SUMMARY

■ Millennials are the latest generation to fuel the popularity of recreational vehicle (RV) camping, with the camping season officially opening this Memorial Day weekend in Michigan.

Alicia Biafore, Rush RV office manager, sits in a 40-foot-long Tiffin Allegro motorhome, which features two bathrooms and upscale interior design. To add space, it has several slide-outs that are opened while parked.

returns as a popular summer pastime

■ Recreational vehicle owners enjoy affordable travel, family and the great outdoors

By Sally Rummel

Jon and Tara Yoerg of Fenton are looking forward to this summer when they can hop in their travel trailer with their two young sons and hit the road for affordable family fun.

"I love it, it's our 'home away from home,'" she said. "I grew up camping so I wanted my kids to enjoy it as well."

The Yoergs will pack their used 26-foot Springdale by Keystone travel trailer for as many summer camping weekends as they can. Usually, they'll stay close to home, often at Outdoor Adventures, a members-only club in Davison, so that Jon can still work.

"We love biking, hiking, swimming, play structures and just hanging out in the trailer," Tara said.

Recreational vehicles (RVs) have been around for 100 years, but are enjoying a new surge in popularity as people of all ages find that

Holly football teams to the rescue

On Saturday, May 18, the Holly High School football team and assistant coaches, led by head coach Dallas Lesperance, performed community service at the home of Patti Nelson of Holly Township. Nelson made a donation to the football program, which will partially be used to fund upcoming football camp. "A huge thank you goes to the coaches and students for this community service," Nelson said. "This is a wonderful example of what the future holds with these young leaders." Go to myfenton.com to read the entire story. Submitted photo

Star Wars vs. Star Trek

"Star Wars — the Rise of Skywalker" is set to come out in theaters in December, just before Christmas.

In June of 1977, I saw the first Star Wars movie (also known as Star Wars: Episode IV — A New Hope) at the theater. It came out on May 25, 1977 and was the first film in the original Star Wars trilogy and the beginning of the Star Wars franchise.

I remember everything about this movie and the theater I saw it in. I can almost guarantee that I had a small buttered popcorn and either a box of Snow Caps or Raisinets, and a diet drink. I remember where we sat, which is where I usually sit when I go to the movies — just over half way down the aisle on the left side. I wanted to sit just above where the kids sat and past where adults usually sat. It was a Saturday night and the cinema was packed. I'm not that tall and wanted to make sure no one's big head was in my way.

What I don't remember is my date. Who did I go with? I know I was newly divorced and happy to be dating again, but I can't for the life of me remember who I went to see this movie with. Poor guy, I would hate to be that forgettable.

I recall enjoying at least some of the movie. R2D2 was kind of cute, as was C3PO. But Darth Vader, Obi Wan Kenobi and Chewbacca — come on. This was just a little too weird for me. And all of this fighting in outer space. Zing, zing, zing — all the weird looking space ships flying up and down and around between mountains and valleys at warp speed. It was just too fast, too loud and I had a hard time following the plot.

When the second Star Wars movie came out, I did go, but did not stay for the whole thing. I was just not into it, which is why I am amazed today that 42 years later, Star Wars is alive and well and that there are generations of diehard fans.

Oddly enough, I did like Star Trek. I liked the diversity of the characters. They were a bit strange, but not Chewbacca, Jar Jar Binks or Jabba the Hutt strange. I loved the emotionless Dr. Spock, the "Vulcan" played by Leonard Nimoy. How he played that part with a straight face is beyond me. I also liked "Bones," the medical doctor. If only we had little hand-held devices like his to place on a wound or body part to heal whatever the ailment. And the way they traveled was so efficient.

"Beam me up Scottie ..."

Just sayin'!

SAY CHEESE!

— Compiled By Vera Hogan —

There's a little place in Capaccio, Italy called Tenuta Vannulo, where customers line up to get a number before the cheese maker's specialty sells out. The cheese is mozzarella and it's made fresh from buffalo milk, who are cared for on a family farm behind the shop.

Nicola Palmieri runs his family farm, where the buffaloes are pampered, according to CBS News Sunday morning (May 19). Soothing music is piped into the pens, and when the buffaloes feel they are ready, they line up on their own to be milked by machines. They can also take a shower or get a massage.

Palmieri says they have to be relaxed — it's one of the secrets to making good mozzarella. Buffalo milk has a higher percentage of fat than milk from cows, so it's richer and sweeter. It's also said to melt in your mouth.

But you don't have to go to Italy for buffalo milk mozzarella. It can be purchased at just about any grocery store for under $20.

So what are the most expensive cheeses in the world?

1. The most expensive cheese in the world is called Pule ($575/pound), an extremely rare cheese made in Serbia from Balkan donkey milk. It takes over 3 gallons of milk from a donkey to make just a pound of this cheese, and there's only 100 donkeys that are milked for production, and they have to be hand-milked three times a day. Pule isn't produced commercially, so even if you're a billionaire, there's no point in rushing over to your local cheese shop to try to buy a slice.

2. The second priciest cheese is Moose Cheese ($455/pound). To find it you have to visit Sweden, specifically Bjursholm. There's a place there called the Elk House, and it's the only place that makes this cheese. In fact, they've got three domesticated moose named Gullan, Helga and Juna, who make 600 pounds of cheese a year.

3. White Stilton Gold ($450/pound) cheese is made by the Long Clawson Dairy in the UK. It was once made as a limited edition Christmas cheese, but it got incredibly popular with celebrities and the oil sheikh crowd. Now, every one wants it as some sort of status symbol. It's a regular Stilton cheese, but infused with gold flecks and gold liqueur.

RV

RV travel is an affordable way to get out of the daily grind and get closer to nature and family.

The Yoerg family, which includes parents Jon and Tara Yoerg and sons Klayton, 10 and Jaxxon, 7, enjoy fun and games while hanging out near their travel trailer on summer camping weekends. Submitted photo

“Most of our customers are the older generation of RVers but the next wave is coming up with younger people looking for new experiences,” said Pam Rush, owner of Rush RV Repair in Holly.

Younger millennials pushed RV sales to record highs in 2017, according to the RV Industry Association (RVIA), but most RV owners are slightly older. More RVs are now owned by those aged 35 to 54 than any other age group.

Brook and Kathleen Smith of Tyrone Township, ages 54 and 53, respectively, have been RV owners for five years. “We just bought a new toy hauler for our four-wheelers, Harleys, kayaks and snowmobiles,” Kathleen said.

Their new 32-foot Coachmen Adrenaline can sleep six, a handy feature since the Smiths enjoy camping with friends. They belong to a camping group on Facebook with 10 other couples.

The Smiths visit state parks just about every other weekend, to popular campgrounds like Port Crescent State Park in Port Austin, Wilderness State Park in the Mackinac Straits area and Ludington State Park.

“You meet many nice people at the state parks,” Kathleen said.

Baby boomers Rich and Vera Ross of Davisburg have owned their Holiday Rambler fifth wheel for many years, and take it as far as Texas for three months in the winter. In the summer, they visit Outdoor Adventure locations, and also meet up with like-minded friends through a camping club, Michigan Buddies.

“Being with other people, having campfires with your friends, that’s what we both love about camping,” said Vera, 64.

Kathy Dawson of Clarkston, who had her vintage 1976 Airstream Argosy painted and restored at Rush RV, is 64 and single and enjoys taking her dogs to dog shows throughout the state. “Dog shows are way more fun with a camper,” she said.

What most RVers have in common, no matter what their age, is that they started out tent camping, moved to pop-up trailers, then stepped up to an RV for a more comfortable experience.

“No matter where you are, you’re still sleeping in your own bed,” Dawson said.

THERE’S AN RV FOR EVERY BUDGET

Prices for new RVs are typically

- $6,000-$22,000 for folding camping trailers
- $6,000-$55,000 for truck campers
- $8,000-$95,000 for conventional travel trailers
- $18,000-$160,000 for fifth wheel trailers
- $60,000-$150,000 for Type B and C motor homes
- $60,000-$500,000 for Type A motor homes

Jimmie Dale Long

Jimmie Dale Long passed away peacefully on May 22, 2019. Visitation at Dryer Funeral Home, in Holly MI, is scheduled for Tuesday, May 28, 2019 from 2-5 and 7-9 PM, and at First Baptist of Holly from 9-11 AM on Wednesday, May 29, 2019. Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist Church of Holly, on Wednesday May 29, at 11 AM. Burial will take place at Great Lakes National Cemetery, Thursday May 30, 2019 at 9 AM. Jimmie was born in Dyersburg, Tennessee as the first-born son of Virginia (Shinny) Long and Woodrow (Woody) Long. He was big brother to five siblings, proceeded in death by both his parents; brother, Steve (Kathy) Long, brother David (Linda) Long; and his beloved wife Marilyn (Andrews) Long. Surviving are sisters Pamela (Paul) Liscom, Sharon (Jim) Reid; brother, Virgil (Betty) Long; son, Phil (Robin) Long; daughter, Lisa (Peter) Hickman, daughter, Lesley (Neale) Jesse; and beloved friend Francine DeStefano. Jimmie was the fun-loving grandfather of seven grandchildren. Eric Long, Jacob Long, Caleb Long, Jordan Hickman, Mason Hickman, Adam Jesse, and Abigail Jesse will forever love their "inappropriate grandpa." Jimmie was a veteran of the US Air Force, retired from Pontiac Motors, and enjoyed entertaining his customers at Jimmie D. Long Income Tax. He was a longtime member of the First Baptist Church of Holly. Jimmie loved "the golf" and had the enviable accomplishment of making three holes-in-one. His sense of humor, kindness, generosity, and the mischievous twinkle in his eyes, endeared him to a multitude of friends and acquaintances. He was a servant to two loyal dachshunds, Poppy and LuLu, and the savior of a blue tick hound. Jimmie enjoyed traveling, classic movies, Marilyn Monroe, southern cooking, practical jokes, and a good garage sale deal. He was a collector of many things, but mostly of devoted friends and family. He will be remembered in our hearts with joy, thankfulness, and gratitude. www.dryerfuneralhome.com.

Get the scoop on pet food safety

Today's consumers are more conscious than ever before regarding the foods and other substances they put in their bodies. It would stand to reason that those same concerned individuals also would extend that caution to the meals they feed their pets, as the basic principles of food safety also apply to pet foods and treats.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says it is key to pick the right foods for pets, and to consider some important information before purchasing anything. The CDC does not recommend feeding raw foods to pets. Salmonella and listeria have been found in raw pet foods, as well as packaged ones sold in stores.

In the United States, the Association of American Feed Control Officials regulates the production, transportation and ingredient suppliers of manufactured pet foods. With the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, these agencies help regulate animal feeds and impart new standards, process controls and other features. Pet owners concerned about their pets' foods should look for approval from AAFCO as well as the FDA before feeding.

Many pet owners prefer to seek locally sourced ingredients in the foods they select. This means protein and carbohydrate sources produced right in North America. Check package labeling to see where ingredients are procured if this is a concern.

The same safe food handling procedures people observe when handling their own foods should be followed when they prepare meals for their pets. Before or after handling pet foods and treats, wash hands to prevent the spread of foodborne illnesses, states FoodSafety.gov. When possible, store pet food separate from human food, preparing the foods in separate spaces as well. Use a clean, dedicated scoop or cup to create a pet food serving. Follow manufacturer's guidelines for food storage. An airtight container is advisable to keep the food fresh and free from possible contaminants.

Pet owners also should routinely check for pet food recalls to ensure the brand they're using is safe. Every effort pet owners make to keep their pets' foods safe and contaminant-free keeps pets healthy and happy.

CHICKEN PARMESAN

Lasagna

INGREDIENTS:

FOR THE CHICKEN:

- 4 (32 ounces) boneless, skinless chicken breasts, sliced in half lengthwise to make 8
- 3/4 cup seasoned breadcrumbs
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 large eggs, beaten
- olive oil spray

FOR THE LASAGNA:

- 15 ounce container part-skim ricotta cheese, (almost 2 cups)
- 1/2 cup grated Pecorino Romano or Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup fresh chopped basil, plus more for garnish
- 4 3/4 cups homemade or jarred marinara sauce (from about 2)
- 9 ounce box no-boil lasagna noodles,
- 3 cups baby spinach
- 3 cups part-skim shredded mozzarella cheese

DIRECTIONS:

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. Spray a large baking sheet lightly with spray.
2. Combine breadcrumbs and parmesan cheese in a bowl. Beat the egg in another bowl.
3. Dip the chicken into the eggs, then into the breadcrumb mixture. Discard the remaining crumbs.
4. Place the chicken on the prepared baking sheet, lightly spray the top with oil and bake in the oven for 25 minutes, do not turn. When done, remove from the oven and reduce oven temp to 400F.
5. Meanwhile, combine the ricotta, parmesan cheese, and basil in a medium bowl.
6. In a 9 x 13 x 3-inch Pyrex Deep baking dish, ladle 3/4 cup of marinara on the bottom of the dish.
7. Arrange 3 lasagna noodles across the dish (they will expand as they cook), top with 3/4 cup sauce, 4 pieces of chicken, 1/4 of the ricotta cheese mixture, 1/2 cup mozzarella cheese, 3/4 cup spinach.
8. Repeat the 2nd layer, skipping the chicken.
9. Repeat the 3rd layer with the chicken, and the 4th layer without the chicken.
10. For the 5th layer, spread the last 3 sheets of pasta noodles with the remaining 1 1/2 cups of marinara sauce on top.
11. Cover with foil and bake in a 400F preheated oven in the center rack 50 minutes.
12. Uncover, add the remaining cup of mozzarella and bake until melted, 5 minutes.
13. Remove from oven and let it rest 15 minutes before serving.
