his dog, Brandy, a German shepherd who was 10½ years old at the time and riddled with cancer and arthritis.

"I stayed home from work and called the vet in the morning," said Sullivan.

"Sandy (Dr. Sandy Smith of Animal Health Clinic) couldn't come to the house until the end of the day. I wondered how I was going to wait all day long.

"But it was the greatest day I ever had with that dog," said Sullivan. "We did everything — a short walk, a ham sandwich, a plain McDonald's hamburger. It was her day. We got to pet her and kiss her while they injected her. She was gone in an instant and then I cried my heart out."

Sullivan's deep emotions regarding the day his dog was euthanized strikes a familiar chord with just about anyone who has ever lost a beloved pet to euthanasia — commonly known as "putting a dog to sleep."

"We prefer to use the more professional word 'euthanasia,' because associating it with sleep scares kids," said Sandy Smith, DVM, a veterinarian for 32 years.

"I've had to deal with it a lot, both personally and professionally. I've never had a healthy pet in my life. My 11-year-old dog was a diabetic when he was brought to me as a 4-month-old puppy. My cat was brought to me at 6 weeks

Someone needs to pay

he most frustrating thing about the Equifax data breach – other than your life savings potentially disappearing overnight, now or 25 years from now – is that no one will truly ever pay for it.

The CEO certainly won't pay for it, even though half of America had its private information stolen – Social Security numbers, dates of birth, probably even the pass codes to their garages.

As of this writing, he still has his job, if you can imagine that. Try screwing up that big at your job and see if you keep yours. And even if he's eventually forced to resign, it's really no big deal. He can retire if he wants. He's rich, what does he care? And if he wants to keep working, that's the great thing about being a CEO in America. You can fail big time, drive your company into the ground, heck, drive two or three of them into the ground, and someone else will still make you their CEO. CEOs have a lot in common with baseball managers in that regard.

You're thinking, "Well, maybe he'll go to prison. Or someone will, at least, right?"

Don't count on it. The Great Recession threw the entire nation into the greatest economic crisis since the Great Depression. People lost their jobs, investments, retirements and sense of security. For many, life has never been the same since and never will be again.

But do you know how many top Wall Street bankers went to prison for it? One, according to the New York Times. So the odds of anyone going to jail for a data breach are pretty low.

"OK, maybe the government will fine Equifax then," you're thinking.

Maybe. But even if the government fines them, it'll be a fleabite to a Great Dane. Equifax made $3 billion last year. Do you think they're going to care if they're fined a couple hundred million or even a couple billion dollars? Not likely. And even if a fine is huge, it won't matter in the long run, especially now that they have 134 million new potential customers.

"What about a class action lawsuit then?" you're thinking. "That'll fix 'em."

No it won't. Equifax will almost certainly get stung for a huge judgment, very little of which you'll ever see. But in the end – once again – it's just money. They can make more. Meanwhile, you'll have to worry about your identity and money being stolen until the day you die. Nice, huh?

Here's how I see it: For companies to take protecting our data seriously, the people in charge have to pay a cost. And to me, it makes sense that they pay the same cost as everyone else. By that I mean they should have their private information exposed and see how they like it.

Specifically, I'm thinking Equifax CEO Richard Smith, his executive team and the nitwits in their security department should all have their Social Security numbers, birth dates, bank account and credit card numbers published on billboards nationwide until the last of them pass away decades from now. The information should be refreshed monthly. That way they'll have to worry until the end of their days.

Right along with the rest of us.

Genesee County commissioner

Renovation plans finalized for animal control

■Commissioner hopes to start construction in spring

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The long-anticipated plans to renovate Genesee County Animal Control are going before the Genesee County Board of Commissioners for a vote on Wednesday, Sept. 27.

The original estimate for the renovations was approximately $3 million, said Genesee County Commissioner Mark Young, and now those renovations are estimated to cost $2.7 million. Young is the chairman of the Genesee County Board of Commissioners and the Animal Control Subcommittee.

"When we first started looking at plans, we had a ballpark estimate. As time went on, we were able to bring in more experts and look at the formal design process and realize that those plans were oversimplified and would not meet the standards for today," he

Now, Young estimates the total cost to the project, which includes building permits, architectural fees, and engineering costs, will increase to nearly $8 million.

He said part of the reason renovations seem to be taking so long is because they keep updating the plans to meet today's needs.

"We do have an animal control facility that was built in early '70s," he said, adding that it does not meet today's standards as far as building codes.

Currently, most of the animal cages are 2 by 5 feet. They don't give the animals a lot of space, Young said, and they don't accommodate the larger dogs. The new cages will be 4 by 10 feet, and will give all the animals more room to move around. The cages will have roofs so the animals cannot jump out. Renovations will increase the amount of square footage to accommodate the same number of animals.

"That's the direction that we're going," he said.

Ventilation is also an issue. With the building now, the heating and ventilation systems are not adequate by today's standards, Young said. This causes cross contamination.

"That's when animals get colds, it'll spread," he said. "We have to do upgrade that so we can isolate those types of things so we don't allow kennel cough to spread."

They're also building a fire suppression system, which is expensive.

The renovations will also include building a new front entrance. Currently, everyone entering and exiting the building uses the same door, which means people leaving with healthy animals cross the path with people bringing in strays, which might have diseases.

"There will be two doors. One to adopt a dog or cat, and another one is for bringing in strays," he said. "Strays could have diseases that could contaminate the entire facility. The new design takes that into consideration and should allow us to make the building more efficient and makes life a whole lot more comfortable for the animals.'

Young said they also want to get rid of the old incinerator.

"It's an antique technology that's kind of frowned upon," he said. The estimated cost to get rid of it is $10,000.

"It's not going to be a cheap process. It shows that we're taking this forward into this century and it will also free up some space going forward for the remodeling,"

he said.

The plans were approved by the Public Works Subcommittee on Sept. 18. Because Michigan is a snowy state in the winter, they hope to start construction in spring of 2018.

"It's going to be a facility that should serve well for the next 40 or 50 years," Young said.

The Genesee County Animal Control.20 millage, which was approved by voters in 2014, will help pay for the renovations.

■ Recovers from concussion, neck injuries after head-on collision

By Sharon Stone

sstone@tctimes.com; 810-433-6786

Argentine Police Chief Daniel Allen believes he is lucky to be alive as he shared his story this week about a serious automobile crash he suffered in July.

On Wednesday, July 26, after meeting with a lieutenant with Flint Area Narcotics Group (FANG), he was driving his police issued Chevrolet Tahoe westbound on Maple Road in Burton at about noon. A 76-year-old woman driving a Chrysler Town and Country minivan was traveling eastbound in this same stretch of road.

Allen said a garbage truck and another truck were in the eastbound lane and the woman passed them by driving in the westbound lane, crashing headon into his Tahoe. From the impact with the minivan, Allen's Tahoe struck a utility pole, snapping it in half, which fell onto the vehicle's roof.

He remembers hearing the sound of the crash and smoke filling his SUV. All of the airbags deployed making it impossible for him to see out the windows.

Allen remembers blood gushing from his head and the roof of the Tahoe crushed. "I tried to open my door, but was disoriented and couldn't. As I tried to crawl to the other side, someone opened my door and I got out."

Once out of the Tahoe, he said he went over to check on the other driver.

He was transported by ambulance to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township and was treated for a broken nose, concussion and a cervical neck injury. He was there for nearly four hours.

The crash happened on a Wednesday. He took off work on Thursday and Friday and returned the following Monday and attended the Board of Trustees meeting later that evening.

The 2015 Tahoe was totaled from the crash. "That Tahoe saved my life with the equipment it had in it. Without it, I would have been dead," Allen said.

The other driver was not injured and was listed at fault for failing to yield to the right of way. She did not receive a ticket.

Allen said GM engineers wanted to inspect the mangled wreckage and analyze the Tahoe's crush zone for their own studies.

Allen's 2015 Chevy Tahoe was replaced by a 2017 Ford Explorer Police Interceptor.

■AGS eighth-grader takes on Alzheimers' fight in honor of grandmother, other relatives

By Vera Hogan

Cameron Carlson may be only 13 years old, but he has already figured out there is something everyone can do to combat debilitating diseases like Alzheimer's.

An eighth-grader at AGS Middle School in Fenton, Cameron has been waging a war on Alzheimer's with the help of Tiffany Grove, his seventh-grade science teacher and Tamora Hall, student leadership coordinator.

What began as a modest act of community service has evolved into a multi-building effort to raise awareness and funds to support those battling Alzheimer's, which according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is the sixth largest cause of death in the United States.

His dedication began in 2012 when his grandmother, Alma Daniels, was diagnosed with the disease. She died in December of 2016 at the age of 84. She was the 10th person in the family afflicted with Alzheimer's.

"All of my father's siblings and her, with the exception of one living sister, had the disease, said Cameron's mother, Treva Daniels-Carlson.

Cameron chose this topic as the subject of his fifth-grade exhibition project, which was presented at the Fenton Community Expo. Since then, Cameron, who is a student leadership member and group leader, raised more than $970.

Cameron and his family have participated in five Walks to End Alzheimer's in memory of the 10 family members stricken and in honor of his uncle, currently living with early onset of the disease.

This year's event takes place Sept.

30, at Creasey Bicentennial Park in Grand Blanc. Opening ceremonies begin at 11:15 a.m. More details are available at www.alz.org.

"Cameron has been doing this Alzheimer's Awareness Day at our school for the last two years. This being his eighth-grade year we looked forward to him taking action on it again," said AGS Principal Heidie Ciesielski.

"His taking action has made us a better building and more enlightened about the disease and its impact on not only the victims of the disease, but their families as well," Ciesielski said. "He is a shining example of the great kids we have here at AGS."

Cameron said, "Earth is a penny, compared to the sun. We are ants. We can move the penny. Although the battle may be tough, and we are small, we can do much more than expected with effort and teamwork. Size or age mean nothing, where there is will."

'Service above self'

■ First Rotary club started more than 112 years ago

This is the fifth in a series about local civic organizations, their history and the many good works they accomplish.

The Rotary Club of Fenton is 37 members strong. Additionally, they have honorary members from the community, who are Bob Harris, Nick Popa, Bill Piper, Chris Weir and Rick Waldchen.

"The Fenton Rotary Club is 100 percent a service organization," said Noah Morgan, a club member and one of its media representatives. "Each year, we do Angel Tree in the community where we deliver gifts to over 200 children in need. We have a literacy program where we distribute books to children in need, and run a local debate program for fifth, sixth-, seventh-, and eighth-graders," he said. "We host an annual veterans breakfast at Spring Meadows. This year we will have the commander, Brig. Gen.

John D. Slocum, speak to over 100 local veterans from all branches of the United States military.

"We support scholarships to seniors at Linden, Fenton, and Lake Fenton high schools, and we build wheelchair accessible ramps," Morgan said. "We also have a senior picnic and a youth picnic for disadvantaged children of Lake Fenton."

Morgan said, "We do all this through our fundraisers, including the Rubber Duck Regatta during the Fenton Fourth of July Freedom Festival, the 4 Grand Feast, and sponsorships from the area's local businesses.

"Being a Rotarian is about being involved in our community and giving back," Morgan said. "We are a group of local business people and active citizens who have a heartbeat for the places in which we work and live. We believe in service above self."

The Four-Way Test

The Four-Way Test is a nonpartisan and nonsectarian ethical guide for Rotarians to use for their personal and professional relationships. The test has been translated into more than 100 languages, and Rotarians recite it at club meetings:

Of the things we think, say or do

- Is it the TRUTH?
- Is it FAIR to all concerned?
- Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
- Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

History

For more than 112 years, Rotary members have been addressing challenges around the world.

Rotary links 1.2 million members to form an organization of international scope. It started with the vision of one man — Paul Harris. The Chicago attorney formed the Rotary Club of Chicago on Feb. 23, 1905, so professionals with diverse backgrounds could exchange ideas, form meaningful, lifelong friendships, and give back to their communities.

Rotary's name came from the group's early practice of rotating meetings among the offices of its members.

Only 16 years after being founded, Rotary had clubs on six continents. Today, members in nearly every country work to solve some of our world's most challenging problems.

During World War II, Rotary clubs in Austria, Germany, Italy, Japan, and Spain were forced to disband. Despite the risks, many continued to meet informally, and after the war, Rotary members came together to rebuild their clubs and their countries.

Rotarians promote peace, fight disease, provide clean water, sanitation, and hygiene, save mothers and children, support education and grow local economies.

They began their fight against polio in 1979 with a project to immunize 6 million children in the Philippines. Today, polio remains endemic in only three countries — down from 125 in 1988.

■New expansion of Fenton office shows owner's commitment to the success of its 50 Realtors

Bigger is always better when it comes to equipping and training one of the most knowledgeable and experienced groups of Realtors in the entire state of Michigan.

That's why a brand new 2,400-square-foot expansion of the RE/MAX Platinum office in Fenton now provides even more space for training, office administration and conferencing for the 50 Realtors who work out of one of the busiest real estate offices in Michigan.

"We continue to add more Realtors and support our current staff in today's very dominant market," said Joe DeKroub, owner of the RE/ MAX Platinum office.

While you may not know De Kroub by name, he is the man behind the very well-known local RE/MAX brand in Fenton. It's his support of many of RE/MAX Platinum's most successful sales teams, including The John Wentworth Group, that makes it all happen.

"He (DeKroub)

DeKroub has been in the real estate industry for 34 among the best trained in the industry," DeKroub said. "You're only as strong as your weakest link."

DeKroub works for the benefit of all his agents, because in the end, it's their knowledge, care and concern for their clients that is their main goal. The sale will take care of itself when an agent has been trained in product knowledge and customer care.

"Our job is to train and teach agents how to listen to their clients, first and foremost," DeKroub said. "They are more of a consultant than anything else. Then they have to have product and market knowledge. By the time their client sees their first prospective home to buy, the agent has already been out previewing properties that fit their lifestyle and budget."

This level of training and expertise has earned DeKroub and RE/MAX Platinum many awards in the industry. "I'm most proud of my 'Number One Broker Award in North America," DeKroub said. "I'm also proud that the RE/MAX brand is number one worldwide."

■Golf benefit planned Sept. 30 at Fenton Farms Golf Club to help local couple both stricken by cancer

Many couples say the vows "in sickness and in health" when they get married, but most people don't experience life-threatening illnesses as a couple at the same time.

A Fenton husband and wife are both battling cancer together, as they raise their two young daughters. A Sept. 30 golf event is planned to help this family pay for some of the unexpected expenses that arise from such a difficult life circumstance, times two.

Dave Turkowski, 35, has been diagnosed with stage four colon cancer and is unable to work, due to chemotherapy treatments and surgeries. His wife, Colette, has been providing the family income, while leading his support team and driving David to medical appointments.

Now Colette has been diagnosed with breast cancer and will begin her own treatment soon.

The couple has two young daughters at home and has struggled with making ends meet. Nine-year-old grand nephews in this large local family have even held lemonade stands near North Road

Elementary School to support the cause.

The Turkowski Family Benefit Golf Scramble is set for Saturday, Sept. 30 at Fenton Farms Golf Club. An online fundraising page has been set up to invite golfers, hole sponsors and other donations for the family. Registration starts at 7:30 a.m. with play beginning at 9 a.m.

Jeff Wedding grew up as the grandson of a master carpenter and has had a passion for building ever since. After two decades in the corporate world and large commercial construction, he founded his own residential home construction company in 2015, Lake & Land Custom Homes, P.O. Box 394, Fenton.

pile. I spent 12 years at a Big Three automaker, managing the installation of large overhead power and free conveyors for truck body shops throughout North America. For 10 years, I managed large scale commercial construction projects for a local general contracting company.

What is your niche in the local building market? We focus on new home construction, from mid-priced 1,800-square-foot ranches up to 4,000-square-foot custom homes, plus interior and exterior renovations of existing homes and interior renovations for retail and food service space. We have partnered with local developers to complete the build-outs of existing developments that may have vacant lots still available.

What sets your building company apart? Years of experience in construction allows us to budget, schedule, manage and supervise every project as efficiently and economically as possible. We've built relationships over the years with architects, subcontractors, suppliers and lending institutions. We focus a lot of energy on communication with our new homeowners, keeping them informed of all aspects of their new build, including the budget, so they can see where their money is being spent. Nothing is hidden.

What is your turn-around time? It depends on the type and size of the home, but typically it's eight to 10 months. Large homes with extensive attention to detail and higher-end finishes may extend to 12 months.

What would you like prospective clients to know? We're a local company using local subcontractors. Our goal is to establish a partnership with our new homeowners, making the construction process as stress-free and enjoyable for them as possible. All consultations and construction budgets are free of charge; there are no upfront fees or deposits required to begin the construction of your new home — only your excitement.

VAE Life Coaching can help you or your teen

▶Counselor tackles anxiety and depression through unique setting, sometimes outdoors

By Sally Rummel

news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

Don't be too surprised if Mark Carpenter, MA, LPC of VAE Life Coaching in Fenton Township asks you if you'd like to walk (or run) outside at Clover Beach during a counseling session.

He has seen first-hand how kids relate to being outdoors rather than an office, and is willing to do pretty much whatever it takes to help teens and adults overcome anxiety and depression.

That also includes offering evening and weekend appointments, to make it easier for kids and adults to get the counseling they need.

Carpenter opened his practice two years ago in the North Towne Professional Center. He followed his own life coaching process by setting one-, threeand five-year goals, which included opening his own practice, and then offering insurance to his clients — a goal he has recently met. Today, VAE

Life Coaching takes many different insurance plans, from Blue Cross Blue Shield to Optim (United Behavioral Health), McLaren and Molina.

As a veteran marine, Carpenter knows exactly what it's like to live in fear of the future and anxiety in one's current circumstances.

He was also a member of Personal Security Detail Teams in Iraq and Afghanistan for the U.S. Department of Defense, and still keeps photos in his office drawer as a reminder of horrific events he lived through.

old when the owner stepped on her and wanted me to euthanize her. She's now 17 years old."

Smith feels that people who have to euthanize their pets are an underserved part of her practice, and she recognizes their emotions and anguish. "Many people like me don't have children and their pets become that to them, even if they have kids. They're never 'just a dog' or 'just a cat,'" she said.

She provides a comfort room at her veterinary practice in Fenton where the euthanasia takes place and allows the family to stay with them as long as needed to mourn their pet. She'll also go to a client's home to euthanize their dog or cat, if owners don't want an office visit to be their pet's last life experience.

Other people can choose to have a mobile veterinarian come to their home who specializes in euthanasia services. After one local family's recent ordeal, it's suggested that a person gets referrals from other families who have used services and were satisfied.

"It's really individual what people's grief allows," she said.

There are also several options after the euthanasia itself, including group cremation, private cremation, taking the pet's body home (likely for home burial, but rules differ in each municipality). Faithful Companions Pet Cremation Services provides many local veterinarians and private individuals with these cremation services.

"We take ink and make a paw print, and send it with a poem and sympathy card to the family," said Smith. "We also make a donation to the MSU (Michigan State University) Companion Animal Fund or the charity of the family's choice, in the case of long-time patients. All the plans are made in advance so that families can spend the time they need with their pet."

How do you know when it's time?

"It's the hardest thing to do, but it's a must when it's the right time," said Sandy Leone of Fenton, who has had to euthanize three of her family's dogs. "For me, the biggest sign was when all of a sudden they just didn't want to eat. The look in their eyes told me it was time to go to the gates of the 'Rainbow Bridge."

She has special memories of her Springer Spaniel, Mandy, who had cancer. "There was only so much we could do for her," she said. "I knew one morning it was time to say goodbye. My dear friend, Mary, came over to see her and took one look at Mandy and told me it was the only time I could play God. The next day, I embraced her as she passed on. I felt her become free of all pain. Trust me, it never gets any easier, but we have to think about our pets, not ourselves."

Chris Repke, DVM, of Pointe Animal Hospital in Fenton, believes that most people know when it's time.

"The best guideline is when they're not having fun anymore, and you know they won't be getting better," he said. "Very rarely do I ever have to make that decision for someone. They know that 'today's the day."

Sometimes, the hard reality of finances get in the way of being able to treat a dog or cat for serious life-threatening illnesses like kidney disease or cancer — two of the biggest end-of-life issues for dogs. "Arthritis is the third," Repke said. "Then liver, heart or other diseases."

There has to be a balance between the money spent and the quality of life. Repke said, "Are we really going to help the dog by having this treatment?"

In many cases, the answer is no. "In the case of many cancers, most families don't opt for treatment," Repke said. "Sometimes chemo only gives the pet three more months, and a lot of that time is spent driving back and forth to treatment."

For Joel and Paulette Hoose of Holly Township, treating both their senior dogs for a variety of ailments has been worth it, in terms of quality of life for both them and their pets.

"Winnie's an 11-year-old yellow lab with an arthritic back which Dr. Sandy treats with laser therapy," Paulette said. "She's also got thyroid issues."

Their other yellow lab, 13-year-old Maizey, is a joint cancer survivor. "We went to a couple of specialists and ended up having her back left leg amputated to keep the cancer from spreading," Paulette said. "She also had a year of chemo. Now she's cancer-free and a success story. She actually gets along better on three legs than Winnie does with her arthritis."

Both of these "seniors" still wag their tails, enjoy carrides and have a good quality of life. "We know their time is coming, but as long as they're eating and enjoying things, we keep going on," Paulette said.

YOUR SMILE MATTERS!

Bruxism (TOOTH GRINDING)

Have you ever woken up in the morning with soreness in your jaw, an earache, headache, neck or shoulder pain? Have you ever broken a tooth when biting into a soft piece of food? Have you ever experienced cold or sweet sensitivity in your teeth that seemed to disappear as quickly as it came without any apparent reason? Or, have you noticed the biting edges of your front teeth becoming flatter and straighter across? Well these are all signs and symptoms associated with bruxism, or tooth grinding. Research and studies find that 80 to 90 percent of us clench and grind our teeth during the night when we sleep. Some people grind throughout the day as well. Only about 10% of those of us who grind are even aware that we are doing it. About 30% of us who grind our teeth are doing significant irreversible damage to the teeth and TMJ's (jaw joints). The average normal bite force on your teeth is about 160 pounds. During episodes of bruxism researchers have measured upwards of 1,000 pounds per square inch of bite force pressure on the teeth. That amount of force on the teeth can cause major damage. I often tell my patients that teeth don't break because of the normal bite forces during eating and chewing; teeth break because of bruxism. This could be happening because of stress we experience in our lives and how we subsequently deal with it. Because of this, bruxism cannot be stopped permanently. However, we can ensure that the damage done is limited. A very effective form of protective treatment is bite splint therapy. A bite splint is a U-shaped, hard acrylic, precision fit appliance made by your dentist. In short it's a mouth guard for either your top or bottom teeth. there's never been a consensus on what to do with it," said State Rep. Joe Graves (R-Argentine Township). His goal is to reduce rates without reducing benefits, and get bills passed in this term.

According to a January report by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), Michiganders pay the third highest insurance premiums in the U.S., just behind Louisiana and Oklahoma.

Michigan is one of 23 states, according to the NAIC, with some form of compulsory no-fault insurance, including Texas and New York. Michigan is unique in that it provides unlimited medical benefits following a crash. This Personal Injury Protection (PIP) section of the coverage has been a main target for reform.

Right now, there are 12 Michigan bills floating around in various stages of development. Graves said he doesn't remember when there have been so many bills designed to attack this issue. "There's a lot of proposals out there that lower rates, without reducing benefits," he said.

Graves has sponsored a bill, HB 4672 (2017) that would create a fraud authority in the state of Michigan to investigate fraud in both the insurance cardholder and the insurance company as well. He said Michigan is one of eight states without a fraud authority.

Another bill he supports would change how tenant care works. Instead of paying a family member up to $150,000 to be the caretaker of an injured family member, they would be paid the going rate of a caretaker, which is about $15 an hour, to encourage a medical professional being hired instead.

These changes, along with a streamlined medical fee schedule are what Graves supports, not capping the PIP.

The Michigan Legislature has introduced bills to rein in these fees, which are currently gathering dust.

House Bill 4612 was introduced in April of 2013, and made it no further than a second reading in May 2013.

The Senate's companion bill, Senate Bill 0818 (2014) made it as far as the Graves said he would prefer incremental reform progress; not a large package of bills that is too difficult to get consensus on.

About no-fault auto insurance

No-fault insurance essentially covers both parties during a crash, no matter who caused the crash for property damage and medical problems. It does not cover damage to the driver's own vehicle. Michigan no-fault provides unlimited medical benefits for injuries related to crashes, and benefits for a family caretaker. It will also pay up to 85 percent of your lost income, up to $5,200 per month, and the same amount for three years to your family should you be killed in a crash.

Currently you are protected, limited to $1 million in property damage in Michigan, and can be sued only in some cases, such as causing death or disfigurement.

This is a weekly series encompassing a variety of things in the tri-county area from A to Z.

The old Campbell Soup jingle, "MMM MMM, Good!" describes life in the tri-county area to an M (not to a T!).

We've got so MANY things to do in our communities in these early MONTHS of fall.

Some of it is work, like MOWING and MULCHING (take a look at our Fall Home & Garden in this edition for MORE information), but other activities are fun.

RESCUE

"Our whole neighborhood was underwater," said Leverett (maiden name Lambert), a 1984 graduate of Fenton High School. "We lost pretty much everything. I've lived here since 1993 and have never had anything like this happen."

While she wasn't home at the time of the flooding because of a mandatory evacuation, she came home to an uninhabitable house that coincidentally, had just been sold. "I had a contract to sell the house," Leverett said. "We were supposed to close on Sept. 20. Now I'm not sure exactly what will happen."

Leverett immediately contacted her church, River City Church in Jacksonville, which sent out a desperate plea, "Lori needs help."

What she didn't expect was a van marked The Freedom Center to drive into her driveway, a gift of help and hope from her hometown of Fenton.

"Oh my goodness, I was speechless," Leverett, 51, said. "They swarmed in, gave us hugs and prayed over the house, my daughter and me. Then they went to work. They did an amazing job."

In just a few hours, a team of 16 workers from The Freedom Center ripped out everything in her house, including all the contents, plus carpeting, flooring and the lower 4 feet of drywall.

These relief workers were supposed to have been in Haiti, not Florida, for a long-planned mission trip. But the trip was called off at the last minute because of Hurricane Irma, so half of the team decided to head to Florida to help where they could.

"We just started driving on 9/11," said Faye Jones, one of the relief workers and wife of The Freedom Center's associate pastor, Carl Jones. "We weren't exactly sure where we were going to end up. On our way, we slept at a church in Atlanta, Georgia for a few hours. We made sure to fill up on gas every two hours so we wouldn't run out."

A friend offered the workers a church to stay in at Jacksonville, which just happened to be the church that Leverett attended. Neither church knew of the special hometown connection that would bind Leverett's heart to The Freedom Center forever.

"The first house we went to was Lori's and it got hit really bad," Jones said. "We got it done fast, in about three hours, because > we had so many people helping with the work. It gave Lori an opportunity to mourn the house. She wasn't quite sure what was going to happen."

The Freedom Center team then went on to help other flood victims, including an older couple who had lost all the shingles on their roof, and others who needed cleanup of fallen trees and debris. "We helped 18 homes in three days," said Jones. "It was very much an honor to have an opportunity to help so many people who were in such a bad place in their lives."

For Leverett, the help came at a time when everything else seemed to be falling apart. "I'm newly single, and I'm also in the process of changing jobs. They came at such a hard time in our lives," she said. "It was such a God thing. It was very, very heartwarming."

for the arena in 2013 with a price tag of $450 million. The entire project was completed for $863 million, with $324 million coming from taxpayers. Olympia Development is covering approximately $539 million of the total cost.

The use of public money has been controversial.

John Lauve of Holly filed a lawsuit against the Ilitch family and the city of Detroit because of the taxpayer money going to the arena.

"We collected 8,000 signatures for a referendum on Ilitch's third-of-a-billion-dollar deal he has for the arena and the Pistons," he said. "The (Detroit) clerk ignored it." He's waiting to hear the decision from a federal District Court judge in Detroit.

Lauve said they violated the Michigan Constitution because it requires a two-thirds vote from the people if a municipality gives public money to a project like this.

'There are provisions in the constitution. The supreme law of the state is what they violated...The people wanted to have a vote on it," he said.

Another lawsuit, filed June 1 by government transparency advocate Robert Davis and D. Etta Wilcoxon, who's running for Detroit City clerk, would have blocked using public funding to help the Detroit Pistons move into the Little Caesars Arena without a vote of Detroit residents, according to freep.com. They claim their constitutional right to vote was violated because they couldn't vote on whether to use public money on the arena or not.

The judge ruled the lawsuit lacked standing (see sidebar).

The arena is now home to the Detroit Red Wings and the Detroit Pistons, which moved from Auburn Hills.

The Detroit Downtown Development Authority will contribute the $324 million to the arena, according to freep.com, which will be captured through a tax increment financing plan. Taxes will be captured until 2051 and will go to paying off bonds issued for the arena.

The Detroit DDA owns the arena, which is exempt from property taxes, and Olympia will lease it and keep all the Detroit Tigers and Little Caesars Pizza. Along with building the new stadium, the family has promised to bring development into the same district as the arena. In the years to come, along with attracting more business and residential areas near the arena, Olympia Development is planning to bring restaurants, offices and new surface lots and parking structures to the area.

Public money used to help relocate Pistons

In late June of this year, the Detroit City Council voted 7-2 to approve a $34.5 million taxpayer contribution to help the Detroit Pistons move into Little Caesars Arena. The money will be used to modify the area specifications to accommodate the team.

Council President Brenda Jones and Councilwoman Raquel Castaneda-Lopez cast the dissenting votes. Both said there was no guarantee of a full return on investment that could benefit the public in the form of education, new jobs or other community investments.

Lopez sent a memo to Pistons management to seek specifics on what the $34.5 million would be spent on. She said plans included using $220,000 to remove and relocate a beer cooler.

At Diehl's Orchard in the fall of 2016, people carry their pumpkins after going for a wagon ride. Picking pumpkins is a popular activity at local orchards.

Orchard activities in abundance

■Wagon rides, picking apples, and learning to make cider are favorite fall activities

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

Even though the weather seems to be stuck on summer, it's orchard season in the tri-county area. Orchards and mills have opened their doors and wagon rides to patrons for fall.

MUELLER'S ORCHARD AND CIDER MILL

At Mueller's Orchard and Cider Mill, wagon rides are available on the weekends, from noon to 5 p.m. for $3 a person.

The orchard regularly hosts field trips from local schools, and takes them on a wagon ride and a tour of the mill, where they get a cup of cider, and a doughnut. They also get to try the different apples. Group tours can be arranged by calling the mill.

People can watch the doughnuts being made through a screen. The playground is open for kids, and they can feed the chickens and goats.

DIEHL'S ORCHARD AND CIDER MILL

At Diehl's, families can already enjoy fall activities.

The corn maze opened Saturday, Sept. 2 and will remain open until Tuesday, Oct. 31, Halloween. The maze is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Hayrides began on Saturday, Sept. 9 and will end Monday, Oct. 19. They run from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends only, unless riders wish to schedule a group.

ARE YOU BUILDING SOMETHING UNIQUE?

If it's something that might be photo-worthy, let the photo department at the Times know. Email news@ tctimes.com to let us know what's going on, and photographer Tim Jagielo may contact you.

Show will take place Saturday, Sept 23 and Sunday, Sept. 24. Families will be able to go in the corn maze, go on the hayrides, enjoy pony rides, the playground, and eat apples, doughnuts, and cider.

You can also schedule a tour or field trip of the cider mill to learn how the apple cider is made, or schedule a dinner and a hayride with a group. With a dinner and hayride, your group will receive a buffet dinner under a tent, a havride. and a bonfire. Go to diehlsorchard.com to learn more.

SPICER ORCHARDS FARM MARKET

Spicer Orchards offers a host of kids' activities starting early September through Oct. 31. Patrons can go on hayrides to pick apples, go on train rides, and view the cider-making process and doughnut production line. Kids can play on the farm play area, and enjoy pony rides.

The corn maze is open daily, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in September and October and costs $7 per person. Many activities are only available on the weekends, like the train rides, bounce houses, zip line, sand art, face painting, and pony rides.

The wagon rides start at 9 a.m. and the last one goes out at 5:30 p.m. It costs $1 per person and ages 2 and under are free.

The farm playground costs $2 per child, adults are free, and children under 2 are free.

PARSHALLVILLE

Open Monday through Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. until mid-November, Parshallville Cider Mill offers cider, doughnuts, caramel apples, homemade pies, and cider slushies. You can shop at their gift shop and buy a variety of products made in Michigan.

Patrons can visit the beehive and buy honey, and a take a stroll by the old mill stream. Schedule a guided tour to see the mill, see how the cider is made, and learn about the history of the site. Another tour teaches groups the art of pie making. Patrons can learn how to make crust and assemble a personal pie to take a bake Starting on Oct. 1, the mill will host Music by the Sundowners every Sunday, an event for country and folk music. It will take place on the lower desk, next to the mill stream, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. weather permitting.

of tobacco and tobacco paraphernalia to minors, people under the age of 21.

"I thought it would make sense to make smoking legal at 21 to save some lives," he said.

Brann said many teenagers start to smoke around the age of 15 or 16, partly because they may have friends who start smoking at age 18 and share their cigarettes with minors.

"They wouldn't have a way to get cigarettes as easy. I've caught people younger than 18 smoking," he said. "I just want to discourage it.'

The change would be a four-package deal. Brann said he's gaining bipartisan

The bill includes electronic cigarettes, electronic cigars, electronic pipes, and electronic hookahs, along with chewing tobacco, snuff, and pipe tobacco. A tobacco product is anything derived from tobacco or nicotine intended for human consumption, whetherit's smoked, heated,

SUMMARY

■ One Michigan bill would make it a $1,000 punishable fine to sell tobacco products to anyone under 21.

chewed, absorbed, dissolved, inhaled or any other consumption method.

Fewer people smoke cigarettes every year. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), in 1997, 36.4 percent of high school students and 24.7 percent of adults smoked cigarettes. In 2013, 15.7 percent of high school students and 17.8 percent of adults smoked cigarettes.

"Still, 16,200 people die each year because of tobacco and cancer-related products," he said. "Ninety-five percent start under the age of 21."

People guilty would be responsible for a state civil infraction and may be ordered to pay a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $2,500 for the first violation or more than $5,000 for a second and subsequent violation occurring within 24 months after a previous violation of this proposed law.

Brann used to smoke, he said, but gave it up cold turkey after he ran out of breath swimming to a dock when he was younger.

"It's just not a good decision," he said. From an economic standpoint, Brann said raising the age to use tobacco products would help the state save money on healthcare. He said the state spends approximately $1.1 billion on Medicaid expenses for cancer every year.

"We spend more money on Medicaid for cancer-related expenses," he said. "To me, this is about protecting citizens."

Brann has heard the argument that people should have the freedom to smoke if they want, but "I look at it as freedom to live longer," he said.

The bill is currently in the Committee on Regulatory Reform. The next step would be for the committee to take testimony and vote it out of the House floor, said Jeff Noble (R-Dist. 20), one of the bill's cosponsors.

Similar move failed in Genesee County

On Monday, June 19, Genesee County Circuit Court Judge Judith Fullerton ruled against "Tobacco 21," an ordinance passed by the Genesee County Board of Commissioners in February, prohibiting anyone in the county under the age of 21 from purchasing tobacco and tobacco

Monday, May 15 was supposed to be the day that retailers in Genesee County would be forced to abide by the new Tobacco 21 ordinance

But a lawsuit filed by RPF Oil Company in Grand Blanc challenged that ordinance. The lawsuit alleged that the regulation is in direct conflict with the Age of Majority Act (MCL 722.51), and direct conflict with the sign requirements of the Youth Tobacco Act (MCL 722.641(2).

Eagles on top of Metro standings, defeated Kearsley

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

The race for a Metro League boys soccer title is on for the Linden Eagles.

The fifth-ranked Eagles in Division 2 remained in a three-team race for the league crown by defeating Kearsley 8-0 on Wednesday.

The win means the Eagles are now 4-0-1 and in first place, a point ahead of Swartz Creek (4-0-0) and Brandon (4-0-0) who have each played one less league game. All three teams have control of their own destiny in the league race because all of the conference games played among the squads will happen during the second half of the season. That means if any of the three squads win the remaining contests on their schedule, they'll win the league crown outright.

Linden, who last won a league crown in 2015, scored three first-half goals against Kearsley.

Tigers played a The strong volleyball contest on the same night Linden was clearly not playing its best, resulting in a lopsided 25-15, 25-16, 25-12 Metro League win for Fenton.

While Linden struggled, the Tigers' offense, led by outside hitter Chloe Idoni, was on fire. Idoni's impact was immediate. The junior provided the match's first seven kills. She ended up with 24 kills for the contest, which was seven more kills than Linden had for the entire match. Yes, Idoni was that dominant.

"She's a dominant player," Fenton varsity volleyball coach Jerry Eisinger said. "She can take over a match like that. Obviously, we are trying to get her the ball as much as we can. We mix it up a fair amount, but in the end, when you have her out there, you have to feed her. She was just putting the ball down. They couldn't stop

The Tigers remained undefeated in Metro play after earning the win. The two-time defending league champs are looking strong despite the fact the squad lost so many key seniors on last year's Division 2 state semifinalist squad.

Fenton swimmers remain as strong as ever, open Metro with win vs. Bronchos

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com

Ever since the Metro League has been giving girls swimming and diving league championships, the Fenton Tigers have won or shared the championship every year, only sharing the crown with Brandon in 2012.

It looks like the Tigers are well on their way to another crown in 2015. The Tigers opened the Metro League season with a convincing 98-77 against the Holly Bronchos. The Tigers posted the winning time or took first place in every event during the dual meet. Fenton didn't technically win every race due to the fact they swam the final four events exhibition, but the winning Fenton times were still recorded.

Fenton, who graduated a strong senior class is young this year. However, that doesn't seem to be keeping them from being the league's most dominant squad once again.

"Last year we were definitely senior heavy," Fenton varsity swim coach Brad Jones said.

It's been a struggle being on the Lake Fenton varsity volleyball program in recent seasons.

But it looks like that's changing in Under first-year varsity volleyball coach Caroline Ostrander, the Blue Devils have shown considerable improvement this fall, and that improvement is showing with quality results as well.

The Blue Devils most recent positive result was Tuesday night's 25-12, 25-17, 25-27, 25-17 road victory against Lakeville.

"It was electric in the Lakeville High School gym. Lake Fenton Freshman and JV along with a lot of family members were on their feet," Ostrander said. "It really felt like a district game. It was amazing.

"It is amazing as the coach to watch this team really learn how to work together. Our defense is amazing and they are learning how to trust each other and work together. We are a scrappy team."

Holly competing for title in Metro race

By David Troppens

dtroppens@tctimes.com; 810-433-6789

Life on the Holly varsity volleyball team continues to get brighter every day.

Just about halfway through the Flint Metro League season, the Bronchos continue to turn heads as one of the surprising contenders in the league race. The Bronchos improved to 4-0 in Metro play with a 25-7, 25-21, 25-18 home victory against Kearsley on Tuesday night.

"It feels good," Holly varsity volleyball coach Deena Maher said. "We know we have some tough teams coming up, but we are excited where we are. We know we have some work to do and we know it won't be easy work to do. But we are excited about the challenge."

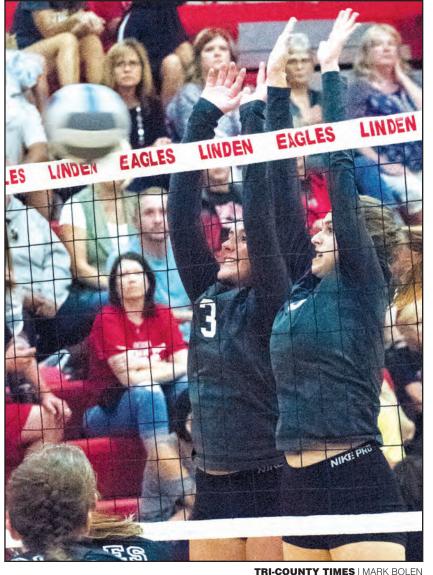

The Bronchos started getting noticed a year ago when the squad improved to 4-3 and finished in fourth place in conference action. Those four wins marked the most league victories the Bronchos have had in a league season since 2008 when they also had four wins. Now, just four matches into the season, they've already matched that total.

Kearsley never had a chance against Holly on Tuesday. The Bronchos won the first game 25-7 and were on cruise control from that point on, earning the three-set sweep. However, Kearsley did cut the gap to 25-21 in the second set, giving the Bronchos a good lesson for future matches.

"It was a good match for us," Maher said. "The first game our serving was spot on. In the second game we were a little more lax and we were making errors we usually don't make. It was a good lesson. We can't relax in any game situation whether we are facing an easier or a more difficult game. Anyone can beat you if you let them."

Holly's offense was led by Sarah Jewell's nine kills while Kennedy Hogan added eight kills.

good team when we play hard," Idoni said. "We knew what we had to do. They went to five games with Holly and Flushing, so we knew if we won one or two games, that third game we knew we still had to play hard all the way through.

"At the beginning of the season, we were looking a little shaky but as we practiced, we made a lot of goals and we are continuing to pursue those goals. We are getting better every day in practice and are continuing to get better. We are not taking any days off, and we are going at it hard."

By the time Idoni got her seventh kill of the match, the Tigers led the first set 10-3.

Is Chiropractic Care Safe or Effective?

Back Pain, Arm or Leg Pain like Sciatica, Numbness, Tingling, or Weakness in the Arms or Legs, Headaches, Migraines and problems with the Discs are often times what brings people into a chiropractic office. The major question we all keep wondering is this: IS CHIROPRACTIC REALLY SAFE or TRULY EFFECTIVE?

To end the confusion on this topic, we are going to dive into this subject with Dr. James Ide of Painless Chiropractic in Fenton and you're going to want to pay close attention because we're going to destroy some important myths and reveal the facts.

MYTH: Chiropractors are not Real Doctors. FACT: Not True. Doctors of Chiropractic or DC's receive an overall post graduate curriculum structure similar to the training medical doctors receive. DC's spend additional hours studying Spinal Manipulation, Nutrition, Physiotherapy and Advanced Radiology rather than Pharmacology and Immunology. training classes out of town about every other month and research online daily to stay up to date on the latest advances in technology, and technique. There is always something new to learn or a better way to do things in order to get better results and happier patients" Dr. Ide said. MYTH: Visiting a Chiropractor could cause

More Harm than Good. FACT: Chiropractic care is actually found to be far Less Invasive meaning Safer, then options like drugs or surgery. Doctors of Chiropractic have one of the Lowest Malpractice Insurance Premiums, coming in at around 7 Times Lower per year, compared to the average medical doctor. That alone should prove to show how safe it is to visit a Chiropractor. When asked his thoughts on the matter Dr. James Ide said "There are bad Chiropractors out there just as there are bad Dentists and MD's, but that doesn't mean you swear them all off and stop going, am I right? It's best to do your research and find an office that takes your full history into account, consults with you and really listens, does an Exam and X-rays and then takes the time to go over all of your information and analyze your x-rays in depth before diagnosing, setting up a care plan and adjusting you , that's how you know you're in good hands'

MYTH: Chiropractors ONLY Treat Back Pain. FACT: Dr. Ide's office, Painless Chiropractic in Fenton, has great success treating patients for Disc Issues of all kinds, Sciatic Pain, Pain Down the Legs and Arms, Hip Pain, Migraine Headaches, Neck Pain and even soft tissue damage due to an Auto Accident or other injury. "About 25% of our patients are families that simply visit for wellness care because they understand spinal hygiene is vital to prevent degeneration and arthritis in the future" Dr. Ide explained.

MYTH: Chiropractors just push around on your back, they can't help me.

FACT: Many offices like Painless Chiropractic in Fenton base their procedures on X-Ray studies to determine what type of care is right for each individual. Dr. Ide says that at his office "We do an In-Depth, Motion Study X-Ray Analysis to Pin-Point the Root Cause. We then structure a plan that has many components to first get the patient out of pain, then work towards correcting the problem as much as possible so it doesn't keep coming back'

MYTH: SURGERY is the Only Option For Me. FACT: NO! There's been a huge breakthrough in the treatment for Bulging DISC, Degenerative DISC, Slipped DISC, Herniated DISC, Spinal Stenosis, Foraminal Stenosis, Sciatic Pain (that goes down the leg) and many other chronic back and neck pain related ailments that now can be helped without the use of Drugs or Surgery. Dr. Ide's clinic, right here in Fenton MI has seen success rates as high as 88% utilizing a new procedure called Non-Surgical Re-Constructive Spinal Care. The excellent results from this treatment have been helping patients avoid surgery and go with a much safer alternative to finding relief

MYTH: Finding out if Chiropractic or Non-Surgical Re-Constructive Spinal Care is right for me or getting properly diagnosed is expensive. FACT: Not True. Dr. James Ide of Fenton is rently offering an initial Consultation an Exam for the first 35 Times readers to call 810-515-8878 and set up an appointment for only $27 which is normally $197, saving you $152!
