‘Greatest Show on Earth’ has local ties

■ Fenton train depot and home in Holly have history connected to Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

Earlier this month, the announcement came that on May 7 Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus will be closing after 146 years. Declining attendance and high operating costs were given as the reasons for closing. Attendance dropped significantly when the circus finally gave in to animal rights activists and retired their elephants in 2016.

One of P.T. Barnum's most famous elephants, Jumbo, made a visit to Fenton in 1883. He was the star of Barnum's "Greatest Show on Earth." Traveling circuses and tent shows were a common site at the Fenton train depot yard, which is now tucked away behind the Fenton Fire Department off Caroline Street.

Two years later, the famed elephant met its death when it was bumped off the railroad tracks by a locomotive in Canada.

Normally Board of Education members visit schools on their own time during events, or at random individualized visits. Some speed limit changes may be coming to downtown Fenton and nearby streets. On Monday, Jan. 23, the Fenton City Council heard information on the installation and/or change to speed limit signs in four areas, but tabled voting on the matter until its February meeting.

Drowsy driving cause of one in five fatal crashes nationwide

■ More than one-third of drivers admit to falling asleep behind the wheel

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

We all have to admit that we've done it a time or two — nodded off while driving, especially after a long day's work.

Fortunately, most people only close their eyes for less than a split second and realize how lucky they are to have avoided a crash.

Others are not so fortunate. Nodding off for a split second and actually falling asleep at the wheel are two different things.

Drowsiness was involved in one of five fatal crashes nationwide last year. An estimated 328,000 crashes each year, including 109,000 injury crashes and 6,400 fatal crashes, involve a drowsy driver.

AAA reports that men have twice as many drowsy driving crashes as women, and more than half of drowsy driving crashes involve drivers drifting out of their lanes or off the road.

After getting only five to six hours of sleep, crash risk increased by 1.9 times compared to getting normal sleep of seven hours.

According to research by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety, driving after only four to five hours of sleep can be compared to driving with a blood alcohol level equal to or slightly above the legal limit for alcohol in the U.S.

According to AAA, 37 percent of drivers report having fallen asleep behind the wheel at some point in their lives. In this 2007 photo, the at-fault driver had fallen asleep while driving and caused this crash on Owen Road.

Experts recommend that healthy adults should sleep for seven to nine hours daily. Teens and young adults, people who are ill, and people who are recovering from sleep deprivation may require more sleep.

Sleep deprivation slows reactions to stimuli, decreases accuracy of responses, and leads to long lapses in attention.

Previous AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety research has estimated that 7 percent of all crashes in which a vehicle was towed from a scene, 13 percent of all crashes that result in hospital admission, and 16 to 21 percent of all fatal crashes involve a drowsy driver.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that approximately 18 percent of adults in the United States sleep for less than seven hours in a given 24-hour period, including 2 percent who sleep for less than four hours.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention indicate that 35 percent of adults in the United States usually sleep less than seven hours, including 12 percent who report that they usually sleep less than five hours.

Sometimes it's the job that's the problem

Some professions are more conducive to long hours of work and fewer hours of sleep.

They include some truck drivers. One local family learned the hard way what can happen when a truck driver is sleep-deprived.

Janelle Durk

Janelle Durk was only 15 when her life was cut short by a tired truck driver, causing her family's crash on an Illinois highway in July 2006.

This photo of Janelle Durk was taken in July 2006, about 12 hours before the fatal crash that claimed her life.

The at-fault truck driver had in fact fallen asleep. He drove for 39 hours straight with no sleep. Today, he is serving a 10-year sentence for reckless homicide and three years for violating Illinois Motor Carrier Safety Laws. He was on parole at the time of the accident that claimed Janelle's life. She was not his first victim, she was his third.

Citizenship is a two-way street

Years ago, I read a column about ‘rights’ in America. You have the right to an attorney. You have the right to remain silent. You have the right to free speech, and the right to bear arms.

Cruel and unusual punishment? Unreasonable search and seizure? Being tried twice for the same crime? Those would all be violations of your rights. All these, and many more, are rights automatically conferred on us the moment we become citizens. And nearly all Americans are familiar with these rights.

But there is also a flip side to being an American — a side we don’t hear so much about in these days of ‘rights.’

That flip side is ‘responsibilities.’ Responsibilities are the twin sister of rights. Ask any citizen what their rights are and they can spew them out like an auctioneer on steroids. Yet, ask the average citizen what the responsibilities of being an American citizen are and you’ll likely be met with a stare as empty as a politician’s campaign promises.

Ergo, here are a few reminders of the responsibilities that all Americans share as citizens of the greatest country on the planet.

- Pay your own way, nobody owes you a living and that includes other taxpayers. You have a responsibility to get a job, pay your bills and pay your taxes.
- Respect and obey all federal, state and local laws.
- Defend your country when called upon.
- Take care of your own children. Feed, clothe and house them. Raise them, teach them right from wrong, and instill an appreciation in them for their country. Yes, this seems simple, but apparently, a lot of people still don’t get it.
- Secure the future of America. Whether you think of America as ‘the land of opportunity,’ or the ‘the land of the free and the home of the brave,’ we all have a duty to preserve what’s great about this nation so that future generations of Americans can experience the same love and patriotism as we do.

• Become an informed and educated voter. In recent years, there has been a big push to get all Americans to vote. Not everyone has to be a political junkie, but it would be wonderful if people took the time to become well informed about the basic political landscape instead of voting on who has the best TV ads.

• Defend our Constitution. For God’s sake, the Constitution contains the fundamental rules that we live under. Almost all of the ‘rights’ we enjoy are defined and guaranteed by the Constitution. Yet, the Constitution is under attack daily by radicals and liberals who want to ‘fundamentally change America.’ It’s a cause that is literally worth fighting for because it is the core document that protects the rights enjoyed by all Americans.

• Make America first. The rest of the world doesn’t really care whether you or I live or die — only our fellow Americans do. At the end of the day all citizens enjoy a special level of kinship — we are all family by the simple, but fortunate, virtue of being Americans.

A LOT OF people should have to go to dog training before they get a dog. A lot of people don’t pick up after their dog and I’m tired of picking up after your pet. The poor pet suffers.

I’M PRETTY SURE that the King did nothing about that dog, otherwise like Donald Trump, he’d have been shooting his mouth off about what a great man he is and how he’s going to make Fenton great again.

LIBERALS CAN’T ACCEPT the election? How about Republicans can’t accept the results the last two elections. We had our Democratic black president beat out two of your white candidates and you guys couldn’t accept it for eight years. All you did was stonewall and hold back progress for eight years.

LISTEN UP MARGARET Drive residents. Make sure to lock everything up. Cars, houses, garages. The thieves are back again. Beware.

FOUNDATIONS CREATED BY wealthy people do a great deal of good in the world. For political reasons, it would make sense to thoroughly investigate both the Trump and the Clinton foundations. Let’s find out if those are useful organizations or if they’re just tax dodges for the rich.

BEEN LISTENING TO MSNBC and how idiotic and delusional they are when it comes to President Trump and his inauguration speech. Sixty-nine Democrats are not only boycotting Trump’s inauguration, they are boycotting the American way of life. Democrats would rather protect and promote illegals in this country than promote American exceptionalism.

I’D LIKE TO know who is paying these protesters to create havoc.

THE MR. ‘O’ military legacy — 10,000 troops in Afghanistan, 5,000 he snuck back into Iraq, 300 in Syria, he finally bombed the ISIS training camps in Libya. Finally, did something he should have done a year ago.

THE THING I have with all the killing in Chicago over the years is that the same politicians are too easily re-elected.

I FIND IT funny and ironic that the Tri-county Times always has a Republican slant and the Republicans want to stop paying for public notices in their publication. Karma.

FOR PEOPLE WHO don’t respect George W. Bush, please ask yourselves how 9/11 would have been handled under an Obama administration.

ONE OF TRUMP’S first acts as president was to raise FHA rates. I hope the struggling Americans who voted for him are happy with this act.

THANK YOU LINDEN Board of Education for looking into the balanced calendar and delayed start initiatives. There is a plethora of scientific research and evidence to support longer sleep periods for brain function in adolescents. Teachers will not like it for obvious reasons, but it is best for the kids.

A SMALL WEST coast bakery was sued and driven out of business for refusing to bake a wedding cake for a gay couple due to their beliefs. Hollywood performers refused to perform at President Trump’s inauguration due to their beliefs. Should they be sued/driven out of business? Double standard?

RECOGNIZING THE IMPORTANCE of understanding others, and wanting a better understanding of Donald Trump, I Googled ‘delusion of grandeur.’ Now I have a better understanding.

VERA HOGAN’S ‘LETTER to Barron’ was mean and snarky. I can’t believe a journalist would actually try to bully a 10-year-old child, leave him alone.

Auto show is great father-son time

By Tim Jagielo

tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795

Detroit — As a journalist, it's my job to notice people, and I always notice families at these events.

The North American International Auto Show (NAIAS) just ended. There were approximately 815,000 attendees. That's a lot of family experiences, surrounded by automobiles.

My favorite is when moms and dads are huddled around a new engine, and the parent explains its features to their child who more often than not, are actually interested in it.

I especially liked seeing one dad talking to his daughter about a 650-horsepower supercharged LT4, which powers the Corvette.

But my favorite thing is getting to spend time with my dad, also named Tim Jagielo. We go almost every year. I drive, he buys breakfast and we walk around.

We share the bond of a love of cars, especially Jeeps. He was disappointed there were no 2018 Wranglers available to see.

We comment on how huge pick-up trucks are today, and how some manufacturer's offerings all look the same.

Despite his background with GM, he lets me drag him to the Subaru and Honda areas.

This year we discovered that you could stroll around with a beer and look at cars, which I would gladly do semi-annually. He deeply regretted his choice of a malted ale, which I agreed, was the grossest bitter alcohol I've ever drank.

After the show, we got lunch at a sports bar, talked about family, and what the heck he's going to do after he retires (I suggested he'd get bored and just build wooden utility shelves everywhere.)

My niece and nephew are a little too young to go — but I think their toddler minds would be blown away by the larger than life colors and sounds.

BUT THE CARS —

Since the Honda Element went out of production, the auto show has been a little flat to me. While there are still Jeeps, there's nothing new since FCO hasn't unveiled its 2018 Jeep models yet.

Highlights for me included anything with a hatch-back and four-wheel drive. I liked the tiny Fiat 500X wagon, with an interesting interior, and it reminded me that I miss having a sunroof in my car. It would probably be really fun car with a stick shift.

As always, the most attention is given to big-three super cars. The Ford GT, the Corvette and the Dodge Viper all draw the most crowds and the most cameras. They're also the ones I care the least about — I'd rather check out the cargo area of a Ford Escape.

I was honestly most impressed by the brand new Lincoln Continental. The engineers at Ford crammed an incredible amount of luxury into that vehicle... not that I have a clue about luxury cars. Anyway, the massaging seats are kind of creepy, but the interior is gorgeous.

2017 NAIAS FACTS

The 2017 show topped 800,000 visitors, pumping approximately $450 million into the regional economy. Attendance was approximately 9,500 fewer than in 2016. There were 46 vehicles unveiled, such as a teaser for the 2020 Ford Bronco and Ranger. Volkswagen shared its new van concept, the "I.D. Buzz," which is all electric with a self-driving mode.

Jumbo was originally captured in Africa and spent time in London. When Barnum purchased him to star in his circus, they left London in 1882. Standing at about 12 feet and weighing 7 tons, Jumbo loved Scotch whiskey and was given it regularly during the Atlantic Ocean crossing.

In Holly

The village of Holly also has a claim to the "Greatest Show on Earth." The 3,200-square-foot house at the corner of College Street and Sherman Avenue was built by James Anthony Bailey of the Barnum & Bailey Circus, according to a January 2013 article in the Times when the house was for sale.

The mansion, reportedly built by Bailey in 1903 for his brother, features six bedrooms, seven fireplaces, one of

Freedoms

We are indeed fortunate to live in a country where we have been given certain guaranteed rights. These rights are the result of a combination of the wisdom of our forefathers and the bravery of countless men and women in our military who fought to keep these rights preserved.

Among these rights are the freedoms, which we all enjoy and are embodied both in our Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Much has been written about these freedoms and different people have historically expressed different opinions about what they are and mean.

For example, Jan. 6, 2017 marked the 76th anniversary of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous four freedoms speech in which he proclaimed before the United States entered World War II, that we should continue to aid Great Britain as we were fighting for four universal freedoms — freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear. Although the first two freedoms are clearly in the Bill of Rights, the last two aren't, although it can be argued that they are inferred. Remember our country was founded on the principle that we have certain unalienable rights including life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

I won't go over all of our rights and freedoms here, but will simply observe that last Friday we saw President Donald Trump's inauguration ceremony, which was followed on Saturday by some rather large national protests against his presidency.

In our nation's history there have been other national protests, but I don't recall anything like this involving an inauguration.

These protests were real life examples of people exercising their rights to freedom of speech and assembly.

Not everyone agreed with the protests, but as English writer Evelyn Beatrice Hall once wrote, I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.

All rights also carry responsibilities. Reportedly, there were some violent protests and laws may have been broken. That decision is left to another day. If there were violations, people will be held accountable.

Our country came through the demonstrations with flying colors and at the end of the day, we still have an orderly system of government in place with all of our freedoms. For that, we should be grateful.

Milk money?

■ You're likely eligible for a rebate if you've bought milk or dairy products since 2003

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Milk drinkers in 15 states and the District of Columbia have one more reason to raise their glass for another sip.

Because of a class-action lawsuit settlement against members of Cooperatives Working Together, customers who bought milk or other dairy products in grocery stores since 2003 are eligible for a rebate.

Cooperatives Working Together is a group of American farmers, including Dairy Farmers of America, Land O'Lakes, Dairy Lea Cooperative and Agri-Mark.

The $52 million settlement comes after allegations that companies slaughtered more than 500,000 cows to reduce the milk supply and inflate prices.

This scheme went on for eight years, according to a news report on local TV that aired Jan. 16.

If you've purchased milk, Half & Half, yogurt, cottage cheese, cream cheese or sour cream in a grocery store since 2003, you're eligible, and no proof of purchase is necessary.

The electronic form is available on www.boughtmilk.com and calls for your first and last name, plus an email address and an answer to several questions. The deadline to submit a claim is Jan. 31.

The payment amount will vary depending on the number of products and the number of submitted claims, but appears to be about $10 to $20. Schools and retailers may be eligible for larger rebates.

"We're looking into it, but don't know how it will affect us yet," said store manager Brooke Card of Alpine Marketplace in Linden.

Local dairy farmers Albert and Tammy Gramer of Gramer Farms in Deerfield Township heard the news for the first time when the story was aired.

"Please don't assume that all farmers did this," she wrote on her Facebook page. "We did not!"

She said in a phone interview that they hadn't heard a thing about this until they saw it on TV. "I don't think this will affect us at all, but I don't know."

The Gramer family milks 200 head of cow and farms 800 acres.

Other states involved in the settlement include Arizona, California, Kansas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

'Got milk?' used as a headline could cause legal issues

The Times originally planned to use "Got milk?" as a headline for this story about the milk class-action lawsuit, but decided that we didn't want to get sued. The California Milk Producers Association adopted the "Got milk?" campaign in 1993, and anyone who used the slogan could face legal action. The "Got milk?" campaign became wildly popular in the 1990s, and featured more than 300 celebrities sporting milk mustaches.

Two state reps, two perfect voting records

■ In contrast, Senator Jim Ananich misses 150 of 4,575 votes

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

State Representatives Joe Graves (R-Dist. 51) and Hank Vaupel (R-Dist. 47) took part in every roll-call House vote since they took office, according to MichiganVotes.org, which tracks all legislation in Michigan.

Graves voted in every one of the 3,424 votes that were placed before the House since he took office February 2012.

"I made a commitment to people in Genesee and Oakland counties that I would represent their interests in Lansing, and a big part of that obligation includes taking part in every vote put before the House," Graves said. "Many of my Republican colleagues also had perfect voting records, which has resulted in a more accountable, efficient and effective state government."

Graves represents parts of Genesee County and Oakland County, including the townships of Argentine, Atlas, Fenton, Flushing, Gaines, Groveland, Holly, and Rose, and the cities of Linden and Fenton. He was reelected November 2016 to serve another two years.

Since Vaupel took office January 2015 for his first term, he has voted in every 1,261 roll call votes.

"When people entrust you to be their representative at the state level or at any level you should be accountable to the people, and by being here to actually vote is a form of accountability and transparency," Vaupel said.

Vaupel, who represents the people of Livingston County, including the townships of Deerfield, Hartland, Howell,

Joe Graves

Hank Vaupel

Tyrone and others, as well as the city of Howell and part of the city of Fenton, said they vote on more bills during the lame duck session.

"Anything that's introduced that didn't pass by the end of the legislative period (is) gone. They have to be reintroduced," he said. "More votes will come up because people are trying to get them passed."

Sen. Jim Ananich (D-Dist. 27) has missed 150 votes out of 4,575 since his was elected in 2013.

"While I have cast over 4,400 votes in the Legislature, occasionally family matters and major events like visits from former President Obama take me away from the Capitol," Ananich said.

Sen. Dave Robertson (R-Dist. 26) missed 149 out of 11,013 votes since 2001.

The truck driver, Robert Whitney, is scheduled to be paroled at the end of August this year.

Since their daughter's death, the Durks have been lobbying to get trucking industry regulations changed.

The information and photos on the Facebook page, "Justice for Janelle" shows the passion the Durks have for this cause. Her mother, Sherry, has followed nearly every accident related to deaths caused by fatigued truck drivers since her daughter's death, and shared the information on the "Justice for Janelle" Facebook page.

Whitney remains in prison.

Lisa Tagge

On Nov. 7, 1980, another tragedy occurred as a result of a driver that fell asleep at the wheel. Lisa Tagge, 8, was killed while she was waiting for the school bus at 8 a.m. She was a third-grader at the then Linden School and a Girl Scout Brownie.

According to a Nov. 10, 1980 Tri-County News article, Lisa, who lived on South Linden Road, was waiting for the bus in a neighbor's driveway when she was struck by an out-of-control car.

The Genesee County Sheriff's Office reported that the driver of the car, a 49-year-old nurse on her way home from her shift, reportedly fell asleep at the wheel.

Lisa was standing in the driveway with four other children, who saw the car go out of control. They started running up the driveway toward the house. The driver went across the lawn, struck Lisa, continued on then hit a tree and finally stopped about 500 feet from the accident.

The nurse tried to administer first aid to Lisa but collapsed in shock.

According to an "American Nurse Today," report, studies show that the odds of making patient errors increases three-fold when nurses work 12-hour vs. 8-1/2-hour shifts. The health and safety of both nurses and patients are uncertain.

In addition to the issue of their fitness to practice while on duty, the question, too, is what about their degree of alertness while driving to and from work while working 12-hour shifts?

It is unknown whether the driver that struck and killed Lisa Tagge worked more than an 8-hour shift that fateful day, however, she was coming home in the morning after working her shift.

Recall petition language approved

The Board of State Canvassers approved language Monday to begin a recall petition against Gov. Rick Snyder. Quincy Murphy of Flint filed the petition, citing the handling of the Flint Water Crisis. Language on the petition expires 180 days after its approval. Organizers of the recall petition would need 789,133 valid signatures in a 60-day period within that 180-day timeframe.

that caused someone to accidentally flip their car.

Mathis said Dalhart Drive is a very narrow road and there's no room for people to park. In past years, residents tried to create a special assessment district. However, the report found the road too narrow to bring up to standard, Mathis explained.

She said she would request another report on it.

"When I started in office, I said the two worst roads in this township was number one Dalhart and Hogan and that is still the truth," Mathis said.

Roy Kenny said the intersection at Lahring and North roads needs improvement.

"When you come up there, the stop sign is about 40 feet back from the edge of Lahring, and you have to go all the way up, put the nose of your car on the edge of Lahring Road to see if any cars are coming," he said. "You can't see because of the brush."

Kenny also said this happens at the intersections of Thompson and Jennings roads, and Lahring and Torrey roads. He suggested that the intersections need to be better marked, possibly with a yellow dotted stripe.

"I really think it's a safety hazard," he said.

Another proposed road improvement project came from 11-year-old Trenton Ketterer, and his parents, regarding the condition of their road, W. Ray Road between Torrey and Fenton roads.

"This has been an issue ever since we've moved onto the road. Every time it rains, the road turns into a muddy mess and I have to walk through this to get to the bus every morning," he said. "By the time I get to school, my shoes are covered in mud."

He said the bus ride is horrible because of all the potholes.

Trenton's dad, Terry said the road is terrible year round.

"You can't seem to keep enough gravel on it ever. I think one issue is due to the drainage. The house directly across from us, for about 11 months out of the year, is covered in water."

He said he feels bad for the little girl who lives there, because she has to wear a pair of chest waders in order to wade through the water and get to the bus every morning.

Terry said they had to replace the shocks on their car twice in the past year, and some of their friends recently moved due to the road. They might consider moving if the road isn't improved.

Since Ray Road represents the line between Fenton Township and Mundy Township in that area, Tom Broecker, Fenton Township operations manager and deputy clerk, said they'd have to meet with Mundy Township to discuss the road.

Mathis said the township will give the recommendations to the GCRC, and it will take approximately one or two months for engineers to complete their assessments of the proposed projects.

BOARD OF ED

Hartley stated, "The sessions proved to be purposeful as we continue to focus on what problems may lie ahead and combat outside threats such as lower birth rates and school financing."

The meetings were set to introduce the new board members to the schools, and gather data for future strategic planning sessions.

Board members include President Rick Koester, Vice President Keith Reynolds, Secretary Dana Jones, Treasurer Pam Dickie, and trustees Kim Gruber, Kristen Harmon and Lynn Hopper.

At 8:30 a.m., Koester's group met with high school students who take either advanced placement (AP) or International baccalaureate (IB) classes.

They asked about the benefits of the classes, and some shortcomings in the district.

Senior Justin Beemer, 17, commented about staffing the classes. He said that IB classes can be less effective when taught by a substitute teacher who is not totally familiar with the program.

The other group dropped in on fifth-graders using laptops for their Capstone projects at Tomek-Eastern Elementary. These are the final research projects of their elementary school years.

Reynolds, Jones and Gruber chatted with the Tomek-Eastern Student Leadership Council after observing a class.

After the visits, board members conducted focus groups with parents, students and teachers, which Hartley said helped the board identify strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and potential threats.

Koester said, "It was clear to me that public education is alive and well, and when deployed properly, it's highly effective."

Koester visited FHS, State Road, and North Road elementary schools. This is his first time in an all-day visiting workshop, and he'd like to see it happen a few times a year. "I think it was a tremendously valuable use of everyone's time," he said.

One takeaway he had was that the school district needs to better communicate its strengths to families in surrounding communities.

MORE ON THE FOCUS GROUPS

According to Hartley, most of the focus groups were exploring "SWOT Analysis" which stands for Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats.

Each group's SWOT chart was sorted and archived to find common themes among the groups.

Some common themes were:

Strengths: instructional models, quality staff and caring approach.

Weaknesses: need to have more STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) opportunities for students.

Opportunities: marketing the programs and opportunity so our potential families know what FAPS does well.

Threats: The current state of school financing and the ability to afford necessary staffing and k-12 programs.

“It was clear to me that public education is alive and well.”

Rick Koester
School board president

Fenton resident Tracy Bottecelli was one of nearly half a million people who marched at Saturday's Women's March on Washington.

'We were all one voice'

■ Fenton native Tracy Bottecelli marched at Saturday's Women's March on Washington

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Tracy Bottecelli was born and raised in Fenton, daughter of former Mayor Paul Bottecelli and granddaughter of Italian immigrants who came to this country in the early 1900s.

"There was lots of discrimination when they first got here, but they became business owners, raised five children and became successful," said Bottecelli, 61. "My grandparents were always all-inclusive."

That is one of the reasons she chose to participate in the Women's March on Washington on Saturday, Jan. 21 with 10 other women, eight of whom were originally from Fenton.

They arrived in Washington, D.C. Friday evening in time for dinner, and marched peacefully on Saturday, along with nearly half a million others to the South Lawn of The White House.

Photos of the event show a sea of pink hats worn by not only women, but also by other supporters at the march.

"It was the most peaceful moment," she said. "It was so energizing and gave me so much hope that people want to be humane to each other and care about each other."

Bottecelli said she didn't march against the newly-elected President Donald Trump's administration, but was more concerned about the disenfranchisement of women's rights, LGBT rights, immigration rights, the Muslim and black communities and "our children's futures."

"It wasn't anything like 'you're bad and we're good,'" she said. "It was more like, 'let's just be kind to one another.'"

The group got up early Sunday morning to return home to Fenton. "I really want to hang on to the momentum that I felt during the march," she said. "When we watched videos of other marches that took place around the world, we just balled. We were all one voice."

Other locals take part in the march

Autumn Webb of Fenton and two of her friends traveled to Washington, D.C. to take part in the Women's March on Washington. They walked for Flint wearing Flint Lives Matter T-shirts as well as carrying signs, which read, "Flint, MI ... no clean water in 1,002 days." Webb said, "The march was an incredible experience. I am proud that we marched for the people of this amazing city to raise awareness for a problem that has gone on for too long." She added that it is important to shed light on this crisis again, especially after the overwhelming response they received from other Americans over the weekend. "The general consensus from the rest of our country is shock and confusion," she said. "Most people are under the impression that the water crisis is over and that the problem has been resolved."

INAUGURATION

"It was fascinating," said Senyko. "To see that vote. To have a Michigander in. It was wonderful."

"As a woman, it speaks volumes. Trump selected her. It's wonderful for her and Michigan."

Also on Thursday, Senyko said he heard a very heart-wrenching speech by Reince Priebus, the new White House chief of staff. "We're about the same age. He was so choked up as he thanked his family," Senyko said.

Friday was the big day, said Senyko.

"I've never seen more people in my life, by far," he said. As one who has attended MSU vs. UM football games at UM-Ann Arbor where there are more than 110,000 seats, Senyko is used to large crowds. "This inauguration dwarfed that," he said. "There were five or six major entry points and there were more than 100,000 at each point. The actual count — I have no clue."

Senyko's group listened to speeches but could not see the President because they were so far away. He was able, however, to catch a glimpse of former President Obama's motorcade as it drove past him.

With so many protesters and supporters in town, Senyko said he witnessed numerous verbal arguments, which ended with people just walking away from each other.

His hotel, Embassy Suites, was just two blocks away from the Bank of America building, where protesters rioted and caused damage.

Senyko's group attended a Michigan ball at the American History Museum. It was not an official ball that the President attended, but one that was for Michigan. He said there were numerous balls every evening and he saw tuxes and evening gowns everywhere.

There were just three official balls for President Trump, down from President Obama's nine official balls. Senyko said the new president wanted to tone it down some and reduced the number to three.

Support for the new president was off the chart and opposition was also off the chart, according to Senyko.

"It was so interesting to be a part of it all," he said.

Security was extremely high, much like that at an airport. "We went through two ticket checkpoints just to get in. You could barely carry anything in."

"It was such a fascinating experience," Senyko said. "You got to see the full spectrum of American society."

Johnson said, "I enjoyed meeting with fellow Republicans from Michigan and across the country to witness a peaceful transition of power, which is a unique American tradition that celebrates our democracy. I was honored to have the opportunity to attend."

recent traffic study.

He said, "After the Streetscape was completed, city administration wanted to take a look at the speed limits on South LeRoy to determine if they were still appropriate.

"We decided to use a traffic study to do that. A traffic study is much more comprehensive method of examining and possibly changing speed limits than the other alternative, which is counting the speed study was conducted, the results examined by the city's traffic engineer, Pete LaMorie of Progressive Engineering in Grand Rapids, who then made recommendations regarding changes.

"The temporary changes to the speed limits were made last fall," said Aro.

The speed limit on South LeRoy between Silver Lake Road and West Shiawassee could decrease from 30 miles per hour to 25 mph. A new sign will reflect that change, if approved by council.

A new 30 mph speed limit sign that could be installed on South LeRoy Street, south of Elizabeth Street on the west shoulder of the roadway facing north.

The 30 mph sign could be replaced with a 35 mph sign on South LeRoy Street, north of Jayne on the east shoulder facing south. A new 35 mph sign may be installed on the west shoulder facing north south of South Holly Road.

The 30 mph sign could be replaced with a 35 mph sign on South LeRoy Street, near High and Union.

On Monday, the council did approve the installation of 2-hour parking, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. signs in front of each parking space in O'Donnell Park.

Fenton swimmers place second at Genesee county meet

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The county meet is one of the first chances for area swimmers to compete against some elite competition and push themselves toward important time standards for the rest of the season.

The Fenton varsity swim team, took advantage of that fact on Friday and Saturday, and captured second in the 11-team event in the process. Holly also competed and placed 11th.

The Tigers captured two county event championships, collected one state-qualifying time and recorded seven other Michigan Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association (MISCA) time qualifying performances at the Genesee County Meet.

Justin Beemer and Evan Bartow were the swimmers who won event titles. Bartow won the 500 freestyle (5:06.59) while Beemer took the top spot in the 100 freestyle (51.66). Both also were MISCA-qualifying times, which will be another good opportunity to swim against strong competition and possibly capture state-qualifying times.

Hot start, effort sparks Fenton vs. Eagles

Tigers' defense stifles Linden in Fenton's 66-43 win

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Fenton — The Fenton varsity boys basketball team probably played its best game of the season against area rivals Linden on Friday night.

Conversely, the Eagles (3-2 in the Metro) shockingly played what may have been their worst game of the season.

It's pretty easy to figure out what happened. Fenton scored the game's first eight points and never trailed en route to a 66-43 victory at home against the Linden Eagles on Friday.

The Tigers (3-3 in the Metro) said they were fueled by some rather lackluster performances in recent contests. Of course, playing your biggest rival at home in front of a large crowd didn't hurt either.

"We had a rough couple of games before this and we wanted to get back on track for our rivals," senior Greg Lukas said. "We had to get the team back on track, get it going the right way.

We wanted to get the energy going again, and it was there definitely."

"We watched the last two games and we didn't have any energy," Fenton varsity boys basketball coach John Gilbert said. "We didn't play any defense. We played hard defensively today. It was different. That was our goal — to increase our energy and play hard. Linden had a hard time doing what they wanted to do early. We had a bunch of guys play well. We handled the ball well. We shot the ball well. We won the game on the defensive end, and we got that energy from everybody. Good for us."

It wasn't so good for the Linden side of things.

"We got behind early and for whatever reason they outworked us," Linden's varsity boys basketball coach Chris Root said. "They defended us and they did a really nice job on us, both on offense and defense. I'm not sure what it was, but we did not bring it tonight. We did not have the normal energy and intensity that we've had the last couple of games."

Strong third quarter sparks Fenton's league win

Fenton — Anyone who has ever talked to Becki Moore about basketball knows she treasures one basketball philosophy more than other.

That thought is it takes the entire team's contributions to earn a victory, or be successful over the course of a season.

The Fenton varsity girls basketball team made Moore's vision look pretty good on Friday night.

The Fenton varsity girls basketball team used its entire roster to earn a 50-37 Metro League victory against area rival Linden at Fenton High School.

All but two players scored points, but all played meaningful minutes and performed in one aspect of the game at some time. But even with that type of contribution it took awhile before the Tigers opened up a lead.

That's because the Linden Eagles played one of their best halves of basketball during the first 16 minutes.

Miller's jumper leads LF's win vs. Corunna

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com

Jalen Miller has been the Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball team's top scorer all season long.

So it makes sense if the Blue Devils need a game-winning shot, he's probably the go-to guy for that shot.

He was on Friday night when that opportunity presented itself in a road game against Corunna, and Miller made it pay off.

Miller nailed a 17-foot jumper at the buzzer, earning Lake Fenton a 55-

54 victory against the Corunna Cavaliers.

It was a competitive game all night long. Lake Fenton trailed at one time in the first half, due to Mitchell Skym's 12 first-half points, all coming from behind the 3-point line. However, the Blue Devils ended the half with a nice run, taking a 30-27 lead into the break. The game remained close from that point on.

"We did a good job in the second quarter of speeding the game up and getting on in transition to make up the nine-point deficit and to go up three at the half," Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball coach Jake Erway said.

Miller finished the game with 20 points and 10 rebounds, while Andrew Foerster had 15 points, nine coming in the first half, and seven rebounds. Skym finished with 18 points, all from behind the 3-point arc.

"I give a lot of credit to Corunna," Lake Fenton varsity boys coach Jake Erway said. "They came out with a ton of energy and intensity on defense and forced some difficult possessions for us offensively."

Lady Bronchos hold on to edge Brandon, 45-40

By Dale M. Smith

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Ortonville — The Holly girls basketball team overcame a slow start and a shaky finish to hold off and defeat the Brandon Blackhaws in Ortonville Friday night, 45-40.

After having several years with teams laden with upperclassmen, the Bronchos only start one senior and only have three on the team. With senior Alexandra Karakuc not available for this one, Holly only had eight girls available.

But, sophomore Becca Fugate came up with a huge game to help give Holly the win.

Both teams were sloppy and turnover-prone in the first quarter as Brandon led 9-5 at the end of the first stanza. Fugate scored six of Holly's first eight points to keep it close.

While Fugate was helping steady the ship, fellow sophomore, Peyton Price, hustled her way to several rebounds that gave Holly some momentum. Down 13-8, the Bronchos battled back to tie it at 15 at the half.

Fugate then took over the game at the start of the second half as she hit three 3-pointers in less than three minutes to put Holly up by nine at 24-15.

Fugate often deferred last year to senior standout Kaitlyn Smith and now senior Paige Reid but this year she has taken her game to a new level.

"Last year I didn't have the ball in my hands a lot," said Fugate. At halftime, coach (David Hall) just told us to "move the ball and set screens." It is pretty obvious that Fugate worked hard in the off season and now is ready to become a force in the Flint Metro League.

FUNERAL ETIQUETTE

Should I bring my children?

Viewing the body is an issue that should be approached with caution when children are present. Some will be frightened by the sight and won't be able to understand what's happening. On the other hand, others will feel comfortable with the process, so you shouldn't automatically assume that you'll need to keep kids away from the viewing.

Connie was a kindergarten teacher at State Road Elementary for many years before she retired in 2000. So adored was she, that for years she was invited to the graduations, showers and weddings of her past students. Connie enjoyed playing cards, gardening, painting, quilting, singing, reading, genealogy and walking on her farm. Constance was an active member of the Fellowship Bible Church, the Hartland Senior Center and the Tyrone Township Historical Society. DIFFICULTY THIS WEEK: ★★
★ Moderate ★★ Challenging ★★★ HOO BOY!

Answer in this Sunday's edition of the Tri-County Times

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

Guess what, Lamb? You're about to experience a new perspective on a situation you long regarded quite differently. What you learn could open more opportunities later.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

The Bold Bovine is tempted to charge into a new venture. But it might be best to take things one step at a time, so that you know just where you are at any given point.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

It's a good time to go on that fun getaway you've been planning. You'll return refreshed, ready and, yes, even eager to tackle the new challenge that awaits you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)

The Moon Child loves to fantasize about magical happenings in the early part of the week. But the sensible Crab gets down to serious business by week's end.

LEO (July 23 to August 22)

What goes around comes around for those lucky Leos and Leonas whose acts of generosity could be repaid with opportunities to expand into new and exciting areas of interest.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

Your concern about your job responsibilities is commendable. But you need to take some quiet time to share with someone who has really missed being with you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Aspects favor getting out and meeting new people. And as a bonus, you might find that some of your newly made friends could offer important business contacts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

You might take pride in wanting to do everything yourself. But now's a good time to ask family members to help with a demanding personal situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Pay more attention to the possibilities in that workplace change. It could show the way to make that long-sought turn on your career path.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

Your need to succeed might overwhelm obligations to your loved ones. Ease up on that workload and into some well-deserved time with family and friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

Love rules for amorous Aquarians who can make good use of their ability to communicate feelings. Don't be surprised if they're reciprocated in kind.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20)

Fishing for compliments? No doubt, you probably earned them. But it's best to let others believe they were the ones who uncovered the treasure you really are.
