Unique history found in ANTIQUE SHOPS

Many get that 'warm fuzzy' feeling when they come across items that mom or grandma had

Some antique stores are home to up-cycled vintage items like these at Vintage Row.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | YVONNE STEGALL

Many antiques found in local antique shops have a story to tell, like this coin. Stacey Mielcarek of Yesterday's Treasures told us the story behind it. Read about it in the accompanying story.

Fenton — For those who enjoy the smell and history that can be found within the walls of antique shops everywhere, you know how wonderful and amazing it is, like stepping back in time. For those who haven't found that appreciation, hopefully this will help you understand.

For many, walking through an antique shop isn't just about shopping. While many people collect antiques, there are also people who enjoy a stroll through antique stores simply because they like the history held within.

Antique shops are like museums, maybe a little less organized, but offering all of that history up for sale, so you can take it home with you to enjoy.

ANNIVERSARY

Browns to celebrate 50th anniversary

Lee and Pat Brown of Lobdell Lake in Argentine Township have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 7, 2014. Lee and the former Pat Bloch of Allen Park, Michigan, were married at the St. Francis Cabrini Church in Allen Park, Michigan on Nov. 7, 1964. They have three sons: Gregory of Allen Park, Kenneth of Fenton and Gary of Garden City, Michigan. They also have five grandchildren: Ashley, Christine, Brooke, Autumn and Sarah. The couple celebrated by going out to dinner with family.

back that 'warm fuzzy' memory of something their mom or grandma had," said Stacey Mielcarek at Yesterday's Treasures in downtown Fenton. "I think that is why most people start collecting."

Up-cycling and repurposing are all the rage these days, from television shows to Pinterest boards, many are looking to antique stores for home décor. "It has brought quite a boost for business," according to Mielcarek. She said, "People are realizing that it is actually cheaper to buy an old piece, made of real wood that has stood the test of time, than something new and made of particle board."

Michelle Sikora of Vintage Row, a new antique shop in Fenton on North LeRoy Street said, "There's a thrill of the hunt for that perfect, restorable piece or something fun to be created."

It's not just an adventure for the shoppers either. Mielcarek said, "One of the best parts of my job is that I am constantly learning." When something comes in that she doesn't know about, she does the research and learns new things.

"I learn a lot from my customers too, the ones who collect something in particular will always educate me and tell me the little 'ins and outs' of that particular thing," she said.

Mielcarek shared a story about one of the items in her store, a large coin from 1865. The United States Sanitary Commission was a private relief agency created in 1861, to support sick and wounded soldiers of the U.S. Army during the American Civil War, and it continued afterwards. She said, "Women would get together and go around to raise funds for the sanitary commission. The larger donors would get one of these coins as a commemorative gift."

"Antiquing is a timeless hobby that has never gone out of style. There's something to be said about the experience one has when they see something that is familiar to them, it's a quick trip down memory lane," said Sikora.

Linden

- Memories & More Antiques on North Bridge Street share many rooms of collectables and antiques.

- Thimbleberry Antiques on North Bridge Street is a delightful store with old items blended in with the stylish new items.

Sikora enjoys the stories that different items pull out of people. "It's so neat to see people come in the shop and say 'I had one of those when I was little' or 'we had one of these growing up and we used to...' and they tell the story about that piece."

She sees antiques as a glimpse into the past, an example of what life was once like. Anyone who has ever owned a piece of antique furniture knows that it has a quality and craftsmanship that speaks for itself, made by hand out of natural hard wood and built to last for many generations.

The Detroit Lions are 6-2, but here's a REALITY CHECK

By David Troppens

The Detroit Lions are halfway through the regular season and enjoy a 6-2 record, placing second in the National Football Conference if the season ended today. One would think a 6-2 start during a 16-game season would probably be a good indicator of success for a squad. That's probably true, unless you are the Detroit Lions. Since 1991, the Lions have started the season with records like 5-2, 6-2 and 6-3 six other times. During those seasons, the Lions failed to make the playoffs twice, and only won a playoff game once. I wanted to take a look back at some of those past seasons.

Started: 6-3

Finished: 7-9, out of the playoffs

Summary: Of course, this was just last season. Most Lions' fans thought, based on the team's record and the injury situations for many other teams, the Lions were a lock to make the playoffs and win the North Division. Instead, they lost six of their last seven games and didn't make the playoffs.

Started: 7-2

Finished: 10-6, lost Wild Card game to Green Bay Packers 28-24

Summary: In back-to-back games, the Lions played the Packers. The Lions won the NFL Central the last week of the season to earn a home game in the Wild Card round of the playoffs the next week. Unfortunately, the Lions lost the next week when Brett Favre found Sterling Sharpe wide open in the endzone for the game-winning TD. I was at both of the games.

Finished: 12-4 lost to Washington Redskins in NFC Championship game 41-10

Summary: Best Lions' season of my lifetime. The Lions were trailing 17-10 at Washington at halftime in the NFC Championship game. I remember thinking to myself 'The Lions are one strong half of football away from the Super Bowl.' They were outscored 24-0 at halftime and haven't been close to the Super Bowl ever since.

Started: 5-2

Finished: 9-7, out of the playoffs

Summary: The Lions could've made the playoffs with a victory against the Bears during the last game of the season, but lose after the Bears' Paul Edinger nails a 54-yard field goal. And, of course, the loss helped spur on the Matt Millen era, eventually resulting in the Lions' 0-16 season in 2008. Bleak times were ahead for Lions' fans.

2000

Started: 6-2

Finished: 10-6, lost Wild Card playoff game to New Orleans Saints 45-28

Summary: Led by quarterback Matthew Stafford, the Lions' offense looked unbeatable at times. Detroit was 10-4 entering its last two games, and looking like a playoff contender. Instead, Detroit's defense couldn't stop anyone. The Lions lost their last three games, including the loss to the Saints in the playoffs.

Started: 6-2

Finished: 8-8, lost Wild Card game to Washington Redskins 27-13

Summary: I remember leaving the Pontiac Silverdome after the Lions beat the Rams to go 6-2. This team seemed like it was going places. But it wasn't. The squad lost its last five games, including the playoff contest to the Redskins. The Rams ended up winning the Super Bowl that season.

TRI-COUNTY HONORS VETERANS

World War II vets fought for our freedom

►16 million Americans fought in World War II, and slightly more than a million are still living

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Elmer Schupbach, 89, is one of 1,034,727 World War II American veterans still living to share their war stories and life history.

A member of the Curtis-Wolverton VFW Post #3253 in Fenton, Schupbach went into the Army at 18 and was discharged before he turned 21. He served in the Battery C 555th Company attached to the 104th Infantry, according to a Times story written by Jan Rynearson on Nov. 23, 2006. They were called the Timberwolves.

Schupbach fought in the Battle of the Bulge near the Ardennes Forest on the German-Belgium border, which according to history, was the worst battle during World War II in terms of losses to Americans.

"We were one of the first troops into Germany," said Schupbach. "I was on the front lines for 195 consecutive days."

“I was on the front lines for 195 consecutive days.”

Elmer Schupbach

World War II Army veteran

What he didn't know then was that one of the young men he served with would later become a father to a little girl who grew up to become First Lady Laura Bush. Her father, George Welch, was a master gunner in the headquarters battery.

Laura Bush planned a Veterans Day Breakfast at The White House on Nov. 11, 2006 in honor of her dad and fellow Timberwolves, including Schupbach. In October, he received a phone call from The White House regarding the event, followed by engraved invitations for him and his children. Several of his grandchildren also joined them on the trip.

In addition to the honor of meeting and dining with President and Mrs. Bush, Schupbach was able to meet with the 40 living vets from the 555th Unit Battalion and their families.

Elmer Schupbach is pictured here to the right of President and Mrs. Laura Bush, while he and his family were invited to The White House for Veterans Day in 2006. Schupbach and Laura Bush's father, George Welch, both served in the same battalion during World War II.

Almost 70 years after his involvement in World War II, this recent war memory in happier times remains his best memory of deadly battles well fought. Today, he enjoys socializing at the VFW hall with other veterans, and will definitely be observing Veterans Day this Nov. 11.

Observe Veterans Day in your hometown

►Local observances planned in tri-county area

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

This Tuesday, Nov. 11 will mark the 96th observance of Veterans Day, which marks the official end of World War I. An armistice, or temporary cessation of hostilities between the Allied nations and Germany, went into effect on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

Many local observances will honor Veterans Day 2014:

- The Fenton Rotary Club will host its annual Veterans Day Breakfast on Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 7:15 a.m. at Spring Meadows Country Club. Guest speaker will be author Teresa Irish, who will present "The Journey of the Letters," sharing her father's 1,000 letters written from World War II, to his parents and his sweetheart, who would become his wife.

The public is invited at a cost of $10 per person and veterans are free. To RSVP, contact Scott Ward at (810) 241-4848 or sward@dtidental.com.

- The Curtis-Wolverton VFW Post #3243 will hold a ceremony at the Fenton Gazebo at 11 a.m. The Honor Guard will conduct a wreath-laying ceremony at the memorial.

- One day prior to Veterans Day, the Curtis-Wolverton VFW Post #3243 will observe the national birthday of the Marine Corp. on Monday, Nov. 10, beginning at 3 p.m., with a cake cut by both the oldest and youngest Marine in attendance.

- The American Legion Post #149 and VFW Post #5587 will hold a ceremony at 11 a.m. at Lakeside Cemetery in the village of Holly.

- The Great Lakes National Cemetery will hold its 10th annual Veterans Day program at 11 a.m. Guest speaker will be Patrick Lafferty, state adjutant of the American Legion, Department of Michigan. The ceremony will include patriotic music, presentation of colors, a cannon salute, rifle salute and taps.

Summary

► This Tuesday, Nov. 11 is the 96th observance of Veterans Day, which marks the official end of World War I on 11-11-11.

Show your patriotism on Veterans Day

► Displaying the flag on Nov. 11 is a show of patriotic support to all veterans, both living and deceased

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Veterans Day is a day of celebration and honor, so it is a very appropriate day to fly a flag. Because it's not a day of mourning, flags are not flown at half-staff.

Here's how to honor Veterans Day by flying Old Glory:

- Attach the flag to the flagpole with the blue field in the upper left corner.
- Raise the flag to the top of the flagpole as early as possible in the morning hours (sunrise at the earliest).
- Leave the flag flying throughout the entire day of Nov. 11 as long as there is no inclement weather. If rain or snow develops, take the flag down unless the flag is made of weatherproof fabrics that won't suffer damage from moisture.
- Take the flag down at or a few minutes before sunset.

Thanks came later for many Vietnam vets

► Vietnam veterans recall their lack of support from government and country

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Gerald "Hawk" Hawkins, 68, remembers coming home from Vietnam after serving in the U.S. Marine Corps in the north part of South Vietnam from 1966-67.

"The guys who came back, from Vietnam especially, were not welcomed home," said Hawkins. "Not by our country, not by our government. Simply put, we gave the right of freedom to all U.S. citizens, while sacrificing our own."

All that has changed in today's non-war-time climate. "People stop me and come up to me at the grocery store and thank me for my time of service," said Hawkins, who always wears his "colors" on his cap, so they can see he is a Vietnam veteran from the U.S. Marine Corp.

"It means a lot to me. There's not much else I can say in return other than, 'thank you for giving me this honor.'"

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | SALLY RUMMEL

Hawkins has put a lot of his energy into veterans' advocacy issues, with active involvement at the Curtis-Wolverton VFW Post #3243, where he is Past Commander and Past Honor Guard Commander. "I was the only All-American Commander this post has ever had," said Hawkins, who led the post from 1992 through 1994.

Notes of thanks

Veterans Day

The members of American Legion Auxiliary 119 Linden would like to express our sincere appreciation for the men and women who served in the United States Armed Forces. Thank you for serving this great country. Thank you for protecting us. Thank you for the security we have and feel here at home. We know you sacrificed much for your country and all of us. And though you may no longer wear the uniform, we know you're always on call to serve and protect the freedom and security of the United States of America. We invite everyone to pause today to remember those who have fought for our freedoms. Thank you to all who have so bravely protected us.

Slow Cooker Chicken Tortellini Soup

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 lb. boneless, skinless chicken tenderloins
- 20 oz. fresh three cheese tortellini
- 2 to 3 C. fresh baby spinach
- 3½ C. low sodium chicken broth
- 2 cans (15 oz.) diced tomatos, undrained
- 8 oz. cream cheese
- 1 T. dried Italian seasoning
- salt and pepper, to taste
- 1 t. red pepper flakes (optional)

DIRECTIONS

1. Add the chicken broth, cream cheese, tomatoes, Italian seasoning, red pepper flakes, and chicken tenderloins to a large slow cooker. Cook on high for 3-4 hours, stirring occasionally.
2. About 20 minutes before serving, add the tortellini and continue to cook on high. Remove the chicken and tear into large pieces. Return the chicken to the slow cooker. Salt and pepper to taste.
3. Just before serving, add the spinach and stir. Once the spinach has wilted, serve immediately.

MALEFICENT

"Maleficent" explores the untold story of Disney's most iconic villain from the classic "Sleeping Beauty" and the elements of her betrayal that ultimately turn her pure heart to stone. Driven by revenge and a fierce desire to protect the moors over which she presides, Maleficent cruelly places an irrevocable curse upon the human king's newborn infant Aurora. As the child grows, Aurora is caught in the middle of the seething conflict between the forest kingdom she has grown to love and the human kingdom that holds her legacy. Maleficent realizes that Aurora may hold the key to peace in the land and is forced to take drastic actions that will change both worlds forever. PG, 1 hr. 37 min

'White-Coat Syndrome' or High Blood Pressure?

DR. ROACH:

My 21-year-old son is a college athlete, a sprinter, but he has had recurrent high systolic blood pressure readings since he was a senior in high school. He's generally easygoing and not stressed. Doctors always attribute the elevated results to 'white-coat syndrome,' since he is otherwise in excellent health and doesn't drink, smoke or use drugs. The last reading was 142/78. Once, a nurse had him rest quietly for a few minutes and rechecked the reading; it was lower, but still high. He just finished four months of rigorous basic training with the Army with no problems (his high reading on his physical was put down to nervousness), and he may now be anxious no matter where or when the reading is taken, but I'm worried that something else may be going on. Is there something we should have checked? — K.C.

'white coat' hypertension, or just hypertension. The best way of answering this is with a 24-hour blood-pressure monitor, which checks the blood pressure every 15-30 minutes while awake, and less frequently at night. If those readings are mostly in the normal range, we could conclude that he has reactive, or white-coat, hypertension. However, it is possible that he has hypertension. Healthy young people sometimes get hypertension, and he may be able to get his blood pressure down without medication, through salt reduction and relaxation techniques. But if he needs them, there are medications that will not affect his athletic abilities. I sometimes order an echocardiogram to look for changes in the heart that go along with high blood pressure. However, the elevated blood pressure readings are only of a few years' duration, so he might not have these yet. I think the 24-hour BP monitor is the way to go. High blood pressure is one of the most common ailments for the general population.
