Thinking about Dad

During the month of January, I always think about my father, who was born on Jan. 4, 1930 and died on Jan. 16, 2010. My mother passed before him in 2008.

I don't think I appreciated my father as much as I do today. I wish he was here so I could thank him.

When my two sisters and I were kids, we knew our parents didn't have a lot of money, but we didn't know how little they really had until we were older. Yet, we always had nice clothes, including new clothes every school year, food on the table and a roof over our heads. That's probably because my dad often worked two jobs, a full-time job during the day and part-time or side jobs at night. We grew up with a stay-at-home mom.

I believe the reason I don't have many health issues today is because of what I couldn't have when I was a kid. Since I didn't know what I was missing, it really was no big deal.

My mother cooked every meal from scratch. The meat came from the store, of course, but the vegetables came from the garden. In the winter, the vegetables came from the produce my parents canned in the fall. We never ate white bread. I think that's because my parents were German and they just preferred rye, from time to time.

My grade school lunches were nothing like they are today. We ate great meals — for $1.25 a week. I'm not kidding, it cost my parents 25 cents a day each for us to eat a spaghetti dinner with salad, roll and dessert on Monday, meatloaf with mashed potatoes and gravy and green beans, and a little dessert on Tuesday, and so it went through Friday. It was the same meal, every day of the week, and it was delicious. The food did not come from a food service. The mothers would take turns coming into the school every day to make meals from scratch.

When the girls in school reached eighth grade, it was a privilege to be released from class for two hours, on a rotating basis each month, to help serve the lunch to students and clean up the cafeteria afterward. The boys didn't get to do it. We didn't think it was discrimination, we thought it was because boys were too dumb to do it right. No foolin'!

There was only one fast-food chain at the time — McDonald's. When we would go places, and our parents took us everywhere, we would plaster our faces along the windows in the backseat searching for the "Golden Arches." When we spotted them, we would beg to stop and get a hamburger and fries. No Big Mac yet. Sometimes my dad stopped, and sometimes he didn't, so we never knew when it was going to happen and didn't expect it.

Aside from food, there was a lot of exercise, but not the kind of treacherous exercises found at the fitness center. We had a very large front, back and side yard at our house because we lived on the end. I used to literally beg my dad to mow the lawn. He would hem and haw and say I was too young, but then would give in and let me mow. By the time I was done my legs felt like they were going to fall off, but I didn't complain. I wanted to do it again. Raking a billion leaves and shoveling snow with dad also was a privilege and tons of fun.

I could go on all day about this, but suffice it to say that because we had nothing, we had everything — that is until we moved to the Chicago area after I graduated from eighth grade. That's when Dad started bringing home lots more money — and it all went uphill or downhill from there — depending on how you look at it.

Twelve interesting facts about

France

'Liberté, Égalité, Fraternité'

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The language of love comes from a European country twice the size of Colorado. It's the most popular tourist destination, according to the World Tourism Organization, with approximately 83.7 million visitors in 2014.

Here are 12 interesting facts about France.

France is the largest country in the European Union, with an area of 248,000 square miles, but is smaller than Texas. About a quarter of the country is covered by forest.

One of France's kings had one of the shortest reigns ever. Louis XIX was the king of France for only 20 minutes in July 1830, before he abdicated himself in favor of his nephew the Duke of Bordeaux.

France's motto translates to "liberty, equality, and fraternity (or brotherhood)." It

It's legal to marry a dead person in France. As long as the person can prove that the deceased had the intent to marry while alive, they can receive permission from the French president.

Camouflage originated in France after the French Army was the first to use camouflage in World War I in 1915. Guns and vehicles were painted by artists. The word "camouflage" comes from the French verb "to make up for the stage."

As of February 2016, France is the first country in the world to ban supermarkets from throwing away or destroying unsold food. It must be donated to charity.

There are numerous indigenous regional dialects and languages in France, like Alsatian, Basque, Breton, Catalan, Occitan, and Flemish. Approximately one million people near the Italian border speak Italian.

Due to the country's high birth rate, French is expected to become the number one language spoken in Europe by 2025, unlike its number two status now. German is the most common, followed by French, then English.

The first public screening of a movie was in France. Brothers Auguste and Louis Lumiere showed 10 films about 50 seconds each on Dec. 28, 1895. They predicted cinema did not have a future.

The correct order of dates in France is the day of the month first, then the month, then the year. For example -15 January 2017.

The oldest human ever was a French woman. Jeanne Louise Calment was 122 years and 164 days old when she died Aug. 4 1997. She lived through the opening of the Eiffel Tower in 1889, two world wars and the inventions of cars, TV, and planes.

FENTON FINE USED CARS

• Long-time Fenton chiropractor Steven Deehl opens car lot to share his own love of cars

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Dr. Steven Deehl of Deehl Chiropractic Life Center in Fenton has added a new career to his resume: used car sales. He opened Fenton Fine Used Cars at 1538 N. LeRoy St. in Fenton, just south of

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

Fenton Fine Used Cars is owned by Steven Deehl (left) and his son, Josh. The business operates under low overhead to keep prices low.

Sears Hometown Store, one year ago. His son, Josh, is general manager.

The name Deehl is well known in the area for chiropractic care. How did you get into the used car business?

I've been a chiropractor in Fenton for 36 years. I guess that makes me "vintage." I've always liked nice cars and have a history of finding cars for people I know. I've been doing this on my own for years; now it's a business. We opened a year ago in December.

What type of cars do you typically sell?

We've got about 25 cars in our inventory. We specialize in real clean, one-owner, low-mileage vehicles that haven't been in any accidents. We've got all different brands and models of SUVs, sedans and pick-ups. You can also ask for a specific car and we'll find it for you.

Why should someone buy a used car from Fenton Fine Used Cars?

Because of our lower overhead, we can offer lower prices. We also have financing available. All of our cars are checked by a certified AC Delco mechanic with 35 years of experience. Each vehicle comes with a CarFax.

What else would you like people to know about you and your business?

We've got "Deehl's on Wheels." Come on over and check us out.

Donald Winglemire 1925-2017

Donald Winglemire - age 91, of Holly, died Wednesday, January 11, 2017. Funeral services will be held at 1 PM Tuesday, January 17, 2017 at the Dryer Funeral Home, Holly. Burial will be in Lakeside Cemetery, Holly. Visitation will be from 2-9 PM Sunday, January 15, 2017 and Monday, January 16, 2017. He was born November 20, 1925 to Maurice Winglemire and Edna Burkhardt Winglemire in the village of Holly in a house (now known as Joseph's Oak Shop) across the street from the present Winglemire Furniture, in the back room by the pot belly stove. His family eventually moved to 208 College Street. Don's grade school years were spent at the school on the corner of Baird and Washington Streets. He attended high school at the Union School located on College Street. During Don's high school years, he worked for P.A. Wright & Sons Hardware. Don's father Maurice died in 1943 just before Don graduated from high school. Don was drafted into the U.S. Navy during World War II, serving on a light cruiser, the USS Atlanta. He saw action in the Pacific and in the Battle of Okinawa. His rank was PhMC2, a photographer mate, and he took photographs of the Nagasaki devastation and many other significant events during his Navy career. When he returned home from the Navy, Don and his mother Edna co-operated Winglemire Furniture. In 1948, Don married Hazel Williams of Holly in Angola, Indiana. They built a new home on Bevins Lake property in 1952, where Hazel passed in 2007 and Don resided until his death. Don always loved Holly and called it his home. He implemented the revitalization of downtown Holly in 1986 and worked many long hours to make Holly a better place for its businesses and residents. Don was a member of the Holly Village Council for 26 years, served on the Downtown Development Authority, served on the Holly Township Board of Trustees, and was the Township Zoning Board Chairman for 20 years; he also served on the Holly Park Authority, the

Holly Veterans Memorial Association, Holly Kiwanis Club, Holly American Legion, Holly Royal order of the Moose, Holly Veterans of Foreign Wars, Holly Masons Lodge, Holly Chamber of Commerce, Holly Historical Commission, Holly Community Fund, Military Order of the Cootie, and Boys Scouts, where he achieved Eagle Scout status. Don was certified as an Interior Designer, belonged to the Michigan Retailer's Association, was a Holly Retail Merchant for seventy years, and was president of Winglemire Furnitre, Joseph's Oak Shop, and Holly Gas Company. During Don's younger years, he continued to dabble in photography and processed his photos in a dark room in his basement. Don enjoyed scuba diving and belonged to the Michigan Skin Diving Council and the Holly Skin Diver's Club. He also loved hunting and fishing, especially at his cabin in Sidnaw. Don and some of his buddies formed a bowling team that Winglemire Furniture sponsored, and they were champions for many years. Don loved gardening and even had a greenhouse built next to his home. He cultivated beautiful geraniums and rows and rows of roses. Don had a plethora of collections, from antique toys to historical data on Holly. Blood test results wildly different

DEAR DR. ROACH:

I went in for an annual examination with my primary-care doctor, and she had my blood tested at a laboratory. She told me that I have high potassium, 5.5, and had me retake it. I did, and the test came back with a much lower level of 4.3. What could have caused the level to go up so high? Was this due to eating a lot of avocado and yogurt? I was eating a whole avocado for breakfast and a yogurt with apple and peach. Should I be seeing a specialist to recheck it? Please advise what I should do. — A.V.R.

DEAR DR. ROACH:

I have chronic constipation, and have had this most of my life. I have used most of the bulking (husk) things that are out there. Nothing works for me. Years ago, I went to my doctor, and he said that I could use MiraLAX and use it for the rest of my life. It has worked. Now my new doctor wants me off of it, wants me to incorporate fiber into my diet. I already do this. Plus I drink a lot of water in a day. I start my day with 24 ounces of water every morning before anything else. Is there anything wrong with taking MiraLAX every day? I do not take the full dose. — V.B.

To your GOOD
BY KEITH ROACH, M.D.

ANSWER: Avocados and yogurt are high-potassium foods, and peaches and apples are medium-potassium foods. Most people can take in high amounts of potassium without worry, since the kidney is very good at getting rid of potassium if the body doesn't need it. I more often see low potassium levels, from poor intake or from medications, such as diuretics, which can cause the body to lose potassium. However, some people with kidney disease (especially severe kidney disease) need to carefully watch and limit oral potassium intake. By far the biggest reason for a potassium blood test to come out abnormally high relates to the lab itself. Samples that sit around a long time or that are shaken will have broken blood cells, which release high levels of potassium into the serum, causing false elevations in the lab. If you didn't change your diet between the two tests, there is no reason to worry at all. Your primary doctor is the right person to see.

ANSWER:

While I recommend non-drug treatments, such as increased water intake, high-fiber diet and exercise, as treatment for constipation, that doesn't work for everybody. In that case, using a medication as recommended by your doctor makes sense. Polyethylene glycol (MiraLAX) is a generally safe treatment that works by increasing fluid in the bowel. It's a good idea to use it as little as is needed to keep the stool from getting uncomfortably hard.

Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow 4-6 weeks for delivery.

Cheesesteak Stuffed Peppers

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 large green bell peppers
- 2 tsp olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 oz mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 red bell pepper, diced
- 1/4 tsp black pepper
- 1/4 tsp sea salt
- 1 medium yellow onion, chopped
- 1lb flank steak or flat iron steak, thinly sliced
- 1 tsp Worcestershire sauce
- 4 slices Provolone cheese

DIRECTIONS:

Preheat oven to 400 degrees and spray an 8x8 baking dish with olive oil, set aside. Bring a pot of water to a boil. Slice green peppers in half, remove seeds and ribs and place them in the boiling water for 3-5 minutes until they are tender. Remove peppers from the water carefully. Place cut side down on a towel and let water drain. In a 12" skillet, heat olive oil on medium. Add garlic, onion, mushrooms, red bell pepper, sea salt & pepper. Sauté 4-5 minutes until onions are translucent. Add steak slices and Worcestershire sauce and cook until meat is cooked to your liking. Place green peppers open side up in your baking dish. Fill each pepper with meat mixture until they are overflowing. Top with slice of cheese. Bake in oven for 10 minutes until cheese is golden brown. Serve hot!
