MICHIGAN SWEET CORN

Our favorite summertime side

TRI-COUNTY TIMES | TIM JAGIELO

The corn crop is ready at Eichelberg Farms in Fenton Township. Approximately 1,000 ears of corn fit in one bucket, which will be driven up to the market stand to sell. Owner Dwight Eichelberg said that corn will be sold until the end of October.

Michigan-grown sweet corn is practically legendary, known for its sweet, tender kernels that are plucked off the cob with each succulent bite.

The perfect accompaniment to an outdoor barbecue, Michigan corn is now in season, and is well worth the wait.

This year's crop didn't come easy for local growers.

"This was the weirdest spring we've ever had," said Dwight Eichelberg, owner of Eichelberg Farms in Fenton Township, one of the area's premier growers of yellow and white sweet corn.

On Wednesday, Mike Cischke, 17, of Linden helps gather ears of corn at Eichelberg Farms.

Eichelberg Farms finally opened their farm stand on Monday afternoon, July 17, a full week to a week-and-a-half later than usual.

“Our phones have been ringing off the hook with people wondering when we were going to open,” said Marlene Eichelberg, who helps her husband with the farm stand every summer. “It was warm, then really cold, then rained a lot, then there was no rain.”

Corn will be available now through the first frost, “which last year was almost to Halloween,” said Marlene.

What brought the Eichelberg’s corn crop finally up to date were the blankets he used to cover the corn stalks, keeping the heat in to help grow the corn.

“The wind this spring made this a whole new experience,” said Dwight. “I had to watch it all the time, and keep the stalks covered.”

After a late spring start, Michigan’s warm summer days and cool nights worked together to sweeten the crop, by allowing more sugar accumulation.

Even though sweet corn is the most coveted corn for enjoyment at our picnic table, it’s just a tiny kernel of Michigan’s annual corn yield.

Michigan farmers only plant about 10,000 acres of the sweet variety. Most of Michigan’s corn crop, planted on 2.5 million acres, is field corn — the kind used to feed animals, make into corn syrup, ethanol and even crayons.

Our state is No. 13 when it comes to corn production, while Corn Belt states like Iowa and Illinois top the list. But ask any corn lover here where the best corn is grown and they’ll say Michigan

Whether you boil it, grill it in the husk, roast it or microwave it, sweet corn is a very special Michigan tradition.

“This was the weirdest spring we’ve ever had.”

WHAT IS YOUR CORN-ON-THE-COB-EATING PERSONALITY?

HERE’S THE TRUTH, KERNEL BY KERNEL:

- Typewriter-style eaters (across the cob) probably live orderly, methodical lives and may be more prone to obsessive-compulsive disorders
- The rotary method (around the cob) is likely favored by creative, artistic, right-brained people
- The hunt-and-peck method is a series of random, irrational bites, typically by children and people who are more impulsive.

HERE’S THE EASIEST WAY TO COOK CORN ON THE COB — IN THE MICROWAVE WITH HUSKS ON

Arrange one to four ears of fresh corn, unshucked, in the microwave. For one or two ears, microwave for 3 minutes. For three to four ears, microwave for 4 minutes. Set the ears on cooling rack or cutting board to cool. When the silks and husks are cool enough to handle, shuck the husks off the cob. The corn will stay quite warm in their husks, so wait to shuck them until just before serving. There are a variety of online sources to show additional ways of cooking corn.

Every now and then you see a man with facial hair arranged in a way that makes you wonder, "What was he thinking? Does he have a wife, a girlfriend, a mother, a grandmother?"

The following is an example of a man with a perfect hairstyle, beard and mustache. All men would be wise to emulate this look — if they ever want a date, that is.

www.mens-hairstylists.com

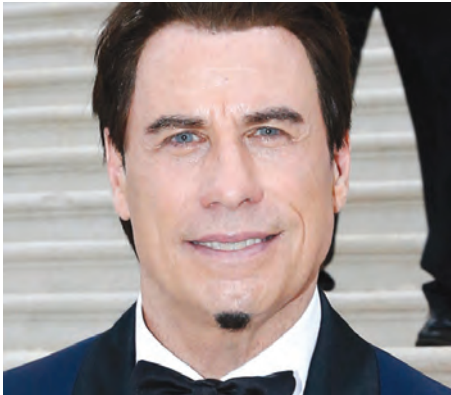

Perfection!

This is the look you want. It doesn't matter what type of hair, or facial hair you grow, this look is achievable if you try. You can rock this look! Really!

www.timenewsfeed.files.wordpress.com

Shirley Temple would be proud. Now all he needs is a lollipop! We wonder how long it took to get these curls to pop and, why did he do it?

<http://ell.h-cdn.co>

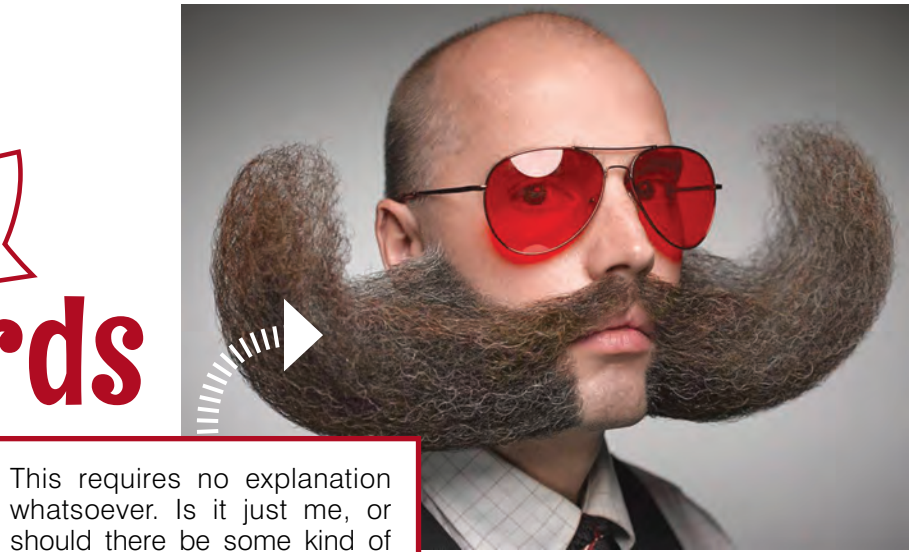

Not perfect, but pretty bad!

What is that on your chin, John Travolta, a bug? Next time, take the extra 30 nano-seconds and finish shaving.

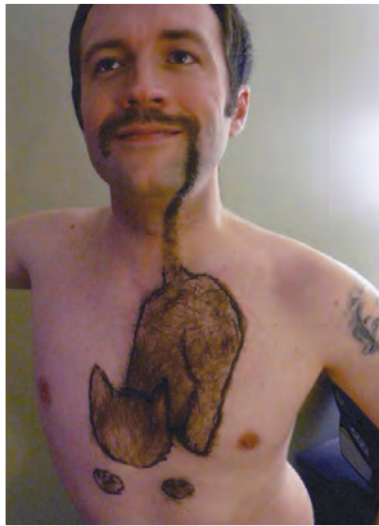

www.beardcommunity.com

So, a guy goes into a barber shop and says, I want to keep my beard at 5 inches, and on each side, I want a 2-foot braid with little beads on the end so that every time I open my belt to use the bathroom, the end of my braids get caught in my pants. Can you do that?

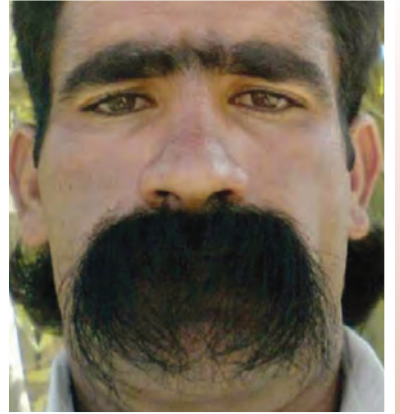

www.cbsnews1.cbsstatic.com

This requires no explanation whatsoever. Is it just me, or should there be some kind of little animal cartoon character swinging on each side.

www.madcow.club

This is not what it looks like, this is not what it looks like! Didn't work, it really is a cat tail and cat. Oh the humanity!

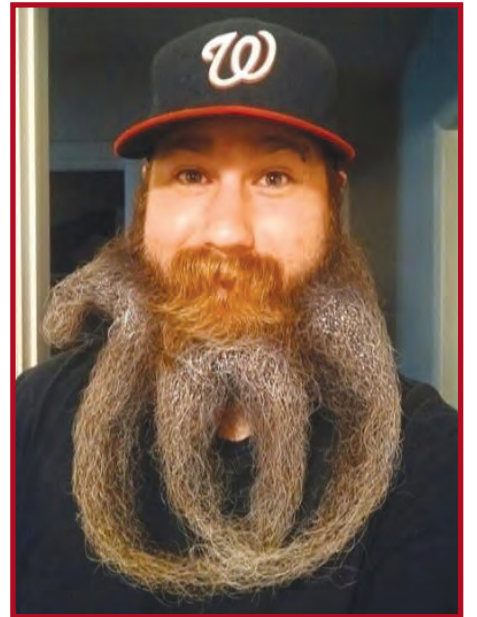

www.s-media-cache-ak0.pinimg.com

Where are you hiding the bird, dude? Seriously, how do you even brush your teeth? Nice brow, too!

<https://s-media-cache-ak0.pinimg.com>

You almost had it, trimming the mustache over your beard nicely. But what's up with the handlebars? It's going to be hanging in your soup or worse, your beer!

www.s-media-cache-ak0.pinimg.com

This man runs the risk of being beaten with a club when he wakes up. That is, after all, a big coiled snake ready to strike, right?

Your defense lawyer shouldn't be your second mistake.

Good-bye grass

We have been experiencing lawn mower woes at our house this summer. Not only can't we seem to keep a lawn mower operational long enough to do both the front and back yards on the same day, the schedules of my "mowers" (husband and sons) cause a bit of friendly arguing over who is going to do it.

I have three grown men living in my house. Don't even go there about me doing it!

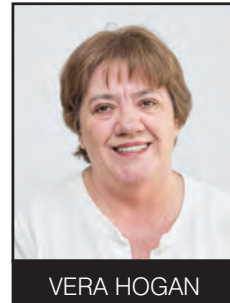

Anyway, last month, having heard enough, I made an executive decision, one that will take a couple of years to complete, but it will be worth it.

Our Fenton backyard is just shy of an acre. We don't need all of that grass. The kids are adults now and don't play in the yard like they used to.

In addition to a very large vegetable garden, which my husband has been planting and tending to for several years, I have always wanted a pumpkin patch. This year, I finally convinced my family that a pumpkin patch would take up quite a bit of space, space that does not need mowing (wink, wink).

My husband and youngest son like the idea so now I have a big pumpkin patch and cannot wait to see dozens of big orange orbs out there this fall.

My older son, Sean, started a hops garden last summer and it is growing like gangbusters again this year. The hops grow up this trellis-type thing and this operation, too, takes up yard space that does not need to be mowed.

Sean, by the way, is a professional brewer in Ann Arbor. I'm not much of a beer drinker but I understand his beers are delicious.

Anyway, my idea is to put in a beer garden close to the hops-growing operation. Just a patio where we can put some outdoor furniture, tables, etc. and enjoy the outdoors sipping our son's finest. More grass gone.

I can't wait to do this project because I have a great, catchy name for our beer garden, but there is a story to go with it. When my youngest son Willy was about 15 months old and wobbly-walking, he tripped in our living room and bashed his head into the corner of our TV (that's when TVs were on the floor with sharp wooden corners). I rushed him to the hospital where he received a half-dozen or so stitches.

Zoom ahead to when Willy is now 2 and Sean is 4. The two of them were in the backyard playing. Through a nearby window I overheard Sean say to his brother, "Stop that Woowee, you wanna go to the hopsital again?"

Voila! That's going to be the name of our new beer garden — "The Hopsital."

We also have decided to get some chickens next spring. Plans for building the coop are already in the works and we have secured permission from the neighbor. The city of Fenton allows three chickens and we love eggs so why not.

So, after I see what remains of our backyard, some new little flower gardens may go in, perhaps a walking path, we'll see. At least I won't have to hear about how tall the grass is getting.

Waldemar Wolosiewicz

Waldemar Wolosiewicz - age 66, of Holly passed into eternal light on the morning of July 18, 2017. He was born in Bialogard, Poland, in 1951. Waldemar immigrated to the United States in 1976 where he attended Saint Mary's College in Orchard Lake. This is where he met his devoted wife of 40 years, Sue Wolosiewicz. Waldemar is deeply adored, admired, and missed by the three jewels in his crown, his daughters, Krystyna Tufts, Kathy Wolosiewicz, and Laura Wolosiewicz. His brothers, Czesiek, Zbigniew, and Miroslaw Wolosiewicz continue to honor the family name. He was an intellectual companion to his son-in-law, Brandon Tufts, and a loving Dziadek to his grandchildren, Aislynn and Liam Tufts. Waldemar retired as an award-winning Surveying Engineer for Canadian National Railroad. His track designs are still in place all around the Midwest. A truly unique portrait of the American Dream, Waldemar became a United States citizen in January of this year. Waldemar was a philosopher of life and lightheartedly challenged the perceptions of all those who knew him. Always a book or newspaper in his hands, Waldemar was a Polish historian with a flare for storytelling. He loved loud music and foreign films. Waldemar appreciated all forms of beauty; from a simple blade of grass to the dozens of white rabbits he raised as pets. He will be forever missed by those who had the honor of knowing him. "Non omnis moriar." A memorial service will be held to celebrate Waldemar's legacy at Dryer Funeral Home on Thursday, July 27, 2017 from 4-9 PM. Mass will be given at Saint Rita's Catholic Church on Friday, July 28, 2017 at 11 AM. All are welcome to attend. www.dryerfuneralhomeholly.com.

Adopting a dog or cat later in life

Studies show pets help seniors overcome loneliness and depression by providing affection, company and entertainment.

Companion animals bring great joy to their owners. The unconditional love cats and dogs provide appeals to people of all ages. While many people associate pets with kids who can't wait to welcome the first cat or dog into their homes, pets can benefit aging men and women as well.

It's not uncommon for seniors to feel lonely or depressed when they retire, their children move away or they lose a spouse or close friend or friends. The American Humane Society states that studies show pets help seniors overcome loneliness and depression by providing affection, company and entertainment. Pets also provide much-needed mental stimulation, and many pet owners find their pets help them become more physically active as well.

Seniors who adopt pets may also feel a sense of purpose when helping animals who may not have anywhere to live. This is particularly true of older companion animals, which many young families are understandably hesitant to adopt. Mature pets might be an ideal fit for seniors. When seniors are looking to adopt a pet, there are various reasons why older pets or particular animals might be the perfect fit for them.

- Adult pets may already be house trained, saving seniors the trouble and effort of training them.
- Seniors may find cats fit their lifestyles more than dogs, as cats are less active and do not need to be walked or played with as much as dogs. Cats also are small and easily maneuverable, meaning even seniors who have arthritis or other physical limitations can easily care for cats. Many cats are also content to spend long periods of time sleeping on their owners' laps.
- Small dogs that can be active within the house might be a good idea as well, especially for seniors with mobility issues. They're also easily transported to and from vet appointments.

It's important that seniors carefully weigh the benefits of adopting a pet against any limitations they may have. Having a backup plan for care is advantageous as well. Seniors should not adopt a pet if they anticipate frequent travel or medical care that requires they be away from home for long periods of time.

Guess Who?

I am an action star born in California on July 18, 1967. Before my film career, I worked as a bouncer in nightclubs in New York. I'm known for two popular film franchises, one of which features me driving furiously fast.

I'm an actor born on October 20, 1958 in New York. I am of Danish heritage, and worked as a truck driver and florist in England and Denmark prior to my success as an actor. I am perhaps best known for my work in "The Lord of the Rings" trilogy.
