

The challenge of remaking CRUST

■ The bakery that added a restaurant has growing pains and rewards

By Tim Jagielo

Fenton — In the kitchen, Jacob Newblatt balanced two pizzas on raised platters and a sandwich together on a tray. He paused to check the order ticket once more and then rushed out to the dining area.

Omelets, pizzas and sandwiches move from the “window” to trays assembled by table. The marriage of the bakery and the kitchen are apparent, as CRUST bread is stacked and ready for sandwiches.

Accused murderer of pregnant woman rejects offer

■ Jacquelyne Faye Tyson, declared incompetent twice, heads to trial

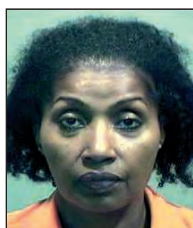

By Hannah Ball

The 56-year-old woman charged with fatally shooting a pregnant Linden woman and her co-worker rejected a plea deal Monday, Nov. 19.

As reported in August, Tyson could have pleaded guilty as mentally ill with two counts of second degree murder, one for each victim. The sentencing agreement would mean a prison sentence of 20 to 50 years.

Jacquelyne Faye Tyson is charged with first-degree premeditated murder, assault with intent to murder and two counts of felony firearm after shooting Lyric Work, 20, and Tamara Johnson, 45, of Mt. Morris, at the leasing office of Grand Oaks Apartments on July 26, 2016.

■ CDC issues warning over E. coli infections

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), public health and regulatory officials in several states, Canada, and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) are investigating a multistate outbreak of Shiga toxin-producing Escherichia coli O157:H7 (E. coli O157:H7) infections linked to romaine lettuce.

The CDC made the announcement Tuesday, Nov. 20 and is advising that U.S. consumers not eat any romaine lettuce, and retailers and restaurants

Lawsuit could go to Michigan Supreme Court

■ Legal battle continues over who has jurisdiction over part of Ripley Road

By Hannah Ball

Linden — The city of Linden is facing a lawsuit about an accident on Ripley Road that could potentially go to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Howard Schrock v City of Linden and Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Genesee involves a bicycle rider who hit a pothole on Ripley Road in July 2017.

“There was talk of filing paperwork to ask the Supreme Court to accept the case.”

Michael Gildner
Linden City attorney

During the Monday, Nov. 12 meeting, Linden Attorney Michael Gildner said, “The Court of Appeals ruled — and they ruled adverse to us, the city. There was talk of filing paperwork to ask the Supreme Court to accept the case. I don’t know if that has been done yet, but I know insurance council was enthusiastic about doing that.”

According to the opinion in the Michigan Court of Appeals, the accident occurred on the southern half of Ripley Road north of the railroad crossing and south of Rolston Road. This section has been maintained by the city for years.

Solar, wind power growing in Michigan

Utility companies and consumers are leading the trend toward renewable energy

By Tim Jagielo

The use of renewable energy and more efficient natural gas is growing and moving forward in Michigan.

Both DTE and Consumers Energy have plans in place for more solar and less coal-fired plants in the state.

Throughout Michigan, there are solar and wind arrays, such as the more than 200-acre solar array by DTE in Lapeer, and the Consumers Energy wind farms in Tuscola County.

Consumers Energy serves most of the tri-county area, except for parts of Livingston and Oakland counties.

The energy company produced a plan earlier this year to generate energy without coal by 2040. Instead, they would rely on natural gas for 60 percent of their output, and 40 percent from renewable resources.

Consumers Energy's current plan is to phase out coal fire and fuel oil plants as the plants reach the end of their design lives. The "youngest" coal-firing unit would be retired in 2040. The oldest would be retired in 2021. They would not build another fossil fuel plant.

According to Consumers Energy, retiring these plants will allow them to diversify their energy portfolio and delve into more renewable energy. Consumers Energy estimates that bills will stay below the national average as the plan is implemented.

Some of these old units are used for peak demand times, especially during the summer air conditioning season. This is when solar energy will be especially effective.

Replacing the up to 8,000 megawatts lost by closing these seven coal-fired plants will be done with mostly solar energy, with wind, battery storage and purchasing energy from a plant that is switching from coal to natural gas.

Wreaths Across America honor all military

Volunteers and donations always needed to keep wreath-laying tradition going

Compiled By Vera Hogan

One man's annual tribute to our veterans inspired a legion of volunteers and gave rise to the Wreaths Across America of today

Morrill Worcester, owner of Worcester Wreath Company of Harrington, Maine, was a 12-year-old paper boy for the Bangor Daily News when he won a trip to Washington, D.C. His first trip to the nation's capital was one he would never forget, and Arlington National Cemetery made an especially indelible impression on him. This experience followed him throughout his life and successful career, reminding him that his good fortune was due, in large part, to the values of this nation and the veterans who made the ultimate sacrifice for their country.

In 1992, Worcester Wreath found themselves with a surplus of wreaths nearing the end of the holiday season. Remembering his boyhood experience at Arlington, Worcester realized he had an opportunity to honor our country's veterans. With the aid of Maine Senator Olympia Snowe, arrangements were made for the wreaths to be placed at Arlington in one of the older sections of the cemetery that had been receiving fewer visitors with each passing year.

Come Heller high water...

Thanksgiving was great, and I have much to be thankful for. Yadda, yadda, yadda. But that was yesterday. Today, perhaps owing to the estimated 6,458,132 calories I consumed Thursday, I'm a little, shall we say, cranky. So today I shall flip the script and deliver unto you in true Ebenezer Scrooge meets The Grinch meets the old guy in UP fashion, here are all sorts of things I'm not grateful for:

• Black Friday. It used to be the day after Thanksgiving. It wasn't my thing — something about staying up to midnight to fight crowds to get a TV I don't need doesn't strike me as all that much fun — but it never annoyed me.

Now it annoys me because it seems to start around Halloween. Having a Black Friday sale a week before Black Friday means it isn't a Black Friday sale at all. It's just a sale, and usually not a very good one. We ruin everything in this country.

• Baseball. Baseball is killing itself by allowing big market teams to dominate the trade and free agent markets. Little teams have to luck out just to make the playoffs. Big teams just buy their spots. That's bad for the sport. When you play Risk, everyone gets the same number of armies. That's how baseball should be. When you can buy a playoff appearance, what's the point?

• Smartphones. Was life really all that bad when people couldn't reach you all the time? No, it wasn't. It was better, in fact. And have you noticed that almost no one, particularly anyone under the age of 30, actually answers their cell phone? So why do we have them?

• My iPhone. I swear if it tells me one more time that I don't have enough room in the cloud to back up my data, I'm going to pitch it in the river.

• And while I'm ranting about mobile phones, why is a smartphone one word while cell phone is two?

• Furniture stores. Have you noticed that furniture stores have sales all the time — every day, every weekend, every holiday? How is that possible? I submit that if things are always on sale they're probably overpriced to begin with. Who's with me? (I also suspect, with no proof whatsoever, that stores inflate the price before a sale so the sale price is in reality the actual price. Tell me I'm wrong.)

• Mattresses. Why do they cost so much? Honestly, why? They never used to. A mattress was a mattress.

I was in a store the other day that had mattresses costing $4,000 and more. Really? What is this thing made out of, ground up gold, frankincense and myrrh?

• And speaking of gold, frankincense and myrrh, what kinds of gifts are those for a baby? And what the heck is myrrh anyway?

• Christmas songs. From the last two gripes, you probably guessed I was going this direction, but how come there hasn't been a decent new song since ... forever? I don't mean a good rendition of an old song. I mean a new song.

• Your driving. Yes, you. I'm going to say this one last time: The left lane on the freeway does not have your name on it. It's not your personal lane. It's for passing. If you aren't passing, move the blankety-blank over. Please. (I'm trying to be nice here.)

Oh, and while I'm thinking about it, hey, you kids: Get off my lawn.

I WANT TO say thank you to the man who found my wallet in a shopping cart at VG's in Fenton on Monday and turned it in at the desk. I don't know who you are but I am glad that an honest person found it and turned it in. Again, thank you and have a very nice Thanksgiving.

HERE WE GO again, 'Thoughts and prayers' but no real action. A gunman opened fire Monday at a Chicago hospital, killing a police officer and two hospital employees.

FOR THOSE WHO didn't like the direction our country was heading, how's that working for you? Are you feeling 'great again'?

HAPPY THANKSGIVING TO all our Troops sent to the border to lay barbed wire at a cost of over $200 million. May you all be home by Christmas.

PRESIDENT TRUMP PROMISED to get prescription prices down for senior citizens. I have seen over the last couple re-orders that the prices have gone down by quite a bit on prescriptions I must take for the rest of my life. Another promise made and another promise kept.

TO THE HOT-LINER asking about 'woken.' It is progressive slang to self-identify several conditions: 1) being aware of reality other than what's peddled by media and political elites and 2) having adopted an anti-white, anti-American and anti-capitalist agenda.

■ ■ ■
IS IT A coincidence that there are numerous killings with Trump as president? When he says it's OK to body slam someone and wishes to bomb Iraq's towns, and says that there are 'some good people' among the right wing what should we expect?

■ ■ ■
I'VE NOTICED SEVERAL 'Pickell for Judge' signs still up in Fenton, along LeRoy Street and North Road. Who is responsible for taking those down? The election was over two weeks ago.

IN REGARDS TO the migrants. You know, you've really hit a low spot in life when Mexico doesn't even want you.

■ ■ ■
WHO MADE BLACK Friday a holiday? The staff at our adult facility is taking Black Friday off as they did last year. That leaves 90-plus people for four days and four nights with no responsible staff member. We pay plenty and we should have a staff member on hand 24/7. Thank you.

Near miss for Holly DDA director

■ Driver blows through stop sign and misses her by 12 inches

By Vera Hogan

Holly's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Director Katy Hughes is thankful to be uninjured and even alive this week.

At about 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 20, Hughes was leaving her office at the Karl Richter Campus in Holly. As she started crossing East Street toward the parking lot, she was nearly hit by a car.

She posted her experience on Facebook and wants to share with the public for purpose of bringing awareness to the problem of speeders and unsafe drivers.

"I just experienced one of the most frightening things to ever happen to me," she said. "While leaving my office tonight at 6 p.m., walking to my truck in the parking lot across the street, I nearly got hit by a car."

"A small red car was quite a ways from me, not even to the stop sign at the driveway to the Karl Richter campus. I stepped into the crosswalk, which is brightly lit by a street light. After stopping at the stop sign, the driver of the car accelerated rapidly. I looked to my right thinking, 'He's going to stop. I know he sees me. He has to stop. Wait! He is NOT stopping. OMG!'

"I wish I hadn't worn my 4-inch heeled boots to work today because I had to run the rest of the way across the road to narrowly avoid being run down by the driver of this red car. He missed me by maybe 12 inches. And then, he slowed down, hopefully realizing what almost happened. I hollered a string of not-nice words in his general direction. Then my knees went weak, I became short of breath, heart pounding — the works. Damn near fainted after realizing how close of a call that was. It was so scary. Hope I never experience that scenario again."

Hughes said Wednesday morning that this has been a problem area for some time and that many people have complained. She said she was crossing East Street on the crosswalk, under the big overhead light.

The driver of the red vehicle appeared to be in his mid-20s and was alone in the car. "He wasn't even up to the stop sign when I started to cross the street. I thought there was plenty of time," Hughes said.

There are two stop signs very close together. "Once you gun it you have to stop again."

Amazon refunds $70 million in 2017 for purchases made by children

■ Parents unaware of in-app advertising targeted to children 5 and under

By Hannah Ball

Adults watching TV or listening to the radio can discern between show content and an advertisement. The same cannot be said for kids.

A report in the Journal of Developmental & Behavioral Pediatrics found that 95 percent of the most popular downloaded apps marketed to kids age 5 and under contain at least one form of advertising. This includes educational apps, too.

This advertising isn't content adults are used to seeing — it can be popular cartoon characters trying to sell kids products, teasers encouraging kids to buy the full version of the app for more game play, and videos that interrupt the game to promote in-app purchases.

In-app purchases are huge, totaling more than $36 billion in 2016.

Jean Radesky, pediatrician and lead author of the study, said these apps, on games like Strawberry Shortcake Bake Shop and Barbie Magical Fashion, were "intrusive," "deceptive," and "manipulative." She stated that children age 8 and younger can't distinguish between media content and advertising. Some children think the ad is a part of the game and click on it.

The apps mentioned in the study, such as Toca Boca Kitchen, are the most popular apps for age 5 and under in the Google Play store.

Kids clicking on ads can cause parents a lot of financial stress. In 2016, Amazon was found guilty of illegally billing some of its customers after their children bought things in apps. In 2017, Amazon was ordered to pay back more than $70 million to parents who were affected.

In 2014, Google was ordered to refund consumers at least $19 million after a Federal Trade Commission complaint about billing parents for children's unauthorized in-app purchases. Some children spent hundreds of dollars on in-app purchases before their parents could find out.

Google changed its practices to require the account holder password before buying anything in an app.

If your child regularly plays games on an app on a smartphone or tablet, make sure you're aware of any available in-app purchases that could cause your phone bill to skyrocket.

What to do

- Give your kids an allowance. Put $10 or $20 on a gift card or prepaid Visa each month, and let your kids use that card for in-app purchases. This can help teach them budgeting.
- Go for the paid app. If you want to avoid this incessant advertising, choosing the paid version can be a good idea because they are generally ad-free.
- Even though few providers are completely ad-free, PBS has fewer ads.
- More blatantly branded websites have larger, more interactive ads. This includes HappyMeal, Lego, Lucky Charms, Bratz and HotWheelz branded sites.

Fenton Township proposes CDBG projects

■ Culvert repairs, demolition, barrier-free improvement on list of potential projects

By Hannah Ball

Fenton Twp. — At the Monday, Nov. 19 meeting, the Fenton Township Board of Trustees voted 6-0 to approve a list of recommended projects eligible for Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding. Supervisor Bonnie Mathis was absent.

The township is receiving $82,164 for 2019-2021.

CDBG funding is earmarked for improvements to low-moderate income areas, but can also be used for the general good of the population.

The recommended projects include the following:

CDBG funds can be used for the demolition of 3095 Thompson Road property. The property used to be a Fenton Fast Lane, but is now a vacant building on a developing road. The board has debated what to do with the property for months.

In his recommendation to the board, Thomas Broecker, operations manager/deputy clerk, said he believes it would be in the best interest of the township to consider demolishing the building to reduce property tax liability. The estimated cost for this project is $50,000.

If not demolished, however, the township also proposes barrier free improvements at the former Fenton Fast Lane if it can be renovated for public use. This would include improvements for the restrooms, parking lot and building entrances. The estimated cost of the project is $25,000.

The funds could also be used for paving the intersection of Old Linden Road at Thompson Road. Four similar projects were completed with the 2016-2018 CDBG funds, but there wasn't enough money to finish this particular intersection. The estimated cost for this project is $28,000.

CDBG funds could be used for barrier-free improvements at the Thompson Road Regional Dog Park to make the park more handicap accessible. The proposed project list includes constructing two paved handicapped parking spaces in the existing parking lot, with a paved or concrete pathway from the parking spaces to the fenced-in areas. This also includes a concrete platform in each enclosure. The estimated cost of the project is $35,000.

Ditching and culvert replacement at certain unpaved roads also qualify. The township proposes using CDBG funds to complete ditching and culvert replacement as needed on Odell Road, Fairbanks Road, Jennings Road (north of Thompson), and the south side of Ray Road (Linden Road to U.S. 23). Because these roads are located in low-moderate income areas, they are eligible for funds. The estimated cost for this project is $50,000.

Another proposed project is crack sealing on Jennings Road. According to the proposal, Jennings Road between Thompson Road and Lahring Road handles a very high volume of traffic because of the proximity of Lake Fenton High School. It was paved in 2010 and needs crack sealing. The estimated cost of the project is $15,000.

The board also added using funds for a senior safety project and Southern Lakes Parks and Recreation scholarships.

The board pre-approved these projects for submission. The deadline was Wednesday, Nov. 21. Once projects have been approved, the board will take action again with complete applications.

PRESIDENT REAGAN

RESURRECTED the U.S. economy and military after the disastrous Carter administration. Reagan's leadership and optimism made it possible for many of us to get jobs, buy a house and raise families. His staunch anti-Communism helped to bring down the Soviet empire. He is revered in U.S. history.

■■■■ A SPECIAL HOLIDAY thank you to the thoughtful person who paid for our meal Sunday at Fenton Coney. For two senior citizens on a fixed income it was a wonderful surprise. Hope you have a special holiday season.

■■■■ SO, COLORADO PULLED in $105 million in fiscal year 2016-2017 tax revenue from marijuana sales. It was used to create housing programs, aid mental health programs in jails and health programs in middle schools. All sound like liberal based programs, not a cent for roads or rebates. Wonderful.

■■■■ DIDN'T YOU GET the message? We no longer say 'global warming,' that claim has been disproven. We've moved on to 'climate change,' at least until everyone realizes climate stability is not real. When that happens I'll let you know what fake claim we come up with next.

■■■■ PROPOSAL: MINIMUM AGE for smoking, drinking, driving, voting, military service and gun ownership should all be set to the same age.

■■■■ 'EDUCATION SECRETARY' BETSY DeVos' rewrite of Title IV bolsters the rights of the accused stipulating that sexual aggression 'must be so severe' that it denies a person's access to education. There's a 60-day period for public comment before going 'back to the future' along with Trump's finest.

■■■■ THE TROOPS PRESIDENT Donald Trump sent to the border ahead of the elections earlier this month will reportedly soon be leaving, in spite of continued flows of asylum-seekers and other migrants coming to the United States.

■■■■ MY HONDA WAS built in Ohio. My old Ford was built in Mexico. Yeah, you definitely need to grow up but I doubt you will.

■■■■ CAPITOL HILL IS alive with the sound of impeachment.

■■■■ FROM HUMAN HEALTH to the world's food supply, from water scarcity to widespread migration and violence, the threats from climate change are much larger than previously thought.

■■■■ PENTAGON SAYS TROOPS at U.S. border to cost taxpayers about $210 million.

■■■■ VERY SCARY. NANCY Pelosi will be third in line in presidential succession.

LOOKING BACK at this week in HISTORY

COMPILED BY VERA HOGAN

NOV. 25

1963: Three days after his assassination in Dallas, Texas, John F. Kennedy is laid to rest with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia. Kennedy, the 35th president of the United States, was shot to death while riding in an open-car motorcade with his wife and Texas Governor John Connally through the streets of downtown Dallas. Former Marine and communist sympathizer Lee Harvey Oswald was the alleged assassin.

NOV. 26

2002: President George W. Bush issues a humorous but sincere presidential pardon to a lucky turkey that otherwise might have ended up on someone's Thanksgiving Day dinner table. In doing so, he continued a tradition begun in 1947 when the National Turkey Foundation first presented Thanksgiving turkeys to President Harry S. Truman. According to the National Turkey Foundation, Truman was given one live turkey and two dressed turkeys the week before Thanksgiving in 1947. Truman donated the live bird to a local farm, where the turkey was guaranteed a long life unmolested by stuffing or gravy.

NOV. 27

1965: Detroit Red Wing Gordie Howe scores his 600th goal in a game against the Montreal Canadiens. He was the first (and the last, until Wayne Gretzky) NHL player to score 600 times in his career. He'd broken the previous record — 544 goals, set by the legendary Canadian Maurice "Rocket" Richard — in November 1963. That game's referee told reporters that "Gordie Howe can do more things better than anyone else. That's just all there is to it."

NOV. 28

1994: Serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer, serving 15 consecutive life sentences for the brutal murders of 15 men, is beaten to death by a fellow inmate while performing cleaning duty in a bathroom at the Columbia Correctional Institute gymnasium in Portage, Wisconsin. During a 13-year period, Dahmer, who lived primarily in the Midwest, murdered at least 17 men. Dahmer would drug and strangle them to death, generally mutilating, and occasionally cannibalizing, their bodies.

NOV. 29

2011: Conrad Murray, the physician convicted of involuntary manslaughter

NEAR MISS

The driver, who entered East Street from Maple Street, was eastbound. Hughes said it was dark when the incident occurred, but said she was wearing a big blue sweater and there's a big light overhead.

Officer Amy Wright of the Holly Police Department said bringing awareness to the problem of speeding in this and other areas may help, according to Hughes.

"That area is my pet peeve when I'm working. I know at night no one is around, but there's two stop signs right there for a reason," Wright said of the area where Hughes was nearly hit.

Wright said drivers get very angry when she stops them. "It's so easy, they never stop."

Hughes said she does not think it was a deliberate attempt to hit her, but rather that the driver was dazed or possibly under the influence of something.

The area beyond where Hughes was almost hit is not a high traffic area. When asked if something was going to be done about the speeders, she said, "I don't know what can be done, there are already two stop signs close together and big overhead lights."

in the 2009 death of singer Michael Jackson, is sentenced in a Los Angeles County courtroom to four years behind bars. The iconic pop star died at age 50 at his California home after suffering cardiac arrest while under the influence of propofol, a surgical anesthetic given to him by Murray as a sleep aid.

NOV. 30

1886: Once a hall for operettas, pantomime, political meetings, and vaudeville, the Folies Bergère in Paris introduces an elaborate revue featuring women in sensational costumes. The highly popular "Place aux Jeunes" established the Folies as the premier nightspot in Paris. In the 1890s, the Folies followed the Parisian taste for striptease and quickly gained a reputation for its spectacular nude shows. The theater spared no expense, staging revues that featured as many as 40 sets, 1,000 costumes, and an off-stage crew of some 200 people.

DEC. 1

1959: Twelve nations, including the United States and the Soviet Union, sign the Antarctica Treaty, which bans military activity and weapons testing on that continent. It was the first arms control agreement signed in the Cold War period.

Fenton woman takes a community ‘road trip’

■ Uses the 48 businesses as a map from the Times’ ‘Winner Winner Turkey Dinner’ contest

By Sally Rummel

Terrie Fisher opened her Times when it was delivered to her Fenton home on Sunday, Oct. 28 and the contest, “Winner Winner Turkey Dinner” caught her attention immediately.

Her first thought was, “I can do this,” deciding to visit all 48 of the participating businesses personally to hand-deliver her contest entry tickets.

Fisher plotted out her route, grouping businesses together geographically. “A few places I wasn’t familiar with,” she said.

Fisher got to 47 of the businesses, missing only one that wasn’t open at the time she was making her rounds in the tri-county area. “It took me two days and about three or four hours to do it,” she said.

But more than just a local road trip, this venture taught Fisher more about the local business community than she had ever known before. “I’ve always known that people in Fenton are friendly,” she said. “But I didn’t know as many businesses in Linden and Holly. A lot of the places were just delightful.”

She had a few pleasant surprises along the way, including a stop at Community Threads of Fenton. “I had never been there before, and I came back later and bought a few things,” Fisher said.

When she stopped in at Fun With Frosting in Fenton, she made a mental note that this is where she’ll go next time she needs a birthday cake or cupcakes.

At Mos’ Art Jewelers in Fenton, the owner offered to appraise a few jewelry pieces she asked about.

Fisher entered her winning ticket at C&R Salon in Argentine Township. “Robin (the owner) was so welcoming and told me I can come back anytime,” she said.

Fisher said her husband, David, teased her about spending $40 in gas money to earn a $30 grocery gift certificate to Alpine Marketplace in Linden, but she felt the lessons learned about her community were well worth the gas, and the time. “I was on a mission,” she said.

“I had never been there (Community Threads of Fenton) and I came back later and bought a few things.”

FWB owners seek liquor license for banquet hall

■ Fenton Winery and Brewery will continue serving just wine, craft beer and craft food

By Hannah Ball

Fenton Twp. — The owners of the Fenton Winery and Brewery might be able to serve liquor in their banquet hall for special events.

At the Monday, Nov. 19 meeting, the Fenton Township Board of Trustees voted 6-0 to recommend to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission the approval of a Class C Liquor License to Sherrow Banquets, LLC.

Matt and Ginny Sherrow, who own Fenton Winery and Brewery, attended the meeting. Matt explained that they currently have a winemaker license and a microbrewery license that allows them to sell wine and beer on their property.

The large building in front of Fenton Winery and Brewery is their banquet hall, which they wish to spin off into its own company. The Class C license would allow them to sell liquor at banquets, catering events, dance and entertainment events, and for Sunday sales.

"We've hosted a lot of weddings there. At the end of this year, we'll have hosted 67 weddings," he said. "But as we continue forward and we're talking to people looking to book weddings in 2019 and 2020, were finding that the market's kind of shifting. It's shifting away from just beer and wine."

Many people want a full bar at their celebrations.

"We've literally heard people say that 'Grandma has to have her rum and coke,'" he said.

The new banquet facility will be operated under a new name. Matt Sherrow clarified that the Class C license would only be for the front banquet building. Operations at Fenton Winery and Brewery will not change.

"We're very focused on our craft, which is beer, wine, craft pizzas, craft food. Everything we serve in the back is made in house by hand and we don't want to upset that by bringing in liquor," he said. "That's why we're splitting the two buildings as separate companies."

The only time they would serve alcohol at the front building would be during an event.

Thomas Broecker, operations manager/deputy clerk, said the township currently has three Class C liquor licenses available.

"The availability of the license in the township is not an issue," he said.

The Township Board can only recommend approval. The final decision will be made by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Fenton Township needs to fill seat

■ Board will appoint new trustee to serve remainder of term until Nov. 20, 2020

By Hannah Ball

If you are a registered voter in Fenton Township, you are eligible to fill the vacant seat on the Fenton Township Board of Trustees.

Outgoing Trustee Shaun Shumaker recently won the election to become the 6th district commissioner of the Genesee County Board of Commissioners. This creates a vacancy on the Board of Trustees.

Thomas Broecker, operations manager/deputy clerk of Fenton Township, said Shumaker has indicated he will attend both December board meetings at the township.

Shumaker's term as County Commissioner begins Jan. 1, 2019. Broecker anticipates Shumaker will submit his resignation to be effective Dec. 31. The newly appointed trustee would start Jan. 1, 2019.

The Board of Trustees will vote to appoint someone to fill the vacancy.

The appointee will serve the remainder of Shumaker's term until Nov. 20, 2020. There would only be a special election if the vacancy did not occur within the first 18 months of the term, or if the board fails to appoint someone within 45 days after the vacancy is created.

Interested individuals should send a letter of application to Broecker at tbroecker@fentontownship.org or to the following address:

GROWING PAINS

The popular downtown bakery with a breakfast and lunch counter expanded to include a full-service restaurant and bar a year ago. This expansion has not come without some growing pains.

The one-year anniversary of the expansion was celebrated in late September. Co-owner Mark Hamel said they've never lost sight of the fact that CRUST is a bakery, with a restaurant and bar, and not the other way around.

The patrons haven't forgotten either, while they line up for their Thanksgiving Day orders on Wednesday, Nov. 21. CRUST bakes menu items for the restaurant, such as bread for sandwiches and biscuits for breakfast menus, led by co-owner and bakery director Mike Green. "All the breads that are served in the restaurant are provided by the bakery," Green said.

Many customers stayed for lunch after picking up their Thanksgiving order.

A year later, the staff is still tweaking the menu, discerning what works and what doesn't and trying to meet the challenges of becoming known as a dinner destination. "It's been challenging for us to get people to think of a bakery in the evening," Hamel said, adding that it took a couple years for clients to warm up to dinner at The Laundry, when it also had just switched from being a breakfast and lunch joint.

CRUST differentiates itself from its older, fancier sister in a few key ways. "For us it was important that there was a different price point," Hamel said. "We wanted to be more accessible."

The challenge for Chef Jody Brunori was creating a high quality menu that costs less than The Laundry. For example, the Salisbury steak does not use more expensive tenderloin, but a different high quality, but lower cost cut of beef. The fish and chips are halibut instead of cod.

Hamel said another difference, is that CRUST focuses more on comfort food.

They just switched over to a heavier menu for winter.

Changes in the menu from the "old" CRUST to the new, has garnered critiques, and based on these, Hamel said they've made changes. Things that work, stay, and things that don't, are changed or removed.

They've modified items, like a steak tip plate made into a simpler steak frites (steak and fries) dish, or switching to white chicken meat for a parmesan dish. Changes are based on customer feedback.

Requests have saved popular items, like the egg, bacon and biscuit breakfast sandwich from the pre-expansion menu.

"Mike, we need to bring the risotto back on the menu," said server Felicia McCardle to Green on Wednesday, while she assembled silverware in the back. "I had three people ask me for it."

Hamel said that messing with people's breakfast routine can be a challenge for a restaurant that changes menus so frequently. "They've had a routine, no matter what, and they expect that item, even if they're the only ones buying it," he said. "You're messing with they're morning routines." He's hoping regulars can give the 14 other menu options a chance.

Hamel said it's expensive to change the menu. Before this new rollout two weeks ago, the entire menu was prepared for the servers, so they could taste-test it, and learn about the ingredients. The beers and wines were re-paired with the menu items.

On that Wednesday, the new menu was implemented. He said this new menu has been well received so far, and is too new to make any changes.

This edition of the Roll Call Report highlights bills on issues that may arise in the coming lame duck legislative session.

House Bill 5526: Assign letter-grade to each public school

Introduced by Rep. Tim Kelly (R), to create a state commission to develop a system that assigns each public school a letter grade between A and F based on its achievement in six specified indicators: math and English proficiency; math and English progress; progress of non-English speakers at learning the language; graduation rate; absentee rate; and the rate of participation on statewide tests.

Senate Bill 983: Require schools have response plans for many threats

Introduced by Sen. Marty Knollenberg (R), to require public schools and local police to develop emergency response plans for a broad range of specific risks including school violence and attacks. Also, schools would be required to have plans to improve school building security, plans to train teachers on mental health, and an active shooter protocol.

House Bill 6420: Permit and regulate fantasy sports games

Introduced by Rep. Brandt Iden (R), to establish a permissive licensure and regulatory regime on fantasy sports games and contests that offer money prizes, with games subject to specified restrictions and requirements, and an initial license fee of up to $5,000 for would-be vendors. Game outcomes would have to be the result of player skill and knowledge and not just chance, with prize amounts specified in advance. Individuals who run small scale fantasy sport games from their home would be exempt from licensure.

LOCAL VETERANS RECALL THEIR SERVICE

THE FOLLOWING IS THE LAST IN A THREE-PART SERIES OF INTERVIEWS WITH LOCAL VETERANS.

Vietnam War - 1954 - 1975

U.S. Marine Corps veteran Craig Newberry

By Sally Rummel

Every day while in Vietnam, U.S. Marine Corporal Craig Newberry of Linden lived with the thought, "Was I going to live to see the night come?"

As a tanker in Vietnam, Newberry spent every day in the field, supporting the combat troops. The second highest combat death group was tankers, he said.

"The only time we weren't in the field was if an RPG (rocket propelled grenade) hit your tank or you hit a mine," said Newberry, a 1965 graduate of Linden High School.

"Our war was mostly guerilla warfare — a lot of evasive techniques where you tried to set each other up. When we were ambushed, we'd use tactics to shield each other as much as possible. Tanks were also used as an ambulance. We had casualties more days than not. A canister round would take out about 150 guys at once."

Newberry, who enlisted five days after graduation, said he lost a lot of close friends in Vietnam, about 13, guys with whom he served side by side. "'Til the day I die, you remember the guys who didn't make it, who wouldn't have a chance to come home, get married, enjoy a career, etc.," Newberry said.

At times, these thoughts weighed very heavily on Newberry. "I had serial nightmares for about 10 years," he said. "My way to bury those memories were to bury it so deep you can't find it."

He still counts as his best friends about five fellow Marines who live throughout the U.S. "We have a biannual reunion of the Vietnam Tankers Association somewhere in the U.S.," Newberry said. "I've been going since 1999."

While the bad memories certainly outweigh the good, Newberry recalled that Vietnam was a beautiful country with striking architecture. "Monkeys were everywhere, and I remember eating strawberry bananas, short little bananas that were delicious," he said. "I hold nothing against the Vietnamese people."

Another bad memory was the sound of tigers coming out to feed on dead bodies of either side.

Newberry always knew he wanted to go to college and he fulfilled that dream after his two tours of duty in Vietnam. He enrolled in college in 1969, and a year later, married Jeniece, with whom he has two daughters and three grandchildren.

Today, Newberry is retired from a long teaching career at Flint Public Schools and is very active in the Linden VFW. "I'm a 'has-been,'" he said. "I've been in every leadership position in the post. Now I'm just a member."

One memory that he holds close is the first time someone thanked him just last year for his sacrifice, not his service. "That made me realize what a sacrifice we all had made, missing Christmases and birthdays and family and friends," Newberry said.

Craig Newberry of Linden had nightmares for 10 years following his military service in Vietnam. He's a retired school teacher.

Tyson was offered the plea deal Aug. 6 at a pre-trial hearing, said Genesee County Deputy Chief Assistant Prosecutor John Potbury.

With her rejection of the offer, a pre-trial hearing has been set for Jan. 29, 2019. A jury trial has been set for Jan. 30, 2019.

Since the killings, Tyson has been declared incompetent twice, but was found to be competent Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Genesee County District Court.

The shootings

According to Grand Blanc Police Chief Brian Lipe, on Tuesday, July 26, 2016, police officers responded to the leasing office of Grand Oaks Apartments, for reports of two females being shot.

Once on scene, the two victims were located and transported to Hurley Medical Center. Johnson was pronounced dead. Work, who was pregnant at the time, was put on life support so doctors could deliver her baby. Work died Friday, July 29, 2016. Her baby, now 2 years old, survives her and is being raised by family.

The annual tribute went on quietly for several years, until 2005, when a photo of the stones at Arlington, adorned with wreaths and covered in snow, circulated around the internet. Suddenly, the project received national attention. Thousands of requests poured in from all over the country from people wanting to help with Arlington, to emulate the Arlington project at their National and State cemeteries, or to simply share their stories and thank Morrill Worcester for honoring this nation's heroes.

Unable to donate thousands of wreaths to each state, Worcester began sending seven wreaths to every state, one for each branch of the military, and for POW/MIAs. In 2006, with the help of the Civil Air Patrol and other civic organizations, simultaneous wreath-laying ceremonies were held at over 150 locations around the country.

The annual trip to Arlington and the groups of volunteers eager to participate in Worcester's simple wreath-laying event grew each year until it became clear the desire to remember and honor our country's fallen heroes was bigger than Arlington, and bigger than this one company.

In 2007, the Worcester family, along with veterans, and other groups and individuals who had helped with their annual veterans wreath ceremony in Arlington, formed Wreaths Across America (WAA), a non-profit 501-(c)(3) organization, to continue and expand this effort, and support other groups around the country who wanted to do the same.

In 2008, over 300 locations held wreath-laying ceremonies in every state, Puerto Rico and 24 overseas cemeteries. Over 100,000 wreaths were placed on veterans' graves. Over 60,000 volunteers participated. And that year, Dec. 13, 2008 was unanimously voted by the US Congress as "Wreaths Across America Day."

Wreaths Across America would not be successful without the help of volunteers, active organizations and the generosity of the trucking industry, which offer invaluable support to WAA's mission to remember the men and women who served our country, honor our military and their families, and teach our children about our freedom and those who protect it.

GUEST VIEWPOINT

By Scott Roper
Holly Area Schools
superintendent

STEM curriculum

At Holly Area Schools, we are committed to providing all students with a wide range of innovative and diverse learning opportunities and real-world experiences to prepare them for 21st century careers. Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) instruction plays a central role in this effort to prepare all Bronchos for the modern workforce.

We provide a solid STEM foundation for our students, which includes equipping them with cutting-edge instructional technology that helps prepare them for the jobs of the future.

This school year, we expanded our STEM instruction into all four of our elementary schools, providing all Young 5s through fifth-graders with lifelong problem-solving skills that teach beyond the classroom, preparing students for the real world. By providing our youngest Bronchos with STEM instruction, we are preparing them for jobs we don't even know exist yet.

STEM instruction, also provided at Holly Middle School, teaches basic coding, robotics, science and problem-solving and critical thinking skills students can use before, during and after school.

As part of our continued investment in STEM at Holly Area Schools, we have hired two teachers with extensive STEM experience to lead the program and work with the district's full-time technology integrator to launch the program in all four elementary schools. Our technology integrator works with teachers to incorporate instructional technology that encourages student collaboration, creativity, critical thinking and communication.

I am proud of our growing STEM curriculum, which sets the stage for successful careers in a growing list of fields, such as biomedical engineering, environmental engineering, forensic science and computer systems analysis, to name a very few. Our expanded STEM program will give Holly Area Schools students a leg-up as they advance toward bright and prosperous futures.

There's more good news: All signs point to STEM fields continuing to be in high demand for the foreseeable future. Good-paying careers in STEM-related fields are growing at 17 percent each year, and annual growth of STEM jobs is on track to nearly double the growth of non-STEM jobs, the U.S. Department of Commerce has reported.

Regardless if students pursue STEM fields, our program will continue playing a key role in providing all Bronchos with a diverse, well-rounded education that helps them achieve and succeed.

Bestselling books of all time

■ Charles Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities tops list

Compiled By Vera Hogan

When considering what would be the best selling books of all time, one might conclude that, of course, it has to be The Holy Bible. The reality is, however, that the Bible is not on the list because it is so often given away for free, not sold.

So what are the top selling books of all time. They may surprise you.

Topping the list is A Tale of Two Cities by Charles Dickens (200 million sold).

According to enotes.com, A Tale of Two Cities contrasts the social and political events taking place in Paris and London during (and prior to) the French Revolution in the mid-to-late 18th century. Dickens draws unsettling parallels between the two cities, describing abject poverty, appalling starvation, rampant crime, ruthless capital punishment, and aristocratic greed. The novel, which was published in three books during the mid-19th century, retrospectively questions the degree to which the French revolutionaries of the late 18th century upheld Enlightenment-era ideals of rational thought, tolerance, constitutional government, and liberty.

The number two best seller is The Lord of the Rings by J. R. R. Tolkien (150 million sold).

The 20th-century fantasy novel reveals how the smallest heroes can accomplish the greatest deeds, according to study.com.

The Lord of the Rings tells the story of the War of the Ring in the fictional world of Middle-earth. The long novel — commonly published as three volumes and mistakenly called a trilogy — centers around the magical One Ring, discovered by Bilbo Baggins in the earlier novel The Hobbit. Now, the free peoples of Middle-earth, such as Men, Elves, Dwarves, and Hobbits, must overcome the dark power of Sauron by destroying the Ring.

The third top selling book of all time is The Little Prince by Antoine de Saint-Exupéry (140 million sold).

Loved for its childlike simplicity and profound wisdom, The Little Prince is undoubtedly Saint-Exupéry's most famous work, according to enotes.com. It has been translated into more than 170 languages and adapted into two operas, a musical film, and an animated television series. Saint-Exupéry wrote the book while he was living in New York City.

Though commonly referred to as a children's story, the book has also been appreciated by adult audiences for its underlying philosophical nature. The story contains reflections on the themes of friendship, love, imagination, and the significance of an individual in the world. It is often published with the author's illustrations, a whimsical series of watercolors.

Number four on the list of top selling books is Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone by J.K. Rowling (120 million sold).

Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone is the first book in a seven-part series about the powerful young wizard Harry Potter. In this book, he's orphaned and sent to live with his aunt and uncle. Years later, he receives an acceptance letter from Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, where he will have many dangerous and fantastic adventures.

The fifth top selling book of all time is The Hobbit by J. R. R. Tolkien (100 million sold).

Hobbits, a race of small humanlike creatures, characteristically value peace, simplicity, and cozy homes yet are capable of incredible feats of courage and resourcefulness. The unwilling hero of The Hobbit, Bilbo Baggins, is persuaded to join Thorin and his 12 dwarfs to recover their stolen treasure, which is being guarded by the dragon Smaug. During the expedition, Bilbo finds a magical ring that renders the wearer invisible, which figures prominently in The Lord of the Rings. The Hobbit is the story of Bilbo's maturing from a seeker of warmth and comforts to a fighter, however humble, for the greater good.

Fenton Township defines 'household pets'

■ Ordinance passed to avoid allowing farm animals being considered pets

By Hannah Ball

At a Nov. 14 special meeting, the Fenton Township Board of Trustees voted to allow residents to keep up to three dogs and five cats in a residence.

This was an "emergency ordinance," according to meeting minutes, which can be introduced, voted on, adopted and take effect immediately at the meeting. The vote passed 5-1, with Trustee Mark Goupil dissenting. Clerk Robert Krug was absent.

Trustee Mark Goupil explained his reasoning for voting against the ordinance.

"I don't think we need to be telling people what they can do on their own property, and this rule is so restrictive," he said, adding that "basically," the only pets allowed are dogs and cats.

Goupil said this ordinance does not allow goats or chickens.

"If you're a responsible owner, I have no issue with any of that," he said.

The trustee said he doesn't want to adopt an ordinance the township may not enforce with every case.

"We're either going to enforce it or not. If we're not going to enforce it 100 percent, I don't think we need to have it out there," he said. According to the minutes, "Attorney (Jack) Belzer explained that this ordinance was drafted to eliminate situations where residents claim farm animals to be household pets."

The ordinance limited the definition of "household pets" to dogs, domestic cats and any animal that is totally contained and restrained within the residence of the owner at all times. The proposed ordinance originally allowed residents a maximum of two dogs and three cats, but after discussion, those numbers rose to three dogs and five cats.

Belzer recommended the board adopt a more detailed zoning ordinance amendment through the usual ordinance process.

SOLAR POWER

Today, 32 percent of the energy is generated by coal, which is down from 70 percent in 2005.

The plan includes adding 5,000 megawatts of solar energy through the 2020s.

DTE Energy is also pushing for green energy, and plant efficiency. They have 300 acres of solar generating fields near Lapeer.

Adam Harris, CEO of The Green Panel said, "The (solar) industry has grown tremendously." His company, which is located in Brighton, installs business and residential solar arrays. Both sides have grown, he said. The increase in electric cars also means more solar charging stations, which his company facilitates.

Rural areas, like Lapeer, are more likely to see both wind farms and solar arrays.

He said that the price to install solar arrays has gone down from $4.50 per watt to install to $2.75 per watt. These savings are partially offset by possibly higher permit fees by the local municipality. Ordinances on where they can be installed can also discourage solar.

Harris said that today, a solar array for a medium sized home could cost $15,000 to install. He said his company would look at energy bills for a year and come up with a solar array that will cover the utilities, or generate just below the needed amount of energy, because energy companies don't want homes producing more than they use, he said.

There is currently a 30-percent federal tax credit on solar energy array installations. Residents can expect to take 30 percent of the total installation price and use it as a tax write off.

Harris believes that solar is the future, and has seen seniors buy arrays in order to eliminate their utility bills if they're living on a fixed income.

Holly school board seeks to fill vacant seat

The Holly Area School District needs to fill a vacant seat on its Board of Education. The term of this vacancy would run for two years, from Jan. 1, 2019 through Dec. 31, 2020.

Eligible candidates must reside and be a registered voter within the boundaries of the Holly Area School District. Candidates must be a U.S. citizen and at least 18 years of age.

The board holds its regular monthly meetings on the second Monday of each month.

The deadline for applying is Nov. 30 at 3 p.m. The school board will interview all candidates on a date to be announced in December. Candidates will be informed of the date after the application has been submitted.

Interested candidates should send a letter of interest to Scott Roper, superintendent, 920 Baird St., Holly, MI 48442 or email to scott.roper@hask12.org.

not serve or sell any, until they learn more about the outbreak. This investigation is ongoing and the advice will be updated as more information becomes available.

Consumers who have any type of romaine lettuce in their home should not eat it and should throw it away, even if some of it was eaten and no one has gotten sick.

This advice includes all types or uses of romaine lettuce, such as whole heads of romaine, hearts of romaine, and bags and boxes of precut lettuce and salad mixes that contain romaine, including baby romaine, spring mix, and Caesar salad.

If you do not know if the lettuce is romaine or whether a salad mix contains romaine, do not eat it and throw it away.

Wash and sanitize drawers or shelves in refrigerators where romaine was stored.

Restaurants and retailers should not serve or sell any romaine lettuce, including salads and salad mixes containing romaine.

Take action if you have symptoms of an E. coli infection:

- Talk to your healthcare provider.
- Write down what you ate in the week before you started to get sick.
- Report your illness to the health department.
- Assist public health investigators by answering questions about your illness.

According to an article at USAToday.com, 66 percent of those affected are female. Similarly, when romaine was the culprit of an E. coli outbreak earlier this year, 67 percent of the 210 people infected were women or girls, the same ratio as an outbreak tied to leafy greens in late 2017.

Advice to Clinicians

Antibiotics are not recommended for patients with E. coli O157 infections. Antibiotics also are not recommended for patients in whom E. coli O157 infection is suspected, until diagnostic testing rules out this infection.

Some studies have shown that administering antibiotics to patients with E. coli O157 infections might increase their risk of developing hemolytic uremic syndrome (a type of kidney failure), and the benefit of antibiotic treatment has not been clearly demonstrated.

Why would females be more affected than males?

In the article, Dr. Bruce Lee, an associate professor of international health at Johns Hopkins University, explained three potential reasons for the trend, with the most likely contributing factor being women's diets, which tend to include more vegetables.

Another factor could be the difference between how men and women report their symptoms to their doctors. The high numbers for women could be a result of more of them relaying information to medical professionals, Lee said in the article.

Lastly, it's been proposed women react more to E. coli because of differences in their gastrointestinal tracts, however, Lee said there is no strong evidence to prove this.

According to Consumer Reports, romaine lettuce production is making its annual return to the Yuma, Ariz., region, where the bulk of the nation's winter supply of this salad green is grown. But earlier this year, romaine from Yuma was the source of the largest E. coli outbreak in more than a decade; 210 people became ill, and five died.

Leafy greens have long been associated with foodborne illness outbreaks — in fact, they cause about 1 in 5 cases of food poisoning — but the severity of last spring's outbreak led to calls for sweeping changes in the leafy greens industry.

As part of a recently released report on this romaine outbreak, the Food and Drug Administration announced, "Bold action is needed to prevent future outbreaks, especially ones of this magnitude, and to restore consumer confidence in the safety of leafy greens available on the market."

LAWSUIT

In the case, the plaintiff said there was a "vertical, deep drop-off/pothole" that was approximately 2 to 3 feet wide, 2 to 3 feet long, and 6 to 8 inches deep. He hit the pothole, causing him to go over the handlebars and land on his neck, according to a July 2016 Times article. The plaintiff broke his neck and suffered a severe spinal cord injury that led to an emergency helicopter flight to Ann Arbor for surgery.

The plaintiff brought the lawsuit against the Genesee County Road Commission (GCRC) and Linden, alleging that one of them had jurisdiction over the road. The highway exception determined in Haaksman v Grand Rapids states that someone who sustains an injury on a road in which a governmental agency is responsible for maintaining can recover damages.

In 2017, the Genesee County Circuit Court ruled that the GCRC had jurisdiction over the road due to the McNitt Act. The GCRC appealed to the Court of Appeals.

The McNitt Act of 1931 required the county road commissioners in each county "to take over as county roads the total township highway mileage in the county" within six years. The act stated that county road commissions are to take over and incorporate 20 percent of the total township highway mileage each year until the entire mileage in the townships have been made a part of the county highway system.

In circuit court, Linden argued that various documents proved the GCRC took over the relevant portion of Ripley Road due to the McNitt Act. The GCRC disputed that claim, saying it wasn't an actual resolution and that the specific document was prepared by Fenton Township, which also has jurisdiction over a portion of Ripley Road. In the document, the relevant portion of Ripley Road is not highlighted.

The Court of Appeals rejected claims by Linden involving other documents showing that the relevant portion of Ripley was not under its jurisdiction. One was another McNitt Act resolution and the other was a 1940 McNitt Act map for Fenton Township, showing all of Ripley Road outside the then-village of Linden. The GCRC disputed it was a resolution and said the map has no key or labeling, nor does it clearly identify Ripley Road.

The opinion states that Linden has claimed the disputed portion of the road to receive Act 51 funds, and has performed maintenance on both lanes of the street.

In October 2018, the Court of Appeals ruled there was no evidence that the GCRC took jurisdiction of the relevant portion of Ripley Road pursuant to a McNitt Act resolution, and that Linden has jurisdiction over it.

Linden Mayor Danielle Cusson declined to comment due to the pending litigation. Attorney William Henn, who is representing the GCRC also declined to comment due to pending litigation. The Schrock's also declined to comment.

Gold’s volleyball risk pays off at Adrian College

By David Troppens

Mike Gold was playing college basketball at Adrian College, but he needed a change.

The 6-foot-7 Linden graduate was tired of playing basketball. It was time to give the Adrian College men’s volleyball team a shot.

“I finished my sophomore season and at the end of the season I knew I couldn’t do it again,” Gold said. “So I talked to the former (Adrian College men’s volleyball coach) and said I wanted to give this a shot, whatever happens, happens. If I’m not cut out for it, no problem. I understand.”

It seems Gold has made the right decision. In what was his first season with the Bulldogs’ men’s volleyball team last winter, he played in 22 matches, earning 108 kills while playing in the middle. He also recorded 20 digs, five solo blocks and 38 assisted blocks. He also started in 15 of the team’s matches.

“I was shocked, especially since I was new to the program,” Gold said about his playing time and impact on the squad. “There were some guys who came in with a spot they already earned. I think that helped me a lot. Me being the biggest guy on the team, that always was a big factor. I came in and by the second week of actual practices I was in the starting lineup. It was a pretty quick transition.”

The move to volleyball wasn’t completely shocking considering Gold’s family’s background.

“I’ve always been around volleyball my whole life,” Gold said. “My mom played in college and my sister played in college as well. I travelled all the time with my sister to tournaments all over the country. It’s something I’ve always seen and loved to

Fenton’s Lee loving life with Wolverines’ XC program

■ Wolverines finish season placing 19th at National meet

By David Troppens

Jake Lee left the Fenton varsity cross country and track program as one of the school’s top runners of all time, earning a Division 1 3,200 run championship as a senior in 2016, and also earning All-State honors at the state cross country meet once.

Now, the 2016 Fenton graduate who graduated Summa Cum Laude, is making his mark on the University of Michigan’s track and cross country programs.

Competing in his redshirt sophomore season, Lee recently helped the Michigan Wolverines men’s cross country team qualify for the NCAA National meet. He ran a 32:12.3 in the 10K regional race, placing 54th overall and helping the Wolverines finish third overall at the meet. The finish enabled Michigan to qualify for Nov. 17’s NCAA Championships, hosted in Madison, Wisconsin. The Wolverines finished 19th out of 31 teams while Lee was Michigan’s fourth runner to finish. He placed 172nd in the 10K event with a time of 31:16.18.

Lee has spent the entire season as one of the Wolverines’ scoring runners.

“It’s gone really well,” Lee said about his fall cross country season. “We have a tight-knit group of guys and we are all around the same fitness level. As a pack we are all pretty packed up close together. ... That’s what makes us strong.”

It ended up being a pretty strong season for the program. The team took second at the MSU Spartan Invitational and then placed 13th out of 33 teams at the Nuttycombe Wisconsin Invitational. Lee was Michigan’s top runner at the

Fenton, XC squads dominate 2018 Elite Eight Teams of the Fall list

By David Troppens

Fall seemingly is always our best prep sports season here in the tri-county area, and we’re guessing that may be the case again during the 2018-19 school year.

That said, it probably wasn’t as overwhelmingly successful as some from the recent past. We do have some very worthy teams near the top of this year’s 2018 Elite Eight Teams of the Fall.

The bottom half isn’t quite the depth we’ve had in the past, but that’s OK. They are still worthy teams.

Once again, some themes have become apparent. Fenton teams dominated last year’s lists, and the Tigers have their share of the eight in the fall list. Cross country also remains king, with four teams earning a spot on this list. That’s all we’ll give up right now. Here’s our honorable mention teams, along with the bottom four teams on our elite eight.

Honorable mention: It will become apparent why these teams were on the honorable mention list. That said, the Fenton varsity volleyball team had a solid season, finishing second in the Metro and making it to a district final match. The Lake Fenton boys soccer team struggled through a lot of the season but did put together a solid tournament run, earning a district title. The Linden boys soccer team had a strong season with one exception — the Eagles kept running into the Fenton Tigers, losing to them three times.

See ELITE EIGHT on 23A

ELITE EIGHT

One time it ended their Metro chances and another it ended their district chances. The Fenton football team was our best gridiron squad in the area, but they finished tied for third, were 7-2 overall and lost in the opening round of the playoffs, keeping them from making our list.

No. 8 - Linden boys cross country: The eighth spot was up for grabs, and we could've easily stopped at seven, but eight sounded a lot nicer for a list. The Eagles struggled during the Metro season, placing fourth overall, however, like many previous seasons the Metro League showed that a lot of their struggles had to do more with the strength of cross country in the league.

When the postseason started, the Eagles qualified for the state meet by taking third in their region and then placed 23rd at the state meet. Those performances earned the Eagles a spot at No. 8.

No. 7 - Fenton boys soccer: The Tigers are the first of many Fenton teams that will make our top eight, and are our only soccer squad in the eight. Fenton had a strong Metro League season, not losing a game in league play. They finished the league season 7-0-1 and spent a large portion of the season ranked in the top 10 in Division 2. Fenton also won a district title, defeating the Linden Eagles 2-1 in overtime of the championship contest. However, their run ended with a loss to Cranbrook-Kingswood in the regional semifinal round, dropping a 3-0 verdict.

No. 6 - Lake Fenton boys cross country: The Blue Devils have become one of the established teams that makes cross country the area's top sport. The Blue Devils weren't able to win the modified Genesee Area Conference championship this fall, but they did finish second and they bounced back with vengeance in the postseason. The Blue Devils captured their first-ever Division 2 regional championship by edging out Goodrich for the crown. In order to beat the Martians the teams had to go to a six-runner tiebreaker. Once they were at the state meet, the Blue Devils improved upon last year's performance, moving from 15th to 14th at the Michigan International Speedway. Of course, one of the teams they beat at both the regional and state meet was another well respected squad from the area, the Linden Eagles.

No. 5 - Holly boys tennis: The Holly boys tennis team was No. 7 in last season's poll despite winning a Metro League title, so the sports staff is pretty sure the Bronchos may be a little surprised to see themselves at No. 5 this fall.

The Bronchos did finish second in the Metro, losing to Flushing both in a dual and at the league meet, but they maintained their strong performances in the state's postseason tournaments.

The Bronchos finished second at the regional meet and then had a respect-do. Once I fell out of love with basketball, my best friend plays on the college volleyball team at Adrian and he said I should come and see what I can do. The rest is history."

Men's volleyball is a relatively new sport at Adrian College, with its first club season being in 2013. The squad became a varsity sport in 2016, making this its fourth official year as an NCAA varsity sport. The team has steadily progressed. The Bulldogs went 1-21 their first year, 4-21 in 2017 and 8-14 last season. This year's season begins in January.

Gold is happy he made the change to volleyball.

"It's starting to become my passion," Gold said. "I think it's just a new challenge. I played basketball for 18 years and I always did football, basketball, baseball and track while just watching volleyball on the side. I think it's a different challenge that I can attempt and I enjoy trying to become the best volleyball player I can be. So far I think it's going pretty well. Obviously, there's always room for improvement and I'm excited to improve. As of now, it's also pretty humbling to say I play our family sport."

Gold has his goals for this season figured out.

"I was fourth in kills last year. I want to be second or third this season," Gold said. "I don't want to settle for anything else. I don't want to say too much when it comes down to statistical success, but I want to win, go to the playoffs and put Adrian on the map for Michigan college volleyball."

8K event, posting a time of 24:04.6. But even with his performance, Lee's thought about the team's pack running was proven out. All five Michigan scorers finished within 22.5 seconds of each other at the event.

Lee was the team's fourth runner (75th overall) as the squad took 11th out of 35 teams at the Pre-National Invitational's 8K race. Lee posted a time of 24:50.1. His final 8K race saw Lee finish 38th at the Big Ten Championship race with a time of 24:40.1. Michigan placed fourth at that meet.

It's fair to say Lee's season has been a success. His redshirt freshman season on the men's track team also was pretty successful. Lee placed 24th at the Big Ten Indoor Championships in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 14:41.63. He also ran a 14:15.60 in the 5,000, placing fifth at the Power Five Invitational.

His indoor track season was a precursor for what was going to happen during the outdoor season. Lee finished the Big Ten Outdoor Championships with a career-best time of 30:55.98 in the 10,000-meter run, placing 10th in the event.

"So far that's my biggest accomplishment," Lee said of the 10,000-meter race.

Lee says he made the right decision continuing his running career at Michigan.

"I took one visit to Michigan and I knew right then and there this was the program I wanted to be with," Lee said. "They were Big 10 champions and have had mul-

University of Michigan cross country runner Jacob Lee was a member of Michigan's squad that qualified for the national championships this fall.
