Food trucks could soon set up shop in Fenton

New ordinance could allow three mobile vendors throughout the city

Fenton — The newest food options available in the city of Fenton next year may not be in a renovated fire hall or the new Cornerstone building, but could instead be in parking lots once Fenton City Council votes to accept a new “food truck” ordinance. The ordinance would allow three licenses to be given out.

Michigan State Police-Metro Post is completing its investigation of a hit and run accident that killed 21-year-old Jamie Garcia on Nov. 25 after a possible suspect came forward over the weekend.

Lt. Michael Shaw said troopers responded to Hickory Ridge Road near Bone Road in Rose Township at 11:30 p.m. on a report that a pedestrian, identified as Garcia, was struck and killed by a passing vehicle.

The Rose Township man was a 2011 graduate of Fenton High School where he played varsity football and baseball. He went on to earn associate’s degrees from Mott Community College.

Holly responds to its first ‘swatting’ call

False report leads to strong police response

A “swatting” incident is under investigation with the Holly Police Department.

For anyone who has not heard about past celebrity swatting pranks that resulted in extensive police response to the homes of Rihanna, Justin Timberlake, Selena Gomez and Clint Eastwood, “swatting” is the making of a hoax call to any emergency service to elicit an emergency.

Tis the season for shoplifting and retail fraud

Loss prevention staffs trained to detain suspects through ‘citizens arrests’

As stores deal with hurried shoppers, it’s likely that some of them might be there with less than honorable intentions. Retail fraud keeps loss prevention employees at stores and local police departments busy all year long, but especially during the hectic holiday season.

Loss prevention employees are trained to deal with offenders and in Fenton, calls to the Fenton Police Department are routine.

What would you do if you saw someone commit a crime? Would you try to stop them and detain them for police? Fenton Police Chief Rick Aro said

Upcoming trip helps provide
Christmas to 180 families

Local foundation in 17th year of mission to aid rural Appalachia

By Tim Jagielo

Holly Twp. — Four times a year, the Roos family house is overrun. Last Friday, their living room became an assembly line of tables heaped with clothing.

The kitchen counters were filled with food for their 15 volunteers and the front breezeway became an impromptu staging area for colorfully wrapped shoeboxes and tables of personal care items.

Buzzing around all of this was Shirley Roos, co-founder of Angel Haven Foundation. Shirley and husband Carl provide aid to approximately 180 impoverished families in rural western Virginia, at the Kentucky border, and this flurry of activity was for their December Christmas trip.

For their first trip 17 years ago, they packed 70 Christmas shoe boxes — lately they average 700, which weigh about 3,000 pounds total.

Shirley, 78, tends to handle the logistics of gathering the items, while Carl, 84, handles physically taking them down to Virginia, usually with Ray Pfenning of Davison as co-pilot. Concerning Carl’s age, Pfenning said, “I think he’s going to slow down — then he doesn’t.”

This week will be one of four trips they make each year. Each trip they trek at least 10,000 pounds, 550 miles one way, and drop off the assorted goods at a warehouse, on the property of a couple who then distributes the goods to families by request.

Before school starts in the fall, instead of Christmas shoe boxes they deliver school supplies. Shirley said the last trip they also took 200 back packs.

With this operation, it’s all about preparation. In a continuous cycle, once one trip is finished, Shirley and Carl will begin preparing for the next trip. Three weeks ago, Shirley began to separate clothing by age and gender, so the shoe boxes could be efficiently packed over the weekend.

On Friday Christie Lee (right) of Rose Township packs a Christmas shoe box, intended for a 6-year-old girl, at the Angel Haven Foundation volunteer weekend last week. The group packed 362 boxes, added to an extra 400 pre-packed by a local church group. The 702 boxes, along with thousands of pounds of other goods, are headed to rural Virginia this week.

Alive In Appalachia

In 2012, I followed Carl and the group down to Virginia, in what was their most difficult trek of the foundation’s existence, filming everything along the way. I followed the preparation for the trip also, and then spent a week exploring the lives of the people this Holly Township couple assist. I witnessed a cross section of mountain life, including the legacy of coal mining, and some surprising, and painful personal stories from near-strangers. The resulting 66-minute documentary is something I’m very proud of, and I am excited to be releasing the video at next week’s Fenton Film Series. The movie will be shown at the Fenton Community and Cultural Center, starting at 7 p.m. It’s free, and includes free refreshments from area businesses. A local racial clash, a national tragedy

When my fellow critics of Ferguson, Missouri police are reduced to arguing not whether, but how hard, Michael Brown hit police officer Darren Wilson, I think it is time to rethink what this scandal is all about or, more pointedly, what it should be about. I was not surprised that a grand jury did not indict police officer Darren Wilson in the killing of 18-year-old Michael Brown, but I was disappointed in the way that St. Louis County prosecutor Robert McCulloch announced it.

A grand jury normally is supposed to review a prosecutor’s evidence to see if the case is worth taking to court, where witnesses and evidence can be cross-examined and both sides can be argued. Instead, McCulloch presented both sides, raised doubts about contradictory eyewitnesses and gave Wilson four hours of unchallenged testimony that amounted to a case against the deceased. Judging by witnesses and a video of his earlier robbery, Brown was no angel. But neither was the prosecutor in circumventing the full, open and fair trial that Brown’s family, among multitudes of others, wanted to have. To outsiders, Brown’s symbolic value quickly outgrew his reality, partly because of the excessively secretive way the killing was handled by Ferguson’s po-ce department.

To the left, Brown became a martyr in the fight against institutional racism. To the right, he became a symbol of every grievance conservatives have against liberals and President Barack Obama.

It is not unfair to say that Brown could still be alive today if he had not responded to Wilson’s questions with punches to Wilson’s face and attempts to grab his gun, according to witnesses.

Why don’t media and activists care as much about black police who shoot white suspects? That question has been raised, after the killing of Dillon Taylor, an unarmed 20-year-old white man outside a convenience store in Salt Lake City. Officer Bron Cruz, identified only as ‘nonwhite,’ has been cleared of possible wrongdoing after an investigation.

The officer’s body camera recorded the entire incident, Police Chief Chris Burbank told reporters, once again demonstrating the value of putting such cameras on all police.

THOSE IDIOTS IN

Ferguson, Missouri denounce the arduous testimony of those who allegedly witnessed the killing of Brown. Twelve jurors listened to and trudged 70 hours of testimony that was riddled with conflict and improprieties. In the retaliation of facts, protestors destroy streets and towns. The question — what are you protesting?

How about putting Americans first

The framers of the U.S. Constitution sought to limit the power of government and expand individual liberty. President Obama sees it the other way. But there is another issue surrounding the president’s amnesty order for illegal aliens.

The unemployment rate among African-Americans is twice that of whites, which is why they should be outraged by the president’s action. Why then has the president focused on repairing their families, reducing crime in cities like Chicago where he launched his political career and allowing members of his race to escape from failed public schools that are robbing them of a future?

Joe R. Hicks, the former executive director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said: ‘President Obama strode into the White House promising to give the American people the audacity of hope. What we are witnessing instead, with his immigration agenda, is an audacious grab for power and an evisceration of the Constitution.’

Talk radio host Stacy Washington: ‘Every time this country has pardoned illegal immigrants, crime and black unemployment have gone through the roof. Crime soared and black unemployment went through the roof.’

Charlie Butlar, another black, conservative talk radio host, was even blunter: ‘President Obama will do with the stroke of a pen what 300 years of slavery, Jim Crow and legal segregation could not destroy the hopes and dreams of millions of black Americans.’

Apparently, the president thinks that since he won more than 90 percent of the black vote in his two elections and the Democratic Party can count on their loyalty for the foreseeable future, he can begin ‘importing’ new voters, who will surely be granted that right when Democrats bring up ‘fairness.’

As Rush Limbaugh noted on his show last week, if attracting new Democratic voters is not the primary motivation for amnesty, let Congress draft a bill that won’t allow them to vote for 20 years and see how Democrats react.

The president likes to call the illegals ‘dreamers.’ For millions of unemployed, underemployed and otherwise working African-Americans who have children trapped in failing schools because Democrats politicians won’t let them escape, their dreams have become a nightmare.

‘Old’ MEAP test replaced by new online exam

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

It’s out with the old and in with the new, when it comes to educational assessment testing.

Coming next spring, students in the tri-county area will be taking a new online exam that will replace the four decades old Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test.

Called the Michigan Student Test of Educational Progress (M-STEP), this new test is an online assessment with a paper-and-pencil option for school districts that aren’t technologically ready. This test is only a revised MEAP and state education officials are still developing a new exam for testing in 2015-2016.

This replacement exam will test grades three through eight in math and English language, grades four and seven in science and grades five through eight in social studies. It will include an assessment for grades three through eight and the Michigan Merit Exam (MME) for 11th-graders.

M-STEP will include questions developed by state officials and educators, as well as some developed by Smarter Balanced, a state-led consortium working to develop assessments alignment to the Common Core state standards. This consortium was rejected by state legislators because of its controversial association with Common Core — national standards adopted by a consortium of 43 states, including Michigan.

Here’s how three local superintendents are reacting to the new M-STEP exam:

Tim Jalkanen, superintendent of Fenton Area Public Schools, said that his district has been preparing for electronic testing for years, including a pilot program last year of electronic tests in various grade levels, which helped align their ability to provide seamless connectivity for hundreds of student workstations.

“As for the M-STEP test itself, we know so little about the content of the test, other than it is reported to be aligned to the Core Curriculum and that the state has the bank of questions Smarter Balanced created,” said Jalkanen.

When asked whether he thinks this new test is an improvement over the MEAP, Jalkanen said he doesn’t know enough about it yet to know the answer to that question.

Although there hasn’t been much information available on the new test, I’ve always believed that good teaching will result in good test results.”

Wayne Wright, superintendent of Lake Fenton Community Schools, said that its district’s students and teachers are doing what they can to prepare for the new test.

“We don’t know much about the test at this point, but we understand that some of the questions are from the Smarter Balanced questions,” he said. “We’re ready for the online technology of the exam.”

THE PERSON THAT responded to the presidential executive orders showed his lack of knowledge, just like Obama. The majority of the presidential executive orders take place at the end of their term. Unless Obama resigns now, by the end of his term, at this rate, he will have more executive orders than any of his predecessors.

I HATE TO tell you this, but your grandfather did not fight and die for his citizenship. When he was born here he was granted it just like the immigrants now.

I CAN’T BELIEVE how long people kept their Halloween stuff and dead summer flowers out. Glad it’s almost Christmas!

UNDER OBAMA HIGHEST national debt ever of $18 trillion, high levels of unemployment, illegal immigrants, high levels of people on food stamps, high levels of administration scandals and lies from the president and high levels of people not wanting Obamacare. Low levels of jobs, trust in government and Obama popularity.

OBAMA’S IMMIGRATION PLAN is a naked political maneuver that will not improve border security, will not penalize employers who hire illegals and will not deport illegals. There are somewhere between five and 11 million in this country. What this plan will do is increase the increased cost to schools, hospitals, our welfare plan, Social Security and eliminate jobs from hard working Americans.

This plan will continue to hurt those of us who pay taxes.

THE PROBLEM WITH Mr. Obama and executive orders isn’t how many he’s used but how he’s used them. Other presidents have may have issued more but they used them to implement laws enacted by Congress. Mr. Obama is using them to create new laws without Congressional approval.

County board asks township not to cut off power to Smith family

A resolution introduced by Oakland County Commissioner Bob Hoffman calling for Holly Township officials to maintain power services to a Holly Township family was unanimously approved.

For about two years, Hoffman has spoken out on behalf of Timm and Maria Smith regarding their 10-acre piece of property on South Holly Road. Hoffman and the Smiths have said numerous times that they believe that the township is illegally trying to take their property that has frontage on the Shiawassee River.

On Nov. 17, the township issued a series of blight and safety violations against the Smiths and has also threatened to shut off electricity to the family’s trailer home that they are living in. According to a press release by Hoffman, the Smiths were given a deadline of Dec. 17 to remedy the violations before legal action and fines are taken by the township.

On Wednesday, Nov. 26, Hoffman hand-delivered the resolution to the Smiths and township requesting that the Smiths power be maintained.

HIT AND RUN

Garcia was laid to rest over the weekend.
Shaw said the area in which Garcia was struck was rural, with no lights and he was wearing dark clothing. Early on, state police were looking for witnesses, and evidence collected from the scene was sent to the crime lab for analysis.
Shaw said over this past weekend, an individual came to the Post saying they might have been the driver that struck Garcia. Other witnesses have also been interviewed. Once the report is finalized, it will be forwarded to the Oakland County Prosecutor for review of possible charges.

State police are not releasing any information on the individual who came in, as detectives have not confirmed yet that this is the responsible person.

MAN TRESPASSES AT SEMINARY
A 23-year-old Fenton man was arrested for trespassing Monday morning. Sgt. David Reinfelder of the Fenton Police Department said police were called about a person possibly being inside of the old, vacant seminary on High Street at 9 a.m. on Dec. 1. Upon arrival, police saw the man exiting the abandoned home, attached to the seminary. The man said he was reminiscing and that he used to visit the place when he was younger. Since the fenced off, dilapidated and dangerous building is owned by Genessee County and is posted with ‘no trespassing’ signs, the man was issued a court appearance ticket for trespassing.

Fewer than half of the players on an online game site could name all 50 U.S. states, according to an article on CBS global. The game site is Sporcle.com, and after 10 minutes, this reporter was only able to name 42 states.

On this game, you do not need to actually locate where the state goes on the map, which would probably have the American people rating far below 50 percent. You just need to be able to name them and recognize the names correctly.

According to the stats shared by CBS global, 45 percent of players were able to get all 50, but the site doesn’t break down how many non-U.S. residents played the game. If you want to try to test out for yourself, just search for the geography category at Sporcle.com and it’s easy to find. It’s their top quiz in that section with more than 13 million plays.

More stats from the quiz showed that about 25 percent were able to name between 45-49 states.

The 10 most easily recognizable states were: Texas 97.6 percent; California 97.6; New York 96.8; Washington 96.8; Florida 96.7; North Dakota 93.8; Alaska 93.7; South Dakota 93.7; North Carolina 92.9 and Nevada 92.8.

The bottom 10: Indiana 82.1 percent; Iowa 81.9; Delaware 81.9; Maryland 11; Wisconsin 81; Massachusetts 80.6; Nebraska 80.5; Connecticut 79.9; Minnesota 79; Missouri 78.6.

So, when did we learn what and where our states are? According to Fenton schools, at the elementary level students start learning the 50 States. In kindergarten, students are taught Michigan and Florida. In first-, second- and third-grade, more states are added. By the end of fourth-grade, students should be able to name all 50 States.

According to Susan Welch, a fourth-grade teacher at State Road Elementary School in Fenton, fourth-grade covers the “Regions of the United States” and in this unit (and reviewed throughout the school year) is where they cover the 50 states and their locations. Students learn the 50 states in a variety of ways, including: computer and online games and apps; sequence games; songs (Nifty Fifty United States); and tying the states and locations into our current events (as an example: during the March Madness NCAA Basketball Tournament, she charts the location of each team on a U.S. map.

Welch said, “We believe our students leave the elementary level with a strong understanding and knowledge-base of the names and locations of the states.”

It’s possible that taking some fun and interesting quizzes online, like the geography games at Sporcle, could help adults master the 50 states all over again.

For “mobile vending facilities,” which is defined in the ordinance as any cart, structure, vehicle, or other physical establishment where the primary vending operation takes place of a mobile food establishment.

On Monday, city council worked out the details of the ordinance at their work session meeting.

The council discussed details such as how many licenses is enough to give out for the city, where food trucks could be located, and what sort of fees the city should charge. For the time being, the council agreed to stay within three licenses, and allow food trucks to set up shop as long as they are at least 150 feet from an existing brick and mortar restaurant.

Food carts can set up on public property or private property with written permission from the owner. However, they will not be able to operate on public property within one block of a city-authorized event without permission from the event sponsor. The carts would be allowed to operate between the hours of 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. within residential areas and between the hours of 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. in commercial areas. The fee is expected to be an annual cost of $300, however these details could all potentially change before the ordinance is officially voted upon.

The fee was subject to some debate, with some council members believing it should be more expensive. Councilman Scott Grossmeyer said he would be in favor of a larger fee, as he believed the food carts could increase the amount of work for the city’s Department of Public Works (DPW) due to an increase of trash collection from public trash barrels.

Councillor Les Bland said he was less concerned about the potential increase in work. “The fee has to be reasonable for vendors to come in at all,” Bland said.

Some council members shared concerns that a requirement of 150 feet away from brick and mortar restaurants may not be far enough. Councilman Bradley Jacob had concerns about imposing too much of a restriction would severely limit where the carts could operate at all. “If you get any farther than that you are going to start to create large areas where they just can’t exist,” Jacob said.

The council also discussed only passing the new ordinance for a trial period of a year, allowing the council to evaluate the ordinance and make changes before adopting it permanently.

Does Fido hate kennels?

▶ Consider hiring an experienced dog sitter

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@ctimes.com, 810-433-6795

For whatever reason, a dog just isn’t for your dog. Maybe he’s got anxiety, or maybe there was a dubious incident the last time you left for vacation, which left your canine in the care of strangers in a strange place.

Maybe your dog isn’t a dog, but a horse, and she needs someone to visit and feed her while you’re away.

Maybe you should consider a sitter instead. For some families, simply having someone drop in to check on their pet, feed, give water and take them out, makes a lot of sense.

Heidi Madsen of Fenton Township has been that someone, for 20 years. “A lot of my clients that I have, all of them have had horrible experiences being in a kennel,” she said.

Madsen said that like people, dogs like the routine of the familiar, and their normal life schedule. Some have separation anxiety, and an unfamiliar place like a kennel doesn’t help. So Madsen cares for the client’s pet — whether dog or livestock — right in their home, as to disrupt them as little as possible.

Over the past 20 years, her client list has exceeded 50, and has included friends, referrals and even musicians and movie actors, whom she cannot name. She covers all of the tri-county area, and will travel as far south as Brighton.

She’s not bonded or insured, and there’s no certification to sit for dogs. She does have a lifetime of experience with animals large and small. “It’s one of those things where you have to know what you’re doing,” she said.

Fortunately, she has never had a medical issue, but was always prepared for an emergency.

It’s important to note, that with dog sitting, situations of legal responsibilities should be directed at an attorney. For example, if a dog escapes and bites someone, what are the legal consequences, and for whom?

Practical tips for a dog sitter

“Really be confident, be strong in your skills that you have,” Madsen said, as animals tend to be able to judge character. Getting along with the animal is the single biggest thing that will make the sitting time go smoothly. Sometimes with standoffish dogs, ignoring them is the best way to get their cooperation.

A little preparation also goes a long way. She suggests meeting with the client (even if it’s a friend or family member) a couple weeks ahead of time. Find out what issues the animal has. Madsen said most of her clients’ pets have issues of some kind, and it’s important to know what they are in advance. Are they aggressive to humans, other dogs? Have they bitten anyone? Are they likely to make a break for it at the first chance?

Concerning a client’s home — just like with babysitting, know what to do, and who to call in an emergency. Where are the important numbers? Where are the circuit breakers in case you lose power? Does the home furnace have issues to know of?

Practical tips for the client

Check out your pet sitter first — ask for references. “Make sure the person coming into your home is reputable, with good references,” she said. Madsen believes that one-time dog sitting isn’t enough to be considered “experience” in her opinion.

As far as fees, Madsen charges $45 per day for a few check-ins, and $35 per day if she stays in the home for a few hours, taking the pet for a walk after feeding them. Other services may charge more. Madsen can be reached at housesitting-byheidi.weebly.com.
Then, of course, shoppers have to choose their TV size. Want something small for the bedroom? There are many great 32-inch screen options out there. For those who wish to experience a home theater experience, look for a 60-inch or bigger screen TV. Just make sure you have the room for it.

In addition, when it comes to prices, don’t just figure a high-priced name means quality. There are great inexpensive TVs and there are bad expensive TVs. Talk to a salesperson and they will surely be able to give advice on the best model based on needs and price.

According to techradar.com, this year’s plasma TVs are out, and they have been replaced by 4K/Ultra High Definition resolution TVs. For those who have no idea what this is, 3840 x 2160 pixels is the minimum for this type of TV, four times the resolution of full HD TVs. In addition, the prices have fallen to half what they were when they debuted about a year ago. A 55-inch Ultra HD TV at Kmart is approximately $299.

Another new player in the game of televisions is the curved screen. Have no fear, flat screen TVs are still the main choice you will find, but Samsung has been pushing its curved TV’s. While you also have the option of 3D televisions, techradar.com claims that they are near death. While 3D may still seem popular and prevalent on the big screen, it has been less popular when it comes to home viewing. While the 3D TV may not die out completely, it definitely fits the idea of a dinosaur electronic. 3D prices vary depending on TV size, brand and more.

Last month Fenton Kmart’s Jason Bellant II, said, “Smart TVs are a popular option right now.” Smart TVs are somewhat like smartphones, they give viewers access, via Wi-Fi, to apps and other online goodies. Who needs a BluRay player or gaming system to access Netflix when they can do it right through their television? Shoppers can get a Toshiba 65-inch TV for about $1,000.

How about LED or LCD? If anyone is scared of a bad former experience with LCD TVs, it may help to know that their technology has changed. Previously all LCD TVs were backlit by always-on, CCFL (cold cathode fluorescent) lamps. While shoppers may still find this ageing technology in cheaper sets, more expensive ones use a superior LED method. As far as LED sets go, opt for direct LED over edge LED.

Something else that is new in the world of televisions is OLED backing light, organic light emitting diode. This is brand new for 2014, and so far, LG is the only company to release full-sized OLED TVs. Combine the new curved technology with a 55-inch 3D OLED LG TV at Kmart for about $2,800.

OLED REVIEW
According to Will Greenwald at PCMag.com, “Last year, I reviewed the LG 55EA9800, $3,200.00 at eBay, a 55-inch curved OLED HDTV. To my utter shock, it managed to produce perfectly dark black, a holy grail of HDTV testing and the only way a screen can have the "infinite contrast ratio" some manufacturers have claimed in the past. I’ve been waiting for another OLED HDTV to test to see if this was some mysterious fluke or if the technology really can consistently perform that way. LG has now released the 55EC9300, a redesigned, WebOS-based follow-up model. Well, OLED is now two for two, and the 55EC9300 offers one of the best pictures I've ever tested in the lab. That image quality will cost you $6,999.99, though, so while OLED is now confirmed to be the future of HDTVs, it still isn’t feasible for most consumers today.”

“citizen arrests” do not happen very often with everyday citizens in Fenton. But, according to state law, the loss prevention employee who detains a suspected shoplifter at a store is technically making a citizen’s arrest. Any individual making a citizen’s arrest is also required to deliver the arrested person to a police officer without unnecessary delay.

Aro said, “This does not happen very frequently, with the exception of loss prevention employees detaining a retail fraud suspect. It’s important to note that this applies to felonies only, except for the retail fraud incidents.”

In 2013, Fenton police handled 74 retail fraud cases. So far this year, the police department has had 48. Aro couldn’t say for sure without looking at each case, but the majority of these retail frauds were the result of a loss prevention employee detaining the suspect.

To conduct a citizen’s arrest, Aro said the crime needs to be a felony — a serious crime. Things the citizen needs to take into consideration are whether they will realistically be able to detain the other individual and to determine if the suspect will become violent.

Aro said a safer alternative would be to be a good witness and not get involved. “See where they went,” he said. “We’d prefer that you be the best witness.”

“Don’t you know if they (the suspect) have a gun.”
Beating the Bronchos will be tough

T-C’s boys basketball squads are optimistic about new season

By David Troppens
dtroppens@timetwix.com; 810-433-6789

When it comes to the new tri-county boys basketball season, no one has more reason to feel excited than the Holly Bronchos.

The Holly boys basketball team returns pretty much everyone from its Metro League title team from a year ago. The Bronchos remain the favorites again this season.

Holly opens the season against a tough foe — at Detroit Country Day on Tuesday.

Last year the Bronchos went 16-5, but lost its district opener against the Grand Blanc Bobcats. Memories of that game fuel the squad this year.

“We came off a disappointing loss in districts. We had a big lead and killed ourselves. We are looking at putting that behind us,” Holly senior Parker Rowse said. “We are looking toward making this a season to remember not only for the seniors, but the community and everyone around us.”

Lake Fenton enters the contest with Holly with positives vibes as well. The Blue Devils travel to a like-for-like squad known much to work. Holly’s varsity basketball team.

Seven is enough for Eagles’ win

Linden’s limited roster proves strong enough in victory vs. Blue Devils

Lake Fenton — When the girls basketball preseason began the Linden Eagles knew they were going to have to learn how to play with limited numbers since there were only eight girls on the varsity squad.

However, those numbers shrunk to seven in the team’s opener against the Lake Fenton Blue Devils due to an injury to one of the players.

However, minus a couple of scares when it came to fouls, the Eagles made the seven-player team work out just fine at Lake Fenton High School on Monday night.

Led by Taylor Smith’s game-high 20 points, the Eagles had all seven active players play vital roles in Linden’s 65-31 victory against the Blue Devils in what was the season-opener for both squads.

“It started out kind of sloppy I thought,” said Smith, who also had six rebounds and six steals. “But for having just seven girls, I think we did pretty good. We just have to work together more. We started to get a few girls with some fouls, so we had to back off a little bit so we didn’t foul. But I think we did pretty good.”

“I had to change some of the things we do,” Linden varsity girls basketball coach Ben Varner said. “I could’ve gotten ourselves in trouble with pressing. We were fouling, reaching and grabbing, but that’s the way they like to play. We are not good at picking up at halfcourt. We do our best when we are pressing. We just have to do a better job at it.”

The press did work. Lake Fenton’s young varsity squad turned the ball over 36 times, including on 12 occasions during the first quarter. Those turnovers enabled Linden to take a 16-2 lead into the second period. Megan Kenney had three of her four steals in the opening quarter, helping spark the Eagles’ defense. Meanwhile, Sterling DeGyner, who finished with six steals herself, scored six of her 12 points in the opening quarter, helping set up the large lead entering the second period. The Blue Devils were able to cut the gap to 16-7 after a layup by Sierra Arroyo with 6:30 left in the first half, but the Eagles outscored Lake Fenton 19-4 the rest of the quarter. Linden went into the break leading 35-11, and the Eagles’ lead was never threatened in the second half.

All seven Eagles helped contribute to the victory. After Smith’s performance, Alexis Brandt had 14 points and seven rebounds. DeGyner had a big game, while Madison Maxheimer came off the bench to score seven and collect three steals and three rebounds. Kenney had nine rebounds before fouling out with one second left in the game, while Jordan Holscher provided six points and five rebounds. Lauren Klein didn’t score, but came off the bench to provide four steals, two rebounds and two assists.

“Madison and Lauren played awesome,” Varner said about his two players off the bench. “They went in, played defense and rebounded. I’m pleased with how they played tonight.”

The contest was a learning experience for Lake Fenton’s first-year varsity coach Brian VanBuren, as he saw his team play its first actual game. Arroyo, a sophomore, was probably the team’s biggest bright spot, scoring team-high 11 points, while also earning four rebounds and two steals. Sydney Sheyahchich had six points and six rebounds, while freshman Hannah Garty came off the bench and finished with six points, three rebounds and two steals. Autumn Beardsley had five points and two blocks, but found herself in foul trouble for most of the game.

“We need to relax,” VanBuren said. “Once (Linden) made a little bit of a run, it kind of rattled us. Part of it is being younger. We had two freshmen guards and a sophomore guard. And the speed of is something we didn’t expect. People say ‘speed kills’. You can’t replicate in practice what you see in games, and that came to fruition.”

Lake Fenton hosts Atherton on Thursday.

“I’m looking forward to Thursday,” VanBuren said. They say a lot of times, especially with football, you make your most improvements between game one and game two. I want to see if we can do that.”

Linden travels to Brighton today.

to area foe Linden on Tuesday for a 7 p.m. tip-off. The squad includes one of the area’s best players, point guard Chris Bell. It appears the Blue Devils have a squad that should earn their share of victories this year as well.

“The first five days of practice I thought from an intensity, energy and defensive standpoint were five of the best days I’ve seen as a player or a coach,” Lake Fenton coach Jake Erway said. “We had a bad day (after those five days), but we’ve been getting it back. I’ve been excited about what we have.

“We want to win a championship and we think this is a year we can contend for a championship and a district championship. If we rebound, take care of the ball and play defense the way we can, we can win a championship.”

Linden is a team coming off a three-win season, but the squad is excited about improving upon that victory total this season.

“Last year was kind of disappointing, but this year we have seven returning seniors and a junior and that makes this season a little exciting,” Linden player Kyle Korman said. “We have people with experience who had good playing time last year.”

“It’s nice having all of these returning seniors, and it’s cool I get to play with my little brother Tyler,” Linden senior Kevin Hoeberling said. “And we have a new coach for our senior year as well. That’s exciting.”

The Fenton Tigers were predicted to find third in the Metro League race by the conference’s coaches. The Tigers expect energy and depth to be the key to a successful season this year. Fenton also opens the season against the Holly Bronchos, hosting Holly on Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

“I’m most excited about our group of guys. We have really good team chemistry,” Fenton senior Austin Bossenberger said. “We have a lot of guys who have been in the program for awhile and it will be cool to see us come together. We have a lot of hard workers and that’s one of our symbols for this year. We are going to work hard and hold ourselves accountable every single day. Not necessarily the team, but also holding yourself accountable.”

“We have a lot of speed,” Fenton senior Beau LePage said. “We have a lot of young talent and a lot of good returning talent. We are going to work hard to improve every day.”

HOCKEY
Fenton/Linden Griffins: The co-op hockey squad advanced to the finals of the Hudsonville Invitational during the weekend.

The Metro League Griffins opened with a 5-2 victory against the Hudsonville Eagles, but lost to the Grand Ledge/Fowlerville Gladiators 6-2.

In the opening game, the Griffins trailed 2-0 after one period, but then scored the game’s final five goals. Brendan Buerkel scored three of them, including the game winner. The Griffins also got goals from Connor Phillips and Jonah Laimesse. Phillips and Brandon Dieder had assists.

The Griffins cut the gap to 2-1 after two periods, but led it the contest 2-0 just 30 seconds into the third period on Phillips’ goal. Buerkel scored the game-winning tally 4:03 into the final period.

The Griffins were strong while short-handed, killing off four power plays, including one during the final minute of the contest.

In net, Manny Vomvolakis and Adam Glomb made a combined 34 saves to assure the victory. Vomvolakis was a perfect 24-for-24 on his shots.

The Griffins always trailed in the title game once Grand Ledge/Fowlerville got the lead. Diener and Phillips scored, while Jake Thompson and Brendan Buerkel had assists. The Griffins hurt themselves by taking 15 penalty minutes during the course of the contest, resulting in three power-play goals for the opposition.

Natalie Miller played in net, making 28 saves. The Griffins (1-3) host Davison for a 6 p.m. contest at Hartland Sports Center on Wednesday.
Lake Fenton Blue Devils

Coach: Jake Erway
2013-14 Record: 10-10 overall, lost to Goodrich in opening round of districts.
Graduated All-TCT players:

Returning All-TCT players:
Chris Bell

Team summary: Last season the Blue Devils had talent, but hardly had a chance to play with their full compliment of players due to transfer rules, injuries and other issues. This year some of that talent returns and some of those past issues should be over with.

Five players return starting with Chris Bell. Bell has a chance to be one of the best players in the GAC Red, and will patrol the point. Tyler Browning is expected to be a leader on the floor and bring a strong work ethic. Jalen Miller made an impact at times as a freshman, and should become a better resource for scoring and competitive drive since he’s a year older. Isaac Golson is a guard who can get to the hoop and also get offensive rebounds. He’s also an outstanding defender. Tony Hathaway provides rebounding and Jake Zielinski provides gritty leadership. Others on the team include Jordan Bond and Ryan Sisk.

Coach Erway says: “We want to win a championship. We think it is a year we can contend for a championship or a district championship. We’ll have to take it a game at a time, need to build up our confidence with each game. If we do, I think a league championship is a reasonable goal for us.”

Prediction: The Blue Devils look like a team on the rise. This is a team that should finish above .500.

Holly Bronchos

Coach: Lance Baylis
2013-14 Record: 13-3 Metro champions, 16-5 overall, lost district opener against Grand Blanc.
Graduated All-TCT players:

Returning All-TCT players:
Returning Tri-County Player of the Year Jake Daniels, Joshua Simms, Kyle Woodruff.

Team summary: The Bronchos captured a Metro crown last year and appear to have even more talent this season than last. Ten players return on a squad that has only gotten deeper. This team has many scoring options. Jake Daniels, Kyle Woodruff and Joshua Simms all can score 20-plus points any given night, and at least once last year all three did in the same game. Parker Rowe will be the point guard, while Morgan Baylis and Isaac Casillas are two other strong options. Steven Redmond is the back up point guard, while Scott Maki is another strong perimeter shooter. Trevor Bland provides rebounding. Newcomers Paris Partee and Ian Hodges are quality players as well.

Coach Baylis says: “They are a great group of guys and are super dedicated, the most dedicated players I’ve ever had. We’re done with practice and 45 minutes to an hour later they are in the gym doing drills and pushing themselves. I can’t get them out of the gym. (Ex-San Francisco 49er coach) Bill Walsh said at some point in the season the coach has to turn the team over to the team. We are already doing that. We have the senior leadership and captains to do that right now.”

Others who should battle for playing time are Chris Gilbert, Partee, and Ian Hodges.

Prediction: The Bronchos have a great chance to make this one magical season. They are the favorites to defend their Metro League title and have a good chance to win the school’s first district title since 1982. It should be a fun season at the Horseshoe.

Fenton Tigers

Coach: Tim Olszewski
2013-14 Record: 8-8 in Metro, 9-12 overall, lost to Ortonville-Brandon in districts.
Graduated All-TCT players: James Chabot

Returning All-TCT players:

Team summary: The Tigers have six players returning from last year, and Olszewski figures the squad will go 10 deep on a nightly basis. Ross Ebert returns to the post after missing most of last season. Evan Welch should see some time in the frontcourt and returns as well. Alec Thomas returns on the wing, while guards Beau LePage, Dillon Gardner and Austin Bossenberger also return. Sophomore Nick Wyrick is 6-9 and is getting stronger every month.

Others who should battle for playing time are Chris Gilbert, Greg Lukas, Jake Cairnduff, Aaron Boulay, Peyton Coffman and Ben Hajcak.

Coach Olszewski says: “I enjoy being around these kids every day. They are working hard, all seem to get along with each other and to the best I can tell are giving me their best effort. I enjoy going to practice because they listen and work hard. As a coach, I’m having a very good time right now.”

Prediction: The Tigers were selected by the Metro coaches to finish third this season, and that’s probably a realistic goal for the squad considering Holly appears loaded and Flushing appears to be the clear second-best team. Fenton will work hard and should be a fun team to watch play. Expect the Tigers to return to the positive side of .500 this winter.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)
There could be an unexpected change in plans for your upcoming holiday travels. But keep in mind that a little flexibility goes a long way when resolving any disagreements.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)
A new relationship might not be responding quite as quickly as you’d hoped. Could you be expecting too much too soon? Try to ease up and let things happen at their own pace.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20)
As we approach the frenetic pace of pre-holiday planning, take time out now to reconnect with the wonderful people who share your life, especially the one who also shares your dreams.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22)
A misunderstanding should be resolved before you get caught up in the flurry of holiday preparations. Set your pride aside and deal with it, regardless of who might have hurt whom first.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22)
Being told that a colleague might have been trying to undercut your effectiveness might or might not be true. Get all the facts before you even think about acting on this so-called information.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)
It’s a good idea to start your holiday preparation plans early in order to avoid a time crunch if an unresolved workplace situation causes a problem. That old friend might have some welcome news.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
A family member’s actions continue to surprise you, but this time with positive results. Could be your wise counsel finally got through. It’s like having an early holiday gift, isn’t it?

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Your reluctance to act in a current workplace situation causes a problem. That old friend might have some welcome news.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
There could be an unexpected change in plans for your upcoming holiday travels. But keep in mind that a little flexibility goes a long way when resolving any disagreements.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)
Sothing hurt feelings before they can ignite an angry outburst is the wise thing to do. And, of course, when it comes to doing the “wis-dom thing,” you do it so well.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)
You might find that you still need to firm up one or two of those still-outstanding decisions so that you finally can move forward as you had planned. Weigh the facts, then act.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to March 20)
You usually don’t carry grudges, but you might feel this is one time when you’re justified in doing so. But aren’t you spending too much energy holding onto it? Let it go and move on.
