Fenton’s Andrew G. Schmidt Middle School (AGS) was completed in 2000 for $42 million. It was named after the Fenton Area Public Schools’ long-time board president and Tyrone Township supervisor, Andrew G. Schmidt, who died in 2010.

Whose name is on that building?

Many are named in honor of local people who left their mark on our communities

By Sally Rummel

Buildings are often named after individuals to honor or commemorate their accomplishments or generosity to a community.

With the recent naming of the Leslie P. Bland Public Works Facility, Fenton’s Department of Public Works (DPW) building on Alloy Drive, after long-time employee Leslie (Les) Bland, it reminds us that other local buildings that have been named after a prominent person.

AGS Middle School, Fenton

The namesake of Andrew G. Schmidt Middle School is Andrew G. Schmidt, who died at age 79 in 2010 after a tireless public career. He was a former Fenton school board president, Tyrone Township supervisor and a volunteer for the Fenton Freedom Festival and JingleFest parades. He was also treasurer and executive director of F.A.R.R. (Fenton Area Resource & Referral).

Nickel

Thomas Jefferson, our third President, has graced the nickel since 1943. In 1938, there was a competition to draw Jefferson for the currency and the winning artist was awarded $1,000.

Dime

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the 32nd President of the U.S., is on the dime. After his death in 1945, a Virginia congressman called for the DOT to put Roosevelt on the dime to honor his work for founding the March of Dimes Foundation in order to combat polio.

Quarter

George Washington, America’s first President, has been on the quarter since 1932, when Congress created the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C.

History behind the faces on United States currency

Not all of them are men or dead presidents

By Hannah Ball

Without reading further, can you name the people on our money? Hint: one person is being replaced in 2020, two of them were never presidents, and three of them appear on more than one piece of currency. It’s against the law to have portraits of living persons appear on government securities, according to the U.S. Department of Treasury (DOT). The Secretary of the Treasury chooses the designs shown on our currency. The current designs of our paper currency in circulation now were selected in 1928, and were modified to improve security against counterfeiting in 1996, according to the DOT.

Who’s on your money?

Penny

Abraham Lincoln, our 16th President, is on the penny. In 1909, Teddy Roosevelt commissioned the coin in honor of Lincoln’s 100th birthday.

Who’s defending the media?

What doesn’t bother the heck out of us in this country bothers the heck out of me.

Prime example: Last week, businessman Greg Gianforte, the Republican candidate in a special election for Montana’s only House seat in Congress, knocked a reporter to the ground then jumped on top him and wailed away like Mike Tyson, screaming “I’m sick and tired of this!”

Sick and tired of what? Questions? Good grief, that’s what reporters do. They ask questions then write stories that keep us informed about what’s going on. Without those questions, and without a strong, legit media, no one would know diddly beyond the range of their own eyes and ears.

More to the point, without those questions the darkness of ignorance — and I mean the dictionary definition, which is “a lack of knowledge or information” — would creep across the land, and in that darkness corporations and self-serving politicians would run amok.

Sort of like they are today.

Sorry to sound a bit dramatic, but it’s true. It’s also true we need a strong media. We need people asking questions, challenging authority, informing us, etc. One of the very best things about this country, in fact — one of our strongest defenses against tyranny and ignorance — is a free press.

The Founding Fathers understood that. It’s why the First Amendment is first. Since everyone claims to be a patriot these days, you’d think the nation would be horrified to the point they re-fused to elect him.

But, of course, they weren’t. They elected him handily, and now Gianforte, his actions have been horri-fi-cious plant before they’d elect a Democ-rat.” That’s true, but did you catch what happened at Gianforte’s victory party? Gianforte apologized, saying he’d made a mistake by assaulting the reporter. (A mistake is what you call it when you’re the one doing the punching.) To which someone in the crowd said, “Not in our minds.”

That’s a stunning thing to say. And equally stunning that no one shouted him down or disagreed. But based on what I saw online in the days following the assault, the person who said it spoke for many on the all-right, which clearly wouldn’t object to more beatings of journalists they don’t agree with. I suspect they’d be in favor of jailing reporters, as well.

Anti-“lame stream media” rhetoric is nothing new, of course. But it has been turned up a notch since the current inhabitant of the White House declared the media to be “the enemy of the people.”

What bothers me is they’ve been no equal and proportionate response from the rest of the country. Where are the people coming to the media’s defense? Where are the patriots saying, “Dammit, they can’t do this to the media — we need what they do.” Where are the people rushing to re-sub-scribe to newspapers or watch TV news in order to keep the darkness at bay? They’re nowhere.

We have more important things to be bothered about, apparently. Shame on us.

What letter grade would you give President Trump?

Question asked of Fenton High School juniors

“D-plus; because of the numerous scandals with Russia, nepotism, his various appointments and expanding the military budget at the expense of other agencies.”

“A ‘D-plus. I believe his air-strikes in Syria are unacceptable. His American Health Care Act is not good for the U.S. I don’t believe he should be in the White House in the first place.”

“Probably a ‘B,’ just because it’s still really early to determine; there’s a lot of issues he’s trying to address. Some of his priorities are out of focus, like the (border) wall.”

AM A CNN diehard but recently turned it off, maybe for good. They seem only to talk about President Trump, the Russians and collusion. I just plain got sick of the rhetoric. Still waiting to hear facts about this situation instead of network opinions. Tired of being indoctrinated instead of informed.

MEMORIAL DAY IS the annual event which historically reminds us that freedom is not free. If you know a vet, hug him. If you see a vet, let him know you appreciate his sacrifice. If you have a vet currently serving, honor him. And yes, this applies to our ‘her’ vets also.

KUDOS TO THE King. His op article on millennials was spot on. No discipline equals no respect — for anyone or anything — and ultimately equals no self-respect for themselves. They go through life on the taxpayers teat. Poor parenting, college professor propaganda, and self-indulgence feed the lie that life itself owes them a living.

I DON’T KNOW about the rest of you good hard working people who pay taxes, but I just videotaped a man who is on disability because he’s got a bad back and he’s riding his lawn mower all over the place. I know all about a bad back and you wouldn’t be riding a lawn mower.

I DON’T HAVE chickens, I’ve never wanted chickens. You’re right, when it comes to your own property, you have no right in Fenton Township. But, I do like my chicken deep-fried.

I’m a VET that gets nauseated every time Trump salutes. He ducked the draft five times and he never served. His military salute looks like a slump-off.

Thank you, thank you. You have a great day as well, my friend.

No, you’re wrong. I’m not trying to downplay illegal aliens killing people. Most illegal aliens are trying to keep their head down so they don’t get shipped out of the country.

INTERESTING. You’re all upset about Obama spending, and I question the amount, $100 million, in eight years. However, you don’t seem to have a problem with President Trump doing it in a little over 100 days.

You’re right, the Democratic Party is calling for resistance. Resistance against the 1-percenters to get a huge tax break, which they don’t need, at the expense of people at the lower income level.

I have a fair amount of scrap metal sitting on my driveway. I can’t get anyone to come and look at it. It’s not 200 or 300 pounds, but it’d make a nice addition to someone’s collection. Is there anybody out there collecting scrap metal?

I wish the people complaining about the Republicans not doing anything in the first five months they have control of this country could explain to me what great things the Democrats did, other than sink us trillions in debt and open our borders to every miscreant in the world.

When placing eye drops in my eyes, I pull down with my forefinger under my eye as far as I can, then I can’t see the drop coming.

I don’t know about the rest of you good hard working people who pay taxes, but I just videotaped a man who is on disability because he’s got a bad back and he’s riding his lawn mower all over the place. I know all about a bad back and you wouldn’t be riding a lawn mower.

I have a '08 Nissan Sentra. I just got new front brake pads and rotors. When coming to a stop it hesitates like the brakes are slipping. I also noticed when I press the gas and let off the pedal, the car feels like it brakes on its own a little. - Joey

A:

Joey, this sounds like you may be dealing with a cracked tone ring on an axle shaft at one of your wheels for the anti-lock speed sensor. However, if the speed sensor is internal to the wheel bearing, then you would have to replace the hub/bearing as an assembly. Other things to look for are fractured or rubbed through wires near the wheels. In most cases, if the problem, it is not visible. You will need to have it checked with a lab scope to be able to determine the cause so that you do not replace costly parts only to find it does not correct what you are experiencing.

Immediately after he announced to his cheering supporters that the country was ready to end its fractious divisions, Kennedy was shot several times by the 22-year-old Palestinian Sirhan Sirhan. Kennedy died a day later.

1933: Eager motorists park their automobiles on the grounds of Parlin Theaters, the first-ever drive-in movie theater, located on Crescent Boulevard in Camden, New Jersey. It was the brainchild of Richard Hollingshead, a movie fan and a sales manager at his father’s company, Who Auto Products in Camden. Reportedly inspired by his brother’s struggle to sit comfortably in traditional movie theater seats, Hollingshead came up with the idea of an open-air theater where patrons watched movies in the comfort of their own automobiles.

Linden business started with a power washing van, and is now a full-service stain/paint store

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Kevin James started his own company 20 years ago, bringing his power washing skills to homeowners in the Linden area through his business, Great Lakes Pressure Cleaning. House washing, concrete cleaning and deck washing were his primary services.

“He started getting requests for staining decks after the power washing, and that’s how The Stain Shop got started,” said Steve James, who joined his brother in the business 12 years ago. “We sold products out of our warehouse.” The brothers then bought the building in front and moved their shop to this more visible location at 1001 N. Bridge St. They began to add retail products and an online store for contractors and homeowners, in addition to their services for home and deck restoration projects.

Wanting to stay open all year long, Kevin and Steve brought the well-known reputable line of Benjamin Moore paints into their store last year. “It has rounded out our product lines,” said Steve. “Now we have coatings for any surface of your home.”

The Stain Shop is pleased to carry quality stain products from Armstrong-Clark, Sikkens, Defy and their own line by The Stain Shop. They also carry all the cleaning supplies and applicators, everything needed for do-it-yourselfers to complete the job from start to finish.

For more information, call (810) 735-8600 or visit TheStainShop.com.

TO THE ICE agents who arrested three illegal immigrants in Ann Arbor after eating at the restaurant and being served by them, good work. But you should have arrested the owner for hiring illegals. That’s against the law. He should have gone to jail, too.

PRESIDENT TRUMP’S ICE operations have a different stand than Obama’s. Illegals ought to be afraid. Time to go home. We don’t want you here.

LISTENING TO the talking heads, to how the illegals are so afraid now, well that’s good. I’m glad to see President Trump is finally having the immigration services enforce the law. They’re here illegally. They need to go.

DID YOU KNOW that during the Democratic convention in Charlotte, North Carolina, no speech was allowed to mention the word God. That also carried over to the 2016 Hillary Clinton campaign where the word God was not allowed in any of her speeches.

OBAMA’S LEGACY, QUITE simply, means an increase in taxes, regulations, spending, debt and illegal immigration into this country.

AMERICANS OF EVERY political persuasion should let their voice be heard by turning off every celebrity that displays gross disrespect our president. Hit them in their pocket and they will certainly hear us.

I TOTALLY AGREE with both Hot-liners about rewriting our history. Look at civilizations who tried to rewrite history and make things go away, you’re going to be doomed to repeat it.

DAN MEDICH, JR.

By Sally Rummel

Dan Medich, Jr., 46, recently was ordained as a Permanent Deacon and has been assigned to St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church as the director of Formation. He has been working at St. John’s for four years and prior to that, worked in the retail/wholesale side of his family’s business, Elevation of Fenton. His education as a master architect led him to his first career for 16 years in architecture. He and his wife, Kathy, have two children, Madeline and Daniel, and they live in Fenton Township.

What was the process of becoming a deacon like?

There are two kinds of deacons: a Permanent Deacon, who can be married, and a Transitional Deacon, who is on the way to being ordained a priest. My path toward becoming a Permanent Deacon took seven years, starting in August 2010. I had to have a foundation in Catholic theology, so I took 12 college courses through Siena Heights University, and was able to turn my certificate into a Bachelor’s Degree in Theological Studies. It wasn’t just a time of formation for me, but also for Kathy, who attended all Saturday formation classes. Our children were involved, too, by serving in different Rites. I also had a Permanent Deacon Mentor and a priest as a Spiritual Director. I was very thankful for how long the formation process was, leading up to ordination.

What is your job like as a deacon?

I have three major duties at our parish, the first two during Mass. The deacon proclaims the Holy Gospel and may also give the homily, based on scriptures read that day. I also assist the priest at the altar for communion. My third duty is to be of service to the people, not just those of our parish but also in the community to help the needs of others. Going to Lockwood of Fenton to give communion to those who can’t attend Mass, leading a wake service at Sharp Funeral Homes and being a part of Deacon Day in Flint are just a few examples.

Did you ever feel called to be a priest?

My call, my vocation, was to marriage. That’s when my love and respect for the sacrament of marriage developed. Recently ordained as a priest on the forth day on Thursday, June 1. He cannot stop the budget process from going forward. Teachers for giving our son a super fun field trip. Thanks again.

WE’RE NOT ASKING the kids to go to war for Trump or for Clinton. They’re going to war for the defense of our country, the United States of America, not the Republican Party.

I’M WHAT YOU’D call a bleeding heart liberal, but I’m not for taking down Confederate statues. I think if you don’t remember your past, you’re going to repeat it.

SEVENTY-FIVE MPH speed limit? I think that’s where Hickory Ridge is set at. I was driving down there at the speed limit, 50 mph, and I had a BMW go by me so fast it rocked my car.

WONDER IF THE Pope and President Trump discussed immigration and borders while meeting. Hopefully, our president took the opportunity to remind Pope Francis that he might be in charge of saving souls for the next life but as America’s commander-in-chief he is responsible for saving lives in this one. Open borders are a terrorist’s dream and a citizen’s nightmare.

Lincoln is credited for ending slavery and saving the Union. The phrase “In God We Trust” was added in 1964. $10 bill Alexander Hamilton, one of our founding fathers and the first U.S. Secretary of Treasury, graces the $10 bill. He is one of two non-U.S. presidents on our currency. There was talk about taking Hamilton off the bill, and putting Harriet Tubman, a noted abolitionist and humanitarian, on the front instead. However, that idea received a lot of backlash ever since Hamilton’s popularity has grown with the Broadway play “Hamilton.” $20 bill Andrew Jackson, our seventh president, is on the $20 bill. Jackson replaced Grover Cleveland on the bill in 1928. The $20 is getting a new design, premiering in 2020, and will have a portrait of Harriet Tubman. $50 bill Ulysses Grant, the 18th president and noted Civil War general, first appeared on the bill in 1913. There were two pieces of legislation introduced to Congress, in 2005 and 2010, that would have replaced Grant with Ronald Reagan, but were voted down. $100 bill Benjamin Franklin is the other non-president to grace U.S. currency. VICTIM Continued from Front Page Fenton on Tuesday, May 30 as Elmer Metras, 73, of Fenton Township.

Pickell said there were no visible signs of trauma or bruises and neither alcohol nor drugs are suspected in the man’s drowning. He added that Metras might have experienced a health issue. Based on their preliminary investigation, the sheriff’s office reports that Metras was a well-liked family man who loved to fish. At approximately 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, he left his home and launched his boat in Lake Fenton to go fishing. He was by himself.

Pickell said another individual at the DNR public boat launch on Grove Park Road spoke to Metras briefly that morning and said Metras did not appear to be in any distress.

Metras fished throughout the day and called his wife at approximately 2:30 p.m. to tell her that because of the high winds, he was pulling out his boat to head home. Pickell said the same individual who spoke with Metras in the morning was at the launch again when Metras was pulling out his boat. This time, the witness told deputies that Metras did appear to be in some type of distress.

The witness told responding deputies that Metras was at the dock and attempting to hook up his boat to the trailer when his boat began to pull away from the dock. It is unclear exactly what happened, but the witness reported that when he looked over toward the dock again, he saw the man face down in the water. He called 911 immediately.

Pickell said the first deputy on scene used a boat from a nearby boater and was able to pull Metras from the water, who was located approximately 40 to 50 yards from shore. All life-saving techniques were used. Metras was transported to Hurley Medical Center in Flint where he was pronounced deceased.

Pickell said an autopsy was being completed Wednesday and when the report is released, he would be able to report the cause of death.

Several outdoor wedding venues available in the greater Fenton area

Area gazebos popular with brides and grooms

By Tim Jagielo

— Under the gazebo downtown, wedding officiate Tracy Byers raised her voice above the wind and the Shiawassee River lazily passing behind her, to marry Amanda and Kenneth Way on May 23.

Amanda Way of Fenton booked the gazebo and VFW hall in December 2016. “I like the gazebo area and downtown Linden’s buildings,” she said. She liked the layout, the scenery, location, and proximity to her home.

It’s wedding season in the tri-county, and dozens will be held in public spaces in local downtowns this summer and early fall.

There are still more than 18 downtown weddings booked for the 2017 wedding season in Linden, and six in Fenton. Holly Village has public spots for rent as well, but does not keep track of the number of weddings booked.

“I liked that better than going to the big city,” said Way. Initially, Way secured the VFW hall, but not the gazebo, because another bride had secured the spot for the entire day. When the city contacted her about Way’s predicament, she agreed to relinquish the spot at 3 p.m. for their wedding.

Way was able to have her 130 guests for less money in a more comfortable location. They watched the ceremony, and then walked up the hill into the Linden VFW hall following a receiving line.

Due to the outdoor public setting, wedding planners are at the mercy of the weather and the behavior of the people who happen upon the most important day of their lives. “You kinda take it with the good and bad,” said Way.

Sue Young, Linden’s deputy treasurer, said that usually people are respectful of the wedding events. Onlookers will sometimes watch from the dam. She said her own daughter’s wedding photos were interrupted by some ducks in Linden.

Young said there are 18 weddings scheduled and several more that are holding different dates.

Lisa Wabel with the Linden VFW said they have 19 weddings booked until the end of the year and four in 2018.

Carol Couture, city of Fenton front office clerk, suggests that onlookers give the wedding participants some courtesy.

Fenton has several locations for rent — the downtown gazebo weddings booked in June, and one in August. The first wedding was in April.

The village of Holly and Holly Township offer rentals at the Karl Richter Community Center, and Lakeside Park.

Media Editor Tim Jagielo was hired privately to photograph the wedding. The couple allowed the photos to be used for print.

Rent a venue downtown

Fenton, Linden and Holly each have public venues for weddings. All spots except for the Linden VFW are government-owned, so rates are lower for residents, than non-residents.

If interested, call the applicable city hall or village offices to start the process. Each municipality has rental spots in local parks.

The DEQ, RRD, Compliance and Enforcement Policies and Procedures includes a path for escalated enforcement which is being considered for this site.

David Labrecque
Department of Environmental Quality

The DEQ, RRD Remediation and Redevelopment Division), Compliance and Enforcement Policies and Procedures includes a path for escalated enforcement which can include fines and penalties, if the gas station isn’t compliant with the law.

“The DEQ, RRD Remediation and Redevelopment Division), Compliance and Enforcement Policies and Procedures includes a path for escalated enforcement which is being considered for this site,” he said.

Owner of Beacon and Bridge, Quick-Sav Food Stores, Ltd., is responsible for cleaning up the leak. According to a May 15 letter from the DEQ to Eastman, if Quick-Sav doesn’t do what the DEQ wants, the DEQ will. If Quick-Sav has not developed a comprehensive plan for remediation efforts, then on July 1 the DEQ will begin to develop a plan for corrective actions at the site, which includes preparing bid specifications for a contractor to design and install a long-term groundwater management system.

This system will prevent the infiltration of contaminated groundwater and vapor intrusion into the basements of 109 North Bridge Street, which is Bridge Street Exchange, owned by Kevin Bogula.

At the May 22 Linden City Council meeting, Bogula said the leak has affected his business and personal health. He is currently in litigation with Beacon and Bridge.

He said the DEQ measured the amount of fumes in the air in his building, and found high levels of benzene, which is a known carcinogen. He might have to face the reality that he bought a building that was worthless, he said.

Bogula also spoke to the Department of Health and Human Services.

“If it couldn’t be controlled, we would have limited access to the building and the possibility of closing down the building due to public risk,” he said in a previous Times article. This is the second time this has happened.

If DEQ handles remediation efforts, they can bill Quick-Sav for the work.

“If the DEQ performs these corrective actions, please be advised that the DEQ may request assistance from the Department of Attorney General to recover from the liable persons any costs that are incurred by the state to perform these corrective actions, including any costs and associated interest that are incurred to develop, execute, oversee, cancel or modify any state contracts for the performance of these corrective actions,” the letter reads.

Quick-Sav could also be fined $10,000 for each UST violation per day.

“Affine imposed under Section 21323(1) (e) shall be based upon the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts by the violator to comply with Part 213 or the rules,” Labrecque said.

Quick-Sav did not respond before press time.

WHEN WILL THE powers that be at Holly Village give us back our four traffic lanes and the light at the end of Airport Drive? It’s been over a year now, and I have seen exactly 28 bikes on a path to nowhere. Wake up and represent your constituents.

WHEN OBAMA WAS president, people were routinely chastised for disrespecting the office of the president. In fact, a rodeo clown was fired for simply wearing an Obama mask when he was doing his routine. Now we have late night TV hosts using obscene profanity and comics holding up heads that look like Trump.

The Michigan Department of Environment Quality (DEQ) recently sent two letters to the gas station regarding the leak. One, on May 8, is a denial of a final assessment report, and the second is a letter stating that the DEQ is prepared to handle all remediation efforts if Beacon and Bridge won’t.

David Labrecque of the DEQ said they’re prepared to use “escalated enforcement,” which can include fines and penalties, if the gas station isn’t compliant with the law.

GASOLINE

May 8 Letter

The DEQ sent a letter to Robert Eastman and Quick-Sav, denying the final assessment report, which includes remediation efforts.

It was denied for a few reasons:

• The report did not include investigation of the full extent of the contamination, risk identification and corrective actions.

• The report did not fully investigate the migration of contaminants along and with the sanitary and storm sewers.

...the extent of impact and what risk is posed by the sewers is unknown," the letter states.

• Not all locations of underground storage tank systems were included in the report.

• The report did not include information about monitoring methane. “The storm sewer manhole directly west of 208 North Bridge Street continues to show evidence of impacts in vapor and water contained in the manhole,” the letter states.

• No thorough mapping was done to determine the extent of the leak.

• The impact of the leak on the soil and surrounding buildings was not adequately defined in the report.

• The report did not include sufficient information about remediation efforts.

The letter also requests Quick-Sav notify officially affected site owners with information on the leak.

FOREVER YOUNG

The age of Disney characters today

By Hannah Ball

Disney characters are young, beautiful, and usually full of spunk. All of the princesses are shown going on their epic adventure or falling in love when they’re young, usually around the age of 16.

When you see Snow White, she’s forever 14 years old. But how old would Disney princesses be today?

Bambi
This year marks the 75th anniversary of “Bambi” being released in theaters in 1942. The sad but sweet film shows Bambi losing his mother and growing into his own.

We see Bambi as a fawn in the movie, and he would be 75 years older today.

Snow White
The tale of the lovely young woman who talked and sang to animals, in the company of seven dwarfs came out in 1937. Snow White was banished to be a maid by her stepmother, the evil Queen.

When the movie came out, Snow White was 14. Today, she’d be 84.

Cinderella
As perhaps the most popular classic Disney princess, Cinderella met her prince after she snuck out of an abusive household to attend a ball. The prince falls in love with her and roams the land in search of her.

Cinderella was 19 years old then. Today, she would be 85.

Sleeping Beauty
“Sleeping Beauty” was one of the first classic Disney films premiering in 1959. A young princess, Aurora, is cursed by the evil fairy Maleficent. She tells the king and queen that Aurora will grow up beautiful, but will prick her finger on the spindle of a spinning wheel and die. Another fairy weakens the curse, and she ends up sleeping until awoken by a true love’s kiss.

Aurora was 16 when the movie came out, and would be 73 years old today.

The Little Mermaid
The tale of the mermaid princess came out in 1989. As the tale goes, Ariel desperately wants to know what it’s like to be human, so she trades her voice for a pair of legs. As she explores the walking world, she falls in love with Prince Eric who falls in love with her.

Ariel was 16 years old at the time. Today, Ariel would be 44 years old.

Beauty and the Beast
While the latest adaptation of the tale just hit the big screens, the original movie came out in 1991. Belle is a young girl growing up in a small town wishing for an exciting life. When her father wanders into the Beast’s lair, she takes his place as hostage and eventually falls in love with her captor.

Belle was 17 years old at the time, and today, she’d be 43.

Aladdin
“Aladdin,” which came out in 1992, featured the daring tale of a “street rat” boy, named Aladdin, and Princess Jasmine meeting and falling in love. However, her father tells Jasmine she must marry a prince, which Aladdin is not. Enter Genie, voiced by the late Robin Williams, one of the most upbeat Disney characters to help.

When the movie came out, Jasmine was 15. Today, she’d be 40.

Pocahontas
“Pocahontas” came out in 1995, showing the clash of cultures between Native Americans and white men who tried to take their land by force. While falling in love with the enemy, and while an enemy falls in love with her, the two cultures learn to coexist.

Pocahontas was 18 years old in the movie. Today, she’d be 40.

Mulan
The Huns-stopping teenager graced the big screens in 1998. On the cusp of war, every family is required to send one man to war. Mulan decides to take her father’s place to save his life. She cuts her hair, joins the war, and sings some memorable songs along the way.

Mulan is 16-years-old at the time of the movie. Today, she’d be 35.

Cinderella was 19 years old then. Today, she would be 85.

association’s “2017 Project of the Year” in the category of “Quality of Life $1 million to $5 million.”

According to Dan Czarnecki, public works director for Fenton, “our project was $4.7 million. There were many projects submitted for this award and the competition was strong. In the end, those involved with Public Works around Michigan granted our project with the award.

“Our Streetscape project had many hands in it from start to finish,” Czarnecki added. “It was long months of hard work and hard work making sure all the different aspects of the project were put together how we expected it to be, along with many last minute changes for the good of the community and the project.

“It is amazing how many different parts there were to this project, and our entire team of engineers, contractors, DPW and city office employees all worked very well together to get the job done. I am very pleased with the finished project.
We ended up with a great project that has had a positive result on the entire city. The overall quality of the project has produced an outcome that has not gone unnoticed by those involved with community construction projects, and our community should be proud of the results.”

On Monday, April 10, Jerry Sutton of the Michigan Concrete Association attended the Fenton City Council meeting to present the city with their Award of Excellence for the Downtown Fenton Streetscape and Road Rehabilitation for 2017.

“The city of Fenton rose to the top of their list,” said Czarnecki of the MCA’s award.
“The (Streetscape) project started with the initial planning by city staff and
the Downtown Development Authority (DDA).”

The Streetscape project started with the initial planning by city staff and
the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). City Manager Lynn Markland, former DDA Director Michael Burns, DDA Chairman Craig Schmidt and the rest of the DDA directed all helped to bring a vision to the project.

The city’s engineers, OHM Advisors from Livonia put together a project plan and they also worked over the work of all the contractors and subcontractors on the project.
Since the project completion, the city has also received awards from several other groups and organizations.

On Feb. 24, the Genesee County Metropolitan Planning Commission awarded the city of Fenton and the Downtown Streetscape Project their “2017 Innovation in Infrastructure Award” at its annual meeting.

On Feb. 25, the American Society of Civil Engineers, Southwest Michigan Branch, awarded the city of Fenton’s Downtown Fenton Streetscape and Road Rehabilitation Project its “2017 James F. Bliskey, P.E. Quality of Life Project of the Year Award”.

The latest award from the APWA makes the Streetscape project a finalist for the national APWA award.

In March, Sen. Dave Robertson and local State Rep. Joseph Graves preounced the state grant dollars.

The project on LeRoy Street extends from Elizabeth Street to Second Street, with reconstruction on Shiuwassae Avenue, Mill and Ellen streets, and some work on Caroline Street.

The total reconstruction work, which involved complete replacement of the road and included infrastructure like storm sewers underneath, park from Adelaide to LeRoy Street on Shiuwassae, and on LeRoy, to Elizabeth to Silver Lake Road.

The streets have been upgraded with everything new from the curb to the storefront, with scalloped pavers, and wider sidewalks designed to bring pedestrians closer to store fronts.

New trees have been planted with lighted planters. The exact positions of the trees will prevent blocking the fronts of any businesses.

Instead of angled parking, there is now parallel parking.

Final touches on the project, such as landscaping restoration and additional planting, etc., took place in the spring.
Isaacson’s goals places Fenton in district title game

By David Troppens
dtroppens@tctimes.com

Fowlerville — Eryn Isaacson is a senior playing her last prep soccer games of her career at Fowlerville High School. Isaacson is a senior player and a varsity girls soccer team already.

She doesn’t want the year to end, and she’s doing everything she can to make sure it doesn’t end. Isaacson scored both Fenton goals in a 2-1 overtime victory in a Division 2 district semifinal match against Mason at Fowlerville High School Wednesday night.

The win means the Tigers will play in a district title game at 6:30 p.m. against area rivals Linden at Fowlerville High School.

“I really enjoy having games like this,” Isaacson said. “It shows we can play some tough competition. It also allows me to just go back to when I first fell in love with the game and get that rush again. I don’t want to see it end.”

Isaacson has been the primary reason why the Tigers remain in the district tournament. She scored Fenton’s first two goals in a 3-0 victory against Owosso, meaning she has scored four of the Tigers’ five goals in two playoff contests. On Wednesday, the two goals also represented two of Fenton’s only three shots on net during the entire 80 regulation minutes and 10 additional overtime minutes.

Mason controlled action for pretty much the entire first half, but was unable to post a score that would represent its domination on the scoreboard.

Eagles move on in district tourney

Defeat Haslett in semifinals, 2-1

By David Troppens

Fowlerville — Soccer can be a funny sport at times.

It’s one of those sports where a team can seemingly dominate the entire game but at the same time the scoreboard doesn’t come close to reflecting that dominance.

And that’s what makes play-off time so scary in prep soccer. Those games do happen, and better to do get cut out of competition when these types of games happen.

The seventh-ranked Linden Eagles seemingly dominated 10th-ranked Haslett for most of the game, but ended up sneaking out of the D2 district semi-final contest with a 2-1 victory.

It was expected to be a close match-up considering both teams were ranked in the state, but the play on the pitch proved otherwise for strong portions of the game. The Eagles used its possession game to keep control of the ball and create many more scoring chances that Haslett was able to create. Linden enjoyed a 29-9 shot edge which included a 16-6 shots on target advantage.

However, a late second-half penalty kick attempt halfway through the second period, that the game wasn’t tied at the end of regulation.

Linden, Fenton win district openers

Kevin Fiebernitz couldn’t wait to see his seventh-ranked Linden varsity girls softball team play on East Lansing High School’s quality field.

After all, possessing the ball is one of Linden’s strengths, and the Eagles’ home field hardly qualifies as a good possession field considering all the divots located throughout the field.

So the Linden varsity soccer coach wasn’t shocked when he saw the results against East Lansing on Tuesday, a 4-0 Linden victory.

Holly loses in tourney opener, 2-0

Holly had scoring chances, but couldn’t score against Brandon, eventually losing a 2-0 district opener on Tuesday.

The Bronchos fell behind at the 37-minute mark of the first half when the Blackhawks scored their first goal. After the goal, Holly had some good scoring chances to tie it.

Area golfers compete at regional

It was a tough day for area teams at the Division 2 golf regional held at the Emerald on Wednesday, as none of the tri-county competitors were able to qualify for the state meet.

Fenton placed seventh in the 19-team field, leading area squads with a team score of 347, 21 strokes behind East Lansing’s third-place score of 326.

Holly baseball falls in pre-district game

It’s been a tough season for the Holly varsity baseball team.

The tough season ended against Milford in the pre-district round of the White Lake Lakeland Division 1 district on Tuesday.

Fenton scored two runs in the first inning and three more in the second, eventually cruising to an 8-2 victory against the Bronchos.

Trailing 5-0, Holly (9-24) scored its first run in the bottom of the fourth inning.

Larger group. In fact, for the first time in show history, when Melissa and Chance were rowing their man-made raft down a piranha-infested river toward their extraction point, the pair actually ran into the 40-day group who started their venture in the amazon the same day they did, just at a different location.

They were given the option to stay with the group or go home. Citing a health reason among a family member, Melissa left. Chance remained, as he returned to the other group. Watching her 21 days, it became very apparent that if she stayed, she not only would’ve become the group’s new leader.

However, a late second-half goal by Haslett’s Tegan Woodworth cut Linden’s lead to just 2-1 putting the game’s outcome in doubt. And the only reason it was only 2-1 was because Linden’s Madison Paige made a clutch save on a penalty kick attempt halfway through the second period.

In a way I was glad she didn’t stay.

This means if they do the 40-day show next season, she’s available to do the entire challenge from the start. I have no clue how Melissa would top her 21-day experience if she did do the 40-day show, but I’m guessing she’s up for the challenge.

Maybe she can take down a wild boar with her bare hands, build a three-story shelter or save the life of a fellow survivor from a jaguar attack with a sling shot. After watching the 21 day challenge, nothing would shock me.

So, if I have any pull in your decision, Melissa, please do the 40-day challenge next season. We’d love to see you thrive in some other crazy inhospitable area of the world. But if you decide to end your television survivor days with this episode, congratulations on your success. You will live in N&A history with the show’s fans.
