One defendant in the alleged Linden school shooting plot is awaiting a probation violation sentence after defying court orders a second time.

Kody Brewer, 17, has been going through the Genesee County court system for nearly two-and-a-half years, since October 2015. That’s when police discovered an alleged plot to shoot up Linden schools was discussed by Brewer and two other boys, Lamarr Dukes, 17, and Ryan Stevens, 20. Dukes was sent to a yearlong rehabilitation program in Pennsylvania and Stevens was sentenced to five years probation after spending almost a year in jail.

Fenton Village Players adds comedy nights, movies

First show of the year debuts this week with comedy, ‘Things My Mother Taught Me’

By Sally Rummel
news@tctimes.com; 810-629-8282

The Fenton Village Players have been hitting the local stage since 1972, but they are expanding their definition of community theatre with new events for 2018.

In addition to their main productions at the Fenton Village Playhouse, they are adding comedy nights and movie nights, and continuing their third season of Second Stage shows in their already busy community theatre schedule.

Kidz Theatre Kompanny, holiday shows and special appearances at other community events are just a few more reasons to fit the Fenton Village Players’ 2018 dates into your schedule.

“We are here to promote the arts, including theatre, but not only theatre,” explained Matthew Osterberg, corresponding secretary for the Fenton Village Players board of directors. “We’re planning our first Comedy Night on March 9, and starting a monthly Movie Night at the theatre in April, including some of the old classics.”

The first regular production of the Fenton Village Players this year debuts Thursday, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. with the comedy, “Things My Mother Taught Me” at the Fenton Village Playhouse at 14197 Torrey Rd. Director is Tammy Robison and producer is Patti Lee. “It’s a comedy, like PG or PG-13,” said Lee. “It’s a good mid-winter break to make you laugh.”

The show continues through the weekend of March 4. For show times and ticket information, visit fentontheatre.org.

Other main stage productions will be the comedy, “Calendar Girls,” April 19-29; “Oliver,” July 12-29 and “Musical Comedy Murders of 1940,” Sept. 27-Oct. 7.

Now for the third year, Fenton Village Players is offering “edgier” comedy at Second Stage events in a smaller, more intimate setting in the activity room of the Playhouse. When the show is appropriate, beer and wine may be offered for a donation.

The first Second Stage event for 2018 will be “Almost Maine,” running Friday through Sunday, March 23-25. The second show of the Second Stage season will be “Odyssey/Performer” on Friday through Sunday, June 8-10. The final one for 2018 will be “Sylvia,” on Friday through Sunday, Oct. 26-28.

Kidz Theatre Kompanny will present “A Pirate’s Life for Me” on May 10-20 and another show on Nov. 9-16, title to be announced. Visit kidztheatrekompany.org for more details.

The Fenton Village Players’ annual Christmas Show will run Dec. 7-9.
The State of Holly event included presentations (from left) by Holly Village President Pro-Tem Debby Musgrave and Secretary of State Ruth Johnson. The evening was kicked off with a faux fight between Musgrave and Holly Township Supervisor George Kullis.

This light-hearted nod at a more tense time between the village and township ended with Kullis getting his hat knocked off, and the two hugging on stage.

The 2018 State of Holly event on Thursday, Feb. 15, was an opportunity for the village, township, and Holly Area Schools (HAS) to celebrate their community, and talk about their accomplishments and what the future holds.

This year brought an event with energy and a sense of humor. Propelling the evening along was the Holly High School Marching Band and Main Street Show Choir. Secretary of State Ruth Johnson also attended, discussing the successes of Holly and the surrounding area.

The futuristic movie, “2001: A Space Odyssey” gave people in 1968 a glimpse of what the future might hold when it comes to computers and technology.

Employees during that year did not have a computer on their desk, a laptop at home, a “smart phone” at their fingertips or any of the tech toys we take for granted today. The internet, or rather “world wide web,” was not yet a thing.

Even as late as the 1970s, a company computer, especially for insurance companies, was a huge contraption in its own room. It ran 24 hours a day, five days a week. COBALT (a special computer language) programmers

Oh, how times have changed

Three local residents share their perspectives on how technology has changed us

Brooke Ball
hbail@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

This is the first story in an ongoing Midweek series interviewing our treasured elderly residents for their opinions and input on a variety of topics.

Gone are the days filled with a home radio, a black and white television, and a wall phone. People often ask how technology has changed, but rarely do they ask how technology changed us?

Here are three perspectives from people who grew up without cell phones and colored TV.

Dick Laing, 88, of Linden, said TV didn’t really get going until the Korean War in the early 1950s.

“We weren’t all that enthusiastic about it because the only programming to begin with was professional wrestling,” he said. “The technology was there but you got to develop the programming.”

He said the change in technology has been “pretty dramatic,” and that we haven’t learned how to live with it yet. Advancements in technology have made entertainment programs more accessible, which is often violent.

“Are we desensitizing our boys?” he said, referring to the recent school shooting in Florida. “Most kids can separate fantasy from reality but this kid can’t.”

He said for kids who just sit and play on their cell phones all day, it’s a disaster. Laing mentioned the game “Call of Duty,” which encourages players to kill people.

“Most of the kids will play that game and sort out fiction from reality but a few don’t,” he said. “Humanity evolved on hard work and exercise. So if they drop out of school, punch buttons all day, that’s a health disaster in the making. We’ve got so many kids that are overweight. We’ve got so many kids who are diabetic.

Mary Salerno, 81, of Linden, said they had a wall telephone and a TV when she was a teenager.

“We had a party line,” she said, referring to the one phone line everyone in the neighborhood or a certain geographic area shared. “I was telling my grandchildren about it one day and they thought it was weird.”

Now, Salerno has a laptop, an iPad, and a TV, but no smartphone. She said the advancements are a good thing, especially with cell phones because she can easily call someone in an emergency. “I keep mine in my vehicle. I don’t want to be walking around with it in my hand all day,” she said.

She said young people over use cell phones.

“Instead of actually talking to people at restaurants, they’re on their cell phones and I don’t think that’s good,” she said.

Technology has definitely changed how people communicate, she said. Salerno still writes handwritten letters to relatives and friends. She often sends letters to relatives in Italy, and video chats with them on her daughter’s smartphone. At Loose Center, she’s in the pen pal group that exchanges letters with third-graders at Linden or Fenton schools.

Judy Grubb, 76, of Linden, said she likes her computer and her cell phone, and being able to use Google anywhere.

“I still prefer a stick-shift in a car but my husband hates it,” she said. She said automatics are cheaper, which is what she drives today.

She said she’s not worried about computer hackers.

“My son-in-law works for Apple in the legal department and he told me never put anything on your computer you don’t want on the front page of a newspaper,” she said.

She also doesn’t deal with many scam calls because she doesn’t answer the phone unless she recognizes the number.

“Kids can get on the internet and learn how to make bombs...and watch porn. That’s the bad part, but the rest of the knowledge is so phenomenal,” she said.

“Kids can get on the internet and learn how to make bombs...and watch porn. That’s the bad part, but the rest of the knowledge is so phenomenal,” she said. “I’m hoping it does more good than bad. There’s always going to be bad people out there.”

People don’t know how to communicate with others anymore, she said, because many people will text and not talk to the people around them. Grubb will send her children messages during the day, but “every couple times a week, I have to hear their voice, make sure they’re all right,” she said.

Fewer and fewer young people talk on the phone in favor of texting, which Grubb said is “scary.”

NOW LIBERALS DON’t want armed police in school for protection. Israel learned long ago that its schools needed armed guards to protect them. Since the armed guards were put in place, no mass shooting.

AFT ER VOTING FOR anyone who would lower taxes resulted in a new tax bill, Trump got the gold mine and all others got the shaft while only 13 percent of 125 million votes got a ‘one time’ bonus. It was ‘crumbs,’ compared to Trump’s millions in tax cuts forever.

WHAT A FANTASY world you must be living in. The Democrats are against improving roads, bridges, the military, etc? How would you suggest paying for all of the above? I know—with tax cuts. That should work fine. Give me strength.

AS A RETIRED teacher, I think the Hot line about fighting a tank with a tank sounds pretty great. Let all school personnel carry an AK47 around with them. School board members would be for it. Additionally, of course parent-teacher conferences.

EVERY REPUBLICAN POLITICIAN has taken lots of money from the NRA and only one Democrat that I can think of, so they’ve been wiped out. If you own an AR-15 rifle to hunt, just give it up. AR-15s are meant to kill people. Who will be next?

SOME SAY THE solution for gun violence are laws to keep guns from the wrong people, like drugs, so we can be a country free from gun violence, like Mexico. Yeah.

Downtown Linden has parking deficit of 599 spaces

By Hannah Ball
hbail@tcttimes.com, 810-433-6792

Linden — Linden City currently has a parking deficit of 599 parking spaces, according to a 2015 study conducted by the Linden Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

However, Linden City Manager Paul Zelenak said the city doesn’t have a parking problem.

“I always told people I wish I had a parking problem in downtown,” he said. “If the town was ever at 100-percent capacity and every business was 100-percent full and people would come downtown for everything, we would be short of parking, but we’re not.

The Union Block property isn’t developed yet, and there are vacant businesses in the downtown area. In a survey done in late 2014 of 25 businesses, 44 percent of owners said there was a parking problem, while 56 percent said there wasn’t.

Public parking areas include the 25-space parking lot adjacent to the Linden Mills building, the 22-space parking lot on the north side of Hamrick Street, and the 49-space parking lot on Hamrick Street and West Broad Street. People can also park in the 27-space Mill Street lot near the VFW Hall, Mill Pond Park and Linden Mills Building, and the 27-space lot located south of Linden City Hall.

In determining the deficit, the study calculated the number of parking spaces needed per square foot of building in the city. In a church, one parking space is needed for every three people or seats. In retail and restaurants, one parking space is needed per each 150 square feet of usable floor area, according to the study.

The study identified 186 public off-street spaces, 91 public on-street spaces, and 212 private off-street spaces, which is a total of 489 spaces. At the time of the study, there were 39 buildings and approximately 136,000 square feet of floor space.

In order to meet each building’s needs, the city would need to have 500 parking spaces, according to the study, creating the deficit of 599 spaces.

The city of Linden purchased a property off Walmer Street, near Eagles Wooden Park, with the goal of turning it into a parking lot. The area is grassy and will need to be balanced.

“That parking lot will be used for additional parking that will be needed in the downtown once the Union Block property (Dr. Wax’s property) does get developed,” he said.

The lot will also help with community event parking and developing the Riverwalk project.

SUGGESTIONS INCLUDED IN THE 2015 STUDY ARE:

• Expanding the 21-space public parking lot on the south side of Mill Street to the west

• Expanding the 22-space public parking lot on the north side of Hamrick Street to the west

• Utilizing the unimproved and unused private parking area behind the businesses along the west side of South Bridge Street

• Promote pedestrian, non-motorized, ride-sharing transit and alternatives to vehicular travel

• New private off-street lot

• Zoning changes to better accommodate parking

• Improve lighting and other pedestrian comforts like benches, shade trees and emergency phones

• Exploring the potential of the city sharing the parking lot owned by the Linden Presbyterian Church

• Better parking signage, or a master map of all parking options

• Public awareness

EXPLORING PEDISTRIAN COMFORTS

Public awareness and education are key to a number of suggestions for improving pedestrian comfort in downtown Linden. One option is to install easy-to-read signage, or a master map of all parking options. This can also include shade trees, emergency phones, and benches.

Other suggestions include the addition of a new private off-street lot, and the utilization of the unimproved and unused private parking area behind the businesses along the west side of South Bridge Street.

Zoning changes can also help to better accommodate parking in the downtown area. This can include the addition of new private off-street lots, and the expansion of existing lots.

Public lighting and other pedestrian comforts such as benches, shade trees, and emergency phones are also important. The city can explore the potential of sharing the parking lot owned by the Linden Presbyterian Church.

Other suggestions include the addition of better parking signage, or a master map of all parking options.

In order to meet each building’s needs, the city would need to have 500 parking spaces, according to the study, creating the deficit of 599 spaces.

OUR FOUNDERS GAVE us the second amendment to protect the freedom in the first amendment. In the last century, an estimated 100 million were killed by their own governments. The ‘trail of tears’, ‘Waco’ and ‘Ruby Ridge’ are reminders that it can happen here. Don’t disarm America.

Grand juries

With last Friday’s announcement of Federal Grand Jury indictments of 13 Russians and three companies for interfering in the 2016 presidential election, it occurred to me that most people probably aren’t familiar with the concept of a grand jury. So, for today’s column I will explain why we have them and how they work.

As to the why, the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution contains a number of rights including a person’s right not to be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime (felony) unless there is a presentment or indictment of a grand jury.

A presentment is a written charge presented to a court by a grand jury, which charges that a person has committed a crime. A presentment is a special type of indictment.

As to the how, there are both federal and state grand jury laws.

Under federal law, all felonies (unless there is a waiver) go before a grand jury comprised of not less than 16 and not more than 23 jurors.

The proceedings are held in secret and disclosure of the proceedings by almost anyone involved can be punished as contempt of court. Witnesses are excluded and there are other exceptions.

The jurors are summoned to appear in the same way as criminal trial jurors and a judge selects the jury.

After an indictment, the case moves to a trial with the beyond a reasonable doubt standard applying.

Michigan has a grand jury statute and court rule similar to federal law. They are rarely used however because grand juries are not required under Michigan law. Instead a criminal complaint signed by a prosecutor is normally used to charge a defendant with a crime.

The defendant in a felony case has what is called a preliminary examination hearing to determine if there is probable cause.
Approval to destroy mute swan nests and eggs narrowly passes with 4-3 vote

Silver and Marl lakes to see fewer mute swans, Canada geese

By Hannah Ball
hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The Fenton Township Board of Trustees approved a permit on Monday, Feb. 19, for the destruction of nests and eggs belonging to Silver Lake and Marl lakes.

According to Public Works Director Dan Czarnecki, the study became necessary because of concerns and complaints of traffic backing up during peak times of the day. “The city would like to find solutions to the congestion,” he said in a memo to City Manager Lynn Markland.

The new study will consist of a traffic review at each of the intersections within the Silver Lake Road corridor. “The vote was 4-3 and the resolution passed. Supervisor Bonnie Mathis, Clerk Bob Krug and Trustee Vince Lorraine cast the dissenting votes.”

The Fenton City Council has agreed to pay Progressive AE of Grand Rapids, the city’s traffic engineering consultants, $17,830 to conduct a study on the Silver Lake Road corridor.

“The city would like to find solutions to the congestion,” he said in a memo to City Manager Lynn Markland.

The new study will consist of a traffic review at each of the intersections within the Silver Lake Road corridor from Silver Parkway to LeRoy Street. This includes traffic counts and turning movements.

“The study will examine the existing geometrics and analyze if changes would improve the flow of traffic,” Czarnecki said. “Future traffic growth will also be considered, as well as current signalization. If necessary, a signal analysis of the northbound U.S. 23 off ramp will be made.”

The study is expected to take six to seven weeks to collect all the necessary information and provide analysis of the data. Final reports will be available for review and City Council approval after that.

30 years ofTraffic on Silver Lake Road

Case Study

In the past 30 years, Silver Lake Road has changed from a quiet lakeside road to a busy local thoroughfare. Traffic conditions during peak times of the day have become a problem for residents and business owners alike. The city of Fenton has conducted a study to address the traffic congestion along Silver Lake Road.

The study, conducted by Progressive AE of Grand Rapids, has identified areas of concern and recommended solutions to improve traffic flow. The results of the study will be presented to the city council for review and approval in the near future.

If you would like to read the full report or obtain more information about the traffic study, please contact the Fenton City Hall at 810-735-9426.

LISTENING TO THESE kids in Florida over the weekend. They didn’t mince any words; they put the adults on notice. I think we have it all wrong. We should let these kids run the office. Maybe the minimum age for holding office should be the maximum age. I’m not sure if wisdom comes with age, just greed.

IF SOMEBODY DOWN in that school in Florida had a handgun, two or three teachers, how many people might have died in the crossfire?

JUST WHERE DOES the right to bear arms end?

YOU’RE SO GRATEFUL for the thousand dollars a year because your husband actually works. You know that’s less than $3 a day. Meanwhile the rich people at the top are bringing in millions. Get your head out of the sand and start looking at what they’re doing with your money.

JUST GOT A kick out of the Bermuda Triangle comment. There isn’t anything wrong with this area; it’s just people out there who shouldn’t be driving, texting and doing other stuff with their cell phones.

Silver and Marl lakes to see fewer mute swans, Canada geese

By Vera Hogan
vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

The Fenton Township Board of Trustees approved a permit to pay Goosebusters, a professional waterfowl control company, to obtain the DNR permit for the nest and destruction program they have used since 1999. "As a lake association, our residents are most vocal complaining about the Canada Goose population and the threats it poses to the trumpeter swan, a native species to Michigan that is on the state's threatened species list. Mute swans also destroy wetland habitat by feeding off it. They will attack humans, especially small children, who get too close to their young and are the world's most aggressive waterfowl species, according to the DNR. The animals are also a threat to the trumpeter swan, a native species to Michigan that is on the state's threatened species list. Mute swans have orange beaks and trumpeter swans have black beaks. Sandell said there were six mute swans on Silver Lake last summer. The vote was 4-3 and the resolution passed. Supervisor Bonnie Mathis, Clerk Bob Krug and Trustee Vince Lorraine cast the dissenting votes.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) performs the nest and egg destruction for the invasive species at no cost to residents or municipalities due to the growing problem. "The last couple of years we have experienced an increase in the mute swan population. This bird is an invasive species that competes with native waterfowl for food and other resources. Of more concern is that they are a source of danger as they are known to attack humans in boats, personal watercraft, and even onshore," Sandell said in the letter.

Mute swans also destroy wetland habitat by feeding off it. They will attack humans, especially small children, who get too close to their young and are the world’s most aggressive waterfowl species, according to the DNR. The animals are also a threat to the trumpeter swan, a native species to Michigan that is on the state’s threatened species list. Mute swans have orange beaks and trumpeter swans have black beaks. Sandell said there were six mute swans on Silver Lake last summer.

The vote was 4-3 and the resolution passed. Supervisor Bonnie Mathis, Clerk Bob Krug and Trustee Vince Lorraine cast the dissenting votes.

The Fenton Township Board of Trustees approved two five-year permits for the destruction of nests and eggs belonging to mute swans and Canada geese on Silver and Marl lakes.

Lorraine said, "I wake up, I love to see the geese. The swans, they bother the skiers, yes, but to destroy their nests is not the best way to do it." Krug has said in previous meetings that he does not think it’s right to destroy these nests, and Mathis spoke in favor of the swans.

Canada geese

The board also approved nest and egg destruction for Canada geese.

The study is expected to take six to seven weeks to collect all the necessary information and provide analysis of the data. Final reports will be available for review and City Council approval after that.

BOND

“You have phenomenal kids,” said Nuss. “They’re talented, they’re kind, they’re courteous, they’re tolerant of each other.”

But he wrapped up what might be his last public address as superintendent to make a plea to residents — the district needs more money for facility improvements and basic needs at the schools.

This could come in the form of a $25 million bond, funded over the course of 20 to 25 years.

If placed on the Nov. 2018 ballot and passed, it would be used for facilities maintenance and equipment replacement, Nuss said. Like previous bonds, these have continued the current millage rate at 8.5 mills.

In 2003, a $22.5 million bond was passed, which according to a Times article published June 2003, continued the previous mills levied on each household.

The district proposed an approximately $9 million sinking fund in 2012 and 2013 for facilities maintenance and equipment replacement, Nuss said. Like previous bonds, these have continued the current millage rate at 8.5 mills.

In 2003, a $22.5 million bond was passed, which according to a Times article published June 2003, continued the previous mills levied on each household.

The district may place an item on the Nov. 2018 ballot that will ask for approximately $350,000 to $500,000.

To take the survey, go to www.hask12.org and click the link near the top on the landing page. Hard copies will be available at Holly school and government buildings.

We want to create a short and long-term plan for the community to look at.

Dave Nuss

Holly Area Schools superintendent

Holly Area Schools Superintendents Dave Nuss lauded the accomplishments and the quality of his district — but also appealed to the public to support an upcoming school bond.

Specifically, he mentioned the leaking boilers at the high school, which need to be replaced at a cost of approximately $350,000 to $500,000.

This week, a survey will go live on the Holly Area Schools website, seeking community input on the topic. The details have not yet been finalized and Nuss said the results of the survey will be available in three weeks.

Fenton Community Orchestra takes audience on journey through history of cinema

By Tim Jagielo

Fenton — There hasn’t been a movie theater in Fenton for years, but for two nights this past weekend, something better came to town.

The Fenton Community Orchestra (FCO), led by conductor Andrew Perkins, took the audience on a bounting journey through a history of American cinema.

Much like their performance of “The Birds” in 2016, “Fenton Community Orchestra Goes to the Movies” entered the visual media of film with live musical score.

Some pieces required featured soloists, such as violinist Emily Von Brockdorff on “Pink Panther,” and Concert Mistress Lisa Bayer on “La La Land.”

The pieces were selected to include a wide array of genres and time periods.

Musical scores from the golden era of cinema up to “La La Land” (2016) took the audience through a tour of cinema scores, aided by clips from the movies themselves playing behind the orchestra.

Musicians and audience members were encouraged to wear costumes, and several won prizes for attending as Indiana Jones or a Fairy Princess.

“We tried to do a well-rounded variety of music, and just music, the people are going to recognize,” Perkins said. “That’s the whole point of doing these special events, is to reach people that don’t normally come out to our regular gigs.”

He said the Orchestra Board saw this concert as an opportunity to draw a different audience than who might not normally come to a classic symphonic performance. The FCO tried to deliver something fun, and more culturally relevant, for patrons who are more into pop culture. “The Birds” was decidedly heavier and more “adult,” and this concert gave more children the opportunity to attend.

“I think musical underscore for movies is written so that it pulls emotion out so he can use the property for storage of equipment attachments and landscape material.

We are the cheerleader, guardian and watchdog of our communities — all rolled into one.

We monitor the pulse of the community and focus on local news stories of interest — not what we want, but what our readers want in their community newspapers.

PUBLIC HEARING

ARGENTINE TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS

The Argentine Township Planning Commission is holding a hearing March 8, 2018 at 7:00 p.m. to discuss the following item:

REZONING REQUEST FROM R2 URBAN RESIDENTIAL TO C1 LOCAL COMMERCIAL

A request has been received from Matthew Mowinski, Royalty Services, to change his property, Tax ID 01-20-300-012, .92 acres from current zoning R2 Urban Residential to C1 Local Commercial.

Mr. Mowinski would like the whole parcel zoned the same, C1 Local Commercial so he can use the property for storage of equipment attachments and landscape material.

Denise Graves, Clerk

would write lines of code on coding sheets. The coding sheets would then get dropped off in a keypunch room. The next day, the keypunch girls (yes, all young women) would copy the program, one line at a time, to a stack of IBM cards. The cards were bound up in a rubber band, labeled, and put in a tray to be brought in the computer room.

The resulting documents from the computer would be billing, payroll, insurance policies and more.

The 1968 movie influenced many to fall in love with the limitless possibilities of space exploration. The movie sparked imaginations and provided a realistic preview of what our future in space might look like. When it was made, living and working in space full time was science fiction. Today, resident crewmembers are aboard the International Space Station 365 days a year operating one of the most complex engineering projects in history. The station is located within the boundaries of 21st century science, technology, and engineering.

In 2008, NASA joined in the film’s 40th anniversary celebrations, sending down a special message from orbit that was played during the anniversary screening at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences’ Samuel Goldwyn Theater in Beverly Hills, California.

The film was a creative collaboration by director Stanley Kubrick and science fiction author Arthur C. Clarke. The two men embarked on a creative collaboration: a novel and a screenplay inspired by Clarke’s 1950 short story “The Sentinel.”

2001: A Space Odyssey shows an imagined version of our future in space, some of which has come to pass:

• One of the most notable visions is the large, low Earth orbiting, revolving space station in the film. Although the shape is different, today’s space station is permanently crewed and international.
• Flat-screen computer monitors that were unheard of in 1968 are now commonly used on the space station.
• The film imagines glass cockpits in spacecraft, which were present on the flight deck of the space shuttle.
• The film also envisions in-flight entertainment in space. Today there are DVDs, iPods and computers with e-mail access.
• While we may not have computers that talk back to us or show human-like traits, like Hal in the movie, we do have Siri on our phones and Alexa.
• Another famous scene from the movie depicts an astronaut jogging in space. Aboard the International Space Station, exercise in space is routine. In April 2007, 210 miles above Earth, astronaut Sunita Williams ran the Boston Marathon while in orbit.

Although some of the things in the film are not yet realities, some of them are in the works. For example, NASA’s working to extend humanity’s presence beyond low Earth orbit, embarking on an ambitious journey to Mars that should see humans on the Red Planet in the 2030s. Other ventures in space, such as hotels in orbit and routine tourist space travel are being planned by commercial spaceflight companies.

STATE OF HOLLY

On the township side, Kullis talked about road improvements to reduce or eliminate flooding on North Holly Road and re-graveling a byway of roads in the northwest quadrant of the township.

He also mentioned skyrocketing new home developments — building permits increased from 45 in 2016, to 204 in 2017. A program to handle invasive plant species, and the Holly Heritage Farmstead among others, also was discussed.

Musgrave took over as president of the village of Holly at the last minute after President Jim Perkins resigned due to family and health reasons. She discussed the success of the variety of downtown Holly events, including HollyDays, Ladies Night Out and Holly Dickens Festival.

Always important are new businesses, and the successes of their various departments, such as police, fire and public works.

“Our economic development has been strong over the last couple of years, but not as strong as 2017. That just blew everything away in 2017,” she said. Musgrave added that 10 new businesses opened in the village in 2017, “resulting in about $4.8 million in investment revenue.”

HAS Superintendent Dave Nuss talked about the improved financial picture of the district, while improving the education of students.

“I can tell you, that year after year after year, your kids are just wonderful,” Nuss said.

His talk took a serious turn when he discussed the funding disparity between other Oakland County districts and Holly. He also partially unveiled a possible bond issue to be brought to voters. (See story on page 1.)

Afterward, Kullis said that students brought up various points of the presentation. Connecting the residents, especially youth to government, was one of the goals. “It really benefited well,” he said.

Spencer, 17, began his career with a second round TKO (Technical Knock Out) victory against Uriel Gonzalez. The bout was scheduled for four-three minute rounds.

“It was everything I expected it to be,” Spencer said during an interview published by Thabotinvoice on YouTube a day after the fight. “I felt good. I felt sharp. (There were) a little bit of nerves being the first one, but I was glad I was able to get it done and do good with it. I’m just looking for bigger things and more fights.”

Spencer dominated the fight, actually earning a first knock down late in the first round. The knock out came early in the second round.

“I rushed him at the beginning of the second round and the ref called it,” Spencer said. “It was everything I looked forward to. It was everything I envisioned in my mind. It was fantastic. I felt like an animal.”

Spencer’s pro debut probably had a little more hype surrounding it than most typical debuts. The first tipping point was the fact the bout was part of the Danny Garcia-Brandon Rios card in Las Vegas, the mecca of professional boxing. Second, very few boxers have actually turned professional at an age as young as Spencer.

“It was cool,” Spencer said. “Not everybody gets an opportunity to turn pro in Las Vegas. … I’m blessed to (begin my professional boxing career) on a card like this.”

After his victory, Spencer showed his appreciation for his fans in the tri-county area by posting on his Twitter account.

“Very few people understand what it took to get to this point, but it’s all the way up from here. Thank you so much for everybody’s amazing support. This one’s for Linden, MI.”

Spencer admitted to feeling some nervousness prior to the fight.

“It was a lot more anxiety to get in the ring. To get it done and get it over with,” Spencer said. “Not necessarily being scared of losing.”

Spencer hopes this is a busy year for him in terms of future professional bouts. He said in the interview that it’s possible his next fight could be April 7 in Pennsylvania. However, as of press time details of a potential professional match have yet to be confirmed.

“I want to fight five times,” Spencer said about his plans for 2018. “I’m looking forward to everything because I know I can live up to the expectations.”

CAR WASH BROKEN INTO

On Feb. 19 at 6:50 a.m., Fenton police responded to a car wash on Owen Road on a report of breaking and entering. The manager said when they arrived at work they noticed that the cash register, containing over $1,000, was missing. Police found no signs of forced entry into the building. Police did locate the cash register and recovered some of the cash. The break-in occurred between 5 p.m. on Feb. 18 and 6:30 a.m. on Feb. 19. The investigation continues.

DRIVER INJURED IN MONDAY MORNING CRASH

At approximately 5:30 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 19, Fenton police and fire responded to a rollover crash on northbound U.S. 23 in Fenton. Lt. Jeff Cross said a 46-year-old Mt. Pleasant man was driving north in a Ford Escape. For unknown reasons, the vehicle drifted to the left and struck the center guardrail, causing the vehicle to flip four times. The man was not wearing a seatbelt and was ejected from the vehicle. He was transported to Genesys Health Park in Grand Blanc Township with serious injuries. The fast lane of the highway was closed for a few hours as the scene was cleared.

DEFECTIVE EQUIPMENT RESULTS IN WARRANT ARREST

At 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 18, a Fenton police officer conducted a traffic stop to a vehicle on Silver Lake Road for having an equipment violation. A computer check revealed that the driver, a 21-year-old Fenton man, had two outstanding warrants, one from Fenton, the other from Isabella County. He was transported to Flint City Jail, pending his arraignments on the warrants.

This is the second time Brewer has violated his probation. The first time occurred in June 2017 when he was out on bond and living with his parents. He created a social media account and carried a cell phone against court orders. He was also suspended from school five times and was nearly expelled.

When it was discovered he violated the terms of his probation a second time in December 2017, Genesee County Deputy Chief Assistant Prosecutor John Potbury said, “We would be asking the judge to revoke his probation. Now, I cannot go into the details of the probation violation at this time.”

His sentencing was scheduled for Feb. 6, but has been moved to May 1.

Brewer is currently free on bond.

Linden — Noah Giacomantonio was a sophomore lacking a basketball identity on the JV team a little over two years ago.

He knew he needed to find his niche on the basketball court for the Linden basketball program, and he found it one day while watching Dennis Rodman, the Detroit Pistons’ version of Rodman.

“I was struggling, going through a little height growth,” Giacomantonio said. “When I got that height, I wasn’t one of the most skilled offensive players, so I found Dennis Rodman and I said, ‘I’m going to be like him. I’m going to grab every single rebound and do the dirty work.’”

Giacomantonio presented his inner-Rodman on Friday and added a little offensive touch of his own, leading the Linden Eagles to a 52-44 victory against the Holly Bronchos at Linden High School.

Giacomantonio scored 10 points, dished off two assists, blocked a shot and grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds in the Eagles’ victory, helping keep Linden’s hope of finishing second in the Metro League alive. It also assured Linden of a 10-win season and placed them one victory away from assuring a winning season.

“He’s a neat kid,” Linden varsity boys basketball coach Chris Root said. “He works so hard and has accepted a role. He’s a rebounder and he loves it. His favorite player is Dennis Rodman and that’s all he wants. When I asked him when I first got the job who his favorite player is, he said Dennis Rodman. He plays like him, the Detroit Pistons’ Dennis Rodman.”

Linden led almost the entire game, jumping to a 7-0 lead with the help of a Giacomantonio putback hoop in the middle of that run.

The Blue Devils had two other regional championships — Sean Trombley (145) and Jackson Nevadomski (160). Trombley improved to 45-1 with a 7-0 decision victory against Perry’s Jacob Spiess in his title match. He also earned a pinfall win in the quarterfinal and a major decision win in the semifinal. Nevadomski improved to 39-2 with a 6-3 decision victory against Dundee’s Tylor Orrison. He won his first two matches by pinfall.

Zolen Marron (215) placed third.

After taking a halftime lead, the Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball team suffered a tough third quarter, and couldn’t overcome the deficit in the fourth, resulting in a 41-36 road loss to Corunna on Friday night.

The kids played well.” Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball coach Brian McInerney said.

A steal: A steal represents a team that scores points despite not having the hammer. Watch- ing US curling matches you see steals all of the time. Generally its watching our opposition steal points from the ol’ red, white and blue.

That’s enough of the regular stuff. Now I’ll give you some terms I’ve made up over the years, terms that have meaning when you are a hack like me in an amateur league.

Collection plate: This is when all of the stones end up in a meaningless spot because teams keep missing the same shot. Usually this happens in front of the house. You won’t see this happen much in the Olympics, but it happens a lot in amateur league play.

A three-fifths shot: All curling shots are graded on a four-point scale and then a percentage is created based on the points earned divided by total points possible. In a lot of ways, the typical school grading system works really well for pro matches — an A is 90 percent or better, a B 80 percent or better.... However for amateur hacks the grading system is a little unfair. Many of our reasonably workable shots would grade out a two out of four (50 percent), which means failing, but in many cases those are decent workable shots for amateur competition. So I changed the name to a three-fifths shot. In our league if every shot your team made was a three-fifths shot, there’s a good chance you will win, despite the fact it doesn’t grade well. So basically this is just a nice way for me to feel better about mediocre shots.

A Team Canada shot: A great shot that people usually expect out of Team Canada, since Canada is the curling power of the world. We don’t have many Team Canada shots in my leagues at Midland.

A Team America shot: This is a lousy shot that you are basically embarrassed to say you just made. You will see many of these shots in our league, but unfortunately, you’ll see them from Team USA frequently during the Olympics.

Take us with you when you go!
