HAVE FUN, BE SAFE, GOOD LUCK and... DON'T FORGET YOUR GUN!

The big day is almost here, the day Michigan hunters vacate their offices, shops and other places of employment to hit the woods in search of the "big one."

Firearm deer season begins on Wednesday, Nov. 15 (opening day), and area hunters are already packing and prepping for their trips up north or wherever their guns take them.

According to Amy Mayhew of Holly, however, "No matter how much planning you put into it, you're bound to forget something." Mayhew and her husband, Tony, former Holly school board president, are avid hunters. Their camp is on property they own with family about two hours north of the Fenton area.

"One of my favorite deer camp stories involves my brother, David," said Amy.

"Dave absolutely lives to hunt," she said. It doesn't matter the mode — bow hunting or with a firearm, when it comes to deer, Dave's ready to go. Well, most of the time, anyway."

Amy said Dave had to work late one evening before opening day in 1992. He had assembled his gear weeks in advance.

He was certain that he had everything — it was all laid out and ready to load into his Jeep after work.

"Upon arriving at deer camp, the other guys were already settled into the old camper, playing

Opening day of firearms deer season is Wednesday, Nov. 15. Thousands of hunters will enter Michigan woodlands to hunt through Thursday, Nov. 30. Erick Ward of Linden has hunted the opening day of firearm season for more than 40 years. Here, Ward shows the 8-point buck he shot with his crossbow on Nov. 1 during bow season.

HUNTING SAFETY TIPS

YOUR ATTIRE

Visible, visible and visible. State law says you have to be wearing an outermost garment that is hunter's orange, and it has to be visible from all angles. It doesn't matter which article it is — a hat, a vest, a jacket or even some rain gear — you must be wearing orange.

YOUR FIREARM

Always treat your firearm like it was loaded. Never point it at anyone, and always use the utmost care in handling it. Keep your safety on and your finger off the trigger until the moment you're ready to shoot.

YOUR SURROUNDINGS

Be certain of your target, and what lies beyond it. If you're hunting with buddies, know where they are sitting and never for a minute, assume you're in the woods alone.

YOUR HABITS

No drinking or drugs prior to or during hunting — period. It's against the law.

YOUR TREE STAND

If you're hunting from a tree stand, do the right thing and wear a harness. Some hunters say a harness is too confining. Keep in mind, a wheelchair is pretty confining, too. Buckle in and use a haul line to bring your gear and unloaded firearm to the platform.

Fun boot camp graduation memories

On this Veterans Day weekend, I can't help but remember another weekend nearly 10 years ago, when my stepson, Jeremy, graduated from U.S. Navy boot camp at Great Lakes Naval Air Station outside of Chicago.

Boot camp was for two months and we couldn't wait to see him again. We piled into two vehicles, Jeremy's mom, Sherry, and his sister and brother in one. My husband and I, along with Grandma, and our two sons drove another vehicle.

When we got there, we rented three motel rooms. It was kind of a "seedy" place but we were within a half mile of the base, and we had a terrific view of the moon overlooking the Burger King. The next morning, we decided to take one vehicle and loaded ourselves into Sherry's SUV.

As instructed, we arrived at the base before 6 a.m., even though the ceremony was not scheduled to begin until 9 a.m. This was on a Sunday. It was when we got to the gate that I learned that Marines are very funny.

The Marine at the gate, with a straight face and not smiling told Sherry, "I'm sorry ma'am, that ceremony took place last Wednesday morning." Alarmed, she tried to show him the document that said the ceremony was "this" morning and he said, "I'm sorry ma'am."

I was in the very back of the vehicle and remember thinking to myself, "Oh buddy, you are about to meet the parents."

Just then, the Marine cracked up and said, "Just kidding," and he waved us in.

The room where the ceremony was to take place was huge, like the size of four professional sports arenas. The bleachers, from floor to ceiling were on one side of the room and packed with families.

When the graduation ceremony finally began, the sailors, close to 900 of them in dress uniform, marched into the room by unit. Everyone in the crowd was rubber-necking to find their kid.

At the end of what was to be a very memorable ceremony, all of those sailors, in tune, sang "Anchors Away." It was one of the most emotional moments of my life.

After the song, a very large bell rang and the admiral called out at the top of her lungs, "LIBERTY CALL," and pandemonium erupted as sailors, now on leave, and families rushed to meet and hug each other.

Once we found our Jeremy, we decided to go to the chapel for the base's nondenominational church service. It was there we learned that mamas are the queen bees of the troops.

When Sherry and I reached the sidewalk that led to the chapel entrance, we heard someone bark an order that we couldn't make out. Suddenly there were six young sailors at full attention on both sides of us leading to the church.

As we walked through, each one, with heads held high, said loud and clear, "Good morning ma'am, good morning ma'am, good morning ma'am ..."

Sherry and I looked at each other, smiled and said, "Now that's what I'm, talkin' about!" HOOYAH!

HUNTING WORKS FOR MICHIGAN

Hunting creates

34,400 jobs in Michigan

Big bucks spent on big bucks

Hunters in Michigan do more for the wildlife of this state than any other group through their license fees and excise tax dollars received under the Pittman-Robertson Act, according to a huntingworksforamerica.com article. In addition to the wildlife benefits, 529,000 hunters spend over $2.3 billion dollars each year. This spending supports over 34,400 Michigan jobs that pay $1.2 billion in salaries and wages. The impact translates to $289 million in additional state and local tax revenue. These jobs, taxes and sales result in a $3.9 billion ripple effect on the state economy.

cards and listening to Da Yooper's version of 'Turdy Point Buck.' Dave came through the door carrying two duffle bags. Everybody was happy to see him and made room for him at the table. 'Just let me get my gun out of my trunk and then I'll play,' Dave said as he plopped down his bags."

The guys continued playing while Dave returned to his Jeep, Amy said. Minutes later, Dave opened the camper door.

"'What's wrong?' my older brother Doug asked after seeing the look on Dave's face," Amy said. "'I made sure I had everything,' Dave began. Sleeping bag, pillow, hunting clothes, knife, rope, license, hand-warmers, boots, hat and gloves — everything,' he said. 'But I forgot my gun.'"

The camper exploded in laughter, Amy said.

Fortunately for Dave, Doug brought a couple guns along and was able to loan his brother a gun for the morning hunt.

"It's a mistake Dave has never since duplicated," Amy said.

Before you go

Making lists of what you're taking to camp with you is a great idea. It also helps you get your mind in the game and begin getting psyched for opening day, Amy said.

In addition to the list, and if you haven't done so already, you might also want to sight in your gun at a local range before heading off to deer camp. Oakland County Sportsman's club has a range, as does the Linden and Fenton Lakes sportsmen's clubs. Be sure to have hearing and eye protection and to use fresh ammunition. Keeping the noise down in the area where you intend to hunt only better your chances of seeing something on opening day.

"The lists for deer camp can seem endless, but the benefits of planning ahead are well worth the effort," Amy said. Have fun, be safe, good luck — oh, and don't forget your gun.

Sonia Arnst, 12, of Holly, shot her first buck on Nov. 1 in Holly.

Joe Ludwig of Argentine Township prefers archery season. He gets annoyed with hunters participating in illegal activities such as poaching, and drinking and driving.

Area hunter rejects firearm deer season

'...tends to bring out the worst in people'

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

Joe Ludwig of Argentine Township, former Battalion Chief for the fire department there, says his stories are "usually horrific" when it comes to firearm deer season.

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), hunters must use shotguns below U.S. 10, and rifles may be used in areas above the U.S. 10 highway.

"I gravitate more toward archery season as firearm season tends to bring out the worst in people," Ludwig said. "Last year I actually had to run an injured deer down and use my knife to dispatch it. A friend had made a non-lethal shot.

"At the time, I had a torn meniscus and ligament, but I had to put the deer down before it made it into woods," he said.

"I knew the landowner would not allow us to retrieve the deer. You must have their permission if a deer that is shot runs onto someone else's property," he said.

Ludwig described another incident that occurred on property he hunts in Byron.

"I once had an older guy drive his truck onto my property I hunt in Byron during muzzleloader season. He had a loaded gun sitting on the passenger seat and an open beer propped between his legs. A 12-pack (of beer) was on the floor," Ludwig said.

"I videotaped as I approached him and basically told him he has two options as he is trespassing," Ludwig said. "I said you are committing multiple felonies and you can either leave and never return or I can call the police and the DNR and you will go to jail. I then asked him if this is how he has taught his children to hunt. He left."

Ludwig says he prefers a bow and the colorful leaves of fall as his backdrop.

"I would much rather be in a tree with my recurve (bow) and cedar shafts when the leaves change than be out with the 'Orange Army' as they are called, as firearm season also requires orange clothing. I have many more experiences like this regarding poaching and illegal activities during firearm season than archery season by far."

INGRID GOES WEST
Ingrid Thorburn (Aubrey Plaza) is an unhinged social media stalker with a history of confusing "likes" for meaningful relationships. Taylor Sloane (Elizabeth Olsen) is an Instagram-famous "influencer" whose perfectly curated, boho-chic lifestyle becomes Ingrid's latest obsession. When Ingrid moves to LA and manages to insinuate herself into the social media star's life, their relationship quickly goes from #BFF to #WTF. Built around a brilliantly disarming performance from Aubrey Plaza, Ingrid Goes West (winner of the Waldo Salt Screenwriting Award at Sundance) is a savagely hilarious dark comedy that satirizes the modern world of social media and proves that being #perfect isn't all it's cracked up to be.

PAN SEARED VENISON TENDERLOIN WITH BABY HASSEKBACK GARLIC POTATOES

The other day, I was going to grill a nice venison tenderloin, but mother nature had other ideas. Pop-up thunderstorms - GRRR!! Instead, I pan-seared it. The loin I had was about 1 lb. This dish takes about 2 hours start to finish - so plan accordingly! — Trish

FOR THE MARINADE:

- 1 tbsp steak sauce
- 4 tbsp olive oil (plus two more for searing)
- 2 tbsp balsamic vinegar
- 1.5 tbsp Franks RedHot sauce
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- Zest of one lemon
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- Fresh ground black pepper
- Parsley
- 2 cloves garlic

Unless you're using low sodium soy sauce, salt is probably not necessary. You can always salt it when it is done! Combine the marinade ingredients and whisk. Place the tenderloin in a ziplock bag, and pour the marinade in. Seal and place it in the fridge. Flip the bag over every 20 minutes - marinating for about an hour total.

FOR THE POTATOES:

- 1.5 lbs baby yellow potatoes (or any small potato)
- 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
- 3 tbsp butter, melted
- Salt • Black pepper • 1-2 cloves garlic, minced • Fresh grated Parmesan

Preheat the oven to 425. Wash and pat dry the potatoes. Place two wooden skewers (or chops sticks) on a cutting board. Cut a flat "bottom" on each potato - they won't slip when your slicing them. Position the potato between the sticks, and cut slices but don't cut all the way through - the skewers will help to prevent this. Submerge all taters in an ice bath for 20 minutes or so, to help draw some of the starch out. Pat them dry, and assemble on a large baking sheet sliced sides up. Mix the melted butter, salt, pepper and garlic. Brush 1/3 of the butter mixture on the potatoes. The GOAL is to get the butter mixture INTO the slices you cut earlier! Bake at 425 for 15 minutes. Pull them from the oven, and brush with another 1/3 of the butter. Return to oven for 15 more minutes. Lastly, pull the out again, top with remaining butter, and as much Parmesan as you like. MORE is better! Throw them in the oven for the last leg of their journey - 15 more minutes. Remove them from the oven and set aside.

FOR THE VENISON:

Heat a cast iron skillet over medium high with olive oil. Pan sear the venison - turning every two minutes for a total of 6 minutes for a two-inch thick piece. Remove it from the pan, and tent it with foil.
