By golly I finally saw a butterfly at the garden.

I would like to take a moment to thank our Fenton police and fire department. Kevin, thank you for taking my call. To the firefighters who left their families to run on our non-emergency call at 1 a.m., Monday morning, we were completely at a loss over what to do. We can’t thank you enough. Thank you.

Such a shame, animals outside all day, but what about the ones locked up inside all day while you work for 14 hours, then have to rush home to let your dog out instead of stopping by to visit your grandson? Don’t get a dog if you can’t take care of it properly.

‘But I know I love you’

■ Local dad brings awareness to rare childbirth complication causing brain injury, memory loss

By Sally Rummel

The happiest day of a woman’s life is often the birth of her firstborn child.

But for Camre Curto, 31, of Tyrone Township, this milestone is one she has no memory of — along with a lifetime of memories erased, when her son Gavin was born Oct. 9, 2012.

Camre suffered from pre-eclampsia, a rare complication of pregnancy characterized by high blood pressure and often resulting in a series of seizures. An emergency C-section was necessary to save both mother and baby, so Gavin arrived healthy but small, a month early.

Now 7 years old, Gavin has no health issues from his premature birth, but his mom has had to adjust from a life-threatening brain injury to a new reality of a life with no memories.

After her son’s birth, Camre didn’t recognize her then-fiancé, Steve Curto, even though they had been together for years. Nor did she know her parents, who had been her constant bedside companions while she was fighting for her life. Camre didn’t even remember giving birth to Gavin or any of the medical emergencies that led up to his birth.

“It’s basically like a stroke, she lost all of her long- and short-term memory,” said Steve, whom Camre married four years ago.

When Camre and Gavin were both eventually released after a month-long hospitalization, a new normal settled in for the Curto family.

Camre needed occupational therapy to re-learn the skills of daily living that were lost — from tying her shoes to applying makeup, using a stove, grocery shopping and personal hygiene skills like brushing her teeth.

“It’s everyday things that we take for granted,” said Steve, who was able to change his job in the auto glass industry to work from home.

See I LOVE YOU on 15A
Two weeks ago, I was on my way to work and was stopped at a four-way just around the corner from my house. There were four cars (including mine) at each stop sign, waiting for our turn to proceed.

Before any of us had a chance to go, a big white car zooms around the black car waiting at the stop sign to my left and speeds through it. The woman driving was holding her cell phone against the top of the steering wheel (12 o’clock position) and was texting. She was driving with the palms of her hands and her eyes never left her phone.

Today, I stopped at a Silver Lake Village store during lunch. As I was leaving the parking lot, the driver of a white SUV that appeared to be parked to my right suddenly swings around and would have run right into me head on if I had not layed on my horn. She was texting.

Every once in a while before work, I like to stop in McDonald’s drive-thru for a coffee. And occasionally I will pick up fast food for lunch. I am not lying when I say that one out of every three times I drive-thru for a coffee. I am not lying when I say that one out of every three times I place my order, the driver in front of me is texting on his or her phone and I have to honk my horn to get them moving along.

I have to ask these drivers — what is so important that you can’t put your phone down while driving? Do you have a death wish? It amazes me that after all we hear and read about in the news that people still do this and think they are safe. They are not safe. One day they are going to kill or be killed due to texting and driving. None of the drivers I mentioned here were teenagers. They always get the bad rap for texting and driving, but it’s not always them. It’s men and women, adults who should know better.

Distracted driving is a huge problem and seems to be getting worse. According to the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (NHTSA), distracted driving includes talking or texting on your phone, eating and drinking, talking to people in your vehicle, fiddling with the stereo, entertainment or navigation system — anything that takes your attention away from the task of safe driving.

Fans of the popular NBC reality TV show, “The Voice,” have a local contestant to cheer for.

Stefani and Shelton would both try to convince Henson to pick either of them to be his coach for the show. Henson told the audience he was from Flint and Stefani tried to convince him that they had a connection since her father

NOCFA open house welcomes hundreds

Rose Twp. — “We don’t leave our candles burning unattended, right? Does anyone light a candle in their kitchen and then walk away? What about leave the house?”

Lt. Scott Blaska, fire prevention officer of the North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA) posed these questions to children and their parents minutes before setting a curtain on fire in a smokehouse meant for live burning demonstrations.

The moveable smokehouse had glass doors for onlookers. Kids watched with rapt attention as the curtains went up in flames in minutes and smoke filled the room.

This live fire demonstration, a helicopter landing, and robots were only a few of the attractions at the Sunday, Oct. 6 NOCFA open house at the Rose Township station.

Hundreds of people attended.

Attendees learned about the importance of planning an escape route in the event of a fire. The theme for this year, set by the National Fire Protection Association for October, which is National Fire Prevention Month, is “Not every hero wears a cape. Plan and practice your escape.”

Children were delighted to see the Oakland County Sheriff’s Office helicopter circle around the fire station and then land in the open adjacent field.

“They went and looked at the fire trucks. They had doughnuts.”

The most popular feature was a live fire station, in which firefighters used a machine that starts a small fire in a metal tray and kids would use a fire extinguisher to put it out. It’s a controlled fire, so if the kids couldn’t aim correctly, the workers could put it out quickly.

“It teaches the kids how to actually use a fire extinguisher,” he said. More than 100 kids did it.

Other stations included the Jaws of Life demonstrations and a station where kids could use a fire hose to put out a fake fire in a small cutout of a house.

Bomb squad robots save police from bullets

MSP unit responds to suspicious packages, sweeps stadiums and more

By Hannah Ball
Rose Twp. — Instead of opening doors, potentially getting shot at, and searching for bombs, two robots used by the Michigan State Police Bomb Squad were featured at the Sunday, Oct. 6 North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA) open house.

This was the first time for the bomb squad at a NOCFA open house. However, Spl./Sgt. Scott Reynolds, bomb technician with the MSP, said an important part of his job is community outreach.

Their main job is ensuring the safety of Michigan residents and police.

“Our main job is bomb squad but we also support our tactical team. If there’s a bad guy in the house with a gun, instead of sending an officer in there, we can send our robots because basically our robots can do everything that a human can do,’” he said. “This includes climbing stairs, opening doors, and more.

F/Lt. Michael Shaw of the MSP said the Michigan bomb squad was established in 1970 in response to a rash of political bombings. It’s one of the top 10 largest bomb squads in the nation.

POLICE INVESTIGATE TWO RELATED HIT-AND-RUN CRASHES

On Tuesday, Oct. 1 at 6 a.m., Fenton police responded to the intersection of S. Adelaide Street and Shiawassee Avenue on a report of a hit-and-run crash. Witnesses reported that a white Ford F-250 pickup truck rear-ended another vehicle and drove away. At 6:19 a.m., Fenton police received a call reporting a white Ford F-250 pickup truck that had driven through a resident’s yard and crashed into their vehicle, which was parked in the driveway. The sound of the crash awakened the residents. When they went outside to check, they saw the truck with its doors open and the engine running. The driver had apparently fled on foot. The license plate indicated the owner of the truck is a Fenton resident. The truck was impounded.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Fenton police at (810) 629-5311.

A dedicated volunteer for the Fenton Fire Department (FFD) was recognized for his years of service this summer.

At the Aug. 15, training meeting the FFD presented an “Honorary Firefighter” helmet and plaque to local resident and volunteer Cade Scott.

“He is a regular around the station during the daytime,” said Fire Chief Bob Cairnduff. This includes helping keep the station clean.

Cairnduff said Scott started coming to the station while in high school (about eight years ago) as part of a trial program that placed kids with special needs into the workplace to help them develop life and work skills.

Cairnduff said Scott fell in love with the fire service and he still comes to the station to help wherever he can.

Scott’s family told Cairnduff that his experience at their station opened the doors for many other children with special needs to get out into the workforce in Genesee County.

“They were extremely grateful for his time here and how we have accepted him as part of the team,” Cairnduff said.

Lt. Dustin Lucius headed this special project. “He did a great job presenting Cade with the special honor,” Cairnduff said.

Cade Scott, a long-time volunteer at the Fenton Fire Department was given the title of honorary firefighter Aug. 15.

Scott was part of a pilot program to give students with special needs real world experience.

Fenton road work sign system purchased

By Vera Hogan

The Fenton Department of Public works (DPW) will have another “work zone” sign and on Monday, Oct 7, Interim DPW Director Dan Brisson made a presentation about it to the City Council.

According to a memo by Brisson to City Manager Lynn Markland, the DPW did not have all the needed temporary signs to establish work zones in a roadway per Part 6 of the Michigan Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices Operations Manual.

Earlier this summer, three DPW employees attended a workshop for temporary traffic control training. The DPW now has five employees that are trained/certified to properly establish construction work zones, Brisson said.

Different types of work zone signage were explored and Brisson recommends a temporary sign system called Wind Master.

“I have personally used this sign system at the Pontiac Silverdome and Palace of Auburn Hills parking operations and find the product to be extremely durable and long lasting,” Brisson said.

An appropriate package to meet the DPW’s needs for temporary traffic control signage has been purchased from Cougar Sales & Rental of Novi at $4,223. Pricing also will be obtained from Carrier & Gable in Farmington Hills and the purchase will be made from the vendor with lowest pricing.

Brisson said when discussing budget for the current year, $5,000 was requested out of operating supplies from major and local street accounts.
Nerve Pain Treatment Breakthrough

By Erica Rainer

If YOU suffer from Neuropathy, Pain and Numbness in your Hands and or Feet, we have some news, though Drugs, Surgeries and Injections are Failing, there is now new hope for you, and anyone suffering with this life altering condition.

Neuropathy is a term used to describe the breakdown and damage to the nerves in the hands arms, legs and feet due to a lack of blood supply and nutrients getting to the nerve. It can be caused from Diabetes, Peripheral Vascular Disease, Poor Metabolic Health, Chemo Therapy, Agent Orange Exposure, Misaligned Spinal Bones and so on. “Patients experience extreme sensations, loss of feeling or even no feeling in their hands and/or feet along with muscles spasms, pain, weakness, numbness, tingling and burning sensations and have a very hard time with balance” says Dr. James Ide, clinic director at Painless Chiropractic of Fenton. Other symptoms associated with the condition are problems with urination, bladder and bowel control, sexual dysfunction, vomiting, nausea and dizziness among others. This condition can eventually lead to further nerve damage causing complete loss of leg and/or arm leading to amputation, along with organ failure in some cases.

Are you or someone you love suffering with weakness, numbness and pain from Nerve Damage in your hands and/or feet? You are not alone. More than 20 Million people across the United States are dealing with some form of Neuropathy. Most commonly noticed first in the hands and feet, causing weakness, numbness and tingling pain and most debilitating… balance problems. “Most people find themselves feeling frustrated with no place to turn and no hope of recovery. By the time they come see us, they feel like they have tried everything. Their primary care doctor put them on Anti-Seizure or Epilepsy medications like Gabapentin, Neurotin, Cymbalta or Lyrica and told them they will just have to live with the pain.” said Dr. Ide.

That is until now. With recent advancements in nerve regeneration technology and treatment options, clinics all over the world are seeing larger success rates and faster results for their neuropathy patients. “This new technology paired with a multifaceted approach has been life altering for our clinic and our patients. The development and success of the Painless Neuropathy Protocol by Dr. James Ide and his care team at Painless Chiropractic in Fenton has been the talk of the town in recent months. “We have seen an increase in Neuropathy patients and the results that they are getting in such a short amount of time is truly amazing” said Kaitlin Johnson, the Patient Advocate & Coordinator at the Fenton clinic.

“I dealt with neuropathy in my feet along with low back pain for years. Balance was very difficult, and I had to use a walker at times. After starting with Dr. Ide and the Neuropathy Program, I feel 100% better. Each day I can tell a difference in my feet, my back pain is gone and I’m now sleeping through the night. I am just so thankful that I will be able to fully walk again.”

Shelton just knew Henson would pick Stefani and all but admitted defeat with convincing Henson to pick him as his coach. In the end, Henson did choose Stefani as his coach.

Henson said he’s drawn to alternative, folk pop type music and added, “I like my originality.”

In his bio for The Voice, Henson said he saw firsthand how the water crisis in Flint, just north of Fenton, can bring people together. He said his father encouraged him to pursue his passion for music. He joined a church worship band, learned guitar and won his first talent show as a junior in high school.

Henson has been living in Nashville, Tennessee for the past few months and works as a server while writing music.

Laura Lemke, assistant principal at Fenton High School, said, “He is a cool kid. He graduated in 2017 and came back in May 2018 to sing/play guitar at our Baccalaureate celebration when his younger brother graduated (2019).”

Henson has two younger sisters who also attend Fenton Area Public Schools, Isabella and Victoria.

Lemke said Henson was in music and drama while at FHS and she remembers him best for his role as one of the princes in the musical, “Into the Woods,” when he sang the “Agony” song.

He’s “funny, kind, compassionate, and musically talented,” Lemke said. “I think the one judge on The Voice said it best when she said, ‘You are more of an artist, than a vocalist’ and I believe that to be true.”

Lemke said it will be fun to see his progress on the show and no matter the outcome, what he will learn, musically, will help him to continue to grow his talent and follow his dream.

Book Author Series planned in Fenton

Meet local authors and have their books signed in upcoming Tuesday evening events in October and November

By Sally Rummel

A Book Author Series, a new opportunity to meet local authors and celebrate books, will take place for the first time in Fenton on special dates in October and November.

Book signing dates will be Tuesdays, Oct. 15 and 29, and Nov. 12, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., at the Fenton Community & Cultural Center, 150 S. LeRoy St.

Guests will have a chance to meet the authors and discuss their books. There is a small fee for each event, with the exception of the Nov. 12 signing, which is free. Fees will be returned to the guest with the purchase of a book. Light refreshments will be served.

These events will be held in partnership with Karen Piacentini, owner of Fenton’s Open Book in downtown Fenton.

“Because of her ownership of the bookstore, we thought it would be a great partnership,” said Pat Lockwood, chairperson of the city of Fenton Arts & Cultural Commission.

The first event will be Tuesday, Oct. 15, featuring four local authors:

- Boyd Craven, of Grand Blanc, who has penned more than 30 books
- D.L. Gould of Chicago, science fiction author of “The Lazarus Vaccine”
- Tina Truax, award-winning essayist and biographer
- Brenda Haas, of Fenton, award-winning author and writer

The Oct. 29 event will feature a discussion and book signing from John U. Bacon, author of “Overtime: Jim Harbaugh and the Michigan Wolverines at the Crossroads of College Football.”

The Nov. 12 event will include a book discussion and signing from author Andy Bartonwak of Birmingham, author of “A Christmas to Remember” and Denise Brennan-Nelson of Howell, children’s book author.

“This is the first event like this of many, I hope,” Piacentini said. “Support your local authors, the bookstore and the community."

This series is made possible through a grant awarded this year to the Fenton Arts & Cultural Commission.

The city of Fenton was awarded $29,000 to use for art and cultural events through Share Art Genesee grants in Genesee County, which will help fund these author events.

The funds were also used to sponsor Kids Art Camp and an upcoming public charrette session on Nov. 6, to get public input on the local need for art and cultural events.

Book Author Series tickets are available at Fenton’s Open Book or on the Southern Lakes Parks & Recreation website, slpr.net.

FAPS Sinking Fund renewal

Fenton Area Public Schools (FAPS) will have a Sinking Fund renewal on the Nov. 5 ballot. The renewal is a three-year levy at .899 mil. This renewal means no new taxes to homeowners while maintaining the much needed high level of support from our community.

A Sinking Fund is critical to school districts across the state and has allowed FAPS to repair and upgrade our facilities and grounds over the course of many years. FAPS has over 650,000 square feet of facilities that are used by thousands of citizens each year. We must take care of what we have.

It is imperative that our community is informed before the November election and we want to make sure we have done everything in our power to answer questions you may have regarding the renewal. On Oct. 16, at 6:30 p.m., FAPS will host a Sinking Fund Informational meeting at the Fenton Cultural and Community Center, 150 S. LeRoy. You may also visit fentonsinkingfund.com or contact me directly at (810) 591-4701 or ahartley@fenton-schools.org.

We have been able to keep our buildings and grounds up to date over many years due to the Sinking Fund. Our efforts to keep over 650,000 square feet of facilities up to date helps us attract and retain families. Having the current Sinking Fund has allowed us to use general funds to purchase new curriculum resources, maintain our staffing levels and focus those dollars on teaching and learning.

Thank you in advance for your kind attention to the FAPS Sinking Fund renewal.

Teacher Becky Maly said her students along with students from Tracy Vana’s class experienced “authentic learning” about the state government during a field trip that included touring the Capitol building and the Michigan Hall of Justice, which houses the Michigan Supreme Court.

This annual trip also included making signs protesting Gov. Gretchen Whitmer’s veto of the regular annual increase in Michigan charter school funding and then protesting in front of her office.

According to the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, Whitmer used line item veto to strike the annual standard increase in per pupil funding for charter schools. Under the plan, they’re now funded $240 less per pupil than even the lowest-funded public school districts.

Under the governor’s budget, these charter schools will stay at the $7,871 in per pupil funding. “This is a serious issue for us, which impacts every student and staff member at our school,” said Maly in an email.

So, students made signs and fought for their own school funding. They made signs with their own slogans and according to Maly, chanted passionately in front of the governor’s office.

“They learned how they can use their voices to stand up for public policy issues that are meaningful to them,” Maly said. She said they were interviewed by reporters from two Lansing TV stations, as well as Detroit newspapers, and the Michigan Association of Public School Academies (MAPSA.)

“We believe charter school students are just as important as traditional public school students,” Maly said. “It is unfortunate that we are caught in the middle of party politics in this situation.”

Ken Kander is director of finance and operations at Holly Academy. He said the last time charter school budgets were cut was in 2012. He said this proposed budget would cut approximately $110,000 from the next budget year. He said the money might have to come from streamlining staff, whether through reduced hours or terminations. He said all 620 students would be impacted by this.

The budget is not yet in effect. According to the Detroit Free Press, Whitmer is calling on the GOP-led legislature to create supplemental bills to restore some of the funding she cut with line items totaling $1 billion.

WHEN ASKED, I find that very few Republican and Democrat voters can articulate the policies of one or both sides. Most just repeat emotional talking points they hear on propaganda TV. I think we all need to take action to become better-informed voters.

GOV. WHITMER, IF you enforced laws already on the books you wouldn’t have to create new laws. Vape products were already illegal for minors. All you did was take away the products for legal users. This is what Dems want to do with your rights because the government knows better than the individual.
Linden AYSO home in question

Tense talks as Southern Lakes investigates running 40-acre soccer complex

By Tim Jagielo

Hundreds of young soccer players and the people who developed the fledgling organization for 25 years might be looking for a new home.

Linden’s AYSO 417 (American Youth Soccer Organization) is in talks with Southern Lakes Parks and Recreation (SLPR) concerning its continued use of the Deer Run Soccer Complex at 16021 Linden Rd. in Fenton Township. This is because its lease with Genesee County Parks and Recreation (GCPR), which owns the 40-acre property, is about to expire, and it might be SLPR that takes over the management of the property for the first time.

For 25 years, Fenton Township has been the holder of the sublease from GCPR, which will only deal with a government entity and not a private organization. As a result, the township gave a concurrent 25-year sublease to AYSO.

Thomas Broecker, deputy clerk and operations manager for Fenton Township, said that in February 2020, both the township and AYSO’s leases expire, and a new one must be created.

Earlier this year, Clerk Robert Krug, Broecker and Genesee County Commissioner Shaun Shumaker (District 6), a Fenton Township resident, met with GCPR to discuss a possible solution. Broecker said it is the township’s goal “to no longer have a role.”

Twenty-five years ago, there was no metropolitan parks and recreation authority, but now that SLPR is in place, it was suggested to GCPR that it be considered to manage the soccer program, and the county agreed. In June, the township proposed the idea to SLPR, which took the ball and started investigating.

In the 25 years of the lease, the AYSO has been responsible for everything involved in running the facility. It includes grounds and equipment maintenance, restroom, concessions and game equipment. “We certainly recognize that AYSO is responsible for the development of that facility,” said Broecker.

Tapping SLPR for the task raised serious concerns for the organization that has run the facility for a quarter century, and the parents who have children in the program.

“We are doing our due diligence to create the best situation for Deer Run Soccer Complex,” said Vince Paris, SLPR executive director.

He’s currently in talks with AYSO, Laforza Soccer Club and a travel league to establish what it costs to run the facility in order to draft an operating proposal.

Sometimes these talks have been tense and communication styles criticized. “AYSO families built that field,” said Amy Converse, regional commissioner.

ARRESTED

after a “bit of a criminal adventure” in the Walmart parking lot in north Roswell.

Robert Abraham Clark, 31, of Fenton, was charged with multiple crimes after Roswell police officers were called to the store at 4:45 p.m. Monday, Sept. 30. Police were called after someone saw Clark using an object to break out the rear window of a Porsche Cayman parked in the lot, according to the press release.

Witnesses reported Clark then crawled into the vehicle through the shattered rear window.

When the first officer arrived, he found Clark sitting in the driver’s seat of the Porsche. Roswell police reported that Clark refused to get out of the car so the officer opened the door, removed him and handcuffed him. The officer found a screwdriver jammed into the ignition of the car, a common method used when someone is attempting to improperly start a vehicle in order to steal it. An empty liquor bottle, later determined not to belong to the vehicle’s owner — was found inside the car as well.

Clark was found without any form of identification and gave officers different names and birthdates when asked who he was multiple times. Officers noted the Michigan license plate on another vehicle witnesses said Clark had gotten into at least once after breaking the Porsche window but before officers arrived.

Believing the vehicle could be that of the suspect, officers asked a dispatcher to contact Michigan State Police, who were able to use the license plate number to identify the suspect as Clark. Officers also noticed the year on the registration sticker on the plate had been scratched off.

Since Clark had blood on his hands — believed to be injuries that resulted from the broken window — officers took him to be checked out at a local hospital. While waiting in the emergency room, and still handcuffed, Clark began to walk toward an exit door before being stopped.

Clark was arrested and booked into the Chaves County Detention Center on charges of burglary, criminal damage to property, concealing identity, falsifying title and registration (altering), and resisting, evading or obstructing an officer. A magistrate judge released him on his own recognizance Tuesday, Oct. 1 pending further court proceedings.

Most important were the parenting skills she needed to care for Gavin, with Steve by her side. It took about a thousand diaper changes for Camre to be able to transition into her new role as a mother, which she had to learn — one diaper at a time.

Steve is amazed at the progress Camre has made in the past seven years.

“Early on, I sat on the couch with Camre, and I’ll never forget the words she said to me,” Steve said. “She said, ‘I have no idea who you are. But I know I love you.’”

Those prophetic words became the title of a book Steve wrote about his and Camre’s experiences with childbirth and brain injury.

“It started the book one-and-a-half years ago and I just released it on our fourth anniversary,” he said. “It was very therapeutic for me to write, but it was also my goal to share our story of hope and faith, and to tell people not to give up.”

The book, “But I love you,” is available at Fenton’s Open Book and online.

called police to report a threatening voicemail left for bank employees.
A man, later identified as Leonard Cwiklinski, left a message allegedly saying he was upset with bank services and wanted to withdraw his money.

Cross said that in his voicemail, in which he provided his name, Cwiklinski allegedly threatened to rob and then burn down the bank. The man added that he would stop by the next morning to get his money.

Police reviewed the voicemail and made contact with Cwiklinski as part of their investigation. With the information gathered, Fenton detectives obtained a warrant for Cwiklinski’s arrest on one count of false report or threat of terrorism.

Fenton police and Genesee County Sheriff’s deputies went to Cwiklinski’s home on N. Fenton Road in Fenton Township to take him into custody.

A $50,000 cash bond was ordered during his arraignment and a prob-

ROBOTS
The bomb squad has 14 robots in all,
each different sizes with different uses.
Seven regional teams with 15 officers each are used to respond to suspected explosive devices and weapons of mass destruction (WMD) incidents, according to michigan.gov.

Squad members are certified bomb technicians and HAZMAT (hazardous materials) technician level trained, and they are a part of the Michigan Regional Response Team Network (RRTN), which was established to provide a quick response to anywhere in the state in the event of WMD or terrorism incidents.

Each squad uses bomb suits, X-ray equipment, explosive containment transport vessel and the robots.

The bomb squad averages approximately 300 calls a year. Some of these calls come from bomb threats at schools. Shaw said the K-9 units usually handle the schools, and the bomb squad only goes if a threat is credible.

Reynolds said these situations can range from investigating a suspicious package found at a crowded football stadium, collecting evidence at bombing scenes, training on bomb threat awareness, to an active shooter who’s barricaded in a house.

In June 2018, the MSP used a robot to go into a home in Fenton. After a domestic violence situation the day prior, a man had barricaded himself inside the home. Police heard a gunshot and thought the man was an active shooter.

With help from the robot, which was used to explore the house with an attached camera, police discovered the man had shot himself.

Multiple robots have been shot. At the Oct. 6 NOCFA event, he pointed out to attendees a few of the indents on the robots were caused by bullets.

“Had it been an officer, there’s a good chance it would have been an officer that got shot,” Reynolds said.

The bomb suits were on display at the NOCFA open house. These are full-body pads, which make up a suit, made to protect police. The entire suit, made of Kevlar and ceramic, weighs 80 pounds.

“If you have to get in the suit, physically you have to be in shape for that as well,” he said.

If there’s too much smoke in the air, they’ll wear the specified helmets and breathing apparatuses, which add another 25 pounds.

Reynolds said these events are good for the community.

(kids) and then they’re not afraid of you. If they’re involved in an incident, and they’re talking to a police officer,
you goof around with them a little bit, and if they ever get in a bad situation,
then they’ll trust you,” he said.

NOCFA

Blaska mentioned how fire spreads more quickly now than in years past because more things in a household are made with plastic rather than natural fibers and wood.

“Plastic burns a lot hotter and it’s more toxic. You have less time to get out (of the house). I think they’re saying three to seven minutes is the timeframe,” he said. “It used to be 15 to 20 minutes.”

The Holly Area Community Coalition had a booth, and volunteers spread awareness, especially for teens, about drugs and smoking. Representatives from the Detroit Medical Center talked to attendees about hospital services.

Blaska said many people don’t know that NOCFA often takes people to the Detroit Medical Center Huron Valley-
Sinai Hospital if the cases aren’t major.
If it is major, they take patients to Ascension Genesys Hospital in Grand Blanc Township.

The Michigan State Police Bomb Squad was also on scene at the event with two robots. Read the story that begins on page 7A for more information.

GYHOST WALK
Guests will be led by a pair of hauntingly knowledgeable guides who will share information about Fenton along the way. At each stop, ghostly characters will share their story.

While this sounds scary, the Ghost Walk is actually a walk that combines heritage, folklore and stories about ghosts of Fenton.

The Ghost Walk is about one mile in length, so organizers suggest that guests wear comfortable footwear, bring water to drink and carry a flashlight.

The tour begins at the A.J. Phillips Fenton Museum, Fenton Historical Museum, 310 S. LeRoy St., beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are sold for a specific time and will leave every 15 minutes.

Nearly 50 community members volunteer to help with the event, said Tippett. The First Presbyterian Church of Fenton provides the final stop with refreshments and music.

Tickets are $12 (up to two hours before the event) and $15 at the door, if still available. “Past tours have sold out so guests are encouraged to buy their tickets early,” Tippett said.

Limited tickets are available at The UPS Store in Silver Lake Village, Fenton’s Open Book in downtown Fenton and online at FentonTheatre.org.

for AYSO. “All those people put in a lot of hours … why change something that’s not broken?”

Converse would like to see the SLPR allow AYSO to keep running the facility as it has been. Converse has received strong support from families who spoke positively about the complex. She said they’ve received numerous awards for the complex including “region of the year.” Converse said families are “devastated” that something might change.

While communication between AYSO and SLPR can be terse, the main concern by AYSO is that if SLPR runs the complex, prices to participate could increase. Today it costs $140 for a 16-week season, according to Converse, who circulated an email to families suggesting that prices could increase to more than $200 per child under SLPR, because instead of the army of volunteers that maintain the facility, they would have paid employees.

Converse said she sent an itemized expense list for running the facility to Paris that cost $116,000 annually, taking into account there would be no donations of items or volunteer time. She said in reality it costs about $80,000 to $100,000 to run the facility with help and donations.

Paris said he’s offered no budget or costs for operating the facilities, and that he can only go off what the organizations will share with him.

AYSO has suggested that they may need to change facilities, and therefore may be pulling up their game equipment to move to another place. While she is open to working with SLPR, Converse said, “There’s too many unknowns with Southern Lakes.”

Paris said he wants the facility to be self-sufficient, and have a capital fund for repairs and upgrades. He reiterated that he wants local children to be able to play on their local field, and that AYSO would get first priority with scheduling.

Talks are continuing as the deadline for AYSO to find a new home or stay, looms. Broecker said if all parties involved can come to an agreement, it will be a great thing for the community.

Fenton, Holly finish 2-3 at Metro tennis meet

By David Troppens

For the first time since the 1987-88 school year, there is a two-time Metro League champion that isn’t named Holly in varsity boys tennis action.

Flushing earned five flight champions at the Flint Metro League tournament, earning the Raiders their second straight league crown.

Fenton took second at the tournament and finished second at the league meet. The Holly Bronchos took third in both.

Fenton had three flights make it to the finals, with all settling for runner-up performances.

The top individual performance was recorded by Fenton’s Gabe Hand.

The Tigers’ senior-less regional squad captured a spot in the D2 state tournament by taking third in the Mason regional at Eldorado Golf Course on Thursday.

The team ended up scoring more than that during the 80-minute contest.

Lake Fenton had its best game of the season, earning an 8-1 victory against the Jaguars, also earning the squad a contest against Linden at Linden High School Tuesday.

Evans was one of the players who had a big game, scoring a three-goal hat trick. He entered the game with five goals all season long.

Bronchos lose defensive contest in district opener versus St. Clair, 1-0

The Holly varsity boys soccer team had two foes during its district opening contest. After an hour road trip, an unusual distance to travel for a district contest, the Bronchos competed well against the Saints but lost a 1-0 verdict.

“The first was St. Clair. The second may have been the long travel distance.

Linden soccer earns spot in district semifinals, beats Mustangs, 4-1

By David Troppens

The Linden varsity boys soccer team will be moving along in the Division 2 Clio district tournament.

The Eagles scored a goal late in the first half and earned a 4-1 victory against the Clio Mustangs in the opening round Wednesday.

The Eagles won a tough game against the Mustangs 2-1 on Sept. 23.

“This game went kind of like the last time we played them,” Linden varsity boys soccer coach Kevin Fiebernitz said.

“It was a struggle at the beginning and they made it a little difficult for us because they are a pretty aggressive team and their field is a little smaller than what we are used to playing on.”

The Eagles had plenty of chances to score in the opening half, but didn’t score until the final 30 seconds before intermission. Aiden Miller took the initial shot, but it was saved. Ryan Gillespie got the rebound and scored.

The Eagles (17-2-1) took a 2-0 lead about eight minutes into the second half and eventually took a 4-0 lead later in the period. Unfortunately, the Eagles saw a string of eight straight shutouts end.

“I was a little peeved because we try to teach the guys to make good decisions and that wasn’t a good decision,” Fiebernitz said.

Hand became only the second four-time Metro League boys No. 1 singles flight champion in league history by winning this year’s title against Flushing’s Matt Birchmeier 6-3, 1-6, 6-1.

Hand won his first two matches at the tourney relatively easily, beating Holly’s Walker Glass 6-0, 6-0 and beating Goodrich’s Will Nicklas 6-1, 6-1 before the tight battle with Birchmeier.

Fenton’s other two flight champions were Jordan Conn at No. 3 singles and Jack Gundry and Bradley Trecha at No. 1 doubles.

Conn, a freshman, defeated Flushing’s Cameron Gray 6-4, 2-6, 7-6(5) in the final. He also beat Brandon’s Cayden Lewis 6-0, 6-2 and Goodrich’s Nick Henke 6-1, 6-0 in the earlier two matches.

Holly had three doubles flights finish in the runner-up spot, losing each match too a Flushing foe.

Bronchos defeat Fenton, set up match with Flushing

By David Troppens

Fenton — The Holly varsity volleyball team has had a season to remember already.

In the past, the Bronchos have struggled against the Fenton Tigers, but that has changed this season.

Holly has defeated the Tigers three times this year — twice during league play and another time in a weekend tournament. The third time happened Wednesday when the Bronchos defeated the Tigers 25-14, 25-23, 25-23, remaining a loss behind the Flushing Raiders from the top of the Metro League standings.

“I hope so,” Holly varsity volleyball coach Deena Maher said when talking about if the three wins breaks a mental barrier against Fenton. “But we are also trying to think bigger than our league. We don’t want this to be the most important match of our season. We want to go further than this and the league.”

The Bronchos have steadily improved during Maher’s time as Holly varsity volleyball coach, and its recent success against the Tigers shows it. That said, the Tigers played Holly

Blue Devils win thriller vs. Byron, lose close contest vs. Mustangs

By David Troppens

Lake Fenton — It was a good week to be on the Lake Fenton varsity volleyball team.

The Blue Devils ended the week with a 25-22, 27-25, 15-25, 17-25, 15-11 victory against the Byron Eagles, on Thursday. The week began with a competitive four-set loss to Clio on Wednesday.

In the victory against the Eagles, Lake Fenton had plenty of players have big contests. Offensively, the Blue Devils had three players with double-digit kills. Christina Lamb had 15 kills while Cola Sisk had 14. Morgan DeRidder followed with 10. Ruby Todd and Leah Rockman were the team’s setters, collecting a combined 50 assists.

Defensively, Sydney Johnson led the team with 20 digs while Sisk had seven digs. On the service line, Johnson, Sisk, DeRidder and Todd had two aces each.

“It was a fun game with lots of amazing rallies,” Lake Fenton varsity volleyball coach Allison von Daggenhausen said. “It was a great team effort and was a good battle on both sides.”

In the loss against Clio, Lamb and Sisk had 11 kills each while Bailey Wilson had eight kills. Emily Elrich had five kills. Ruby Todd had 38 assists. Defensively, Johnson had 15 digs while Bri Mance had eight digs. Todd also had six digs. Elrich had two blocks.

much better in the third version of the rivalry than they had the previous two. Fenton certainly had great chances to win the final two sets against Holly. There were periods in both sets that each team grabbed momentum, and the team statistics were pretty similar. Fenton had 23 kills in the final two sets compared to Holly’s 21. Both teams had six hit errors. However, the one area that probably decided the match victor was the service line. Fenton had 14 service errors in the contest while collecting just one ace during the final two sets. Meanwhile, Holly had its share of service errors, but had more aces resulting in Holly’s victory.

“The girls are doing a lot better at staying calm and executing the game plan,” Fenton varsity volleyball coach Meghan Polce said. “We’ve been watching film and talking about not being such an emotional roller coaster and just focusing on the plan and staying and sticking to it.

“The one thing we didn’t do was serve and that kills me. In practice we are so good doing it, but in the press... sure situations we still break down a little bit. Overall the girls played well today. We definitely competed. ... The girls did a really good job executing the game plan and showing that mental toughness and competitiveness, but we still have to clean up a few little things.”

However, about 20 minutes into the first half, Nick Rees was called for dangerous play and was given a red card, dropping the Bronchos to just 10 players. Holly continued to play strong defensively, but the Saints eventually scored on a free kick and scramble in front of the Holly net, resulting in the Saints’ 1-0 halftime lead.

Holly (7-13) had its chances in the second half, but were unable to score.

“We had several good opportunities on goal, but each were stopped by their keeper. The Saints’ offense struggled early against our offside trap that seniors Ben Gramer, Owen Garber and Jacob Osborne ran so well. Many of their attacks were stopped dead in their tracks with a whistle. Anything that did get through were stopped by our senior keeper Mitch Tiell.”

The Tigers led early in the second set 7-5 after a kill by Lydia Poldesak, but Holly’s Paige Weeder followed with a kill and teammate Kennedy Hogan followed with back-to-back kills.
