It was the Supreme Court that took away prayer from our schools, that took away the Bible from our schools and that gave us same-sex marriage. Maybe now some sanity can be reinstated because, as anyone can see, the current agenda just isn't working in America.

In the spirit of the new work requirements for food stamp recipients, I would like to propose a work requirement for the legislators also. Instead of campaigning or dining with corporate donors, they need to be in their offices and on the floor of the Capitol doing their jobs.

It is truly unfortunate that senators can't vote their guts because they are worried about their mid-terms.
The Remodel Grand Opening at both Silver Parkway and North LeRoy stores will be on Sunday, Oct. 14.

By Sally Rummel

VG’s Grocery has created a whole new concept of grocery shopping with the completion of total store renovations at both of its Fenton stores. The Remodel Grand Opening is set at both stores for Sunday, Oct. 14 during regular store hours, with storewide food sampling and demonstrations throughout many departments.

“Our goal is that at 4:30 p.m. every day, we can help our customers answer the question, “What’s for dinner?” said Dave Hogoboom, VG’s district manager for its parent company, SpartanNash in Grand Rapids. Customers will see the variety of ways VG’s is now helping them put food on the table for their families.

“We’ve totally adapted our Fenton stores to meet the needs of all the ways our customers are now shopping and cooking,” said Larry Allen, store manager of VG’s Grocery at 18005 Silver Parkway. “There’s more of a focus on health and wellness, and we’ve added more products and organics.”

At both VG’s locations, customers will notice a brighter store with a better flow between departments, creating convenience and ease for food shopping and preparation.

The bulk of the remodeling has taken place in the deli department, which now boasts the new Betty Kaye’s fresh smoked meats with meal solutions for just about everyone.

Smoked brisket, fresh bratwurst, smoked pulled pork, turkey legs and two mac-and-cheese varieties are made daily on-site at the Silver Parkway VG’s, which also supplies the north Fenton store at 1390 N. LeRoy St.

“We’ll have lunch specials, dinner specials and catering options,” Allen said. “People can also sit in our café area and enjoy their meal at VG’s.”

“We’ve also enhanced our Caesar Salad Bar, our Mediterranean Bar and have added a new Chicken Wing Bar and Asian Bar, to complement our existing fresh sushi,” Hogoboom said. “Watch for our new pizza station, where we can cook a pie for you or have one hot and ready to go.”

The Fresh Divide produce department offers fresh food prep, so customers can have their produce sliced and diced while they shop. There’s also a selection of vegetables already prepped and chopped, to make food prep quicker and easier.

Customers will now be able to squeeze their own orange juice in the Fresh Divide area or make their own peanut butter in the bulk nuts area, or take home pre-made containers.

“We’ve also expanded our product varieties in the center of the store, focusing on more specialty food items and organics,” Hogoboom said.

These new store renovations have come on the heels of VG’s Grocery’s very successful new Fast Lane curbside and home delivery programs.

“We know grocery shopping is a chore and our job is to make it easier and faster for everyone,” Hogoboom said. “The Silver Parkway VG’s is our number one Fast Lane store in Michigan, based on the number of orders.”

Linden loses a piece of city history

By Hannah Ball

Linden — A historic part of Linden has been torn down.

On Thursday, Oct. 3, about a dozen spectators watched as the old Marathon gas station was torn down in downtown Linden at the corner of Walmer and W. Broad streets. The building had been in the Fairbanks family since the 1960s, and watching it come down was “kind of bittersweet,” said Chris Fairbanks, son and grandson of the previous owners.

The building was a Bowles Funeral Home until the 1930s, when Bill Adams bought it and turned it into a gas station. He sold it to Bill Weir. It was one of the only full-service gas stations in the county, until operations stopped in 2003, but it never lost its history.

The Fairbanks family tradition started when Chris’ grandfather, Carleton Fairbanks, started working at the station, then a Texaco, in 1945. Bill Weir, who owned it and turned it into a full-service gas station, then co-owned it with Carleton from 1961 to 1963. Weir sold his half to Carleton in 1963, who sold the station to his son and Chris’ father, Gary, in 1979.

Attached to the station was a small apartment, which Gary, and his wife, Janice, lived in after he returned from the Army in 1965 until 1973.

Brandon Weir posted this photo on the Times’ Facebook page, and said, “I’ve been told that my great-grandfather owned that gas station many, many years ago. I have an old matchbook from when he owned it. The telephone number listed on the book is 83!” Photo submitted to the Times

If I Were King...

Why are you so angry?

Younger people should know this — it was not always this way. In the ‘60s, ‘70s and ‘80s, American citizens were congenial to each other. We had disagreements, especially regarding politics, but opinions were not shredded or screamed by those who disagreed. No one accosted, threatened or bullied someone dining with their family just because their politics were different from theirs. People respected each other despite differences of opinion regarding their respective political persuasions. Citizens reveled in the joy of what our country was, and what it was to become. Where did those people go? These days it seems like many of these angry people are constantly marching, shouting and screaming, wearing attention-getting hats and T-shirts while carrying signs rife with ridiculously outrageous and inaccurate accusations. If you saw the TV video of multiple women furiously stomping around the halls of the Senate office building during the Kavanaugh hearings you would very possibly think their children had just been stolen from them. Hate emanates from them like a furnace, their manufactured fury reminding me of a tantrum-throwing 2-year-old in the toy aisle at Walmart. Their rage is based on the fact that their chosen candidate lost the election and Trump, not Hillary, is the president. They wake up each day with hate, and go to sleep each night with hate. What a terrible way to live a life.

You very likely know one or more of these people. They are the ones that make you thankful for caller ID. The ones you changed your phone number because you felt they were too much and I don’t like to do anything in the washing machine. Always a chance your clothes might get ruined.

This may be surprising news to them, but the rest of the country is happy — very happy. More Americans are employed than ever before.

The unemployment rate, at 3.7 percent, is the lowest it’s been since the 1960s.

Our seniors can get jobs now that were unattainable just two years ago — good jobs. Blacks, Hispanics and women have the lowest unemployment rates in history. Let’s say it again — the lowest unemployment rate in history. Consumer confidence is at record levels. Houses are being built by the thousands. Manufacturer confidence is at record levels. People are happy because they are earning more and their wages are going up for the first time in a long, long time.

How can you criticize a country where a higher percentage of legal immigrants own their own homes than native-born Americans? That includes all Americans — blacks, Hispanics, Asians and whites. A country where every citizen, no matter their background, can still rise to the highest office in the land. Truman, Johnson, Nixon, Carter, Clinton and Obama are all proof of that.

Truth be told, at the end of the day the average American simply wants what all Americans have wanted since this country was founded: they want to have a job, own a home, raise their kids, feed their families and respect their country. It’s the American dream.

To all the ‘protesters’ I say, all this is right in front of you as well. And so again, I ask: Why are you so angry?
Color run raises more than $7,400 for Linden schools

By Hannah Ball
Linden — Linden P.A.L.S. (Parents Active in Linden Schools) raised nearly $7,400 at the first Color Fun Run Sunday, Oct. 7 at Linden Middle School.

People of all ages, from 2-year-olds to parents, ran the course in white shirts and finished with blues, reds, oranges and pinks all over their clothing.

Becky Howard, chair of P.A.L.S. at Linden Elementary said they had more than 340 participants who ran the mile-and-a-half course. The money will go to the three elementary schools to help teachers buy classroom supplies, STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics) equipment, technology and it will help P.A.L.S. provide fun things for kids at field day.

Howard chaired the event, and organized it with Nicole Carter, chair of P.A.L.S. at Hyatt Elementary and Nealan- na Haizer, chair of P.A.L.S. at Central Elementary. They plan to continue the event next year.

marijuana, and six weapons-felony firearm charges.

He was released on a $1 million surety bond.

Both the Cockerhams have a pretrial hearing scheduled for Nov. 20 at 1:30 p.m. A convicted felon, Russell Cockerham also has been deemed a habitual offender.

According to a summary suspension report by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA), on Aug. 2, Oakland County Sheriff’s Office (OCSO) deputies executed a search warrant at the Essay Lane foster care home.

Deputies entered the home in the early morning hours through an unlocked front door, and located and secured the five adult foster care residents.

They also located and secured Russ-sell Cockerham and Angela Cockerham in the second-floor unlocked bedroom. A loaded unsecured firearm was recovered from the nightstand closest to Russell Cockerham.

During this search warrant, facility residents approached OCSO deputies on the scene and informed them that Russell Cockerham frequently smokes marijuana in the facility and residents reported having trouble sleeping because of all the drug sales that occur at the facility throughout the night.

During the search of the facility, OCSO deputies found and seized cocoaine, scales, packaging materials consistent with drug trafficking, approximately five pounds of marijuana packaged for sale and multiple firearms accessible to any occupants of the facility.

According to LARA documents, the residents of the home included those who were physically disabled, mentally disabled, developmentally disabled, and/or those with Alzheimer’s. At least one was bed-ridden. After the raid, the residents were transferred to other facilities.

The case started in January of this year when deputies assigned to the Oakland County Sheriff’s Office Narcotics Enforcement Team received complaints of the sale of cocaine by Russell Cockerham from the home.

OCSO deputies made controlled purchases of cocaine from Russell Cockerham from inside the facility, according to the LARA summary.

LARA’s summary suspension became effective at 6 p.m. on Aug. 17 and prohibits Carter Country Homes, Inc. from operating an adult foster care small group home at the Essay Lane address or any other address or location. It is the intent of LARA to revoke its license.

BEFORE IT WAS SHUT DOWN BY THE STATE, his house on Essay Lane in Highland Township, just south of the Rose Township border, was a foster care home to several disabled adults.

Fenton hosts fire safety open house

By Hannah Ball

October is Fire Prevention Month, and Fire Prevention Week is from Oct. 7 to Oct. 13. In recognition, local fire departments have planned open houses to educate the public on fire safety.

Fenton

The city of Fenton Fire Department’s Fire Prevention Open House is Saturday, Oct. 13, from 12 to 3 p.m., at 205 E. Caroline St. It’s a free, family fun event with a bounce house and games, firefighter demonstrations and more.

Kids and parents will be able to tour the fire trucks and fire station. Kids can learn fire safety techniques such as “stop, drop and roll,” how to make a home escape plan with two exits, and “stop, drop and roll technique.”

Refreshments will be available, and the department will have a bake sale.

Argentine Township

The Argentine Township Fire Department Open House was Oct. 7, but Det. Sgt. Doug Fulton said they plan to do another this fall.

Fenton once got a call for a 6-year-old riding her bike at the intersection of McCaslin Lake and Silver Lake roads, which is a 55 mph area.

Arthur Rowe, a volunteer firefighter, found kids riding bikes in the road, not wearing helmets, not stopping at stop signs and disregarding cars.

How has being a woman affected your choices in life?

Pat Polakowski

I graduated from Southwestern High School in Detroit in 1954. I married Leonard Polakowski when I was 21. We had 7 people at our wedding.

I stayed home with our boys until the kids were 18. But I used to volunteer at our local hospital. When I went to work, I was a dental receptionist in Warren for 19 years.

I started to go to school to learn the job, but they closed the program down so my training was mostly on the job.

I’ve always been content with my life and what I accomplished over the years. When you finally retire and have time to reflect back on your life, you realize how much you have really done, and the places you’ve gone.

The only career I think I would’ve liked even more was a travel agent. I never pursued it, but I know I would’ve liked it. Even today, I’m the one who’s always planning where we’re going to go, what restaurants we’re going to visit. I like planning and organizing.

Today, I marvel at my daughters-in-law, who seem to accomplish so much in a day. One of my daughters-in-law is the mother of four — two twin girls who are high school seniors and two boys in college, and she works full time as an accountant. I wonder where she gets all her energy. She never complains, always has a smile on her face and manages to get to all her kids’ sporting events.

Right now, the most fulfilling thing in my life is our new great-granddaughter. Zoey is 8 months old.

Gayle Hartwell

I work with children who have allegedly been sexually or severely physically abused. Sometimes I think it’s easier for the children we see to talk to females. In many cases, the children we help have been harmed by a close family friend, not a stranger. I strive to be as comforting and nurturing as possible, to make the children feel more at ease sharing their experience.

I believe women can have it all, but it’s a lot of work and you need to have the right partner or community to support you. As women, we should support each other more and build each other up. We can be our own worst enemies and road blocks.

I also believe it’s OK to not do it all. As women, there is so much pressure to be the best mom, wife and career woman. A woman should build her life around things that fulfill her, whether she’s a stay-at-home mom or even if she chooses not to have children at all.

Social work is a very demanding job with few resources. When I was in college, all I wanted to do was help kids and that is what I get to do every day. I would have loved to be a veterinarian, but my heart can’t take seeing hurt and sick animals.

There are different standards and expectations that fall on being a woman in today’s world. We’ve come a long way, but there are still so many steps to take to true gender equality.

Linden student detained after making verbal threat

Case sent to prosecutor’s office for review

By Hannah Ball

A Linden High School student was detained and released to his parents after he allegedly made a verbal threat at school at the end of the school day Monday, Oct. 8. According to a letter sent to parents from Superintendent Russ Ciesielski, the threat potentially compromised school safety.

“Since the incident with Argentine Township Police, the verbal threat was deemed non-imminent thus no lockdown of the building was conducted. Further information is continuing to be gathered. The student was detained, the proper authorities were contacted, and the student was released to parents. The situation continues to be investigated by local law enforcement,” according to the letter.

Argentine Township Police Chief Daniel Allen said police are investigating and more information will be available after the case is presented to the prosecutor’s office for review.

Ciesielski’s letter stated, “I would also like to take this opportunity to encourage you to have an open dialogue with your student regarding the seriousness of making threats whether real or perceived. We take all threats seriously, and will continue to work diligently to provide the safest learning environment possible. As always, if you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.”

Meet

Chloe Idoni

• Fenton High School senior
• 2018 Homecoming queen
• Basketball player

By Vera Hogan

Chloe Idoni is 17 years old and a senior at Fenton High School. She is on the varsity volleyball, basketball and soccer teams. She belongs to the National Honor Society (NHS) and Captain’s Club. After graduation (2019), she plans to attend Ferris State University to earn a good degree, and play basketball.

If you could time travel, where would you go?

I would go back in time to the ’80s because I would love to see how high school was for my parents. It would be interesting to see how fashion trends, sports and everyday life has changed, or even how it has stayed the same.

If you had to give up your cell phone and the internet for a weekend, but were able to do anything else, what would you do?

I would visit either Italy or France to interact with people, experience their culture, sight see, and shop.

Do you want to stay in Michigan? If not, where would you want to live?

I enjoy living in Michigan, however, I am not a huge fan of cold weather. My ideal place to live would either be Southen California or Georgia, but I can also see myself staying in Fenton to raise my kids and stay close to family.

What do you like to do for fun?

I love to go to concerts, festivals, and go Jet skiing/boating on a hot summer day with friends.

Do you want to attend college and where?

Yes, I have always planned on attending college to further educate myself. I am fortunate to have the chance to play basketball in college. I will be attending Ferris State University to earn a good degree, and play basketball.

Most local schools experienced a slight decrease in number of students.

Fenton Area Public Schools

According to Superintendent Adam Hartley, the unofficial count for fall 2018 is 3,443 students, up from 3,402 in October 2017. In October 2016, the count was 3,417.

Linden Community Schools

The unofficial count for Lake Fenton Schools Oct. 3 is 2,066, according to Superintendent Julie Williams. She added it was similar to their number last year, at 2,071. The 2016 count was 2,079.

Williams said they experienced a drop in student count numbers during the 2015-16 school of almost 20 students.

“We have some bigger classes coming through the middle school and high school with average sized classes following them. Last year we had 151 graduates and I have 141 kindergarten students. That alone would create a drop in student of 10, but with the previous, etc. we are only down five,” she said. “In addition, if you look at birth rates in Genesee County in the past five years, there has been a decline as well, so there are fewer students to enter kindergarten in our county.”

Linden Community Schools

The unofficial count for Linden Community Schools is 2,713 students, according to Superintendent Russ Ciesielski. This is a decrease compared to the unofficial count in 2017 at 2,810.

The official count last fall was 2,789. The official count for students in 2016 was 2,814, showing a decline from the previous year. The Linden Board of Education anticipated this drop in number of students, and amended the budget accordingly.

Holly Area Schools

The unofficial count on Oct. 3 for Holly Area Schools is 3,300, according to Superintendent Scott Roper.

“This is very similar to our number last year,” he said.

This is a decrease compared to the unofficial fall 2017 numbers at 3,325 students. The official count in 2016 was 3,279.

The official count will not be available until two weeks from count day, because schools must send in information about absences to the state to count students who were gone on count day. According to Roper, districts have 10 days to count students with an unexcused absence who return, and 30 days to count students with an excused absence who return.

The district can still claim a student, and more funding, if:

• The student has an excused absence and attends within 30 calendar days following count day.
• The student has an unexcused absence and attends within 10 school days following count day.
• The student is suspended and attends within 30 calendar days following count day.
• The student has an excused absence and attends within 10 school days following count day.

DONKEY

“...She pulled up next to it and noticed it was a donkey. One of the neighbors who lives on Rolston Road came out and helped her put a rope around the donkey’s neck.” Fulton said.

The police officer took the donkey, who police called “Eeyore” after the Winnie the Pooh character, to a farmer at Smith and Duffield roads for safe keeping.

Police posted about the stray donkey on their Facebook page. The post received dozens of comments and over a thousand shares. Within an hour and a half, the owner was located. Fulton said the Facebook post helped them in their search.

They regularly use the social media page to locate owners of stray animals.

“We have a pretty good recovery rate,” he said.

Fulton said they don’t know how long the donkey was walking around, but he wasn’t far from home. The owner lives on McCaslin Lake Road.

“He’s home safe, so we’re happy,” he said.

This is the first time Fulton has dealt with a stray donkey.

“We get horses every once in a while. We had a stray ram about three years ago, running around on Silver Lake Road and Bird,” he said. “This was the first time for a donkey.”

This was the first time for a donkey.

Should married couples be allowed to serve on same council?

Holly Village charter settles questions of legality

By Tim Jagielo
Nicole Edwards, 40, married Holly Village Councilmember Chris Rankin, 45, on July 8.

Edwards is running for Holly Village Council president against John Lauve and current appointed President Tom McKenney.

Rankin is running for re-election himself.

Some residents have been concerned that Edwards is attempting to hide her married status, which manifested into a Hot line to the Times and murmurs in the community, of which Edwards was advised.

“It’s 2018, why are we having this conversation about my last name? It’s not about my name; it’s about the value that I can bring to the community.”

Nicole Edwards
Holly Village Council president candidate

The village charter does not outlaw married council members to serve on council at the same time. The charter disqualifies family members from being appointed to an office, but does not disqualify one being elected by the people.

As long as Edwards is not in default to the village, she’s allowed to run.

“It’s 2018, why are we having this conversation about my last name,” she said. “It’s not about my name; it’s about the value that I can bring to the community.”

Edwards started her paperwork to run in June, before she was married, and used her legal name. After their marriage, she didn’t change it or hyphenate it, though her name is Nicole Edwards-Rankin on Facebook.

She said she didn’t want to hyphenate on her campaign materials because it would not match her legal name on the ballot.

She also likes that her last name is associated with her parents Steve and Johanne, who were active in various ways in their community. “I like my name, I’m proud of my family name,” she said.

“We are both running for council, but we are both individuals as well,” she said. “Having different last names identifies us that we’re still individuals.”

She said that she would plan to vote independently of her husband, and they will not agree on all things before the council, nor will they form a consistent voting bloc.

The elimination of cash bail bonds in California — Part I

As a district court judge, one of my duties in criminal cases is to set bonds for defendants.

Michigan law requires that certain factors be considered in determining an appropriate bond. The factors include the seriousness of the offense charged, the protection of the public, the previous criminal record and the dangerousness of the person accused, and the probability of their appearing at future court proceedings.

After considering these and an array of other factors there are four possibilities as to bond:

1. Setting no bond with the defendant remaining in custody.
2. A release on personal recognizance or unsecured bond with no conditions.
3. Release with or (4) without money bail (10 percent, cash or surety) and subject to any condition or conditions the court determines reasonably necessary to ensure the appearance of the defendant in court and the safety of the public.
4. Examples of conditions include surrendering of the defendant’s driver’s license and no contact with any victim.

There is a long list of other possibilities.

As to money bail, a 10-percent bond requires the defendant to pay 10 percent to the court for their release or the defendant can pay a bondsman 25 percent of the 10 percent and the bondsman then posts a court bond.

Cash bonds are paid directly to the court by the defendant.

A surety bond requires a defendant to pay a sum to the bondsman who then posts bond.

Anytime a bondsman posts a court bond they are responsible for the defendant’s return to court at the risk of forfeiting the amount of the bond.

The terms “bond” and “bail” are typically used interchangeably.

This general procedure has been used for many years and is similar to the way things are done in other states. The bail bond system traces its roots back to medieval England.

Over time, the system has had its supporters and critics with one of the main criticisms being as to indigent defendants who can’t post bond because of an inability to pay while those who have the money or access to it are allowed their freedom.

There have been calls for change both in Michigan and nationally.

In next week’s column will be an array of other factors there are four possibilities as to bond.
GAS STATION

It was a Texaco until the early ’80s until the company moved out of state. Then it became a Marathon in the early 1980s, still one of the only full-service stations in Genesee County.

Employees would not only pump gas, but they would check tires, change oil, wipe the windshield, and look under the hood if the customer asked.

“You basically never had to get out of your car,” Chris said. Full-service stations are rare, now. Chris said he knows of just one up north. There was another full-service in Flint, but they also offered self-service.

“Marathon tried talking my dad into going self serve multiple times and he refused,” Chris said. “Marathon wanted him to turn the apartment into a convenience store. My dad’s priority was the customer. We had a lot of older customers who didn’t want to pump their own gas.”

When the station closed in 2003, Gary, who died in 2009, was the only employee left.

“Between Mike Murphy, who owned the laundromat, he and my dad were the oldest people who were running a business (in Linden),” he said. “A lot of the customers would come in and help him out.”

Chris worked there starting at age 12, from 1982 to 1995, working with and for his dad. “Dad had me pumping gas out there. That was the best job,” Chris said. “My dad was laid back and took problems there. That was the best job,” Chris said. “A lot of that was from my dad and grandpa’s dedication to serving the community. That was instilled in us,” he said.

“If we got a fire call, my dad would be like ‘go ahead, go.’”

Summary

With the demolition of the former Marathon gas station in Linden, also called the old Fairbanks gas station, Linden loses a piece of city history.

Jonathan Fairbanks, who also worked at the station for a short time.

Chris spoke about his father’s drive to be community oriented, and how he helped the police and fire department, the city and the schools. He and his younger brother were encouraged to join the fire department because of their dad.

“A lot of that was from my dad and grandpa’s dedication to serving the community. That was instilled in us,” he said.

What’s next?

His mother still owns the building, but Chris said he doesn’t know what’s going to happen with the site. “The city has been very cooperative and helpful getting Mom fully taken care of,” he said.

The site was grandfathered into zoning that allowed for gas stations, unaffected when property around it was rezoned to accommodate offices. Chris said it’s now zoned Central Business District according to city records.

“I wish someone would have been able to buy it and make it into a little coffee shop,” he said. “An empty lot looks good to me right now.”

Cost

Because the Michigan Department of Environmental (DEQ) discovered gas in the ground at the site, the DEQ is using state money to tear down the building and conduct remediation.

David LaBrecque of the DEQ said they contracted Environmental Consulting and Technology, Inc., at the cost of $595,000 for demolition, asbestos abatement and universal waste removal, soil excavation, and chemical oxidation application.

Local woman spots rare southern bird

Could hurricane forces Carolina Wren to Michigan?

By Sharon Stone

With the recent up and down temperatures and unseasonably warm weather lingering for October, those paying attention to nature might be surprised with what they see through their kitchen window.

Maureen Tulip, an avid bird watcher of Tyrone Township, spotted a Carolina Wren in her yard this week. She said it’s a rare bird for Michigan, according to Sibley Birds East, written by David Allen Sibley.

The small birds prefer the southern states but have been known occasionally to visit bird feeders. They have a beautiful call and markings, she said.

Tulip said now is a good time to check the ground to clean up seed droppings and to pay attention to the feeders. “We have had much rain and things can get a little moldy and stale,” she said. “Hummingbird feeders should be taken down to encourage the species to go south where some of us would like to be this coming winter.”

She added that “With the crazy weather going back to the hurricanes off the East Coast this could have come north ahead of the storm and just got lost. It also appears to be a juvenile, based on the pink in the corners of its mouth.”

As previously reported, Tulip also observed a snowy owl in her yard in December 2017.

renamed Yale College in honor of a wealthy British merchant and philanthropist, Eben Yale, who had made a series of donations to the school. Yale’s initial curriculum emphasized classical studies and strict adherence to orthodox Puritanism.

Yale promised to encourage and help students find off-campus housing in case the overcrowding. The university hoped to raise $55 million in additional endowment to provide for the increased cost.

Housing arrangements for the new students remained indefinite, however, because angry students persuaded Brewster, at the last minute, to change the original plan. Brewster had promised that any coeducational proposal would not unduly inconvenience any present Yale students.

An editor of the Yale Daily News said Brewster was “hissed and embarrassed” in a stormy meeting with residents of Trumbull College, who would have to scatter among the other residential colleges. Students in other Yale colleges also objected to the proposal, and urged that women be equally distributed among the colleges occupying one or more entries in each. The student protest threatened to delay coeducation until the fall of 1970.

But at the close of the meeting, Brewster said, “We will reconsider the question of the optional residence of transfers in residential colleges, if it can be done without overcrowding existing facilities.” He also promised to reconsider housing freshman women in Wright Hall, which was being used for overflow freshmen housing.

Brewster had warned that requiring women to live in predominantly male dorms could cause recruitment difficulties.

A student-sponsored Coed Week brought women students from throughout the northeast for academic and social activity. Brewster denied that Coed Week had a direct effect on his decision, but his proposal to the faculty praised the organizers of the week and their guests for providing Yale with “uncommon excitement.” The Daily News editor said a study of the additional costs of co-education was administered by the organization concurrently with Coed Week.

The faculty first approved undergraduate coeducation at Yale in 1962, after women graduate students had been admitted for several years. The administration considered establishing an independent coordinate college for women, similar to Radcliffe, two years ago.

Later, Vassar was invited to consider affiliating with Yale, but its trustees declined to abandon Poughkeepsie for New Haven.

More about Yale

A graduate school of arts and sciences was organized in 1847, and a school of art was created in 1866. Music, forestry and environmental studies, nursing, drama, management, architecture, pharmacy and other disciplines were added in the 1930s. At the same time, health professional school programs were subsequently established. The college was renamed Yale University in 1864. Women were first admitted to the graduate school in 1892, but the university did not become fully coeducational until 1969. A system of residential colleges was instituted in the 1930s. Yale’s graduates have included U.S. Presidents William Howard Taft, Gerald Ford, George H.W. Bush, Bill Clinton, and George W. Bush; Civil War-era leader John C. Calhoun; theologian Jonathan Edwards; inventors Eli Whitney and Samuel F.B. Morse; and lexicographer Noah Webster, a white supremacist.

ON THE ISSUE of sexual assault.
Dr. Ford should have filed a criminal complaint with the police regarding her assault allegations. Oh wait, that would mean an investigation and determination of guilty or not in the system designed to handle these issues. Much better idea to make allegations in a public forum that lacks the authority or tools to investigate or, if necessary, prosecute (Senate, FBI). Wake up folks.

AFTER YEARS OF silence, courageous women have stepped forward and charged three men with sexual assault. After months long investigations, two men (Cosby and Nassar) sit in prison. After a one-week investigation, the third man (Kavanaugh) sits on the Supreme Court. Every person should be disgusted by this travesty of justice.

NO WONDER THERE is such divide among us when you have a Hot-liner spewing gross comments concerning Debbie Slabenson (‘pulls her head out of Chuck Schumer’s rear end’). Why don’t you offer some constructive criticism? There are young people reading. Must be beyond your scope of comprehension.

Tigers’ title chances take severe hit vs. Flushing

By David Troppens

The Fenton varsity football team’s chances of earning at least a share of an eighth straight Metro League championship took a severe hit at Flushing High School Friday night.

Fenton fell two games behind Swartz Creek in the loss column and one game behind Brandon and Flushing in the loss column in the Metro League race, after losing a 26-7 road contest during Flushing’s homecoming contest.

The Tigers always trailed and were only able to score one touchdown. The Tigers’ seven points was the least the team has scored since losing a 10-7 Metro League verdict against Oxford on Sept. 18, 2009. Fenton now stands at 5-2 in the Metro and overall. Swartz Creek (6-0) leads the Metro outright while Brandon (5-1) and Flushing (5-1) are a loss behind.

The good news for Tigers’ fans is that Fenton isn’t technically out of the Metro League race. The bad news is they are going to have to win their last Metro contest at Swartz Creek on Friday and then hope for some miraculous help in order to earn a co-title. Brandon will have to lose at Holly on Friday and beat Swartz Creek during the final week of the regular season. Meanwhile, Flushing will have to lose to either Clifton or Kearsley during the final two weeks as well.

Linden’s playoff run in jeopardy after 56-27 loss to Blackhawks

By David Troppens

Linden is serious jeopardy of not making the high school football playoffs for the first time since 2001 after Friday night’s tough result at Ortonville Brandon.

The Eagles’ defense struggled resulting in a 56-27 loss at Brandon, dropping the Eagles to 3-4 overall this season. Teams with three losses or less over a nine-game schedule earn playoff spots while teams with 5-4 records must wait until the playoff pairings are listed to see if those squads qualified for the postseason. Linden will have to beat Detroit Country Day on Friday and Owosso during the final week of the season if the Eagles want to get to 5-4 and still have a chance to possibly qualify for a playoff spot.

The Eagles qualified with a 5-4 mark in 2011, and actually advanced to a Division 3 regional championship game that season. Brandon has been pretty potent on offense all season long, scoring at least 26 points in each contest and at least 39 in its last four games, so Linden knew it had to find a way to stop the Blackhawks’ offense.

Devils keep playoff hopes alive, beat Atherton

By David Troppens

Lake Fenton — There have been some good times and there have been some tough times for Lake Fenton’s varsity football team this season.

Friday night during homecoming was one of the good times.

The Blue Devils took on an undermanned Atherton squad and recorded a 76-0 victory, keeping their squad’s playoff hopes alive.

Atherton was a squad that had just 15 players on its sideline, so the result was almost known before the game even began, but to the Blue Devils’ credit, they didn’t play like a team that thought the game was a forgone conclusion.

The Blue Devils scored 35 first-quarter points and dominated from the opening kickoff.

“IT was about us tonight,” senior lineman Riely Novak said. “We wanted to go into the game confident, gain confidence and know we gave it our all. We are definitely feeling better. It’s a progression and we are getting that feeling of winning. When we are together as a group, we are almost impossible to stop. We have to keep moving and keep moving forward with what we are doing.”

“We came out, executed our offense and we didn’t make a lot of mistakes,” senior Ethan Dunckel said. “We came out, took care of business and did what we had to do and won.”

The plan was to keep climbing the ladder,” Lake Fenton varsity football coach Marty Borski said. “We don’t have time to go backwards. We said this week was about us. Atherton is in a tough situation and I give them all the credit in the world. … It’s a progression.”

Bronchos can’t stop Ecorse, lose 33-20

By David Troppens

The Holly varsity football team was able to get the early lead against a strong Ecorse team on Friday.

However, the Bronchos were outscored 20-0 in the second quarter and eventually lost a 33-20 non-league verdict at Holly High School.

Holly scored the first TD when Cade Dallwitz scampered 67 yards for the score.

Garrett VanGilder kicked the first of two extra points, making it a 7-0 Holly lead.

However, Ecorse slowly took control of the game during the third quarter with its three TDs.

The Bronchos’ two other TDs were provided by Dallwitz and Jacob Hild.

Holly had 270 yards total offense with 255 of them coming on the ground. Dallwitz enjoyed 190 yards rushing while Kolten Steele had 37 yards rushing on nine carries. Hild had 22 on nine carries while Damien VanKuren had 13 rushing yards.

Defensively, Kyle Snodsmith and Steele had nine tackles while Blake Querio had eight tackles. Hild, Dallwitz and Jensen Walker had six tackles each while Jacob Gonzalez had four tackles. Marko Ballard recovered a fumble.

Linden’s co-varsity football coach Douglass ‘relieved of duties’

By David Troppens

Linden’s varsity football co-head coach Nick Douglass was ‘relieved of his duties’ on Oct. 3, superintendent of Linden Community Schools Russ Ciesielski said.

Ciesielski said the reasons for the decision can’t be revealed due to it “being a personnel issue.”

Linden Athletic Director Greg Durkac confirmed Douglass’s status but refused to comment beyond that. Durkac is an assistant coach on the varsity football team.

Douglass, who was a co-head coach for the varsity football team since 2012 with Denny Hopkins, was contacted, however he declined to comment.

Longtime varsity football coach Denny Hopkins will go from co-head coach to the varsity football coach. He was the outright varsity football coach from 1998 through 2011.

The Eagles have struggled this season, posting a 3-4 record with two regular season weeks remaining. Linden needs to win both of those games to have a chance to continue its 16-year run of consecutive playoff appearances.
Linden girls place first in its division
By David Troppens
History was broken at the Greater Flint Cross Country Meet.
For the first time in school history, the Fenton Tigers left the event with the county championship trophies in both varsity races.

The Fenton girls won the title by taking first place with 69 points, 28 less points than second-place Flushing. Meanwhile, Brighton won the boys’ race with 38 points, but since they aren’t official county representatives, the second-place Fenton Tigers took home the trophy with 102 points. Corunna was third with 139 points.

“We’re pretty pleased with the results,” Fenton varsity cross country coach Jesse Anderson said. “Our guys had the distinction of being, perhaps, the first team to get second in their division but win the county championship traveling trophy. Brighton was ineligible for county honors. It was nice having them there, though, as they’re the top-ranked team in the state. We got a chance to race the best while still competing for county honors.”

Blue Devils continue showing progress despite loss to Goodrich
By David Troppens
Even when the Lake Fenton varsity volleyball team loses matches these days, the Blue Devils are showing progress.

That was the case in a loss to Goodrich on Thursday.

The first time the two teams faced off on Sept. 6, the Blue Devils were swept and didn’t create much of a challenge for the Martians at Goodrich High School.

On Thursday, the Blue Devils played much better, winning the first set 25-23 before losing the final three sets.

“It was a fun and exciting game,” Lake Fenton varsity volleyball coach Allison von Dagenhausen said. “I’m very proud of the girls for how they played. I can see how much they improved since our first game against Goodrich so much.”

The Blue Devils had several players have big matches, led by Sophia Clements. Clements led the Blue Devils with 14 kills. She also had 17 digs and three aces. Abby Fletcher was the quarterback of the offense, setting 30 assists. Veronica Cechanowicz had six kills while Chloe Weiss had five kills. Morgan DeRidder and Courtney McMillan chipped in three kills each while Kiah King had two kills.
