A step back in time at the Wolcott House

■ Fenton's only B&B has been serving guests in a historic setting since 2001

By Sally Rummel

Driving down Silver Lake Road west of Adelaide in Fenton, you've likely noticed a stately historic Italianate-style home set back from the road with the sign Wolcott House Bed & Breakfast perched atop the front entrance.

It's the Fenton area's only "B&B," owned by innkeepers Elaine and Sean Rosekrans since 1999. They have been hosting guests since 2001 and keep a guestbook of all the travelers who have made visits to their home, usually for a weekend night or two.

With the average lifespan of most bed and breakfasts about five years, Elaine said, she feels their longevity in the business is a testament to the enjoyment they've had in sharing their unique home with others.

Many guests stay at the Wolcott House when they come to town for a wedding or a funeral. In fact, one local couple spent last Friday night there, remembering their own wedding vows spoken at the Wolcott 16 years before.

See WOLCOTT HOUSE on 6B

“We’ve had a lot of interesting guests from all walks of life.”

Elaine Rosekrans
Wolcott House Bed & Breakfast co-owner

Elaine and Sean Rosekrans have owned their historic home on Silver Lake Road since 1999. They opened it as "Wolcott House Bed and Breakfast" in 2001. Now they're thinking about selling the 119-year old home.

Just sayin'...

Speak to me — please

It's no secret that I love words and love reading them all of the time whether it's in a newspaper, magazine or books. I fear though that our words as we know them are going away. More and more we use initials instead of real, whole words. There are some we get used to because we've been hearing them our entire lives — like ASAP, OK, FBI, CIA and IRS to name a few.

Years ago, I was sharing lunch with some friends and having a chat about this very subject when one of them said, "My husband says we live in alphabet soup." I was thinking, no kidding!

Why do we have to identify everything with the first letter of each word? Are we too lazy to speak entire words?

VERA HOGAN

A few days ago, I heard Oprah Winfrey on a TV commercial refer to Weight Watchers as WW. Are you kidding me? The 55-year-old company claims it changed its name to WW in order to focus more on overall health, not just weight loss. And losing weight is not a major factor in improving overall health? I often read about STEM in our newspaper. It stands for Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics. Yes, it's a mouthful to have to say all of the words all of the time, but why are they lumped together in the first place? You can learn one without the others, or has that changed? The only one I would personally be interested in learning is the "S" (which is probably why I'll never have any serious money).

I wrote an article about 5G for this edition. If my source did not immediately explain what the G stood for, I might still be trying to figure it out.

It's already too late to change things though. Now with texting, everything is abbreviated down to the initials. It's called SMS language, only I don't know what SMS stands for. I, too, am guilty of using the initials LOL for laughing out loud, or OMG, for oh my God, but I try to avoid it when I can.

I love texting so I guess I'll have to continue learning the language, especially if I want to communicate with my kids.

You know what though, if I texted one of the many young people I know, shared the link to this column and asked, "What do you think of my column for this week?"

They would likely text back, "B3 w/e" (blah, blah, blah, whatever).

About the texting lingo — is there an app for that?

TRAVEL

If you're going on a vacation, Google Trips is helpful for organizing your schedule, confirming numbers, dates and more. Like most Google services, it pulls information from your Gmail so all your travel information is collected in one app. It also offers activities based on your trip location.

Mobile Passport lets you input your passport information onto your phone in case you lose your physical passport. Because it was developed by U.S. Customs and Border Patrol, it allows eligible travelers to skip the customs line at airports.

So far, it's available at 25 U.S. airports and three cruise ports such as New York and Atlanta.

POLICE AND CRIME

Waze is an app used by motorists around the world who want to know what's ahead of them and to help other drivers. The app allows users to input data on their traveling routes about where police are watching for speeders, if there's traffic, if a car is pulled over on the side of the road and more.

Scanner Radio is a Google app that lets you listen to police scanners. Similar apps include Police Scanner+ Free, Broadcastify, 5-0 Radio Police Scanner and Scanner Radio Deluxe.

Nextdoor is a private social network for neighborhoods. When you sign up, input your address and you'll be able to see messages and posts from your neighbors about crime, lost dogs, requests for a handyman or a babysitter and more.

HEALTH

GoodRx helps you find discounts on prescription drugs. You can search and compare prices at more than 75,000 pharmacies. You also can get coupons. The app will send you notifications about low prices for your medications.

Yummly is used for recipes and caters to those on specialized diets, such as veganism, the paleo diet, eating gluten-free and other dietary confines. Input your shopping list and what you have in the fridge, and the app will create recipes with those foods.

GAS

With gas prices rising in Michigan and other states, using Gasbuddy can save you money. The app will list your local gas stations and their prices for gas, letting you choose the cheapest one.

ENTERTAINMENT

On the JustWatch app, you can input your favorite shows and movies, and it will tell you what streaming service houses the show, such as Netflix, Hulu, YouTube Channel and more. It will alert you when more episodes come out and when certain movies are playing in theaters.

Bandsintown Concerts is a helpful app that tracks which bands will be performing a show near your location. The app looks through your music library on your phone from a number of sources, including Facebook, and tracks your favorite artists. It shows you a calendar of shows in your area. Similar apps include Songkick Concerts and Eventbrite.

WOLCOTT HOUSE

These are the memories that make the Wolcott special to its owners.

The couple have had numerous interesting guests from all walks of life, Elaine said. "A novelist spent the night here once, and we hosted a lady here years ago, whose father was Karl Richter (Holly native and U.S. Air Force fighter pilot)," she said. "A local school was presenting her with her dad's helmet."

The Wolcott House is a step back in time, filled with antiques to honor the home's 119-year history.

"The house was built in 1900," Elaine, 63, said. She doesn't know the history of the home between 1900 and 1923, but it was owned by Anson (Ed) and Lula May Wolcott, from 1923 to the 1970s.

"They were a prominent family here, known for owning grist mills in the area, including the Wolcott Mill in Argentine Township," Elaine said.

The Wolcott House Bed & Breakfast offers three themed rooms for guests, including the Honeymoon Suite, the Garden Room and the President's Room, each with a private half bath and the bridal suite with a full bath. A signature breakfast, prepared by Elaine, is served in the morning, including baked eggs, homemade pastries and fresh fruit.

guests to come in the summer and early fall. A train garden, complete with a running large model train and two small ponds and gardens are lush and full from May through September.

The inn is busiest in the summer and early fall, but the Rosekrans' admit they are slowing down as the years progress. "It's a lot of work," Elaine said. She and her husband live at the back of their house in their own private quarters.

"It's hard to take a vacation when you have your own guests to take care of."

Ruth Ann (Laing) Grossmeyer

1955-2019

Ruth Ann (Laing) Grossmeyer - age 63, of Fenton, previously of Linden, passed away Friday, April 5, 2019, after a short battle with cancer. Ruth was born on April 23, 1955, in Linden. She was the daughter of Ardith (Davis) Tringali and Richard Laing. Ruth was a 1973 graduate of Linden High School. She married Scott Grossmeyer on October 13, 1984, and they resided in Fenton. Although her proudest accomplishment was being the best wife and mother, she also greatly enjoyed her time working at Fenton School of Dance. She loved being around the energy of the kids and all of the creativity, and she loved the opportunity to be their resident dance mom, helping sew costumes and helping the dancers with whatever she could. Her neighborhood has always held a special place in her heart, as her neighbors were more like family. Over the years the entire Fenton community became like family to her. During her final time, the community came together and showed an unrivaled outpouring of support and kindness. She is survived by her loving husband, Scott Grossmeyer of Fenton; mother, Ardith (Bert) Tringali of Sterling Heights; father, Richard (Diane) Laing of Linden; daughter, Katelin (Zach) Wiersma of Cedar Springs, and many beloved cousins. - DIRECTIONS:
- Preheat the oven to 375°F. Spray a 9 x 13 baking dish with oil.

Join Seann Willson, MD, Board Certified Orthopedic Surgeon, who is fellowship trained in lower extremity reconstruction and hip and knee replacement, for information on minimally invasive surgical options for hip and knee pain including the new Makoplasty procedure now available at McLaren Flint. Mako robotic-arm assisted surgery is a procedure designed to relieve the pain caused by joint degeneration due to arthritis. By selectively targeting the damaged cartilage, the surgeon can spare the healthy bone and ligaments surrounding the arthritic portion of the joint.
