Multiple Owen Road projects this summer

Todd Skinner absent from special Linden Board of Ed meeting

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792 Linden — Linden teacher Todd Skinner will not be getting his Linden High School varsity coaching position back.

Skinner officially resigned from his coaching position on Thursday and rescinded his hearing, said retiring Superintendent Ed Koledo at the Linden Board of Education special meeting Thursday, June 29.

This move comes eight days after Skinner appealed the decision to remove him as coach in April, after it was revealed he was running an alleged illegal gambling operations by having students sell football squares.

■ Fenton Historical Society responsible for museum, elects new board members tjagielo@tctimes.com; 810-433-6795 Fenton — For the first time in 20 years, the elected leadership of the A.J. Phillips Museum is changing, and for the first time in 38 years, Ken Seger is no longer the curator of the museum.

By Tim Jagielo

"I've got some big shoes to fill," said new curator Leo Doan, 64, who was handpicked by Seger himself, and is admittedly nervous about his new role.

Doan's family is rooted deep in Fenton history. In 2008, he retired from the city of Fenton after 37 years with the Water Department. His father-in-law is former mayor and long-time Fenton City Councilman Carl Hammond. His stepdad is former, long-time fire chief Bruce Dorland.

The A.J. Phillips Museum is run by the Fenton Historical Society, which has just elected Connie Foley as the new treasurer, Kim Wheeler as vice president, and Leo Doan as curator. Long-time president Donna Seger will stay on for the time being.

Her husband Ken has become curator emeritus, and an honorary member of the board, a first for the Fenton Historical Society.

The new board hopes to work on increasing membership, repairing the stone foundation of the building, and continuing to convert the acquisitions records from paper to digital, among many others.

"There was a time there when it was almost just me and Ken," said Donna. "And then these younger people came along, and they're very enthusiastic. They love Fenton."

In Donna's opinion, this is one of the more active boards compared with the past. The museum currently has more than 50,000 items, and functions with the volunteer board, and approximately $16,000 from the city of Fenton, which owns the building. Web Content Editor Vera Hogan contrib-

How cute is your furry friend?

By Hannah Ball hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

In celebration of National Social Media Day on June 30, the Times is encouraging its readers to utilize the internet for one of its most popular uses — looking at photos and videos of cute animals.

What may seem fluffy and trite can actually be beneficial to one's health. A study done by psychological scientists at Hiroshima University in Japan found that looking at pictures of cute puppies and kittens can help improve productivity, focus, and attention to detail.

Take a break from discussing politics and other heavy issues and participate in a lighthearted competition. The Times is hosting a cutest dog competition and a cutest cat competition. Our readers will decide the winner.

Simply post a photo of your dog or cat in the Facebook status connected to this story on our newsfeed. To cast your vote for an animal, simply "like" that comment. You can like as many pets as you wish.

The competition is only open to dogs and cats. You can enter as many of your pets as you'd like, but only enter one photo of each animal. Along with a picture, include the animal's name, age, breed, and something that shows the animal's personality. Dogs and cats of all breeds are welcome.

The competition starts June 30 and will be open for a week, ending on July 7. The cat and dog with the most likes at the end of the week wins and will be featured in the Times. Good luck to our furry friends.

Dangers of summer

erhaps you are under the impression that summers are fun and carefree, especially for kids. Perhaps you are incorrect. As a longtime connoisseur of scare journalism ("Next on News 4: What you don't know about suntan lotion can kill you,") I feel it's my duty to alert you to a heretofore undiscovered hazard of summer, which I read about in a Wall Street Journal column.

As part of a larger piece on the clear and present danger that is summer, columnist Lenore Skenazy referenced a terrifying blog from KidsTravelDoc. com, which said: "Remember when digging in the sand at the beach was a fun activity for young children? Sorry. No more. Based on recent findings, only with lots of do's and don'ts is frolicking in the sand a healthy activity, says the U.S. Environmental Protective [sic] Agency."

The blog's author, a pediatrician with the American Academy of Pediatrics, writes that studies show children who play in the sand are more likely to become ill than children just walking on it. "And the risk of illness increases with digging in the sand, being buried in it, and digging in wet sand.'

If you're a parent who's thinking, well, I'll just have junior dig in dry sand then, please turn your parenting card in to the proper authorities immediately, because, according to the blog, "Dry sand presents problems, too. Discourage children from lying directly on the sand."

The only problem with this wonderful safety-infused article is it doesn't go far enough. There are many other summer activities in which I partook as a youth (this was in the days before safety was invented) that can cause injury and death — sometimes both. As a public service, I came up with a list:

Playing Frisbee — Playing Frisbee

can be a fun, harmless activity but only if you're good at catching it, which some kids aren't, leading to a condition that I just made up called "Frisbee mouth," wherein a Frisbee becomes lodged in your mouth after your fingers snap shut an instant too late. This happened to me at least once a summer. I'm lucky to still have teeth. Don't let your kids suffer as I did.

Firecrackering mailboxes — OK, yes, I did this on occasion with my hoodlum friends. We never got hurt doing it, except for the time my dad got a call from a neighbor who for some reason didn't appreciate having a blackened mailbox, after which I couldn't sit for a week. So don't let your kids do this either.

Swimming within half an hour of eating — I was warned against doing this every single day of every single summer throughout childhood. And I never did suffer the dreaded cramps and drown because of it. But it doesn't mean your kids won't. So also don't let them do this.

In fact, you really shouldn't let them swim at all. Or do anything else that involves the outdoors or sunshine. Video games are much safer. Encourage those. You'll be glad you did.

Michigan Water Ski Hall of Fame will induct him in memoriam at Monday's Silver Lake Ski Show

By Sally Rummel

Gerry Durocher, a lifelong Fenton resident, business owner and water ski industry booster for many years, will be inducted into the Michigan Water Ski Hall of Fame (MWSHOF) on Monday, July 3 at 6:30 p.m., just before the Silver Lake Ski Show.

His widow, Nancy, will accept the award on behalf of her husband, who died May 21, 2015.

Having endured polio as a child, Durocher wasn't able to compete in the sport of water skiing as he would have liked. However, he immersed himself in the sport in every other way.

Durocher was president of the Silver Lake Ski Club for nine years, and also served as show director, helping develop show themes and innovating numerous show ski acts, according to the MWSHOF. He made some of his most significant contributions to the sport, teaching his own children and many others to ski by providing them with a consistent pull, while offering his insight, experience and patience.

"He was an extremely giving and caring person for the sport of showskiing," said Jeff Nichols, owner of Aqua Sports Marine in Fenton and active member of the Silver Lake Ski Club. "I've got close to 20 or 30 years of memories with Gerry. His whole family was very involved with the sport. We used to joke with Nancy saying, 'Thanks for lending Gerry to us for the summer!""

Durocher was a driver for many years, as well as an equipment manager. He was recognized numerous times as the top driver at the Michigan Water Ski Association Show Championships.

"He'd even lend us his FormSpec employees when we needed something fixed at travel shows," said Nichols. "He was one of the largest supporters of the sport that we've ever seen. Not just us, but in the whole state of Michigan."

New law would allow concealed carry without a permit

DOES ANYBODY REMEMBER the old formula to judge the value of a town? You take the number of banks and the number of churches and the number of bars but I forget what you divide it by.

I'M NOT SURE how wise this new development is. That Pizza Hut on Owen Road was only there about 20 years. The barn was there I think well over 70 or 80 years. Better just put a barn back up.

EVERYTHING COMES WITH a price. The governor was approaching the cost of government by eliminating redundancy and overlap. I haven't seen much reduction. But I wonder if the president shares that same value at the federal level.

I SEE THE city has about three dozen vehicles in the DPW department. With only 28 miles of roads in the city, a little math shows that's about 1.1 DPW vehicles per mile. I've never seen that many on my street. Maybe that's why it hasn't been paved in 25 years.

I WISH PEOPLE would get off Trump's back and be part of the solution instead of part of the problem. We've got a man that knows how to make money. No secret that he's up there, making money. I'd much rather have a man openly, honestly making money rather than have someone like Hillary Clinton sucking dry Arab countries.

OUR CHOSEN LEADER, who reflects their single voice and not ours, may still keep their position, but over time can look around and see that no one's following. Those leaders should listen, reflect and then act. Those are types we're looking for.

Graves and Vaupel explain their 'yes' votes

By Hannah Ball

Michigan citizens who are approved through the state to carry firearms may no longer need to have a license to carry them concealed.

A group of bills, House bills 4416 through 4419, would do away with the requirement that an individual needs a license to carry concealed weapons. The House of Representatives passed the bills June 7 in a 59 to 49 vote.

Rep. Hank Vaupel (R-Dist. 47) voted in favor of the bill.

"At this point, you can open carry without the training, and what this does is say if you have to put on a coat (while carrying a gun), that you would be OK," he said.

Vaupel said this bill does not give everyone the right to carry concealed weapons, only people who can lawfully own and carry them.

"This doesn't eliminate the need for a CPL if you're say going to another state. You still

I do not believe that is right, or how it should be, when it comes to the freedom to exercise your Second Amendment rights," he said.

A few amendments were offered, including the following:

• an amendment to require a person carrying a concealed pistol to have taken a pistol training or safety program before carrying concealed weapons, and then carrying that certificate of course completion when going armed

• an amendment to leave in place a ban on individuals under age 21 from carrying a concealed firearm

• an amendment to ban individuals who have committed certain misdemeanors in the past eight years from carrying a concealed firearm

All were voted down.

"People still have to get the background check before they can buy a gun," Vaupel said.

Approximately 14 other states plus the District of Columbia allow concealed carry without a permit, he added, and the National Rifle Association has offered to pay for training courses if local police departments have the space.

Graves said, "It (training) would no longer be a requirement. States that have eliminated the CPL requirement actually see an increase in consumer demand for proper training and handling of firearms and handguns. Eliminating the requirement for training does not eliminate the demand for training, as most legal gun owners are very responsible people.'

The bills were sent to the Senate on June 13, and were referred to the Senate Government Operations Committee.

who didn't support him attended, and a few were upset they weren't able to speak publically.

Since Skinner resigned earlier in the day, the item, along with public comment, was removed from the agenda.

After the decision, Dana Brennan, a Linden mother who has three boys who have wrestled for Skinner, said, "We've known Todd for a long time and he's a great coach. Everybody makes mistakes sometimes and I don't know all the details about everything that was brought out at the last meeting, but I feel like he refuted a lot of the claims that were made against him."

She said he had a lot of proof to back up his claims, and that he's always been upbeat and positive for his wrestlers.

"He gives his heart and soul for the program. So anyone that has something against him, you know, you're not going to agree with every decision a coach or teacher makes, but I still feel like he deserves the respect of all his wrestlers, past or present," she said. "No one's going to be as good as a wrestling coach as he is."

Board of Education President Scott Maker said both sides were able to state their cases as the last meeting.

"It's a personal choice. I really do wish him the best of luck whatever he chooses to do on a coaching side. I think the situation here at Linden just was at a point where he wouldn't be able to achieve what he wanted to achieve and take things where they need to go," he said.

"I think it was a good decision. I think he probably looked at the situation from his own perspective and made a decision. Not that we would have avoided a hard decision, whatever it was, but he kind of took that out of our hands."

He said there was a lot of public support on both sides of the argument and he feels bad people weren't able to speak publicly on the matter at the meeting.

Supervisor wants permit costs slashed

Board agrees to reduce fee from $300 to $200 for replacing windows and doors

By Hannah Ball hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Argentine Twp.—The Argentine Township Board of Trustees approved a $100 reduction to the $300 fee for homeowners replacing windows and doors in the township.

Argentine Township Supervisor Brian said, "I'd like to propose, in the spirit of encouraging people to follow the law and... doing things right, reducing those fees by a third."

This would eliminate the $100 plan review fee, but keep the $100 permit and $100 deposit fee.

"We felt $300 was excessive," he said. "I'd like to do this now so we can have something on the books."

Now fees will cost $200 for replacing windows or doors. Saad said they're going to amend the language at the next meeting to include roofing and siding. Someone will still review the work plans to make sure the dimensions are right on windows and doors. He hopes this motion will help drive compliance as people their homes. This comes after several residents have high fees. "I'd like to see them go to nothing, but regulations and laws prohibit the board from being able to do that," he said. "There's always going to be an instance where someone is going to do something way out of the ordinary that is going to do damage to the

"T'm a small government guy, I want to see the government be more efficient and smaller," he said.

Residents can go to the township offices at 9048 Silver Lake Rd. to fill out the necessary paperwork. Saad said the Planning Commission is reviewing how best to put the applications online. What else do you need a permit for?

In most municipalities, including Argentine Township, residents need a permit for all structural changes such as roof framing, enlarging windows, interior remodeling or floor plan changes, demolition work, building accessory structures larger than 200 square feet, decks, attached garages, covered porches, patios, and other projects.

Antiques

The tri-county area is rich with local history, which is one of the reasons antique collectors have a vast playground of venues to search for those "must have" items they've been hoping to find.

The village of Holly and cities of Fenton and Linden boast a number of antiques in their bustling downtowns.

Additionally, there is an abundance of consignment stores, where antiques and collectibles are displayed among the housewares, furniture, artwork and more.

Sometimes people just don't know what they have (or don't care) and some valuable finds are possible at local consignment shops.

Although it may take a little longer, it sure can be a lot of fun to search for antiques and collectibles at local garage and yard sales during the warmer months. Don't know where to find them? Just check out the Tri-County Times weekly classified ads for the dates and addresses of local sales.

Local auctions and estate sales provide yet another venue for the antique buffs among us. Those, too, can be found in the Times classified ads.

Museums, art galleries, theatre and concerts may be what most people consider "the arts." And we have plenty to entertain us in the tri-county area.

During the summer months, residents and visitors in the Fenton, Holly and Linden communities can enjoy weekly outdoor concerts in the park. Holly even shows an outdoor movie in the downtown once a week. There are the festivals, and arts and craft fairs regularly throughout the year, during summertime outdoor events like the Fenton Freedom Festival, and during the holidays at area schools and churches.

Fenton, Holly and Linden also boast museums showcasing items from their long and fascinating histories, which go back centuries.

The tri-county area, with its four school districts and almost 25 school buildings, boasts a wealth of talent in our most valuable assets - our children. Art fairs, singing concerts, band concerts, plays, and other forms of entertainment area regular part of the school year and guests are encouraged.

The Fenton Village Players give locals a glimpse of what it's like to see professionals on the stage. Their performances take place regularly throughout the year. The Fenton Community Orchestra and Fenton Lakes Chorus provide even more spectacular entertainment.

Automotive

It doesn't matter where you are in the United States, or the world for that matter. The word "automotive" is synonymous with Michigan. Although we don't mass produce cars or trucks in the Fenton, Holly or Linden areas. there are thousands of residents who either are or know someone employed by one of the big automotive companies. In Holly, Falcon Motorsports manufacturers the

If not the big ones, they are somehow employed by an original equipment or aftermarket supplier.

Then we have all the automotive dealers who have served the Fenton area for decades. And once you have that car or truck, you'll need to maintain it or (hopefully not) repair it. There are countless automotive (body and innards) repair shops, oil change facilities, automotive parts and accessory retailers, and ... at the sunset of your vehicle's life, the auto salvage yards.

Sometimes it's just necessary to replace a car or truck so trading it in at one of our local dealerships is an option. Or, if you prefer, selling it is as easy as contacting the Tri-County Times classified advertising staff at (810) 629-8282.

During the summer, residents and visitors can take advantage of any number of classic car shows, where they can reminisce about the vehicle of their youth or just admire the work that owners put into their restoration. The village of Holly's Cruise to Battle Alley on Wednesday nights and Fenton's Back to the Bricks in August are among the biggest shows in the area.

TEENAGER GETS STUCK IN TODDLER SWING

FENTON WOMAN WITH CPL ARRESTED FOR OWI

At 1:20 a.m. on June 25, a Fenton police officer saw a black 2013 Chevrolet Silverado swerving in the lane on Silver Parkway as it approached Silver Lake Road. When the vehicle turned east onto Silver Lake Road, it made a wide turn and continued traveling in the center turn lane. A traffic stop was initiated. Contact was made with the driver, a 26-year-old Fenton woman, who told the officer that she had a license to carry and a Ruger 9 mm handgun in the center console. The officer detected a strong odor of alcohol and the woman admitted to drinking earlier in the day. After field sobriety tests, she complied with a breath test, which showed she was above the legal limit, which also violates CPL rules. The officer removed the handgun and emptied five rounds and one round from the chamber. Her vehicle was impounded, she was arrested and was lodged overnight until sober. She was issued court appearance tickets.

INTRUDER IS INTOXICATED WOMAN

At 2:30 a.m. on June 26, a Fenton police officer responded to a home in the 3000 block of Silver Lake Road on a report of a suspicious person. The caller said they believed someone was trying to break into the home. Upon arrival, the officer observed a woman sitting on the side porch. The woman smelled of alcohol and was unsteady on her feet. The woman, who appeared highly intoxicated, did not know where she was and could not provide her own address. A breath test revealed a .257 percent blood alcohol count. She was handcuffed and arrested for disorderly intoxication. The 26-year-old Tyrone Township woman spent the night at the police station and released the next day with a court appearance ticket.

Bishop airport alleged terrorist consents to continued detention

■ Listen to the court audio recording of hearing

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Amor M. Ftouhi, 49, of Quebec, Canada and Tunisia, was in federal court Wednesday morning for his detention hearing. This follows an alleged terrorist attack in Flint Township one week ago, at 9:38 a.m. on Wednesday, June 21.

The hearing was held at U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Michigan in Flint.

Ftouhi has been charged with stabbing Lt. Jeff Neville, a police officer at Flint's Bishop International Airport, in the neck with a large hunting knife. Neville fought back and he, along with other officers took Ftouhi into custody. The airport was evacuated and closed for several hours for the investigation. No other injuries were reported and all airport travelers were safe.

Neville was rushed to Hurley Medical Center in Flint in critical condition. He was released earlier this week and is recovering from his injuries.

The FBI, which is handling the investigation, alleges Ftouhi unlawfully used a knife to perform an act of violence at the airport. His actions were likely to endanger safety at that airport and were likely to cause death or serious bodily injury and extreme physical pain.

FBI Special Agent Thomas M. Sondgeroth reported that Ftouhi walked up to a fully uniformed police officer (Neville) at a publicly accessible area of the airport, yelled "Allahu Akbar," pulled out a knife and stabbed the officer in the neck. After stabbing Neville, Ftouhi allegedly continued to yell "Allah" several times. He further exclaimed something similar to, "You have killed people in Syria, Iraq, and Afghanistan, and we are all going to die."

Ftouhi has dual citizenship in Tunisia and Canada and has lived in Montreal, Canada for the past 10 years. He is married and has three children.

During the detention hearing Wednesday morning, Ftouhi's

Morgan, told Magistrate Judge Stephanie Dawkins Davis that based on the nature of the charges and the fact that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services has a hold on her client as well, that Ftouhi would consent to continued detention for the Morgan said that even if bond were an option, Ftouhi would not be able to be released from federal custody. She also said it would be the defense's burden to prove that Ftouhi is not a flight risk, adding that he has no ties to Michigan.

The judge asked Ftouhi if he agreed with continued detention and he said, "Yes I do."

The court set a preliminary exam date of July 5 at 1:30 p.m. at the same federal courthouse in Flint. During the exam, the government may call witnesses, with an opportunity for cross-examination. Following testimony, the judge will determine if there is probable cause to advance Ftouhi's case to a jury trial.

The judge added that if the matter goes to a grand jury and they decide on an indictment, it would be an indictment on July 5 instead of a preliminary hearing. She explained that an indictment is a tool that government uses on this type

The current restaurant will be completely demolished, with a new 5,218-squarefoot McDonald's constructed at the same site. In addition to the dual order drivethrough window, parking improvements also are planned.

Reilly said there will be only one entrance and exit drive at the newly built McDonald's.

"This will actually reduce turning movement," he said. "The less turning movement there is, the safer."

Reilly said one access entrance should reduce the number of conflicts, or accidents there.

It will take about 80 days from the start of demolition to completion of the new McDonald's building.

"This store is being prepped for the 'experience of the future' concept at McDonald's," said owner Mark Pfau in February.

The Owen Road McDonald's is one of eight owned by Phau.

Elsewhere on Owen Road

It's back to the drawing board for Owen Road Partners, LLC, the developers that purchased the Big Boy and Pizza Hut property on Owen Road.

They cleared one hurdle in March when the Fenton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) approved requests for two variances, eliminating the need for the required 20-foot setbacks.

Carmine Avantini, planner for the city of Fenton has said previously, "The variances they are requesting will allow the cross access connections with the proposed development to line up with the Sunoco site to the east and the Tuffy site to the west.

In addition, the property narrows considerably for the current Big Boy site and makes it difficult to provide adequate parking while still meeting the ordinance parking setback requirements."

The owners haven't been as lucky with the Fenton Planning Commission, having been before the group on a few occasions without success.

Reilly said the partners, city administrators and city consultants planned to meet last week to see if they could

At issue is the space available to do what the owners wish while keeping with city requirements.

The Owen Road Partners' concept includes up to a nine-tenant building. The property is zoned general business, which could include anything from retail and restaurants, to personal services like medical offices, banks, etc.

Bob Evans and Ruby Tuesday buildings purchased

It appears the Dedivanaj family won't have to go far for reunions. In addition to Mega Coney Island and Boston's, family members have purchased the Bob Evans and Ruby Tuesday restaurant buildings.

Although there was talk of a Whitey's coming to the Ruby Tuesday building on Silver Parkway, those plans have fallen through, according to Reilly.

"Rocky Dedivanaj, who owns Boston's on Owen Road, has purchased that building," Reilly said. "His brother George is moving into the Bob Evans building."

Reilly said George Dedivanaj will be offering "American cuisine" at his restaurant. What will become of the former Ruby Tuesday's is yet to be determined.

Kmart

There is no activity with the former Kmart building on Silver Parkway except maybe getting into trouble.

"We did a code enforcement on Kmart and cleaned up all the trash," said Reilly. "They're going to get a hefty bill. Even if a building is vacant the owners still need to take care of it."

Other side of town

While construction on The Horizon Building at Silver Lake Road and S. LeRoy is about to get underway, construction on the CRUST expansion is nearing completion, said Reilly. They are down to working on the drywall and interior finish.

Waiting to enjoy some Korean barbecue? Well, you're going to have to wait a bit longer. The restaurant on N. LeRoy Street that has featured several restaurants since the old Heritage Restaurant closed its doors, will be named "Goki Goki." Reilly said it is still being worked on.

seasonal deputies who must be at least 18 years old and most commonly are in college or recently graduated. It's a great start," he said.

Here are seven things to remember before going out on the water.

1. It's not like driving a car

Swanson said, "Boats are unforgiving. They don't drive like vehicles and many young drivers are driving them before they can drive a car. Boats have no brakes, seat belts or airbags. Gain as much experience as you can and never take operating a boat for granted."

2. No drinking and driving

Michigan law prohibits driving a boat with a blood alcohol content over .08 percent. This is one of the biggest mistakes people commonly make, according to Swanson.

3. Don't go near docks or swimmers

All watercraft, including boats and Jet Skis, are supposed to stay at least 100 feet away from any fixed objects, diver flags, and other boats.

Being aware of your surroundings and giving swimmers a wide berth is important. Earlier this month, a boat struck a 12-year-old girl who was swimming in Lake Ponemah.

4. Have enough life jackets for everyone

The boat must contain an accessible life jacket for every person on board. All passengers under the age of 6 must wear a lifejacket, and everyone tubing, skiing, or riding a Jet Ski must wear a life jacket.

4. Wrong way traffic

Dennis Finney, who used to be a deputy sheriff with the Oakland County Sheriff's Office and now lives on Lobdell Lake, said watercraft are supposed to drive counterclockwise around the lake.

"That's a big one," he said. Finney worked in the marine department, patrolling lakes, doing human body recovery and boating accident reconstruction work.

5. Tubing with a Jet Ski/no spotter

Finney said another violation is people on Jet Skis pulling a skier or a tuber. The law requires that the watercraft have a spot for every person. With a driver and spotter on a two-person Jet Ski, there's no seat for the person they're pulling if they get injured.

"I see a lot of people skiing without a spotter now, without a second person in the boat," he said, adding that a few days ago he saw someone with a blow-up doll in the passenger seat while the driver towed a skier.

6. Sitting in the wrong part of the boat

Pontoons have an enclosed area, and passengers are not allowed on the outside front end or on the raised back area while the pontoon is moving.

Finney said a few years ago, a child was sitting on the front edge, wearing a lifejacket, and fell in while the boat was moving. The driver turned the boat off in time, but the life jacket strap became tangled in the motor. They weren't able to raise the motor, and the child drowned.

"It was just an unfortunate accident," he said. "What a horrible thing to live with the rest of your life."

7. Flying drones

It is illegal for people to fly drones over people's heads at sporting events, public gathering or parks according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Swanson said the best way to report wrongdoing on the lake is to call 911. The marine patrol is dispatched the same way as other units.

HALITOSIS Halitosis (bad breath) can have several different causes. Many medical conditions such as sinusitis (sinus infection), digestive conditions such as ulcers or acid reflux, and diabetes can all cause bad breath Certain foods such as onions and garlic can cause halitosis. Alcohol and cigarette smoking will also cause bad breath. A main cause of malodor is often times due to the poor condition of the teeth and gums. Probably the most common cause of bad breath is dehvdration or dry mouth which allows for the proliferation of sulfur producing bacteria. This is why most people awake with nasty "morning breath". It's difficult to determine whether your own breath is bad. This is because your own sense of smell acclimates to its oral nasal/environment and doesn't detect anything different even if it's smelling bad. So breathing into your cupped hand and smelling rarely works to detect halitosis. A better way to determine if your breath is bad is to lick and then smell the back of your hand or scrape your tongue with a spoon and then smell the spoon.

Tips for good breath: 1. Visit your dentist every 6 months to ensure the good health of your teeth and gums. 2. Brush and floss every day

- 3. Brush your tongue every day. (Your tongue has more surface area than the rest of the mouth combined)
- 4. Keep well hydrated by drinking plenty of water. 5. After a meal of onions and garlic be sure to brush and floss

6. If you drink alcohol, do so in moderation 7. Don't smoke.

If you have concerns about halitosis. Call for your free consultation. I will be able to determine its cause and if there is an issue that needs further attention.

The Bronchos not only won all of their Metro League duals and captured the Metro League meet title with a perfect score, they did the same when the Bronchos went to regionals, once again winning all eight regional flight titles. And, of course, the season ended with Holly finishing in a tie for fifth place at the state meet.

That type of success usually results in outstanding individual honors, and the Holly girls are starting to get some.

For the first time in school history, five Holly girls tennis players earned all-state status. Holly's No. 1 singles player Taylor Barrett earned the highest honor, being named to the MHSTeCA All-State First Team. Meanwhile, No. 2 singles player Nicole Johnson, No. 3 singles player Makenzi Sells and No. 1 doubles partners Megan Lesperance and Ruby Barrett earned Honorable Mention All-State status.

Taylor Barrett earned first-team status by posting a 24-9 overall record this spring. The sophomore captured the Metro League's and

"Our coaches were so impressed with Taylor's growth throughout the season," Holly varsity girls tennis coach Will Sophiea said. "In Taylor's final nine matches of the season she went 8-1 with two straight-set wins over Birmingham Sealholm and two straight set wins over a player who will be playing for Saginaw Valley State University (Swartz Creek's Maya Campbell) next year.

Fenton — Summer is a busy time of year for Pat Sharrow and his coaching staff. And for the second straight summer Fenton High School was part of his busy football itinerary.

Sharrow and his staff spent Monday through Thursday at Fenton's football field working with nearly 80 young athletes teaching the students some football lessons and some life lessons while also having some fun at the second-annual Detroit Lions Summer Football Camp.

The event had children ranging from 6to 14-years old spending four days doing interactive skills, hosting competitions and teaching valuable lessons.

"With the issues around the game, we have to protect and teach the game the right way," said football education coordinator Sharrow.

Holly football program looking at its future

"It's fun to see how much fun they have with the little things," Culloty said. "When they catch a ball it's like the greatest thing ever. If they finish second in a competition they are having, they run over to their parents and talk about it. The excitement and energy is the greatest part."

"That's the best part of coaching these kids," DeHart said. "When you teach them and then when they do it right, the look on their faces is great. They're happy."

On Thursday morning the kids rotated among many different offensive drills for about five minutes at a time. At each station the varsity football players helping teach the drill to the players. For example, during the offensive drills there was a running back station, a blocking stage, a throwing stage and a catching stage. At the catching stage, the varsity players motivated the young campers by saying if everyone caught a ball on consecutive passes, the varsity teachers would do push-ups.

The Powers Catholic varsity girls soccer team celebrates winning a Division 3 state championship, recently. The squad includes many tri-county athletes.

Chargers' past helps spark D3 state championship run

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789 The passion to win a state championship began about a year ago. The Powers varsity girls soccer team had a good squad last year. In fact, it was an outstanding team, advancing to the Division 3 state championship game before losing to Hudsonville Unity Christian by a 2-0 score.

With so many seniors coming back, Powers knew they would have another good team in 2017, and they knew something else - the Chargers didn't want to experience what they did their junior year during their senior season.

The Chargers didn't have to worry about it this time. The Powers Catholic girls soccer team, a squad that included 13 area athletes, captured the D3 title this spring with a 4-0 victory against Freeland at the state title contest.

"At the beginning of the year it was special because we had so many returners and knew how it was like to lose in the championship game," senior captain Rachel Phillpotts said. "So to know how it felt like to lose and then actually come back and win it with the same people was a really cool feeling."

The title game was never very close. Kennedy Myers, one of the other players from the area, scored two first-half goals. Myers scored 9:50 into the contest and at the 20:55 mark as well. The first goal was set up on a free kick by Rachel Rasins.

"The ball went into the box, hit off one of the defenders and I kicked it in." Myers said.
