Marriage proposals are more memorable than ever, mixing creativity, travel and tradition

By Sally Rummel

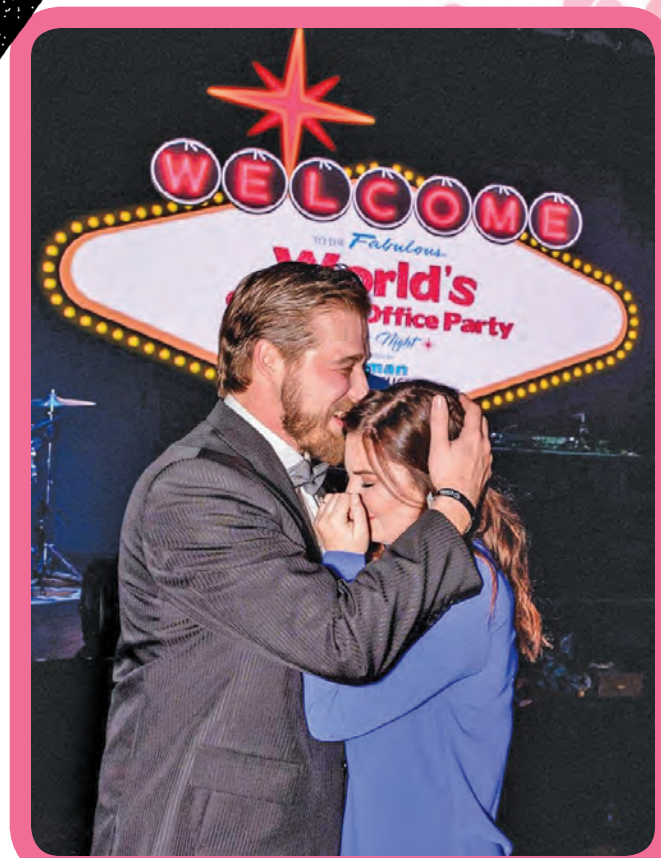

Marriage proposals may be less of a surprise for women today than in the past, but time-honored traditions such as asking parental permission and proposing on bended knee are still popular today.

New traditions in today's proposals include unique, personalized events that signify something meaningful in the life of the couple, choosing rings with a special significance, having a photographer or videographer capture the surprise moment, then celebrating afterwards with a party.

For many couples, a declaration of love might take place far from home in a specially planned destination vacation.

See LOVE on 5B

Todd Beard proposed to his girlfriend Lauren Ganapini at a charity event that was meaningful to both of them.

Creative (or not) Marriage Proposals

By Vera Hogan

How to pop the question — that is the question. Some people are obviously more creative than others in how they ask for their partner's hand in marriage. This is just a sampling of the countless fun ways to propose to your (hopefully) future spouse.

Please don't dump me!

Okay, you may have met and spent some happy times here in the grass under-looking the overpass. But we're guessing this young man lacks some confidence and hopes the sign will convince her not to "dump" him. Good luck with that, buddy!

I love you smore than you know

Who would destroy a perfect campfire treat with a measly old diamond ring? But you do have to admit it's a very creative and not-so-subtle way to tell your intended that you love them "smore" than they know.

Sausage, pepperoni and the ring please

Nothing says, "Will you marry me" like a piping hot pizza delivered right to your door. Hopefully, it was paid for when it arrived. No matter how you slice it, this proposal serves up more than a little tasty romance.

All aboard the love train

This proposal could be very symbolic of what the actual marriage might be like — a fun, fast, bumpy amusement park ride. There will be rolling, ups and downs, scary times and laughter all the way.

Popping the question

Steph, you gotta give this guy a break. Instead of dinner and that movie you were looking forward to, he had to work instead. At least he has a job. And, he's a master builder. How can you go wrong?

Just sayin'...

vhogan@tctimes.com

Not so sure about happy trails

When I was a young adult living in the suburbs of Chicago, and my parents still lived in one of them, Skokie, before retiring to warmer climes, we used to spend a lot of time at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Specifically, we would go to the peninsula where the university's observatories are located and sit along the rocks facing Lake Michigan and talk for hours. If we weren't sitting on the rocks, we were walking on the pathway that ran all the way from Wilmette, through Evanston, to downtown Chicago, about 14 miles.

The skyline of Chicago is beautiful as you're walking on the pathway toward it along the lake. I remember many years ago attending a Helen Reddy concert in Chicago's Grant Park. It was dusk and Helen was facing the lake while her audience had their backs to the water. She stopped in the middle of her song and made everyone turn around and appreciate what a beautiful wealth of nature we had in our own backyard. Breathtaking!

Anyway, my mom was more the dreamy sort, sharing memories of her childhood, how she wanted to be a dancer and more. Dad was the more practical of the two and wondered, for example, why the city didn't find a way to capture the lake water into some kind of sprinkler system to keep the grass from getting brown. He was definitely the engineer.

These memories are why I am torn about the proposed local nonmotorized pathway and the taxes we will have to pay if it is voter-approved May 7. While I do agree it would be nice to have a safe place for kids and families to walk, ride bikes and skate, I also wonder if skateboarders are going to be welcome to use it. I remember when my sons skateboarded, there was nowhere in the city of Fenton that they were welcome.

Aside from that, what is there to see? Certainly not one of our beautiful Great Lakes.

And, maybe I have some of my dad in me because I want to know how long this is all going to take and how long I'm going to get held up in traffic while this thing is under construction. Once it's done, if the voters give it the green light that is, who is going to maintain it as far as snow removal, littering, and pet and goose droppings? You know it's going to happen.

Is this pathway going past people's private homes, close to the front window? I'm not sure I would like that. Our dog would go bonkers barking all day.

I'm just not sure about this one. Just sayin'.

LOVE

Jillian and Brian

Jillian and Brian of Fenton Township, who asked not to use their last names, got engaged in Costa Rica over spring break. "We were wading through a waterfall and he went down on his knee to propose," Jillian said. "I didn't know this was going to happen so I was shaking and sobbing. All my little boy wanted for Christmas last year was for his mom to have a wedding ring."

The couples' favorite song is "Diamonds or Twine" so Brian, 53, had a piece of twine wrapped around the ring when he presented her with the diamond. He chose the ring for her from Medawar Jewelers without her knowing about it.

"He knew I wanted a pear-shaped diamond," Jillian, 35, said.

The couple is getting married May 15, 2020 in the Florida Keys.

“Lately, I’ve been seeing a trend in making a proposal very special, many times on a trip.”

Ronny Medawar
Medawar Jewelers owner

Lauren and Todd

This couple's friendship started six years ago when Lauren Ganapini, now 31, moved into the house behind Todd Beard's parents' house in Grand Blanc.

"We are both very involved in our community, and that is how our 'algorithm' brought us to where we are now," Beard, 38, said. "Lauren had volunteered for a fashion show benefiting the Michigan-based charity, Wigs 4 Kids, and tagged the photos online. I had been donating my hair to Wigs 4 Kids for years, so her posts started appearing in my social media feeds more and more often."

He began to notice that he and Ganapini, a regional director for Diplomat Specialty Pharmacy, had a lot in common including activities, friends, interests, faith and family. "We would see each other at various charity events in the community, and I saw that we would both be at the World's Greatest Office Party benefitting Whaley's Children again," Beard said.

Beard decided to propose to Ganapini, 31, on Dec. 7, 2018, the anniversary of that charity event. He designed a ring with Chip Beltinck at Sawyer Jewelers, taking special note of the things that she liked about particular rings.

"She was so surprised that I was able to do all this, including getting her friends to the event without her knowing," Beard said. The couple is getting married Nov. 2.

Liz and Ryan

Closer to home, Fenton native Ryan Tackabury had a custom record made with a collection of his girlfriend's favorite songs on it, and ended with him asking Liz Kish to marry him on Aug. 16, 2017. The record also featured a custom album cover with pictures of the couple.

"I had it hidden at Totem Books in Flint. We went there and I managed to get her to stumble upon it," Tackabury, 30, said. "We listened to it and she heard the proposal on the record on the front porch of her best friend's house where Liz used to live."

The couple got married Sept. 22,

Ryan Tackabury proposed to his now wife, Liz Kish, with a custom record made up of her favorite songs.

MICHIGAN VOTES

LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITY

MichiganVotes.org is a free, non-partisan website created by the Mackinac Center for Public Policy to provide concise, non-partisan, plain-English descriptions of every bill and vote in the Michigan House and Senate. This report was released Friday, April 12.

Senate Bill 122: Postpone more rigorous teacher evaluation standards

To delay for one year a requirement that annual year-end evaluation ratings of classroom teachers be 40 percent based on student growth and assessment data (state-administered tests), with the rest of the evaluation based on more subjective factors determined by local school administrators. Under current law, this standard would go into effect for the 2018-2019 school year. This law's requirement that 50 percent of the teacher evaluation be based on student test results in "core content areas" would remain.

House Bill 4102: Add "crypto currency" references and definition to various statutes

To revise the law that bans dog fighting to include "any other thing of value" in the definition of ill-gotten gains and revenue derived from dog fighting. This is part of a legislative package comprised of House Bills 4102 to 4107 that adds "crypto currency" to the definition of money in various criminal statutes.

Senate Bill 203: Establish marijuana business license "applicant" definition

To revise details of a 2018 law establishing the definition of an "applicant" for a marijuana business license. The bill would specify that applicants include a company's manager and officers, partners, directors and stockholders who own at least 10 percent, and their spouses. Applicants are subject to an extensive background check process.

House Bill 4225: Exempt hospice painkiller from "bona fide prescriber-patient relationship" requirement

To establish a hospice exception from a law that prohibits prescribers who do not have a "bona fide prescriber-patient relationship" from prescribing controlled substance painkillers. This requirement otherwise requires a medical service provider to have reviewed a patient's relevant medical records, and completed a full medical history and current condition assessment including an examination. The exception is intended to let hospice care providers adjust medication to the meet serious and rapidly changing needs of a dying individual.

Safety first when driving with pets in the car

Many people can recognize the familiar image of a car traveling down the road with the head of a seemingly happy dog hanging out from the front passenger seat. Traveling in such a way may seem harmless, but doing so can be detrimental to both pets and their owners.

According to Paws to Click, a community that aims to inspire pet owners to travel responsibly with their pets, allowing pets to travel in cars without employing a harness poses a significant threat to everyone in the car. The group notes that an unrestrained 75 lb. dog will exert about 2,250 lbs. of force in a crash in which the car is traveling at just 30 miles per hour. Such force can injure others in the car as well as the pet. In addition, unrestrained pets may challenge first responders in an effort to protect their owners after an accident has taken place.

It makes all the sense in the world to harness pets when taking them along in the car. After all, drivers and their passengers wear seat belts, so why not provide the same safety net to pets? But Paws to Click notes that 84 percent of dog owners drive with their dogs in the car without using restraints. This despite the fact that American Veterinary Medical Foundation advises all pet owners to properly restrain their pets before departing on a car trip, no matter how short or how long that trip is expected to be.

In addition to properly restraining pets on car trips, pet owners can take these steps to ensure their pets are safe.

• Don't take pets along on car trips unless it's absolutely necessary. It can be fun to take a pet with you everywhere, but the AVMF advises pet owners to leave their pets home when possible. Pets that are not suffering from separation anxiety will be fine at home without their owners. Pet owners whose pet owners are exhibiting signs of anxiety should address the anxiety so pets are comfortable at home alone. Taking pets everywhere is not a cure for separation anxiety.

• Do not leave pets unattended in cars.

A study from the Louisiana Office of Public Health found that temperatures in a dark sedan or a light gray minivan parked on a hot, but cloudy day reached higher than 125 F in just 20 minutes. The study also found that cracking the window in such situations had little effect on the temperature inside the vehicle. On hot days, leave pets at home. Owners who must take their pets with them should never leave them in the car, as temperatures inside vehicles rise quickly, putting pets' health in jeopardy.

Many pet owners are tempted to take their pets with them on car trips. But that should only be done when absolutely necessary, and safety must be the utmost priority when traveling with pets in a car.

Key Lime

YOGURT PIE

- INGREDIENTS:
- 6 sheets graham crackers (3.5 oz total)*
 - 3 tbsp cold whipped butter
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1- 1/2 teaspoons gelatin
 - 1/2 cup key lime juice (fresh squeezed or bottled)
 - 6 ounces 1/3 less fat cream cheese
 - 1 cup 0% fat Stonyfield plain yogurt
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon grated lime zest
 - key lime slices, optional for garnish
 - whipped cream, optional for garnish

Prep Time:	Cook Time:	Total Time:
30 mins	15 mins	45 mins

DIRECTIONS:

- For the graham cracker crust (you can also use a pre-made crust if you prefer):
1. Place graham crackers, butter and sugar into a food processor and pulse a few times.
 2. Add 1 tbsp water and pulse a few more times until it has a texture of coarse meal.
 3. Press into an 8-inch pie dish making the crust about 1/8-inch thick evenly all around and up the sides.
 4. Refrigerate the crust for 30 minutes before you bake it, this will help prevent crumbling when you want to serve it.
 5. Preheat oven to 375°F. Bake until the edges are golden, about 8 to 10 minutes.
 6. Remove from the oven and let the crust cool on a wire rack, before filling.

- Key Lime Filling:
1. In a small bowl combine 2 tablespoons of the lime juice with the gelatin and stir.
 2. Warm the remaining 6 tablespoons of key lime juice for 30 to 45 seconds in the microwave (this is to dissolve the gelatin, don't let it boil) and quickly mix well to dissolve the gelatin.
 3. In a large bowl with a hand mixer combine the cream cheese, yogurt, sugar and lime zest. Mix well, then add in the key lime juice and mix well, until fully incorporated, then pour into graham cracker crust.
 4. Chill pie thoroughly, at least 1 hour before serving.
 5. Garnish with key lime slices and whipped cream, optional, if desired.
