More than 50,000 fans attend Motor City Comic Convention, breaking all records

By Hannah Ball
hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Novi — It's probably the only place in the world where William Shatner and 'The Walking Dead' star Chad Coleman, who played Tyreese Williams, can be seen in person, in Michigan. 'People just cry or they come up and they just stare at me,' Coleman said. 'It feels more like a family atmosphere for the most part.'

At Comic Con (short for Comic Convention), Deadpool walks with Batman, Joker and Harley Quinn looked at 'Game of Thrones' memorabilia, Link handed Captain America his shield to pose for a picture, a little Elsa from 'Frozen' hugged R2D2, and Hans Solo threatened a Dalek to a duel.

If that didn't make sense to you, keep reading. Cosplay of this magnitude, where people create and wear costumes of characters, is only possible at Comic Con.

(Immediate left) Gender-bending cosplay is extremely popular. This girl, dressed as Captain America, salutes her country and fellow geeks at comic con.

5 Running Tips FOR new Runners

Source: active.com

► 1. Get Fitted: Pay a visit to your local independent running store. Often these smaller stores have more knowledgeable staff than the big box retail stores. Don't skimp on your shoes. Be prepared to pay $80 to $150 for a good pair of running shoes.

► 2. Get Technical: Invest a little in some technical fabric running shorts, tops, and socks. Technical fabric can be made of a variety of fibers including natural (bamboo, smartwool) and synthetic (polyester, nylon, Lyrca) materials. Avoid 100 percent cotton. It tends to retain sweat causing chaffing, irritation, and even blisters.

► 3. Get a Group: Motivation, inspiration, accountability, and commitment increase dramatically when you're a part of a running group or at least have a running buddy. Check with your local running store. Many provide beginning running groups or know of running coaches in the area that work with beginning runners.

► 4. Get a Plan: Just getting out the door and running often does not work for many people, especially if you've been sedentary or away from exercise for any period of time. Find a beginning running plan to follow. There are beginning running programs online or you can contact your local running store or running club. One of the most effective ways to begin is with a run/walk method.

► 5. Get Acclimated: Whenever you begin a new exercise, your body's fitness level will actually dip a little while you acclimate to the new demands you're putting on your body. It takes your body about four to six weeks to acclimate to the new demands. Many new runners experience shin splints, pulled calf muscles, cramping quads, or sore hips from going out too fast or from doing too much too soon. Take it slow and ease into your new activity.

COMIC CON

The annual Motor City Comic Con, from May 15 to 17, showed off an impressive enthusiastic geek culture in Michigan. Cosplayers attended in their spandex-best, creating their own costumes of Batman, Wonder Woman, Mario, Daenerys Targaryen from 'Game of Thrones,' Groot from 'Guardians of the Galaxy,' Ultron from the recent 'Avengers' movie, and Ezio from the 'Assassin's Creed' video games.

Cosplay, and the suspended belief that comes with cosplay, is easily the best aspect of these events. For a few hours, you don't only get to read about or watch superheroes; you get to be a superhero.

I attended Saturday and Sunday with my camera, an empty 64 gigabyte memory card, my press pass, and two fully charged batteries. My weekend was filled with costumes, buying 'Game of Thrones' merchandise, and talking to artists and celebrities like the incredibly nice Chad Coleman.

Cosplayers were used to posing and smiling for people asking to take pictures, and I took hundreds. Even little adorable kids dressed as Thor, Loki or Elsa knew how to pose.

Throughout the con, more than 50,000 people attended to buy T-shirts and memorabilia from their favorite franchises, as well as artwork by Michigan illustrators.

Attendees could watch celebrity guest panels where actors and writers talked about their work and answered fan questions. Vendors were incredibly nice. Toward the end of the event on Sunday, many vendors had discounts on their merchandise. I paid for two prints of Daenerys Targaryen and Jon Snow by New Orleans illustrator Damon Bowie, and then he gave me two free prints of Tyrion Lannister and Khal Drogo, also from Game of Thrones.

Celebrity guests included people such as William Shatner ('Star Trek'), Chloe Bennet ('Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.'), Lou Ferrigno ('Hulk'), Billy Boyd ('Lord of the Rings'), Tom Kenny (voice of Spongebob),

“People dig the show and they just want to share that. It's good to give the fans an opportunity to express themselves.”

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | HANNAH BALL

Artists and illustrators from across Michigan display their artwork of Batman, Wonder Woman, Superman, Wolverine, and many other characters. This wall of artwork was one of many at Motor City Comic Con.

Camren Bicondova ('Gotham'), Chad Coleman ('The Walking Dead'), and many other celebrities.

Coleman, known for roles on 'The Wire,' 'Horrible Bosses,' 'The Green Hornet,' and more recently and deadly, 'The Walking Dead,' was on a panel with other coworkers and stars whose character died on the show. Daniel Bonjour (Aiden Monroe), Lawrence Gilliard Jr. (Bob Stookey), Roger Mitchell (Paul), and Scott Wilson (Hershel Greene) and Coleman discussed the show and answered fan questions.

'One of the most heart-breaking deaths for me was Scott Wilson's,' Coleman said at the panel. When he found out about his own character's death, he said he was excited about the bold approach to the story and said the writer of the episode, Scott Gimple, was a genius.

'It was an homage...It was a great deal of respect and admiration on Scott's behalf for [Tyreese]. He was like 'what is the measure of this man?' He was huge. He was a titan,' Coleman said.

At one point, Wilson started coughing. While answering a question, he pretended to choke from coughing so much. He let his head slam on the table like he died, which was hilarious.

Coleman was open to an interview after his panel with fellow cast members who were no longer on the show.

Coleman said the con is 'just a big love fest' and that he's having fun. 'People dig the show and they just want to share that,' Coleman said. 'It's good to give the fans an opportunity to express themselves.'

The actor said he doesn't have too many weird fan interactions, but people like to hang around his booth and stare.

For now, he's done running from zombies. Instead, he's going to run around with a briefcase-arm that can turn into any weapon. Coleman plays an arms dealer in his latest project 'Treadwater,' a science-fiction dystopian about a private group trying to keep peace in a world full of chaos after the euro crashes.

I also went to Chloe Bennet's panel, who plays Skye on Marvel's 'Agent's of S.H.I.E.L.D.,' and Camren Bicondova's panel, who plays Selina Kyle on 'Gotham.' Bennet was hilarious, talking about her big character reveal on the show. Bicondova talked about how fun it was shooting 'Gotham' and getting to work with people like Jada Pinkett Smith (Fish Mooney) and Robin Lord Taylor (Penguin).

Cosplay Competition

The cosplay competition on Saturday featured a solo competition and a group competition. Black Widow and Hawkeye sauntered down the aisle with the likes of Wonder Woman, X-Men characters, Ultron, The Avengers/Sailor Moon combination, Radagast the Brown, and many others.

Alex Wescot won the solo competition dressed as Groot from 'Guardians of the Galaxy,' and a group dressed as Kiss won the group competition.

Wescot, 31, said cosplaying as the talking tree isn't too bad, even though it's more than 7 feet tall, and takes him a while to walk anywhere while in it.

'I love wearing it,' Wescot said. This costume, which took him three months to make, is his second rendition of Groot. The second costume is covered in paper, more durable and easier to walk in. He makes costumes for people through his business.

'I started [cosplaying] years ago just winning Halloween contests and I kept winning,' he said. He would sometimes win between $5,000 and $10,000 and sometimes up to $15,000.

Currently, he's working on a project bigger than Groot. 'I'm building the velociraptor T-rex hybrid from the next 'Jurassic Park,' Wescot said, adding that the work is worth it.

Everyone at the event was very kind and accepting. The passion, enthusiasm and geek culture continues to make Motor City Comic Con magical and I can't wait for next year.

Comic Cons happen worldwide

Dallas Comic Con in Texas, Phoenix Comic Con in Arizona, and Awesome Con in Washington, D.C. took place this weekend.

The Midwest Toy Fest in Indiana and the Memphis Comic Expo in Tennessee take place June 6-7. Metro Con in Florida is June 11-14, Comic Con at Sea in Spain is June 14-21, Heroes Con in North Carolina is June 19-21, and many more take place practically every weekend in the summer, with a few during fall and winter.

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | HANNAH BALL

Groups of cosplayers had a plan for when they posed for pictures. Even young children joined the adventure of being a superhero for a day. This family, dressed as the Boba Fett family from Star Wars, hams it up for the cameras.

CITY OF FENTON ORDINANCE NO. 694

Ordinance No. 694, an Ordinance to amend Chapter 10 of the City of Fenton Code of Ordinances regarding nominating petition due dates for odd year general elections. Based on changes to the Michigan election law, the time for filing a nominating petition is no later than 4:00 pm on the 15th Tuesday prior to the date of the City election. Since state law preempts inconsistent provisions in a city charter, this resolution adopts the provisions of the election law related to the timing of nominating petitions, which are declared to be controlling and supersede the timing requirements provided in Section 3.10 of the City Charter, and is consistent with the amendments made to the City Code by the passage of Ordinance No. 694.

Ordinance No. 694 was adopted at a regular meeting of the Fenton City Council held on May 26, 2015. This Ordinance will take effect on April 2, 2015.

The complete text of Ordinance No. 694 is on file in the office of the City Clerk and available for review by the general public during regular business hours, Monday through Friday, 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM.

Holshire PLAN 30-635

Gridded window uppers, tapered columns, and ornamental gable supports give a nostalgic Craftsman look to this compact, two-story bungalow. The Holshire is only 41 feet wide, so it fits neatly on a fairly narrow lot. Its covered porch is open, inviting, and easily wide enough to accommodate a porch swing during the summer months. Inside, light washes into the foyer through sidelights and a row of small panes in the upper section of the door.

HOT LINE CONTINUED

CHERYL STEWART AND her boys touched my heart. They started their non-profit, one-by-1, not because they have too much but because they know what it feels like not to have enough. I am One. I will give as much as I can as often as I can. They inspire me.

WHERE WAS THE outcry from Al Sharpton and Jesse Jackson over the killing of the family and housekeeper in Washington, D.C.? Why no looting and burning of businesses?

TIMES SURE HAVE changed. Worker productivity keeps going up but wages don't. Maybe that's a clue why we have seen the greatest concentration of wealth since the Great Depression. Maybe that's a hint of what's next if wages don't start going up in our consumer driven economy.

I HOPE JULY 4th people will keep in mind our veterans with PTSD. The loud fireworks and cherry bombs must devastate them beyond our imagination. The war dogs also have PTSD. I wish all of them were illegal.

IRAQ IS GOING up in flames. Yemen is going up in flames. Syria is going up in flames. There you have it folks, Obama says global warming is a bigger threat than ISIS. Eighteen months to go and counting.

I'M SO GLAD they fixed McCaslin Lake Road. It's amazing how fast cars drive down this road. Why isn't there any posted speed limit sign? Not that they would obey it or the police would enforce it, but it might help.

IT IS MONDAY, Memorial Day. Really? You people really believe that you're supposed to celebrate? I hear fireworks going off all over the place. That's for the Fourth of July, to celebrate your freedom, not Memorial Day. That's for the veterans.

IF YOU ARE really foolish enough to end the IB program, you will be depriving Fenton students of a premium education opportunity.

THE LIBERALS OF the world are very giving. Problem is that it's never their own money that they're giving.

I DON'T KNOW about everyone, but I'm sick and tired of seeing Hillary's fake hand-holding with her husband Bill Clinton.

Burned-out worker seeks motivation

DEAR AMY: I am a 52-year-old administrative assistant who is burned out. I take full responsibility for not having a career area that I find interesting. Returning to college studying business did not go well and I had to drop out. Career counseling has not worked. I am lost about what I should do about this. I would love to find a meaningful solution to the situation that I alone have gotten myself into. -- Lost and Confused

DEAR LOST: You are not your job. You are the sum total of everything in your life. Sometimes, if you feel stuck or burned out, it helps to look outside your current situation and make a deliberate effort to look for inspiration. If you are able to do this, it should lead to an increase in your energy and self-esteem. Group exercise classes, teaching children and performing music do it for me — volunteering at your local food bank and attending gallery nights or other cultural happenings might do it for you. You might find inspiration by scrolling through some TED talks — inspiring short lectures conducted by innovators, scientists, and creative thinkers. One I think might appeal to you is “The Puzzle of Motivation,” by Dan Pink. You can browse through lectures at TED.com.

Do supplements really help boost your immune system?

DEAR DR. ROACH: I’m a 42-year-old woman in good health. I am beginning a new job soon, and I feel it’s a good idea to build up my immunity before I work in this new environment. I chose an over-the-counter support supplement, but I am coming down with a cold! I have found that I regularly react in this way to vitamins and supplements. Is this common? — D.F.

To your

GOOD HEALTH

BY KEITH ROACH, M.D.

ANSWER: Having a strong immune system is always a good idea. However, supplements, even those that say they are good for the immune system, have no proof that they prevent colds or shorten their duration. A healthy diet, exercise and good sleep are much better for your immune system than a supplement. Some readers insist that these products are effective for them, but the science so far has not proven it. Also, any drug, herb, vitamin or other supplement always has the potential for side effects. I would advise you to save your money.
