Local man charged with possession, distribution of child porn

Undercover agents discover account ‘oldman1981’

Compiled by Hannah Ball

An Oakland County man is facing multiple charges after undercover federal officials caught him posting and receiving videos of children being sexually assaulted, according to court records.

Michael Justin Hall, 38, of Davisburg was charged with possession, distribution and receipt of child pornography.

Officials with Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) said an undercover agent was conducting chats on a mobile app, which allows users to control who they communicate with because usernames, not phone numbers, are the basis for accounts, officials said.

The undercover agent created a group recently with a name that indicated child sexual abuse, according to court records. Officials said at 1:11 p.m., Sunday Jan. 12, a person, who authorities discovered was Hall, entered the group with the username “oldman1981” and posted messages that said, “Active,” “Good vids to post anyone?” and “Wheres the good vids?”

American Red Cross urges people with types O negative and O positive blood to donate

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Right now, the American Red Cross has a critical type O blood shortage and urgently needs donors of all blood types — especially types O negative and O positive — to give blood or platelets. Without more donors, patient care could be impacted.

he said. “Which is why on my first day of office, by the second hour, all major media platforms had been secured for the office of sheriff on Facebook, Twitter and YouTube.”

On Facebook, the page is called Genesee County Sheriff’s Office. There are posts congratulating the January 2020 Corrections Academy graduates, photos of police cruisers, and videos from Swanson on a number of topics, including safe generator usage, criminal cases, clearing snow off your vehicle and how to be prepared in an emergency.

In that video, he said there’s a lot of discussion about school shooters and how school districts prepare for those, but “it goes bigger than that. Just last year, there were more shootings outside of schools for active shooters … malls, churches, so how do we prepare? You can freeze, you can fight or we can flee. What happens if you’re there and something happens where you have people injured? More people were treated in Vegas by citizens than emergency personnel.”

Dep. Shawn Sordyl, county medic and K-9 officer, appeared in the video with Swanson. They showed emergency kits with medical supplies.

Swanson said, “Being the fifth largest agency in the country as well as one of the biggest in the state, it’s critical that we utilize all the talent in all the different agencies, and with that, it’s expected that we work together and collaborate. That’s what needs to continue for this administration.”

The office is also posting more to its new YouTube channel by the same name. It has approximately 40 subscribers.

may be impacted.

With influenza escalating across the country and preventing some donors from giving, and winter weather threatening to cancel blood drives, the Red Cross now has a critical shortage of type O blood and urgently needs donors to restock the shelves.

O so needed

Currently, the Red Cross has less than a three-day supply of type O blood available for patient emergencies and medical treatments. Type O positive blood is the most transfused blood type and can be given to Rh-positive patients of any blood type. While just 7 percent of the U.S. population has type O negative blood, it can be transfused to patients with any blood type and is what hospital staff reach for during emergencies when there isn’t time to determine a patient’s blood type.

Help replenish the blood supply

Every day, the Red Cross must collect nearly 13,000 blood donations and more than 2,600 platelet donations for patients who rely on blood to survive. Shortfalls in donations can cause delays in essential medical care for patients like 12-year-old Dagan Hawkins.

Diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia in November, Dagan has required platelet donations and blood transfusions during his cancer treatments. “There was a time when they needed to have blood products delivered from another hospital because they were unavailable there,” said Dustin Hawkins, Dagan’s father.

Donors of all blood types, especially types O positive and O negative, are urged to make an appointment to give blood or platelets now using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org, calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enabling the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device.
‘The Meski’ is winning sandwich in Linden

Fire & Ice Fundraiser sold the opportunity to create a sandwich for $205

By Hannah Ball
Linden — Last year, it was a ham - burger with diced and sautéed onions, bacon, barbeque sauce and peanut butter, topped with a bun, called the “Nutty Nettie.”

This year, it’s a triple decker grilled cheese with mozzarella, homemade spaghetti sauce, pepperoni, and a side of pesto mayo, called “The Meski,” that was created to be the winning sandwich from the annual Fire & Ice fundraiser held Nov. 10, 2019.

At the fundraiser, attendees could bid on items in a silent auction. The opportunity to create a sandwich to be featured at the Linden Hotel and Crow’s Nest is one of the most popular items to bid on. This is the third year the Linden business has done this. The sandwich was revealed Monday, Jan. 20.

Two Linden families, the Mesacks and the Ciesielskis, worked together to win. “The announcer said, ‘There’s a bidding war going on over at the sandwich,’” Jill (Mesack) Behrens said. For a while, it was between her and another man. She enlisted her friend’s and family’s help to pool money together.

The sandwich went for $205.

About six of them met on a Sunday afternoon and talked about three sandwiches in their first round of decisions. Karen Stroud, co-owner of the Linden Hotel and Crow’s Nest, had each sandwich made and they came up with “The Meski.”

Behrens said winning was special for the two families, who are related. Behrens’ dad, Bob Mesack, was the brother to Joyce Ciesielski. Their older relatives used to all meet at the Crow’s Nest every Monday to eat. Both families were well represented Monday with cousins, aunts and uncles.

“It’s amazing. Brings tears to my eyes,” Behrens said.

I was excited when our Media Editor Tim Jagielo told me he was going to cover the opening day of the Flint-Inner City Youth Hockey Program in Flint earlier this month. Flint is out of our local coverage area, but when Tim mentioned hockey I was all for it.

I will forever consider myself a hockey mom. There is just something special about hockey. Maybe it’s sitting on freezing cold bleachers for hours while you watch your son or daughter practice with their team. Maybe it’s the weekend trips across Michigan and the Midwest just to watch your son or daughter play a game that they love.

I think it’s wonderful what Rico Phillips and the others involved are doing for these youngsters in Flint. It appears that not as many kids sign up to play hockey possibly due to the costs, which can be shocking. Just to rent a sheet of ice at a rink for an hour can cause sticker shock. Add to that the cost of good hockey skates, helmet, and all the other equipment required under a uniform can be cost prohibitive for many people.

When our boys were younger and playing travel hockey at Iceland Arenas in Flint, my husband and I used to work concessions at The Palace and DTE Music Theatre to offset our costs.

Our oldest son, Brad, played travel hockey at Iceland, however, that all ended when he died at the age of 12 in 2000. His framed photos continue to hang on the wall leading into the red rink at Iceland.

Following his death, my husband and I, and several close family members and friends hosted the Brad Stone Fall Classic, a weekend hockey tournament. We did that for several years. Brad’s younger brothers, Jake, and his own ‘95 AAA travel team, played in that tournament several times. I remember one year, there were so many ‘95 (1995 birth year) teams that we had to give them their own weekend. The rest of the tourney was played the following weekend.

Those tournaments will forever tug at our heart strings. Not only did we raise money to be given out as college scholarships in Brad’s memory to other kids who played hockey at Iceland, we met so many families and players who expressed their hopes and dreams of being the next Steve Yzerman or Gordie Howe.

Teams and their extended families traveled from as far away as California, New York, Toronto, Ohio and Illinois. I’m certain the hotels and restaurants surrounding the Flint area noticed the increased business.

The best part of those weekends was when I could sneak a few minutes to go watch one of the games. The kids skated so hard and tried their best to do what their coaches told them to do. As they skated off the ice, you could see their bright red cheeks, runny noses and hear them catching their breath. Like any other hockey mom, I think I can still smell them, too.

I wish Rico and the Flint-Inner City Youth Hockey Program all the best.

Local woman named trustee at non-profit

Jocelyn Hagerman will help grow The Children’s Foundation with statewide expansion

By Sharon Stone

Jocelyn Hagerman, founder and co-owner of Skypoint Ventures, as well as chief executive officer of The Hagerman Foundation, has been named a trustee for The Children’s Foundation, based in Detroit. Trustees play a major role in this non-profit, aiding in its operation as it drastically grows with its statewide expansion.

The Children’s Foundation supports pediatric research, education, community benefit programs, and other initiatives that improve the health of children in Michigan.

Hagerman of Fenton Township consistently focuses on bringing positivity to Flint and making an impact on the city. She is passionate about community development and heavily involved in leadership and philanthropic efforts throughout Genesee County and beyond.

As a humanitarian, she launched #FlintFwd, a grassroots movement (both recognize and inspire the people and businesses of Flint in the wake of the water crisis.

Hagerman said she is “very excited” about this new role. She will be part of a board that spans across the state and will be involved with the grant-making process, fundraising and creating partnerships with other organizations. The Children’s Foundation is the largest foundation in the state that supports health and wellness for children.

In April 2018, the Zonta Club of Flint inducted Jocelyn in the Genesee Regional Women’s Hall of Fame. In 2016, she was named by Crain’s Business as one of the 100 Most Influential Women in Metro Detroit. That same year, Jocelyn and her husband, Phil, were the proud recipients of the Ferris Foundation Humanitarian Award and The State Bank Community Contribution to Education Award for Fenton Area Public Schools.

When Hagerman is not managing the Foundation, she competes in equestrian competitions across the country.
CHILD PORN

Hall posted a video in the group that meets the federal definition of child pornography, according to HSI. The video showed an adult man performing sex acts on a child between 6 months to 1 year old.

Hall claimed to be the man in the video, according to court records, and said he had access to two children, one 6 years old and one 3 years old. Hall claimed they were his friend’s children, according to authorities.

The undercover agent reached out to Hall this past Thursday morning. Hall denied that he was the man in the video, but said he wished it was him, according to court records.

Authorities received the IP address from the mobile application and learned oldman1981 had logged into the app 49 times in one day. The IP address was traced to Hall’s home on Hutchinson Drive in the Springrove Mobile Home Park, Davison.

HSI agents executed a search warrant last Thursday at his residence. Hall was there and handed over a cell phone along with the password to his phone, where officials found the conversations between Hall and the undercover agent.

According to authorities, he shared the same video multiple times with other users on the app, including as recently as 1 a.m. Thursday.

Authorities found other videos and images Hall had received that met the federal definition of child pornography, according to authorities.

On Jan. 8, Hall received two pictures showing a young boy being raped, officials said. On Sunday, Jan. 12, he received a video from a different user that showed three naked children, two of which were performing sex acts. On Sunday, he also received a video that showed a young girl being raped by an adult man.

The Michigan Sex Offenders Registry shows that Hall was convicted in September 1997 of first-degree criminal sexual conduct. Because he was a juvenile at the time, it was cataloged as a juvenile adjudication, officials said.

Hall was also convicted in 2006 of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, three counts of third-degree criminal sexual conduct and possession of child sexually abusive material in Sixth Circuit Court in Pontiac.

Maris (pronounced Mare-is), Ferguson, is a senior at Lake Fenton High School and the daughter of Dan and Jen Ferguson of Fenton Township.

She has two sisters, Wren, 13, and Lynde, 10. After graduation, she plans to attend Oakland University, studying at the honors college as well as through the Business Honors Program. She also serves as treasurer of National Honor Society, a member of Key Club, and a varsity cross country runner.

You have a name that you don’t often hear. Where did your first name come from?

My name is a combination of my grandmothers. “Mary” is Maris and “Betty” is Elizabeth, which is my middle name. With pronunciation, it’s about a 50-percent chance of people getting it right or wrong. Most people put an accent on the end instead of on the “a.”

What is Faith in Femininity and how did you get involved?

Faith in Femininity is a non-profit that provides feminine hygiene products to women who can’t afford them. Our goal is to provide comfort, confidence, and cleanliness to every woman we can. It was started by my close friends Lindsey Gibb and Waverly Ritchie. They asked me to join the mission a few years ago.

If you could run a non-profit group of any kind, what would it be?

I would love to start a non-profit that assists students in covering the expenses of study abroad trips.

What do you see as the biggest problem facing the world today?

Without hesitation, climate change. It is a problem that impacts all life on Earth, as well as life to come. We owe it to the next generations to do everything we possibly can to protect the beauty and function of our planet.

What are two things you couldn’t live without and why?

I couldn’t live without the support of my friends and family because they are always there for me in my triumphs as well as my down moments. I also couldn’t live without my passion for learning because it makes life so much more interesting.

What type of career do you see yourself pursuing in the future?

I intend to pursue a career in lean management, which is a business principle that helps companies become more sustainable. I think this would be a great fit for me because I’m a big-picture thinker and I care a lot about sustainability.

What is the best advice you’ve ever gotten?

The best advice I’ve ever gotten was to do what makes you happy. The gift of life is too precious to waste pursuing someone else’s dream. Are you a morning person or a night owl?

I am totally a night owl. This helps tremendously on those long nights of homework and studying. I’m actually a very short sleeper and sleeping more than six or seven hours makes me super drowsy and unproductive, so it’s never really given me problems.

What’s a skill you don’t have that you’d like to master?

I have a goal of learning five languages (or more) in my lifetime. I see language as a key that unlocks new opportunities to learn about cultures different from your own as well as people you may not have otherwise connected with. Language fluency is a skill I’ve been working really hard on and I hope I’m able to achieve my goal.
THE EXCLUSIONARY RULE AND ITS EXCEPTIONS

Under the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution, we are all to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures.

This means that generally speaking unless the police have a search warrant, whatever has been seized is inadmissible in court against a defendant under what is called the “Exclusionary Rule.” This is meant to deter governmental authorities from such practices.

Over the years, the courts have established exceptions to the rule when the costs of exclusion outweigh the deterrent effect.

The following are the primary exceptions:

• The Good Faith Exception
  This is when searches and seizures are conducted pursuant to a warrant, which is later determined to be invalid through no fault of the police.

• Attenuation
  If there is an illegal search or seizure and a sufficient period of time has elapsed between the activity and the discovery of other evidence (even if connected to the initial illegality) the other evidence may still be allowed in court.

• Inevitable Discovery
  Evidence seized improperly can still be admitted if it is shown that it would have been eventually discovered by authorities.

• Plain View
  When the police enter property to check on the well-being of a person or in an emergency, probable cause is not required and if there is crime evidence inside, it may be seized.

• Community Caretaker and Emergency Aid
  When the police enter property to check on the well-being of a person or in an emergency, probable cause is not required and if there is crime evidence inside, it may be seized.

• Exigent Circumstances
  Warrantless searches and seizures are allowed in an emergency to (1) prevent the imminent destruction of evidence, (2) protect police officers or others; (3) prevent the escape of a subject.

• Automobiles
  A warrantless search of a car is allowed if there is probable cause that it contains crime evidence.

Normally a hearing is held and the judge makes a decision as to whether an exception applies.

Hopefully, no readers will ever have to deal with such situations, but if you do and as they say, now you know.

Third annual Fenton Onesie Pub Crawl swells to 550 costumed guests; nets $5,000

By Tim Jagielo

Fenton — Volunteers for the third annual Fenton Onesie Pub Crawl worked quickly to register the deluge of guests wearing colorful one-piece pajamas Saturday, Jan. 18.

It was a task that was sometimes overwhelming, considering the popular event drew 550 people this year. In 2019, 460 tickets were sold and $7,000 was raised.

Organizer Ed Constable of Fenton Township said they hired more buses in 2020, which led to less lag time between pickups.

“It meant a much better experience,” Constable said. “The repeat pub crawlers have said it ran way smoother this year.”

The downside is they raised less this year — $5,000 after expenses.

Tickets were $30 at check-in or $25 in advance.

The pub crawl tied several local bars like The Barn and Fenton Winery and Brewery (FWB) together with a small fleet of party buses carting participants between them in 25-minute intervals. The bus drivers issued honks letting those inside know they’ve arrived. If not the horn, some helpers walked through ringing cowbells announcing their next departure.

“We try to make the bus rides as much or more fun than the bars themselves,” Constable said. “The event is just a lot of fun and it’s all for a good cause. Not often you can go day drinking on a Saturday and feel good about yourself for it.”

Each year non-profit causes are selected to benefit from ticket sales. This year it was Clara’s Hope, the Brad Stone Scholarship and the Safari Club’s Wish Hunt.

Constable’s wife, Laura, is the sister of Brad Stone.

Many venues were jam-packed with guests. Most were wearing pajamas ranging from simple plaid flannel to dragons, giraffes, President Donald Trump and a group of flying squirrels. Beers in hand, they chatted, took photos and ran out into the slushy weather to catch the next party bus to another participating bar.

Constable said it went smoother than last year because there were more buses and assistants.

There was still some congestion at check-in points where attendees were issued their identification lanyards.

“It’s a good time for a good cause, it gets me out to meet a lot of new people,” said Todd Arnold of Holly while trying a “Staggering Bull,” an imperial brown nut ale at FWB. He came with his wife Sherry and friend Sue Snyder of Fenton. His group started at The Fireplace and then headed to the FWB. He also tried beers like “M43” from Old Nation Brewery and “Dirty Blonde” from Atwater Brewery.

At The Barn, a group from Howell said they previously attended a pajama bar crawl in Chicago. They liked it enough to try out the Fenton event. “More importantly, it’s a charity event,” said Janice Beck, who went with her husband, Mike, and another couple.

Attendees were advised in advance for making travel arrangements following the event and no incidents were reported.

Constable suggests that next year’s participants do a pre-check-in, because everyone showing up at once can make it very hectic for volunteers. He said this week only, the 2021 ticket are available for $20 each. The 2021 event is set for Saturday, Jan. 16, from 2 to 7 p.m.

Thomas Hutchinson named executive director of Genesee County Habitat for Humanity
Genesee County Habitat for Humanity (GCHFH) announced that Thomas Hutchinson will succeed Margaret Kato as its executive director when Kato retires in February after 15 years at the helm. Under Kato’s leadership, GCHFH grew into one of the most respected Habitat for Humanity affiliates in the United States. Hutchinson grew up in the Flint area before going to college. He earned his undergraduate degree from Western Michigan University and holds a master’s degree in electronic intermedia from the University of Florida. He worked on a number of high-profile lighting and exhibition design projects in New York City before moving back to Flint. He joined GCHFH on the construction staff in 2013 and started the Home Repair Program in 2015. To date, the GCHFH Home Repair Program has helped 796 Genesee County residents, including 382 families.

More than $300,000 in grants for nonprofits

To ensure accurate count on 2020 census

Compiled by Sharon Stone

In 2020, there is nothing more important than ensuring a complete count of all residents in Flint and Genesee County. A complete count means accurate congressional representation and the right flow of federal resources to meet the needs of our county’s most vulnerable residents. Being counted helps communities create jobs, provide housing, fund K-12 education, prepare for emergencies, and build schools, roads, hospitals, and libraries.

Today, the Community Foundation of Greater Flint (CFGF) is investing in nonprofit organizations working to ensure an accurate count in the 2020 census. Thirty-four nonprofit organizations were awarded $300,167 in grants in a competitive process that began last fall.

Grants ranged from $2,100 to $20,000 depending on the project’s scope and geographic coverage. Funding runs from December 2019 through August 2020.

The Census count begins in April 2020. “The Community Foundation is pleased to support local nonprofits that are key to get out the count efforts, particularly in hard-to-count populations,” said Sue Peters, vice president of community impact. “Those with the most to lose from an undercount are the hardest to count, including people of color, immigrants, young children, and those traditionally served by nonprofits.”

Grant funding was available to organizations who work with historically undercounted communities in Flint and Genesee County. CFGF will continue to work with all nonprofit organizations interested in outreach efforts, including access to promotional materials, Peters said.

The CFGF is partnering with the city of Flint and the Michigan Nonprofit Association in its Be Counted Michigan 2020 campaign, with support from the Council of Michigan Foundations and local funders including the C.S. Mott Foundation and Ruth Mott Foundation.

Strong second half leads Eagles by Tigers

By Dale M. Smith

Fenton — It was a cold January night with a snowstorm on its way, but there was plenty of heat in the Jungle on Friday night at Fenton High School.

The host Fenton varsity boys basketball team battled the Linden Eagles in the first of two matchups this season. The Tigers used a tenacious defense to hold the Eagles in check in the first half, but Linden responded with a 29-10 margin in third quarter to pull away with the win, 69-46.

Fenton (4-3) only trailed by two at the half, 24-22. However, the Eagles (7-1) used consecutive 3-pointers from Blake Lund and Seeger Degayner in the first 44 seconds of the second half to propel Linden to the dominating third quarter and eventual win.

Before a large and raucous crowd, both teams played with a lot of energy on the defensive end in the first half. But, as he has done so many times in his three years as a member of the Linden varsity, junior Blake Lund was a game-changer. He had 14 points in the first half but was only getting started as he dropped in another 20 in the second to finish the game with 34 points. He also added five steals and four rebounds.

Talking about his steals, Lund said, “I got a couple of deflections and just had to run the court. I think I got three or four of that. I think that was a good momentum starter for us.”

“I hit some of those threes in the second half when (Fenton) went to that 1-3-1 zone.”

Although known primarily as a great offensive threat, Lund is as good a defender that has been seen in the Flint Metro League since Holly’s An- derius Gray some 10 years ago. Lund works hard on the defensive end.

Linden wrestlers earn Mt. Morris Tournament victory

By David Troppens

The Linden varsity wrestling team is improving.

And that progress was on display at the Mt. Morris Tournament.

The Eagles won all five of their matches, leaving with the Mt. Morris Tournament championship.

“We wrestled well this weekend,” Linden varsity wrestling coach Kyle Summerfield said. “We had some great individual match-ups. Some guys stepped up. Some still have some work to do. We are getting there.”

Linden beat Carrolton, Beaverton, Perry and Mt. Morris by a combined score of 253-76, earning a spot in the title match. While there, The Eagles continued their dominance, beating Oscoda 60-17. Perhaps the biggest individual match of the day came during that battle with Oscoda. Uzziah Delgado won his 100th match of his varsity career against No. 2 seeded Andy Dault by a 5-2 score.

The Eagles had six wrestlers finish with 5-0 days. They were Tyler McCabe, Brenden Shingleton, Jaylon Berry, Jayden Rittenbury, Delgado and Colton Powell. Jordan Asbury and Jimmi Roti had 3-0 records. Michael Lescelius and Bryce Shingleton had 4-1 days.

Linden travels to Owosso to take on Lake Fenton and Swartz Creek on Wednesday.

Holly, Powers swimmers earn strong showing at county meet

By David Troppens

The Fenton varsity boys swim team made a little history by winning the Greater Genesee County Swimming and Diving Championships on Saturday at Fenton High School.

But while the Tigers made the most headlines, other local swimmers made a few themselves. Holly swimmer Logan Molzahn won an event county championship while local swimmers Luke Connor and Nicholas Wujciak on the Flint Powers team also earned all-county efforts.

Molzahn earned the No. 2 seed in Friday’s preliminary round with a time of 51.11 seconds. He went on to win the championship heat with a time of 50.18 seconds, beating the field by .24 seconds.

Connor also won a county championship in the 500 freestyle. The Powers senior had the No. 1 seed time of 5:11.70 in the preliminary round. He won the title with a time of 5:04.79.

Blue Devils fall a little short vs. Goodrich Martians

By David Troppens

Lake Fenton’s varsity girls basketball team had a solid chance to post a big victory against the Goodrich Martians on Friday night.

But the Blue Devils battled the Martians at home but lost a 49-41 verdict.

“You never feel good about losing but if you are going to lose, go out fighting and we went out fighting,” Lake Fenton varsity girls basketball coach Brian VanBuren said. “They didn’t back down and we played hard, but maybe not always the smartest basketball.”

impressive performances with many body shots, but through the third round, Spencer had connected on just five.

But the body shots weren’t needed. While the fight didn’t experience a tremendous amount of activity, Spencer controlled the fight regardless where it was fought. Spencer landed 51 shots at a 29 percent clip while Spring hit just 20 at 13 percent. When it came to power punches, Spencer held a 44-18 edge.
