‘Stay Home, Stay Safe’

Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signs executive order for entire state of Michigan

Monday, March 23, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signed the “Stay Home, Stay Safe” Executive Order (EO 2020-21), directing all Michigan businesses and operations to temporarily suspend in-person operations that are not necessary to sustain or protect life.

The order also directs Michiganders to stay in their homes unless they’re a part of that critical infrastructure workforce, engaged in an outdoor activity, or performing tasks necessary to the health and safety of themselves or their family, like going to the hospital or grocery store.

Effective at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, March 24, for at least the next three weeks, individuals may only leave their home or place of residence under very limited circumstances, and they must adhere to social distancing measures recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) when they do so, including remaining at least 6 feet from people from outside the individual’s household to the extent

In just 13 days, we’ve gone from 0 to over 1,000 COVID-19 cases,” Whitmer said. “This is an unprecedented crisis that requires all of us working together to protect our families and our communities. The most effective way we can slow down the virus is to stay home. I know this will be hard, but it will be temporary. If we all come together, get serious, and do our part by staying home, we can stay safe and save lives.

“Taking aggressive action to protect our communities is the most important thing we can do to mitigate further spread of COVID-19,” said Dr. Joneigh Khaldun, Michigan Department of Health and Human Services chief deputy for health and chief medical executive. “If we do this now, we can make sure our hospitals and healthcare workers are prepared to take care of the sickest people. It is crucial that people do the right thing by staying home and staying safe.

Executive Order 2020-21 prohibits all businesses and operations from requiring workers to leave their homes, unless those workers are necessary to sustain or protect life or to conduct minimum basic operations. Businesses and operations are to designate the workers that meet those criteria, and must adopt social distancing practices and other mitigation measures to protect workers and patrons in the performance of that necessary in-person work.

Workers who are necessary to sustain or protect life include those in health care and public health, law enforcement and public safety, grocery store workers, and more. For a full list of these critical infrastructure workers, click the link to Executive Order 2020-21 at www.michigan.gov/whitmer.

Additionally, under Executive Order 2020-21, all public and private gatherings of any number of people occurring among persons outside a single household are temporarily prohibited. People may leave the house to perform for limited, necessary purposes, and may engage in outdoor activities like walking, hiking, running, cycling, or any other recreational activity, consistent with remaining at least 6 feet from people outside a person’s household and with other restrictions imposed by prior executive orders.

Michigan is currently in the top five states in the nation in number of confirmed COVID-19 cases. Several governors across the country have taken similar steps to protect their communities from the spread of COVID-19, including governors Mike DeWine (R-OH), Andrew Cuomo (D-NY), J.B. Pritzker (D-IL), Tom Wolf (D-PA), Gavin Newsom (D-CA), John Bel Edwards (D-LA), Phil Murphy (D-NJ), and Ned Lamont (D-CT).

Patients with confirmed infection have reportedly had mild to severe respiratory illness with symptoms of:
- Fever
- Cough
- Shortness of breath

The best prevention for viruses, such as influenza, the common cold or COVID-19 is:
- If you think you have symptoms of COVID-19, call your health care provider. If you do not have a health care provider, call the nearest hospital.
- Wash your hands often with soap and warm water for 20 seconds. If not available, use hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, or mouth with unwashed hands.
- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or upper sleeve when coughing or sneezing.
- Avoid contact with people who are sick.
- If you are sick, stay home, and avoid contact with others.
- Stay at least 6 feet away from others when in a public setting.
- Information around this outbreak is changing rapidly. The latest information is available at Michigan.gov/Coronavirus.

For those who have questions about the state’s actions to mitigate the spread of coronavirus, call the COVID-19 Hotline at 1-888-535-6136 between 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

Michiganders can apply for unemployment benefits if they have left work or taken a leave of absence because of self-isolation or self-quarantine in response to elevated risk from COVID-19 due to being immunocompromised, displaying the symptoms of COVID-19, having contact in the last 14 days with someone with a confirmed diagnosis of COVID-19, the need to care for someone with a confirmed diagnosis of COVID-19, or a family care responsibility as a result of a government directive.

Those temporarily laid off from work should apply for unemployment benefits online at michigan.gov/UIA or 1-866-500-0017.

FOOD FOR OUR CHILDREN

Whitmer is working to ensure that children who rely on the food provided by schools will have the resources they need. The Michigan Department of Education (MDE) has developed an online map for families to find meals. Families can access the map at: www.mcg1.state.mi.us/schoolnutrition/.

On March 19, the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) approved the governor’s request for a statewide Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) declaration, opening the opportunity to small businesses to access low-interest loans from the SBA. The application for disaster loan assistance is available at disasterloan.sba.gov/eia/.

Travel restrictions change plans by the minute, but you can re-book for future dates

By Sally Rummel

Planning to travel somewhere this spring?

The coronavirus global pandemic has shut down most travel, with ongoing travel restrictions from the U.S. State Department and recommendations from the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) changing plans daily.

Many of the most popular vacation destinations are closed, including Europe, the Dominican Republic, Jamaica and Mexico—even Las Vegas and the entire state of California in the U.S., plus beaches in most of Florida.

Disney has closed all of its parks worldwide and Universal theme parks are shut down in Florida and California. On March 18, the border between the U.S. and Canada also was closed.

“Policies are changing by the minute,” said Ingrid Ream of Superior Travel, with an office in Fenton. “Almost everything is shut down.”

Cruise lines are all cancelled through April 11, said Ream, and Princess cruises have cancelled until May 10.

There are still options for domestic trips by air or by car, but travel restrictions continue to tighten daily. Most airlines have announced major reductions in flights.

“Most people are getting vouchers for future trips,” Ream said. “The important thing now is to re-book your trip soon. If you wait, you’ll find lots of dates unavailable, plus higher prices. There are so many sales on right now, you can take advantage of great deals.”

“We were supposed to leave on March 28 for a seven-day cruise,” said Mary Ann Brostek, 66, of Fenton, who cruises every year with her daughter, son-in-law and 6-year-old grandson.

SHOULD I STAY OR SHOULD I GO?
Ask yourself these questions:

• Is COVID-19 spreading in the area where you’re going?
• Will you or your travel companion(s) be in close contact with others during your trip?
• Are you or your travel companion(s) at higher risk for a more severe illness if you get COVID-19?
• Do you have a plan for taking time off from work or school, in case you are told to stay home for 14 days for self-monitoring or if you get sick with COVID-19?

If you don’t pay for marketing, you’ll pay the price

As much as we’d like to think our clients advertise with us because they like us, we know it’s actually because working with us ensures they keep working. If our clients’ long-standing businesses aren’t proof enough, there’s more.

An independent audit by the Circulation Verification Council (CVC) found that all survey respondents were aware of our printed products and 71.4 percent of our readers frequently purchase products and services from ads seen in View Newspaper Group publications.

If you’re a business that wants to succeed in the markets we serve, View Newspaper Group should be a part of your marketing budget, which is something every business should have.

What percentage of your overall budget that should be depends on who you ask. For example, the U.S. Small Business Administration recommends spending 7 to 8 percent of your gross revenue for marketing and advertising if you’re doing less than $5 million a year in sales and your net profit margin — after all expenses — is in the 10 percent to 12 percent range.

It’s no secret that the most successful organizations — whether local or global — invest in marketing. A consistent and frequent mix is best. VG’s Grocery clarifies delivery service

In a Times story that ran Sunday, March 22, “Resources for seniors and families,” it incorrectly stated that VG’s Grocery at 1390 N. LeRoy St. in Fenton offers delivery services.

The VG’s North LeRoy store does not have delivery, but does offer Fast Lane (curbside pickup) and other services, including reserved shopping hours on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 7 to 9 a.m. for seniors and other vulnerable shoppers, plus Senior Discount Wednesday.

Customers requesting delivery must do so through the VG’s Grocery Silver Parkway store. To signup for Fast Lane pickup or delivery, visit Shopthefastlane.com.

Fast Lane customers also need to be aware that these services will take more time than usual, because of the huge demand with the coronavirus pandemic.

“This week, with the Michigan shutdown (Executive Order issued Monday by Gov. Whitmer), you can expect delays of several days,” said Whitney Stipes, Fast Lane manager at VG’s Grocery, North LeRoy Street. “The earliest pickup date as of Monday morning was going to be on Thursday, for example.”

Don’t flush wipes

- Residents can help avoid sewage backup during pandemic

By Hannah Ball

Municipalities are reminding residents which items can be flushed down a toilet and which cannot.

Thomas Broecker, operations manager and deputy clerk of Fenton Township, released a statement about the potential for sewer overflows and backups due to people staying home because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

“The COVID-19 virus has created a greater focus on cleaning and sanitizing in the home. It is vitally important that residents avoid flushing products other than toilet paper down a toilet during COVID-19 cleaning, or any other cleaning activity,” according to the press release.

Products such sanitizing wipes, baby wipes, diapers, feminine hygiene products, tissues or paper towels should never be flushed. They do not break down, which can clog toilets and damage infrastructure. This leads to costly plumbing repairs.

These products can cause larger problems for the entire sanitary sewer systems, with blockages, sewer main breaks, overflows and backup of sewage into homes.

“Even wipes marketed as ‘flushable’ are not toilet-friendly, and should never be flushed. Dispose of all non-toilet paper products properly by throwing them in the garbage,” according to the press release.

COVID-19 creates deficit in N95 facemasks for medical staff

By Tim Jagielo
Fenton Twp. — This past weekend, medical staff at hospitals across Michigan turned to an unlikely source for their dwindling supply of facemasks — the crafting community.

The COVID-19 pandemic has lead to a run on the N95 facemasks worn by medical professionals to help protect them from illnesses while treating sick patients. Hospitals are possibly facing a shortage in the near future, and sewists (term they use) and crafters across the state took to social media to share designs and updates on their progress.

Keri Lay started the local Facebook group “Masks for Medical Staff” after hearing that a physician friend of hers considered sewing masks himself. The result has been more than 500 masks made over the weekend, to be donated to medical professionals on the front lines of this pandemic, and staff at doctors’ offices and nursing homes.

This group is making washable masks with a removable pad made from disassembled furnace filters. They started Thursday March 19, and have grown to more than 300 members who’ve created a vibrant, active community of volunteers from the Fenton area and beyond.

Through this group, a virtual factory complete with supply chain and distribution sprang up in a few days. Members donate funds for supplies like fabric and furnace filters, or drop off materials on Keri’s porch. Some run materials back and forth.

Others, like Keri’s mother Harriet Lay, sew the masks. Keri’s husband Michael is one who disassembles the furnace filters and cuts them into mask inserts. “I think everyone’s kind of just looking for someone or someway they can help,” Keri said.

Harriet, also of Fenton Township, had sewn five masks on Saturday, March 21, just hours after the preferred design was decided.

“I just happen to love sewing so it’s right up my alley,” she said, adding that it’s a simple, enjoyable way to help. “We’re hoping they’re effective.”

The jury might still be out on what these masks block. There are no available studies on their effectiveness. However, the best furnace filters can remove “virus carriers,” according to the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE).

The Facebook group is seeking and using furnace filters with a minimum of 1900 MPR (microparticle performance rating), and no fiberglass. Based on input from medical professionals.

Local hospitals are seeking supplies for donation, like gloves and N95 masks. Officially, they’re not accepting handmade masks, though Keri reported that staff using them have been allowed to wear them.

A 2013 study shared by the National Institutes of Health reports that N95 masks are more effective than homemade, but it’s better to use homemade than no mask at all during an influenza pandemic.

During this pandemic, Keri said the group will make as many masks as possible — until the material runs out, or if it’s decided they shouldn’t be used. Join the “Masks for Medical Staff” on Facebook if you’d like to get involved. See the video at myfenton.com.
DRUG RECOGNITION EXPERTS

In the 1980s, the Los Angeles Police Department began developing a program to train police officers on how to determine if drivers suspected of being under the influence and having tested well below the legal limit for alcohol, had instead used a controlled substance and the drug category most likely causing the impairment.

In 1986, the Department conducted a special school for 18 officers to instruct them on how to make both determinations. As a result, the concept of a “Drug Recognition Expert” (DRE) became a reality.

Since then the DRE program has dramatically expanded and there are DREs in all 50 states.

Becoming one is not easy and before a police officer can even apply to the DRE school they must have completed an approved course in Standardized Field Sobriety Testing (SFST).

If accepted, the officer will learn about the seven drug categories, human physiology, the signs and symptoms of a drug-impaired driver, and how to conduct a 12-step field evaluation of a suspect. There are both classroom lectures and field training.

The evaluation combines what was learned in the classroom with actual field observations and techniques to be used at a scene and consists of the following:

- Initial breath test review
- Interview of the arresting officer
- Preliminary exam to determine if the suspect is injured including taking a pulse
- Examination of eyes for jerking, difficulty following an object, lack of convergence
- Psychophysical tests including SFST and others
- Vital signs examination and taking a second pulse
- Examination of pupil size
- Muscle tone examination
- Checking for injection sites and taking a third pulse
- Reviewing the subject’s statements
- Forming an opinion on impairment and the drug category
- Chemical or blood testing

National Highway Traffic Safety Association statistics show that DREs have a high success rate in identifying drugged drivers.

Nationally there are more than 9,400 DREs. Michigan has 137 who are used statewide and are currently an integral part of the Michigan State Police Pilot Program allowing roadside saliva testing of suspected drugged drivers.

Michigan’s courts have yet to rule on whether DREs can be expert witnesses and other state courts are split.

For those interested more DRE information is available at laponline.org.

Fenton officials take safety of citizens seriously

Meetings canceled; digital participation from remote locations possible in the future

By Vera Hogan

Before Michigan Gov. Gretchen Whitmer issued the three-week, stay-at-home order that became effective at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, March 24, the Fenton mayor and City Council, and city administration worked to cancel the scheduled Monday, March 23 City Council meeting.

According to Mayor Sue Osborn and City Manager Lynn Markland, the safety of Fenton citizens is a responsibility they take very seriously. Osborn issued a state of emergency resolution last week, and city hall has been closed to walk-in traffic.

Although the March 23 meeting included a public hearing, city administration was able to postpone a council vote on agenda items that were necessary to comply with state statute.

“After receiving emails from the state of Michigan and discussions with the city attorney and other consultants, it was determined the items on the agenda could be delayed without compromising the grant applications and funding for several infrastructure projects,” Markland said. “The grants have been submitted and the resolutions will be added later as supplemental information. Also, the bridge projects will be able to be approved at a later date.”

Had the meeting been necessary, the council and administration were prepared to completely sanitize city hall and council chambers before and after the meeting and provide masks to anyone who did wish to personally contribute comments during the public hearing.

That did not become necessary, however, and the council meeting, as well as upcoming board and commission meetings have been cancelled, complying with CDC guidelines and the governor’s order.

In the meantime, city of Fenton administration will be working toward the goal of making digital participation in meetings possible so that citizens can participate in future meetings from remote locations.

“All citizens need to follow the State of Michigan guidelines,” Osborn said.

GAS PRICES

reports that Marathon on Silver Lake Road was at $1.48 and the Owen Road gas stations had prices approximately $1.80.

The pandemic is causing a decrease in demand for oil and gas.

“Gas prices have sent virtually all of March marching lower, with the drop continuing as the coronavirus destroys oil demand globally, leading to the lowest oil prices we’ve seen in 18 years, paving the way for still an additional 35- to 75-cent-per-gallon drop at most stations in the weeks ahead,” said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy.

“I don’t think I’ve ever seen such a collapse in prices, even including the Great Recession. What we’re witnessing is easily going to go down as the great collapse in oil demand, and for motorists hurrying to fill up today, they’re wasting their money as prices will continue to drop in the days ahead.”

He said there’s “plenty more room” for prices to drop, estimating that some gas stations could have prices under $1 per gallon.

“Please stay inside as much as you can. This is going to get worse before it gets better. I appreciate everyone’s cooperation during this very difficult time. Things will get better we just have to ride out the storm. Be healthy and be safe. We will get through this together and we will be stronger for it.”

“We have temporarily suspended fingerprints and PBTs until further notice. Any Freedom of Information (FOIA) requests can be filed online at cityoffenton.org. We will respond to those requests via email and or telephone,” he said.

Fenton police officers are still responding to calls as they usually would. Cross said they have been asked to take precautions suggested by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

“We have always strived to be community-oriented and will continue to serve the community in any way possible. Things are changing quickly every day, and we may need to change as time moves on. One thing is for sure; we will always be here for our community,” he said.

Holly Police Department

Jerry Narsh, Holly police chief, said they’ve implemented new universal precautions to slow the spread of the coronavirus.

“The whole world has changed. That includes public safety,” he said. “It can shut down your public safety response. We have to redesign how we deliver our services in order to protect first responders so they’re able to continue delivering services. It’s critical for us to keep our first responders healthy.”

New precautions include locking the front lobby, not doing preliminary breath tests or fingerprinting, and allowing gun permits to be mailed. The public is asked to wait to drop off drugs at the prescriptions drug drop box. Police are allowing more reports to be filed over the phone. Before booking someone in jail, they ask if they have symptoms.

Officers also are not going on calls that involve a sick person unless a crime might have taken place.

“These are also designed to protect the public. Anything we can do to mitigate person-to-person contact. Hopefully we’ll help stop the spread of this disease,” Narsh said.

Holly police officers have been assisting Holly schools in handing out food to families. The fire department has been delivering food to shelters.

“Ninety percent of our mission is to protect life and property. We’re going to do everything we can to help our community get through this. We’re here for the long haul. We’re to get through it. We’re going to help everyone who needs our help,” Narsh said.

“There is no need to panic. It’s not martial law. Its shelter in place to help limit person to person contact. That’s how we defeat our common enemy — the virus.”

WIPES

Staying at home also means more home-cooked meals.

“Excess grease and oil should never be dumped down the drain or into a toilet. Dump it in a cup, wait for it to cool, and throw it in the trash. Wipe any residual grease from pots and pans with a paper towel and throw that in the trash too. Even a small amount of grease dumped down the drain can build up over time and wreak havoc on not only an individual home’s drainage system, but also the community’s whole sewer system,” according to the release.

When grease is dumped down the drain, it joins the wastewater, which contains an assortment of chemicals as well as grease dumped by other people. When fatty acids mix with calcium, they bond in a soapy, waxy compound that stick to each other as well as the walls and ceiling of the sewer lines. This creates something officials call a “fatberg.”

“These fatbergs continue to grow over time, eventually causing blockages in the sewer lines, which could cause water from the sewer to flow back up through your drains and into homes,” according to the release. “Always dispose of excess grease and oil in the trash and never dump it down the drain or into a toilet.”

Pandemic doesn’t stop this soon-to-be college grad

She creates her own video of her ‘staged’ graduation from the University of Michigan

By Sally Rummel

Alexandria Pompei, 21, was looking forward to her May 2 commencement from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, at Michigan Stadium, also known as the “Big House.”

Like so many other people experiencing canceled events due to the COVID-19 pandemic, Pompei was disappointed that her college career had to end so abruptly, with the uncertainty that goes along with such a decision.

“I was sad how things have changed in the last week,” Pompei said. “I worked on a senior project for two semesters and it all goes out the window in one day.” Pompei said. “I worked on a senior project for two semesters and it all goes out the window in one day.”

Pompei is a student at the Stamps School of Art and Design, earning her Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree. She also has a minor in Global Media Studies from the Department of Film, Television and Media in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Always an optimist who “rolls with the punches,” Pompei still ordered her cap and gown and decided to lighten the mood of the situation by staging her own graduation with a video in her apartment.

“I went to Google Translate and typed in ‘University of Michigan Class of 2020,’” Pompei said. “Pomp & Circumstance was playing in the background and I walked in front of the camera to receive my diploma — a rolled up napkin, as my name was announced. Then I turned the tassel to the other side.”

Pompei sent the video to some friends and her parents, Michael and Karen Pompei of Grand Blanc. Karen is the branch service manager at Huntington Bank in Fenton.

Pompei, a 2016 graduate of Grand Blanc High School, has also been active in the arts community through Fenton Arts Council, including the 2016 Artzy Mask Competition in which she won first place and the People’s Choice award.

Pompei’s graduation ceremony isn’t the only uncertainty she’s facing. She is supposed to be moving May 18 to Orlando, Florida, where she has a job as a cast member at Walt Disney World through The Disney College Program. “With the (Disney) parks all closed, I’m not sure exactly what the plan will be,” she said.

Holly’s Young continuing wrestling career at NIU

By David Troppens

Nathan Young has been an outstanding wrestler for the Holly wrestling team his entire career. He is a four-time state meet participant and he capped his career with a D2 140-pound individual state championship at Detroit’s Ford Field on March 7.

While his prep career may be over, Young’s wrestling career isn’t. He’ll be wrestling for Northern Illinois (NIU), a Division I program that is a member of the Mid-American Conference.

“I’m excited,” Young said. “It really helps my confidence. It proves that all of my hard work paid off.”

Spring coaches patiently waiting for season’s verdict

For years when each school year finished I’d get the same questions from people.

“Now that school is over, what is there to cover?” My first few years in the profession I used to freak out about this exact question. Being a rookie reporter, it always sounded like a fair question. In fact, my first job out of college I was hired in May, meaning I had about a month’s worth of spring sports before I had to figure out how I was going to create content for our daily publication by myself. After a couple of years, it became obvious there’s never a shortage of sports stories.

The last week we’ve heard the same questions at the sports office. Of course, those questions popped up because of the MHSAA’s suspension of the end of the winter sports season and the continuation of the spring sports season until at least April 5. It’s likely the date will be extended beyond April 5 when we get there, to possibly maybe the entire spring sports season. So, in an era where there is no sports, what will there be to do?

Holly’s Anderson makes PBA TV appearance

By David Troppens

For those who did a little sports TV channel surfing about a week ago, area bowling fans may have seen someone competing in a TV match that was from the tri-county area.

Holly’s Andrew Anderson teamed up with Kris Prather to make it to the TV show in the Mark-Roth Marshall Holman PBA Doubles Championship.

Anderson, 24, competed with Prather in the team event, and in the step-ladder series the pair lost a 226-190 match against Anthony Simonsen and Dom Barrett. During the event, Anderson bowled the even frames. The pair took an early lead when Barrett bowled an open frame, but Anderson had an open frame in the fourth, closing the gap. Meanwhile, Simonsen and Barrett bowled five straight strikes and eventually took a strong lead late into the match. Prather and Anderson had three strikes in the 10th to make the score a bit closer than it was.

Anderson averaged a 224.28 during the week, while Prather averaged a 239.28. Anderson pocketed $6,000.

“I hope everyone enjoyed the doubles show,” Anderson said on his Facebook page. “Kris Prather and I didn’t win, but we gave it a good run and I’m looking forward to running it back next year.”

Anderson’s cash prize was the most he’s made at an event this season and was also his only top-10 finish of the season.

I have put in the sport is paying off.”

Young

Northern Illinois University has a little bit of a pipeline going between Holly High School’s wrestling program and the Huskies’ program. Shawn Scott was the first Holly wrestler to join NIU’s team, and he finished his career during the 2016-17 school year by advancing to the Round of 12 at Nationals. He was a three-time NCAA qualifier, recording a career record of 81-41. Younger brother Andrew Scott followed, completing his career during the 2018-19 school year with a 20-38 career record. That means Young will be the third Holly wrestler to join the program.

Young posted a 186-28 record overall during his Holly career and placed three times at the state meet. He placed sixth (103) his freshman year, second (130) his junior year and a state champion (140) this season.

The Huskies had three redshirt freshmen battle for starting spots in the 141-pound class. The typical starter at 149 graduates after this season. Northern Illinois is coached by Ryan Ludwig. He’s led the program since the 2011-12 school year. The squad had an 8-10 record in 2018-19. The Huskies were 13-4 overall this fall and finished third at the MAC Championships.

“I know I wanted to go Division I and the coach is one of the main reasons why I went there,” Young said.

Young gives some of the credit for his success to the Holly wrestling program.

“We’ve had a lot of great coaches and great wrestling partners. They helped me grow into the wrestler I am today,” Young said.

In a word, there will be plenty. There are plenty of features that have never gotten done in the past due to the heavily intense prep-event coverage. Some of them are features we’ve thought about addressing for years and for some reason never got to doing them.

But then, there are so many other weekly features we can present that we think our readers will enjoy. The first of one of those features we’ll start with the Weekend publication. We are going to look back at some of the best seasons from the last 17 years since I joined the sports staff. And let me say there are plenty of really cool stories to retell. It’s already been a lot of fun talking to some of the people that made the first couple of our stories possible.

We’ll start with some of the top winter sports teams, and if we find out on April 5 the spring sports season is suspended we’ll gradually shift toward the great spring sports teams.

There are some other features we’ll probably address as well. Some will be just fun ones while others may be more in depth.

This brings me back to that summer question — how can we fill the paper during the summer? The answer is, sports staffs have always done it, and always will. Quickly, I realized I’m sure that will be the case while the nation and world deals with the coronavirus.

And while many of our news items probably will deal with the virus itself, maybe the sports section will present a more positive approach towards life. Unfortunately, I forget the exact quote and who said it but decades ago I saw someone who said he reads the sports section first because the sports section always features human success. That will certainly continue as we all have our minds on the coronavirus. So hopefully the readers will find the stories enjoyable and give themselves a little break from today’s challenges.
