ORDINANCE NO. 68
AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE ACCEPTANCE OF PRIVATE ROADS IN ARGENTINE TOWNSHIP

The Township Board of the Township of Argentine Ordains:

PURPOSE

The Argentine Township Board recognizes that certain roads were constructed with the intention that they be dedicated to the Genesee County Road Commission, but were not completed, or not accepted by the Commission. In addition, some site condominium associations may wish to accept a dedicated road from the Genesee County Road Commission and designate them as private.

ARTICLE 1

Following the submission of a petition from fifty-one (51%) percent of the property owners having frontage on a road proposed to be designated as private, or a resolution from an established condominium association, the Township Board may consider a request to classify a road as private. The Township Board shall consider the following:

A. That a legal entity exists, or will be created to exercise ownership responsibility for the road.

B. A maintenance agreement binding all properties with frontage on the road for maintenance and/or restructuring has been executed by all owners.

C. A document from the Genesee County Road Commission acknowledging they do not object to the road being classified as private.

ARTICLE II

This ordinance shall not be construed to allow the construction of a private road in the township.

ARTICLE III

Violations of this ordinance shall be considered a municipal civil infraction, and in addition to other available remedies may be abated in a court of competent jurisdiction.

ARTICLE IV

This ordinance shall take effect immediately after publication.

(3) The Township Board will conduct a public hearing beginning at 7:00 p.m., local time, on August 16, 2016, at the Tyrone Township Offices, 10408 Center Road, Fenton, Michigan, to explain and answer questions pertaining to the Roll and to hear objections to the Roll. Any person objecting to the Roll must file his or her objections before the close of the public hearing or within such additional time (if any) as the Township Board may grant.

(4) The owner or other person having an interest in property that is specially assessed is entitled to file a written appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal within 30 days after confirmation of the Roll. However, appearance and protest at the public hearing are required by law in order to appeal the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner or other party in interest or his or her agent may (i) appear in person at the hearing to protest the assessment or (ii) file an appearance and protest by letter before the close of the hearing. The Township Board will maintain a record of the persons who appear and protest at the hearing. If the hearing is terminated or adjourned for the day before a party is provided the opportunity to be heard, a party whose appearance was so recorded shall be considered to have protested the special assessment in person. This notice is given by order of the Tyrone Township Board.

Gerald "Gus" R. Conway

1953-2016
Gerald "Gus" R. Conway - age 62 of Fenton, passed away on Tuesday, July 19, 2016 at his residence surrounded by his family.

Per his wishes cremation has taken place and services have already been held. Gus was born on December 13, 1953 in Flint, to John and Rita (Hubert) Conway. He married Lynne Hooker-Murray on July 8, 2000. They met one another 28 years ago while both worked at Lake Fenton Marina. Gus had a passion for the outdoors, particularly Michigan's many lakes. He was able to incorporate that love into his work and was the owner/operator of Shoreline Seawalls for more than 30 years. Gus loved music...from Jimmy Buffett to Van Morrison; it was not unusual for him to wake the house up on a Saturday morning by blasting Stevie Ray Vaughn. He loved to travel and experience new places, and he loved to show his family and friends the places he enjoyed. Out of all of the places that Gus loved to travel, Jamaica held a special place in his heart. Through his many travels he accumulated a wealth of stories and would tell them to anyone who would listen. One of the many things that Gus will be remembered for are what his family and friends referred to as "Gus-isms." He had a saying for every occasion and phrases that were uniquely him, from "What's giggin'?" to "Rubber side down." Gus was an amazing person with a larger than life personality and even bigger heart. He was a loving and wonderful husband, father, grandfather, brother, uncle and friend. He is survived by his wife, Lynne Conway; step-daughter, Nikki Murray; step-son, Joe (Samantha) Murray; grandchildren, Daxton and Dalton; sisters, Pam (Tim) Teunis and Paula (Mickey) Noffsinger; brother, Patric Conway; several nieces and nephews, and many other family members and special friends. He was preceded in death by his parents; brother, Edward "Corky" Conway. In lieu of flowers, those desiring may make contributions to the family or Old Newsboys in his memory. Online condolences may be shared with the family at www.hillfh.com. Arrangements provided by Hill Funeral Home - 11723 S. Saginaw St. Grand Blanc, MI.

Volunteer, but don't make it personal

DEAR AMY:
I signed up to support an upcoming amendment to my state's Constitution. The local volunteer coordinator sent out an email to everyone. I responded with the ways I would prefer to help. The personal reply was asking if we could meet up sometime this week, because the coordinator likes to get to know everyone on the team. This offer makes me extremely uncomfortable. I don't think it's safe to meet a stranger privately. Also, a coffee date seems unnecessary. I'm already donating my time, and I don't want to give up additional time just to get to know them. I'm worried if the coordinator is doing this to everyone, it could be intimidating to other volunteers and ultimately hurting the cause. How do I politely decline and let them know their offer could be off-putting to other volunteers while still being able to possibly work alongside them in the future? — A Cautious Volunteer

DEAR CAUTIOUS:
You don't need to educate the volunteer coordinator about how to coordinate volunteers. If you are nervous about meeting privately (understandable), then simply say, "I'd rather not meet privately but would be happy to answer any questions via email. I'll be available for any group meetings."

DEAR AMY:
"Devastated Daughter" described my own past when she revealed her sadness over her father's infidelity, along with other family members' gossip about it. I wish my family members realized how much their gossip about my father increased my own sadness and confusion when my father cheated. It really hurt. — Also Devastated

DEAR DEVASTATED:
I completely agree, and I am very sorry this happened to you.

DEAR AMY:
My granddaughter has not made any attempt to write thank-you notes for her wedding gifts. The wedding was several months ago. She has made many excuses like, "Oh, it's a busy time." She said she didn't have money to buy cards. She had a beautiful wedding and a Caribbean honeymoon, funded partially by the money she received as wedding gifts. I have been texting her with reminders, to no avail, so I finally sent an email telling her that I am very upset that neither we (her grandparents) nor any of my family have received a thank you. I said we would not be sending a Christmas gift this year, since it is obvious that it is not appreciated. My daughter (her mother) is a little upset with me, but I only said what I feel. Is this OK? — Unappreciated

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED:
It is not your job to police your granddaughter and insist that she thank other people in a timely manner. It is only your job to deliver your own personal reaction to and consequence for her rudeness. You have done that, and the consequence sounds reasonable (to me, anyway). And now it's time to stop.

DEAR AMY:
Further comment on the question from "Sad Designer," whose employee didn't ask them to create her wedding dress: This boss needs to widen the doorways to accommodate her big head! By all means, Boss, make someone's wedding dress all about you. Egad. — Dismayed

DEAR DISMAYED:
Many readers agreed — but you were the only one who said "egad." Thank you.

Prostate screening guidance has changed

DEAR DR. ROACH:
I'm 67 and male. When I had a male doctor, he did a yearly testicle and prostate exam during my physical. Now the practice has been taken over by female doctors, and for the past three years, this has not been done. Is this new? Is there a correct way to ask why the change? Believe me, this exam is not one I look forward to, but with a family history of prostate cancer and other cancers, the bloodwork I get each year alone does not seem to be enough. — Anon.

ANSWER:
There has indeed been a change in the way prostate and testicular screening tests have been considered in recent years, and recommendations by advisory groups have changed as well. The current recommendation by the most influential group in the U.S., the Preventive Services Task Force, is against routine screening for prostate cancer and testicular cancer. However, there are some situations, such as with a strong family history, in which screening for these conditions is appropriate, and it is always appropriate for your doctor to listen to your concerns and preferences. As far as male doctors versus female, most studies have shown that women physicians tend to spend a bit more time with their patients and tend to be more in compliance with practice guidelines. However, differences between individuals are more important than differences between the groups. Just tell your doctor, male or female, that you would like to further discuss prostate and testicular cancer screening.
