Whether you call it a sofa, a sectional, a couch or a davenport, this important piece of furniture is the focal point of most living and family rooms. Long-lasting quality and relaxing comfort should be the most important aspects of buying a new one.

"A quality sofa literally keeps your family together," said Rodney Willey, general manager of Fenton Home Furnishings, one of five independent furniture retailers in the tri-county area. Together, they carry hundreds of sofas on their showroom floors, as well as an infinite variety of fabrics, styles and designs through special orders.

Even better news is that these local retailers carry many U.S.-made sofas, so you're getting the quality of an American-made product when you buy a sofa in your hometown.

What most people don't realize is that sofas aren't always what they seem. The quality is built from the inside out, so it's most important to test the springs, feeling them through the upholstery.

"A sofa may look good, even if it's not well built," said Eric Klaus, owner of Kimberly Kay Furniture in Fenton for 18 years. "The first thing you want to look at is to be sure the coil seating goes into the base of the sofa. Everyone usually sits in one spot, and if it's a cheap couch with poor construction, it will sag in places." Sofa shoppers will find that the quality > of a bench-made sofa with each craftsman signing off on his or her part of the construction of the sofa results in a better quality end product than a production line quick assembly.

> That's one of the advantages of buying a U.S.-made product, rather than from a global manufacturer. Some of these brands include Hickory Craft, Flexsteel, King Hickory, LaZ-

Boy, Broyhill, LaCrosse, Ashley, Lancer and Elran, to name a few.

Several local retailers say that 80 percent of their sofa purchases are custom orders. "We've got more than 50 different sofa styles on the floor, but most people find a style they like, and then want to order it in a different color or fabric," said Willey.

YOUR SMILE MATTERS! By: Dr. Steven Sulfaro

GIVE KIDS A SMILE February 13, 2015 is GIVE KIDS A SMILE, a day designated by the American Dental Association for participating dental offices to reach-out to local area children in need. Our office is offering teeth cleaning, exams, x-rays, fluorides, sealants, fillings, etc FREE OF CHARGE for kids without insurance. Last year the dentists of the Genesee District Dental Society saw over 200 kids and donated a total of $25,000 in free dental care during Give Kids A Smile. Dental decay is the number one preventable disease found in children. If left untreated, dental decay can lead to pain, sleep deprivation, malnutrition, and potential life threatening infections. This is why the American Dental Association promotes Give Kids A Smile. My dental team and I have donated our time for Give Kids A Smile for almost ten years now. The kids are great patients; happy to be seen and the parents are so thankful and appreciative. One mother brought her three young children into my office for Give Kids A Smile. She explained how she and her husband have their own construction business and have been devastatingly affected by the poor local economy. They have not been able to afford for their children to see a dentist for two or three years. Her tearful "thank you" helped remind me of why I participate. If you know of families without dental insurance with school-age kids who need dental care simply call my office 248-634-7671 and we will get them scheduled with an appointment.

I welcome your questions and comments. Feel free to e-mail me drsulfaro@comcast.net

Watch repairer Sailor

- Pilot

By Sally Rummel news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Guenter Beholz was born and raised in Germany, where he learned the watch repair trade in a three-year apprenticeship that sent him out into the working world by the time he was just 17 years old. Working on a U.S. Army base in Germany as a civilian watchmaker, he came to Michigan in 1957 in a job he obtained through the military, working first at Groom's Jewelry in Flint. He then bought his own store in downtown Flint, moving his business to Fenton seven years ago. He recently moved Guenter Beholz Jewelers, Inc., with one employee, Reeny Sovel, to its new location at 104 South LeRoy St., near Fenton Flowers & Silks.

What is it about watchmaking and jewelry repair that has earned vour fascination for almost 60 years? I am a quiet person by nature. I like to do my tinkering. I had to choose a profession at a young age, that's how we did it in Germany. I always took little things apart. It fascinated me.

It's like being a musician. Anyone can learn all the notes, but you need to have some talent by nature to excel at it. You go on a course, and it almost sets your path.

How old are you? I can't tell you that. That's a secret. People can figure that out on their own. Look at my hands. No one at my age has hands like mine.

They don't shake or tremble at all. With today's electronics, is watch repair a dying art? There are very few of us who do this kind of work. I have more work than I have hours to do it all. My work is with mechanical watches, not those with batteries. I work on watches like Rolex, Breitling, Movado, Patek Phillippe, Constantine & Vacheron. These are watches that cost at least $20,000 each.

I use this as an example: You can drive from Fenton to Ann Arbor in a Chevette, but you can also drive there in a Cadillac or Rolls-Royce. You're still going to get there, but one's a much nicer ride. Watches are the same way.

I also work on many old pocket watches from Grandpa, that kids inherit and want to restore. No parts are available from ones dating back from the 1800s and 1900s; I have to make them. It's almost like being a tool and die maker. No one else does this kind of work in Genesee County. What are the oldest and/or most months ago. We worked together most of our lives.

How did you meet? We met at a birthday party in Davison. I didn't know anyone. I came by myself and so did she. We dated for three years and then got married. Our son has a doctorate in chemistry and lives in Ohio with his wife and three kids. One is in college, one is in the Army and the youngest is in high school. My daughter is a professional cellist who plays in symphony orchestras and teaches in Florida. Do you miss Germany? I miss the beauty of it. I still have relatives there and go back to visit every so often. I've always enjoyed living here. Maybe I was born in the wrong country! What do you like to do when you're not working? I used to sail the Great Lakes for 27 years. But it takes two to sail. Joanie was my first mate. Years ago, I used to belong to the Pilot's Club at Bishop Airport. Once in awhile, I fly with someone who has a plane. Mostly, I work. My customers become life family. We talk about things.

▶ Fenton school board president hosts session for area families with college-bound children

Many parents and students worry about finding ways to pay for college. An upcoming scholarship event to be hosted by Fenton Board of Education President Drew Shapiro will provide information to help families find potential scholarship funds. The free event will be held at the Fenton VFW Post #3243 on Saturday, Jan. 31.

The purpose of the event is to inform college-bound high school students and their parents on how to successfully apply for scholarships.

The session will also review additional opportunities to pay for college through special programs and volunteer service.

The discussion will be led by Vanessa Ferguson, who works as an instructor at Mott Community College. Her scholarships, which she was awarded in high school and college, paid for three college degrees including two master's degrees.

"I always tell people to buy the sofa first, then match the paint color to it, said Gary Suszek, co-owner of Stevens Furniture in Fenton with his brother, Jim "There are many more paint colors than sofa colors, so it will be easier to match." He added that it's helpful for people to bring in any swatches of fabric or paint from home to help pick a sofa that will tie in with other existing pieces or paint colors in the room.

Suszek also mentioned the importance of taking proper measurements from home, so that the sofa will be a good fit. "It always looks smaller in the showroom than it will in your home," he said.

Many sofas can actually be built custom from the floor up. "The Lancer brand is so well-built that you can have it put together anyway you want," said Klaus. "You can totally customize it and even choose your own fabric or leather."

Technology and style are two more reasons to check your local furniture store first. Power reclining sofas, especially in leather, are especially popular.

Style includes not only the shape of the sofa, its arms and feet, but also the leather or fabric, which puts the finishing touches on the look of the piece. "It's good to mix things up, like combining fabric and leather," said Willey.

Color is also a huge selling point, with gray being the most popular neutral.

Services from a hometown retailer will also outdo just about any furniture discounter. "We really want each of our customers to be happy with their purchase," said Willey. "That's why we offer an in-home design service with free consultation, to help customers know that what they're buying will be the right size, style and color for their home."

By Sally Rummel news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Kristen Short worked at Paychecks, Inc., a national payroll and human resource company, for more than a decade, honing her skills in customer service and education.

She built many relationships in those years by taking good care of her clients, and is now the owner of her own business, The Steelman Agency in Linden. This locally owned AAA office opened Nov. 28 in the Alpine Marketplace plaza. Joining her in her office is Chad Steelman.

The Steelman Agency sets itself apart from other agencies by offering not only a full-service insurance menu, but also AAA memberships.

"Everyone recognizes the AAA name and logo," said Short. "Now it's up to me to educate our local community about all the insurance programs we offer, from homeowners to auto, renters, motorcycle, boat, ATVs, life, health, as well as commercial lines like fleet lines and workers' comp."

Short decided to open a locally owned AAA office because of some of their unique insurance services.

"I shopped around for different insurance companies to represent and was most impressed with AAA," she said. "The average AAA member saves $450 a year on autoinsurance plans, plus discounts for multi-line, education and occupation. One particularly unique feature is that AAA can use the highest 'insurance score' of anyone in a household when computing automotive and homeowner insurance rates. This can be very helpful to someone who may have a less-than-perfect driving record or financial history."

Most people know about AAA's roadside assistance programs, but many people don't realize just how comprehensive and inexpensive they are. "You will have towing services, lockout services from your home or car," said Short. "AAA will help you if you run out of gas, get stuck in a ditch or you have a flat tire." They'll also offer limited legal reimbursement for AAA members who feel they've been unjustly charged for traffic violations.

Short added that clients need to have a AAA membership in order to get their insurance through AAA.

Clients will benefit from Short's long history of excellent customer service skills. "I make sure we'll return a call within a half hour," she said. "I know how important it is to be able to reach your agent."

We need a January thaw

Now that the message of peace on earth, good will toward men, is neatly packed away with the Christmas decorations, we're in danger of entering our annual relapse into business as usual. Though totally inconsistent with the message of the season we've been celebrating, this too often happens.

Those of us who live in a cold climate now brace ourselves for winter winds and lots of snow but we often look forward to a brief break, soon after the beginning of the New Year, called a January thaw. We could use one of those merciful warming times in most of our churches and in many of our homes.

Let's thaw the frigid feelings that divide us from others. Bitterness and strife between members of congregations can thwart the work of God, causing whole communities to suffer.

Melting spiritual ice is no easy task. Real and imaginary wrongs have often built up such strong barricades to blessings that true reconciliation among people who should know better seems out of the question. Yet our Lord came to reconcile us to Himself and commanded that we forgive others as we have been forgiven.

Through her tears, a woman told me how negatively her life had been affected by her unwillingness to forgive. Once she had been one of the most active members of her church.

Then she had become bitter toward another person in the congregation and as a result had spent two unhappy years over their disagreement. Now she realizes how foolish she had been to carry that old grudge and forgave her adversary.

The reconciliation of these two who had been at odds was great news. But the two years they had lost could never be regained.

A free flow of forgiveness would revive most churches. Barriers erected long ago would fall. Efforts now spent by church leaders in holding the church together and catering to warring factions could be given to reaching out to the community.

Power to forgive comes from realizing we have been forgiven. And both our own forgiveness and the ability to forgive others are the results of God's love.

The first century church was a tiny minority in a dangerous and hostile world, but they knew their situation called for unity so they laid aside their differences in order to fulfill their mission. They loved one other, forgave one another, shared their burdens and became known as people of one accord. We're still benefiting from the thawing among them that enabled them to reach their world.

The warmth of love in any church can be felt by members and visitors, as can the chill of congregational conflict. What's the feel of your fellowship?

Try forgiving those who have wronged you and you may able to start the needed January thaw that will revive your church and change your life.

DEAR AMY:

My 7-year-old daughter just had a psychological/educational assessment and her results put her in the 99.6 percentile in cognitive ability. We had her tested because despite her being a very bright toddler, her teachers were labeling her as a poor reader. We were not expecting the results we got. She's reading at an eighthgrade level. We think maybe she was labeled early on at school. What do we do with this information? We don't want to make any hasty decisions and put her in a gifted program. We want her to be happy. We want her to accept herself and to remain humble. - Concerned Mom

Costa del Sol is in the southern region of Spain, comprising the coastal towns and communities along the coastline of the Province of Malaga. Highlights of the trip include a full day tour of Seville, tour of Ronda, breakfast daily and five dinners, round trip airfare, all transfers between airports and hotels, seven nights first-class accommodations and more.

"We're working with a travel company, Journeys of Discovery that only works with chambers of commerce," said Shelly Day, chamber executive director. "It will be mostly a leisure trip, but there will be opportunities to get together with chambers of commerce in Spain. There is no minimum number of people required, so anyone who signs up will be able to go."

The purpose of the trip and raffle is to generate income for the Chamber, investing funds back into their new building for improvements, such as a possible expansion of their meeting room. "Our goal is to make a profit of between $5,000 and $10,000," said Day.

Interested travelers who send in their deposit before Feb. 28 will get $100 off the cost of their trip, from $2,799 down to $2,699. Chamber members will get another $200 off, making their final trip cost $2,499.

This year's Chamber Raffle, formerly the Car Raffle, will include a Grand Prize of two tickets for the Chamber Spain trip, or a cash prize of $5,000.

The raffle will also include second- to 11th-place prizes, valued at $250 each, awarded by these Prize Sponsors:

January defines a time for change. Already our Chamber begins 2015 with a few changes. First being that we are in our new location and accepting tenants. Second, Shelby has been promoted to Membership Director and third, we have a new staff member on our Team – Lee Mitchell our Office Coordinator. I am looking forward to working with this team. They bring fresh ideas, enthusiasm and a youthful perspective that will be sure to benefit our members and the community helping promote "Building Business ... Building Community".

The Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce is proud to be made up of many team players! If you are interested in participating on a committee or volunteering, please don't hesitate to contact me for more information on when they meet and the level of commitment. It is a great way to give back to your community, promote your business, build clientele and grow the Chamber! Below are the different team levels:

The Board of Directors – In 2015 we have 17 team captains. This diverse group of leaders guide and direct the Chamber throughout the year. They meet monthly to discuss and review progress as related to the Strategic Plan.

Committees – currently there are 15 teams (committees) that serve the Chamber. Each committee has approximately 5 team players on each committee. They are: Ambassadors, Business Development, Career Connections, Finance/ Operations, Governance, Marketing, and Political Action. Our events committees are: Forecast Breakfast, Community Expo, Linden Eggciting Event, Golf Scramble, Linden Gus Macker Event, Taste in Fenton, Event So Good It's Scary, Annual Awards Dinner, and Jinglefest. Being involved in a committee not only serves the Chamber but also benefits members through involvement in community, creating partnerships, and making business connections.

Volunteers – the Chamber's volunteer team is made up of an unlimited amount of players. Our events and programs utilize volunteers that serve in many different roles and are a necessity to our success.

The goal and purpose of each team is different but ultimately working with the same mission: to be a strong advocate for member businesses through services and resources, while fostering the economic vitality and prosperity of our region.

Thank you to everyone that participates on Team Chamber! No matter what team (committee) you're on or what capacity you serve, every player on our team makes a difference and contributes to the Chamber's overall success!

Wishing you continued business growth! — Shelly Day

2015: There is no better time to be a member of the Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce

2014 proved to be a very successful year for the Fenton Regional Chamber. During the past two years we have taken several big risks, some which have worked out and some that have not to the level we expected them to. However, as they say, 'no risk, no reward' and we have had more rewards than not. These successful risks ensure a strong chamber to carry forth the mission: To be a strong advocate for businesses through our services and resources, while fostering the economic vitality and prosperity of our region. Our priority is to promote businesses and provide education, networking and resources to our valued members.

Through our members, the Fenton Regional Chamber serves more than 500 businesses and close to 150,000 employees who live and work in our community. The strength of our Chamber is the volunteer leadership, where our members – our investors – design our programs each year at our board meetings as well as our board retreats and then come together to implement and make things happen.

In June of 2014 we moved into our new building on Adelaide and have started accepting applications for tenants of businesses who would like to lease office space from the chamber. This is another way we are looking to help small business grow within our community by providing a place they can start out, whether it is a new business or a home based business looking to expand out of their home office.

The Fenton Regional Chamber perfectly reflects the composition of our community with a range of large, medium and small businesses. Most of our members are small businesses and small business people can and do play an integral role in our leadership programs.

People do business with people they like, they know and of course the people they trust. And, combining these factors with all the attributes of our relationship with our local cities, the potential for business growth is unlimited.

I invite you to engage with us and explore how we can grow your business. Our active chamber has won the Michigan Chamber Award for the second time and with more than 25 events and programs, growing more each and every year. This year we are even hosting a Gus Macker basketball tournament in Linden at Hyatt Elementary on June 27th and 28th.

One of the most exciting events coming in October of 2015 is the Chamber trip to Seville, Spain! We are so excited about this unique opportunity to travel to Spain for nine days to see and meet other chambers, plus enjoy the south coast of Spain. Chamber members receive a special discounted rate for their travel package and if you book before February 28th, you'll save an additional $100 per person. For more details on the trip, please visit our website at www.fentonchamber.com.

The Board of Directors, ambassadors, staff and committee members are dedicated to delivering our mission and serving the member businesses. Best wishes to everyone and may 2015 bring prosperity and happiness to all.

'Business is booming'

▶ Business, government leaders learn about 'state of the tri-county' at Forecast Breakfast

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282 Business is booming in the tri-county area, and a record crowd was on hand to hear all about it at the Fenton Regional Chamber of Commerce Annual Forecast Breakfast on Tuesday, Jan. 13.

Rich Studley, president and CEO of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, honored Day and her staff at this event with the "Outstanding Chamber of the Year Award."

"We're blessed with extraordinary local chambers here in Michigan," said Studley. "The Fenton Regional Chamber demonstrates excellence in its programming, government, finances and advocacy.'

Fenton Mayor Sue Osborn and Fenton City Manager Lynn Markland talked about the dozens of new businesses that have opened or been renovated in 2014, and a trio of national franchises planning to open in 2015 — including cosmetic giant ULTA, fashion retailer rue21 and shoe retailer Shoe Show.

Certainly, the biggest business news in Fenton in 2014 was the completion of the Cornerstone building, according to Markland. Other groups and businesses expanded or remodeled their current locations, from $300,000 in renovations to the Jack R. Winegarden Library in Fenton to Lasco Ford's $2.5 million in new construction and renovations to its existing building. Creative Foam added a $250,000 engineering building and Blessing Plumbing & Heating has erected a brand new building on LeRoy Street, to name just a few projects.

The biggest project in Fenton in 2015 will be its $4.5 million streetscape project, which will add streetscape furniture, LED lighting and repainting of current poles, wider sidewalks for more walkability, brickwork and new landscaping/ trees. The project is expected to begin in April with tentative completion in spring 2016.

"There will be one lane open for traffic at all times," said Markland, "Funding for the project will include $1.9 million in federal and state grants."

Funds from the state of Michigan will also provide reconstruction of the Silver Lake Road bridge.

Fenton City Council goals for 2015 will include the North LeRoy corridor, bike paths and usage opportunities for the Topps parking lot and grain elevator downtown. Future plans in the city may include a permanent farmers market in downtown Fenton, trolley, sidewalks and neighborhood local streets program.

Linden Mayor David Lossing spoke about the $900,000 of infrastructure improvements to the city, from funds from the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). Improvements included road assessment studies, a $12,000 grant for early warning fire systems, 77 new LED streetlights and 44 repurposed light poles, exterior improvements to the Linden Mill building, a paved subdivision and a DDA parking study, which showed that Linden has ample parking.

"There's also been an uptick of new businesses, seven in the last year," said Lossing.

The mural painted on the outside of Linden City Hall spawned controversy, but also the emergence of the Linden Arts Council. According to Lossing, community events were well attended, from

Back-to-the-Bricks to the Linden Farmers Market and Keepers of the Shiawassee Flotilla. Linden is excited to welcome the Gus Macker Basketball Tournament downtown in 2015, with an expectation of 3,000 to 5,000 downtown. "Nineteen new businesses opened in Holly and 2015 will already see two new bakeries coming, the Davisburg Bread Company and Cupcakes & Kisses downtown." He added that the Dickens Festival enjoyed a huge resurgence this year with George Kullis as chairman "crucial to its success."

In his keynote address, Rich Studley said that Michigan will have a good 2015, with this state already moving up nine spots to 30th in Michigan Chamber Foundation's 2014 study on Economic Competitiveness by Northwood University.

"For a strong business community, it's important for our chambers to be involved politically and in our courts,' he said. He mentioned the importance of becoming informed about the May 5 Special Election on the increase on the sales and use tax to raise $1.7 billion for roads, schools and revenue sharing for local government.

"The Michigan Chamber is neutral at this point on this proposal," he said. "It's very important, very complicated, with lots of moving parts," he said.

Macker. Scott McNeal is the face behind the name Gus Macker. He was the creator in 1974 and is the owner. The first tournament was held with 18 of his friends at his parents' home. Each player paid $1 to compete, and teams were created through a draft. The winning team won the prize of $18. The tournament was moved to Belding in 1987 with more than 10,400 players competing in five events in five different cities that first year. Since then, Gus Macker's 3-on-3 halfcourt basketball tourneys have been held in 75 cities all around the United States with more than 2.2 million players of all ages and both sexes competing.

"The first 13 years we played it in my parents' driveway," McNeal said. "My parents' driveway wasn't massive. Two cars could fit in it and that's about it. We went from 18 players that first year to 30 the second to 36 the third and then it got pretty heated because the money was getting higher."

The tournament was changed to teams winning trophies instead of money so the players could maintain their amateur status. McNeal said at its peak in 1992, the Belding tournament hosted 5,400 teams.

Koledo and McNeal expect the event to attract up to 200 four-player teams. Players usually range from ages 8 to about 50. Teams are slotted in pools with teams of similar size, age and ability. Games are played 3-on-3 with communities has become the anchor for other community activities during the weekend. That's Koledo's ultimate goal with the Linden event.

"I've seen what it has done to other small towns. We could expect 4,000 to 7,000 people coming around," Koledo said. "Gus Macker brings shoppers to town.

"I'm hoping eventually to create more of a community festival around the Gus Macker if it is successful and works well. Maybe have a carnival or fireworks. But we're going to go slow and try to build on its success."

Linden's athletic and music boosters will be doing a lot of the volunteer work and will be among those financially supported through the fundraising event. Games will be played outdoors at Hyatt Elementary School and Linden Elementary School. The high school campus will be used for parking. More information on registering a team can be found at www.macker.com. McNeal said team registration fees have yet to be released.

Scott McNeal starts an 18-person tournament hosted in his parents' driveway.

The event grows to three courts, but remains hosted at McNeal's parents' home.

1986

It was the last year the Gus Macker was held at McNeal's parents' home. By then, the tournament included 88 courts and 1,100 teams. Sports Illustrated wrote a feature about the event in 1985.

1987

The first Gus Maker away from McNeal's parents' home is hosted in Belding, which has become the new home for the Macker. Five events are held throughout Michigan during 1987.

1992

The Gus Macker hits its peak as the Belding tournament hosts 5,400 teams.

2015

About 30 Gus Macker tournaments are scheduled for this summer as far south as Florida and as far west as New Mexico. Linden will host its first tourney on June 27 and 28.
