OSCARS

WINNERS LIKELY TO SHARE POLITICAL OPINIONS

Sacheen Littlefeather took the place of Marlon Brando in 1973 when he won an Oscar for his role in "The Godfather." Brando sent the Native American woman to "not" accept his award because of the way Native Americans were being treated in the film industry.

■ This year's statements may be 'trumped' by speeches of past years

By Vera Hogan

It's almost a certainty that many of the winners of the coveted "Oscar" in tonight's Academy Awards are going to use the platform to share what they think is wrong with this country, among other things.

They won't be the first and likely won't be the last. Actors have been using the Academy Award stage to drive their points home for decades. The following are just some of the more politically charged.

One of the most notable, occurred in 1973, when Marlon Brando won Best Actor for "The Godfather." Instead of the usual thank you speech, Brando sent Sacheen Littlefeather, president of the National Native American Affirmative Image Committee, to accept his award. Or rather, not accept it, in protest of the way Native Americans were being treated by the film industry.

In a long written statement Brando spoke about the issue and the reasons he rejected the award.

In 2002, Halle Berry (left) made history when she became the first black actress ever to win an Oscar for best actress for her performance in Monsters Ball. The significance of that did not go unrecognized by Berry, who utilized her speech to thank all the black women who came before her — and weren't recognized by the Academy.

DEVICE DOCTORS

• Local repair shop fixes your cell phones, iPads, computers and gaming systems

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Josh Elder, 32, learned how to fix technology devices of all kinds when he was living in Florida. He opened his own business there, grew it to three stores and sold it when he decided to move back to Michigan to be closer to family. He opened Device Doctors in Flint two years ago, and in Fenton on July 1, 2016 at 18046 Silver Pkwy. His store is located near Subway between Owen Road and Silver Lake Road.

What kind of devices do you “doctor”?

I fix iPhones, iPads, iPods, Macs and game consoles. I do repair about an equal amount of Apple/Windows; I fix basically all computers.

Why did you decide to open in Fenton?

After opening in Flint, I had my eye on Fenton for quite awhile. There's no other place that does cell phone, tablet repair. My business is doing well. We have five employees between both stores.

What do you wish people knew about maintaining their technology devices, before they have to get them repaired?

Use protective accessories for your phones. People don't like them sometimes because they add bulk, but they can save you a lot of money in repairs.

Does the “rice method” of home repair for a wet phone really work?

The best thing you can do for water damage is get it to a repair shop ASAP.

WOMEN'S SHORTS

by the decade

1950s

Unseasonably warm winter temperatures and vacations put shorts at center stage...

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Maybe you haven't pulled your shorts out of winter storage yet, but our recent warm temperatures and vacation dreaming may be tempting you to get ready for shorts season.

If you have a few decades of age and experience under your belt, you may enjoy this walk back in fashion, when shorts gave a hint about stylish trends that characterized the decade.

Let's take a look back:

1960s

1970s

1980s

1990s

IN THE 1950s

The 1950s was the first decade that embraced women wearing shorts for more than just beach wear. Women's shorts in this decade came in a variety of lengths and styles, from tight short shorts to the above-the-knee Bermudas to pedal pushers/clam diggers, which were loose fitting and just below the knee. Shorts in this decade came in plain colors, stripes, tropical prints and denim. Many had decorative buttons that gave them a nautical look.

IN THE 1960s

Hot pants took the term "shorts" to a higher level, with bright colors and a fashion statement on whoever dared to wear them. Culottes (longer shorts that looked like a skirt) were also in Vogue. "Skorts" became popular, especially for golf.

IN THE 1970s

The Daisy Duke denim shorts became popular because of the famous TV show, the Dukes of Hazzard, where actress Catherine Bach played the character Daisy Duke, who wore a pair of short jean shorts every episode. The shorts became known as "Daisy Dukes."

IN THE 1980s

Terrycloth shorts, rompers and a rainbow of color shorts with white or contrasting piping were all the rage. These were short shorts, before the popularity of long board shorts and jama. These colorful unisex-look surfer shorts with the brand name Jams became favorites this decade, too.

IN THE 1990s

Button-fly denim shorts, overall bib shorts and color block shorts were popular styles back in the 1990s. Skorts (half skirt, half shorts) were also on the scene, worn with a spaghetti strap top.

■ Down 80 pounds, Candy Spiegel shares her weight loss story

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

It was January 2016 and Candy Spiegel of Argentine Township was desperate.

At 298 pounds, she was humiliated and embarrassed every time she went into a restaurant and could barely fit in a booth, couldn't find clothes to fit, or fit on an amusement park ride.

A year later, she has lost almost 80 pounds and her weight loss story has been told on Prevention.com/weight-loss/lose-weight-by-eating-more-fat.

"You spend your whole life wanting to crawl into a corner," said Candy, 46, who had been dieting on and off her whole life.

But worse than the humiliation was her own real fear of losing mobility. She couldn't even walk the short distance to the mailbox without being out of breath.

"I couldn't take care of my chickens anymore," she said. "Just normal household chores would take all day. I literally

■ Argentine Township resident Candy Spiegel has lost 80 pounds, but gained far more in self-esteem, confidence and a passion for activities she's never done before.

couldn't breathe if I bent over, and I worried at the grocery store that my shoelaces might come untied and I'd have no way to tie them."

When her husband, Matt, heard on NPR Science Friday about a new book, "Always Hungry" by David Ludwig, MD, PhD, it became her lifeline.

A Harvard-trained endocrinologist, Ludwig described how carbs and sugar tell the body to store fat, sending insulin levels on a roller coaster ride. This ultimately causes constant hunger and weight gain.

"When I read this I thought it described me to a 'T,'" said Candy.

She followed the book's Phase 1 and Phase 2 components, right to the letter. "I didn't eat at a friend's house or go out to eat for six weeks," she said. "I told everyone, even on Facebook, so friends and family knew why, and I could hold myself more accountable."

By summer, she had lost 60 pounds, but it wasn't the scale; it was a vacation that changed her life.

"We were on vacation in the U.P. for a week in June to visit all the waterfalls and stop in at a few lighthouses," said Candy.

One of their first stops was Seul Choix Point Lighthouse in Gulliver, 14 miles east of Manistique. Encouraged by the tour guide since they were the only ones at the lighthouse, Candy decided to try the climb, even though she is terrified of heights and wasn't sure her body could manage the 96 small, steep steps to the top.

She began to freak out immediately as she began to climb, even with Matt immediately behind her, able to catch her if she lost her footing.

By the time she was halfway there, she experienced a full-blown panic attack and began hyperventilating and shaking, but noticed that her legs weren't tired. She kept trudging her way to the top, where Matt took tons of photos because Candy was afraid to let go, to hold a camera.

"When I finally got to the ground, I had that euphoria that people always talk about, like when you run a marathon," said Candy. "That totally changed me. I'm not afraid to try anything anymore and I know if I set my mind to do it, I can accomplish it."

Since that time, she's lost another 20 pounds, but finds the weight loss slower. That doesn't really matter to Candy any more. "Now I eat this way because of how it makes me feel," she said. "I've learned to kayak, ice fish and bike ride."

This summer, she hopes to ride in a charity

Candy's favorite go-to recipes:

Shepherd's pie with cauliflower topping

Makes: 6 servings

Prep Time: 15 minutes

Total Time: 45 minutes

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 small to medium head cauliflower, cut into large pieces (about 4 to 6 cups)
- 1 large onion, quartered
- 2 cloves garlic
- 1 medium fennel bulb (or substitute 4 small carrots), cut into large pieces
- 1 t. plus 2 T. extra virgin olive oil or butter
- 8 ounces sliced button or cremini mushrooms
- 1½ lbs. 90-percent lean ground beef
- 1¼ t. salt
- ⅛ t. plus ¼ tsp ground black pepper
- 6 oz. canned tomato paste
- ½ cup water
- Dash of cayenne pepper (optional)
- 1¾ cup cooked cannellini or other white beans, drained and rinsed

PREPARATION:

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F.

1. Place the cauliflower in a pot and add water just to cover. Boil over high heat, reduce the heat to medium, and cook until tender, about 10 minutes.

2. Food process the onion, garlic and fennel and pulse until finely chopped.

3. Heat 1 t. of the olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add onion mixture, mushrooms, beef, ½ t. of the salt, and ⅛ t. of the pepper. Cook, stirring often, until the beef is browned, 5 to 10 minutes.

4. Stir tomato paste and water together in small bowl and add mixture to the skillet with the beef. Add cayenne and turn off the heat.

5. Drain the cauliflower, return it to the pot, and add the remaining 2 T. oil, ¾ t. salt, ¼ t. pepper, and the white beans. Puree with an immersion blender until smooth.

6. Transfer the beef mixture to a 9- by 12-inch baking dish (or six individual 4- or 5-inch ramekins). Top with cauliflower mixture. Bake for 20 to 30 minutes, or until the casserole is bubbling.

7. Serve immediately. Cool and refrigerate or freeze extra portions. If you refrigerate assembled pies, then reheat in a preheated 375-degrees F oven until warm throughout, about 20 minutes. Serve hot.

VARIATIONS

For a vegetarian version, substitute 1 recipe Crumbled Tempeh for the beef, increase water to 1 cup, and reduce salt by ½ teaspoon or to taste.

Substitute ground turkey or ground lamb for the beef.

bike event and kayak in the Linden Mill Pond and down the Shiawassee River. She still has a lot of weight to lose, but that is no longer her focus.

One thing Candy knows for sure is that she can't go back to the way she was. "Something happened inside of me; I'm such a different person. I honestly felt I was shriveling up to nobody. Now I have all the confidence, strength and determination I never had. I can do anything."

“I literally couldn't breathe if I bent over, and I worried at the grocery store that my shoelaces might come untied and I'd have no way to tie them.”

Just sayin'...

vhogan@tctimes.com

Let's all go to the lobby

The 89th Academy Awards are on tonight and it makes me think about how much I used to love going to the movies when I was a kid. I'm aging myself, but the very first movie I saw at the theater was the original (1960) "Thirteen Ghosts."

VERA HOGAN

The price of the movie ticket came with 3-D glasses so we could see the ghosts. It was awesome! I was hooked.

Cinemas sure have changed over the years though mostly for good, but there are some things I miss, things that were common in movie theaters, but for the most part have since disappeared.

The big red velvet curtain is one of them. As movie-goers entered the theater prior to show time, they automatically lowered their voices and spoke in hushed tones. There was something about that heavy red velvet curtain that gave the auditorium an aura of majesty, and commanded respect and best behavior.

At one time, uniformed ushers would escort you to your seats of choice. They carried small flashlights to guide people who arrived after the movie had started. They also maintained order if the audience grew unruly. Cell phones had not yet been invented, so doctors or parents who left their kids with babysitters often mentioned such to the usher so he or she could find them if an emergency phone call came in.

Believe it or not, like the seats on an aircraft, cinemas used to have ashtrays built into the seats. No need to explain why those went away.

I almost forgot about newsreels. Before television sets appeared in every household, Americans got their breaking news from the radio or the daily newspaper. Neither of those sources came with film so the newsreel at the theater was a great way to get an update on what was going on in the world. I only got to see two or three of these but they were something you just don't forget.

What I missed most when they stopped was the cartoons. You couldn't see any movie at the theater without enjoying a couple of cartoons. Good cartoons, like the Road Runner, Mighty Mouse and other action-packed critter cartoons.

It's amazing that we survived the cartoons that encouraged criminal activity, like Yogi Bear. "Hey there Boo Boo, let's go steal some pic-a-nic baskets."

Then, as an added bonus, you would get two for the price of one — a double feature. Because the second movie was usually never as good as the first, older-timers dubbed them "B movies," a name that stuck ever since for movies that are mediocre at best (they usually involve a swamp thing, enormous spider or gigantic gooey blob that eats a town).

Last, but not least, there was intermission. Because the projectionists of days gone by needed time to change reels, which resulted in about five to 10 minutes of dead air, theaters put that down time to good use by rolling promotional reels to remind movie-goers of the barrage of snacks and beverages available at the concession stand.

Intermission at the drive-in theater was especially fun. I remember the song "Let's all go to the lobby, let's all go to the lobby ..." as two buns danced around. A couple of hot dogs would jump into the buns and condiments would dress them up as the song continued. It was riveting, really.

I was thinking of not watching the Academy Awards Sunday night because I really don't care to hear all of the political comments coming from Oscar winners. But I'll probably cave in and watch anyway. Please pass the popcorn.

SOME OF YOU think President Trump is a great American. Possibly he is. But his constant stream of unwise comments are giving the impression that we have elected a wacko to the White House.

PEOPLE SEEM HAPPY that the Morning Joe cut off Kellyanne Conway because she lied. Would you be happy if Trump cut off all the journalists who lied about him to the White House press room?

SO HELLER THINKS Trump and Flynn acted like they were in office before they were actually in office. Maybe he

In 2009, Sean Penn (below) received the Best Actor award for his work portraying the murdered gay rights leader Harvey Milk. During his acceptance speech, Penn took the time to address the anti-gay protestors who had lined the streets outside the event, and to call out those who were in favor of a gay marriage ban.

When The Cove won for best documentary in 2010, Ric O'Barry (below), one of the experts for the film, hoisted a sign that read "Text Dolphin to 44144."

Those who texted received information on how to help the dolphins in Taiji, Japan, where fishermen routinely round up the animals and slaughter them. The Academy panicked when O'Barry hoisted his sign and cut away quickly, and the orchestra cut off director Louie Psihoyos before he could make his speech.

In 1978, Vanessa Redgrave (below) was at the center of a controversy before she even won the Best Supporting Actress award for the World War II film, "Julia." Many people were upset with Redgrave's support of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, and members of the Jewish Defense League protested the ceremony. Over concern for her safety, Redgrave was actually driven to the ceremony in an ambulance. She acknowledged the controversy in her speech.

Article information Source: bustle.com

In 1999, Elia Kazan (below) won a lifetime achievement award in a decision that divided Hollywood. The director was nearly 90, but many felt that they couldn't forgive him for cooperating with Senator Joseph McCarthy in 1952, when he outed many fellow directors and actors as members of the Communist Party. Many in the audience of the 1999 awards refused to clap or stand for Kazan's achievement.

After winning Best Documentary for his anti-gun film "Bowling for Columbine" in 2003, Michael Moore (below) used his acceptance speech to speak out against the war in Iraq and President Bush. "We are against this war, Mr. Bush. Shame on you, Mr. Bush, shame on you," Moore said to a crowd mixed with boos and cheers.

In 2009, Dustin Lance Black (below) picked up the award for Best Original Screenplay for "Milk." Like Sean Penn, Black utilized the moment to speak about his hope for the country going forward with gay rights.

In 2007, Al Gore (below) won Best Documentary for An Inconvenient Truth. Not surprisingly, he took the opportunity to make an impassioned speech about global warming.

When Oscars producers caught wind that Susan Sarandon and fellow presenter Tim Robbins (below) were planning on making a political point during their speech in 1993, they called their public relations people and begged them not to do it.

But the two actors did it anyway. Before the presentation for Best Film Editing, Robbins said, "We'd like to call attention to 250 Haitians being quarantined in Cuba. Their crime? Testing positive for the HIV virus." Sarandon implored the U.S. government to admit the refugees into the United States.

In 1993, Richard Gere (below) presented the award for Best Art Direction, but took things in a different direction when he made a speech standing up for Tibet, that he hoped would be heard all the way in China.

OSCAR PREDICTIONS

Do you have an idea or thoughts as to who will win this year's Oscars? See how your picks compare to the following:

■ According to awardswatch.com, the award for best picture (as everyone else has predicted) will go to "La La Land." They predict the Oscar for best actor will go to Denzel Washington for "Fences," and Emma Stone for best actress in "La La Land." They predict Mahershala Ali will take the Oscar for best supporting actor for his performance in "Moonlight," and Viola Davis for best supporting actress for her role in "Fences."

■ People Magazine (people.com) also calls for "La La Land" to win for best picture. They believe Casey Affleck will win best actor for his role in "Manchester by the Sea," and Emma Stone for best actress for her performance in "La La Land." Like awardswatch.com, People believes Mahershala Ali and Viola Davis will win the best supporting actor and actress Oscars.

■ USA Today (usatoday.com) says "La La Land" will win, but add that "Hidden Figures" should win. They believe Denzel Washington will and should win best actor, and that Emma Stone will and should win best actress. For best supporting actor, USA Today says Mahershala Ali will win, but believe Lucas Hedges should win for "Manchester by the Sea." They agree that Viola Davis will win and should win for her supporting role in "Fences."

Trap, Neuter, Return (TNR) is a unique program to the area. There are millions of community cats killed in shelters because they are unadoptable. TNR is recognized as the most humane and effective strategy for reducing the community cat population. Anyone caring for a colony of feral or stray cats may fill out an application to have the cats fixed at a low cost. Go to adoptapetfenton.com/tnr.

Ask about our low cost spay/neuter for those with a financial need.

HOUSE PLAN OF THE WEEK

Elsberry PLAN 30-265

Varied roof lines and a charming wrap-around porch give the Elsberry such an intriguing appearance that you can't help but take a second look.

Most interesting, perhaps, is the hidden sun deck, recessed into the roof of the covered front porch. A French door links this sunny space to the vaulted owners' suite on the second floor.

This small home is particularly well suited to the needs of a couple, single, empty nesters, or a small family. It also lends itself to construction as a vacation get-away. The wide rear deck and front porch provide plenty of space for appreciating the outdoors.

Tell the doctor, ‘I took an aspirin!’

DEAR DR. ROACH:
I took an aspirin for a seeming heart attack and went to the hospital, where I was asked if I had taken any meds. I answered “no,” and was medicated; the result was panic for the doctors, as my heart rate slowed to a dangerous rate. With care and an extra day in the hospital, I was released. My ignorance about medicines was scary. I think that it should be emphasized that “meds” does not mean only prescriptions. Tell the doctor, ‘I took an aspirin!’
— R.G.

ANSWER:
Indeed, your doctors should know about all medications you are taking, including over-the-counter, vitamins and other supplements. Sometimes women forget to mention their oral contraceptives. Aspirin is a powerful medicine, not to be taken lightly. That being said, I am not sure why your heart rate slowed to a dangerous rate. Beta blockers usually are given for suspected heart attack, and some people do have dramatic responses to beta blockers, and their heart rates slow way down. I can’t explain why aspirin could have made that more likely, since aspirin shouldn’t slow down the heart rate. I also couldn’t find any interaction between beta blockers and aspirin.

DEAR DR. ROACH:
I am a 78-year-old female who has had three orthopedic surgeries (hip repair, hip replacement and knee replacement) with spinal anesthesia in two years. Each time, the anesthesia has left me with severe orthostatic hypotension requiring medication for months. If I should ever need surgery again, is there any other anesthetic that would be just as effective and not make me ill? — A.P.

ANSWER:
This actually is a very common problem, with at least half of people undergoing orthopedic surgery having some orthostatic hypotension (a lowering of blood pressure upon sitting or standing) immediately after surgery. You have had a very prolonged reaction. I spoke with an anesthesiologist at the Cleveland Clinic, who told me that the issue could have been any of the anesthetic and adjuvant agents that were used. He recommended more salt and water before any operation and longer time in progressively upright positions before trying to get up post-operatively. Finally, your next anesthesiologist could look at your preoperative and anesthesia records and try to figure out what agent you had that was most likely to have been causing this, so to avoid its use next time.

DEAR DR. ROACH:
Two lab tests done in the past two years show that my kidneys are not functioning at 100 percent. Is there any action I can take (such as diet or medication) to keep these figures from worsening? — L.M.

ANSWER:
Kidney function tends to decrease with age, but kidneys also can be damaged from high blood pressure, diabetes, some medications and many other causes. If kidney function is low, your doctor should look at your prescription medication and carefully evaluate their dosing. Also, anti-inflammatory medicines like ibuprofen or naproxen should be minimized. Even Tylenol can cause long-term kidney damage in high doses for long periods of time. Managing any chronic illnesses and avoiding toxic drugs are the most important actions.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. Fighting animal abuse at your front door

DEAR PAW’S CORNER:
My neighbor and I are concerned about an older dog — a black Lab, I think — who comes down every day barking, begging and having accidents in front of our door. He can hardly walk and often falls down. He has open sores all over and you can see his ribs. He is definitely almost blind. We know where his home is and went down there a few times, but no one answered the door. We’re so fed up with the sadness of the situation and him doing his business in front of our door daily. We called the police asking them to speak with its owner, but nothing seems to have changed. I really need your advice on what to do next. It breaks our hearts to know he is suffering. — Carla V., via email

DEAR CARLA:
I commend you for trying to get help for this dog. I’d be interested to know what action the police took. Since the dog is still coming around, more complaints from you are necessary. Call the local police non-emergency number each time the dog shows up, and ask why the dog is still suffering and wandering off a leash. If the city or county has an animal-control department, contact it as well. It’s important to document what you see: You sent me a photo of the dog, and you should give that to the authorities, along with notes on how often the dog has shown up. The Animal Legal Defense Fund offers more information on how to help animals you suspect are being abused. The Humane Society of the United States also has advice and instructions on contacting authorities or getting more help. Send your questions, tips or comments to ask@pawscorner.com.

HACKSAW RIDGE
This is the extraordinary true story of Desmond Doss [Andrew Garfield] who, in Okinawa during the bloodiest battle of WWII, saved 75 men without firing or carrying a gun. He was the only American soldier in WWII to fight on the front lines without a weapon, as he believed that while the war was justified, killing was nevertheless wrong. As an army medic, he single-handedly evacuated the wounded from behind enemy lines, braved fire while tending to soldiers and was wounded by a grenade and hit by snipers. Doss was the first conscientious objector to ever earn the Congressional Medal of Honor. R, 2 hr. 19 min.

MANCHESTER BY THE SEA
After the death of his older brother Joe (Kyle Chandler), Lee Chandler (Casey Affleck) is shocked to learn that Joe has made him sole guardian of his nephew Patrick (Lucas Hedges). Taking leave of his job, Lee reluctantly returns to Manchester-by-the-Sea to care for Patrick, a spirited 16-year-old, and is forced to deal with a past that separated him from his wife Randi (Michelle Williams) and the community where he was born and raised. Bonded by the man who held their family together, Lee and Patrick struggle to adjust to a world without him. R, 2 hr. 15 min.

INGREDIENTS

- 1/2 cup Low Sodium Soy Sauce
- 1 Tablespoon Rice Vinegar
- 1 Tablespoon Packed Brown Sugar
- 2 Tablespoons Oyster Sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon Toasted Sesame Oil
- 3 Tablespoons Vegetable Oil
- 6 whole Boneless, Skinless Chicken Thighs, Cut Into Small Cubes
- Kosher Salt To Taste
- 1 Tablespoon Chopped Garlic
- 1 Tablespoon Chopped Fresh Ginger
- 1 whole Green Bell Pepper, Chopped
- 1/4 cup Sherry Or Chicken Broth
- 2 Tablespoons Cornstarch
- 1/2 cup Drained Canned Water Chestnuts, Coarsely Chopped
- 1 cup Unsalted Cashews (be sure to use unsalted)
- 2 whole Green Onions, Thinly Sliced
- Cooked rice or noodles, for serving (if desired)

Cashew Chicken

INSTRUCTIONS
In a bowl, mix together the soy sauce, vinegar, brown sugar, oyster sauce, and sesame oil. Set aside. Heat the vegetable oil in a large skillet over high heat and add the chicken in a single layer. Sprinkle with a small amount of salt, then leave it alone for at least a couple of minutes to give the chicken a chance to brown. When the chicken has turned golden, stir it around so that it can brown on all sides. Throw in the garlic and ginger and stir to combine. Stir in the bell pepper and let it cook for 2 to 3 minutes. While the pan is still hot, pour in the sherry. Stir it around, scraping the bottom of the pan to loosen all the flavorful bits. Turn the heat to medium-low and pour in the sauce mixture, then mix the cornstarch with 1/4 cup water to make a slurry and pour it in. Stir the sauce for 1 to 2 minutes to thicken, then add the water chestnuts and cashews and stir to coat everything with the sauce, adding a splash of water if the sauce is too thick. Finally, sprinkle on the green onions. Serve with cooked rice or noodles.
