Changing transportation trends — hybrids, electrics, flex fuel

■ Electric and hybrid vehicle offerings are growing

By Tim Jagielo

In the search for fuel efficiency, manufacturers have created electric, hybrid, and flex fuel vehicles. The Times recently published an article about the Tesla Model 3, an American made all-electric sedan with a 240-mile range.

Jeff Canever of Vic Canever Chevrolet said the last 10 years have brought a transition to more hybrid vehicles. He credits the Toyota Prius overall, and the Chevy Volt.

Canever said GM hopes to have 20 electric vehicle models for sale by 2023. Sales Manager Matt Stevens said GM has been focusing 100 percent on electric vehicles after discontinuing the Volt, their plug-in hybrid vehicle.

What is an electric vehicle?

Electric vehicles run purely from large lithium ion batteries, usually set low in the vehicle for stability. Their range varies per vehicle. Some have a range of 150 miles, while others have a range of 325 miles. They can charge overnight or charge in about an hour or less with a turbocharger.

Electric cars were there at the beginning with gas-powered horseless carriages. According to energy.gov, the first small-scale electric cars were created in the U.S. along with Hungary and The Netherlands in 1828.

Electric vehicles actually made up one-third of vehicles on the road by the turn of the 20th century, but declined after vehicles like the Ford Model T became popular and gas stations started popping up around the country.

Electric vehicles weren't taken seriously for mass production until the mid-1990s.

General Motors leased the all-electric EV1 between 1996 and 2003, before ending leases and crushing the cars. This prompted the productions of documentary "Who Killed the Electric Car."

Today, more all-electric vehicles are available, and sales and offerings have increased exponentially since 2011. In 2017, nearly 200,000 electric were sold. Dominate models came from Tesla, Chevrolet and Toyota.

Mathematically challenged

I enjoyed every subject in school — English, geography, world and U.S. history and science — but I always hated arithmetic.

In grade school, our report cards were completed by hand and listed the subjects and our grades for that marking period. It was easier on me when my parents saw an occasional A, several Bs and a C once in awhile. It made the D or D- (in arithmetic) not look so tragic. I always promised my parents I would do better. Uh huh!

In high school it was more difficult. The report cards were similar in that all the subjects were listed and a letter grade was assigned according to our achievements for that marking period. But the teachers now had the option of writing comments next to each grade. Comments like, “If Vera did more studying and less daydreaming, she could bring this (freshman algebra) grade up a notch.”

She forced me to come up with all kinds of lame excuses. “I tried but I’m just not getting it.” “The teacher has her favorites and I’m not one of them.” “If I stay after to get extra help, I’ll miss the late bus home.” The last one usually worked because my mother didn’t drive back then.

To make this tragic high school math story shorter, I barely graduated with a D+ in Algebra I, the same algebra they now teach to seventh- and eighth-graders. At the time, only a passing grade in one math course (for the entire four years) was required to graduate.

Zoom ahead to about 20 years ago when I covered a Holly Board of Education meeting. Because the board had to go into executive session for some reason, the audience had to wait in the hallway. Out there with me were several teachers with two carts of brand new books they were going to present to the board for review. They were algebra books.

Without thinking, I made the monumental mistake of saying, “I’m 46 years old and can’t remember a time that I actually used algebra.”

They pounced and started attacking me with reasons algebra is so critical in our everyday lives. At the time I was thinking, “tell me how it is critical in a practical application,” but I knew better by this time and just kept my mouth shut.

Thank goodness we have computers and all kinds of electronic devices to do our “figuring” for us. Oddly enough, my two sons were math wizards in school, getting awesome grades, not only in algebra but geometry, calculus and trigonometry. They sure didn’t get that from me.

In my defense, I have always loved reading and have literally read hundreds of books over the years. That’s something I can always count on — having a great book to read.

Halle Berry wasn't only the first African American woman to have won the Oscars for best actress (for Monster's Ball), but she also was the first African American girl to become homecoming queen of Bedford High School, where she attended as a teenager.

Meg Ryan has been an American sweetheart since she made us fall in love with her in movies like When Harry Met Sally, Sleepless in Seattle, and You've Got Mail. Meg was apparently also beloved by the people she went to high school with, as they picked her to be their homecoming queen.

She's one of the greatest actors in the world and a source of inspiration, but apparently she's also very outgoing and funny, as one of her high school friends described her.

Compiled by Vera Hogan
The young ladies crowned homecoming queen at local high schools this season will be in good company. Here are a few celebrities who also enjoyed that honor when they were in high school.

Sissy Spacek is mostly known for playing Carrie in the movie of the same name — and there she suffered a very different fate in her high school homecoming, as her fellow students completely humiliate her. In real life, Sissy's experience was far from it. She was chosen by her peers as the high school's homecoming queen when she graduated back in 1968.

Well, her date to homecoming wasn't Tim McGraw, but Faith Hill was still voted to be homecoming queen when she graduated high school back in 1986. The Mississippi born country singer has since shot up to fame and married fellow singer Tim McGraw — after which the two became a true power couple in the industry.

Meghan Markle is now officially royalty since marrying Prince Harry, but wearing a tiara is nothing new to her. The Los Angeles native was crowned homecoming queen in 1998.

LOOKING BACK at this week in HISTORY

COMPILED BY VERA HOGAN

SEPT. 29

1982: Flight attendant Paula Prince buys a bottle of cyanide-laced Tylenol. Prince was found dead Oct. 1, becoming the final victim of a mysterious ailment in Chicago, Illinois. Over the previous 24 hours, six other people had suddenly died of unknown causes in northwest Chicago. After Prince's death, Richard Keyworth and Philip Cappitelli, firefighters in the Windy City, realized that all seven victims had ingested Extra-Strength Tylenol prior to becoming ill. Further investigation revealed that several bottles of the Tylenol capsules had been poisoned with cyanide.

SEPT. 30

1868: The first volume of Louisa May Alcott's beloved children's book Little Women is published. The novel will become Alcott's first bestseller and a beloved children's classic.

OCT. 1

2017: A gunman opened fire on a crowd attending the final night of a country music festival in Las Vegas, killing 58 people and injuring more than 800. Although the shooting only lasted 10 minutes, the death and injury tolls made this massacre the deadliest mass shooting in U.S. history at the time of the attack.

OCT. 2

1985: Actor Rock Hudson, 59, becomes the first major U.S. celebrity to die of complications from AIDS. Hudson's death raised public awareness of the epidemic, which until that time had been ignored by many in the mainstream as a "gay plague."

OCT. 3

1995: At the end of a sensational trial, former football star O.J. Simpson is acquitted of the brutal 1994 double murder of his estranged wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. In the epic 252-day trial, Simpson's "dream team" of lawyers employed creative and controversial methods to convince jurors that Simpson's guilt had not been proved "beyond a reasonable doubt," thus surmounting what the prosecution called a "mountain of evidence" implicating him as the murderer.

OCT. 4

1966: Pope Paul VI addresses 150,000 people in St. Peter's Square in Rome and calls for an end to the war in Vietnam through negotiations. Although the Pope's address had no impact on the Johnson administration and its policies in Southeast Asia, his comments were indicative of the mounting antiwar sentiment that was growing both at home and overseas.

OCT. 5

1974: American David Kunst completes the first round-the-world journey on foot, taking four years and 21 pairs of shoes to complete the 14,500-mile journey across the land masses of four continents. He left his hometown of Waseca, Minnesota, on June 20, 1970. Near the end of his journey in 1974 he explained the reasons for his epic trek: "I was tired of Waseca, tired of my job, tired of a lot of little people who don't want to think, and tired of my wife." During the long journey, he took on sponsors and helped raise money for UNICEF.

Hybrid vehicles

According to energy.gov, the first hybrid vehicle was built in 1901 by Ferdinand Porsche, just as electric vehicles were very popular.

Hybrids have both a smaller gas engine and a battery system, which can run in tandem or separately. The Toyota Prius was introduced in 1997, the first mass-produced hybrid car.

The Chevy Volt could run for 420 miles with a full charge and a full tank of gas, according to Chevrolet.com. Its electric range is 53 miles. After a 10-year run, the Volt is being discontinued by GM after providing a boost to the hybrid market in general.

Hybrid offerings are growing. GM and most manufacturers have at least one hybrid option today. Subaru has its all-wheel drive Crosstrek, Mini has its Countryman and Ford the Explorer Limited Hybrid, for example.

Hybrid sales have had a bumpier ride with an all-time high of sales in 2013. Still, hybrids have been available longer and outsell electrics by almost double, according to energy.gov data.

Alternative fuels

Aside from regular gasoline, there is also propane, methanol (M85), liquid natural gas (LNG), hydrogen, biodiesel, compressed natural gas (CNG), and ethanol (E85). Today there are 70,000 E85 fueling stations and these have increased from 5,000 in 2006.

Electric fuel stations have skyrocketed between 2011 and 2017. In 1998 there were 7,269 charging stations. In 2017 there were 70,000.

Most manufacturers offer "flex fuel" vehicles that can take E85 fuel, which has a high percentage of ethanol, a corn derivative. The U.S. Department of Energy reports that there are dozens, including the GMC Yukon C1500.

Flint attorney hosts free workshops on elder law

Michael E. Thomas, a Flint attorney specializing in elder law, says he has seen both joys and tragedies in his 40 years of practice. But nothing is more tragic, he says, than seeing a family lose their life savings because of a stroke, onset of dementia, Parkinson's disease or another significant medical event. Statistics reveal that there is 50 percent chance that any person over the age of 65 will spend six months in a long-term care facility, which can drain a family's savings. Thomas says there are legal methods of sheltering funds so no family has to go broke due to those circumstances. He will explain those methods at two separate free workshops on Oct. 8, from 10-11:30 a.m. and from 6-7:30 p.m. The workshops will be held at the Holiday Inn, Gateway Centre, 5353 Gateway Centre Blvd. in Flint. To register for the free seminar, call 800-955-1531. Refreshments will be provided, and seating is limited.

AS PRESIDENT TRUMP battles the swamp in D.C., I'm reminded of a well-known saying. 'There are a lot of bad Democrats, but there are no good Republicans.' How true.

GOT MY ABSENTEE ballot today, with the Fenton schools millage being the sole item to vote on. What a waste of school funds, again, 'no' vote here. Let's see some budgeting changes first.

ALL OF THIS nonsense has to stop in D.C. Let the president do his job, which he was elected to do. All you politicians on both sides of the aisle, do your job, and the media covering issues and spreading lies, get back to facts only.

HOPEFULLY, THE ROUNDABOUT at Torrey and North roads will have only one lane. The two-lane roundabouts at Lee Road in Brighton confuse too many people.

FOR THE PARENTS fortunate enough to have your school kids picked up/dropped off at driveway. Kindly forego the chitchat with bus drivers. People are waiting for that bus to get moving.

THANK YOU, GOVERNOR Whitmer. Nicotine dependence is stronger than heroin. Adults do not need bubblegum flavored nicotine to deter smoking cigarettes. Tobacco flavor will suffice.

JUST WHEN WE thought it was not humanly possible, the Democrats find a way to sink to a new low in their cesspool of hypocrisy and lies. Their hatred will be their undoing.

?!?! TRIVIA !?!!

The last day to register in any manner other than in-person with the local clerk is Monday, October 21, 2019.

After this date, anyone who qualifies as an elector may register to vote in person with proof of residency (MCL 168.492) at the Rose Township Clerk's office, located at 9080 Mason St., Holly, MI 48442 at the following times:

- Regular business hours: Monday – Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
- Saturday, November 2, 2019 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
- Election Day, Tuesday November 5, 2019 from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Fenton Area Public School district and the Oakland Community College districts will be voting on the following proposals as presented and listed below:

FENTON AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS
SINKING FUND MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSAL

This proposal will allow the school district to continue to levy the building and site sinking fund millage that expires with the 2019 tax levy. Shall the currently authorized millage rate of .8999 mill ($0.8999 on each $1,000 of taxable valuation) which may be assessed against all property in Fenton Area Public Schools, Genesee, Livingston and Oakland Counties, Michigan, be renewed for a period of 3 years, 2020, 2021 and 2022, to continue to provide for a sinking fund for the construction or repair of school buildings all other purposes authorized by law; the estimate of the revenue the school district will collect if the millage is approved and levied in 2020 is approximately $820,000 (this is a renewal of millage that will expire with the 2019 tax levy)?

OAKLAND COMMUNITY COLLEGE OPERATING MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSAL

This proposal authorizes Oakland Community College to continue to levy 0.7545 mill for operating purposes for 10 years as a renewal of millage previously approved by the electors in 2010, which expires with the 2021 tax levy. Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be levied on all taxable property within the Oakland Community College district, State of Michigan, be renewed at a rate of 0.7545 mill ($0.7545 per $1,000 of taxable valuation) for a period of 10 years, 2022 through 2031, inclusive, to provide funds for College operating purposes? It is estimated that if the millage is approved and 0.7545 mill is levied in 2022, it would raise $45,065,057 for the College.

A copy of the ballot proposal may be obtained at the Rose Township Clerk's office, 9080 Mason St., Holly, MI 48442, telephone (248) 634-8701. A sample ballot may be viewed at mi.gov/vote.

Pizza is beloved across the globe. The National Association of Pizza Operators estimates that 350 slices of pizza are consumed every second in the United States. In addition, 93 percent of Americans eat pizza at least once a month, says a Mintel survey.

When it comes to pizza toppings, some may argue that plain cheese is best, but pepperoni is a crowd favorite. A Harris Poll® from 2016 found that pepperoni was the most popular topping, followed by sausage. Pepperoni pizza is spicy enough to add some kick to every slice. And while it's easy to order a pie from the nearest pizza shop, it's just as simple to whip up pepperoni pizza on a whim right at home with a quick recipe like this one, courtesy of the Pillsbury® Kitchens.

INGREDIENTS:

- Cornmeal
- 1 13.8-ounce can Pillsbury® refrigerated classic pizza crust or 1, 11-ounce can Pillsbury® refrigerated thin pizza crust
- 1 8-ounce can pizza sauce
- 1/2 cup sliced pepperoni
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

DIRECTIONS:

1. If using classic crust: Heat oven to 425 F. Sprinkle cornmeal on 12-inch square pizza stone. Unroll dough on pizza stone. Starting at center, press dough into 12-inch square, forming 1/2-inch rim. If using thin crust: Heat oven to 400 F. Spray or grease 15x10-inch or larger dark or nonstick cookie sheet. Sprinkle cornmeal on cookie sheet. Unroll dough on cookie sheet. Starting at center, press dough into 15x10-inch rectangle.

2. Spread pizza sauce over crust to within 1/2 inch of edges. Top with pepperoni and mozzarella cheese. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

3. Bake classic crust 14 to 18 minutes, thin crust 8 to 12 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. Cut into 4 servings.

Protect pets in case of fire

A fire at home can cause fear and anxiety. When a fire breaks out at home, one's initial reaction is to get oneself and one's loved ones out of the house as quickly as possible. In such instances, the rush to get out of the house can sometimes cause families to forget their pets. According to the home security firm Protect America, about 40,000 pets die in home fires every year. Many of those deaths are preventable. One of the best ways to prevent the death of pets in home fires is to devise a pet fire safety plan. Many parents devise fire safety and evacuation plans for their families, and it's important to consider pets when devising such plans. In fact, the American Red Cross notes that the best way to protect pets from the effects of a fire is to include them in fire safety plans.

thoroughly extinguished before leaving your home or going to bed at night.

- Install knob covers on your stove. The Red Cross notes that stoves or cook tops are the most common piece of equipment involved in home fires started by pets. Knob covers on stove knobs can prevent pets from accidentally turning burners on.

- Use flameless candles. Flameless candles can create a similar ambience as traditional candles but won't pose a fire risk. When pets knock over flameless candles, the result is a minor inconvenience, not a home fire.

- Confine pets to secure areas when away from home. Use baby gates or crates when away from home to ensure pets don't gain access to areas that may be vulnerable to home fires.

In addition to taking steps to prevent their pets from starting fires, pet owners can take steps to make it easier for firefighters to find and successfully remove pets from homes that have caught fire.

- Set up sleeping and lounging areas near entryways. A sleeping and lounging area near an entryway, whether it's the front door to a home or a door that allows access to the backyard, increases the chances that firefighters can quickly find and remove pets in the case of fire.

- Make sure pets wear collars at all times. Pet owners can quickly attach leashes to pets
