’s hard to suggest they’ll be at the same level statewide as they were last year until they prove that to be the case.

Holly only won one Metro game a year ago, but has a good chunk of its team back from last year, creating a reason for optimism.

“I think we will be pretty solid,” Steibel said. “If everything clicks and we learn what we have to learn, I think we’ll be a good team. I think we can be top three.”

Fenton finished second to Linden last year, but is in a bit of a rebuilding mode despite having over 50 kids try out for the team.

“We fit somewhere in the middle of the pack,” Sullivan said. “Last year we thought we were close, but we couldn’t get by Linden.”

At Lake Fenton, there’s reason for optimism as well. The numbers on the team keep growing, and a big reason for that is a lot of players return from last season.

“We are working really hard.” Lake Fenton’s third-year coach Michael Ko-rophen said. “We want to compete in the GAC. We want to be right there with Goodrich and Durand on top. In the past we wanted to be tough to beat, but we are getting to the point where we step on the field, we are expecting to win every single game no matter the opponent.”

LINDEN EAGLES

Coach: kevin FieberNitz

2013 Record: 8-0-0 Metro champions, 25-2-0 overall, advanced to regional finals.

Graduated All-TCT play-ers: Zach Bakos, Colin Hoeflering, A.J. Maguesceur.

Returning All-TCT players:

Kevin Wright, Tyler Ziccardi, Ben Thornton.

Team summary: The Eagles were among the elite teams in the state in Division 2 a year ago. Can they return to that level this season? Well, the squad graduated 11 of those players who made last season possible, but at the same time the Eagles return some very good players. Second-Team All-State performer Ben Thornton returns on defense, as does fellow second-team Kevin Wright. Thornton will remain on defense, while Wright will play outside mid, and be a dangerous offensive threat. Tyler Ziccardi will play at center mid, and is another strong performer.

Nolan McDonald returns to a wing mid position, while Cameron Davis may move to a central defender position.

In net, Jay Howard and Andrew Coppler are battling for the starting position.

Coach FieberNitz says: “We lost about three-fourths of our team from a year ago. It’s probably fair to say we are rebuilding, but I like to think of it as rebol-ding a little bit. We have a bunch of young guys who have to fill in spots we lost last year. We’ll see if they can do it. It’s a good opportunity for the new blood to make their mark.”

Prediction: The Eagles lost a lot of players to graduation but the cupboard isn’t bare. Many of the starters that do return in 2014 were some of the Eagles’ best players on the Metro championship team. But Linden does have its concerns. Depth also could be an issue, as the squad is carrying about 15 right now. But, if the new pieces fit well and Linden remains relatively healthy, the Eagles could be very good again this year. They should have a good chance to defend their Metro League title.

HOLLY BRONCHOS

Coach: Mike Steibel

2013 Record: 1-6-1 in the Metro, eighth place, 9-10-1 overall.

Graduated All-TCT players:

Taylor Mills, Evan Fitzpatrick.

Returning All-TCT players:

None.

Team summary: The Bronchos have a ton of seniors this year and had some juniors that were on the JV last year that are going to contribute. I think we are looking pretty good. There were a lot of close games last year. This year we have the horsepower up front and the stopping power in the back, so we are looking pretty good.

Prediction: The Bronchos could be the darkhorse team of the Metro League this season. The squad won only one Metro game last year, but were competitive in many games and had success outside the league. This could be a much improved product on the pitch. Don’t be shocked if the Bronchos find a way to finish in the top three in the league.

FENTON TIGERS

Coach: Matt Sullivan

2013 Record: 7-1-0 in Metro, second place, lost in district final.

Graduated All-TCT players: Aron Ferguson, Jacob Davis, Michael Corroy, Andrew Mowery.

Returning All-TCT players:

None.

Team summary:

The Tigers lost a lot of talent with the graduation many outstanding starters. Now, Fenton must find a way to rebuild or reload. There is some talent returning. Offensively, Liam Adams will be the team’s top scoring threat at forward. Other threats should come from midfielders Logan Palmer, Isaac Moore and Adam Gornick.

The defense returns a few familiar faces as well. Matt Flowers, Evan Gornick and Michael Fabatz will help anchor the defense. Meanwhile, Brady Hoevear is an all-purpose player, Sullivan says he “can play anywhere.”

The Tigers return one of their two keepers from last year. Tim Geib is back. The other keeper will be John Leake.

Coach Sullivan says: “We have lost so many starters and lost three all-state performers, from last year so it’s going to be tough to replace those guys. We are probably in the middle of the pack hoping to surprise some people. It’s not really a position we are used to. We are going to be the underdogs this year. We’re going to relish the role of underdog and see if we can sneak up on some people and outwork them.”

Prediction: The Tigers probably will take a step down this year. That said, the squad probably will be respectable in most of its games. Finishing above .500 in the league would be a nice year. Finishing third would be a strong season.

“You need a day like this because you know next Thursday and the game after that it will probably be 85 degrees and sunny. Or it will be humid because of a thunderstorm,” Setzke said. “It’s just the way it works out. You have to be able to play during a day like this. The kids have to play in a day with this type of heat. We’ve been blessed. We haven’t had to play in this year. Today was a little warm, a little sticky. And when you are on the carpet (the turf field), it’s a little bit warmer, but it was nice.”

There were several sessions during the approximately two-hour session. Both offenses and defenses took the field against each other, and then there were special teams practices. Finally, the day ended with what was a regularly timed 12-minute quarter. During it, as one would expect, the Tigers had some positive plays and some plays they’d rather forget.

Special teams was one area the Tigers struggled, and it began with the first play of the 12-minute game. Midland’s returner broke up the middle of the field and advanced the ball inside the Fenton 10. However, the Fenton defense, which played well during the final portion of the scrimmage, was able to keep Midland from scoring, forcing a short field goal. The Tigers trailed 3-0 with 9:46 left in the quarter.

On Fenton’s first possession, the Tigers’ QB Ross Ebert converted two first-down passes, including a nice throw to Justin Norris on a third-down play. The Tigers were eventually forced to punt the ball because in the quarter teams were allowed to hold the ball for no more than seven plays from scrimmage. The Tigers’ defense forced Midland to a punt on the Chemics’ next possession, but the punt was bobbled and Midland recovered — Fenton’s second straight special teams miscue. However, once again, the Tigers defense was strong, forcing Midland to punt themselves.

The Tigers’ offense exploded on the ensuing possession as Ebert tossed an 82-yard TD fade pattern pass to Norris. Evan Gornick converted the extra point, giving Fenton a 7-3 lead with 2:29 left in the quarter.

Midland responded with another nice kickoff return to the Chemics’ own 35.

Terry Green

• Business owner
• Father of two
• Motocross rider

By Tim Jagielo

Terry Green, 38, of Flint has worked at Billmeyer Camera Repair Photo and Framing since 1997. He bought the business in 2001, and is on the DDA board. He has two children, 17 and 5, and rides motocross on the weekends. But right now, he’s a little overwhelmed with the repairs he has on his desk.

How many cameras are you actually working on right now? Nine that are up here right now. I usually have between 15 and 30 pieces, and there’s an influx of two to 10 a day. The computer that runs the photo printer died, so now I have to drop everything, take that apart. I’m in the one that gets the call. I’m the IT guy. I unplug toilets, ‘chief cook and bottle washer.’

I notice you’re still limping there — I crashed it. I was at a new (motocross) track and I was trying to figure out timing on a set of jumps. The first time I attempted this rhythm section, I got the timing wrong, and I basically didn’t do it right. My foot came off, and when I landed, I planted my foot, and it rotated severely and snapped the fibula.

Ankle sprains are rated as a one to four, but mine was 5.5 or six. Not only did I fall and break my leg, but to add insult to injury, I landed in a pile of cow st. Wasn’t a pretty humorous. Not only did I eat st, I literally ate st.

Why photography, and why a camera shop? Really truly, kind of cliché, but it started with National Geographic. I just enjoyed looking at all the images from all over the world. At a young age I said to myself, ‘that’s cool, I’d like to do that.’ I’d do chores for (photo) money and processing, in high school I was on yearbook, and school paper staff. I was a photographer.

I went to college actually for auto-body, and had a scholarship. After going home and coming back and working in the industry, I discovered I wasn’t too keen on it. I like it, but I saw most of the guys I worked with were pretty used up in their 40s from the work they were doing.

Halfway through (the college photo) program my girlfriend got pregnant, so I dropped out of school and got married. I went back to work and got a job here. Do you still shoot for fun, or professionally? I can’t lie, I’m not much of a photographer these days. My love of photography has definitely changed and evolved. I love equipment, I love the gear, I love when new equipment comes out, I can go ahead and be the first one to test it. But I don’t often go out and make beautiful images. I would really like to.

There’s a reason I have a staff photographer here, and it’s not me. When I’m done here, I want to do other things I enjoy. I enjoy working on my house, making it look nice, and working on my bikes, getting ready to beat the heck out of them.

How would you describe your relationship with customers, when they come in with questions? I’m probably honest to a fault with people. My bedside manner, or counter-side manner if you will, it’s either really good or really bad, depending on your opinion. Ninety-eight percent of people appreciate my candor. I’m open and honest and give them my opinion. You might come in asking for this, and in reality you might need this other thing. I can definitely be a little crass for sure. Has anyone ever been offended? No. I’m pretty good at gauging people. I won’t lie, and say I haven’t sworn in front of someone when it wasn’t 100-percent appropriate. But again at the same time, most people, they appreciate my candor and my approach. I don’t try to be fake and put on a false front.

When I’m here, things might personally be falling apart, or I might be having a really rotten day here, equipment might be broke, and I’m stressed, but when I’m talking to you, I focus on your needs. Sometimes to a fault, I’m sometimes guilty of talking too damn much. I’m passionate about it, I’m passionate about photography.

What do you like about having a business in Flint? I’m a weirdo. I actually like people. I love meeting new people, new customers coming in, making new friends so to speak, I’m a pretty friendly dude. We’re so passionate about our pictures, it’s so important, when I’m able to go ahead and do a data recover with photos that would have otherwise been lost. It’s the lasting legacy of our families. I take it as a huge honor to be able to do these things. Pictures are a big deal to me, it’s my business, it’s my life.

“My candor if you will...I’m kind of a non-filtered cigarette, I’m ‘camel straight.’”

Terry Green (Motocross)

“Tri-County Times”

Terry Green not only repairs equipment, but sometimes can get unique opportunities, like helping to digitally enhance and preserve a family bible, containing detailed records from 150 years of family history. “I felt honored to be trusted with the very valuable part of his family’s history, and it came out absolutely fantastic.”

“I bought a new car and they replaced several parts such as the ball joint, motor mount, control arm. Not all of these parts were on the drivers side, I got into a accident shopping for purchasing the vehicle, damaging the front left side of the car. Come to find out my coil had snapped. They had to have seen the welded coil or welded it themselves. Why can’t you weld a coil? Do you have any suggestions on what I can do now?”

“Hope, The reason you can not weld a coil or any other spring, is the way it is tempered and heat treated when made can not be duplicated easily. What leads you to believe that the coil spring was welded? If there is evidence of this being done right before the sale of the car; you may be able to go to small claims court to get some kind of reimbursement for damages and repairs. If you bought it from a car dealer try to contact the manager of the store. If you do not get help from them, call the Michigan Department of State at 1-888-767-6424. If this was a private party, you should contact the seller and give them a chance to make it right before going any further.”
