DESTINATION weddings

“Keep it
small, make it a really great experience.”

Jon Gerych
Gerych's Distinctive
Flowers & Gifts owner

Start planning early

By Hannah Ball

hball@tctimes.com; 810-433-6792

The tri-county area offers numerous beautiful venues for weddings, but there are people who want to travel for their nuptials.

Jon Gerych, owner of Gerych's Distinctive Flowers & Gifts, said they have been planning weddings for 50 years and destination weddings for 15 years.

“Destination weddings are a bit more complicated than a wedding in Fenton or Grand Blanc for the logistics and site checks and time that's involved,” he said.

Popular spots include Maine, Florida or California where people can get married on the ocean, in a warehouse or in a valley.

1. Keep it small

Gerych recommends inviting maybe 50 to 70 people.

“Keep it small, make it a really great experience,” he said. “Plan a whole weekend of different experiences. Plan it around your closest friends and relatives and just make it a great experience.”

He said people have the main event at their destination and then come back to Fenton and throw another party for their friends here.

2. Plan earlier than you think

“Plan out at least a year in advance,” he said, adding that it depends on where you're going, the entertainment you want and the culinary experience you hope for.

3. Communicate with guests

Gerych said to make sure the guests know the plans.

“You want to make sure your guests are aware of it, that it's going to be a destination wedding. They're going to plan and make a whole weekend out of it, sometimes a week,” he said.

Our Barbara Bush moment

On Tuesday, April 17, we lost someone special, who in my opinion had more class and dignity than any woman in U.S. history — Barbara Bush.

The former first lady, who was 92, went out in style in her Texas home, surrounded by her loved ones, including her husband, former President George H. Bush, her son, former President George W. Bush, and the rest of her family.

In addition to being a loving wife, mother and grandmother, she was a staunch advocate for literacy, especially among children. What I liked about her best was her great sense of humor.

We had the pleasure of seeing her and the President in the summer of 1992, when the President's train came through the village of Holly.

At the time, I was working for the now gone, goodbye Flint Area Newspapers, and was given a ticket to see the Bush's in the roped off V.I.P. area in the downtown where the train was to stop.

My ticket was technically just for me so I could report on the event and take a few pictures. But I couldn't resist bringing my husband and two little boys along.

Sean was only 2-1/2 years old at the time and Willy was just 4 months old. It is very uncharacteristic for my husband to agree to things like this. Even though it didn't happen, I suspect he said okay this time because of a very remote possibility of seeing Clint Eastwood, who was filming part of the movie "In the Line of Fire," on top of the Holly Hotel.

The movie, released in July of 1993 was about a Secret Service agent, played by Eastwood, who was taunted by a would-be killer who said he (Eastwood) failed to save President John F. Kennedy from assassination. Eastwood was determined not to let history repeat itself. Anyway, this all coincided with the former President's train visiting Holly.

When we got to the V.I.P. area, it was obvious that we were the only ones going in with small children, but no one seemed to mind.

Baby Willy, who was in his stroller, slept through the whole thing. Sean, on the other hand, was totally cute in his little blue shorts and Chicago Cubs T-shirt (hey, it was red, white and blue). At the time, he still had a messy head of beautiful blond hair.

Sean had the catbird seat, sitting on Dad's shoulders. When the presidential train arrived, we were thrilled when George and Barbara Bush came outside of the last car and shouted out and waved to the crowd.

Barbara Bush smiled so beautifully as she scanned all of the people around her. We were no more than 15 feet away. Sean was waving a little American flag and I could swear she looked right at him, smiled and waved. At least I like to think so.

Neither of my kids remembers this, but I still have the V.I.P. ticket to prove it so they can someday tell their kids about it.

I'll always have fond memories of that day. Rest in peace, Mrs. Bush.

Molly Waite, a 2009 Fenton High School graduate, is getting married to her fiancé in The Netherlands in August and told her guests about it over a year ago. She moved there to be with him and they have been together for five years.

"We knew from the moment we got engaged that we were going to get married here. We told our guests when we announced our engagement."

Molly Waite

5. Arrive a few days before everyone else

Getting to the destination a few days before everyone else gives you time to prepare items that you might not be able to travel with. You can make gift baskets for guests using local items and set up decorations beforehand.

6. Understand that your guests will want to explore

Waite said of the 21 people from the U.S. invited to the wedding, most of the international guests said they're going to make a vacation out of it and travel Europe before or after the wedding. "We're also planning some fun activities for our friends the day or two before the wedding. I don't get to see my friends and family often, so I want to make the most of the time I'll have with them," she said. Because half of their guests live thousands of miles away, Waite said they aren't asking for gifts.

"The best gift will be having them with us on the big day. The whole point of this is to celebrate our marriage with our friends and family," she said.

4. Visit the location in advance

Most of their couples who want destination weddings know what kind of venue they want, Gerych said, but it's important to do a site check before deciding on the location. This is when the bride and groom visit the location, meet with the venue management, decide on the look and feel, and learn the do's and don'ts of the venue.

FUNNIEST GOLF MOMENTS IN HISTORY

By Vera Hogan • vhogan@tctimes.com; 810-433-6823

Whether they took place on actual golf courses, or in front of a Hollywood camera, the following are among the funniest golf moments in history, according to golfdigest.com

◀ DORF ON GOLF

Besides maybe Ian Woosnam, there's no more famous diminutive golfer than Dorf, played by Tim Conway in the 1987 instructional movie "Dorf on Golf." With a bad hairpiece and worse Swedish accent, Conway plays the part standing in a hole and wearing golf shoes on his knees to appear 4 feet tall.

◀ ANIMAL HOUSE

In the 1978 comedy "Animal House," upon seeing rival Doug Neidermeyer taking one of their pledges to task, Otter and Boon of Delta House smack the pompous jerk upside the head (and his horse in the rump) with two stiffed shots.

▼ 'JACKASS' AIRHORN

If the prank happened to you, you'd be angry. But when you're watching Johnny Knoxville and crew in "Jackass: The Movie" hide in the bushes and airhorn-blast other unsuspecting golfers in their backswings, it's hysterical.

◀ THE MUNSTERS

In one episode of the 1960s sitcom "The Munsters," the Frankenstein-like character Herman causes mayhem on a golf course, including making doormat-size divots (flown past the camera using primitive Hollywood trickery).

▼ THE CADDY

In the 1953 classic "The Caddy," Jerry Lewis plays Harvey, the son of a famous golf pro who wants him to be a tournament player. But Harvey is afraid of crowds and becomes a teaching pro. His best student, played by Dean Martin, gets good enough to join the tour, with Harvey as his caddy. The two have a fight during a tournament so uproarious that they're advised to get into show business, whereupon they meet another comedy team known as Martin and Lewis.

▼ PEBBLE BEACH 'CLIFFHANGER'

The late actor Jack Lemmon missed the cut in all 25 of the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Ams he played, but not for a lack of trying. His hard-luck story was best exemplified in 1987 when he attempted a dangerous cliff-side shot at Cypress Point. To keep him from falling, playing partners Clint Eastwood, Peter Jacobsen, Greg Norman (and Norman's caddy, Pete Bender) formed a human anchor by holding onto one another's belts. Lemmon swung and put the ball back in the fairway, but, as was his custom, shanked the next one into the ocean.

THE GOLF SPECIALIST

The 1930 short film "The Golf Specialist" stars W.C. Fields as a con man in a hotel who purports to be teaching the house detective's wife to play golf.

The Lindley is a ranch-style cottage with eye-catching Craftsman accents. Its slender profile allows it to fit neatly on a narrow width lot. The open, single level floor plan makes it well-suited for wheelchair accessibility. Raised trim ornaments the clean-lined wooden posts that support and highlight the front porch. Board and batt siding fills the ends of the low-sloped gables, and decorative corbels underscore the gable-end projections. As you enter, the three interconnected family gathering spaces spread out before you, creating a surprising sense of spaciousness. A coat closet is to the right while the opposite door offers a direct link to the garage. The living room flows into a dining area that is open to the kitchen. Each of these three areas has a side window, with the sliding glass doors in the dining room being the largest. These offer access to a covered patio. Twin sets of slender wooden posts support the patio roof. A long eating bar rims one edge of the peninsular kitchen counter. This feature is also ideal for the supervision of homework, and for keeping family members and guests out from underfoot while they chat with the kitchen crew.

Treating matting more easily

Long-haired dogs need greater attention in regard to grooming so they do not develop mats.

Long-haired dogs can be beautiful to behold, but their lustrous locks require more grooming than short-fur breeds. If tangles are left to their own devices, a condition called matting can occur. Matting is not only a hassle for pet owners, but also uncomfortable for dogs. Understanding matting can help pet owners stay on top of the problem so dogs stay healthy and look their best.

Unlike other dogs that shed hair that falls out and congregates around the house like fuzzy tumbleweeds, some long-haired breeds shed hair into their undercoats, which can contribute to mats. Poodles, bichon frises and cocker spaniels are prone to matting. Other breeds, such as Yorkshire terriers and malteses, have single soft coats that tend to tangle quite easily and are susceptible to matting as well.

Mats tend to form underneath the fur and quite close to the skin, and in areas of friction, such as under the collar, behind the ears or on the lower legs. Light daily brushing may not reach the matting. Long-haired breeds often need detailed grooming so mats can be uncovered and addressed early on before they contribute to greater problems.

Grooming experts and even vets warn that matting is not just a cosmetic problem. Over time, severe matting can tug endlessly at the skin and deny fresh air and stimulation to areas of the dog's body. This can lead to rashes or sores.

Furthermore, mats can harbor bacteria, feces, parasites, and dirt, creating an unsanitary situation for the dog, says Melissa Verplank, president of the Paragon School of Pet Grooming.

Treating matted dog hair requires a few strategies.

- Prevention is the best solution, so dampening the fur with a detangling spray and using a slick brush that will detangle fur every day will help. Separate sections of fur and gently lift and brush away tangles.
- If mats are already present, retailers offer dematting tools and mat-splitting devices that will gently slice and separate the mat without tugging too much on the pet's fur and skin.
- Shampoo the dog with a conditioning product to wash away any dirt and debris accumulation in the fur.
- If matting is extensive, or if it is proving troublesome to handle the task alone, a professional groomer may be needed. If he or she determines that the mats are just too dense to comb out, it may be necessary to use hair clippers to trim away the mats. Groomers have the expertise to delicately cut away mats and avoid nicking the skin.

Dogs prone to matting are those with longer hair that sheds readily. Pet owners can discuss grooming treatments and brushing regimens to keep mats from becoming a headache for all involved.

Out of nowhere, Katja's life falls apart when her husband Nuri and little son Rocco are killed in a bomb attack. Her friends and family try to give her the support she needs, and Katja somehow manages to make it through the funeral. But the mind numbing search for the perpetrators and reasons behind the senseless killing complicate Katja's painful mourning, opening wounds and doubts. Danilo, a lawyer and Nuri's best friend, represents Katja in the eventual trial against the two suspects: a young couple from the neo-Nazi scene. The trial pushes Katja to the edge, but there's simply no alternative for her: she wants justice. R, 1 hr. 46 min.

FARRO SALAD

A light and delicious way to get your whole grains.

INGREDIENTS

- 2 cups farro
- 3/4 pound fresh asparagus, trimmed
- 1 cup red & yellow cherry tomatoes, halved
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 3/4 cup dried cranberries
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1/3 cup chopped fresh chives
- 1/4 cup balsamic vinaigrette, or to taste
- 1 cup shaved parmesan cheese, divided

DIRECTIONS

Soak farro in a large bowl of water for at least 12 hours. Drain Fill a large pot with lightly salted water and bring to a rolling boil over high heat. Once the water is boiling, stir in the drained farro, and return to a boil. Reduce heat to medium, then cook the farro uncovered, stirring occasionally for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to low, cover, and continue simmering until tender, about 30 more minutes. Drain and allow to cool. Bring a large pot of lightly salted water to a boil. Add the asparagus, and cook uncovered until tender, about 3 minutes. Drain in a colander, then immediately immerse in ice water for several minutes until cold to stop the cooking process. Once the asparagus is cold, drain well, and chop. Set aside. Place farro, asparagus, tomatoes, walnuts, cranberries, parsley, and chives in a large bowl. Drizzle the balsamic vinaigrette over and sprinkle about 3/4 cups Parmesan cheese, then toss. Top with the remaining 1/4 cup of Parmesan cheese. Serve at room temperature.
