T.J. Maxx, Petco, Five Below and more will bring more than 100 new jobs to Fenton

By Vera Hogan

The process of getting the Kmart building on Silver Parkway ready for its new occupants is moving right along.

Planning Consultant Carmine Avantini of CIB Planning, Inc. said he will be attending a landscaping meeting next week relative to this project.

According to city of Fenton records, the Kmart property, located on 12.7 acres in Silver Lake Village, was officially purchased by K2 Construction Retail Services of Wixom from the Kmart Corporation on July 17, for $2.8 million.

The 128,914-square-foot building was

Fenton 911 surcharge funds ‘held hostage’ by county

City penalized $32,000 annually for not joining consortium

By Vera Hogan

It should be easy. The state of Michigan cuts a check to Genesee County, and Genesee County in turn cuts a check to the city of Fenton.

Not so, when it comes to getting back the 9-1-1 surcharge money the city has coming to it.

Genesee County voters passed the 9-1-1 System Funding increase by a vote of 12,125 to 8,933 in the May 2, 2017 special election.

The city of Fenton is the only municipality in Genesee County with its own emergency dispatch center, and is being penalized for not being a part of the county’s 9-1-1 Consortium. Here, dispatcher Laura Donofrio works at her station Thursday, Sept. 20.

“Holy cow. Back the cattle up, Roy and Gene. The traffic in Linden Saturday was unbelievable. What do you people think about when you do this stuff?”

Yesterday in Kansas, a police officer was shot to death. And so today I’m sure that the NFL kneelers and Obama, who started the anti-police rhetoric, must be celebrating along with Nike because it’s one less police officer who’s in their way.”

“It’s fascinating that Vera Hogan can come up with figures for illegal immigrants when the government can’t keep track of exactly how many, etc.”

“The King hit the nail on the head with this Wednesday’s article. I wish everyone would read it and take it to heart.”

Avoid college debt — become an apprentice

- Earn money while learning a lucrative and in-demand skilled trade

_by Hannah Ball_

Instead of taking on college debt, more and more young people are deciding to do an apprenticeship and get a job in one of the skilled trades.

SUMMARY

- College isn’t for everyone.
- High school students should explore other options, like an apprenticeship where they can get paid to work and learn.

Mott Community College offers the employer sponsored Apprenticeship Program, which offers programs in automobiles, computer aided design and draft (CADD), electricity and electronics, industrial materials, machining, mathematics, heating, cooling welding, and more. When Amy Doyle of Fenton Township woke up every morning, the first thing she reached for wasn’t a cup of coffee — it was a Coke.

“My first Coke of the day was my coffee,” said Doyle, 48. “Bottled coke was my treat. I was drinking up to four or more a day.”

Doyle has recently quit her Coke addiction, although it’s not her first attempt. Health reasons, specifically a kidney stone issue, have put more urgency into her decision. “I hope I can do it this time,” she said. “It’s just a bunch of garbage.” Although she is drinking tons of water in its place, Doyle still craves the taste and routine of opening the Coke bottle and taking the first swallow. “I crave it,” she admitted. “I’ve just got to move past that.” Fenton resident Marissa Mayberry, 31, used to end her day with a 20-ounce bottle of Mountain Dew, gave up that habit for a Rockstar energy drink then switched to drinking Coke with meals.

“I decided to quit drinking Coke about six to eight months ago,” Mayberry said. “I went from real high sugar drinks to being a huge water drinker. Now I drink milk and water. I was hoping I’d lose weight, but that hasn’t happened yet.”

Doyle and Mayberry aren’t alone in their addiction to Coke.

About half of all American adults drink a sugary beverage on any given day, although sugar-sweetened drinks aren’t as popular as they once were, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). One in 20 people drink the equivalent of more than four cans of pop each day.

- I wish Democrats would just shut up about a “blue wave” for the midterm elections. There may be one but it’s far less likely to happen when they keep going on pundit shows and yapping/bellowing about it. Zip the lips, people. Let things unfold. Watched pots, you know.

- Democrats: “But the polls! They’re in our favor!” Yeah, so? They were in Hillary’s favor in 2016, too. I never believe polls and always scoff when pollsters tell me how many people lie to pollsters or change their minds because they think it’s “scientific” they are and how there’s a 4-percent margin of error. No, there’s not. With every poll, there’s a guaranteed 100 percent chance they’ll be wrong and do you know why? Because people lie to pollsters and sometimes people lie to pollsters or change their minds after talking to them. That’s why.

- Hear ye, hear ye, after watching the first two games, I have officially revised my prediction of the Detroit Lions‘ record this season from 5-11 to 0-17. You’re thinking, “Shows what you know — they only play 16 games so they can’t possibly lose 17,” dummy.” That’s true, but I think the Lions will be so incredibly bad the league will award them an extra loss so it’s clear for the record books that they were the worst of all time. (Of course, I’m a lifelong Green Bay Packers fan so I might be a tad biased. But honestly, how many decades are you people going to put up with this? There’s loyalty then there’s masochism.)

- Stafford throws like he needs glasses.

- Trump said this week, “This is a tough hurricane, one of the wettest we’ve ever seen from the standpoint of water.” So here’s today’s beef: Why, of all commercials, are car and truck commercials so incredibly bad, dumb and irritating? And all the same? Every pickup truck and SUV commercial I see, for instance, shows mainly men at construction sites, driving up mountains or crossing streams. Streams? Why? Most pickups and SUVs I see are driven by businessmen and women. The dirtiest they get is when they hit a puddle. And why are pickups so damned big these days? They don’t fit in parking spots. How do people get them in a garage?

- Also, why do they play rock music under sports highlights while they’re also talking about them? I can’t hear what you’re saying, announcer person! Then I have to turn it up, prompting the lovely yet formidable Marcia to tell me to turn it down.

Established in 1984, Ferris State University’s nationally recognized Welding Engineering Technology program is the largest of its kind in the United States. Ferris’ two-year Manufacturing Technology program is the only one of its kind in Michigan, and one of only a few in the nation to offer manufacturing pathway concentrations in both processing technology and tooling technology. Ferris’ welding program encompasses instruction related to welding skill development, inspection, mechanical testing, robotics and laser processing, resistance welding and material preparation and fabrication. Core welding program courses are taught by professional faculty with more than 90 combined years of teaching experience. Faculty members Kenneth Kuk and David Murray have been awarded the Adams Memorial Membership and recognized as American Welding Society Counselors for outstanding teaching and leadership activities.

Since 1986, students in the welding programs have received more than $1.3 million in academic scholarship awards from various industry and professional organizations. Professional welders are in high demand, with one out of every two products that comprise the U.S. gross domestic product containing a weld. Graduates of the program find employment opportunities in all sectors of the construction, fabrication and manufacturing economy. Ferris’ Manufacturing Technology program prepares students for work in tooling operations, machining operations, manufacturing and engineering operations, computer programming operations, CNC operations, and general manufacturing applications. Graduates of the program can enter the industry or choose to continue their studies to complete a four-year degree in a related program.

Students who complete the Manufacturing Tooling Technology concentration can enter the four-year Manufacturing Engineering Technology program, which provides preparation in analysis, development, design, methods and equipment planning and supervision for production of industrial and consumer goods. Graduates of the Manufacturing Engineering Technology program enter positions such as manufacturing engineer, process engineer, production engineer, tool engineer, quality engineer or industrial engineer. The university recently completed a major expansion and renovation of the Swan Technical Arts Building Annex, which houses its School of Design and Manufacturing, and is preparing to launch a Center for Welding Excellence and Center for Advanced Manufacturing.

Fenton man arrested for OWI – third offense

At 6:55 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 13, Fenton police responded to the 14000 block of Swanee Beach Drive to investigate a complaint. The caller told the dispatcher that a man who might be intoxicated was yelling at neighbors. A description of the vehicle was provided to police. An officer located the gray Saturn vehicle and initiated a traffic stop at 6:02 p.m. Contact was made with the driver, a 54-year-old Fenton resident. Suspecting the driver had been drinking, a Breathalyzer was administered, resulting in a blood alcohol content of .179 percent. The man was arrested for operating a vehicle while intoxicated. He was transported to the Genesee County Jail where he submitted to a blood draw to determine if any other substances were in his system. He was detained until sober. Fenton police will be seeking a felony arrest warrant for OWI, third offense.

SEPT. 23
1846: German astronomer Johann Gottfried Galle discovers the planet Neptune at the Berlin Observatory. The blue gas giant, which has a diameter four times that of Earth, was named for the Roman god of the sea. It has eight known moons, of which Triton is the largest, and a ring system containing three bright and two dim rings. It completes an orbit of the sun once every 165 years. In 1989, the U.S. planetary spacecraft Voyager 2 was the first human spacecraft to visit Neptune.

SEPT. 24
1789: The Judiciary Act of 1789 is passed by Congress and signed by President George Washington, establishing the Supreme Court of the United States as a tribunal made up of six justices who were to serve on the court until death or retirement. That day, President Washington nominated John Jay to preside as chief justice, and John Rutledge, William Cushing, John Blair, Robert Hamilton, and James Wilson to be associate justices. On Sept. 26, all six appointments were confirmed by the U.S. Senate.

SEPT. 25
1957: Under escort from the U.S. Army’s 101st Airborne Division, nine black students enter all-white Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas. Three weeks earlier, Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus had surrounded the school with National Guard troops to prevent its federal court-ordered racial integration. After a tense standoff, President Dwight D. Eisenhower federalized the Arkansas National Guard and sent 1,000 army paratroopers to Little Rock to enforce the court order.

SEPT. 26
1945: Lt. Col. Peter Dewey, a U.S. Army officer with the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) in Vietnam, is shot and killed in Saigon. Dewey was the head of a seven-man team sent to Vietnam to search for missing American pilots and to gather information on the situation in the country after the surrender of the Japanese. He was the first American soldier killed in Vietnam.

SEPT. 27
1915: Second Lt. John Kipling of the British army, the only son of Nobel Prize-winning author Rudyard Kipling (The Jungle Book, Rikki-Tikki-Tavi), is killed at the Battle of Loos, in the Artois region of France.

SEPT. 28
1969: Former Philippines president Ferdinand Marcos, whose corrupt regime spanned 20 years, dies in exile in Hawaii three years after being driven from his country by a popular front led by Corazon Aquino.

SEPT. 29
2005: New York Times reporter Judith Miller is released from a federal detention center in Alexandria, Virginia, after agreeing to testify in the investigation into the leaking of the identity of covert CIA officer Valerie Plame. Miller had been behind bars since July 6, 2005, for refusing to reveal a confidential source and testify before a grand jury that was looking into the so-called Plame Affair. She decided to testify after the source she had been protecting. I. Lewis “Scooter” Libby, Vice President Dick Cheney’s chief of staff, signed a waiver giving her permission to speak.

Harvey Dent is turning 2

Owner asking people to donate pet food to Adopt-A-Pet

By Hannah Ball

More than a year after being adopted, Harvey Dent, a blind puppy who was tortured and abandoned, has settled into his life and is doing “wonderful,” said his owner, Megan Beck, 24.

Harvey came to Adopt-A-Pet around April of 2017 with severe burns on the left side of his body and face, and a wound on his hip. The wounds to his face were so bad, his eyes and parts of his ears had to be removed. At the time Jody Maddock, director of Adopt-A-Pet in Fenton, said it looked like someone sprayed him with lighter fluid and set him on fire.

For his birthday on Sept. 30, Beck, who recently moved from Fenton to the Grand Blanc area, is asking people to purchase a bag of healthy treats or food to donate to Adopt-A-Pet. Beck said one option is to purchase from Paw Tree at pawtree.com/meganbeck. She sells Paw Tree, and is donating her commission to Adopt-A-Pet as well. Adopt-A-Pet also accepts donations from other retailers.

“I got overwhelming support from people last year. He had a birthday party last year and he received hundreds of dollars in toys and gift cards. I got divorced last year and when people heard they sent me more for him. This year I want it to go to the place that deserves it,” Beck said.

Adopt-A-Pet spent a lot of time and money on Harvey, she said, and she appreciates all of it.

“He’s healthy and happy now. That’s what’s important to me. They have a lot of pets to feed and I know that’s not easy. I want to help in any way I can,” she said.

“Harvey is doing wonderful,” she said, adding that he’s finally filling out. He gets along well with Beck’s other dog, Bailey, 3.

Even though Harvey’s birthday is Sept. 30, there is no deadline to purchase and donate food to Adopt-A-Pet.
What’s next for Waterworks property?

By Tim Jagielo

Holly — Fencing surrounds the site of the former Waterworks Park building, which was razed Aug. 16, after several extensions and grassroots efforts to save the 100-year-old building.

The basement of the older building housing the turbine still stands, the turbine now visible from the road.

Today, the hardware that ran the first municipal water pump system in Oakland County sits exposed, with the sluiceway from the Shiawassee River whooshing around the old turbine.

The Holly Village Parks Commission has taken over planning and developing the site, said Chairperson Chris Rankin. They will be working with the Village Council and the National Water Trail Coalition since it is the park at the headwaters of a National Water Trail.

Overall, the goal is to showcase the equipment, erect a pavilion, and place educational kiosks throughout the site. Rankin said the project doesn’t have a formal title, but said that they are “re-imagining Waterworks.”

“We have not yet formalized a timeline,” he said. “The fences are only in place because the sluiceway from the millpond is exposed now that the building is down.”

He said fencing will be removed after they construct a platform, possibly next summer.

A major challenge of redeveloping the site is the way the remaining building foundation was constructed. Rankin said the equipment and turbine rest on a structure that was poorly designed.

“A new support structure will have to be erected,” Rankin said. “The good news is that getting the pump out of the basement, and getting the north portion of the building demo’d went smoothly.”

Windows Engineered for Michigan’s Climate Changes

When selecting a replacement window it is important that you have a window designed for the extreme changes in Michigan’s climate. D&W Windows has engineered The Michigan Window to combat those weather conditions and provide value to your home here in Michigan.

“D&W takes pride in providing top quality craftsmanship and installation services for our consumers. The Michigan Window™ provides our customers with a better window, direct from our factory, made specifically for their home, at an even better price,” said Vice President Mark Wood.

What makes The Michigan Window™ more energy-efficient? It is the only window built in Michigan featuring Owens Corning Air Sealing Technology, which reduces air infiltration by up to 24% over traditional windows. Also, it is the only window manufactured in Michigan that provides energy saving E-Z Foam filled frames and sashes, backed by the Good Housekeeping seal of approval.

D&W Windows and Sunrooms has received the E-3 Excellence in Energy Efficiency Award for the past seven years, by Consumers Energy. The award acknowledges D&W’s dedication to program excellence and commitment to working with homeowners on earning energy efficiency rebates through Consumers Energy.

“Since 1955, we have taken pride in working directly with homeowners throughout Mid-Michigan assisting them in making their home more energy-efficient and comfortable,” states President Dave Wood.

Natural disasters — are you prepared?

Every family should have an emergency plan

By Vera Hogan

Over the past two weeks, while enjoying several delightful Michigan summer days, we sat in front of TVs, watching in horror as Hurricane Florence was about to slam into the eastern seaboard, and the aftermath of storms, floods and tornados.

Many of us were asking ourselves, “Good grief, the governors of the affected states, newscasters and meteorologists were telling people repeatedly for five or six days, “Get out! If you don’t get out now we can’t be responsible for your safety.” There were mandatory evacuations and we can’t be responsible for your safety.”

Still, after the hurricane made landfall, the rains came and the floodwaters began to rise, a major rescue operation got underway, with volunteers and emergency service personnel risking their own lives to get to the thousands of people who refused to leave when they were warned. And as of this writing, 34 people have been confirmed dead because of Hurricane Florence.

Why? Authorities believe it is because many of these people just don’t have the financial means to leave their homes. It would require a significant amount of money for gas to keep their vehicles on the road, motels for those without friends or loved ones to take them in, food, and much more.

According to a recent article in USA Today, it will repeated exposure to vivid scenes of natural disaster — western wildfires, a global heat wave, Hawaiian volcano eruptions, the 2017 hurricanes’ anniversary and a suddenly active 2018 season — finally turn America into a go-bag nation, prepared for calamity and ready to flee it?

Experience and human nature dictates that it won’t. Experts say people aren’t really motivated by disaster until it comes to, or through, their door. Seeing disaster scenes are not enough.

America is riddled with fault lines and bordered by storm-tossed oceans, with two great north-south mountain ranges but none running east-west to keep Arctic air from flowing south and tropical air from going north.

There are hurricanes in the Southeast and nor’easters in the Northeast; tornadoes on the lower Plains and blizzards on the upper Plains; earthquakes and volcanoes along the Pacific Coast, which also is vulnerable to tsunamis; sinkholes and lightning in Florida; avalanches in the Rockies and flash floods in the Appalachians; hail from Minnesota to Texas and ice storms from Wyoming to Maine; lake-effect snow from the Great Lakes and the Great Salt Lake; and monsoons in Arizona.

Yet, as federal emergency management experts have observed, America lacks a “culture of preparedness.” We mostly don’t stock up on batteries, candles and water; we don’t prepare a family emergency plan or buy a hand-cranked radio; we don’t listen carefully to warnings and often don’t understand them when we do, and don’t obey them.

As the saying goes, old habits die hard. Viral internet images and nonstop TV news coverage of this year’s disasters and disaster anniversaries have inspired some hope that Americans will begin to focus more on preparing for emergencies, rather than just reacting to them.

But, experts say, most people won’t change unless they’ve experienced something like a living room with 5 feet of water, or a tree coming through the ceiling.

PREPARE, PREPARE, PREPARE...

Although peak tornado season is just about over for this year, it would be wise to remember that locally we have experienced tornadoes in October. On Oct. 24, 2001, a tornado hit Davisburg Elementary School in the Holly school district at 8 p.m., with winds registering at 112 mph. It caused $600,000 in damage.

With the winter storm season just around the corner, now is a good time to begin preparing.

Winter storms create a higher risk of car accidents, hypothermia, frostbite, carbon monoxide poisoning, and heart attacks from over-exertion. Winter storms and blizzards can bring extreme cold, freezing rain, snow, ice, and high winds. A winter storm can last a few hours or several days; knock out heat, power, and communication services, and place older adults, young children, and sick individuals at greater risk.

• Linden graduate
• MSU soccer coach
• Avid sports fan

By Hannah Ball

Mary Fiebernitz, 25, graduated from Linden High School in 2011 and is a volunteer women’s soccer coach at Michigan State University. She was born in Flint and moved to Linden when she started kindergarten. She’s played an array of sports, from soccer to high school football.

Where did you go to college?
I attended Michigan State University from the fall of 2011 and graduated in December 2015.

What sports have you played?
I have played a few sports — basketball, soccer, and football where I served as the placekicker for the Linden varsity football team.

What’s been your favorite?
Soccer has been my favorite by far. I started playing at a very young age and was able to fulfill my childhood dream of playing Division 1 women’s soccer at Michigan State University. It has also given me lifelong friendships and many life lessons along the way that have anchored who I am today.

What was it like being on the football team in high school?
It was an awesome experience. I love competition and being a part of a team. Everyone was very welcoming, excited, and supportive. I will remember it for the rest of my life.

What did you study in college?
I studied Interdisciplinary Studies - Health and Society, which is a Social Science major that allowed me to pull from the other majors within the college to broaden my horizons.

What do you do in your free time?
I love to watch all sports, visit with friends and family, play backyard sports, and relax.

What teams are you watching right now?
College GameDay on Saturdays, and the NFL on Sunday and Monday nights. I am a Manchester United fan as well.

What do you think is the biggest challenge your generation is facing right now?
Student loan debt, lack of employment opportunities — struggling between being overqualified with degrees but lack of experience, and lack of affordable housing. When put together it creates quite a challenging situation to provide for yourself.

I finally took a leap of faith and quit my job to pursue my coaching career.

I am the volunteer assistant women’s soccer coach at Michigan State University. I was in sales for about a year and a half after graduating from Michigan State to venture out on my own but knew all along that my dream career was to coach soccer at the collegiate level. I finally took a leap of faith and quit my job to pursue my coaching career.

What’s something you wish you knew in high school?
Time management. It’s something I had to learn and master quickly being a D1 student-athlete. Managing your time and being creative with the schedule allowed me to excel in my studies and still have time to be a student-athlete.

What’s your favorite team?
Student loan debt, lack of employment opportunities — struggling between being overqualified with degrees but lack of experience, and lack of affordable housing. When put together it creates quite a challenging situation to provide for yourself.

I finally took a leap of faith and quit my job to pursue my coaching career.

I am the volunteer assistant women’s soccer coach at Michigan State University. I was in sales for about a year and a half after graduating from Michigan State to venture out on my own but knew all along that my dream career was to coach soccer at the collegiate level. I finally took a leap of faith and quit my job to pursue my coaching career.

What’s something you wish you knew in high school?
Time management. It’s something I had to learn and master quickly being a D1 student-athlete. Managing your time spent with family, academics, soccer, and in the social realm was very critical for me to figure out because I knew I wanted to excel on the pitch but it really molded me into the person I am today. I’m so thankful for that opportunity because I was able to grow tremendously.

What do you think is the biggest challenge your generation is facing right now?
Student loan debt, lack of employment opportunities — struggling between being overqualified with degrees but lack of experience, and lack of affordable housing. When put together it creates quite a challenging situation to provide for yourself.

Fenton Township opts in to county parks plan

By Hannah Ball
Fenton Twp. — The Fenton Township Board of Trustees voted to opt into the Genesee County Parks, Recreation, Open Space and Greenway Plan.

This encourages the township to share its park and recreation plan with Genesee County Parks.

“It’s just a way to merge plans together,” said Thomas Broecker, Fenton Township operations manager and deputy clerk. “It doesn’t give them any authority over us, it doesn’t hurt our situation. They just like showing cooperative effort between communities because the state likes those things.”

In the Fenton Township resolution, the language states, “Fenton Township believes opting in to the Genesee County plan will demonstrate cooperative planning efforts between governmental units, which may provide additional resources for local and county recreational facilities.”

According to a letter from Genesee County Parks, Barry June, acting director, opting in to the plan will not replace the municipalities local parks, recreation, open space and greenway plan.

“It also will not give the County Parks any authority over your parks,” the letter reads. “Opting in to the County Parks plan is a no-cost way to demonstrate the type of cooperative planning efforts that the state is encouraging in several initiatives that may, ultimately, provide access to additional resources for individual communities and for the Genesee County region as a whole.”

The public can give input on county parks on the organization’s website, genesecountyparks.org. Residents can share opinions on facilities, programs and priorities, according to the letter. The resolutions and action plan must be sent and received by Genesee County Parks by Oct. 24.
Two drivers taken to hospital after crash

State police say one driver might have fallen asleep, drifted across center line

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Michigan State Police (MSP) troopers are investigating a Tuesday morning crash in Holly Township. The crash happened at about 7:30 a.m. on Grange Hall and Hess roads near I-75, according to state police.

A preliminary investigation showed a 2010 Chevrolet Impala traveling east on Grange Hall Road crossed the center line of the road and into the travel lane of a garbage truck, resulting in a head-on collision. It’s possible the driver fell asleep, state police said.

Both drivers were trapped in their vehicles and required extrication. The Impala’s driver was taken to a hospital with serious injuries and is expected to recover, police said. The garbage truck driver sustained minor injuries.

North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFSA) personnel treated and transported both patients to the hospital.

Assisting with the crash was Groveland Township Fire Department and Holly Police Department.

Grange Hall Road was closed until approximately 2 p.m.

Apprenticeship opportunities

Those interested in an apprenticeship have dozens of opportunities.

- Pure Michigan Talent Connect runs the Michigan Advanced Technician Training Program, which partners with more than 50 Michigan companies.
- Apprenticeships are available through Michigan Road 2 Work for boilermakers, bricklayers and restoration workers, carpenters, cement masons and more.
- For a full list of apprenticeship opportunities at MCC, go to mcc.edu.
- MCC partners with surrounding companies in Michigan, helping students gain experience. Those companies include Flint-based operations like Oakley Sub Assembly, Mass Transportation Authority, Vetcon, Blevins Screw Products and more.
- The program pays students while they earn credits. After finishing the apprenticeship, they can earn more money and more job opportunities, according to MCC.

Anyone can apply to join the program, and they don’t have to already be working under a licensed employer. People of all ages can take the classes. Currently, most classes are full, which Sullivan said is a reflection of the jobs available today and the labor market.

“Students do not have to go hundreds of thousands in debt and spend a lot of time taking classes that aren’t applicable,” he said, adding that it’s attractive to people who want to use their hands in the field. “This is the fastest route for the workforce to gain skills and just get into the job.”

They’re working to expand apprenticeships into automation and robotics as well, and to encourage apprentices to have a cross section of skills, which makes them more marketable.

Read about Ferris State University’s welding program on page 6A.

The Great Lakes State is set to experience a professional trades workforce gap of more than 811,000 openings through 2024, often referred to as the “skills gap,” according to the Michigan Department of Technology, Management and Budget’s Bureau of Labor Market Information and Strategic Initiatives. This means there won’t be enough workers in the information technology and computer science, health care, manufacturing and other skilled trade labor industries. Many of these fields are high in demand and offer higher wages.

Matthew Sullivan, electrician technology coordinator at MCC, said he could talk for hours about the “skills gap.”

“Our entire mission is to close it. As the baby boomers retire, it continues,” he said.

Apprenticeships in his classes work 40 hours a week and take one class each semester. The law requires 8,000 field hours. The industrial automation industry is expanding in southeast Michigan, and globally.

“We could probably triple our enrollment and still have our hiring partners needing more people,” he said. “There is a great demand for people within this work.”

Anyone can apply to join the program, and they don’t have to already be working under a licensed employer. People of all ages can take the classes. Currently, most classes are full, which Sullivan said is a reflection of the jobs available today and the labor market.
SUGAR

Drinking that daily 12-ounce can of Coke adds 39 grams of sugar (9 and 1/3 teaspoons) and 140 "empty" calories to your nutritional tally, often resulting in extra belly fat, according to research reported to NBC News.

People who drank the most sugary drinks gained 27 percent more of this "visceral fat," the fat that wraps around the internal organs, compared to people who never or almost never drank them.

More and more research shows the dangerous health affects of eating or drinking too much added sugar.

The M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas explains that eating sugar doesn’t necessarily lead to cancer; it’s what sugar does to a person’s waistline that can lead to cancer.

Taking in too many calories from sugar may result in weight gain, and being overweight or obese puts a person at higher risk for cancer and other diseases.

While a body’s cells use sugar to keep vital organs functioning, too much daily sugar can cause weight gain. Unhealthy weight gain and a lack of exercise can increase your cancer risks.

How much sugar is safe to eat?

Women should have no more than six teaspoons of added sugar per day (25 grams, or about 100 calories) and men should have no more than nine teaspoons per day (37 grams, or about 150 calories).

Pop is one of the major sources of added sugar, plus candy, baked goods, fruit drinks, dairy desserts, cereals and many other products like pasta sauce, salad dressings and other canned and processed foods.

Will you lose weight when you stop drinking pop? If you replace a daily 20-ounce bottle of Coke with water, you reduce your annual calorie intake by 87,600 calories, resulting in a 25-pound weight loss.

You also might enjoy other health benefits, including better sleep, better dental health, reduced risk of type 2 diabetes, improved heart health and/or blood pressure, decreased risk of osteoporosis and decreased anxiety or nervousness, according to VeryWellFit.com.

Kicking the Diet Coke habit

"It has been easier than I thought, because my motivation is my own health.

By Sally Rummel

I started my Diet Coke habit in the early ’70s by drinking multiple cans of Tab every day. Remember that hot pink can with light pink stripes? It was every teen girl’s favorite drink of choice in high school.

Admittedly, the stuff tasted awful even then, but I grew to love it, then moved on to Diet Coke when the Coca-Cola Company introduced it in the 1980s. I’ve been drinking Diet Coke daily since then. It kept me company at my work-from-home computer every day and was my constant companion.

On a road trip, it sat next to me in the car console, just waiting for me to open and take that first delicious swallow. Sometimes I’d even take a swig in the evening, just because I could.

You can ask anybody at the Times about my Diet Coke habit because they loved to tease me about it, knowing I drank it a lot when I’d get stressed by deadlines.

That all changed two weeks ago when I decided to quit my Diet Coke habit for good. Now two weeks doesn’t sound like a very long track record, but I can tell you for sure, without a doubt, that I’m done with Diet Coke.

Why? Because I’ve always known it’s bad for me, and I’m now at the age that I want my habits to be good ones, not bad ones.

While I miss that constant “friend” by my side at my desk, now it’s water I’m drinking, sometimes the sparkling kind like La Croix or Bubbly, or iced green tea fresh brewed with Celestial Seasonings fruit “zinger” flavors.

What I don’t miss is the constant cravings for sweets that Diet Coke gave me every day. It’s much easier to lose weight when you’re not downing cookies or brownies. Food now tastes “sweeter” on its own, without the slash of Diet Coke.

Diet Coke and other diet beverages have been linked to a variety of serious health issues, from increased risk of heart disease and stroke to type 2 diabetes, low bone density, tooth erosion and more. Having been diagnosed with some minor heart issues this year, I take this health risk very personally.

You think it is helping you lose weight and keep calories under control; when actually, it does the exact opposite, by causing cravings you wouldn’t likely have if you weren’t drinking it.

It also justifies many a dieter into thinking they can have that cheeseburger and fries because they’re saving calories with a Diet Coke. How’s that for delusional, dangerous thinking?

For me, I’m not looking back, only ahead and I’m already enjoying my Diet Coke-less journey.

911 SURCHARGE

Since the ballot question was approved, the per-device fee went up from $1.24 to $1.86, which was expected to generate $2.6 million for county 9-1-1 operations.

But Fenton City is the only municipality in Genesee County with its own 9-1-1 dispatch center separate from the Genesee County 9-1-1 Consortium.

After the vote, Fenton Police Chief Jason Slater thanked voters and said, “We strive to provide the citizens of Fenton with the highest level of service possible. With this increase, the city of Fenton will also see an increase to our share of the 9-1-1 surcharge monies. This additional revenue will assist us in maintaining technology, which will aid emergency personnel in the efficient and prompt response in your time of need, now and in the future.”

With the May 2, 2017 successful vote, collection of the additional funds began in November 2017. The city of Fenton is receiving the money from the surcharge minus 20 percent that the county is keeping and money from the surcharge minus 20 percent.

The city of Fenton is receiving the surcharge funds initially stayed out of the contract, but Grand Blanc decided to join later.

Fenton wants 20 percent of the revenue that currently goes to the Genesee County Dispatch Authority, and give it back to Fenton monies paid from the second quarter of this year forward.

The motion failed with commissioners voting instead to delay the matter until December, another 90 days, presumably, until the new corporate counsel for the county has a chance to review the matter.

When asked how the 9-1-1 Consortium justifies receiving those funds from the city of Fenton, Tremaine said, “We are following what the contract agreement, the 9-1-1 plan calls for, and that is what Genesee County, the fiduciary is following.”

That document was created many years ago and doesn’t include Fenton City. We are not performing a service for Fenton City and we’re not providing a service.

Shapiro said, “As commissioner, I have fought to rectify this travesty for two years. It is sad that although the city of Fenton, the 9-1-1 director and attorney urged my fellow commissioners to support my motion it still failed. I am concerned that the lack of action by my board will lead to more taxpayer dollars unnecessarily wasted on lawsuits in Genesee County.”

Markland said, “There is no justification for the consortium getting our money.”

Consortium attorney Lyndon Lattie said Flint abandoned its PSAP (Public Safety Answering Point) in favor of the county taking over its operation. It was not necessary to change the plan for that instance, however, if the 9-1-1 plan was opened, the Flint change would be something to add.

When it came to discussing Fenton’s surplus, Fenton City Manager Lynn Markland, who was present at the August meeting, said he isn’t sure what Fenton is getting for the 20 percent the county removes from Fenton’s surcharge distribution and returning it back to the consortium.

Lattie explained that the Genesee County Board of Commissioners wanted all of the county to be under the central dispatch. Fenton and Grand Blanc initially stayed out of the contract, but Grand Blanc decided to join later.

Lattie’s opinion was that the Board of Commissioners wanted to convince the other jurisdictions to be under one authority.

Markland said that basically, a penalty was imposed on the city of Fenton, the 20 percent, for not joining the consortium.

When 9-1-1 dispatch was turned over to the consortium and no longer under the control of the Genesee County Board of Commissioners, the 9-1-1 Consortium did not initially trust the Board of Commissioners, according to the August minutes. As a result, the consortium insisted that a contract be adopted by 30 agencies. That meant if the contract were to be changed, each municipality would need to amend and adopt it.

Markland said the city’s concern was that it never agreed to the 20-percent penalty that was levied. Lattie said it was allowed by the 9-1-1 Enabling Act, but the act does not dictate that all municipalities must join the consortium. He said Fenton City does not believe the county had the authority to give away 20 percent of its money.

The 9-1-1 Consortium’s Executive Board agreed but needed to figure out a way to fix it. Lattie said in order to fix it, the Board of Commissioners would need to make a motion. Fenton wants 20 percent of the revenue returned from the 2018 second quarter forward, which equates to about $8,000 per quarter, or approximately $32,000 per year. A motion was made by the 9-1-1

Consortium Executive Board to recommend to the Genesee County Board of Commissioners that they eliminate the 20 percent of Fenton surcharge revenue that currently goes to the Genesee County Dispatch Authority, and give it back to Fenton. The motion passed 9 to 1 with two members abstaining.

The matter was discussed at the Sept. 17 Board of Commissioners meeting. Commissioner Drew Shapiro (District 6) made the motion to eliminate removing 20 percent from Fenton’s surcharge and give back to Fenton monies paid from the second quarter of this year forward.

The motion failed with commissioners voting instead to delay the matter until December, another 90 days, presumably, until the new corporate counsel for the county has a chance to review the matter.

When asked how the 9-1-1 Consortium justifies receiving those funds from the city of Fenton, Tremaine said, “We are following what the contract agreement, the 9-1-1 plan calls for, and that is what Genesee County, the fiduciary is following.”

That document was created many years ago and as director I can’t justify those funds coming into 9-1-1,” she said.

“We are not performing a service for them (Fenton City) to receive that money. Normally when money is received, a service should be provided and we’re not providing a service.”

Shapiro said, “As commissioner, I have fought to rectify this travesty for two years. It is sad that although the city of Fenton, the 9-1-1 director and attorney urged my fellow commissioners to support my motion it still failed. I am concerned that the lack of action by my board will lead to more taxpayer dollars unnecessarily wasted on lawsuits in Genesee County.”

Markland said, “There is no justification for the consortium getting our money.”
Get your slow cooker ready now for hearty meals later

By Vera Hogan

With fall and cooler temperatures now upon us, savvy cooks may want to spend a little time making sure their kitchen “must have,” the slow cooker/crock pot, is ready to go.

There is nothing like the aroma of a crock pot roast, soup or stew when you come home from work on a cool fall day. The beauty of crock pot cooking is that you can put it all together the night before, or in the morning (it doesn’t take that long), plug it in before you go to work and eight hours later — voilà, a delicious meal.

If you had your own vegetable garden this year, or frequented some of the many local farmers markets, you’ll likely have plenty of fresh produce to accent your crock pot meals. Just toss in the greens, some tomatoes, onions, potatoes and more to cook along with your meat and the resulting dish will make your mouth water. And, it’s healthy.

Sliced zucchini and squash are excellent additions to any crock pot meal.

Before you get started though, here are some tips from eatingwell.com to keep in mind when using your slow cooker or crock pot:

1. Use the right size

Slow cookers are available in a range of sizes, from 1 quart to 8 1/2 quarts. Use the size cooker recommended in each recipe. This helps ensure that the slow cooker isn’t overflowing or under-filled, so that your meal can cook properly.

2. Don’t overfill your slow cooker

To make sure your meal is finished in the time listed on your recipe, and to avoid potential food-safety hazards, don’t overfill your slow cooker. Most manufacturers recommend filling them no more than two-thirds full, but it differs among brands, so check your owner’s manual.

3. Keep a lid on it

Resist the urge to take off the lid and peek at your meal. Opening the crock pot lets heat escape and slows cooking. Only open it 30 to 45 minutes before the low end of the cooking range to check doneness.

4. Plan your meals ahead

If you want to turn your crock pot slow cooker on first thing in the morning, a little planning goes a long way. The night before, cut and trim any meat, chop any vegetables, measure out dry ingredients and prepare any sauce; refrigerate the components in separate containers. (Do not refrigerate components in the slow-cooker insert; a cold insert takes too long to heat up and affects cooking time and food safety.)

In the morning, add ingredients to the cooker according to the recipe and re-heat any sauce to a simmer before adding. If you won’t be home close to the end of the cooking time, make sure you have a slow cooker that can switch to the warm setting when cooking is done.

5. Maximize flavor

If you’re in a hurry or really prefer to just dump your ingredients in the crock pot and go, then you can skip this tip. But if you have a little extra time, brown the meat and/or vegetables in a skillet before adding it to the crock pot. Then “deglaze” the pan with your liquid to get all the brown, caramelized bits from the sauté pan into the cooker. You’ll end up with a richer flavor that can’t be achieved by slow-cooking alone.

6. Keep temperature in mind

A crock pot is certainly convenient, but if not used correctly there is the potential for food-safety hazards. Temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F, fall into the so-called “Danger Zone,” since bacteria thrive in these temperatures. When using a slow cooker be sure to make sure your food from being in the Danger Zone for too long. To avoid the Danger Zone, never add frozen ingredients to your cooker, refrigerate any ingredients you’ve prepped ahead in separate storage containers and bring liquids to a simmer if you’re cooking on low before adding them to your cooker to give the heating process a jump-start.

7. Make sure you have the best slow cooker/crock pot

You may have a 20-year-old slow cooker that still works great, but it’s probably a basic cooker for which you need to time your cooking manually and then be there to turn it off. A programmable slow cooker cooks your meal for a predetermined time and then switches to a setting that keeps the food at a safe temperature until you’re ready to eat.

WEATHER

wardrobes in preparation of the colder temperatures. Here’s what weather to expect for the rest of September and fall in the tri-county area.

September

According to The Weather Channel, Michiganders can expect warmer or slightly above average temperatures for the rest of September.

“Strong historical correlations between August and September, along with climate model trends, suggest another warm month in September, especially across the northern U.S.,” said Dr. Todd Crawford, chief meteorologist with The Weather Channel.

The 2017 fall season was the 10th warmest fall across the contiguous U.S. However, 2017 saw warmer temperatures in the Northeast and Southwest, while the 2018 warmer temperatures are expected in the Northwest for the rest of September.

El Niño

The Weather Channel also attributes the warmer temperatures this September to El Niño. There’s a 60-per-cent chance that El Niño will develop this fall, which describes changes in the Pacific region, where the sea surface temperatures rise to above-normal levels for an extended period of time. A weak El Niño could produce a cooler than normal fall and winter, and a strong one will bring a warmer seasons.

October

The Farmer’s Almanac predicts October will have an average temperature of 54 degrees Fahrenheit, which is 2.5 degrees above average. It also predicts that precipitation will be slightly below average, and the month will see a variety of thunderstorms, rain and snow showers at the end of the month.

November

Southeast Michigan is expected to see near or slightly above-average conditions as fall is pushed out and winter begins. The El Niño conditions may also cause a milder November and December, according to The Weather Channel.

The Old Farmer’s Almanac

The Old Farmer’s Almanac predicts above-normal temperatures almost everywhere in the U.S., except in the Southwest, where it expects colder-than-normal conditions for the 2018-2019 winter.

“It’s still going to be wintry, of course, but it won’t be an especially frigid year. Our milder-than-normal forecast is due to the expected arrival of weak El Niño, which will prevent cold air masses from lingering in the North,” according to the Almanac.

The Almanac also predicts above-normal levels of precipitation in the Northeast, but below normal levels of snowfall.

THE STATE BANK WELCOMES
ASIA MAEDER AS NEW MORTGAGE PROCESSING MANAGER

The State Bank is proud to welcome Asia Maeder as its newest mortgage processing manager. Maeder will be responsible for managing the workflow of the residential mortgage processing team, Maeder has more than 15 years of experience in mortgage processing for more than 10 years, and brings an extensive amount of experience with her in all facets of residential mortgages, from home equity loans and primary residence loans, to secondary homes and investment transactions. Most recently, she held an underwriter position at Citimortgage, Inc., in southeast Michigan. Maeder has a bachelor’s degree from the University of Michigan, and several years of experience in sales, lending and management.

“I’m very excited to be working with The State Bank as they support local residents and businesses. The mortgage team is exceptional and delivers results for not only the bank, but more importantly for the customers who have come to trust The State Bank,” Craig Johnson, senior vice president at The State Bank, said. “We are very pleased to have Asia join The State Bank team. Her extensive background and in the entire mortgage process will help the bank continue to expand our level of service to our customers and referral partners.”
ROADS

The Oakand County Road Commission graved, spreading it, spraying it with oil, and repeatedly grading it into an almost concrete-like firmness, with a crown on top to properly drain water.

“We haven’t put gravel on our roads in 20 years,” said Supervisor George Kullis. “That area there was so bad.”

This leg of the project will include Tinsman, Kurtz and Addis roads. Over a period of three years, gravel roads north of Grange Hall Road and west of North Holly Road will receive 3 to 4 inches of gravel.

The project will cost $250,000 overall, and will be split between the township general fund, Oakland County, and road commission funds. Holly Township’s portion will be approximately $88,000, due to extra work completed prior to this part of the project.

Kullis said he decided which roads to re-do after touring them with the OCRC. In 2018, the OCRC will be re-graveling Tinsman, Kurtz and Addis roads. In 2019, County Line, Gage and Grundyke roads will be repaired, in addition to Belford Road between Halsey and Gage roads. In 2020, the OCRC will re-gravel Mitchell, Elliot and Fish Lake roads.

After three years, the road commission will have dumped 300,000 tons of gravel.

Technically, the project started in some spots last year that Kullis said were “like driving into a sand pit.” Other parts of the roads were worn down to clay, which became slick after the rain. Dirt from nearby lawns had to be used to build a crown for drainage.

With new gravel, it will drain properly, and potholes and ruts will be easier to repair, Kullis said.

Kullis also will be meeting with local subdivision groups for their paved neighborhoods, to discuss street repairs and possible programs to help pay for it.

TO THE PERSON in the Wednesday paper who says the Democrats have good ideas. Please elaborate on this one. If you are talking about making the tax cuts go away and taking back as much as possible that the America people have received from our current President, I personally do not think these are good ideas. I enjoy the extra money in my pocket and so do the people where I spend it. You are right about one thing; November is coming and so is the red tsunami.

WHAT IS THE difference between the “Salem Witch Trial,” and the ‘Me Too?”

I’M AN INDEPENDENT. I have voted both ways. I’m 63 years old. I cannot understand anybody who cheats on his first wife with his second wife, then cheats on his second wife with his third wife, then with a porn star and a Playboy bunny can be trusted to be president. I would still take a bullet for Trump, but only if he is president.

ON VETERANS AND Memorial Day, don’t fly American flags. It’s not what veterans fought and died for. Really? My father fought in WWII and was very proud of the American flag. What do they give widows and children of veterans who pass away? It’s not a copy of the Constitution.

I AGREE with some of Foster Childs Wednesday rant, however, adding quick fixer with sound bite intelligence to ‘to silver spoon adults throwing tantrums’ would be more accurate especially for those claiming one election changed our economy in just 22 months.

THERE IS AN industry that profits off our unfounded fears. We are willing to pay a whole lot more for cars and appliances to save a little bit of money on something that doesn’t last near as long. That’s the green movement in a nutshell.

YEAH, TRUMP’S MANNER and unfiltered commentary can be abrasive. However, his offense pales in comparison to the unhinged, irrational hysteria plaguing the Democrat Party.

Trap, Neuter, Return (TNR) is a unique program to the area. There are millions of community cats killed in shelters because they are unadoptable. TNR is recognized as the most humane and effective strategy for reducing the community cat population. Anyone caring for a colony of feral or stray cats may fill out an application to have the cats fixed at a low cost. Go to adoptapetfenton.com/tnr. Ask about our low cost spay/neuter for those with a financial need.

Eagles’ offense soars vs. Kearsley, 8-0

By David Troppens

Two days after losing a tight 2-1 contest against Fenton, the Linden varsity boys soccer team apparently were looking for some revenge against Kearsley.

The Eagles found it, crushing Kearsley 8-0 in a Metro League contest Wednesday.

The win keeps Linden’s title chances alive for the time being. They are 8-0 in a Metro League contest Wednesday.

Young Fenton swimmers perform well vs. Brandon

By David Troppens

With Fenton’s talented varsity girls swimming and diving squad, the Eagles have plenty of options when Metro League dual meets hit the schedule.

“For us the Brandon meet was a great opportunity to let our young kids get an opportunity,” Fenton varsity swim coach Brad Jones said. “Our schedule gets instantly tougher the next couple of weeks, so they won’t have those chances. When we competed against Brandon, it gives them those chances.”

The young Tigers thrived, defeating Brandon 150-34. The Tigers finished all but one of the nine individual events by sweeping the top three positions. They did the same thing in all three relays, with the only difference being in relays, only the top two squads for each school are able to score. Two individuals won both of their individual events. Halee Alexander did it in the 200 individual medley (1:59.20) and the 100 butterfly (1:09.96) while Abigail Dolliver did the same in the 100 freestyle (58.94) and the 100 breaststroke (1:14.66).

Devils fall a little short vs. Swartz Creek Dragons

By David Troppens

Lake Fenton — Lake Fenton’s varsity volleyball team’s match against the Swartz Creek Dragons was filled with a lot of “what could’ve been moments.”

What could’ve happened if the Blue Devils didn’t have a service error on set point in the third set against the Dragons? What if the Blue Devils didn’t have a few communication lapses on a handful of Swartz Creek free balls that ended up falling on their side of the court for Dragons’ points? What could’ve happened in the fourth set if the Blue Devils didn’t have four service reception errors, helping the Dragons sneak by the Blue Devils?

Even with the “what if” moments, the Blue Devils looked like an improved product against the Swartz Creek Dragons.

Tigers remain atop Metro, beat Linden

By David Troppens

Fenton — Today’s sports world has new words or phrases than it had 20 or even just 10 years ago.

When teams talk about success they talk about family, love and brotherhood versus the Xs and Os. If a team plays for each other, they’ll argue, the Xs and Os.

If a team plays love and brotherhood versus cess they talk about family, losing those bonds. Now, those bonds are always bringing each other. Even though we have to get the chemistry back.

“We are having fun and we are always bringing each other up now. At the beginning of the season, we weren’t so close and that’s why we were doing back. Now we are a month into the season and all of us are really good friends and we all support one another. That helps.”

By David Troppens

Fenton put on a strong offensive display earning a 28-26, 25-14, 25-19 road victory against a Linden Eagles squad that showed it’s season-long tendency of up-and-down play during the match.

“Yes, that’s how it was last year too,” Meisch said about the team’s early season slow start. “But then we pulled it together. We have to get back into it and become familiar with each other. Even though we are returning players, there are always new people, too, so we have to get the chemistry back.

“We are having fun and we are always bringing each other up now. At the beginning of the season, we weren’t so close and that’s why we were doing back. Now we are a month into the season and all of us are really good friends and we all support one another. That helps.”

Golfers enjoyed being back at Warwick Hills

By David Troppens

It was like old times for many of the golfers who competed at The Ally Challenge during the PGA Champions Tour’s stop at Warwick Hills a week ago. Virtually the entire field played at Warwick Hills last week, which hosted the Buick Open, a tradition that ended in 2009 when Tiger Woods won the last event.

But now professional golf is back at Warwick Hills, and the Champions Tour players seem very excited about it. “Oh, everybody’s excited,” said one of Warwick Hills’ greatest fan favorites John Daly. “All the guys on this tour are so excited we’re here. Just love it. It’s great fans, great people. Everybody just loves coming out here to watch golf here. Crazy. I love it.”

“I just stepped foot on the property today and it looks like it’s in a time warp. It looked like nothing’s changed,” Kenny Perry said. “Everything looks the same.”

Ten of the competitors in the 54-hole tournament which ran from Friday through Sunday were champions during the Buick Open era, with Vijay Singh being a three-time winner (1997, 2004, 05) and Kenny Perry being a two-time winner (2001, 2008). So a lot of the competitors had great memories of Warwick Hills before the tournament even started.

“I love this golf course,” said 1994 Buick Open winner Fred Couples. “It’s got big greens. . . . I think some people enjoy places by how they play and I’m one of those guys.”

“They told me that we were coming back and they wanted me to play and I said, ‘sure.’” Singh said. “It’s been a good golf tournament for me, good golf course for me. The fans are really good here. They seem to all remember who played here. They pretty much remember me, so it’s nice to come where people recognize you.”

Tigers draw with Mustangs, remain in first place in Metro League

By David Troppens

Soccer is a funny game at times. Teams can pound a goal with shot after shot and just never get rewarded, maybe resulting in a draw or a loss in a game they dominated everywhere else on the stat sheet.

The Fenton varsity boys soccer team had one of those games on Wednesday against a Metro League foe. Fenton outclassed the Mustangs with its possession and its scoring chances, but couldn’t outclass them on the scoreboard. In fact, the two teams were even in that respect as the Tigers earned a 1-1 tie.

The draw means the Tigers are still in first place, but the gap between them and the rest of the Flint Metro League is tighter.

In order to win the Metro title outright, the Tigers (4-0-1 in the Metro) must win each of their final three league contests.

Holly swim swim to improve

By David Troppens

The Holly varsity girls swim team is working on building its program.

So considering the squad was taking on the team that finished second in the Metro League a year ago (Owosso), the Bronchos know earning a victory on Tuesday would be a tough task.

Holly didn’t win, but the Bronchos had their share of solid performances in the 123-55 loss to Owosso.

Holly earned one first. Becca Costigan earned it in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:23.60, winning the event by more than four seconds. It was the first time this season she’s competed in the 100 breaststroke. Costigan also took a third in the 200 individual medley (2:57.70).

The Bronchos had two girls earn an individual second and an individual third.

One of them was freshman Ella Althavey. She competed in the 500 freestyle for the first time and took second with a time of 5:52.03. She finished second by a matter of just .17 seconds. She also took third in the 100 backstroke (1:24.36).

“She’s a freshman with a lot of promise,” Holly varsity girls swim coach Rachel Gardner said.

PREP REPORT

VOLLEYBALL

> Fenton at Bedford Tournament: The Tigers went 4-2 overall and lost in the semifinals of the Bedford Tournament to Novi. Fenton had wins against Airport, Monroe, North Adams-Jerome and Ida. Both losses were against Novi. The semifinal match score was a tight one with Novi winning by a 22-25, 25-16, 14-14 score.

BOYS SOCCER

> Fenton 7, Owosso 1: In what appears to be the most open Metro League race in boys tennis a long time, the Tigers remained in the hunt for the title with a strong victory against Owosso.

Fenton won all four doubles matches. The winning doubles flights were Trevor Bloss and Jack Gundry (No.1), Bradley Trecha and Ethan Quitzfeld (No. 2), Tymecz and Brett Biss (No. 3) and Sheldon Hand and Tom Lockwood (No.4). Gabe Hand continued his strong season by beating Wyatt Lefeed 6-0, 6-0 at No. 1 singles. Other Fenton singles winners were Nate Dymond (No. 3) and Mitchell Scher (No. 4).

GIRLS GOLF

> Holly def. Clio: The Lady Mustangs only had three golfers so the Bronchos won by forfeit. Kate Brown led Holly with a 49 while Elia Lansbury had a 53.

> Linden 210, Brandon 223: The Eagles recorded their first victory of the Metro League season at Goodrich Country Club.

“We have the youngest team in the state of Michigan so any win shows that there is improvement happening,” Linden varsity girls golf coach Jon Hamilton said. “Each athlete has been getting their work in during practice and individually working on the things they need to in order to play decent golf in competition. I’m really happy that they were able to experience a victory.”

Elia Lamonte led the Eagles with a career-low 50. Hannah Baldwin shot a 52 while Kaitlyn Straub and Emma LaVoy each carded 54s, their lowest nine-hole scores.

BOYS SOCCER

> Goodrich 5, Lake Fenton 0: The Blue Devils (3-3-0) had to deal with limited numbers and lost to Goochich.

“We had one guy drop out who is playing football and another one quit, so we are trying to find ourselves,” Lake Fenton varsity boys soccer coach Sam Jawhari said. “We played them well for about 30 minutes of the first half and then in the last 10 minutes they scored two on us. We were getting tired.”

Fenton golfers finish second at county meet

By David Troppens

The Fenton varsity girls golf team has posted several strong showings at tournaments this fall.

The Tigers had another one on Monday.

Fenton finished second at the Genese County Tournament at the Flint Elks Club with a team score of 345, five strokes more than Flint Powers’ winning score of 340.

Linden also competed, taking 10th in the 12-team tournament.

The Tigers had the tournament medalist, Charlotte Cunaad. Cunaad continued her outstanding season by shooting a 70, eight strokes better than anyone else in the field.

Powers golfers Maggie Knight and Jolie Brochu each tied for second with 78s and those were the only other players to card under an 80.

The Tigers were one of four teams to get all of their golfers to post a score less than 100. Brock Herbert, Fenton’s second-best scorer, carding an 85. Lily Horning had a 92 while Olivia Herbert shot a 98.
