“Skiing is easier to learn, but harder to master. Snowboarding is harder to learn, but easier to master.”

Kurt Payne,
Mt. Holly assistant ski school director

BASIC SKI TERMS

WEDGE

To “wedge,” to slow down on skis, and being able to stop by pointing the skis inward. Called “pizza” for younger students.

EDGE

The sharpened metal strip on the sides of skis and snowboards, used for gaining control by biting into the snow for smoother carving.

PARALLEL

“Parallel” skiing: when the skis are pointed straight, to go forward. Kids learn it as “french fry.”

Ideal 2015 ski season has nine weeks left

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Groveland Twp. — While the casual skiers have fun on one side of Mt. Holly Wednesday night, high school teams, including the Fenton/Linden Ski Team, compete on the other.

Amidst all of this, Josh Petrusa, 13, of Ortonville was receiving a lesson in order to get his advanced “white patch” from instructor Jeff Strausser. The goal for a lesson is simple — make sure they learn and have fun.

This is of course what skiing is all about. The tri-county area is fortunate to have most types of recreation nearby. The current ski season will last until around the end of March, depending on the weather.

“Our snow conditions are amazing right now,” said Kurt Payne, assistant ski school director.

Payne said learning to ski or snowboard is a great way to break up the Michigan winter, adding that it’s a full-body workout as well. New students range in ages 3 to 80 and Chuck Gosh is an instructor in his 80s. There is terrain for all ages and skill levels.

SKI

For anyone looking to try out skiing for the first time, Payne recommends a ski lesson, to learn how to be safe and in control on the slopes, and renting equipment onsite.

There are private one-on-one groups and group lessons. For skiing, groups range from six to eight participants, snowboarding has four to six. "Skiing is easier to learn, but harder to master," said Payne. "Snowboarding is harder to learn, but easier to master."

Payne said that skiing better mimics more familiar activities like walking, skating or rollerblading, whereas with snowboarding, you have to get used to your feet strapped to a snowboard.

If you decide to get serious about skiing, buying goggles, ski boots and proper attire for warmth is important. Payne said that new skiers can sometimes be unprepared for the cold and wet weather.

"I took my vehicle to the service department for a few minor repairs and an oil change. Chris has always been extremely helpful every time we have come into that department. I must say, being a busy mom, Nurse and Doctorate student, I appreciate him having everything ready when I got there to drop my car off. The loaner car was warm and waiting and he reminded me that my first 4 oil changes were free. I had no idea about that. Then when I dropped off the loaner car, I went out to get my car and the windshield was all frosted over and I don't have an ice scraper, so your guys were right on it and had it all cleaned and ready for me to head off to work. Great experience as always!!!"

Holly Washington Club hosts 120th luncheon

►George Washington favorites — ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans and cherry pie

By Yvonne Stegall

ystegall@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Poet Robert Frost once said, "I often say of George Washington that he was one of the few in the whole history of the world who was not carried away by power."

This humbleness of Washington may be why one of our founding fathers is still celebrated each year by the citizens of Holly.

The Holly Washington Club is the oldest continuous running George Washington Club in the U.S. Each year, they honor Washington with a banquet to celebrate his birth.

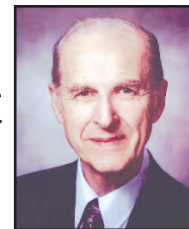

This year marks the 120th year, and the banquet will be hosted at the First Baptist Church, 15030 North Holly Rd., on Thursday, Feb. 19; beginning at 12 p.m. Tickets are $7.

Lunch will be served, including cherry pie. Traditionally, the meal consists of ham, scalloped potatoes, carrot salad, green beans and rolls. They will also have a speaker.

Guests will enjoy great food, patriotic songs and good company. In order to be part of this Holly tradition, reservations must be made by Thursday, Feb. 12 by calling (248) 634-5393 or (248) 634-7382.

Feeling incapable? Join the club

Immense potential lurks within each of us waiting to be used for the glory of God and the good of others. Unfortunately, much of this vast reservoir of talent and energy remains unused because of the fear of failure. Perhaps you're one of these reluctant ones.

Opportunity keeps knocking but you're afraid to open the door. Highly talented people make you feel inferior so you retreat from meaningful service to your church and community. You'd like to get involved but are afraid to take the risk. Consider a few others who might have been overcome by the fear of failure had they listened to their critics and surrendered to their doubts.

Einstein couldn't speak until he was 4 years old and didn't read until he was 7.

Beethoven's music teacher said of him: 'As a composer he's hopeless.'

Thomas Edison's teacher said he was unable to learn.

Walt Disney was once fired by a newspaper editor because he was thought to be without ideas.

Caruso was told by one music teacher: 'You can't sing. You have no voice at all.'

An editor said Louisa Mae Alcott, who wrote 'Little Women,' would never be able to write anything that would have popular appeal.

Dwight L. Moody, now considered one of the most effective evangelists of all time, had but a fifth-grade education and once wept before an audience, saying 'God forgive a man who cannot properly speak the English language.'

The disciples of Jesus were without impressive credentials, being called ignorant and unlearned, but their contemporaries found it impossible to ignore them because their lives demonstrated they had found something others needed. Their dedication, courage and faith made them world changers (Acts 17:6).

God seems to enjoy using weak but willing people to do great things to the amazement of those who are thought to be better qualified. The following title of a book I noticed in a pastor's library once caught my eye and lingers in my memory: 'Why God Uses Nobodies.' Though I've never read the book, its challenging title keeps encouraging me to attempt things I might have thought too difficult for me to do.

Have you been afraid to get involved? Do you feel incapable of accomplishing anything important?

Reject those negative thoughts. You're a candidate for greatness. Others need what you have to offer. Don't waste your life sitting on the sidelines. Get into the game.

Start where you are and see what adventures open to you. Join the club of the weak but willing, whose members have refused to be counted out and are now remembered as people who made a difference.

FUNERAL ETIQUETTE

How long should I stay at a visitation?

It is only necessary to stay for a short time; fifteen minutes or so gives you enough time to express your sympathy. Your simple presence will mean a lot to the family. You do not need to stay for the entire visitation, but try not to leave during any prayers that might be offered.

Facebook pictures make friend want to block

DEAR AMY: Three of my Facebook friends are over-the-top animal lovers. They find the worst cases of animal abuse and post pictures of them. I find them shocking (at best). On numerous occasions these photos show tortured animals. These are truly terrible. I get it. I know that some animals are abused. I don't need to see the pictures to be convinced. Can you suggest how I might encourage these Facebook friends to help these animals without posting pictures? I would appreciate your help. — Visually Assaulted

DEAR ASSAULTED: One great thing about Facebook is that you can roll up your trouser legs and publicly wade into any debate — or you can quietly 'hide' posts from people who share objectionable content. If you want to challenge these friends to do more than post snuff pictures, you can comment beneath a photo: 'It would be great to find out what you are actually doing about this, aside from sharing this horrific photo ...' I wouldn't recommend this course of action because, well, people get crazy. I have a Facebook friend who is also an animal advocate. I notice that she periodically warns Facebook friends, 'If you post horrific photos of animal abuse, I will 'block' you,' and then, presumably, she does.

Why saturated fats are unhealthy

DR. ROACH: I have a question about hydrogenated and partially hydrogenated fats. What is the difference? Nutritionists tell us to look out for partially hydrogenated, but never mention the other one. Seems to me both would be bad for you. — D.D.F.

ANSWER: You are quite right. There are four kinds of fat. Two are healthier — monounsaturated and polyunsaturated, and these are found in healthy oils, like olive oil and canola oil. Two fats are unhealthy — trans-saturated, also called partially hydrogenated, and saturated, which is fully hydrogenated but isn't ever really called that. Trans-saturated fat is not healthy. Food companies make it by adding hydrogen to vegetable oil at high temperature. The chemical bonds are "trans," which are not normally found in nature. The process makes the fat more solid at room temperature. It isn't much of an exaggeration to call trans fat toxic, since even modest amounts increase risk for heart disease from blockage of the arteries. I recommend as little trans fat in the diet as possible — preferably none. Saturated fat isn't healthy either, but it isn't as bad for you as trans fat. There are two major kinds of saturated fat: Those that come from animal products (butter, red meat), and those from tropical sources, like palm and coconut. Most experts think tropical saturated fats are not as unhealthy as those found in animal products. Nonetheless, I recommend keeping saturated fat intake low. The American Heart Association recommends less than 16 grams for a person on a 2,000-calorie-a-day diet.

FRENCH ONION SOUP SLIDERS

Prep Time:	Cook Time:	Makes:
10 mins	40 mins	12 Servings

- INGREDIENTS:
- 2 sweet onions
  - 3 T. butter
  - 2 lbs. ground beef
  - 2 T. beef base
  - 1 t. onion powder
  - 1/2 t. celery seed
  - 1/2 t. dried parsley
  - 1/4 t. ground black pepper
  - 2 T. butter
  - 8 oz. Grand Cru cheese, grated or very thinly sliced
  - 12 toasted slider buns, split in half

Recipe from bunsinmyoven.com

- DIRECTIONS
1. Cut onions in half and slice into half rings.
  2. Heat a medium skillet over medium heat and melt the butter.
  3. Once the butter has melted add the onions and cook over medium low heat for 30 to 40 minutes, stirring every couple of minutes, until the onions are caramelized. Add a little water if the onions start to dry out or burn.
  4. In a large bowl, stir together the beef base, onion powder, celery seed, parsley, and black pepper. Add the ground beef to the mixture and use your hands to work the seasoning all throughout the beef.
  5. Break the mixture in half. Break each half into half again. Separate each portion into 3 chunks of meat and lightly roll into balls.
  6. Heat a griddle or large skillet over high heat. Add enough butter to coat the bottom of the griddle or skillet.
  7. Place the balls of meat at least 3 inches apart on the griddle and let cook on high for 2 minutes or until the bottoms are nicely seared.
  8. Flip the meat over and immediately use a spatula to press the ball straight down to flatten it out. Continue cooking for 2-3 minutes and then flip. Top with cheese and continue cooking until the cheese has melted and the burger is done to your liking.
  9. Repeat with remaining burgers as necessary until all are cooked, adding more butter to the griddle as necessary.
  10. Place the burgers on the buns, top with the caramelized onions, and enjoy!
