How much do you really know about

Fenton?

Fenton has always been a welcoming community, with signs posted at strategic locations throughout the city.

By Vera Hogan

Fenton has a rich and interesting history. Did you know that the town was built on an old Indian burial ground? In 1998, it was reported that a developer clashed with an archaeologist over the possibility of Native American remains in an area that was to become a new subdivision.

Fenton residents hired an expert to confirm the existence of Indian mounds on the property. According to the expert, the fact the old Fenton has a "Mound Street" should set off a red flag. He said that any remains found would have been given to a Native American tribe to bury.

Did you know that Fenton also is a protected archaeological site? It would seem that ancient people lived all over Fenton.

A bar once served as city hall in Fenton. According to the Fenton Historical Society, community leaders had their meetings at a popular hotel bar, back before they had a city hall.

Fenton was founded in 1818 but the founder didn't file the paper work until 1837. This year the city will be celebrating its 175 Anniversary, but it's really 194.

Upcoming events in Fenton include the "Light up the Valley" After Hours at Delmar Gardens on Nov. 30. The Fenton Area Chamber of Commerce also will host its annual awards holiday dinner on Dec. 7.

OK, by now you must know that we are not talking about Fenton, Michigan. This is a small snapshot of Fenton, Missouri's history. We thought it would be fun to compare the two cities and other than a colorful history, see how much the two cities are alike, and differ.

Location

Fenton, Missouri is a city located in St. Louis County, and is a suburb of St. Louis. Due to its proximity to fertile land and the Meramec River, the Fenton area has been inhabited for over 900 years.

THIS IS A FUNNY STORY...

Where's my food?

By Vera Hogan

vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

About two years ago, during basketball season, local Realtor Ed Constable and his wife, Laura, were watching the MSU game with his in-laws.

They ordered food from Buffalo Wild Wings in Fenton.

"I drew the short straw and had to go pick up everyone's food," Constable said. "When I got back, one meal was missing, the most important meal, my wife's."

"She was already 'hangry' so I picked up my phone and told Siri to call Buffalo Wild Wings in Fenton. My wife is sitting here 'hangry' and I have already missed 30 minutes of the game."

"When Buffalo Wild Wings answered, I told them about the missing meal and told them that I wanted them to deliver the missing meal," he said.

"They said no, we're busy we're not doing that. So I went to pick it up and when I got there it was not ready," Constable said.

Practical gifts are for me

There was a lot of excitement around my house a couple of weeks ago, the weekend before my husband left for hunting camp. He installed my brand new kitchen faucet set, the one that has been sitting on the counter for months.

The delay was my fault though. I told him I didn't care when it was installed as long as it was done before Thanksgiving. Mission accomplished. I do have a dishwasher, but doing dishes by hand has never been so much fun.

Now that Thanksgiving is over, I am thinking about what I might like for Christmas. When it comes to the personal gifts, I leave that to my boys. They do a wonderful job each year and I am never disappointed. They actually pay attention to me when I'm talking (most of the time) and choose gifts based on casual comments I've made throughout the year.

Celebrity cookbooks and RumChata are among my favorites. This year I've already put my order in for a couple of items.

I really scored last Christmas when I received a food processor. That may not sound personal to you, but for someone who loves cooking but hates all that chopping, that's about as personal a gift as you can give me.

From my husband though, I count on the practical and he is the same way. I would rather buy my own clothes and jewelry and he would rather buy his own tools and stuff, so ... Anyway, three years ago we got each other brand new toilets, one for each bathroom. How romantic, right? The new thrones were installed just in time for the holidays. Can't get more romantic than that.

This year I am not sure what to ask for. I have been eager to remodel my bathroom. The pistachio walls in there are starting to get on my nerves. Some paint and new bathroom accessories would be great. Someone to do all of the painting and redecorating for me would be even better. Services, I love gifts that involve providing me with services.

Since I spend so much time in there, I also want to do something with my kitchen to make it more efficient and fun. I could have a professional "kitchen makeover," but I just want a breakfast nook added and would love to get the lumber, paint and other supplies needed to make it happen. I'll bet my husband and sons could get the job done in just a couple of days if I ask them nicely.

Whatever is on your Christmas wish list, whether it's frivolous or something practical, there's a retailer or service provider in our local area that will definitely have what you need.

Happy shopping!

The Applegate's harmonious medley of arched openings, multiple roof lines and stucco detailing creates a lasting first impression. Multipaned windows fill most of the rear, allowing full visual enjoyment of a natural setting, be it lake, river, forest, desert, or artful landscaping. Stepped planters and a covered walkway unite the house with its detached garage.

FUNERAL ETIQUETTE

When you arrive at the funeral home, go to the family, and express your sympathy with an embrace or by offering your hands.

Don't feel as though you must avoid talking about the person who has died. Talking can help the grieving process begin. If you were an acquaintance of the deceased but not well-known to the family, immediately introduce yourself. Do not feel uncomfortable if you or the family member becomes emotional or begins to cry.

Allowing the family to grieve is a natural healing process. However, if you find yourself becoming extremely upset, it would be kinder to excuse yourself so as not to increase the strain on the family.

Pros and cons to keeping pigs as pets

People are drawn to pets for various reasons. Self-sufficient cats entice those who prefer independent pets that do not take up much space. Dog lovers might enjoy the companionship and boisterous personalities of tail-wagging pooches. Exotic pet owners appreciate the uniqueness of their reptiles and amphibians and how they may serve as a conversation starters.

Pot-bellied pigs also can make for interesting pets that can make for beloved additions to households. Curious, trainable and very intelligent, pigs offer more as pets than many people may realize. Many people mistakenly perceive pigs as dirty, smelly, sweaty messes. Such misconceptions may make people weary of adopting pet pigs. While not ideal for everyone, pot-bellied pigs can make wonderful pets.

The Pig Placement Network, a service that facilitates pot-bellied pig adoptions and placement, says that while pigs are highly trainable and can learn at a faster rate than dogs, the behavior of pigs is quite different from canines. Prospective pig owners must learn the intricacies of pigs before considering taking one in as a pet.

Pigs are regarded as prey and therefore have developed a suspicious nature. It can take time to earn a pig's trust. Furthermore, pigs can become stubborn, depressed and easily bored

Pot-bellied pigs can be a welcome addition to a home. With education, training and patience, pigs can make great pets.

if not given adequate attention. This may lead to destructive or aggressive behavior. Mini Pig Info, another pet pig resource, says pigs will constantly test limits. They quickly can learn that squealing will get them attention. Unlike other pets, pigs' emotions closely mirror those of humans.

Pot-bellied pigs, which originated in Vietnam, are one of the smallest breeds of pigs as compared to what one would find on a farm. Piglets may start out small and cute, but even a smaller pot-bellied pig can reach 100 to 170 pounds in adulthood. Those who don't understand this ahead of time contribute to the growing number of pet pigs surrendered to shelters.

Other factors that can influence if a pig is the right pet for a person:

- Pot-bellied pigs can live an average of 12 to 15 years with proper care.
- Communities have their own specific rules regarding pet pigs. Check if pigs are legal before adopting one.
- Pigs are not apartment dwellers. They will need exercise and access to a yard that allows for rooting and exploration.
- Pigs have a pronounced sense of smell and will immediately know when someone is eating or opening food.
- Finding a veterinarian who is familiar with pot-bellied pigs is key to maintaining the animal's health and longevity.

AFTER LOVE
From the director of "Our Children," comes the stark story of Boris (Cédric Kahn) and Marie (Bérénice Bejo), a couple who have decided to separate after 15 years together. They have two girls that they adore. However, cash-strapped Boris is still living in the family home. When all is said and done, neither of the two is willing to give up. Now this apartment is a war zone and their situation a nightmare. Joachim Lafosse captures with great magnitude, the painfully intimate, harrowingly fascinating drama about the emotional and financial complexities of a separation and the complexity of the end of a long love story. NR, 1 hr. 40 min.

VEGAN POTATO, LEEK & BUTTERNUT SQUASH SOUP

I love a warm bowl of soup to satisfy my fall cravings, and I got this recipe from my beautiful niece Stephanie. Thanks Girl - it was AMAZING!
— Trish

INGREDIENTS

- 3 leek whites, washed and sliced thin
- 4 stalks celery, chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 8 Yukon gold potatoes cubed (I used red, couldn't find Yukon's in the store)
- 8 cups vegetable stock
- Fresh Rosemary, sage & thyme, tied in a herb bundle
- 2 c. cubed butternut squash
- Olive oil
- Salt
- Pepper
- 1/4 - 1/2 c. Panko bread crumbs (to thicken)

DIRECTIONS

Preheat your oven to 400. Peel & cube butternut squash. Toss it with 1-2 tbsp olive oil, salt & pepper, and minced garlic. Spread the squash out on a sheet pan, and roast 25 minutes. Remove from oven and set aside. Preheat 2 tbsp olive oil in a large dutch oven. Saute' and soften the leeks and celery, until they're translucent. Poor in vegetable stock. Add potatoes and herb bundle. Simmer for about 20 minutes or until the potatoes are soft. Remove the herb bundle. Add in bread crumbs, stir to thicken. Add in the cubed butternut squash, heat through. If you want the soup more smooth, use an immersion blender and puree to the consistency you want. Salt and pepper generously! This is EXCELLENT with a good, crusty bread.
