Magazines surviving, even thriving, in digital age

■ Number of U.S. magazines steady since 2008

By Hannah Ball

Every month, postal workers put copies of Cosmopolitan, People, Men's Health and more in the mailboxes of millions of Americans. But do Americans still read print magazines?

Print magazines used to be the chosen medium for the public to learn about fashion trends, read in-depth interviews with celebrities, and devour articles about recipes, housekeeping, cooking, cars, guns and more.

In the digital age, the demand for print magazines has decreased, but magazines are still holding strong.

According to the Audit Bureau of Circulations, which is comprised of hundreds of print media companies and brand names, overall print circulation dropped 5 percent in the last half of 2017. However, online readership for consumer magazines increased by 37 percent. This could point toward a trend that favors digital media over print.

While Allied Media, a Fenton company that prints 25,000 to 50,000 mailers for numerous companies every month, doesn't print huge magazines, the company has not experienced a drop in print mailers.

"The hard truth is people want to feel a piece of paper in their hand," said Production Manager Randall Rockman. "I would not say our numbers are going down. If anything, they're going up."

He said the digital world has not hurt them.

"We are still printing. People need print, they need pieces in their mailbox. It's like a book person. They don't want to read on a Kindle, they want a real book in their hand," he said.

“People need print, they need pieces in their mailbox.”

What types of magazines are currently popular?

The number of magazines in the U.S. has been steady since 2008 with approximately 7,300 magazines, according to statista.com. While some magazines failed, some saw improved circulation in the last half of 2017.

Women's weekly magazines were hit hard with a circulation drop of 11 percent. Magazines about retirement fell 14 percent, and motoring and motorcycling dropped 6 percent.

Certain sectors saw an increase in circulation. This includes men's lifestyle, which grew 6 percent, literature grew 10 percent, camping/walking/climbing grew 4 percent, and photography is up by 4 percent. Even holiday and travel are up 3 percent, and equestrian magazine circulation is up 2 percent.

Interests over current news

In explaining these numbers, Graham Martin, head of publishing at Total Media, told Mediatel Newslane that consumers currently prefer to read about specialized interests instead of current affairs. He said the "bad news" culture causes people to become "fatigued by the same types of news stories dominating the agenda."

According to a study presented by The Association of Magazine Media (AMM), print magazines are still valued because reading on paper is slower, and people retain more information when they read something printed. Other reasons named are stimulating emotions and desires, magazines promote sensory involvement, which contributes to reader impact and it promotes more focus and less distraction while reading.

Some experts surmise print magazines could become like vinyl records, with a cult following of passionate readers.

SUMMARY

■ Print magazines saw a 5-percent decrease in circulation. However, popular magazines regularly have more than 80 million readers.

ARETHA FRANKLIN
1942-2018

Compiled by Alyssa Booten

Growing up in her father's Detroit church

Aretha Franklin was an artist of passion, sophistication and command, whose recordings remain anthems that defined soul music. In her sprawling career, Franklin has taken on many roles—the devout gospel singer, the sensual R&B siren, the pop crossover phenom, Lady Soul—and dominated them all.

Here are some facts about the late

QUEEN OF SOUL.

CAREER DEFINING SONGS:

'The Weight'

'Baby I Love You'

'I Never Loved a Man (The Way I Love You)'

'(You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman'

'Respect'

'Climbing Higher Mountains'

'Chain of Fools'

'Think'

'Day Dreaming'

'Call Me'

Aretha Franklin landed 88 songs on the U.S. pop singles charts.

She taught herself piano without knowing how to read music

Franklin's mother was a singer and pianist, so it should come as no surprise that tickling the ivories came naturally to Franklin. "I play by ear," she said.

She performed at the inaugurations of three presidents

Franklin performed "God Bless America" at Jimmy Carter's night-before-the-inauguration celebration at the Kennedy Center in 1977. Sixteen years later, Franklin headlined a two-hour concert during Bill Clinton's inauguration festivities. She sang a goosebump-inducing version of "I Dreamed a Dream" from Les Misérables. And in 2009, she sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" at Barack Obama's inauguration.

She was the first woman INDUCTED INTO THE ROCK AND ROLL HALL OF FAME

In 1987, Franklin became the first female to join the ranks of Elvis Presley, Frank Sinatra, Ray Charles, and Little Richard as an inductee into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. While she was not in attendance at the ceremony, her brother accepted the award on her behalf.

"This is the greatest night of them all because Aretha has been written into history," he said.

She acted in only one movie in her career

The Queen of Soul meets the Soul Men! Franklin played Mrs. Murphy, the wife of Blue Brother's lead guitarist Matt "Guitar" Murphy, in 1980's Blues Brothers. In the movie, she sang a new, longer version of her 1968 hit, "Think."

She's childhood friends with Smokey Robinson

Growing up in Detroit, the "Tracks of My Tears" singer was best friends with Franklin's brother and the two quickly formed their own friendship. "This morning my longest friend in this world went home to be with our father. I will miss her so much but I know she's at peace," Robinson said about the singer's passing.

"The Blues Brothers was something I enjoyed making tremendously," Franklin wrote in her autobiography, Aretha Franklin: The Queen of Soul.

"It was my debut in film."

Just sayin'...

vhogan@tctimes.com

There is still a killer out there

Another American family is mourning the loss this week of their precious daughter, who was stalked and murdered while jogging on a rural Iowa road.

That young lady was 20-year-old Mollie Tibbetts. Her killer was apprehended immediately, confessed to the crime, led authorities to her body, and was charged with first-degree murder.

I watched the press conference last week, led by Agent Rick Rahn with the Iowa DCI (Division of Criminal Investigation). The last question a reporter asked Rahn was what advice he had for young joggers to prevent this from happening again.

Rahn said certainly, joggers should not be running alone, but added, "This is a small community, where everyone knows everyone and she has been running here for years." He said it's really a tragic event and he would hope it wouldn't occur again at any time in the near future — and he left the podium.

How about NEVER again, Agent Rahn!

He missed a golden opportunity to take a few extra minutes and provide some life-saving advice in front of TV, radio and newspaper reporters, and millions of viewers watching the press conference live on TV.

With the exception of immediately arresting her killer, this reminds me of our own now 2-year-old case involving the brutal attack on Alexandra "Ally" Brueger, who was shot and killed while jogging on Fish Lake Road in Rose Township on July 30, 2016.

Shortly after the murder, the Michigan State Police, specifically F/Lt. Michael Shaw stated that they believed the killer was likely someone Ally knew. Her parents, Franz and Nikki Brueger, said they believe that statement was irresponsible and likely resulted in countless tips not being reported by people who may have information — especially if it led to a stranger.

Ally's killer is still at large today and MSP is no longer saying it was likely someone she knew. It could be anyone. Everyone, except her parents, is a suspect.

With school in Fenton starting Tuesday, I am once again worried about the kids who live in rural areas, waiting on dirt back roads for the school bus to arrive. Some of the kids on Fish Lake Road attend Fenton Area Public Schools.

Ally Brueger was 4 feet, 9 inches tall and weighed 98 pounds. Even though Ally was 31 years old, her mother said she looked like a 12-year-old child from the back. What kind of person would shoot a child in the back she often asks. In his most recent interview in July, Shaw said, "Yes, there is a killer out there. Someone knows who it is and hasn't come forward yet. We need that one missing piece to solve this investigation."

Anyone with information is asked to call 800 MICH TIP (800-642-4847). Crime Stoppers of Michigan is offering up to $8,500 for tips leading to the arrest of a suspect in Brueger's murder. The U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, or ATF, is offering $5,000. Anyone with information can submit a tip anonymously by calling

1-800-SPEAKUP.

To the people who still jog and walk on local, rural back roads, and to the kids waiting for school buses, please be careful and aware of your surroundings at all times. There's still a killer out there!

DEAR BREASTFEEDING MOTHERS

don't you know approximately when your child will be hungry again after the last feeding? If so, you can be in the quiet of your home, not in the busy mall, swimming pool, sporting event and so on. Wouldn't it be more soothing for both you and baby to sit and feel the love quietly? Think about it.

IF THE KING wrote about any other group the way he writes about women, the Tri-County Times would be sued. What a terrible message you are sending to our daughters.

THANK YOU TO Nancy who sets up all the concerts, the Fenton ArtWalk, and all the other amazing activities for families in Fenton and Linden. You always seem to be smiling and loving what you are doing.

THERE ARE NINE references to the president in scripture.

SOCIALISTS SUPPORT GOVERNMENT control of the economy and private property. Democratic Socialists support government control of the economy and private property; plus co-opting the word Democratic to hide their socialist belief.

IF YOUR BOSS wants to pay you less than minimum wage, then just maybe you deserve less. Try looking in the mirror before asking for a government forced pay raise.

PERFECT EXAMPLES OF Democratic Socialist societies: North Korea, Zimbabwe, Sudan and Venezuela. Democratically elected leaders run all four countries; all four feature state ownership of the means of production.

ARE THERE ANY thankful, happy people in this town? Fenton is a great place to live, with great leaders and an awesome police force. To all you hot line complainers — grow up.

NO STATE FUNDING for roads? Secretary of State increases won't help until 2020. Will they reimburse Fenton at that time? Will Fenton reimburse us?

Pet-friendly business is booming

If the sound of whimpers and the sight of sad puppy dog eyes have pet owners rethinking their decision to leave their furry friends behind when hitting the town, it may come as a relief to such owners that more and more businesses are becoming pet-friendly.

There was a time when pets were boarded while their owners went on vacation or left to their own devices while the family went shopping or out for a bite to eat. But this is no longer the case. Businesses are recognizing that people want to spend time with their pets, and, as a result, a growing number of restaurants, shopping centers, hotels, and other businesses are becoming pet-friendly.

Restaurant Insider says that dog ownership has gone up by 6 percent in the last few years, and ASPCA states that just under half of all households in the United States include a dog. Although not every pet owner wants to dine or vacation with his or her pooch, many are inclined to do so. Lodging magazine says that many pet owners consider their pets part of their families, and around 10 percent of travelers are inclined to travel with their feline and canine companions.

Although there are no hard statistics indicating just how many businesses are pet-friendly, and whether or not such policies are good for business, it's fair to assume that opening doors to pets can benefit some business owners' bottom lines. People who do not have to rush home to a pet may stay at a restaurant a little longer than they otherwise would, and vacationers may extend their trips if their furry friend is with them instead of sitting in a kennel back home.

In the United States, the only federal law regarding pets in public establishments is the Americans with Disabilities Act, which allows for service dogs to go anywhere the public is normally allowed to go. In terms of general laws welcoming pets, it's largely up to individual states. In many eateries, pets are limited to outdoor spaces.

"The bill Dining with Dogs, which recently passed both the Assembly and State Senate in New York City, mimics a similar California law," says Judie Mancuso, founder and president of Social Compassion in Legislation. "It allows restaurants that have outdoor areas to open them up to their patron's dogs if they so choose to."

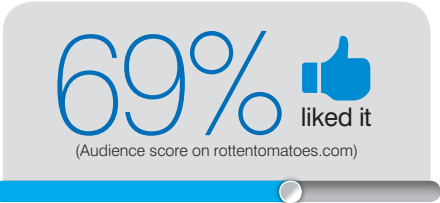

The law also established specific guidelines for restaurants to follow to ensure health and safety codes.

Pet owners can rely on a bevy of apps and websites to find pet-friendly establishments. Bringfido.com, Dogtrekker.com, Dogsniffer.com, Pettravel.com, TakeYourPet.com, and many others make it easy for pet owners to find pet-friendly businesses.

Businesses that cater to families and pets can capitalize on their customers' love of spending time with their pets.

- 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1 lemon, juiced
- 2 tablespoons hot pepper sauce
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 pounds large shrimp, peeled and deveined with tails attached
- skewers

DIRECTIONS

In a mixing bowl, mix together olive oil, parsley, lemon juice, hot sauce, garlic, tomato paste, oregano, salt, and black pepper. Reserve a small amount for basting later. Pour remaining marinade into a large resealable plastic bag with shrimp. Seal, and marinate in the refrigerator for 2 hours. Preheat grill for medium-low heat.
