Property values continue to rise on area lakes

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Waterfront living is popular in the tri-county area because of the abundance of fresh-water inland lakes here. Many people remain home on holidays and weekends to “staycation,” enjoying their favorite water sports, relaxation, wine and sunsets and more, close to home.

When it comes to buying a home on the lake, size matters. Lake Fenton is still “king,” according to most Realtors, even though there are fewer than a dozen homes and lots available for sale on a lake with 845 houses.

“All our lakes are amazing and we are blessed to have them,” said John Wentworth of Re/MAX Platinum in Fenton.

“Lake Fenton always commands the most dollars, and Silver Lake is a close second. After that, it’s just your own personal preference. You need to have a plan, a strategy. Work with a Realtor who knows the waterfront market,” said Wentworth.

Lake Fenton is double the size of the next largest lake, and its wide open spaces are attractive to many people who love fast water sports.

“People really enjoy the openness and freeness of Lake Fenton,” said John Tremaine of Tremaine Real Living Real Estate in Fenton. “Most people want Lake Fenton.”

Lazy days of summer

Our Street Talk question this week is "What is your favorite childhood memory of summer?" I recall that every day of the summer was my favorite.

When I was in grade school, we lived in the end house of a row of 10 homes in the country. Back then, those 10 houses were collectively referred to as a "subdivision."

Our days truly were "the lazy days of summer." Since we lived in the end house, we had a big side yard and that's where the big propane tank was located. I used to climb aboard that thing and pretend it was my horse. Guess what my horse's name was, go ahead guess. It was Silver!

We had a massive front and back yard, too. I used to beg my father to let me mow the lawn (sshhh, don't tell the guys in my house that I know how to mow a lawn). It took me a few hours with the push mower, but I did it.

The best part of summer though was the weekends. Our parents would take us into town to what we called "The Quarry." It was an actual limestone quarry filled with water. It had been turned into a beach and even had a diving board. When we first started going there, Dad threw me off the end of the diving board. That's how I learned how to swim. Later, I remember once jumping in next to a turtle. By the time I spotted it, it was too late.

The turtle didn't care.

I relive these and many more memories quite a bit because over the past few years I have reconnected with six of my former neighbors and classmates from that subdivision on Facebook.

We haven't seen each other in 50 years but to this day I feel as close to them as I did when we were kids because social media has allowed us to share our lives every day through photo, video and posts. They are all married now, have children and most have grandchildren.

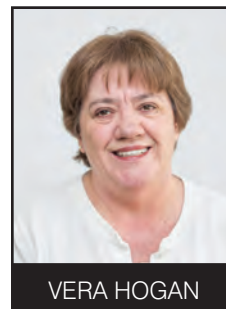

When we were kids, we used to play outside all of the time. We rode our bikes to the creek (a.k.a. "the crick"), and to the ball field. We'd play in each other's back yards; all of us had a swing set of some kind.

In the late summer, when we were getting a little bored and missing our other friends from school, along came Vacation Bible School. It usually took place at the end of July or beginning of August. It was great to see everyone again, and the VBS itself was pretty cool, too. I can make a mean cross out of popsicle sticks.

With my fond memories of the past, enjoying long summer days with my young friends — and access to social media today, enjoying long summer days with my old friends — I really do have the best of both worlds.

Fourth of July fails

FIREWROKS

OK, this is not good, but the motorists who see this sign along the road probably still got the idea and had a good laugh. Still, it's not that difficult a word!

BURNOUT

This guy brings new meaning to the word "burnout." Celebrating this country's freedom is a wonderful thing, but the freedom of getting skin cancer is not one of them.

BIKINI

Here's another cringe-worthy T-shirt likely on the market throughout the country. To the person who actually has the nerve to wear it in public -bless your heart.

FLAG CAT

We can't tell if this is paint or an interesting "knit" job, but either way, it's kind of cool in a weird sort of way. The hand petting the patriotic feline's behind is definitely very weird.

SAN DIEGO'S BIG BAY BOOM 2012

Oops! One of the largest Fourth of July fireworks shows in the nation was ruined in San Diego after a glitch caused all the pyrotechnics to ignite all at once. And this after spectators waited for hours for the 18-minute show.

MAN-SCAPING

You have to wonder how long it took someone to help this gentleman with the patriotic man-scaping. Only a mother or a very loving wife would do such a thing — maybe.

INDEPENDENTS DAY

Please, can we get these folks a dictionary. At least this looks to be on private property and these nice people probably meant well. It's a sure bet though that if the mistake was pointed out to Mom, she would blame it on the kid.

COLORFUL DOG

This is probably the least objectionable photo on this page. What a cute little dog. But is it us, or does he look like he's thinking, "Why did you do this to me?"

LOOKING BACK

at this week in NATIONAL HISTORY

COMPILED BY VERA HOGAN

JULY 2

1937: The Lockheed aircraft carrying American aviator Amelia Earhart and navigator Frederick Noonan is reported missing near Howland Island in the Pacific. The pair was attempting to fly around the world when they lost their bearings during the most challenging leg of the global journey. The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Itasca was in sporadic radio contact with Earhart as she approached Howland Island and received messages that she was lost and running low on fuel. Soon after, she probably tried to ditch the Lockheed in the ocean. No trace of Earhart or Noonan was ever found.

JULY 3

1985: The blockbuster action-comedy "Back to the Future," in which John DeLorean's iconic concept car is memorably transformed into a time-travel device, is released in theaters across the United States. "Back to the Future," starred Michael J. Fox as Marty McFly, a teenager who travels back 30 years using a time machine built by the zany scientist Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd). Marty arrives in 1955 and finds his own life will be in jeopardy if he doesn't make sure his parents meet and eventually marry.

JULY 4

1776: In Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the Continental Congress adopts the Declaration of Independence, which proclaims the independence of the United States of America from Great Britain and its king.

JULY 5

1946: French designer Louis Reard unveils a daring two-piece swimsuit at the Piscine Molitor, a popular swimming pool in Paris. Parisian showgirl Micheline Bernardini modeled the new fashion, which Reard dubbed "bikini," inspired by a news-making U.S. atomic test that took place off the Bikini Atoll in the Pacific Ocean earlier that week.

JULY 6

1946: George Walker Bush, the son of future President George Herbert Walker Bush, is born in New Haven, Connecticut. When he was 2 years old, Bush's parents moved to Texas, where the elder Bush worked in the oil industry. Bush was nicknamed "Dubya" for his middle name, which began with the letter "W," and as a way to distinguish him from his father, who was also named George.

JULY 7

1930: Construction on the Hoover Dam begins. Over the next five years, a total of 21,000 men would work ceaselessly to produce what would be the largest dam of its time, as well as one of the largest manmade structures in the world.

JULY 8

1951: Paris, the capital city of France, celebrates turning 2,000 years old. In fact, a few more candles would've technically been required on the birthday cake, as the "City of Lights" was most likely founded around 250 B.C.

LAKES

But houses on Lake Fenton come at a steep price. Prices start at about $500,000 for a 1,500-square-foot home on a canal, with houses on the main part of the lake commanding $750,000 on up, according to Realtor Wade Pyles of Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices Michigan.

Even vacant lots — there are two — are pricey. A lot on Haddon Drive is priced at $550,000 and a smaller parcel on Margaret Drive for $400,000, "That's just for the land," said Tremaine.

He said the most affordable waterfront property will be on lakes that are farther away from the expressway, like Lobdell Lake.

"Both Ponemah and Lobdell are kettle lakes fed by a river," said Tremaine. "It affects the clarity of the water. The Shiawassee feeds right into Ponemah, so there's silt. Lobdell's not as bad because the water goes through Hoisington, then Bennett, then Lobdell."

There's also lots of construction going on right now on Lake Fenton. "On Torrey Road, they've torn down several homes," said Pyles. "They'll keep a small portion of the home then build around it. It's easier to get building permits that way."

People who enjoy sport fishing and bass tournaments may be more interested in Lake Ponemah, which is one of the area's deepest lakes, or Bennett Lake, said Patrik Welty of Legacy Realty in Fenton. "Lobdell Lake, because of shallow spots, may limit you on the size of boat you'll want to use but it's great fishing. It also appeals to people who don't want so much lake traffic."

He said that it's not so much "lake versus lake," when it comes to looking for waterfront property, but it's street and view that draw the price. "It's the beach, the neighbors, the view, the setting and the price range of homes around you. Some properties have steep slopes, while others are more gradual to the water. Size, character of the lot and view all drive the price, not matter which lake." Prospective buyers with smaller budgets, less than $300,000, can still find waterfront property, but it may be on a channel of an all-sports lake like Lobdell, Ponemah or Bennett, or on a no-wake lake.

"There are going to be sacrifices you'll have to make when buying a waterfront home in this market," said Wentworth. "You'll have to decide what you can live with, and what you can't live without, what's really important to you. So often, people are focused on the house. You can change the house, but you can't change the lot it's on."

“There are going to be sacrifices you’ll have to make when buying a waterfront home in this market. You can change the house, but you can’t change the lot it’s on.”

THE PERSON WHO shot Gabrielle Gifford, the congresswoman from Arizona, was a deranged lunatic with no ties to the Republican Party at all.

Online sales of counterfeit products soaring

■ Beware of fake designer clothing, medicine, purses and much more

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-629-6823

Counterfeiters have been duplicating designer products for years. While spotting a fake can be as easy as being aware of a few facts and observing a few details, it could be a problem, if it isn't already, when it comes to counterfeit prescription drugs and other needed products to remain healthy.

According to the International Anti-Counterfeiting Coalition (IACC), many more product categories beyond luxury goods are counterfeited such as cigarettes, food items, spirits, pharmaceuticals, auto parts, airplane parts, medical device, toys and more.

The IACC claims only 4 percent of the items counterfeited are luxury goods. They say to not become part of the problem, don't buy counterfeit goods. Counterfeiting has increased over 10,000 percent in the past two decades due, in part, to consumer demand.

Take Prada handbags, for example. If no one bought the fakes, counterfeiters wouldn't use slave labor to turn them out to meet demand.

Know for sure whether or not an item is a fake sometimes takes a forensic expert. But as a rule of thumb, use the three P's — price, product and place.

If the price is too good to be true, it probably is. Know the usual price range for your intended purchases.

Inspect the quality of the product — look at labels, detailing and packaging. Are there any misspellings? Does the country of origin match the country that normally produces the product? Does the packaging look banged-up, old or sloppy? If you see any of these warning signs, the product very well could be fake.

Legitimate products are not sold on street corners, in flea markets, mall kiosks, dark alleys or on suspect online auction sites.

Know who is an authorized dealer for the product you are planning to purchase and make your purchases from the most legitimate source possible.

Cheap prices and availability are never excuses for buying fakes. Your money means you have buying power and with power comes the responsibility of not supporting illegal activities like manufacturing and selling counterfeit products.

The following are a couple of examples of popular products frequently counterfeited, and how to spot if they are fakes.

Jeans

All your favorite brands of jeans are counterfeited. But, in addition to supporting criminal syndicates, any jeans-wearing, fashion-conscious shopper will tell you jeans are all about the perfect fit. Here are a few tips to help you avoid buying fake jeans. They are likely fake if:

There are missing or generic rivets? Many jeans manufacturers' rivets (and other hardware) include the company name.

Have loose threads and other poor quality construction inside.

The logo is on inside of waistband in wrong font? The exterior hangtag is made with different paper quality, font or twine attachment?

The zipper is missing the name-brand logo? Fake.

According to Counterfeit Chic, a website that helps shoppers avoid fake fashions, if you're hoping to score a bargain but unsure whether you're simply getting ripped off instead, bring along a real pair of your preferred brand for comparison, and if you're still in doubt, shop elsewhere.

Purses

Again, using Prada as an example, the following are the top things to look for when you are buying a authentic Prada online.

The color of the enamel on the exterior logo plaque should be the exact color of the bag or very close.

The letter R on an authentic Prada plaque should have a curved leg not a straight leg. If the leg is straight then the bag isn't authentic.

The Prada exterior plaque should be firmly attached with even stitching around it.

On the newer Prada logo plaques the rivets will be completely filled in, but on the older style bags the rivets will look like doughnut holes.

The interior logo plaque on older bags will read Prada Milano made in Italy on three lines

The newer interior plaques say "Prada made in Italy" on two lines.

The interior plaque should match the interior fabric of the bag.

Sometimes Prada bags don't have a ceramic interior plaque but a leather patch with four filled out rivets

Zippers are a very key part in deciding whether the Prada bag you want is authentic. Prada handbag zippers are smooth like butter. These names will be embossed on the back side of the zipper: Ykk, Riri, Opti, Ipi.

The words Prada will be printed throughout the entire interior lining of the bag. The words Prada will be written horizontal throughout the lining. In some cases, the interior will be plain nylon, and it will match the exterior of the handbag.

Hardware is an important key factor in identifying authentic Prada bags. All the hardware on an authentic Prada bag will say Prada no matter what, including zippers, buckles, locks metal feet and all decorative hardware. If the zippers and hardware on a bag are blank then you are looking at a fake.

The interior number tag is also a great way to determine if the bag you are looking at is authentic. Authentic Prada handbags will have a small white tag in the interior with a random number on them. If the seller of the item you are interested in does not include a picture of this it does not mean the bag is fake. Most established designer handbag sellers on Ebay will include a picture of this tag in their listing. This tag will be in every interior pocket of every handbag.

Popular TV show coming back to Michigan

■ Hosts of American Pickers looking for leads

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Do you have some hidden treasure in your pole barn or attic that you would like to sell? The cast of American Pickers is coming back to Michigan in August and they are looking for leads.

Readers might recall when Holly resident John Lauve was featured on the History Channel's American Pickers episode in December 2016. Filming was done on June 30, 2016 and curious onlookers caught glimpses of hosts Mike Wolfe and Frank Fritz and their van with "Antique Archeology" printed on the side.

While at Lauve's home, the pickers bought a classic Mini Cooper, 1960s

Norton Motorcycle, some automotive corporate artwork and other odds and ends.

To be considered for their show, email americanpickers@cinetflix.com, call (855) OLD-RUST (653-7878) or go to @GotAPick on Facebook.

Jacob Nester, 12, caught this pike on Runyan Lake on June 24. The fish weighed 5 pounds, 8 ounces and was 33 inches long.

National Night Out takes place Aug. 1

■ Bounce house, smoke house and first responder vehicles to take over Hyatt Elementary

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

A new event on Aug. 1 will feature a free night of family friendly activities and education about first responders.

The inaugural National Night Out will take place from 5 to 8 p.m. at Hyatt Elementary School in Linden. The townships of Fenton, Argentine, Mundy, and cities of Linden and Fenton will participate by bringing first responder vehicles and having a presence.

Chairperson of the event, Bev Vondra, said the purpose of the event is to show their appreciation for police and fire personnel. "We want to recognize the men and women who dedicate their life to public safety," she said.

The event will feature kids activities, music and other family friendly activities.

The North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA) will bring a smoke house, and firefighters will help kids develop a plan incase their house ever catches fire.

"We're going to have many large fire trucks, old police cars, new police cars," Vondra said.

There also going to have a representative from an organization that helps victims of human trafficking.

"We want everyone to turn their porch light on that night to show recognition for police and firemen," she said.

Vondra said they're still looking for volunteers and sponsors. The entire event is free for everyone.

Approximately 1,000 free smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors will be provided by The Q Project.

Anyone wishing to participate or get more information can contact Vondra at (810) 240-9402 or nnolinden@gmail.com.

Meet BOB BUREK

- Grand Marshal of Fenton Freedom Festival Parade
- Former superintendent of Fenton Area Public Schools
- Community volunteer

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Robert "Bob" Burek, 76, has been a well-known fixture in this community, not only as a superintendent of Fenton Area Public Schools but also as a community booster for local organizations and causes. He retired from Fenton schools in 2001, but continued his educational career as director of Greater Flint Education Consortium until 2009. He and his wife, Sally, reside in Grand Blanc, after living in Fenton for 25 years. They will be riding together in the Fenton Freedom Festival Parade on Tuesday, July 4 at 10 a.m.

How did you feel when you were announced as this year's unanimous decision for grand marshal?

It was pretty humbling. I know many people in the past who have received this award, so I was humbled.

Have you ever ridden in a parade before?

Just once, when I was grand marshal for the Fenton Homecoming Parade in 1996, I think that was the year. We've attended every Freedom Festival Parade since 1991, up until last year, but until now, I've never been in it.

What accomplishment in your life are you most proud of?

My wife, Sally, and our three wonderful daughters, Melissa, Amy and

In 2012, Dr. Robert Burek, a retired superintendent of Fenton Area Schools was recognized by the Fenton Rotary with a "Service Above Self" award.

Wendy, and seven grandkids.

How do you feel you made a difference in education while you were superintendent in Fenton?

I love public education. If I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't change a thing. I feel I made a difference in Fenton in two ways. First, I brought all the constituency together — parents, students and staff. I didn't do it all alone, but I'm proud of how it worked out. Second, our building projects, including the new middle school and improvements in the elementary schools and at the high school.

You've been a very active volunteer in Fenton.

What groups are you still involved with?

Right now, I work with the Grand Blanc Alumni Club, that's where I went to high school and where I also taught, coached and was principal. I'm also on the board of the Greater Flint Area Sports Hall of Fame. I still read to kids every week at Tomek-Eastern Elementary, in Sandra Munger's first-grade classroom. I was active with Fenton Kiwanis for about 25 years, up until a year ago. I'm probably most proud of the work I did with Pat Lockwood for fundraising for renovations on the Fenton Community and Cultural Center.

When you're not volunteering, how do you spend your time?

We go to Chicago a lot to see our grandkids, and I love to walk, fish and attend sporting events. I'm a big U of M fan.

What is something most people don't know about you?

I'm a history nut, I'm always watching The History Channel and military stuff. That's what I taught in the classroom.

"I love public education. If I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't change a thing."

RHUBARB BERRY CRISP

Rhubarb Berry Crisp with a sweet oat topping to complement the tart filling. Serve warm with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and you are in for a very special treat!

The Tri-County Times staff is often treated with delicious dishes and desserts by employees and members of their families. This particular dish, which combines healthy with delicious, was made for employees recently by Stew Grove of Tyrone Township.

INGREDIENTS

FOR THE RHUBARB BERRY FILLING

- 2 cups chopped rhubarb
- 2½ cups mixed frozen berries (blackberries, blueberries, and raspberries)
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1 tablespoon orange zest
- 1 tablespoon fresh orange juice
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

FOR THE CRISP TOPPING

- 1½ cups cup old-fashioned oats (use gluten-free oats for gf)
- ½ cup white whole wheat flour (or flour of your choice, use gluten-free flour for gf)
- ½ cup packed brown sugar
- ¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons butter, melted
- Ice cream or whipped cream for serving, optional

DIRECTIONS

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F. Grease 7 (6 oz) Ramekins with cooking spray and place on a large baking sheet. Set aside. First, make the filling. In a large bowl, combine rhubarb and berries. In a small bowl, combine sugar and orange zest. Rub together with your fingers until fragrant. Add the sugar mixture to the rhubarb and berries. Add the orange juice, vanilla, and cornstarch. Stir gently to combine. Set aside. In a medium bowl, combine oats, flour, brown sugar, ground cinnamon, salt, and melted butter. Stir until mixture is moistened. Spoon rhubarb and berry mixture into prepared ramekins, about ¾ full. Crumble oat topping over the rhubarb and berries evenly. Bake for 25-30 minutes or until topping is browned and rhubarb berry mixture is bubbling. Serve warm or at room temperature with ice cream or whipped cream, if desired. Note: You can make this crisp in a 9-inch baking dish or deep dish pie plate instead of Ramekins. If you are making the recipe gluten-free make sure you use gluten-free oats and flour. If you have fresh berries, you can use them instead of frozen berries.

Answer in this Sunday's edition of the Tri-County Times

Remove pet stains and odors

Pet owners sometimes must contend with stains and odors. Some of these stains may be normal, while others might result from accidents.

Individuals may experience a trial-and-error period as new pets become acclimated to litter boxes or grow accustomed to relieving themselves outdoors. Pet owners must remain patient as young animals learn where and where not to relieve themselves.

Pets that are already trained may also suffer accidents as they grow older. PetMD says that urinary and fecal incontinence can afflict dogs of any age, but is most often experienced by middle-aged or senior dogs. Cats, too, can experience incontinence, which is most common in older cats and large cats, as age and size can make it challenging for cats to reach the litter box in time.

Accidents can be troubling, as they often result in stains and smells. Treating these issues to prevent damage to flooring and deter pets from thinking a particular area of the rug is their personal bathroom requires patience and trial and error.

Upon discovering an accident, pet owners should blot up as much of the liquid as possible. The carpet cleaning experts at Chem-Dry advise putting a few drops of dish detergent and a little water on the area to absorb as much moisture as possible.

To treat old stains, sprinkle baking soda on the affected areas and allow it to sit overnight. Then spray the areas with white vinegar and let the two substances bubble to clean the area. Baking soda and vinegar can be an effective, home-made cleaning mixture if accidents are a frequent occurrence.

Pet owners also can purchase commercially produced enzymatic cleaners. Enzymes are proteins that help spark natural chemical reactions at the molecular level, and the enzymes in pet carpet care products attach themselves to the molecules that make up the urine and bacteria that feed on it (producing the foul odors), serving as a catalyst for their breakdown.

Stains from feces may take some more effort. Try to remove as much as possible without pushing the stain further into the carpet fibers. Use a stain removal product to help lift out the stain. This may take a few applications.

Pet owners also may want to invest in carpet cleaners if accidents continue throughout training periods.

If urine has seeped into the floorboards or padding under the carpeting, carpeting may need to be replaced, particularly if the animal repeatedly visits the same spot to urinate. This is the best way to remove the scent and prevent future trouble.

Pet accidents can be challenging to treat and require patience.
