A SUMMER FULL OF Michigan fun

Take a road trip to explore your state from north to south
and east to west

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

This is going to be your summer to savor every moment of Michigan's most precious season.

With a full 12 weeks of summer, you've got plenty of time to enjoy the bounty of four of the Great Lakes, 3,288 miles of shoreline, (more than any other state except Alaska) and 11,000 inland lakes larger than five acres. In Michigan, a person is never more than six miles from an inland lake or more than 85 miles from one of the Great Lakes.

This means endless coastlines, beautiful beaches and boundless recreational opportunities — just waiting for you at the other end of a road trip.

Where to go first? Let's start at the top:

The Upper Peninsula

Just 243 miles and 3½ hours from Fenton across the Mackinac Bridge, you've entered a whole new world of unspoiled forests, waterfalls, light-houses and coastal villages.

Lake Superior, the world's largest freshwater lake, lies to the north, Lake Michigan to the south and Lake Huron the east. The U.P. covers 16,542 square miles, about 28 percent of Michigan's land mass, but only 3 percent of the state's population, about 317,000 residents.

Must-see attractions:

- Go to Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore and Cruises, Munising. Take the Pictured Rocks Cruise on a sunny day to truly appreciate the cliffs, caves and arches. Cost: $38 for adult ticket.
- Soo Locks Boat Tours, located in See MICHIGAN on 7B

VINTAGE CANDIES ARE AS SWEET AS EVER

June is National Candy Month

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

June is National Candy Month and a great time (like the other 11 months out of the year) to go out and buy some candy.

Whether you like chocolates, hard candy, or some other sweet creation, many people have fond memories of the candy they loved as kids. Here are some of them.

Good & Plenty

Good & Plenty was first produced by the Quaker City Confectionery Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 1893 and is the oldest branded candy in the United States. It is a soft and chewy licorice candy with a hard candy shell in pink and white. Choo Choo Charlie, the engineer who fueled his train with Good & Plenty, first appeared in advertisements in 1950. "Charlie says, 'love my Good & Plenty...'"

Mary Jane

In 1914, Charles N. Miller named this bite-size peanut butter and molasses candy for his favorite aunt, Mary Jane. Over the years the company has tried out variations on the basic molasses and peanut-butter flavor, but none could compare to the original Mary Jane.

Candy Cigarettes

There is evidence that the candy makers actually worked with the cigarette companies to attract young smokers. Today they are called candy sticks and the names are not the same as actual cigarette companies. Since you have to be at least 18 to have a credit card and order online, we will leave it up to adults to decide how to use them. Some people send them to family and friends to encourage them to stop smoking. One customer purchased several cases and passed out packs to celebrate his one year anniversary of not smoking.

Wax lips

Wax candies like Wax Lips were originally created by the American Candy Company in the early 1900s. Later the brand was sold to Concord Confections, which is now part of Tootsie, the current manufacturer.

Charleston Chew

Charleston Chew is a candy bar consisting of flavored nougat covered in chocolate flavor coating. It was created in 1925 by the Fox-Cross Candy Company, founded by stage actor Donley Cross and Charlie Fox. The candy was named for the Charleston, a popular dance at that time.

Candy Buttons

Candy buttons on the paper card were always a treat for those of us who liked to play "hospital." Some children always had one of those little plastic "doctor's bags" that contained a play stethoscope, a headband with a funny mirror, and a pretend syringe. We'd stuff the candy buttons (pretend medicine) in the bag, and the doctor would make rounds.

Slo Poke

The original Slo Poke caramel pop was first introduced in 1926 by the Holloway Candy Company. Today's version, a caramel bar, is just as good as you remember, but has been reinvented with better ingredients and comes in handy bite-sized versions to share and delight. The Black Cow was the chocolate version.

Zagnut

The Zagnut candy bar was originally produced by the DL Clark Company in 1930. The origin of the name Zagnut is uncertain. The "nut" part probably comes from either the coconut coating or the peanut center, while the "zag" could be a reference to zigzag, which was a slang phrase popular in the 1930s. Today, Zagnut is made by The Hershey Company.

Let the music begin!

On Friday, May 26, DTE Energy Music Theatre began its summer concert series with Eddy Money as the headliner.

Upon reviewing the list of upcoming performances, I am grateful there are still bands whose names I recognize, like REO Speedwagon, Boston, Jimmy Buffett, Chicago and the Doobie Brothers to name a few.

I've seen many great concerts in my day, the very first being The Rolling Stones. The first time I ever heard the song "Jumpin' Jack Flash" I was at a carnival in Germany, on a Ferris wheel with my younger sister, Monika. A couple of years later, I was at the concert. I was thrilled when they opened the concert by turning the house lights all the way down, just before Mick Jagger jumped out on stage wearing an all-black jumper lined with rhinestones up one side of his body and down the other. They opened with "Jumpin' Jack Flash."

Another spectacular opener was by Ian Anderson of Jethro Tull. Again, the house lights went down ... then came Anderson dressed like Sherlock Holmes descending from the ceiling seated on a swing. With the flute at his lips, the song started out very low and got progressively louder and louder until everyone in the audience was sing-shouting, 'In the shuffling madness, of the locomotive breath ...' My hair stands up on my arms just thinking about it. It was like it happened yesterday.

Alice Cooper was also a very colorful, if not scary guy. His 'Killer' album was popular when I went to see him. During that concert he threw a live snake into the audience, among other things.

What a weirdo, who does stuff like that? My dad told me that Cooper lived next to the late, former Senator Barry Goldwater in Arizona and that they played golf together regularly. Dad said you wouldn't even know it was Alice Cooper without all his makeup, etc. 'He just does all that crap for the money,' said my dad.

In the late 1990s, when Monika and I had kids in school, her youngest daughter was in eighth grade with Cooper's daughter. They, too, lived in Arizona. Monika called me at my office here in Michigan during the eighth-grade graduation ceremony and said, 'You will never believe who I am sitting next to.'

'OK, I'll bite, who?'

'Alice Cooper!'

'Wow, that's pretty cool, sitting next to a big time rock star,' I said.

'No, that's not it,' she whispered, clearly frustrated. 'He's wearing black and white striped pants and white shoes, in September! Can you even ...'

'How gauche!'

'He did sing 'School's out for summer' though so that was good.' (Slap forehead here)

My favorite concert of all time was by Heart, who performed a few years ago at DTE Energy Theatre. I wonder if sisters Ann and Nancy Wilson have the same kind of inane conversations that I have with mine.

NATIONAL HISTORY

COMPILED BY VERA HOGAN

MAY 28

1937: The government of Germany, then under the control of Adolf Hitler of the National Socialist (Nazi) Party forms a new state-owned automobile company, then known as Gesellschaft zur Vorbereitung des Deutschen Volkswagens mbH. Later that year, it was renamed simply Volkswagenwerk, or "The People's Car Company." Originally operated by the German Labor Front, a Nazi organization, Volkswagen was headquartered in Wolfsburg, Germany. In addition to his ambitious campaign to build a network of autobahns and limited access highways across Germany, Hitler's pet project was the development and mass production of an affordable yet still speedy vehicle that could sell for less than 1,000 Reich marks (about $140 at the time.)

MAY 29

2005: Danica Patrick, 23, becomes the first female driver to take the lead in the storied Indianapolis 500. Having previously distinguished herself in the Toyota Atlantic series, Patrick had qualified fourth, another best for a woman, for the 89th Indianapolis 500, only her fifth Indy Racing League event.

MAY 30

1971: The U.S. unmanned space probe Mariner 9 is launched on a mission to gather scientific information on Mars, the fourth planet from the sun. The 1,116-pound spacecraft entered the planet's orbit on Nov. 13, 1971, and circled Mars twice each day for almost a year, photographing the surface and analyzing the atmosphere with infrared and ultraviolet instruments. temperature, and topography of the planet.

MAY 31

1964: Fifteen-year-old Alleen Rowe is killed by Charles Schmid in the desert outside Tucson, Arizona. Earlier in the night, Schmid allegedly had said to his friends, "I want to kill a girl! I want to do it tonight. I think I can get away with it!" Schmid went on to kill three other teenage girls before being caught by police.

JUNE 1

1980: CNN (Cable News Network), the world's first 24-hour television news network, makes its debut. The network signed on at 6 p.m. EST from its headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, with a lead story about the attempted assassination of civil rights leader Vernon Jordan.

JUNE 2

1935: Babe Ruth, one of the greatest players in the history of baseball, ends his Major League playing career after 22 seasons, 10 World Series and 714 home runs. The following year, Ruth, a larger-than-life figure whose name became synonymous with baseball, was one of the first five players inducted into the sport's hall of fame.

JUNE 3

1957: The U.S. Supreme Court rules that the chemical company E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. must give up its large stock interest in the Detroit-based automobile company General Motors on the grounds that it constituted a monopoly, or a concentration of power that reduced competition or otherwise interfered with trade.

Surviving an apocalypse

■ One local author writes entire book series on survival

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

If you're worried about how to survive an apocalypse, there's a local author who can help.

Grand Blanc resident Boyd Craven was recently a guest at PrepperCon, a convention in Sandy, Utah for people who prepare for apocalyptic situations.

People who prepare for the end of the world as we know it are referred to as "preppers," and Craven embraces the term.

"I like reading about it.

I've never really been a secretive prepper and prepping doesn't always mean preparing for dangerous times," he said, adding that prepping could also mean preparing for a job loss, or a natural disaster that takes out utilities and services, like an ice storm or a hurricane.

At the convention, Craven talked survival with fans and signed copies of his books. "The convention was all about prepping and survival. Everything from guns to gear, vehicles, storage food, solar setups, camping supplies and of course, authors signing books," he said.

Craven also saw post-apocalyptic themed RVs. While he didn't learn much about survival, he said there were some guns and gear he's putting on his Christmas list.

Craven is already knowledgeable about surviving because he's written dozens of books on the topic, and occasionally lives off the grid, when he teaches his sons about living without power.

His books show people trying to survive without power, learning to forage for food, using unusual trapping techniques, and learning to repurpose discarded items. One book series called "The World Burns" follows two people as they try to survive after an electromagnetic pulse (EMP) is set off over North America.

The Fenton Titanium Tigers robotics team from Fenton High School wraps up a successful season. They are hosting an open house on June 7 and hope to attract new members, mentors and sponsors.

Fenton robotics team has successful year

■ Team hosting open house on June 7, looking for members and mentors

The Fenton Titanium Tigers robotics team is in its fourth year at Fenton High School and have made many accomplishments for such a young team. Each year the FIRST robotics competition changes and this year the game was called SteamWorks.

FIRST is an acronym for “For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology.” It was founded in 1989 to inspire young people’s interest and participation in science and technology.

The Titanium Tigers’ season started at Kettering University and their second competition was at Mason. The team placed second at Kettering and was chosen as an alliance team in Mason. They won the Entrepreneurship Award at Kettering and won the Chairman’s Award at Mason, which is the highest seeded award that FIRST offers.

Michigan has the most FIRST teams in the nation with 451 teams. This year 160 teams qualified to compete at the state level, which was divided into four playing fields. The Titanium Tigers competed and took first place with their alliances, 2767 Stryke Force from Kalamazoo and team 6075 Zebrotics from Leland. The Fenton team won second place at the State of Michigan Championship.

Titanium Tigers’ team qualified, for its third straight year, to compete in the World’s Competition held in St. Louis, Missouri. There the team competed with 420 teams around the world and were divided into six fields. After three days of competing, the Tigers were the seventh alliance team to compete for the finals but were eliminated in the quarter finals.

In addition to robotics competitions, Fenton Titanium Tigers team is about helping the community and teaching others about STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics). The high school team is mentoring the middle and elementary schools’ FIRST robotics teams. The team has also been part of the Adopt-A-Highway program, Relay for Life and Arts are the Heart.

Mentors and sponsors have helped the team to succeed. The Fenton Tigers currently are looking for new members for the upcoming season. If anyone is interested in being part of the team, attend the Fenton High School Open House on June 7, from 6 to 8 p.m.

The team is also looking for more mentors and sponsors. If anyone or any company is interested, contact the Titanium Tigers’ coordinator at fhs. robotics@fentonschools.org or go to www.fentonrobotics5114.com.

APOCALYPSE

Craven started publishing in 2012 and has written dozens of books, some in the same world as “The World Burns.”

His “The Devil Dog” series gives readers an idea of what humanity could turn into after an apocalypse by following a homeless marine veteran, living in the abandoned tunnels beneath Chicago. The novels feature cannibals, psychotic raiders, and a “government gone wild,” according to Craven’s Amazon description of the books.

“Northern Lights” is about a prepper who goes fishing in Canada with his friends when the EMP goes off. Craven has also written mystery and thriller novels, as well as political thrillers.

“One of my favorite questions to ask is when the beans, bullets and Band-Aids run out, what are you going to do? I also tell people the time to plant a garden isn’t when you’ve fallen on hard times, it’s time to do it now and get going ahead of schedule,” he said.

Craven said people need to learn to live without power, and learn to smoke or cure meat. Practice foraging, farming/gardening, hunting, fishing, and learn to keep warm in cold climates and keep hydrated in hot ones. Also think about finding water, first aid, security, and state of mind.

“My tip for surviving an EMP? Be prepared,” he said. Craven’s books are available online or can be ordered at Fenton’s Open Book.

In loving memory of Esther Shaffer

March 14, 1935 – May 24, 2017

These recipes are family favorites that have been passed down from generation to generation and were given to me by my grandma Shaffer. She is the reason why I love to cook – she has always put so much love into her food. My grandma Shaffer was the best cook I have ever known and she has taught me almost all that I know about baking. Now I use cooking and baking as a way that I can pass on her legacy to future generations.

LOGAN

It's 2029. Mutants are gone — or very nearly so. An isolated, despondent Logan is drinking his days away in a hideout on a remote stretch of the Mexican border, picking up petty cash as a driver for hire. His companions in exile are the outcast Caliban and an ailing Professor X, whose singular mind is plagued by worsening seizures. But Logan's attempts to hide from the world and his legacy abruptly end when a mysterious woman appears with an urgent request — that Logan shepherd an extraordinary young girl to safety. Soon, the claws come out as Logan must face off against dark forces and a villain from his own past on a live-or-die mission, one that will set the time-worn warrior on a path toward fulfilling his destiny. R, 2 hr. 15 min. Action & Adventure, Drama, Science Fiction & Fantasy
