Turn your unwanted items into cold cash

■ Holding a garage or yard sale helps clear out the clutter

By Vera Hogan

So now that you've read Marie Kondo's book — The Life-Changing Magic About Tidying Up — you probably have a pileup of stuff in your house and garage that no longer “sparks joy”

It's time for a garage sale so you can hopefully turn a lot of that unwanted clutter into some cold cash. That should bring the joy back.

The following are a few tips on planning your successful garage or yard sale.

Pick a date

The first step is to choose dates and times for your sale. Most people go with Friday and Saturday mornings, but locally, many people start Thursday and go through Sunday for a few hours.

Check on permits

Many cities now require that you have a permit to run a garage sale. Check with a clerk at your city or town hall to find out if you need one.

Advertising

If you want to drive major traffic to your garage sale, fork up the money to pay for an ad in your local newspaper. But before you write your ad, find out how much space you get for the price you're willing to pay. Keep your ad short and pointed, and list your biggest ticket items first. The most popular garage sale items include furniture, kids' toys, and collectibles. Don't forget to include your address as well as the dates and times your sale will run (See sidebar for a great deal).

Make yard sale signs

Brightly colored poster board and a Sharpie is all you really need, if you need more than what the Times packet offers (see sidebar). Make sure your sign says “Garage Sale” large enough for people to see as they drive by. Include your address or an arrow pointing toward your house.

Get supplies

Make sure you have everything you need at least a day before the garage sale starts. You'll need chairs to sit on, a table or other flat surface to take payments

By Vera Hogan

May is National Teachers Month and although we have countless amazing teachers in our local school districts, there are some in history that should be studied often and never forgotten.

1. ANNE SULLIVAN

Anne Sullivan is one of the most famous teachers in history, remembered for her life-changing work to help a young blind, deaf and mute child named Helen Keller learn to communicate with the world.

2. SAINT MOTHER TERESA

Mother Teresa, who was canonized as a saint in 2016, once worked as a teacher while serving as a nun in India. She spent 17 years at Saint Mary's High School for Girls in Calcutta (and was later made the school principal) before leaving her profession in 1948 to pursue a new path serving the poor and sick.

3. ALBERT EINSTEIN

Nobel Prize-winning physicist Albert Einstein, who was responsible for forming the theory of relativity as well as the powerful mathematical equation $E=MC^2$ (among other discoveries) was also a teacher. He taught theoretical physics in Prague, Zurich and Berlin, and later in the U.S. at Princeton.

4. MARIA MONTESSORI

Twice nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize, Maria Montessori was the first female doctor in Italy and later developed the Montessori educational system still used throughout the world today. After earning her doctorate, Montessori worked as a medical school instructor, but after years researching and studying child development, she moved into education and created a prepared teaching program for kids that allowed for a child-led learning environment.

5. LAURA INGALLS WILDER

Any fan of "Little House on the Prairie" (TV show) and "Little House in the Big Woods" (books) knows that author Laura Ingalls Wilder was a teacher. While working as a teen at her local schoolhouse, she met her future husband Almanzo Wilder. Her background in education led Laura to a career as a writer whose legacy is still felt today.

6. C.S. LEWIS

Acclaimed British author C.S. Lewis was the mastermind behind novels like "The Chronicles of Narnia" series. He was also, for many years, a professor of literature working first at Magdalen College at Oxford University in 1925 before transferring to Cambridge University in 1954. He worked at Cambridge until he resigned in 1963 due to health issues. His work still inspires readers to this day.

Just sayin'...

Spring is here, time to go 'saling'

This week, I have an article in our Lifestyle section on tips for holding a garage sale. Being a seasoned garage-saler myself, I also have some tips on how to shop a garage sale.

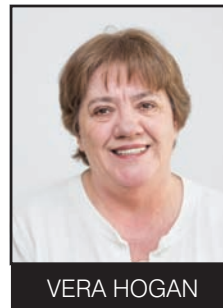

There are many good reasons to shop garage or yard sales. You could be a young adult looking to pick up some items like dishes and coffee mugs, or furniture that can be repurposed and painted for your first apartment. Or, if you have small children in your home, they are great places to find inexpensive play clothes.

Or, if you're like me, you're a treasure hunter. I'm always on the lookout for hard-cover cookbooks because I am a collector. I also look for treasures I can sell. One year I bought a pair of brand new, old-fashioned basketball shoes. They were turquoise with pink, yellow and white polka dots all over. I paid 50 cents for them and later sold them on ebay for $16. I also bought a small globe music box with Dorothy of the Wizard of Oz spinning around on her ruby slippers to the tune of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." I bought that for a dollar and sold it on ebay for $15. My sister had the greatest find of all in our family. She picked up a large Disney movie poster in the early 1990s for 50 cents, and later sold it for $500. It was valuable because it had Walt Disney's signature on it.

Today, the hot collectibles include original comic books, first edition hard cover books, vinyl records, coins, stamps, antique furniture, dolls, action figures and other toys. Star Wars stuff is always popular. Simply Google "most collectible in 2019" and you'll see what I mean.

The first thing you need to do is plan ahead. Check out the Times' classifieds because they are the best places to find sales. I grab a copy of the Wednesday Midweek edition and with a yellow highlighter, mark the sales I wish to attend. I also map out my trip so I am not driving back and forth all over the place.

I should mention that you can find garage sales online, but I personally like to stick close to home. I know we're mostly strangers at garage sales, but I just feel safer staying around town. To me, if I'm in the Fenton, Linden or Holly area, we're at least acquainted.

On garage sale day be sure to wear comfy shoes and have plenty of one dollar bills and some coin in your pocket. Your garage sale hosts will appreciate you for having exact change.

Before leaving a garage sale, especially if I don't find anything for myself, I always thank the hosts and let them know I will tell my friends and family about their sale.

Have fun and happy saling!

YARD SALE

and provide change, and plenty of areas to display your goods. Gather all of the card tables and patio furniture you can find for placing breakable items on. For smaller, non-breakable items, place a board over two milk crates. For clothes, use a garment rack or hang them on hangers off the top of your garage door Don't forget the change

You know it's going to happen. You'll have to make $19.95 in change for your first customer. Make sure you have fives, ones, and at least $20 in quarters.

Sort your items

Sort before you price. It's the easiest way to keep your garage sale organized and make it easy on potential buyers. Dedicate a room in your house to garage sale planning and divide all of your items by category such as clothes, books, home goods, and kids' toys.

Price your items

It's best if you price your items individually rather than just group them into boxes with one price sign. As the garage sale progresses, people will get the boxes mixed up and you'll have a hard time keeping it organized.

Organize and arrange

Arrange your tables and put all the clothes on hangers the night before the garage sale. Arrange everything the night before and store it in the garage for safe-keeping. Map out where everything will be placed to make the morning setup as easy as possible and to keep it in a logical and organized fashion for customers.

Get ready

Make sure you have your change in a safe place, and find a comfortable, shaded area to sit. If your garage sale is hard to spot from the street, place a yard sale sign in front of your house so people know where to stop. Stay seated and shout out a friendly hello when people walk up, and let the customers come to you.

Deal with leftovers

Consider taking the leftovers to a Goodwill store or Community Threads and save on your taxes. Make an itemized list of everything you have with its original value. Once you drop it at a donation center, ask for a receipt. File this away to use for a tax deduction for charitable donations on your income taxes.

TIMES GARAGE SALE PACKET FOR ONLY $36

You can make the whole task of planning and holding a garage sale so much easier by purchasing a Tri-County Times Garage Sale Packet. For only $36, you will get a 20-word advertisement with one photo, which will appear in one edition. With that $36, you also get five garage sale signs and five packets of assorted color tabs (sticky back) that you can use to price your items. A garage sale checklist is included with the packet and best of all, a list called "Successful Tips for your Garage/Yard Sale" to make your event hassle free. This list is comprehensive and covers far more ground than the aforementioned tips. And if that's not enough, you also get a $3 off coupon for your next classified ad.

RANCH CHICKEN SALAD

- INGREDIENTS:
- 1/2 cup 1% buttermilk
 - 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
 - 2 tablespoon fresh finely chopped chives
 - 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon onion powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon dried parsley
 - 1/4 teaspoon dried basil
 - fresh black pepper, to taste
 - 2 cups shredded boneless chicken breast, from rotisserie chicken or leftover

- DIRECTIONS:
1. In a medium bowl combine the buttermilk, mayo, chives, salt, garlic powder, onion powder, parsley, basil and black pepper and mix.
 2. Add the shredded chicken and mix well. Refrigerate until ready to eat.

This light and easy chicken salad recipe made with leftover rotisserie chicken breast meat and my homemade ranch dressing. Great for lunch and meal prep!
