Meal planning, opting for healthy and organic ingredients a good start

Please don’t ignore my email

One of my favorite conveniences as a writer for the Tri-County Times is the ability to ask my questions and receive answers via email. The benefits are many, at least in my opinion.

First, I know how busy the people I need to be in contact with are, because I am busy too. Personally I think it’s kind of arrogant to call, on the phone, a very busy city manager, school superintendent or other prominent member of the community and expect them to drop whatever they are doing right now and answer my questions. If I send my questions via email, they at least have time to think about their answer or do any checking or information before they get back to me. Am I wrong?

The other reason I like to email is that it eliminates any claims like, “I didn’t say that. You misquoted me.” If the response is in writing, there is no problem. “Yes, you did say that. Here, I’ll show you.”

I understand that not all people like to email and prefer the phone call, which is fine. After many years in the newspaper business, you get to know who will email and who prefers the phone call.

For example, one former school superintendent, Lake Fenton’s Ralph Coastal, who sadly passed away too soon a few years ago, was an emailer all the way. You could call that man, leave a message and celebrate your next birthday waiting for him to call you back. But if you sent him an email, he was on it within minutes, every time. He was great!

Other people are just the opposite, but they will have the decency to email back and say “call me.” OK, I can do that, no worries.

When I ask people if they got my email, or why they didn’t respond, many will say, “Oh, I’m sorry, you have no idea how many emails I get in a day. It just takes so long to go through them.” That tells me you saw my name as the sender, but couldn’t be bothered.

Others will say, “I’ve just been so busy, I haven’t had time to answer your email.”

Others still will say things like, “Why do you give me such short notice? I need more time to answer. How about next week?”

We work on strict deadlines here. If we don’t get the information we need, we will usually publish the article anyway because it is news and you couldn’t be reached, which is not a good thing, especially if you’re an elected official. We don’t have a choice but to move on and your story, no matter how nice it is, will have to wait.

That’s true if we’re waiting for a return phone call or an email.

The people I work with in the community have very important jobs. However, my job is very important, too. Please don’t ignore my emails, especially when I am trying to help you by providing accurate information or telling your wonderful story.

March 18

1937: Nearly 600 students in Texas are killed by an explosion of natural gas at their school. The Consolidated School of New London, Texas, sat in the middle of a large oil and natural gas field. The area was dominated by 10,000 oil derricks, 11 of which stood right on school grounds. At 3:05 p.m. on March 18, 1937, a Thursday afternoon, the 694 students and 40 teachers in attendance were looking forward to the final bell, which was to ring in 10 minutes. Instead, a huge and powerful explosion, which literally blew the roof off of the building, leveled the school. The blast was felt by people 40 miles away and killed most victims instantly.

MARCH 19

2003: The United States, along with coalition forces primarily from the United Kingdom, initiates war on Iraq. Just after explosions began to rock Baghdad, Iraq’s capital, U.S. President George W. Bush announced in a televised address, “At this hour, American and coalition forces are in the early stages of military operations to disarm Iraq, to free its people and to defend the world from grave danger.” President Bush and his advisors built much of their case for war on the idea that Iraq, under dictator Saddam Hussein, possessed or was in the process of building weapons of mass destruction.

MARCH 20

1995: Several packages of deadly sarin gas were set off in the Tokyo subway system killing 12 people and injuring over 5,000. Sarin gas was invented by the Nazis and is one of the most lethal nerve gases known to man. Tokyo police quickly learned who had planted the chemical weapons and began tracking the terrorists. Thousands of checkpoints were set up across the nation in the massive dragnet.

March 21

1963: Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco Bay closes down and transfers its last prisoners. At its peak in the 1950s, “The Rock,” or “America’s Devil Island” housed more than 200 inmates at the maximum-security facility. Alcatraz remains an icon of American prisons for its harsh conditions and record for being inescapable.

MARCH 22

1933: President Franklin D. Roosevelt signs the Beer and Wine Revenue Act. This law levies a federal tax on all alcoholic beverages to raise revenue for the federal government and gives individual states the option to further regulate the sale and distribution of beer and wine.

MARCH 23

2011: Actress Elizabeth Taylor, who appeared in more than 50 films, won two Academy Awards and was synonymous with Hollywood glamour, died of congestive heart failure at a Los Angeles hospital at age 79. The violet-eyed Taylor began her acting career as a child and spent most of her life in the spotlight. Known for her striking beauty, she was married eight times and later in life became a prominent HIV/AIDS activist.

MARCH 24

1958: When Elvis Presley turned 18 on Jan. 8, 1953, he fulfilled his patriotic duty and legal obligation to register his name with the Selective Service System, thereby making him eligible for the draft. The Korean War was still underway at the time. After a couple deferments, Elvis Presley was finally inducted on March 24, 1958, starting his day as the King of Rock and Roll, but ending it as a lowly buck private in the United States Army.

BRIAN MAY
(lead guitarist for Queen and astrophysicist)
Brian May is revered around the world as the lead guitarist of Queen, one of the most iconic rock n’ roll bands of all time. Queen’s ascent was stratospheric, their reign imperial in its reach. Their music video for Bohemian Rhapsody is said to be, perhaps, the most influential music video of all time. What people usually don’t know is that Brian May is also an active and accomplished astrophysicist.

Yes, as though musical world domination were not quite enough of an accomplishment, legendary rock star not quite prestigious enough a title, Dr. Brian May — as in doctorate in astrophysics — has not only bent genres, but apparently space-time as well.

JAMIE LEE CURTIS
(actress and patented inventor)
Jamie Lee Curtis isn’t just a talented actress and philanthropist — she is also a patented inventor. In 1987, Curtis was granted a patent for her invention of a diaper with a built-in waterproof compartment for baby wipes. However, the actress refused to have her diaper manufactured until companies started making biodegradable diapers, and her patent expired before this happened.

Steve Martin is known for his hilarious comedy and acting ability, but he has also been recognized for his ability at playing the banjo. Martin picked up a banjo when he was 17 and never put it down. Even while starring in blockbuster movies, Martin has released numerous bluegrass albums, and has featured his banjo playing on his comedy albums as well. In 2010, Martin won a Grammy for Best Bluegrass Album for his album “The Crow; New Songs for the 5-String Banjo.”

(American singer and accomplished painter)
Anthony Dominick Benedetto known professionally as Tony Bennett, is an American singer of traditional pop standards, big band, show tunes, and jazz. He is also a painter, having created works under the name Anthony Benedetto that are on permanent public display in several institutions. He was chosen as the official artist for the 2001 Kentucky Derby, and was commissioned by the United Nations to do two paintings, including one for its fiftieth anniversary. His paintings and drawings have been featured in “ART-news” and other magazines, and sell for as much as $80,000 apiece.

EVA LONGORIA
(actress and restaurateur)
Her “Desperate Housewives” character Gabby may have avoided the kitchen at all costs, but Longoria owns multiple restaurants, including Beso in Hollywood (with chef Todd English) and SHe in Las Vegas, and has been a guest judge on Food Network Star and MasterChef. And she’s not just a restaurant owner in name. According to MasterChef judge and restaurateur Joe Bastianich, Longoria is a “serious restaurateur” who “knows food and the nuances that make this industry so trying.”

TAYLOR LAUTNER
(Twilight star, martial arts champion)
Taylor Lautner, the “Twilight” star, is a martial arts champion who received his black belt at the age of 8. Lautner has displayed his skills at the martial arts in various films and interviews.

DEAR GREAT BRITAIN, thank you for having the guts to stick up to that big Russian bully who’s been kicking us around for a long time. Signed, Uncle Sam.

A FAMOUS MAN once said, ‘A lack of communication will create wars.’ No one talks to each other anymore. Children are talking through texting. All we’re saying is give peace a chance. Love everybody. We’re all important, all lives matter. Put away the electronic devices and talk to each other.

WELL, FIRST IT was abortion, then the LGBT movement, and now school shoot- ings. What is the next thing the media will capitalize on to stir up trouble? One thing you can be certain of is that people will react with their emotions and not common sense.

I’M GETTING A KICK out of all these pun- dits saying there’s going to be a trade war, there’s not going to be a trade war. They’ve had it like this for the last 60 years. Trump is just leveling the playing field like he should, like he promised. I think I know how Hillary Clinton got $400 billion in her foundation.

I BELIEVE THIS. Any one of my neighbors would help me if I needed any sort of help. Do you even know your neighbor’s name? I know so many people in the town that I live in, and I believe that people will help each other if you just ask them. All lives matter. I understand this ‘me too’ move- ment. If you’ve ever been raped, which I have been, you would understand, too. Some people just don’t get it.

Nothing in this Ordinance shall prevent or restrict the City from issuing a municipal civil infraction citation for any violation or from prosecuting any violation in a court of competent jurisdiction. The unwillingness of any person to dispose of any violation at the Bureau shall not prejudice the person or in any way diminish the person’s rights, privileges and protection accorded by law.

(d) Bureau Limited to Accepting Admissions of Responsibility. The scope of the Bureau’s authority shall be limited to accepting admissions of responsibility for municipal civil infractions and collecting and retaining fines and costs as a result of those admissions. The Bureau shall not accept payment of a fine from any person who denies having committed the offense or who admits responsibility only with explanation, and in no event shall the Bureau determine, or attempt to determine, the truth or falsity of any fact or matter relating to an alleged violation.

Municipal civil infraction violation notices shall be issued and served by authorized City officials under the same circumstances and upon the same persons as provided for citations as provided in this ordinance. In addition to any other information required by this or any other ordinance of the City, the notice of violation shall indicate the time by which the alleged violator must appear at the Bureau, the methods by which an appearance may be made, the address and telephone number of the Bureau, the hours during which the Bureau is open, the amount of the fine scheduled for the alleged violation, and the consequences for failure to appear and pay the required fine within the required time.

(f) Appearance; Payment of Fines and Costs. If an authorized City official issues and serves a municipal ordinance violation notice and if an admission of responsibility is not made and the civil fine and costs, if any, prescribed by the schedule of fines for the violation are not paid at the Bureau, a municipal civil infraction citation may be filed with district court and a copy of the citation may be served by first class mail upon the alleged violator at the alleged violator’s last known address. The citation filed with the court does not need to comply in all particulars with the requirements for citations as provided by Sections 6705 and 6708 [MCL 600.6705 and 600.6708] of the Act, but shall consist of a sworn complaint containing the allegations stated in the municipal ordinance violation notice and shall fairly inform the alleged violator how to respond to the citation.

As used in this section, “repeat offense” means any subsequent municipal infraction violation of the same requirement or provision (i) committed by a person within any twelve-month period (unless some other period is specifically provided by this or any other City ordinance) and (ii) for which the person admits responsibility or is determined to be responsible. Unless otherwise specified by resolution of City Council, the increased fine for a repeat offense shall be as follows:

(i) A second repeat offense shall be no less than $100.00, plus costs.

(ii) A third repeat offense shall be no less than $200.00, plus costs.

(iii) A “violation” includes any act which is prohibited or made or declared to be unlawful or an offense by this or any other City ordinance; and any omission or failure to act where the act is required by this or any other City ordinance.

(iv) Each day on which any violation of this or any other City ordinance continues constitutes a separate offense and shall be subject to penalties or sanctions as a separate offense.

Making healthy changes to meals

BREAKFAST: Gartland suggests cooking something high in lean protein and whole grains to keep hunger away until lunch.

Van Pelt suggests: switching to healthier versions of the same food over time. Stop buying instant oatmeal, and “squishy” (soft, white) bread. Buy healthier versions of those, like bakery bread and oatmeal that doesn’t include flavoring. Instead, add your own cinnamon and unprocessed sugar. “You’re still monitoring what you eat,” she said. “It’s not going to change overnight.”

LUNCH: Gartland suggests eating something higher in fiber and vegetables and lower in sugar and fat to avoid the calorie/sugar crash.

Van Pelt suggests avoiding processed lunch meats and bleached breads. Or better yet, wrap your lunch in organic romaine lettuce. Substitute out less healthy items over time.

DINNER: Gartland suggests something with a good balance of protein, vegetables and complex carbohydrates. “Try to focus on keeping vegetables the higher focus at dinner,” he said.

Van Pelt suggests avoiding tilapia for a protein, and instead buy cod or salmon. As a rule, go for lean meat. She said the leanest is rabbit, but this isn’t usually readily available at VG’s. Lessening starches for greens is also a good rule.

SUBSCRIPTION SERVICES
For a revolving price, companies will send you a complete meal in a box — you just have to follow the instructions to cook it. Gartland likes these meals because it can lead to someone learning about cooking and taking on more recipes themselves.

Example: HelloFresh.com has a variety of plans, which can average $9.99 per serving, depending on the plate and number of meals per week. Featured options include chicken cheddar fajitas and one-pan orzo Italiano. BlueApron.com is another popular service.

ORGANIC FOOD SUBSCRIPTIONS
Van Pelt also buys food items from an organic subscription service, which buys from local farmers. Go to foodclub.org/authenticprovisions to learn more.
