Fenton — Providing the weather stays dry, ground will be broken Monday on the Streetscape project for Phase I, which is the work south of the Shiawassee River to Elizabeth Street.

The orange barrels were already out along LeRoy Street and traffic was rerouted on Friday. Alan McComb with engineering firm OHM said small exploratory excavations for utilities will begin next week, along with street-top milling.

Should Fenton schools keep IB program?

► Committee formed to see if $525,000 annual cost is worth it for students, taxpayers

By Sharon Stone
sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

A committee has been established to assess the educational and financial components of the district-wide International Baccalaureate (IB) program at Fenton Area Public Schools

Summary

► A committee of parents, teachers, and administrators is researching Fenton Area Public Schools' IB program to see if the $525,000 annual cost is appropriate for its students and taxpayers.

(FAPS), which was implemented seven years ago.

The IB program focuses on how teachers deliver curriculum and getting the students more engaged in learning.

The committee, comprised of four parents, four teachers and four administrators, has been meeting twice a month since January to investigate the program. School board members may sit in on any of the meetings.

Opinions vary widely as to whether the approximately $525,000-per-year cost of the IB program is worth it. This amount is approximately 1.7 percent of the total school district budget of $30,305,584.

Superintendent Timothy Jalkanen said it's important to do this assessment of the IB program, which is in all of the district's schools and classrooms. This study is expected to be complete at the end of the current school year.

Laws for calling (and not calling) 911

For many of us, our original reason for acquiring a cell phone was the ability to call 911 for help in emergencies. According to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), 70 percent of 911 calls are placed from wireless phones, and that percentage is growing. With that gift and feeling of safety, comes increased responsibilities and unfortunately an open door for anonymity and time and resources wasted with prank calls.

Read this before you make any decision regarding your Social Security benefits

► Multiple strategies available for maximizing your retirement income

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Social Security is the largest retirement asset for most Americans, but if you simply begin taking benefits at the earliest possibility without doing any strategizing, you might cost yourself a lot of money.

In the book, "Get What's Yours: The Secrets to Maxing Out Your Social Security" author/economist Laurence Kotlikoff lists six questions you need to consider before making one of the most important decisions you'll be making during your retirement planning. Here are the excerpted answers from an interview with USA Today.

Q. How important is Social Security to most people's financial strategy in retirement?

A. Think about your Social Security benefits as another investment that must be managed. There are many different options and strategies for married couples, divorcees, widows, disabled workers and people thinking about getting married or divorced.

Q. What are the options for taking Social Security?

A. Full retirement age is 66 for those who were born between 1/2/1943 and 1/1/1955. If you take Social Security benefits before your full retirement age, the benefits are subject to a reduction for every month you do so, i.e., if you take it at 62, you'll have a 25 percent lower monthly payment.

The Social Security Administration raises your personal retirement benefit by 8 percent for every month you wait to claim your benefits beyond your full retirement age, continued through age 70. For example, if your SS benefit was going to be $1,000 at full retirement age at 66, it would be reduced 25 percent to $750 if you claim those benefits at 62. If you wait to age 70, it would raise to $1,320.

Q. Who is eligible for Social Security benefits?

A. If you have worked in covered employment for 40 quarters, you can receive retirement benefits and also potentially provide spousal benefits to current and ex-spouses as well as your children. Check out your benefits at ssa.gov/myaccount, which the agency calls my Social Security.

MINT.COM

Knowing when to start collecting your Social Security benefits will make a difference in maximizing your retirement dollars.

Q. How does the Social Security Administration determine your benefit amount?

A. Social Security calculates a special average of your past (the highest 35 years) covered earnings, which it calls your Average Indexed Monthly Earnings. It then plugs your AIME into a formula that generates your full retirement benefit or primary insurance amount. Those with more contributions get the largest benefits.

Q. What is the biggest mistake people make with Social Security?

A. People take their benefits too soon, because they are worried about dying before they collect. In so doing, they may reduce or lose entirely the auxiliary benefits. They can also reduce the widow(er) benefits they can provide their current and former spouses. If you die early, you won't need the money. The real risk is living until 100 on relatively low benefits because you were impatient and took reduced benefits before your full retirement age. Benefits in real dollars (inflation adjusted) are 76 percent higher if you start them at 70 than if you start them at 62.

Q. So when do you recommend folks start taking it?

A. The optimal strategy is different for each household. Some workers should wait until 70. Others should file early to enable their wives, children or ex-wives to collect, based on their work record. But if they do so, they have the option of suspending their benefit at full retirement age and starting it up again at 70 at a higher value.

For married couples, the optimal strategy is a joint one. The optimal collection decisions one spouse makes depends on what the other decides and vice versa.

“It's really critical for almost all of us to get this (Social Security retirement benefits) 100 percent right.”

Summer job market looking good for teens

►Be ready to apply now for local summer jobs

By Sally Rummel

Local teens who want to find a job this summer will find quite a few “now hiring” signs at area businesses, especially those who cater to seasonal employment.

“For a young person who wants a job, this is going to be a better year to do so,” said Chris White, owner of Fenton Farms Golf Club in Fenton Township. “Now employers have to be attractive to job seekers. We’re hoping for a robust pool of talent this summer.”

Fenton Farms will bring in about 20-plus seasonal employees, the majority of whom are high school and college-age kids.

Dry conditions creating high brush fire threat

►Wind and open burns lead to rapidly spreading fires

By Tim Jagielo

tjagiolo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Fenton—As the Fenton Fire Department's brush pick-up truck rolled out to the edge of the property, Adopt-A-Pet Program Director Jody Maddock watched the 300-foot-wide brush fire beginning to encroach on their property.

The fire department stamped the blaze down, which singed a large lot that butts up to Adopt-A-Pet, leaving behind black, scorched earth. Firefighters hosed down whatever hot spots remained, knocking down the white steam that flowed out of certain areas.

At about the same time, the Argentine Township Fire Department dealt with an acre-sized fire and Fenton Township Fire Department also had their own fire that day.

The rain on Wednesday handed departments a short reprieve from the possibility of more brush fires, but the dry air and lack of green grass coupled with wind and warm temperatures make it ideal for brush fires. On Tuesday, the mercury didn't rise above 40, but it was dry and sunny enough to encourage the fires.

“Monitoring conditions and common sense are the two most important things,” said Fenton Fire Chief Bob Cairnduff. “People need to evaluate the surrounding area where they are going to burn and monitor the weather conditions.” After calling 911, he urged anyone witnessing a brush fire to carefully alert anyone in homes in the fire's path. His department dealt with four already this week.

While some municipalities issue burn permits, Fenton does not. The city does allow small, contained recreational fires.

Fenton Township Fire Chief Ryan Volz said that fires tend to start with open burning of brush or garbage. An ember is carried out by the wind and dropped into a dry grassy spot, which goes unnoticed until it erupts into a brush fire.

“If you see one, stay away from it, the wind can change direction in a split second and bring it on top of you,” said Volz. Of course, if you see it, call 911, but otherwise stay away.

Words with friends

Due to the brevity required by chronic tweeting and texting of useless (and mostly mindless) information, humans are losing their written communication skills. I can't help with that, but I can help with verbal skills. With over 171,000 words in the English language, it's understandable that we all are going make occasional mistakes in pronunciation. Here are a few of the most common mispronunciations that we all speak and/or hear on a daily basis.

And so, in no particular order:

■ Kilometer: In my experience, 99 percent of us pronounce it incorrectly. The stress is not on the second syllable, as in 'kill-AH-meh-tur,' but on the first syllable, 'KILL-oh-mee-tur.' Clue: if it describes

By Foster Childs

If I Were King

distance, the emphasis is on the first syllable (think centimeter, millimeter, etc.).

■ Mischievous vs. Mischievous: This is actually something I learned pretty recently. It's not pronounced 'mis-cheev-EE-us' — it's pronounced 'mis-CHIV-us.'

■ Heighth vs. Height: Here's a clue, heighth is not a word. Blame carpenters for saying 'heighth and width' when it should be 'height and width.'

Don't even get me started on 'breadth.'

■ Zoology: Everybody pronounces it 'zoo-OLL-oh-gee,' when really, it's just 'ZOO-loh-gee.' To be 'zoo-oll-oh-gee' would require three Os in a row. Clue: there is no English word with three consecutive Os.

■ Candidate: With a presidential election looming, I will go crazy hearing people say 'can-a-date.' It's 'can-di-date,' pronounced exactly as it is spelled.

■ Clothes: My guess is that 99.9 percent of us pronounce it as close. The correct pronunciation is 'clo(th)es.' Yes, the 'th' is awkward to say, plus it makes you sound as if you have a lisp (really, they had to put an 's' in lisp?). You'll get no argument from me if you stick with 'close.'

■ Prostrate vs Prostate: Just remember this poem by my good friend Dave Barry and you'll never confuse the two again. 'If two 'r's are found, you're lying on the ground. If one 'r' is on hand, you're talkin' bout the gland.'

■ Barbed wire: It's not barb wire. It's not bob wire. Just think of an unfortunate girl named Barb, raised by parents with a warped sense of humor, whose last name is Dwyer.

■ Snuck: As in 'he snuck under the fence.' The correct version would be 'he sneaked under the fence.' Snuck is not a word in the English language.

■ Alumni: Despite spending four years at college to learn how to Occupy Wall Street, you are not an alumni. Assuming you graduated, if you are a lone male you are an alumnus, if female an alumna. If speaking in plurality, a group of male alumnus are alumni and female alumna become alumnae.

■ Moot: Please, don't say 'mute,' say 'moot.' Moot rhymes with 'boot' — unless you are my friend Bill, who believes it rhymes with 'cute.' While the definition of moot is 'open to debate,' the pronunciation is not.

■ MY HUSBAND AND I went to attend the Monday Mixer: Ballroom Dance Party and found the Fenton Community & Cultural building completely empty and locked. No notice posted anywhere to let us know that it was cancelled.

■ URBAN RENEWAL KILLED my grandma. She died of a broken heart.

■ IF YOUR KID is throwing a temper tantrum in the library or anywhere else, be a better parent and remove your kid promptly so others don't have to listen to it! Shame on you.

■ TAKE IT EASY people, pay attention to walkers! If you hit my child or me, I will sue you to the fullest extent of the law.

■ IT'S SAD JUST how many gross and lazy people live in Fenton. You are making our town look like a dump by living the way you do. Great example to be setting for our youth. It's not hard to throw things away.

■ LAKE FENTON SCHOOLS need to open a second access to Torrey Hill Intermediate School. They own an outlet lot on Torrey Road. Put in a driveway so traffic has two accesses — congestion is terrible. The new driveway is a simple solution. Top priority.

■ FENTON DOES NOT have a rat problem. It's just a propaganda ploy by the city to take our minds off the pot hole issues.

■ WAKE UP FENTON. The rat problem continues north to Worchester and across North Road by the elementary school to Forest Drive and Oak Street.

■ FEDERAL AND STATE governments are out of control. I worked for MDOT and saw an employee making $30/hour who had fourth-grade reading/writing skills. When he was fired, he sued for racial discrimination.

He not only got his job back, he was issued an MDOT vehicle. Disgraceful.

■ THE SCHOOLS BUDGET in the state is over $12 billion. The lottery makes less than $1 billion. That money does go to the schools. If you can prove otherwise please do. Please educate yourself to the facts, you won't listen to anyone else.

■ RESIDENTS, PLEASE DON'T complain about the inconvenience of the Streetscape project. All good things come with a price, often measured in time as well as money and effort. When it's done, just like a home remodel, it will all be worth the minor inconveniences. Thank you.

■ SEVERAL YEARS AGO, a man's car was hit by a drunk driver on North Holly Road, and his dog was killed. I just wanted to let him know that I think of him and his precious pup each day while rounding those curves, and I hope he's doing well.

■ I, FOR ONE, don't believe that either America or the world is on the eve of destruction (to quote a song from the '70s). We are Americans and as such have always been open to change and improvement, as well as the cost associated with it, be it a war or higher taxes. As long as we unite as one, we will be OK.

■ WITH GOOD WEATHER just around the corner, and orange barrels everywhere, just wanted to remind everyone to please drive, bike and walk with caution.

■ I GET A kick out of the complainers about the city officials and the DDA members. It's very likely that they spend most of their time doing just that, criticizing and complaining, but have likely never served in any capacity. Thank you to both the paid and volunteer citizens who serve Fenton so diligently.

■ AS A SERVICEMAN I want to say thank you to the kind couple who saluted me in the restaurant and said 'Thank you for your service.' You are welcome.

Local orchards expecting good apple crop this year

►Cool spring holds off buds until frost danger is past

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

The buds won't be out on the trees for another five weeks yet, but Charlie Mueller is already out in his apple orchard doing the pruning work that this time of year requires.

"So far, it looks like it's going to be a good year," said Mueller of Mueller Orchards in Fenton Township. "It's staying cool long enough this spring. The later we bloom, the better off we are. The further we get into May, the less chance we'll have a killing frost."

"We're expecting a full crop this year," said Will Cartwright, manager at Spicer Orchards in Hartland Township. "The temperatures got cold gradually this winter. That's good for the buds."

Spicer Orchards grows apples on 70 acres, with top sellers Honey Crisp, Northern Spy, McIntosh and Gala.

In 2012, the unseasonable 80 degrees temperatures in March brought out the blooms, then the frost killed them in April. "That wiped out 90 percent of our crop, so we couldn't open," said Mueller. "In a normal season, the trees will come into bloom around Mother's Day, somewhere between, May 1 and 10."

average crop.

Gretchen Mensing of the Michigan Apple Commission in Lansing said they don't usually make a prediction about a year's apple harvest until August. "We really don't know what the season will be like until we start to see some fruit. It's way too early to tell yet."

Michigan is number three in U.S. apple production, behind Washington State and closely tied with New York State. "We won't have the record 30 million bushels we had in 2013 after the trees rested following the total loss of the apple crop in 2012," said Mensing. "Last year's crop was about 24 million bushels."

Charlie and Wendy Mueller grow about 10 different varieties of apples on about 15 acres of land. Their most popular varieties are Honey Crisp, McIntosh and Golden Delicious, all sold in their own retail store from September through November. "We don't wholesale apples anymore," said Mueller.

Using a new production method planting dwarf trees closer together with three "leaders" on each tree allows Mueller's to produce more apples in a smaller space. "It's a system that was developed in Italy, where land is at a premium," said Mueller. "We planted our first ones last year. They're easy to take care of and produce more apples. We'll be planting more of them in the spring."

Summary

►It's too early to formally predict this year's apple crop, but Charlie Mueller of Mueller's Orchard in Fenton Township is confident it's going to be a good year.

“Why all the household dust?”

For years, Power Vac, Inc. has been improving the community's health one household at a time. “Did you know that half of all illnesses come directly from dirty indoor air? In fact, our indoor air is up to 90 times more polluted than the air outdoors,” explained Keith Meadows, Power Vac Owner and Operator. “More than 90% of the phone calls I receive are from distraught people complaining about dust in their homes. They tell me they will dust the house Friday, but by Sunday it needs to be done again, and they're not sure where these dust piles are coming from. Let me tell you, you're not a bad housekeeper. All you need to do mounted system. In reality, they have a low powered portable system attached inside a van. We have the equipment powerful enough to get the job done right, and that equipment is a Power Vac truck.”

“The Power Vac truck is the most powerful equipment in the industry,” Keith explained. “Simply put, the entire truck is the vacuum, and the truck motor powers the equipment. You'll know it's a Power Vac truck because it's the size of an ambulance and when engaged, 12 large air bags come out of the roof.

“What makes the difference in equipment? Power! To put things into perspective, your furnace moves 2,000 cubic feet of air per minute, which is what you feel coming out of your register. Truck-mounted equipment moves 4,000 CFMs. Well, Power Vac moves over 16,000 cubic feet of air per minute, which is four times the power of most competitors.

“You need to beware of companies using cheap equipment and advertising cheap prices. Most of these companies are unlicensed, or they may advertise that they are licensed, but are not. Avoid scams by not falling for cheap, get-you-in-the-door prices. What sets us apart from our competitors is our honest service, and, of course, our equipment. I know the importance of being on time, working with a smile and respecting people's homes and their belongings. There are a lot of duct cleaners around, but rest assured you'll receive the same quality of service I expect in my home.”

Power Vac is family owned and operated and we are here to help you by offering a 1/2 off sale — free dryer vent cleaning ($150.00 value) less than 3 ft. one week only.

is have your ducts cleaned. This simple step will drastically reduce the dust in your household. The reason for the dust is your cold air returns. You see, cold air returns suck in dirty air. Over time it builds up in your ducts until the debris resembles what you would find in your vacuum bag.”

See for yourself! For an actual photo of the debris that is pulled from a typical home's ducts, visit our website www.callpowervac.com.

“Cold air returns are also the reason new homeowners experience excessive dust. While work was being done in the home, your cold air returns sucked all the dust through the system. It settled on the bottom of the duct lines and little by little, that debris is being blown back into your home,” Keith continued.

“Here's a test. Take a walk down into your basement, and look up at the ceiling for thin sheets of tin nailed between your floor joists. These are your cold air return lines. Give them a good pounding. Do you see puffs of dust seeping out of the edges? That, my friends, is the reason you have uncontrollable dust problems, and this debris cannot be removed without the help of a professional.

“This brings me to my next point: choosing an air duct cleaning company. Most companies use portable units, which are essentially like a Shop-Vac that you would vacuum your car with. Then there are companies who claim they have a truck-

Linden student leads fundraising effort for Shelter of Flint

► In memory of 5-month-old Nash Schupbach

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Addisyn Goss has learned at an early age that giving can be more fun than receiving. A second-grader at Linden Elementary School, Addisyn stepped out with kindness to spearhead a charity fundraiser in her classroom for the Shelter of Flint, to remember her 5-month-old baby cousin, Nash Schupbach.

Nash passed away June 19, 2014 very unexpectedly while at an in-home daycare. Since his passing, his parents, Todd and Shelly Schupbach, began celebrating his life on the ninth of every month, doing pay-it-forward acts of kindness and encouraging others to join them.

“Have a Nash Day” has become a symbol of kindness that has spread far beyond the small borders of the Schupbach's home in Tyrone Township, reaching people throughout the U.S. and internationally.

Addisyn met with Nash's parents, her mother, Stacy Daul, her teacher, Sarah Mawhinney and Principal Robert Pouch to kick-start the fundraising idea she had initiated with fellow second-grader Alexis Nick. “I was excited to think that she would want to take on this initiative at such a young age, so I wanted to honor her request,” said Mawhinney. Flyers went home with the students, presenting a list of items accepted by the shelter and the reason for this effort.

Kicking off appropriately on Feb. 9 for Nash Day, the students collected more than 1,293 diapers, 76 bottles of shampoo and conditioner, 47 bars of soap/body wash, 48 toothbrushes and 17 toothpastes, plus deodorant, toys, clothes, laundry baskets, household cleaners, toilet paper, even one crock pot.

The entire school became involved with the project by collecting donations for National Bubble-gum Day, raising $325 for the privilege of chewing gum that day — all to benefit the Shelter of Flint.

Addisyn's mother delivered the items to the shelter. “The shelter was very grateful, that's for sure,” said Mawhinney.

The effort paid off for Addisyn, too. “She is now going to be our Student of the Month, to be honored at the school board meeting on April 1,” added Mawhinney.

Q: I have a 2006 Silverado and my air will not work while idling, but when i start driving down the road it starts blowing what could it be? - Jeremy

A: Jeremy, I am not sure. I think you are saying that it gets cold when moving and does not blow cold at idle. If this is the case, you need to check a couple of things first. Make sure your cooling fan is working properly and that the condenser is not restricted in any way. This is in front of the truck behind the grill and looks like a radiator. The condenser tends to get debris in as it acts like a filter being in front of the radiator. You can clean it with a garden hose, but be careful not to bend the shape of the fins as they are very easily damaged. Next thing to check is that the refrigerant is not low or high for any reason. This can cause this symptom as well. Sometimes you need to have the system evacuated and pulled into a vacuum to get any access moisture out of it. This would take equipment that you may have to go to a repair shop for.

Heavy-duty work on the water mains will begin after Easter.

The city was seeking feedback from the businesses affected by the construction to get started. That feedback came Wednesday evening, at the final meeting before the long-awaited project was set to start. Carol Schuler, owner of Sweet Variations candy shop, naturally had the most trepidation about starting before Easter. It's her busiest time of the year and helps her get through the slower summer time.

City Manager Lynn Markland appreciated her willingness to go along with a pre-Easter start. Rain is the biggest enemy to construction, and they have to take all the clear days they can get.

At the meeting, all the players were there — Champagne & Marx, the excavating company, OHM, the engineering firm, New Moon Visions, the marketing company, and of course city management.

Jeff Riley with Champagne & Marx said the first objective is to mill one lane of Shiawassee and LeRoy Street, removing the surface.

The Shiawassee Avenue construction will run from Adelaide Street to LeRoy Street. The southbound side of LeRoy Street will be torn up first, along with sidewalks.

Once the southbound side is completed, they'll switch to the northbound side.

Through this construction, traffic will flow one way on Shiawassee Avenue and “I think it's an exciting time, an exciting opportunity. It's going to be a great place to dine, shop, for people to bring their families.”

Lynn Markland
Fenton city manager

LeRoy Street — east and north.

Along with roadwork, there will be water mains at Elizabeth and LeRoy streets, which will run up to the bridge at Silver Lake Road.

Downtown businesses will expect water service interruption while they are switched to the new water main.

The first phase is expected to be mostly completed by July. Side streets south of the river like Mill and Ellen streets will still have work done during the summer.

At the meeting, business owners shared their concerns with the management, which included parking, access to their stores, events and construction vibration damaging historical buildings.

New Moon Visions will be coordinating the creation of signs in the vein of “pardon our dust” and “open for business,” directing customers to store entrances, sidewalks and parking.

There will also be events geared to get people downtown during construction.

Events like the farmers markets, Taste in Fenton, Art Walk and Freedom Fest will still happen. The Back to the Bricks Tune-up Car Cruise is in question — there are two locations aside from downtown being explored.

“We’re doing everything we can to keep people in the downtown area,” Markland said, adding that downtowns are popular again, after being ignored for many years.

The city will also host weekly open meetings about Streetscape, so far slated for Wednesday nights.

Streetscape overview

Streetscape is a $4.7 million project, undertaken by the city, paid for by DDA, with additional federal and state grant dollars. It will essentially renovate and upgrade the streets, curbs, sidewalks, approaches and equipment like benches and trash receptacles.

Other cities have done similar projects, such as downtown Rochester. Streetscape is part of the city's Master Plan, which included projects like the Cornerstone building.

The project on LeRoy Street extends from Elizabeth Street to Second Street, with reconstruction on Shiawassee Avenue, Mill and Ellen streets, and some work on Caroline Street.

The total reconstruction work, which will be complete replacement of the road and include infrastructure like storm sewers underneath, is from Adelaide to LeRoy Street on Shiawassee, and on LeRoy, from Elizabeth to Silver Lake Road.

The streets will look different, with everything new from the curb to the storefront, with scalloped pavers, and wider sidewalks designed to bring pedestrians closer to store fronts.

New trees will also be planted with lighted planters. Even the color of the trees is taken into account, to create an impression while driving past them. Department of Public Works Director Dan Czarnecki said exact positions of the trees will be done to not block the fronts of any businesses.

Instead of angled parking like at LeRoy Street and Caroline Street, there will instead be parallel parking.

The project has been in the works since at least 2012, but was delayed to seek federal funding, and then again with bureaucratic snags at the state and federal level, pushing it to this spring.

A 911 dispatch in Troy received a call from a teenage boy who said he was hiding in the closet while four armed men were firing shots within the house. Every on-duty police officer was dispatched to the house. That call was actually made by a teenage boy in Boston, who had been playing an Xbox online game with the boy in the Troy home. This practice of fake 911 calls is known as swatting.

Poiceone.com defines "Swatting" as the act of tricking an emergency service into dispatching an emergency response based on the false report of a critical incident. Episodes can be large to small, from the deployment of bomb squads, SWAT and other police units and the evacuations of schools and businesses to a single fabricated police report meant to discredit an individual as a prank or personal vendetta.

The list of celebrity victims of 911 swatting ranges from Ashton Kutcher and Justin Beiber to Tom Cruise and Justin Timberlake. Here in Michigan, legislators have passed a bill to nip the pranksters in the bud.

In 2011, Gov. Rick Snyder signed a bill responding to these fake calls. If anyone is injured in the course of responding to a fake call, the caller can be charged with a five-year felony, a debilitating injury, a 10-year felony. Additionally, if someone is killed as a result of the response generated by the false report of a crime or emergency, it is a 15-year felony. The charges also carry fines of up to $50,000.

Even without an injury, the legislation provides for a 93-day misdemeanor and $500 fine if someone falsely reports a misdemeanor and a four-year felony and $2,000 fine if someone falsely reports a felony. If the caller is a minor, their parents can be billed for the emergency response costs, which can run several thousands of dollars.

What if I don't call?

The legal theory of negligence states that a person who owes a duty of care to someone else can be held liable for the injuries caused by the violation of that duty. According to Findlaw.com, unlike a doctor treating a patient, the average person owes no duty to help or rescue another person in distress, such as calling 911. When there is no duty, there is no negligence. But, in some situations, the general rule that a person has no duty to rescue does not apply, such as:

- When the said person created the peril.
- If you injure someone or place them in a position of danger, you can be held liable

AVOID accidental 911 calls

The FCC estimates 75 percent of calls to 911 are for non-emergency situations. Unintentional wireless calls cause problems for emergency call centers, which must spend time and resources to determine whether a 911 call is real or accidental. A 911 operator must stay on the line to make this determination. If no one is on the line, the operator may need to disconnect the call and call the user back to determine whether the call is real or accidental. If no one answers, the operator may spend even more time trying to reach the caller, or even dispatch emergency services to help the caller. These efforts waste resources and divert scarce public safety personnel from other 911 calls reporting real emergencies.

The FCC has a few tips for preventing accidental or non-emergency 911 calls:

- Lock your phone's keypad when not in use to prevent accidental calls to 911
- If your phone came preprogrammed with the auto-dial 911 feature, turn this feature off.
- Teach your children how and when to call 911, and more importantly, when not to call.
- Lastly, do not, under any circumstances prank call 911.

if you fail to help them out or when you begin undertaking a rescue.

Though you have no duty to rescue another person, if you start doing so, you may be obligated to continue if it is unreasonable for you to stop. The final situation where you could be held negligent for not calling is if you have a special relationship to the person in need of rescue. The relationship between two parties can create a duty to rescue, such as employer-employee or school employee-student.

JOB

"Our golf season begins April 15 through Oct. 14, but we'll rely on our core staff to 'hold down the fort' until the golf season ramps up and college kids get home, usually around the first week of May."

Typical jobs at the golf course include beverage and food service, washing golf carts, picking the driving range, flower bed maintenance and weeding. "If we find good workers, we'll try to keep them from high school through college," said White.

He advises interested young people to visit the Fenton Farms Golf Club website at www.fentonfarms.com, under Contacts, then click on Job Application. "The second step will be a face-to-face interview," said White. "We take our hiring very seriously."

What can teens expect to earn? "Most of our new hires start out at the legal minimum wage of $8.15," said White. "If they're under 16, they'll get 85 percent of that. Returning college kids 'with value' will earn what the market will bear, $9 and up."

Camp Copneconic in Fenton Township is another seasonal employer, hiring about 100 summer staff. "We've got about a 50 percent return rate, so we'll actually be looking for about 50 new hires," said John Carlson, executive director. "But even our returning staff has to go through the application and interview process every year."

It's a very competitive hiring field at Camp Copneconic, with 300 to 500 applications flooding their office. Carlson emphasizes that teens who apply need to express themselves clearly as to why they want the job and what differentiates them from other candidates. "That teen may be a great person, but doesn't know how to express him (her)self well. If they don't put enough effort in that first application process, we'll weed them out. We're looking for the cream of the crop."

Teens with special certifications like life-guarding are especially valuable in a camp setting. "That gets you to the top of the pile really quickly," said Carlson. "That, plus any other specialties you may have because we do run many specialty camps."

VG's Grocery on Silver Parkway in Fenton is actively hiring associates right now. "We'll be bringing on 10 to ► Local businesses are hiring now for the summer, so interested teens and college-age young people need to brush up their resumé and interviewing skills.

Summary

Job advice for teens

• Get the best grades possible in school. Employers tend to hire teens who perform well academically.

• Participate in extracurricular activities like clubs and sports to demonstrate your ability to get along well with others.

• Participate in community activities to show you know how to serve others.

• Be aggressive in your job search. Employers are expecting you to seek them out. Network with everyone you know and visit places where you'd like to work and apply.

• Dress appropriately in "business casual" when you are applying for a job.

• Ask to speak with the hiring manager and offer to complete an application. Write neatly with no misspellings, and make sure to complete all parts of the application. Hiring managers will read open-ended essay questions very carefully.

• You may be interviewed on the spot, so be prepared. Make eye contact, shake hands firmly, let the interviewer know of any special skills you have.

• Follow up the interview with a thank you, both at the interview and then with a formal thank you note.

• Ask when you will be notified if you get the job, then follow up with the interviewer if you don't hear back within a week.

• If you land the job, be a good employee.

15 new associates," said Laurie Bishoff, store director. "We'll be hiring in various departments, from entry level to different prep positions."

Teens must be 16 years or older to apply, as long as they have the proper paperwork from school if they're a minor, according to Bishoff. "We're looking for friendly, engaging people who are able to communicate well with the public and enjoy giving good customer service."

Prospective employees should apply online at spartannash.com under Job Opportunities, or visit the kiosk located in any SpartanNash store. "We're looking for people who want to work," added Assistant Store Director Chris Palmer.

"When you come in for an interview, dress to impress in business casual attire."

"If we find good workers, we try to keep them from high school through college."

Jalkanen said there is a lot of misinformation about their IB program. He is well aware of some people believing that the IB program is only for a handful of students at the high school. “That’s what we hear,” he said. “It’s not true or accurate.”

IB Diploma program

In 2011, Fenton schools first offered the IB Diploma for graduating seniors. Since then, 35 students have earned their full IB Diploma. An IB Diploma is a two-year program where students take all IB classes in their junior and senior year.

Just as not all students would want to take Advanced Placement (AP) classes, not all would want to take IB classes. “These are for high-level students at the high school level,” he said. “Not everyone can do these.”

Jalkanen said all students in kindergarten through 10th grade are in the IB program and about 175 11th- and 12th-graders. In total, more than 3,000 students are part of the IB program.

Costs to students

When students reach 11th grade, taking IB classes becomes optional. Jalkanen said these are rigorous classes that the students will find challenging. To be eligible for the IB Diploma, the student must do well in the IB class and score well on the IB exam. Each exam comes with a $110 fee. There will also be one-time registration fee of $160. These fees are paid to IB, not the school district.

Jalkanen said students who qualify for free or reduced lunch can expect to have their exam and registration fees waived or significantly reduced.

Weighted grades

To encourage more juniors and seniors to take the IB classes, which are more difficult than traditional classes, the school district will give more weight to IB grades. Jalkanen has heard that some students are concerned about not doing as well in an IB class and fear it could adversely affect their grade point average. With the weighted grades, this issue would be addressed. This new grading system is in place for 2016 graduates.

Approximately 165 students take one or more IB Diploma classes each year.

Fees for IB program

The school district is also required to pay an annual fee to IB for each school building. Tomek-Eastern, North Road and State Road elementaries each have a $7,790 annual fee.

AGS has an annual fee of $8,920 and the high school has one of $9,366. The high school also has an annual Diploma Fee of $10,214.

Teachers are required to attend IB workshops, most of which are two or three days long. Some are in Detroit, some are out of state. Jalkanen said as IB interest increases, more workshops closer to Fenton will be available. “We try to stay local,” he said.

Between annual fees and workshops and other training, Fenton schools paid IB $103,806 for the 2013-14 school year.

The bulk of the IB program costs to Fenton go toward staffing. To comply with IB rules, each school building must have a coordinator, typically a teacher who guides the staff on IB curriculum. A coordinator will spend half of their day teaching and half of their day with coordinator duties. Staffing costs came to $425,358 for the 2013-14 school year.

Costs for staffing

Of the $525,000, most of the annual cost for the IB program is to pay the salary and benefits of coordinators and teachers who are part of the Fenton staff. The money also pays for professional development for teachers and IB program fees.

As an example of how the district pays an employee to be an IB coordinator, Jalkanen used a random salary of $75,000, and a total annual package of $109,000, which includes the salary, retirement, Social Security and health insurance. For their bookkeeping purposes, since the employee splits their time as an IB coordinator and a teacher, the district splits the IB coordinator’s total package in half to equal $54,000. Each building has an IB coordinator.

If the IB program were eliminated, the teacher/IB coordinator’s total package would not be affected. With the employee back in the classroom full-time, the district could cut costs if it needed fewer teachers. Jalkanen said teachers would more likely be shifted into other classes depending on what students signed up for.

Opinions vary

Jalkanen said for those in favor of the IB program, they see positive changes. For those opposed to the IB program, some say they don’t see any changes. Through this committee, Jalkanen hopes they can find the answer to, “Has it (IB program) elevated education?”

This committee will be giving updates to the Board of Education and a final report and recommendation in June.

“Has it (IB program) elevated education?”

providing alcohol to minors and the torture/killing of a chicken. Melissa Chavez-Marquez was arraigned on the charges in January.

According to John Potbury, special assistant prosecuting attorney with the Genesee County Prosecutor's Office, Chavez-Marquez was originally charged with killing/torturing an animal, a four-year felony. This charge was reduced last week to a misdemeanor that carries up to a possibility of 93 days in the county jail.

Potbury also said that the malicious destruction of property (MDOP) charge is punishable by up to a year in the county jail. The other two companion charges (furnishing alcohol to a minor and a second count of MDOP) were dismissed.

As previously reported, Police Chief Dan Allen said officers were dispatched to a home on Knob Hill Drive in Argentine Township last June to investigate a property destruction complaint. In addition to the destruction of some property, police also observed a dead chicken on the hood of a car.

A few days after the incident, three area teenage females turned themselves in for their part in the June 27, 2014 incident. They were interviewed by police, prosecuted in probate court and have already received their sentencing. Because of their age, the outcome of their cases remains sealed.

As a result of the investigation, police alleged that Chavez-Marquez and the four teenagers consumed alcohol provided by Chavez-Marquez. One teenage female is also facing charges in juvenile court.

Chief Allen said, "We were really pleased with the support of the prosecutor's office on this. It's a law not many people are aware of." The chief was referring to the killing of livestock as being a four-year felony.

Chavez-Marquez's sentencing has been scheduled for May 15.

Fenton firefighters quell the last hot spots of a brush fire that scorched an expansive lot behind the Adopt-A-Pet property.

FIRE

Volz's department has dealt with two grass fires this season.

Holly/Groveland Fire Chief Steve McGee said, "We haven't responded to any brush fires yet this year, but that's not unusual. The rain has begun, which gives us a little breathing room."

McGee urged property owners to mow a 50-foot buffer around structures to form a "fire break," to stop a fire from spreading.

North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA) Chief Jeremy Lintz said his department has responded to a few outdoor fires, but it's still early in the season. Rose and Holly townships are also required to buy daily burn permits. Lintz suggested fires be kept smaller and constantly overseen, and extinguished completely.

Departments cut down on brush fires with burn permits also, which give them the opportunity to remind the user about fire safety. "Burn permits and following the rules are the primary tool utilized to control fire," he said.

Linden Fire Chief Brian Will echoed this, and said that his department has few brush fires, because they have fewer open fields within the city. He'll issue 140 burn permits in the season, and respond to a few smaller brush fires through the year.

Holly boys basketball leads our Winter Top 7

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The 2014-15 winter prep sports season ended up being a pretty average time. Don't get me wrong. We had some solid teams. We had some league championship squads. We even had an historic postseason run from a team. But those experiences were very much the exceptions than the norm. But, we're not going to run to the bench and hide. The Winter Top 7 Poll (we increased it to seven since we didn't have a poll during the regular season) must be revealed. Here it is:

No. 7 – Holly/Oxford boys ski: It's hard to figure out what to do with co-op athletic programs that include schools outside our coverage area. People can argue, 'Well, it's the same as a transfer student living outside the coverage area,' but it really isn't. The Holly/Oxford ski program has at least double the student base to create a team with more than half of that pool being from an outside school. But since the caliber of our bottom portion of this list isn't as strong as in past seasons, we'll compromise and put the Holly/Oxford boys ski team at No. 7. The squad won the league title at Mt. Holly and also qualified for the state meet, placing fourth. If it was a Holly-exclusive squad, it would've ranked very high, probably in the top two or three. But it isn't.

No. 6 – Linden wrestling: The Eagles were young this year and only finished in fourth place in the Metro. But the squad did capture a team district title and 21 victories, so it does have some solid credentials. What would've helped the squad improve upon this ranking was getting more state placers. The Eagles had just one this winter. However, the future looks bright with only one senior graduating.

No. 5 – Fenton girls basketball: The Fenton Tigers completed the Metro League season with a 10-4 second-place record. That was impressive. However, the squad finished the regular season 10-10, primarily due to a tough non-league slate. What earned them the No. 5 spot was the Tigers' Class A district title. The Fenton-Holly district title game was the battle that decided which team made our list. Fenton won out and got the nod. The Tigers graduate some solid players, but they should be strong again next season with Emma Evo and Sarah Cummings leading the way.

No. 4 – Lake Fenton boys basketball: This may be the team that deserves

Disc golf course opening up at Silver Lake Park

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com

Byron native Radwyn Sawyer wanted a different, a closer, option to play disc golf.

His options back in 2013 were pretty limited when it came to jumping in a car and being at a course within minutes. In fact, that option didn't exist.

"There were not any courses to go to," Sawyer said. "We could go to Holly (to the Holly Recreation Area), to Flint or to Brighton. They were all at least a half-hour drive. If you look at a map of disc golf courses, this was a blank area."

It gave him an idea. Sawyer attended some Fenton Park Board meetings and began the process of getting a disc golf course established at the City of Fenton's Silver Lake Park. And now, about two years later, his goal is nearly complete.

With the help of volunteers, Sawyer was working on putting a nine-hole disc golf course within Silver Lake Park last week. The nine-hole course begins in the open area of the park but quickly works its way into the wooded area. Most of the holes are either partially or entirely within the woods, with each having two tee-off areas, making it possible for disc golfers to play 18 holes.

a little more respect than they seemingly receive. The Blue Devils never seriously contended for the GAC Red title and they finished the regular season a so-so 11-9. Overall, they finished with a bit better 13-10 mark. However, maybe we should look at who this team played. The Blue Devils can argue about one-quarter of their regular-season schedule was among the elite teams in their Class.

The Blue Devils lost to Goodrich three times, lost to Beecher twice and lost to Holly. Goodrich was state ranked and lost in a regional final. Beecher also is state-ranked and played in one of Tuesday night's state quarterfinal games. Holly probably should've been state-ranked and advanced to the regional final before losing a two-point game to Walled Lake Central. Lake Fenton is young and had some solid showings against some of those stronger teams in defeat. With its returning talent, the Blue Devils could be even better next year.

No. 3 - Fenton boys swim: The Tigers dominated the Metro League competition during the dual portion of the season and then won the Metro meet by 58 points. That was their fourth consecutive league crown. The team also had a nice group of competitors qualify for the state meet. However, what kept them from getting the No. 2 spot was the fact the Tigers had just one relay advance to the second day. The 400 freestyle relay team placed 12th. In many years the showing probably would've pushed the Tigers below the No. 3 spot, but this season it was strong enough to lift them to third. The Tigers should only get better next year.

No. 2 - Lake Fenton wrestling: This was another young wrestling team that seemed to be having a rebuilding season. However, the Blue Devils captured another Division 3 team district title and advanced all the way to the regional championship match before losing to Birch Run. The squad also had success at the individual state meet, qualifying seven wrestlers to the Palace, and placing four of them. Of course, they also had another state champion when Trent Hillger captured his first crown of his career at 215 pounds.

No. 1 - Holly boys basketball: This was an easy decision. Expected to be the Metro's elite team, the Bronchos were exactly that, posting a perfect Metro League season. However, while that was expected, most didn't know what to expect once the tournament began.

The last time Holly won a district crown was in 1982. Well, Holly exorcised some of those demons this season, beating Grand Blanc for the Bronchos' first-ever Class A district crown. Holly (22-3 overall) followed that win with a victory against Plymouth, but then lost in the regional title game to Walled Lake Central by a mere two points. Despite the loss, Holly's 22-win season was a school record number for a given year, and it also represented the farthest any boys basketball team has advanced since this sports editor has been here (2002). So, when it came to No. 1, the Bronchos were the runaway selection.

"We had the first proposal in 2013 and that's when we had our first (fund-raising) event," Sawyer said. "In 2014 we slowly plugged away, getting the layout finished. We had it at a point at the end of 2014 where we figured we could get it done for this spring. We only have a couple of volunteers, but we got a decent amount of work done. We probably would've gotten it done faster, but we are happy with where it is at right now."

Sawyer's plans included getting the baskets (these represent the destination point for each "hole") dug in and placed this week. The holes will mostly have lengths between 200 and 300 feet. All of the holes at Silver Lake Park will be par-threes. The initial tournament held in May 2013 helped raise money for the course and involved a temporary nine-hole disc golf course.

The unofficial grand opening of the course will coincide with another tournament. This one will be the Silver Lake Beach Open presented by DGtrips.com & PsyFly Disc Golf. It is slated for April 4, starting at 9 a.m. Registration and check in begins at 7:45 a.m. The event is sanctioned by the Professional Disc Golf Association (PDGA) and is open to people of all abilities. The registration costs for the event range from $12 to the youngest ages to $45 for the open divisions. There is an additional $10 fee for anyone competing who is not a current PDGA member. A lunch will be included after nine holes, followed by the final nine holes. Sawyer thinks the event should be completed by about 5 p.m.

"It's a legitimate tournament and it's open to anyone," Sawyer said. "It will include every level of player from first-timers to people who have played for 20 years. Everyone is welcome to come out. It's not an elite thing. It's completely fun."
